Attorney H. M. Lockridge was on Knapp's Creek, last Saturday, on professional business.

Messrs Davoult and Kenedy, representing drug firms, of Bristol, Tenn., were guests at the Huntersville Hotel over Sunday.

Sheriff R. W. Hill was in this neighborhood, last week, collecting taxes and summoning jurors for the April term of Circuit Court.

J. W. Baxter, general manager of the firm of Taylor & McElwee, Academy, spent a day or two with us last week. Willis is a good fellow and we are always glad to have him with us.

George Johnson, D. L. Anderson and A. N. Thomas started from this town last Thursday, to go to the Hot Springs to trade horses. When they got there the last two concluded to put up at the Warm Springs for a season, and sent the horses back by Johnson.

Squire Grose was seen on the streets of our town very early Monday morning, his face beaming with a broad smile, grasping the hands of his friends with a hearty shake. These circumstances led some to belive that he was electioneering for some political office. It was soon found out, however, that this was not the case, but that he was trying to collect the salary of Rev Mr Parrot. Bill knows how to get there when some one else has to pay the bill. ALFRED.

The Levels News.

Edited by Payne Bros.

Vol. 1 Academy, W. Va., Mar. 11, 1898. No. 8

Market, Mar 11, 1898.

—Eggs 10c per dozen.

—Butter 16⅔c per pound.

—Lard 7c per lb.

—Irish Potatoes 65c per bushel.

—Corn 60c per bushel.

—Wheat 90c per bushel.

—Oats 40c per bushel.

—Beans, navy, $1.00 per bu.

—Beeswax 25c. Bacon—Hams, 9c; Sides, 8c; Shoulders, 7c. Tallow, 6c per lb.

—At PAYNE BROS.

—Latest styles Straw Hatting at Payne Bros.

High Arm Singer Sewing Machines guaranteed ten years, and only $18 each.

—Wagon Tire at Payne Bros. Buy your Steel, Harrow Teeth, Best Flaked Hominy, Cucumber Pickles, Hardwood Beds, Safes, etc at Payne Bros.

—Send your orders for freight or express packages that you may want brought from Ronceverte, as Payne Bros have a team leave Hillsboro every Tuesday evening, and arriving Friday or Saturday of the same week.

—Best Grades of Roller Flour at
J. H. DOYLE, Huntersville, W V.
G. L. HANNAH, Yelk, W. Va.
At BARLOW & MOORE'S, Edray, W. Va.,
J. H. CURRY, Green Bank, W. Va
B. L. NOTTINGHAM'S, Dunmore

—Salt only $2 00 per sack.

—Fencing Wire and Staples at Payne's.

—E. H. Moore spent a few days at home.

Mrs Dr McClintic and children were on a visit to Clover Lick.

—Fresh Lake Herring fish just received at Payne's.

—There is much sickness in the neighborhood.

—Pure Sugar Syrup only 40c per gallon at Payne Bros.

—Hardwood Bedsteads at Payne Bros. Mattrasses, Wash Stands, Chairs, Etc.

—Send Payne Bros. your order for Sash, Doors, Blinds, and building material. You can save money.

—Closing out at cost. Ladies Capes, Mens and Boys Overcoats, and Men's Suits. Call on Payne and see for yourself.

—Canned vegetables and fruits just received at Paynes. Dried Apricots, Peaches, and Prunes just received and sold very cheap.

—Don't fail to buy your Clover and Timothy Seed from Payne Bros. They have the cleanest and best. Also Flax Seed for sale.

—Mrs M. J. McNeel, Mrs J. D. and S. J. Payne, M. Peyatt and J. W. Burgess are among the sick. Also Mrs James R. Perkins, on the river, has been seriously ill for some days. We are glad to see Dr J. A. Larue able to be out again.

The Lamp that lights the way to Good Health is a bottle of the greatest of all blood purifiers—
Johnston's Sarsaparilla
QUART BOTTLES.

This great blood purifier and nerve tonic, cures diseases by removing from the system, the conditions which produce them. It expels all poison and impurity from the blood. It acts upon the nerves as a stimulant, particularly upon those nerves belonging to the great organs of the body; therefore, it causes the heart to beat with greater force, the lungs to take in more oxygen and to expel more carbonic acid; it induces the kidneys to send off more of the poisonous excretions from the blood; the bowels to have more regularity and healthfulness in their action; the sweat glands to throw out more impurities.

Our illustrated book of 36 pages will tell you what is the matter and what to do. Its free for the asking. Quart bottle, $1.00.

WILLIAMS, DAVIS, BROOKS & CO., Detroit, Mich.

Take Liverettes for Sick Headache and Billousness. 25c.

For sale by—
URIAH BIRD, Marlinton, W. Va.; and A. BARLOW, Huntersville

Bottom Knocked Out!

To Cash Buyers

We will until APRIL 1st, 1898, sell our entire stock of goods at from 5 to 10 per cent, above cost, strictly for cash. Produce will be taken, but will charge more for goods.

Below will quote you prices on a few articles:

Arbuckle Coffee	12½c
Good Green Coffee	10c
Best Green Coffee	14c
Granulated Sugar	7c
Best Calico	5 to 6
Gingham	5 to 8
2400 Matches	15c
Mens' Suits from $4 to $8

Have a few Overcoats which we will sell low. We will save you from 25 to 50 per cent on all goods. Come and see before buying elsewhere, and see if we don't mean just what we say.

Yours to save you Money,
B. F. McElwee,
Dunmore, W. Va.

All persons knowing themselves indebted to me by note or apc. will find their claims in the hands of Mr Sam Sheets for collection.

Assassinated!

We do not mean to assassinate you, as Wilkes Boothe did Abraham Lincoln, but warn you of the truth that you are daily assassinating your Pocket Book by not giving us your trade. Our stock is fresh, and constant increase of Business show that Prices are Better than elsewhere.

Constant sales allow no shop-worn gooods to remain on our shelves, and MONEY with ORDER enables us to obtain BARGAINS which we gladly share with ous customers. This means no fraud or deception. Our figures are plain and bold, and you don't have to guess or ask. You can't tell what the bottom price of an article is until you see it HERE. Every day in the year is a bargain day with us.

Our stock is worth INVESTIGATION, and all are invited to call and be convinced that as to Quality of Stock and Lowness of Prices we are surpassed by none. We want your trade and friendship.

We will take Beeswax and Fur. Our nine-years' experience as buyer and shipper enables us to pay highest prices. For quality of stock, lowness of price, and prompt business, we are respectfully yours,

L. D. Sharp.

Pocahontas County Normal School for 1898.

LOCATED AT PINE GROVE, TWO MILES WEST OF EDRAY.

School Opens March 28, and Closes June 17.

SPECIAL ADVANTAGES:

(1)—The school is located in a good neighborhood.

(2)—Lowest rates of boarding of any School in the State.

(3)—The whole Public School Couse, including Rhetoric, Algebra Physical Geography, Geometry, Botany, and Philosophy, will be taught as thoroughly as in the State Normal schools.

(4)—Special attention will be given to Science and Art of Teaching.

(5)—State, United States, and General History, Civil Government, and Physiology taught by the outline method. Uniformity of text books not required.

DEPORTMENT.

We reserve the right to sever the connexion of any student with the school who does not conform to it's regulations.

BOARDING.

Can be obtained near the school at $1.75 per week, and students will be made (by the hospitality of our people) to feel perfectly at home. Parents can send their sons and daughters to this school with the assurance that they will be comfortably situated while here, and that we will look carefully after their interests.

TUITION.

From $2.00 to $2.75 per month.

Do not let this Opportunity pass.

For further information, address
D. L. BARLOW, Principal; Edray, W. Va.

The Pocahontas Times.

ANDREW PRICE - - - EDITOR.

MARLINTON, Friday, MARCH 18, 1898

Entered at the post-office at Marlinton, W. Va., as second class matter.

To him who in the love of Nature, holds Communion with her visable form, she speaks
A various language; for his gayer hours
She has a voice of gladness, and a smile
And eloquence of beauty and she glides
Into his darker musing, with a mild
And healing sympathy that steals away
Their sharpness ere he is aware.
[—BRYANT

Solution of the "Apple" Problem.

The problem in issue of February 11, to which you refer in your last issue and request solution, is very simple if worked by Algebra I give it to you as I understand it:

Let x equal number apples A had.
Let y equal number apples B had.

x plus 1 = y — 1 where B gives one apple to A.

x — 1 = (y plus 1)/2 } where A gives one apple to B.

x plus 1 = y — 1
2x — 2 = y plus 1

x — y = — 2 Transposition.
2x — y = 3 Transposition.

x = 5 Elimination.

To find the value of y we substitute 5 for x, as we have now determined the value of x, and we have the following:

5 — y = — 2 or y = 7.

Yours truly,
A. L. RICE.
250 W. 85 St. New York City.

THE Rothschilds are against war

DAILY papers seem to be edited by a very warlike class.

WANAMAKER will probably be the next Governor of Pensylvania.

CONGRESS votes $50,000,000 for war, 311 to 0 and 76 to 0. Who's afraid?

DORR and Edwards will oppose each other for tne Congressional nomination from this district, of the Republican party.

WE are informed that sugar can be made from the walnut tree. The product is about the same as from the sugar maple, but seems to have a stronger taste.

prepared the ghastly 'skull' Calendars of the Antikamnia Company, died in St Louis last Friday. His work will be missed. He was partial to skulls as "Traddles" or Hamlet.

IN speaking of the Executive Committee of Pocahontas county in last issue, we meant the Executive Committee of the Democratic Party of Pocahontas county, but every one understood it who knows the politics of the county.

COOK, the juror who was indicted for perjury in the McDonald case in Charleston, has been acquitted. Of all the indictments for corruption in high places not a single conviction has been secured, and we suppose that reform in Kanawha must be in sackcloth and ashes.

EUROPE says that if the United States and England form an alliance she will help Spain. If no alliance is formed she will answer that she commits no breach of the peace and renders satisfaction for the destruction of the Maine.

SHERIFF MARTIN and his deputies, who fired on a mob of strikers at Hazeltown, Pennsylvania, have been acquitted under an indictment for murder. In spite of the fact that so many sensational reports were published concerning the butchery as it was called, it is likely that it was needed to teach the ignorant foreigners the majesty of the law. As Kipling says, the American is apt to take the foreigner into his home until he camps in sufference on the stoop.

WHAT the Administration calls Diplomacy seems to be a play made up for the benefit of the official circles, and the great public, which is being managed, neither understands nor cares to follow the intricacies of the game. The stationing of the Maine over a mine was one of the moves on the chessboard, and when she was blown up by no diplomat, it so discomposed the two sides that they nearly forgot the rules of the game and grappled in the old style. The public, growling low, consented to allow the President to carry on his diplomatic policy until a great many of us have become to cold to to fight.

THE SHERIFFALTY CASE.

The following case from Jackson County has been decided in the Supreme Court, and it settles the case of State vs. Arbogast from this county.

State vs Poling et al.

1 The general bond of a sheriff is liable for all State and county taxes, levied for any purpose by State and county authority.

2 The additional bond required of the Sheriff under § 46 c 45 of Code, covers all school funds which may be collected by him, or come to his hands to be disbursed for school purposes, including district levies and distributive share of the general fund.

In June, 1896, the State sued the then Sheriff of Pocahontas County and his sureties in the Circuit Court of Kanawha County, where all the suits of the State are brought. Messrs Mollohan and McClintic were the attorneys. The amount involved was immense, the arrearages due the State from this sheriff was something like $30,000. The sureties were a number of the best citizens of the county. They retained Mr C. P. Jones and other counsel and as a defense they claimed that the sureties on the general bond were not liable for money due the State school fund, but that all such money had to come out of the additional bond of the sheriff, which is known as the School Bond. Every sheriff, when he qualifies, gives these two bonds —the general bond for a large sum and the school bond for a smaller.

The State maintained that the school bond was only meant to cover the money collected by the sheriff under the district levy. We have been informed that Judge Guthrie was inclined to consider the position of the defense to be correct. But the same contention had arisen in the case against a Jackson County Sheriff and had been appealed, and this case rested until the law should be passed upon by the Supreme Court. This has been done, and the sylabus of that case is printed at the head of this article, and shows that the general bond covers the State tax and State school tax.

Republican Executive Committee.

There will be a meeting of the Republican Executive Committee at my office on the first day of April Court at 1 o'clock. Let every member attend, as business of grave importance is to be attended to.

N. C. MCNEIL, Chairman
Republican Executive Committee.

Mail Carriers.

The subject under discussion was mail carriers and their unaccommodating ways. A storekeeper wanted to send a pair of shoes to a customer several miles distant, and got them ready to give to the mailboy. He said he wanted fifty cents for carrying them, and that they should not go for less. The merchant, who was also postmaster, remarked that the shoes would go. He stamped them and put them in the mailbags, being allowed for the cancellation of the stamps and the carriage cost him nothing.

When the weather bureau was first opened at Marlinton, the weather observer happened to be at outs with the mail carrier. All the instruments were sent by registered mail, and the rain gauge was about as bulky as a nail keg. The first rain gauge that came was carried from Ronceverte to Marlinton, 46 miles, and arrived here by the mail boy carrying it on his shoulder. He wanted a dollar for bringing it up, which was very promptly refused. In a few days the observer, who was green at the business, let the water freeze in the rain gauge and it had to be toted back to Ronceverte, and another brought in its place. This evened up the score with that particular mail boy.

GREEN BANK.

Miss Anna King's school closed Friday, with an entertainment. She left for home Saturday, accompanied by her brother, W. B. King.

J. W. Yeager, Frank King, Howard Bird and Misses Gertrude Bird and Emma King were in town Friday and Saturday.

Mr and Mrs Sol Davis entertained a number of their friends with a dance, Friday night.

Peyton Moore was in town for several days last week.

Jesse and Forest Warwick and Ellis and Jesse Hughes, of Deer Creek, have returned from the lumber camp.

Rev Eavey preached his last sermon on March 12, and administered the sacraments. We would be glad if conference would see fit to return this good man to us.

CAD.

AN unlawful detainer suit of R. S. Turk and W. A. Turk vs. Sam Stewart was set at Huntersville last Tuesday.

KNAPPS CREEK.

John Lantz has returned home.

Price Moore is getting ready for April Court.

Several people are preparing saw sets.

Tom Malcomb has built a stable and a cellar—it's a boy.

J. A. Moore goes to Frost every Sunday and sometimes oftener.

A. W. Moore is on the sick list.

John Shrader has gone to the depot.

Asbury Hiner went to Elk last Saturday.

The singing at Driscol was well attended.

Sugar making is over and the weather is fine.

Rev Parrot preached his last sermon at Sunset last Sunday. We hope Mr Parrott will come back.

We think it would have been a good thing if Squire Grose had been around shaking hands.

Lovely spring is here again. The ladies pieceth quilts, the farmer turneth up the sods and the young man singeth love songs.

Hanna, Harper, Moore & Co. seem to be getting a big stock of goods ready for the spring trade.

Some people thought they heard the cannons in Cuba, the other day, but found out that it was the Frost debating society.

Set the hens, save a few eggs for Easter, start the plow, get to work and watch some low-lived scoundrel set the woods on fire, so you have to drop all and fight fire. Some land has been burned so often that it is too poor to raise a disturbance.

Bert and Lee Gum and George Ryder, the left-handed cattle dealer, are around buying cattle.

Charles Lantz, of Pendleton, is staying with his brother, J. H. Lantz.

Willie Hindgardner is back carrying the mail again.

The Gibson brothers have lost three head of cattle with the black leg.

Roy Moore and Coon Bowers didn't do a thing to the skunks the other night. MCGEE.

MILL POINT.

Sugar making at its height, and plowing for corn has commenced. Soon we will have a mosquito fight.

Sunday school was organized Sunday, with Edward Layne superintendant and E. L. Smith assistant.

Riverside school closed Saturday night with an entertainment which every one enjoyed. The music was good and of great variety. All were good, and especially "The Orphan's Cry," by Miss Maud Smith; and "The Dying Ranger," by Miss Louvecia Pyles. The entertainment was closed by a spelling contest, in which Malvin Ovholt proved himself to be the champion speller.

Auburn Pyles has applied for a free school diploma. If he succeeds, he will be the sixth to secure a diploma under the tutorship of W. H. Shafer. MUX.

DILLEY'S MILL.

"Gentle spring here again, bringing mirth and gladness,
And the singing birds have come chasing gloom and sadness."

We are having beautiful weather and the health of the community seems good, save bad colds.

Death has visited many homes by sickness and a few by accident. Every one should feel very grateful they have survived the winter.

Frank Bird, son of Mrs Mary Bird, died at the Weston asylum, where he has been confined for two years.

John May, of Anthonys Creek, was in this part last week on a trading expedition.

The Oak Grove team will meet the Frost champions next Saturday.

The Mt Zion school closed Friday with a foot ball game. The Cove Hill school will close next Friday.

George Bambrick is the Upper End on business.

J. L. Carpenter's team ran off while hauling wood, but no damage was done.

Ralph Dilley is suffering with a severe attack of pneumonia.

Bliss Shrader is off to Gauley.

J. W. Grimes made a flying trip to Marlinton.

Mrs E. . Hanna and Mrs Sam Curry are visiting Mrs Bambrick.

Good Sugar weather.

Everybody Says So.

Cascarets Candy Cathartic, the most wonderful medical discovery of the age, pleasant and refreshing to the taste, act gently and positively on kidneys, liver and bowels, cleansing the entire system, dispel colds, cure headache, fever, habitual constipation and biliousness. Please buy and try a box of C. C. C. to-day; 10, 25, 50 cents. Sold and guaranteed to cure by all druggists.

$1 50 Per Day

A few energetic Ladies and gentlemen wanted to canvass. Above salary guaranteed. Call or address:

C. C. CRICKARD,
4t Crickard, W. Va.

To Cure Constipation Forever.
Take Cascarets Candy Cathartic. 10c or 25c.
If C. C. C. fail to cure, druggists refund money.

A DREADFUL RUMOR.—News was received a the telephone office at Mingo that the cruiser Montgomery has been sunk in the harbor at Havana.

Where are You Going to School?

Read Below What Advantages are Found at the County Normal.

1—Boarding can be obtained in good homes near the school at $1.75 per month.

2—Tuition only $2 to $2 75 a month.

3 Review classes will be organized for teachers and special attention given to theory and art of teaching.

4 The topical method will be closely followed, as better results can be obtained han is possible under the treadmill method of olden times.

6 Penmanship will be taught by an experienced teacher.

6 Students will have frequent exercise in composition and declamation.

7 Students required to undergo rigid examination in all their studies at the close of term.

8 All text-books can be obtained here at lowest prices.

9—Students' mail, if addressed "care of County Normal," will be delivered at the school-room each morning.

If you expect to attend this school, write at once to D. L. BARLOW, Edray, W. Va.

EYE TEST.

Should be Read at 15 Inches.

Defects of eyesight requiring correction by the use of spectacles are purely mechanical, and can be corrected by the proper adjustment of perfectly made lenses that their effects will be entirely obviated. This print should be read easily at fifteen inches from the eyes. If you cannot do so you should wear spectacles. It does not pay to buy cheap spectacles. They distort the rays of light, disturb the angles of vision, cause pain and discomfort and injure the eyesight. When it is necessary to hold work or reading matter farther than fifteen inches from the eyes in order to see distinctly, it is a sure sign of failing vision, and much annoyance, discomfort and pain will be prevented by having a pair of glasses fitted.

I have a first-class optician's outfit, such as eye specialists use, and am prepared to examine eyes and adjust glasses in a satisfactory manner.

J. M. CUNNINGHAM, M D

A CATTLE buyer named Lazelle, of Monongalia, was in Pocahontas recently and made some purchases.

Commissioner's Sale of Land,

IN POCAHONTAS COUNTY, WEST VIRGINIA.

By virtue of a decree of the October Term, 1897, of the Circuit Court of Pocahontas County, in the chancery cause of Levi Gay, Administrator, etc., vs. William L. Skeen; and William L. Skeen's Administrator vs. John T. McGraw; and R. S. Turk, Special Commissioner, vs. John T. McGraw,—the undersigned special commissioners will sell at public auction at the front door of the court house of Pocahontas County, on Tuesday, April 5th, 1898,

(the first day of Circuit Court) the following tract of land formerly owned by General William L Skeen towit: A tract of 2545 acres, more or less, situated on Brushy Mountain near the town of Huntersville, and is the same tract sold in the last above styled cause at April Term of said Court, 1895, to John T. McGraw, and is now sold for the upaid purchase money due.

Terms of Sale: Cash on day of sale one half of the purchase money, and the balance upon a credit of six months, the purchaser to execute bonds for the deferred payments with approved security.

L. M. McCLINTIC,
H. L. GARRETT,
H. S. RUCKER,
GEO. A. RIVERCOMB,
JOHN W. STEPHENSON,
Special Commissioners.

I, J. H. Patterson, Clerk of the Circuit Court of Pocahontas County, do certify that John W. Stephenson, Special Receiver in the above styled cause, is authorized as such to receive the hand payment at said sale by the decree of October Term, 1897, in said cause.

Given under my hand this eighth day of March, 1898.

J. H. PATTERSON, Clerk.

Commissioner's Sale OF VALUABLE LAND,

On Knapp's Creek in Pocahontas County.

Pursuant to a decree of the Circuit Court of Pocahontas County, pronounced at the October Term, 1897, in the chancery cause of Nora Susan Herold and others against Wise Herold and others, the undersigned, as special commissioners appointed for the purpose, will proceed on to sell by public auction, in front of the court-house of said county, to the highest bidder, the valuable farm on which Washington Herold lately resided, (now occupied by Wise Herold), lying on Knapp's Creek, near Frost, in said county, and consisting of five different tracts containing 59, 195, 303, 100, and 25 acres respectively.

Tuesday, the 5th day of April, 1898,

This farm has on it an excellent residence, barn, and out houses and is desirable for farming or grazing, and as a home.

The sale will be made subject to the rights of the St. Lawrence Boom ank Mf'g. Co. in the timber on 303 and 75 acres of said land, if by so doing sufficient money can be realized to satisfy the decree in favor of the plaintiff, and upon the following Terms: Ten per cent. of the gross amount of the purchase money cash on day of sale, and the residue of the purchase money upon a credit or one, two, and three years in equal installments from the day of sale, the purchaser executing bonds bearing interest from that day, with good personal security, and the title to be retained as ultimate security.

CHARLES P. JONES,
JOHN W. HARRIS
Commissioners.

I, J. H. Patterson, Clerk of the Circuit Court of Pocahontas County, do certify that Charles P. Jones Commissioner, has given the bond and security required in the above mentioned decree.

J. H. PATTERSON, Clerk.

C. B. SWECKER,
General Auctioneer and Real Estate Agent.

I sell Coal, Mineral and Timber Lands. Farms and Town Lots a specialty. 21 years in the business. Correspondence solicited Reference furnished.

Postoffice - Dunmore, W. Va., or Alexander, W. Va.

Don't Tobacco Spit and Smoke Your Life Away.

To quit tobacco easily and forever, be magnetic, full of life, nerve and vigor, take No-To-Bac, the wonder-worker, that makes weak men strong. All druggists, 50c or $1. Cure guaranteed Booklet and sample free. Address Sterling Remedy Co., Chicago or New York

SILVER THE ISSUE IN 1900.

Money the Pricing Instrument.

Civilization and Progress Have Kept Step With Money Supply in All Ages.

The Money Question discussed in the light of experience and history.

The Silver Knight-Watchman.

The Leading Bimetallic Paper of America.

U. S. Senator W. M. STEWART, Editor.

A correct account of the doings of Congress given each week.

A family paper for the home and fireside. All the important happenings of the week, condensed, in news columns.

A large circulation in every State and Territory.

Subscription Price, $1 Per Year.
Send for sample; agents wanted.

Published weekly by the Silver Knight Publishing Co.,
WASHINGTON, D. C.

The hardest way possible to get along is to buy real cheap things. As a rule the less you pay, the more it costs in the long run. I do not boast too much of cheap prices, and still, quality considered, I sell at prices that ought to interest careful buyers.

BEST WESTERN, TIMOTHY SEED,
$1.85 to 2.25 Pr bu.

CLOVER SEED,
$4.75 to 5.00 pr. bu. SPOT CASH.
Subject to be unsold.

The Golden Store.

Big ✻ Auction ✻ Sale!

—OF—

STORE GOODS, AT HUNTERSVILLE, W. VA.

Saturday, March 26, 1898.

I am bound to make room on my shelves for new goods which I will buy in Baltimore very soon; so on Saturday, March 26th, I will sell at public auction a thousand and one articles which have accumulated in my store. They are sure to go at cost or less, and careful buyers will be wise not to miss this chance for bargains. Every article of practical utility.

Terms: Made known on day of sale.

—S. J. Boggs.

Hang on to that Dollar!

Until you see the Dollar's Worth that you can buy at our store for it.

Now is the time that every cent saved makes life easier. You can save many of them by buying from

J. D. Pullin & Co

Biggest Auction

SALE IN THE COUNTY.

I will close out Sol Davis' big Stock of Goods at Green Bank, W. Virginia, on SATURDAY, MARCH 19, 1898,

Auction Sales will consist of— Dry Goods, Ladies Dress Goods, Notions, Gents and Ladies Mens and Boys Clothing, Boots, Underwear, Mens and Ladies Caps, Shoes, Glassware, Hats, Cloaks, and Capes, Rubbers, Tinware, Mackintoshes, Overcoats, Gimlets, Grindstones, and Diamonds, and many other things, too tedious to mention.

We will close out the entire stock to make room for New Goods, which will be in about the first of May.

It will pay you to come 25 miles to this sale. You get more for a Dollar at our auction sales than you get anywhere else in the State.

We mean to sell you bargains. Come out! Be there at 10 A. M. Stay all day. Don't forget the time:

SATURDAY, MARCH 19. 1898.

C. B. SWECKER, Auctioneer.

Plow Repairs

We have at last succeeded in making arrangements to supply points for the RONCEVERTE PLOW. Full stock now on hand. Send in our orders early. . . .

We are Factory Agents
for IMPERIAL and SILVER STEEL
Plows.

(The Best Hillside Plow on the Market.)

Simms & Co.,
Opp. Passenger Depot, RONCEVERTE, W. Va.

Phantom Chapel Marlinton [illegible]

The Pocahontas Times.

Andrew & Norman Price, Owners. "Montani Semper Liberi!" Andrew Price, Editor
VOL. 14, NO. 27 MARLINTON, WEST VIRGINIA, JANUARY 29, 1897. $1.00 PER YEAR

ONE of the most touching incidents in the story of our Redeemer's life was in connexion with a deeply sorrowing mother, who came to him in behalf of her afflicted child. Upon entreating him to be merciful to her daughter, Jesus says: "Be it unto thee as thou wilt." Here we learn something deeply significant of the part that freedom of choice takes in human interests. The Blessed Savior recognizes the freedom of choice that is essential to personal responsibility. And such a fact, with its unspeakable import, becomes a suitable theme for the consideration of all thoughtful persons, for it makes them responsible for the use they may make of their lives. In virtue of what these words imply, it comes in human affairs that people will be what they may choose to be, and so it is that each human being that ordinarily each human being that acts upon his own responsibility, in spite of ancestral tendencies, environment, and the so called spirit of the age, may and does decide his own character, habits, and acquirements. We appeal to the consciousness of the esteemed reader for the truth of the fact that he can decide from this time to listen to God or not listen, as he speaks in the Bible. At the beginning of the present year he feels that it is in his power to decide whether during the year he will be diligent in business, or careless and slothful; to inform himself and become intelligent, or to remain in ignorance and forget what he may already know; to live on less than he earns, and have something in hand at the end of the year, or to spend all or more than he earns, and have nothing in hand or be in debt when the next year comes. In fact the power of choice is so great that men at large can and do decide whether they shall be well and strong or sickly and weak. Such is the law of our lives,—there may be exceptions to the rule,—but generally and at all times men make or unmake themselves by their own decision to be or to do this or that, or not to be or to do what is wise and right. May our aspirations and actions be for what is good, and he who said, "Be it unto thee as thou wilt" will attend to the rest.

S. C. R.

IN a world like this, beset by Satan and we know not how many evil angels, it is not surprising that improvement of body, character, and soul is hard and requires a conflict. To float down stream especially with a multitude is easy; to stem the current, "with here and there a stranger," is quite another thing. The objective good in ascending scale is difficult to compare in English and other languages. The little child toddling behind his mother as she returned from a day's work, thought he had the right of it as he soliloquized, "You're the gooddest mother in the world. How much to unlearn in this world,—and some philosopher said the most difficult thing supposible was to unlearn what had once been learned. Then the beauty, the absolute necessity of rising in the scale of right, not in the world alone, but in all general conduct. If we fail to rise, we must fall back—there is no standing still: the plant grows better or it worse. A person beholding a lovely child, procured its faithful portrait and hung the picture where sweetness and beauty could always face him. Long years after in a hovel of wickedness and repulsion he came across a countenance depicting every passion; this latter face was painted for him and hung beside the beautiful child's. Looking back into the history of the bad man, what was his horrified surprise to find the two were one—that fair-looking child had developed into that wicked, revolting man! We read that the Roman Emperor, Nero, whose name stands for cruelty and every sin, was very attractive in his early years and even showed clemency while under Seneca's teaching; but he fell back and how far down, those acquainted with old Roman history and the early annals of the Christian Church, know full well. Is it new to any that Nero murdered his nearest friends, and of the early Christians made human torches to light up his palace gardens? There is small danger of any one doing the very same in these days; but it is possible to forget, good—better—best.

A. L. P.

THE PHANTOM CHAPEL.

On the forest-fringed crest of Buckley Mountain, south-east of Marlinton, near the line where the sun seems to pause in winter, and turns back after a few days, may be seen an interesting sky-silhouette. Its resemblance to a building is so apparent as to be recognized at once, and hence the term Phantom Chapel, and it would be a pretty name to give that locality.

Whenever there is any change in the trees it will vanish from sight as mysteriously as it first emerged into view. For hundreds of years it has been in building by unseen hands. No sound of saw or hammer were at their work on its outlines.

It can be discerned at all times of the day, but stands out with special distinctness just before sunrise. The front door and side-windows denote the presence of evergreens. The walls and roof are outlined by leafless trees and their branches, and its color varies with the hues of the sky forming the background.

S. C. R.

THE BATTLE FOR DECENCY IN LITERATURE.—"Richard Watson Gilder, editor of The Century Magazine, thinks this battle is just now at its height. In an article in The Independent on "Editing" he speaks of the editors duty to take part in the battle, and he pays his respects to the "realists" in the following terms:

"'Reality' is a word to conjure with; any one who raises a 'blue pencil' against reality is in peril of losing his literary standing. The editor is prone to level things down; to object to the novel and original; he may be a Philistine; he may even be touched with hypocrisy. But if there is any greater humbug and hypocrisy than 'realism' can be I do not know what it is. Take, for instance, the single detail of profanity in the 'conversations' of a story. Did any one who has ever heard the thing in all its luxurious and picturesque reality ever see it 'really' reported? Is there a living realist who would be willing to put down in cold black and white to the extent of a foolscap page the habitual language of certain types with which he deals in fiction? and if he did so, would he be willing to keep that piece of paper over-night even under lock and key? The unthinkable blasphemy, the rank and violent vulgarity, they are as real as many other things outside of art. Say what you will, there is no realist who does not draw the line somewhere; and that line is at least as debatable as the one between Venesuela and British Guiana."

A LADY who lives in an inland town in New England went to the last convention of the Christian Endeavor societies at Washington, and traveled from Boston to Baltimore by steamer. She had never been to sea before.

After her first night on the steamer a friend observed, when she made her appearance on deck in the morning, that she looked very much fatigued.

"Why," said the friend, "I'm afraid travel by water does not agree with you. Did n't you sleep well? The sea was perfectly calm."

"Sleep!" exclaimed the lady. "I didn't sleep a wink. I am tired all out' and I shall never travel by water again."

"What has tired you out?"

"Why trying to sleep in that thing. I read the card in the state room about how to put on the life preserver, and I thought I understood it all right, but I suppose I didn't, For I could n't for I could not get a wink of sleep with the thing on!"

"'United Ireland' rejoices in the downfall of Li Hung Chang. The Chinese Viceroy complained of the behavior of the Irish toward his countrymen before he left America. This, thinks the paper, deserves punishment. Li Hung Chang ought to know that Irishmen have raised America to her present high place among the nations, while his countrymen, to put it mildly, 'are neither useful nor ornamental to American society.'"

New York News Letter

Fifteen minutes ago the sun was shining, and blue sky was seen. Now we are having a smill-sized blizzard.

⁂

Saturday morning a cloak merchant committed suicide by jumping from an eighth-story window of one of our 'sky-scraping' buildings. Cause: Failure in business, and the fear that his wife and four children would starve. His wife, who was looking him up, was in the same building, with good news for him from a friend who offered him large wages. When she saw the mangled remains of her poor husband the woman tried to jump also, but was caught in time and sent to the hospital, where she was treated with great care by the attendants and brought to her reasoning powers. This man lost his whole fortune in a business venture, and it turned his mind.

⁂

Mr Moody, the evangelist, has done excellent work among all classes, and still exhorts on Sundays. Mr Sankey leads the singing.

⁂

Three prisoners escaped from Ludlow Street Jail the other day by way of the roof. Jail-breaking is becoming an easy thing these days. Someone made one end of a rope fast to the jail door and the other end to a tree and tied a placard to the rope:

If you want to Take the Jail Cut the Rope.

⁂

The same old, old story about about Cuba. Will the United States ever step in and stop this cruel war?

⁂

The woman of Danbury, Conn., who has been in a trance for two weeks, has just awoke.

⁂

Mrs Sanders died from blood-poisoning. Her death was from the results of a prick from a rusty pin.

⁂

Here 's an up-to-date tramp. This Weary Willie threw himself down on the sidewalk and commenced to groan, early Sunday morning. A crowd soon collected. "Send for an amblance!" someone suggested. The surgeon examined him and said he was feigning, and refused to take him, saying: "We turned him away from our hospital this morning. He is a fakir." The police took him to Bellevue Hospital, but the doctors reported that he was perfectly well. About one hour after his rejection he was found in the same condition, in terrible agony, and was taken to another hospital where he had a good sleep and something to eat. This fellow was bound to have a good square meal, and he got it.

⁂

An elevated train jumped the track Sunday and crashed into the Station. Many were bruised and shaken up.

⁂

Firebugs are still at it in this city, notwithstanding the fact that the King fo Firebugs was sentenced the other week to 48 years in Sing Sing prison. Instead of imprisoning these fiends (who set tenements on fire to get the heavy insurance, and putting in jeopardy thousrnds of lives), they should be strung up on the nearest tree or lamp-post, thereby saving the county thousands of dollars, and setting an example to the rest of their class.

⁂

Ladies are requested to remove their enormous hats while attending the theatre, so as to give a poor fellow a chance to see the show. In some cities the fair sex are fined for wearing such terrible affairs at entertainments.

GEORGE M. SANGSTER.

January 18, 1897.

"THE inspissated alkaloids with eczema contend,
But Heaven pursues the comatose, no bismuth can befriend;
Spasmodic hydrocarbonates with tetanus combine
To whing thy cardiac meroblast, oh, molecule of mine!"

The Weekly Letter.

I had it called to mind the other day how inconsiderate grown people are of what fills the lives of children. There can be little doubt that we have a greater faculty for enjoying pleasures and experiencing griefs as children than as grown-up people. It does not last so long always, but there is a good deal of truth in what the world-worn old grand-mother says as she looks contemplatively at the little child, as it is rapturously enjoying the possession of a new toy, that the child is eating his white bread in life. There is seldom any lasting grief in childhood; but Oh the pity of it when there is! The little one has failed to get only unalloyed happiness of his life. That happiness that innocence only can give, before we have tampered with our mental or physical health. Of course some children are miserable, but generally, to quote Sir Walter Scott,—

"The tear down childhood's cheek that flows,
Is like the dew-drop on the rose;
When once the summer breeze comes by
And shakes the bush, the flower is dry."

The man who can remember his own childhood, and be considerate of the children about him, and make them realize when they are secretly grieving over some mishap which would not cause a grown person a moment's thought, that it could n't be helped, that nobody blames them, and it will matter very little in a short time, has done something to alleviate a great deal of real suffering and heart-burning. I can remember one or two instances in my life when there was a skeleton in my closet that need never have been there if I had had some good friend to show me that what had happened was a very small affair in reality.

I can remember one thing that darkened and embittered my childhood; and that, probably, accounts for my dark and misanthropic nature, so adapted to the newspaper business. When about five years old, with another boy exactly my age, I was enjoying the delights of the blacksmith shop, and in the yard was an old wheat-drill. This drill had a tremendous tongue in it, and we wondered if we could lift it. It being being well balanced, we were able to do so, but on lifting a little higher, to our surprise and horror, the tongue took matters into its own hands and flew up and the drill came down with a terrible crash. I have since learned that the drill was not injured in the least; but the blacksmith, being a great wag, immediately pronounced it ruined, and began counting the cost of a new one,—$90 it was I remember,—and my blood froze. As soon as the paralyzing influence of the fright had somewhat left me, I realized that I was hopelessly insolvent, and took refuge in flight. The trouble made me sick, and it was several years before the terrible impression wore off of me, and I revisited the blacksmith shop.

During that time I suffered all the pangs and apprehensions of a criminal, trembling in his cell. If the family horse needed shoeing, I worked some scheme for some one else to take him to the shop. I only ventured by the shop once in a long while, and the way I held the secret of that skeleton leads me to believe that I am able to do wrong and never acknowledge it after. Of course I can see now that it was a matter that should not have influenced my life, and that I was a victim of great cruelty. I wonder how many of our little friends have needless shadows over them that a word from a considerate older person would clear away.

Often and often a little fellow bravely trying to work will meet with some mishap,—break a tool or article worth perhaps fifty cents. It seems like a tremendous thing to him, and when the father or next friend, as they say in law, instead of seeing that the child is suffering intensely, and making it all right with him, thinks it necessary to vent ill temper, or scold to make him more careful. That is the cruelest and most unkindest cut of all.

We have all been over the first portion, at least, of life, and we ought to have a world of helpful pity for those who have to learn to live. They are the best men who can put themselves in a child's place, and a word of help is remembered by the little pilgrim long after the kind older friend has forgotton that the word was ever uttered. I think we have here a part of the meaning of that verse in the Bible which reads something like this: "Inasmuch as ye have done it unto the least of these, ye have done it unto me."

The Arrest of W. L. Crotty.

(Monroe County Watchman.)

One of the most important and interesting cases ever tried in Monroe Circuit Court will be that of C. L. Crotty, indicted for the murder of Walter A. Paully, which will come up at the March term next. The killing it will be remembered took place on August 14th. Crotty walked away unmolested in the presence of a number of bystanders and for two months evaded arrest. He at last turned up in Phoenix, Arizona, about the middle of October and was there detained by the authorities until requisition papers were gotton out and the sheriff of this county arrived. He was brought back in their custody and lodged in jail in Union November 11th. Crotty seems to bear his confinement fairly well. His demeanor is reserved and he spends most of his time reading the Bible.

It has been rather difficult to get at the actual facts surrounding Crotty's arrest in Arizona, but as described by the clerk in the Commercial Hotel at Phoenix, the papers of that town and others, the facts were substantially as follows: Upon entering the hotel, Crotty, who had but little baggage, refrained for some time from registering. His manner was constrained and he exhibited signs of nervousness. After awhile he was requested by the clerk to register, whereupon he took the pen but seemed to find much difficulty in registering to his satisfaction. When he finally laid the pen down the clerk turned the book round and found that his stranger guest had written, "Lee Ott, Bland Co., Va." When asked by the clerk how he pronounced his name the alleged Mr "Ott" seemed much startled and said that he would explain it all right, and asked for a place to wash. On his way to the lavatory he told the clerk that if any thing was wrong with his signature he would make it all right. Upon his return he still seemed laboring under excitement and the clerk frankly told him that his conduct was suspicious. Crotty then went to register and wrote his real name—"C. L. Crotty." This strange performance to take him to one side and ask him if he had not committed some crime. Crotty appeared to be much alarmed but finally admitted that he was a fugitive from the law, told what he had done in West Virginia and asked the clerk not to give him away but to protect him. The clerk at the first opportunity telephoned for the Chief of Police and when he came the clerk turned Crotty over to him. Crotty made no resistance, but went with apparent willingness, except just as he was entering the jail doors, when he drew with evident dread. His subsequent conduct as a prisoner has been of the most exempliary sort.

MR TYRELL, of the Geological Survey Department, has arrived at Winnipeg, bound for Ottowa, and reports having discovered rich tracts of agricultural and stock raising county hitherto unknown. He left Selkirk on January 24. From Norway House he descended the Nelson River in a canoe to the Pine River, ascending it to Wolf River. Again the Nelson was descended for seventy five miles, until the Brentwood River was reached, thence down the Grassy River to the Sturgeon, which brought them to the Saskatchewan at Cumberland House. Recently they reached Prince Albert. Mr Tyrell says that there are large areas of rich, cultivable lands west of the Nelson River, altho wheat is not grown, simply because it would be of no value, all varieties of vegtables are produced in the gardens of the Hudson Bay Company posts and prove hardy. Except for the climate, he declares that that country as richly blessed as the famed Red River valley.—The Scientific American.

Pay your subscription.

To Confederate Veterans.

WHEELING, W. VA. Jan. 1, 1897.

My Dear Sir,—At the instance of Gen. J. B. Gordon, General Commanding the "United Confederate Veterans," thro his Adjutant General and Chief of Staff, General Geo. Moorman, I address you this letter.

Every Confederate soldier must feel a deep interest in the effort to build the Memorial Institute edifice of the Southland, upon such a scale and in such a style as that it may be truly commemorative of the memory of our dead and the heroic valor of our soldiers.

Every Confenerate soldier feels a deep interest in the "United Confederate Veterans," and in their patriotic annual re-unions.

Every Confederate soldier is interested in seeing that the poor, old or disabled soldier should have proper care in his declining years.

A meeting will be held in the city of Charleston, W. Va., on Thursday, February 4th, 1897, to which all Confederate soldiers, and all others interested in the consideration and futherance of the foregoing objects, are earnestly invited.

Will you please urge the newspapers in your vicinity to give full notice of this meeting, and use your efforts to make it a success?

The Commanding General desires that a Division of "United Confederate Veterans" shall be formed in the State of West Virginia during the present winter. An appeal is made to the Confederate soldiers of West Virginia to gather themselves together and form in each county of the State, as far as may be, a camp of Confederate Veterans, so that a full Division in this State may be orgaized speedily. Any assistance that I can render will be cheerfully given, and the Adjutant General will gladly do any thing in his power to bring about the desired result. His address is: George Moorman, Adjutant General and Chief of Staff, No. 824 Common Street, New Orleans, La.

The next re-union of the "United Confederate Veterans" will be oeld at Nashville, Tenn., on the 5, 6 and 7th days of May next, during the great Centennial Exhibition in that City. It is hoped that the camps of a full Division in W. Va. may be there represented.

It seems to me to be a duty especially incumbent upon the Confederate soldiers of West Virginia ta take prompt action in this matter, and I appeal most earnestly to every one to lend a helping hand.

Respectfully, ROBERT WHITE,
Of Ex. Com. of Southern Memorial Association.

I will be glad for any or all members of the Pocahontas Camp to consider themselves delegates to the above meeting and attend if possible. A. C. L. GATEWOOD, Commander.

AS TO the trolley wires,
It has been found
Cheaper to put the people
Under the ground.
—Chicago Tribune.

THE Washington Post suggests that honest bank officials would go well with our present dish of honest money. The fact is mentioned for what it is worth.—Atlanta Constitution.

FIRST TRAMP: "All I have in the world is a counterfeit quarter."

Second tramp: "And all I have is a plugged dime."

Both: "Let's hold a monetary conference!"—Detroit Free Press.

HEROISM.

Forget thy failure and thy fall;
For forth into the world again,
Stand face to face with other men
And like a hero, conquer all.
—[Hu Maxwell.

HUMAN NATURE.

He called Sweet Prue
A perfect peach,
But found she grew
Just out of reach.
And so he learnt
With longing sigh,
We always want
What comes too high.
—To-day.

A THERMOMETER FREE.

WARMER'S SAFE CURE CO., of Rochester, N. Y., are sending out a limited number of accurate spirit thermometers graded from 20 degrees blow zero to 120 degrees above and mounted on heavy 4 x 6 inch card board, in red and green, by mail, free to any address on receipt of 2 cents in stamps to pay postage. To be sure, this distribution is intended to advertise the celebrated Warner's Safe Kidney and Liver Cure (see advertising columns) but never the less the thermometer will be found to be a useful as well as ornamental article for the home or office and well worth the little trouble and expense of sending for it.

Come '7.

De Mistletoe am laid away,
'N' Santy Claus done gone;
De turkey lef' from Christmas day
Am a skellyton fo'lo'n;
Dar's no meat on him ca'cass now
'N' de wishbone's on de ice—
Ol' Fatha Time done make er bow,
'N' he rattles out the dice—
Come '7
Got yo' faded!

Ol' Ninety Six am laid toe rest
W'ar de weepin' willers grow;
Dis new year am gwiner do him bes'
Ef yo' gives him er show;
Be good toe all yo' neighbo's an'
De pahson, Mistah Jones—
Ol' Fatha Time done takes a stand
'N' he rattles out de bones—
Come '7
Got yo' faded!

Dem promises yo' broke last year
Yo' all kin try to keep.
No mattah if yo' all kin steer
W'ar de fattes' chickens sleep.
De new year holds him shape an' style
Jus' as long as yo' keeps him nice—
Ol' Fatha Time doan' crack er smile
'N' he rattles out de dice—
Come '7
Got yo' faded!
—Exchange.

"The great man-seal haul back to the sea, and no man knows their path.
Then dark they lie and stark they lie—rookery, dune, and floe,
And the Northern Lights come down o' nights to dance with the houseless snow;
And God who clears the grounding berg and steers the grinding floe,
He hears the cry of the little kit-fox and the wind along the snow.
But since our women must walk gay and money buys their gear,
The sealing boats they filch that way at hazard year by year.
English they be and Japanee that hang on the Brown
Bear's flank,
And some be Scott, but the worst,
God wot, and the boldest thieves, be Yank."—[From Kipling's Rime of the Three Sailors.

[illegible] do not improve tha reputation of the past year as a rather dark period in our history, tho the record is not altogether unfavorable by comparison with previous years. There were 122 legal executions during the year and 131 lynchings, which is a rather startling commentary on the methods by which the law is executed and defied in this country. That neither lynchings nor legal executions serve to check the crime of murder is shown by the statement that there were no less than 10,652 murders committed during the year. This is a shocking exhibit.—The Herald, Boston.

THE Nord, Paris, publishes some accounts of the Russian fleet in the Black Sea, which prove it to be very formidable. There are seven line-of-battle-ships ranging between 8,000 and 12,000 tons, two armored coast-defense vessels, six armored cruisers, three torpedo-cruisers, twenty-three torpedo-boats, and eleven cruisers belonging to the volunteer fleet. The latter are not armored, but carry six to fourteen quick-firing guns. Three of them can steam 20 knots an hour. It is not thought that Turkey can prevent the egress of this powerful fleet.

"THERE's only two real parties," said the man who refuses to believe that the free-silver agitation is over for good. "The old political lines are all gone ter smash."

"You mean, I suppose, to reiterate your familiar claim that the bankers are arrayed against the farmers?"

"Thet's it exactly. It's the old question of which kind o' whiskers is a-goin ter git the best of it, side or chin.—Washington Star.

A FARMER traveling in a foreign land becoming anxious about his live stock, telegraphed home:

"Is things all right at the barn?
"JOHN BREEM."

His stable boy, whose conversation was proverbaly laconic, immediately telegraphed back:

"JOHN BREEM. Things is.
ROBERT."

THE PESSIMIST.

There is no hope for him whose eyes
See nothing in the human race
But plans misshaped and out of place,
And inconsistencies and lies.
—[Hu Maxwell.

MORE WISDOM.—"Uncle Simon what is a phenomenon?"

"A phenomenon is a man that gets so rich that he won't accept a pass on a railroad."—Chicago Record.

The Pocahontas Times.

Andrew & Norman Price, Owners. "Montani Semper Liberi!" Andrew Price, Editor

VOL. 15, NO. 35 MARLINTON, WEST VIRGINIA, MARCH 25, 1898. $1.00 PER YEAR

No. 083. Made in 54, 48, 42, 36 inch widths.

$3.25 buys this Brass-trimmed White Enameled Bedstead. In stock in all widths; length, 75 inches. It has one-inch pillars, two-inch brass vases and caps. This bed retails at from 5 to 6 dollars.

Buy of the maker and save the middleman's large profits. Our Catalogues are mailed for the asking. Complete lines of Furniture, Carpets, Draperies, Crockery, Pictures, Mirrors, Stoves, Refrigerators, Baby Carriages, Lamps, Bedding, etc., are contained in these books. Our Lithographed Carpet Catalogue showing goods in hand-painted colors is also free; if Carpet Samples are wanted mail us 8c. in stamps. Drop a postal at once to the money-savers and remember that we pay freight this month on purchases of Carpets, Lace Curtains, Portiers and Rugs amounting to $9.00 and over.

Julius Hines & Son
BALTIMORE, MD.
Please mention this Paper.

LAW CARDS.

N. C. McNEIL,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

Will practice in the Courts of Pocahontas and adjoining counties and in the Court of Appeals of the State of West Virginia.

L. M. McCLINTIC,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

Will practice in the Courts of Pocahontas, and adjoining counties and in the Supreme Court of Appeals.

H. S. RUCKER,
ATTY. AT LAW & NOTARY PUBLIC
HUNTERSVILLE, W. VA.

Will practice in the courts of Pocahontas county and in the Supreme Court of Appeals

J. W. ARBUCKLE,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
LEWISBURG, W. VA.

Will practice in the courts of Greenbrier and Pocahontas counties. Prompt attention given to claims for collection in Pocahontas county.

W. A. BRATTON,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

Prompt and careful attention given to all legal business.

ANDREW PRICE,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

Will be found at Times Office.

SAM. B. SCOTT, JR.
LAWYER,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

All legal business will receive prompt attention.

H. M. LOCKRIDGE,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
HUNTERSVILLE, W. VA.

Prompt and careful attention given all legal work.

JOHN A. PRESTON FRED. WALLACE
PRESTON & WALLACE,
Attorneys at Law,
LEWISBURG, W. VA.

Will practice in the Courts of Greenbrier and adjoining counties, and in the Court of Appeals of the State of West Virginia.

PHYSICIANS' CARDS.

DR. O. J. CAMPBELL,
DENTIST,
MONTEREY, VA.

Will visit Pocahontas County at least twice a year. The exact date of his visit will appear in this paper.

DR. J. H. WEYMOUTH,
RESIDENT DENTIST,
ELKINS, W. VA.

Will visit Pocahontas County every spring and fall. The exact date of each visit will appear in The Times.

J. M. CUNNINGHAM, M. D.,
PHYSICIAN & SURGEON,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

Office next door to C. A. Yeager's Hotel. Residence opposite Hotel. All calls promptly answered.

GOOD SALARIES!
LIFE POSITIONS!
IN UNCLE SAM'S SERVICE
are within the reach of all, male and female. Now is the time to prepare yourself and get into line. Full information relating to Government positions and how to obtain them, salaries paid, scope and dates of examinations, &c., given cheerfully by the NATIONAL CIVIL SERVICE INSTITUTE, [illegible] N. Y. Avenue, Washington, D. C.

For The Pocahontas Times

The Treasure Trove.

VII.

FOR several days Weston remained at Prattville. And when he failed to move on the next morning he became a marked man in the eyes of the villagers. Ike Moulton, proprietor of Hotel Moulton, consulted his wife about the advisability of asking for pay in advance. Not that he cared for the loss of a few days' board, but because he wanted to make himself safe.

Mrs Moulton was the real moving spirit of that place, and a good place the managing woman makes of it under such circumstances. She gets all the praise for the successes, while her acquiescent husband is blamed for any failure. Mrs Moulton declared in favor of her guest, even tho he came without a horse and with a very limited amount of baggage.

He spent his time in cultivating the acquaintance of the fixtures among those who sat and philosophized about certain stores. There was the usual quota of these gentlemen of leisure, mostly men who were old enough to have a good excuse for doing nothing. He was considerably amused one day when a man drove up to the post-office in a two-horse buggy and inquired where he was most apt to find Si Perkins. The vacuous post-office clerk answered, "Which?"

"Where'll be the likeliest chance of finding old man Si Perkins?"

"Why, up at the Alliance Store. There's where he mostly loafs."

Weston made his peace with the keeper of the Alliance Store, and he became friendly with several of the older men. They discussed everything, ranging from the grave political questions agitating the nation down to the latest scandal concerning the young attorney who broke into the hotel kitchen.

One day a powerfully built man came into the store. He was simply clad in a red shirt open at the throat, jeans breeches and top-boots. A large slouch hat fell over his face. He carried a repeating rifle and his body was encircled with a belt which was ornamented with loaded cartridges. Weston noticed that he did not set his gun down behind the door, as was customary with men who came to town thus encumbered. He kept his rifle in hand as he made his purchases. He cast several suspicious looks at Weston and soon left the store. He called old man Perkins, the philosopher, with whom Weston had grown well acquainted, to come out and speak with him. In a few minutes the old man came back with a pronounced oder of corn-whiskey about him, and invited Weston to come out for a walk. They strolled away together down by a beautiful clear stream, and when they had got to a sufficiently retired spot the old man took out a pint bottle of corn whiskey, as clear as water. It was the young man's first sight of the white corn whiskey of the moonshiner.

Evidently much to the relief of his companion, he refused to destroy any of the "pizen," the name in which it was tendered. Perkins was not one bit hurt by his refusal to help him in the delightful task of using the liquid.

"Nicest man ever I seed," he said, and turning up the bottle swallowed a goodly portion of the fiery stuff, having first delivered a standard toast:

> "Here's to you and tow'd you,
> If I hadn't a seen you, I wouldn't a > knowd you!"

Having satisfied himself of the depth of his potation by a long and critical look at the distance the liquor had sunk in the bottle, he turned to his companion and in a mysterious whisper said:

"Did jer see that feller in the store with the gun?"

"Yes."

"Well, jer know who he moight killed the Deputy Marshall up in Hickory Tree Swamp last fall. He wanted to know if you was the feller who were loafin' around Moulton's, and I told him you were, and said that you were a friend o' mine from Tuckahoe. He said he appinted hisself as a committee of one to come down to tell you to git to h—l out of this; but if I said so he guessed he were mistaken. He gin me this here pocket stove and says that in case you might happen to be kernected with the intarnal revenoo, that it would be friendly on my part to give you the wink in time to git out without being hurted. Now you can jest chaw that over, and if you air on the lookout for any such cattle you had better conclude you haven't lost any in these woods and not see any thing which might cause any onpleasant feelings 'tween you two."

Weston lost no time in assuring his old friend that he fully realized the Government was able to take care of its own affairs and that he was not looking for any moonshiners or other malefactors. He said too that he considered the mountaineer who made his run of brandy robbed the government of something they would never have had but for his enterprise, and that there was very little damage done in this line compared to the many millions stolen from the public treasury by the officials whose rule of conduct was to make two dollars do the work of one.

Old Perkins looked immensely relieved. He related how this Jessup had got into trouble.

"His daddy and granddaddy before him had stilled and Dave were raised up to the business. Last year the Deputy Marshall located their still in Hickory Tree Swamp and four of them went there to break it up. Jest as one of them tuk to tearin' down the kiln to git at the still, he got it in the back from a forty-four Winchester. They left in a hurry, and that night Dave or some of them toted the still off. Jim Will Pemberton, him with the crippled leg, told who fired the shot, and they ketched Dave endurin' the holidays, ject a few days 'fore he were to be married. They tuk him to Clarksburg and he got outer jail, and they never have been able ter git on the blind side of him since then. The Government offers a thousand dollars fer him dead or alive."

A few days after this Weston went for a walk in the woods and took a path into a hilly country. The leaves were just about done putting out. He had walked aimlessly for an hour or so and started, as he thought, to retrace his steps. For more than two hours he walked, and he wondered if he was far from the village. Shortly after he had set out on his return he came upon a most unusual sight—a dead crow. It seemed to have been choked an something like a nut. In about half an hour he found another which had met its death the same way, and in an hour or so he found a third. He wondered on the strange fatality which seemed to affect the crows, and how glad the farmer should be that this pestiferous bird was meeting with its deserts at last. He laid the bird in the forks of a dogwood, and in a short time he came back to the place and realized that it wes the same crow each time, and that he had been traveling in circles.

It was past midday, and he did not know how many mile he might be from his destination. He chose the only course known to men lost in the woods and followed the first running water he came too. He found it weary work forcing his way through the tangled undergrowth which lined the stream. He persevered and came in sight of a rude log hut. This, no doubt, was some settler's abode. He noticed even from a distance that a number of boxes and barrels surrounded what he took to be a bake oven. When quite near he attracted the attention of a large dog. He thought it best to call as

"Hello!"

"Hello, yourself!" replied some one fiercely.

"Who lives here?"

"Nobody, — — you; and you wont very long!"

"Where are you?"

"Here!" and the barrel of a gun was poked out a foot or two from between the logs of the house. Weston was thoroughly terrorized.

"Hold up your hands!" was the next order, and the hands went up. The gun never wavered and a man stepped quickly out of the shanty and approached Weston, searched him, took away a pistol which he had been foolish enough to carry, and tied his hands behind his back.

He remembered old Perkins' tale when Dave Jessup stepped from the cabin. He had fallen into the hands of illicit distillers or moonshiners as they are invariably called. He noted the implements of their trade. The large copper boiler and the long sinuous spout called the "worm" and saw the recepticles containing the fermenting "mash"

Four men grouped themselves about him and evidently did not know what to do with him now that they had secured him.

Quickly recovering he protested his entire innocence of any idea of upholding the laws of the United States, and insisted that he was lost in the woods. He referred to Perkins as being able to vouch for him, which was the only semblance of proof as to his identity which could be furnished. It was a white lie, but in a minute he thought it would be fatal to him.

The oldest man, who seemed to be in authority, was evidently impressed with his account of himself.

"Tell Perkins to come out here," he said, and to Weston's horror old man Perkins stepped out in the open air from the hut, looking very much concerned.

"Si, do you know this youngster?"

"Know him, Bill! Of course its Sam Weston, from Louisa Courthouse. Only son of Widow Weston what lives on the other side of the tan-yard."

Weston breathed easier as the accomplished old liar reeled forth this and other bits of his family history.

The moonshiners extracted a promise that he would not tell of the establishment. The one called Bill told him tersely to "Fergit all about it." They then tied his own handkerchief over his eyes and led him blindfolded for a loug distance. His pistol was given back to him and his hands untied. He heard old Si tell him to take the rag from his eyes, and he looked around to find himself alone with the old man, and down in the valley he saw the houses of Prattsville, with long shadows of evening reaching out to cover them. The two walked into town together with their friendship most thoroughly cemented.

As they approached the town they stopped at a little spring by the roadside. Here old Si pulled out his bottle. He offered it to Weston in a perfunctory way and held it in his hand, while Weston thanked him earnestly for his readiness in identifying him.

The old man held up the bottle and replied with a wink:

> "Here's to you and tow'd you,
> If I hadn't a seen you, I wouldn't > a know'd you."

Weston has a pint flask with a corncob stopper of that same white whiskey for which he gave old Si a ten dollar bill, and which he keeps as a memento of his adventure with those who distilled without a license therefor.

(To be Continued.)

Landlords and tradelords and lawlords,
The specters you conjured up have arisen.
Strikers, rent rebels, revolters, behold
They are the fruits of the seeds ye have sown.
Ye have sown the dragon's teeth;

BIOGRAPHIC NOTES.

By W. T. P.

RALPH WANLESS, a pioneer blacksmith, and progenitor of the Pocahontas branches of the Wanless relationship, was a native of England. It is believed that Ralph and his brother Stephen Wanless lived awhile in the lower Valley of Virginia on the Fairfax lands. About 1790 Ralph Wanless settled in The Hills, near Mount Tabor. Stephen located in Bath County, Va. Some of his descendants now live near Clover Dale.

Ralph's wife was Lucretia Nicholas, sister of William Nicholas who was living on Douthard's Creek, and an aunt of the late Thomas Nicholas, of the Indian Draft, near Edray, who was a son of William Nicholas. They were the parents of seven sons and five daughters. The following particulars are given respecting their family.

Anna Wanless became Mrs Reuben Matheny, and lived near Valley Centre in Highland County.

Mary (Dolly) became Mrs Alexander Campbell, and lived near Meadow Dale in Highland. Her daughter Laura was a very attractive and accomplished young lady whose early death was widely lamented.

Margaret Wanless was married to James Sharp, and lived on Thorny Creek.

Elizabeth Wanless became Mrs Thomas Hadden, and after living some years on the Greenbrier near the mouth of Deer Creek, went to Ohio.

Lydia Wanless was married to J. McGuire and settled in Ohio.

The sons of Ralph Wanless the pioneer were William, James, Levin, Ralph, Stephen, John, and Thomas.

William Wanless married Nancy Wilson, from Fort Defiance, Augusta County. Her widowed mother, Nancy Wilson, died on Knapp's Creek early in the century. Particulars in reference to William's family were given in a former sketch.

James Wanless was a local minister and a prominent citizen. In a former paper he was specially mentioned.

Ralph Wanless, junior, first married Anna Poage, daughter of G. W. Poage, of The Levels. After living in Huntersville several years as the village blacksmith he located on the homestead at Mt. Tabor. Their children were George Poage, Hopkins, Milum, Samuel, and Margaret. George P. Wanless was a Methodist minister of prominence. Hopkins Wanless married Amelia Dilley, relict of the late George Dilley, and lives on the homestead. Milum Wanless, recently deceased, first married Catherine McCarty and lived at the homestead. Second marriage with Laura Gum, of Highland.

Ralph Wanless, junior, had for his second wife Sally Arbogast, daughter of Benjamin Arbogast, senior, near Glade Hill.

Levin Wanless married Nancy Dilley, daughter of Henry Dilley, the pioneer; lived some years near Dilley's Mill, then went to Ohio. Concerning his numerous progeny no particulars in hand.

Stephen Wanless married Mary Pauline Sharp, and lived on Back Creek near the Irvtne Brick House. While trying to shoe a refractory horse belonging to Squire John Hamilton, about fifty-six years ago, he was killed. His sons were John F., William, and James. Rev James Wanless became their foster father.

John Wanless married Elizabeth Bridger, and settled in Lewis County, West Virginia. Mrs Wanless was noted for her skill in nursing the sick and her services were in demand far and near. She was a relative of the Bridger brothers killed at the Auldridge pass in 1784 by the Indians. Frequent mention has been made of this mournful and tragic occurrence in Rattlesnakes, Butterflies, and . . . ?

Washington Irving said, he supposed a certain hill was called "Rattlesnake Hill" because it abounded in—butterflies. The "rule of contrary" governs other names. Some bottles are, supposedly, labeled "Sarsaparilla" because they are full of . . . well, we don't know what they are full of, but we know it's not sarsaparilla; except, perhaps, enough for a flavor. There's only one make of sarsaparilla that can be relied on to be all it claims. It's Ayer's. It has no secret to keep. Its formula is open to all physicians. This formula was examined by the Medical Committee at the World's Fair with the result that while every other make of sarsaparilla was excluded from the Fair, Ayer's Sarsaparilla was admitted and honored by awards. It was admitted because it was the best sarsaparilla. It received the medal as the best. No other sarsaparilla has been so tested or so honored. Good motto for the family as well as the Fair: Admit the best, exclude the rest.

Any doubt about it? Send for the "Curebook."
It kills doubts and cures doubters.
Address: J. C. Ayer Co., Lowell, Mass.

ing attentions were to our people when regular physicians were so far away. Sick people had so much confidence in her that they seemed to think there was no danger of dying if Elizabeth Bridger could be had in time.

Thomas Wanless married Julia Bucher and settled in Ohio.

For about one hundred years this name has been familiar and identified with the progress of our people. For the most part, the Wanless influence has been on the side of morality, industry, and mental improvement.

The cheerful assistance of J. F. Wanless, Esq., and Mrs Rachel Logan hereby remembered.

Most all of the Wanless brothers were industrious and skillful workers in iron, acquired from their father, who seems to have been a genius in that line of industry, so useful to the people in pioneer and later times. When Ralph Wanless and his sons wrought at the anvil and caused the primitive forests to ring with their strong and resonant striking of hammers and sledges, their business was of essential importance. In their times most of the implements used in clearing lands, cultivating the ground, and building houses were made at home. In the pioneer shops, and for years subsequently, were forged axes, hoes, shovel plows, bull-tongues, coulters, brush-hooks, seng hoes, mattocks, broad axes, frows, grubbing hoes, pot hooks and hangers, kettle-bales, log-chains, double trees, single trees, door hinges and latches, and other articles rather tedious to mention, and still more tedious to make.

Toiling, rejoicing, sorrowing,
Onward through life he goes;
Each morning sees some task begun
Each evening sees it close,—
Something attempted, something done,
Has earned a night's repose.

* * * *

Thanks, thanks to thee, my worthy friend,
For the lesson thou hast taught;
Thus at the flaming forge of life
Our fortunes must be wrought;
Thus on the sounding anvil shaped
Each burning deed and thought.
—The Village Blacksmith.

Kissed Him With a Hoe.

Sam Hanks and Lewis Gray were engaged to do some plastering at the residence of Mr Richardson, over in Reid's addition. Grao rrived at the scene of work first last Friday afternoon. When Hanks came and began to mix up his mortar to begin work the trouble commenced. This is the way Hanks tolk Justice Chesney about it yesterday:

"I was standin' dar hoein' de mortah, an' was a gittin' ready ter go ter wuk, jus like I oughter. Den fust thing I knows I sees dat great big 200-poun' feller stand da by de house, a shakin' his fis' at me.

"'I dah yo' ter come heah,' he says.

"'Go long,' says I. 'I don' want no trubble wid yo.'

"'I dah yo' to come up heah. I'll spank dose ole pants off yo.'

"'Shet up,' says I. 'I haint had dese pants spanked fo' thuty-five yeahs and yo' can't do it now.'

"Den he done give a jump, an' he come aruoning down at me. Say Jedge, yo' tink I was gwine to let dat cuss maul me? Naw, sah. I jes' got ready, an' when he come close I kissed him wid de hoe—right heah!—and Sam is his cal-

Good Intentions.

BY MRS MARGARET E. SANGSTER.

The wonderful things we have planned, Love,
The beautiful things we have done,
The fields we have tilled, the gifts we have willed,
In the light of another year's sun,
When we think of it all we are baffled,
There's so much that never come true,
Because, Love, instead of our doing,
We are always just meaning to do.

The friends we are wanting to help, Love,
They struggle alone and folorn,
By trial and suffering vanquished,
Perchance by temptation o'erborne.
But the lift and the touch and the greeting,
That well might have aided them thro
The perilous strait of ill-fortune,
They miss;-we're but meaning to do.

We dream of a fountain of knowledge
We loiter along on its brink,
And toy with the crystalline waters.
Forever just meaning to drink.
Night falls and our tasks are unfinished
Too late our lost chances we rue,
Dear Love, while our comrades were doing,
We only were MEANING TO DO.
—Selected.

Successful Cattle Shipment.

Capt J. C. Borden, president of the Borden & Borden Live Stock Co., has received a letter from R. S. Barrie & Co., brokers for the T. C. Eastman Co., of New York, says the Galveston News, stating that the cattle which the Borden Company shipped from Galveston on the Lone Star steamer Menemsha had been weighted fourteen hours after being unloaded from the ship. The result shows that they lost 92 pounds a head in gross weight. Captain Borden says this demonstrates that the shipment was in every way an eminent success. The cattle lost 47½ pounds a head in the 250 miles from Temple to Galvestou, and only 92 pounds each in the 2,000 miles from Galveston to New York. He says he believes they last nothing in net weight. Cattle shipped from Texas to Chicago lose about 150 pounds each. Tezas is improving in the feeding ing of cattle, says Captain Borden, and beef is being produced that will equal that of any other State. It having been demonstrated that shipments can be successfully made from Galveston to New York, he believes that the industry will benefitted.

How's This?

We offer One Hundred Dollars Reward for any case of Catarrh that can not be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure.
F. J. CHENEY & Co., Props., Toledo, O.

We, the undersigned, have known F. J. Cheney for the past 15 years, and believe him perfectly honorable in all business transactions, and financially able to carry out any obligatton made by their firm:
WEST & TRUAX, Wholesale Druggists, Toledo, Ohio.
ALDING, KINNAN & MARVIN, Wholesale Druggists, Toledo, Ohio.

Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. Price 75c per bottle. Sold by all druggists. Testimonials free.

Hall's Family Pills are the best.

FOREST and STREAM
THE SPORTSMAN'S JOURNAL.
Travel Fishing The Dog Adventure Nature Trap and Hunting Yachting Target
Camping Canoeing Shooting

FOREST AND STREAM illustrated journal, devoted to the sports of the field and the encouraging in men and women of a healthy interest in outdoor recreation.

Weekly, 32 pages; $4 per year; $2 for six months; 10 cents a copy. Sample free.

We are the largest American publishers of works on outdoor sports.

The Pocahontas Times.

Hear, Land o' Cakes and brither Scots,
Frae Maidenkirk to Johnny Groats,
If there's a hole in a' your coats,
I rede ye tent it:
A chiel's amang you takin' notes,
An' faith he'll prent it.—BURNS

Local Events.

THERE was a hop in town Monday night.

Massey Gatewood is selling farm implements for the Buckeye company.

A NUMBER of maple trees were set in the court house square last week.

GREENBRIER PRESBYTERY meets at Talcott, Summers County, April 27.

JOHN YEAGER has returned from his first session at a Medical College in Louisville.

FOLLOW the footsteps of the wise. Join the throng of bargain hunters who look everywhere but buy here. We will sell you green coffee 8c good tobacco 20c. Other goods proportionately low.

L. D. SHARP.

PAUL GOLDEN wrote from Baltimore that he expected to be at home 'Tuersday' of this week, and a large amount of speculation has been indulged in by his friends as to whether they should look for him Tuesday or Thursday.

FRANK THOMHSON says his black hen laid a red egg the other day. Such hens would be in demand for Easter decorative purposes. This may be an omen of hostilities with the Spaniards; or perhaps she had only been paintinff things red.

R. L. MALCOMB has begun business in a mercantile way, and believes in the principle of small beginnings and working up to greater enterprises. His terms are cash and nothing less goes at his store. He is situated two miles from Edray on the Clover Lick road.

IT IS stated in the Spectator and Vindicator that two sets of engineers will begin work on the Greenbrier River route, in a few days: one corps starting at Marlinton and the other at Caldwell, and working toward each other. The report has been confirmed by letters received at this place by persons having business relations with the construction company.

THE rail road matters have so resolved themselves that it is safe to say that there will be no building of the road this year. In addition to the report that surveys will be started from Marlinton and Caldwell, we hear that the engineers are expected next week to begin work at the Forks of the River and complete the survey made by them last year as far as Marlinton.

RALPH HEVENER, a member of the senior class of the West Virginia University, died in Morgantown. He was carried to Buckhannon for burial, after impressive services in the University chapel attended by representatives of the faculty, the senior class, and literary societies. It is said to be the first death that has ever occurred in the University.

IT is a matter of remark in Marlinton that the younger people display more interest in religious services,—as regards church going,—than their elders. Be the cause what it may, the fact remains. They have maintained a weekly general prayer-meeting almost without aid from the older people. Still their presence is urgently required to give stability and order to the services.

MARLINTON is getting ready for April Court and expects a large crowd of people. There are very few new cases in the courts. A good deal of criminal business for this county will be disposed of Three prisoners are in jail on the charge of of horse-stealing, and one for burglary. The Edray and Levels darkies had a riot two years ago and numerous indictments are to be tried. Court will hardly be in session over a week.

THE colored settlement in the Brush is in a state of armed neutrality over its two preachers. Rev Scott has been filling the pulpit there for several years. Two years ago in May he held basket meeting on a Sunday, and a row started, in which he was badly beaten. The trial ol his assailants has been continued from court to court, and he has been waiting until April Court to attend the trial, as the main prosecuting witness. In the meantime another preacher has come on and the community is divided and one set does not speak to the other.

A RUNAWAY accident occurred at the Fortifications abovet he Greenbrier Bridge, Sunday morning. W. W Tyree was driving a double team. B. N. Rayburn and J. D. Pullins were driving behind in a buggy drawn by a single horse. The team in front was hitched too long and the pole dropped out of the yoke. The horses started up hill at a run. Tyree tried to jump and landed on his head. He was hurt about the head and badly bruised, but was able to be around Monday. The team ran to the stable. The horse behind started to run, and it was with difficulty that the horse was pulled over the road so as not to drive over the body of Tyree, who was unconscious. The buggy was broken a little, but the horses were not harmed.

FOOTBALL.

Frost, 4; Oak Grove, 1.

A lively game of football was played at Frost Saturday. Frost won the toss and chose the east goal. Oak Grove forced the playing for about five minutes, when Frost settled down and carried the ball back. The most terrific rushing of the whole game was now engaged in, and Upton Sharp was the man who made the lucky shot for Frost. This was the only goal scored on either side in the half.

Shortly after recommencing play the visitor's goal keeper fumbled a hardly pressed ball and C. Sharp drove it through. A. Sharp was the next man to score for Frost.

The Oak Grove men stood the contest very well, notwithstanding some of them were completely knocked out and had to call on substitutes. Now C. C. Sharp after a magnificent run through the backs scored goal no. 4. Desultory play was then indulged in, and this time the home goal fumbled an easy one, the final score standing 4—1.

OAK GROVE - Jim Sutton (goa') Ezra Wooddell. Blake King (fullback), Sandy Sutton, Harrison Sheets, Jesse Hudson (half backs), Ed Hudson. C., John Galford, Chris Dilley, Ward Hudson, Craig Ashford (forward.)

FROST Sherman Gibson [goal], Grant Dilley, Butler Sharp [fu lback], Sherman Curry, Holmes Sharp, George Sharp [half backs], C. C. Sharp (C) Upton Sharp. Aron Sharp, Warwick Shinaberry, Charles K. Moore [forward.]

G. S. W.

Blake King went from Marlinton to play his position with Oak Grove.

The Frost team can very well lay claim to the championship of Pocahontas for 1897.

It is very necessary to the life of the game that the goal keeper sometimes fumble the ball, public opinion to the contrary notwithstanding. Otherwise few points would ever be scored.

The Pen or the Sword.

The Marlinton school, taught by Misses Lillie Friel and Rella Clark closed its sessions last Friday. At night pleasing elocutionary display was made of reading, recitation, and debate, aided by the members of the famous "literary society." N. C. McNeil and N. R. Price made speeches on the affirmative, and S. B. Scott, Jr., and J. H. G. Wilson supported the negative. By a rising vote the nays had it, refuting the proposition, "Beneath the rule of men entirely great. the pen is mightier than the sword."

They talk about Triple Alliance,
And the might of the pen and the sword;
But if Spain sets the States at defiance,
We'll chuck the whole thing overboard.

An Invitation.

THANKS to those who have called since our last invitation through The Times. We have had a rush, which we enjoy. Now, we extend the invitation indefinitely, hoping to have many callers and that our dealings may be agreeable and profitable. We, on our part, promise to do our best to give you good value for the money you spend with us. Come in while at Court. Yours, for bargains in high grade Saddle and Harness goods,

THE MARLINTON SADDLE & HARNESS COMPANY.
G. F. Crummett, manager.

Notice to Tax-Payers.

Notice is hereby given to all pesons who owe back taxes that I shall expect them to settle them in full, at my office in the Court House, at the April Term of Court. These taxes are all past due and the tax year is drawing to a close. I cannot afford to let the taxes of one year run over to be collected in the next.

R. W. HILL, S. P. C.

Musical Association,

The Executive Committee will meet at the Court house on the first day of Circuit Court, April 5, at 1 P. M., to select a place to hold the next meeting of the Association. The Committee remains the same, as last year.

JOHN WAUGH, President.

Wanted.

I want to rent for cash my burr mill, containing three run of stones. Everything in good repair. No one need apply who is not a capable and experienced miller. For terms, etc., address JOHN R. HEVENER, Green Bank, W. Va.

Notice.

I am still running the big stable near the Court House. When you come to court, put your horse up and have him cared for. Horses attended to with care.

WM. M. SIPLE, Manager.

Paul Golden returned last "Tuesday."

R. W. Hill attended the Baltimore Conference at Hinton.

B. M. Yeager has returned from Grafton.

George Bambrick, of Dilley's Mill, was in town Monday.

John S. Moore has moved from Mill Point to Captain Smith's place near Edray.

John Adam McNeel, of Lexington, was in Marlinton last Friday, having spent a few days with his friends in Pocahontas.

HUNTERSVILLE.

Dr. J. B. Lockridge, we are happy to note, is able to be out again.

George Beverage, of Buckhannon, a traveling salesmen paid our town a visit this week.

Patterson Hamilton, who has been in Webster County for several months, came home Thursday.

Mr Hoge, one of the oldest tobacco drummers in the State, called on our merchants Saturday.

G. W. Wagner is busily engaged in papering his house. O. E. McKeever is assisting him.

Lee Gum, of Highland, was a pleasant guest at the Huntersville Hotel this week.

T. M. McCorkle, the tobacco drummer, who travels for F A Davis, Baltimore, was with us one day last week.

The auction here last Saturday was largely attended. The goods sold very low. C. B. Swecker auctioneer.

Messrs Jake, Cam and Harry Beard and Forest Hill, of Academy; C. B. Swecker, Sam Sheets and Cliff Noel, of Dunmore, were here on business this week.

John Adam McNeel, who moved from this county to Rockbridge several years ago, was in town last Friday. He says every thing is quiet and no news of importance.

T. J. Williams, of Frost, registered at the Huntersville Hotel Thursday. He was on his way to Hot Springs to get samples, as he expects to travel for a tobacco firm this summer.

S. J. Boggs, who has been to Baltimore buying goods, returned Thursday. He says business is a little dull at this time in the city, on account of the anticipated war with Spain.

Our Assessor Joe Buzard and his mule have undergone a change in the last few days, and are now ready to begin their yearly round of listing personal property in the county. Both are nicely trimmed up and it is hard to tell which barber deserves the most credit: the one who shaved Joe Buzard, or the one who shaved Joe, the mule, as the work in both cases was nicely done.

The Browns Mountain school, taught by Miss Nola Shrader, closed last Friday evening with a spelling bee in which Miss Lillie Gabbert proved herself champion speller. They then decided to further celebrate the occasion by having a social; and the hospitable home of Mr Mac Irvine was selected as the place. Soon all were assembled in the cozy parlor and every thing went as merrily as a 'marriage bell.'

ALFRED.

LOBELIA.

Warm, fine growing showers and vegetation springing forth nicely.

About 250 people attended the funeral services yesterday.

H. L. Casebolt sold about $2,000 worth of cattle, to a north western man, to be delivered next fall.

Joseph Snedegar, of Loverage, will move to our county this year. We give him a hearty welcome.

Miss Mintie Taylor, of Friars Hill, is still with her sister, Mrs W. B. Hill.

Rev A. R. Snedegar, son of J C. Snedegar, of Jacox, was married recently.

Some of the boys are trying to get a saw-mill to saw some timber to build a church at Lobelia.

Mrs Ann Walton, who left here about four months ago in search of a man, has found him near Parkersburg and has married again.

We learn by letter that Mrs D. W. Hill, of Illinois, has married a doctor. She is a sister-in-law of W. B. Hill.

Rev C. M. Fultz arrived on Saturday, and preached two able sermons on Sunday; also a funeral on Monday. Two of the Hills started to Frost to day for his household goods.

OBSERVER.

KNAPP'S CREEK.

Rev Adamson will have charge of the Frost circuit. We welcome him in our midst. An able preacher and a fine man.

The Frost debating society closed for the season Tuesday night. the question was, "Resolved: that the world is growing morally better. This society has been instructive as well as entertaining.

Dr Lockridge has been kept busy attending to professional duties, and we are sorry to know he is quite complaining from the effects of grippe. The Doctor has had some surgical work to do recently. He removed a bony tumor from the leg of M. F. Herold, Esq., which commenced to grow when a child and recently had been giving him considerable trouble. He also performed a surgical operation on Joe Sharp. Esq. The trouble was caused by his falling backward on a locust peg, ten or twelve years ago, which resulted in a running sore similar to fistula. Both operations have been successful. The Doctor is well equipped with a fine set of instruments and a handsome operating chair given him by his uncle, Dr P. S. Moser, of Iowa.

BILL AND JOE.

Roller and burr flour for sale at A. B. McComb's Huntersville.

J. W. Beard & Bro.

BUCKEYE.

Farmers are busy plowing and preparing to sow oats.

Otis Morrison and Jim Beverage are home from camp.

Mrs Sarah Jane McNeill is no better. Mrs Catherine Kellison is improving.

Miss Maud Kee attended the wedding at Academy last week.

Mrs Killingsworth of Marlinton, has been visiting her father G. W. McKeever.

Mike Myers came home from camp very sick but is about well again.

The debate is still progressing. Last Thursday night the program was as follows: Reading by Miss Laura Overholt, recitation by Miss Grace McNeill. Question: resolved that we owe more to Washington for defending the United States than to Columbus for the discovery of it. To affirm D. T. McNeill, to deny R. E. Overholt, Earnest Weiford, and Harper Adkison. Messrs William and Winters McNeill were the judges, and the affirmative got the decision. Taylor's colleague's were absent but he produced argument enough for all.

Porter Kellison started for home to-day.

OBSERVER.

GREEN BANK.

R. B. Kerr, of Gillaspie, was on the streets one day last week.

L. O. Beard says he can plow ten acres a day now—it is a boy.

Miss Bertie Beard is teaching a subscription school at the academy at Green Bank.

George Beverage, a drummer, was in Green Bank last week calling upon the merchants and his friengs.

French Sutton had his collarbone broken playing foot-ball Saturday. Boys it is time to quit playing foot-ball and go to plowing.

Died: Last Tuesday morning at 3 o'clock, Conner, eldest son of J. L Hudson, aged 23 years. He had been suffering from pulmonary trouble for a year or two, and was paralyzed about six weeks ago. Death was the only means that could have relieved his suffering. Conner was a good son, and may the fond parents, brothers, and sisters be resigned to the will of Him who doeth all things well.

C.

FROST.

T. J. Williams is traveling for the Garland Refining Company, of Cleveland, Ohio.

Billy Buzard has moved to his wife's father's, and is getting ready to move his saw mill.

Aron Ryder is getting ready for harvest, having bought a mowing machine. He is trying it on the road to day.

The has been a good deal of excitement over the post office, but the defendant gained the victory, and it has been moved to Anson Curry's.

Most people attend to their own affairs, but there are some people in this neighborhood who attend to every body's business except their own.

Harry Gwinn and Forest Herold had a debate of their own, Tuesday night, and didn't invite any body but the "proper nouns." The question was "Resolved, That single life is more pleasant than married life." And the negative gained.

JOHN KILLMEQUICK.

Educate Your Bowels With Cascarets.
Candy Cathartic, cure constipation forever 10c., 25c. If C. C. C. fail, druggists refund money

MILL POINT.

Sugar making is over,
Schools have all closed,
The sheriff is a rover,
And summonses exposed.

Joseph Simmons is clearing some land on the sunny hillside.

Miss Bettie Cleek is improving slowly.

E. L. Smith is making the brush clear the track. He means to have a garden some day.

Isaac B. Smith, our enterprising miller, is on the go all the time. He says he never felt better and never gets tired.

The debating society on Stamping Creek is deciding all the public questions before the public at this time.

Some one is expecting to appear before the grand jury to prosecute a school teacher for whipping a bad boy. Let him go, for the trustees saw nothing sufficient to dismiss the teacher.

I will close by paying my subscription to The Times. Let all do likewise.

MUX.

PINE GROVE.

THE Pocahontas County Normal opened Monday with 21 pupils. The following from a distance have enrolled: Misses Annie Sullivan, Mill Point; Sarah Morgan and Lucy G. Anderson, Lobelia; Lucy Sharp, Driscol; Virgie Gillespie, Gillespie; Daisy Eskridge, Academy; Mamie Gillespie, Mill Point; Lula Auldridge, Buckeye; Messrs Elmer Moore, Wanless, and Ami Willfong, Greenbrier county.

Principal Barlow says he has an excellent class of students, and he is well pleased with the school. Our citizens have agreed to board at $7 a month. Young ladies and gentlemen who wish to attend school should not let this opportunity pass.

The Great War.

We have won success by our ability to demonstrate our bargain claims; we guarantee the smallest of our patrons the same courteous attention given the largest.

We are taking great pains in buying our
Spring and Summer Stock of Goods. . .

And all bargains will be shared with our customers.

We keep goods moving by keeping goods that move;—we test every value—our prices do the rest. Its not a question of opinion, its a rock-ribbed fact that our prices can not be successfully cut under. Don't scatter your dollars unwisely; concentrate them here and save more of them.

It is shrewd and well directed effort that makes our bargains unusual. Our PRICES PUZZLE COMPETITORS AND DELIGHT PURCHASERS.

Thanking you for your past patronage, we remain
Yours respectfully,

L D Sharp.

The Levels News.

Edited by Payne Bros.

Vol. 1 Academy, W. Va., April 1, 1898. No. 11

Market, Mar 28, 1898.

—Eggs 9c per dozen.
—Butter 16⅔c per pound.
—Lard 7c per lb.
—Corn 60c per bushel.
—Wheat 90c per bushel.
—Oats 40c per bushel.
—Hams 10c per lb.
—Side Bacon 9c.
—Shoulder 8c.
—Beans $1 per bushel.
—Beeswax 25c per lb.

—AT PAYNE BROS.

—Miss Mabel Ligon spent several days in rown last week.

—R. W. Hill, Esq., returned from Hinton where he had been attending Conference.

—Sacramental meeting next Sunday at the Presbyterian Church. Rev Price assists Dr Sydenstricker.

—Mr Frank Sizemore, of Marlinton, passed through town today enroute to George W. Callison's Mountain Farm where he expects to make his home.

—Mr and Mrs. G. E. Moore returned last Sunday from a visit to his home. Mr Moore has two weeks of school to teach, then he and his wife will make their home in our midst.

—William Hill, Esq., son of Geo. Hill, Esq., came up from Falling Springs Saturday to visit the old home place and relations. He left here nine years ago and has been in Washington most of the time.

—Vinegar at Payne's.

—Dynamite at Payne's.

—Sheep Dip at Payne's.

—Seed Oats at Payne Bros.

—Lake Herring and Mackerel at Payne Bros.

—Langman and Martinez Pure Mixed Paints at Payne Bros.

—Sash and Doors and Building Paper at Payne Bros.

—Excelsior Cook Stoves and Repairs at Payne Bros.

—Send orders to Payne Bros. for Brick, as they are going to burn 200,000 as soon as the weather will permit.

SALT: $2 A SACK.
AT PAYNE BROS.

Best grades of Roller Flour at
. . . .
J. H. DOYLE'S,
Huntersville, W V.
G. L. HANNAH'S,
Yelk, W. Va.
BARLOW & MOORE'S,
Edray, W. Va.
J. H. CURRY'S,
Green Bank, W. Va.
R. L. NOTTINGHAM'S,
Dunmore, W. Va.

Hungry Muscles

have to be fed. Give them rich, pure blood and they glow with health; give them poor blood and they do not recuperate—exercise does not refresh you. If you are worn out, nervous or feeble, there is one thing that will aid you—pure, rich blood. There is but one way to gain it—

Johnston's Sarsaparilla
QUART BOTTLES.

For thirty years it has stood at the head; THE remedy for poor blood. Quart bottles, $1.00 a bottle. Begin this day to give your muscles good food.

WILLIAMS, DAVIS, BROOKS & CO., Detroit, Mich.

Try Liverettes the Famous Little Liver Pills. 25c.

For sale by—
URIAH BIRD, Marlinton, W. Va.; and A. BARLOW, Huntersville

Attention, FARMERS.

We will be at Court next week with a full line of Farming Implements,

and be prepared to give you unheare of bargains in Hay Rakes, (of any pattern), Waggons, Cultivators, Section Grinders, and the celebrated McCORMICK BINDERS, New Vertical Mowers, in fact everything to make you happy.

J. W. Beard & Bro.

Great Bargain Sale!
of
Store Goods -- at Frost, W. Va.
To Cash Buyers
From this Date to April 15th, 1898.

We do not ask you to buy our goods at auction. But come to our store with your cash, where you can examine what you buy, and we will insure you great bargains.
We must have money to buy our Spring and Summer stock.

Yours for Fair Dealing,
Hannah & Harper.

Plow Repairs

We have at last succeeded in making arrangements to supply points for the RONCEVERTE PLOW. Full stock now on hand. Send in our orders early. . . .

We are Factory Agents for IMPERIAL and SILVER STEEL Plows.

(The Best Hillside Plow on the Market.)

Simms & Co.,
Opp. Passenger Depot, RONCEVERTE, W. Va.

The Pocahontas Times.

THE COURTS.

Circuit Court convenes on the first Tuesday in April, third Tuesday in June, and first Tuesday in October.

County Court convenes on the first Tuesday in January, March, and the fourth Tuesday of June and September—June is levy.

County Directory

Judge.... ...J. M. McWhorter
Pros. Attorney ...L. M. McClintic
Sheriff.................R. W. Hill
Clerk County Court...S. L. Brown
Clerk Circuit Court, J. H. Patterson
Assessor.............J. H. Buzzard
Com'rs. Co. Ct. { Amos Barlow / C. E. Beard / J R Warwick
Surveyor ....George Baxter
Coroner.... ....George P. Moore

Board of Health—Dr J. A Price, L. M. McClintic, M. J. McNeel, R. W. Hill.

Justices—Uriah Bird, Marlinton; A. C. L. Gatewood, Linwood; P. D. Arbogast, Green Bank; W. H. Grose, Huntersville; G R. Curry, Academy; T. A. Bruffey, Lobelia.

HOW TO FIND OUT.

Fill a bottle or common glass with your water and let it stand twenty-four hours: a sediment or settling indicates an unhealthy condition of the kidneys; if it stains your linen it is evidence of kidney trouble; too frequent desire to pass it or pain in the back is also convincing proof that the kidneys and bladder are out of order.

What to Do.

There is comfort in the knowledge so often expressed, that Dr. Kilmer's Swamp Root, the great kidney remedy fulfills every wish in relieving pain in the back, kidneys, liver bladder and every part of the urinary passages. It corrects inability to hold urin and scalding pain in passing it, or bad effects following the use liquor, beer, or wine, and over comes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to get up many times during the night to urinate. The mild and extraordinary effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases. If you need a medicine you should have the best. Sold by druggists, price fifty cents and one dollar. You may have a sample bottle ond pamphlet both sent free by mail, upon receipt of three two-cent stamps to cover cost of postage on the bottle. Mention The Times and send your address to Dr Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. The proprietors guarantee the genuineness of this offer.

YOUR FORTUNE is your health. Your happiness is your strength. Keep the Head and Throat clear and healthy and your mind and brain is always at rest and ease. CUSHMAN'S MENTHOL INHALER is the greatest relief to mankind in all head troubles. CURES COLDS, SORE THROAT, CATARRH. That awful odor of Catarrh disappears by its use. Wonderful in Hay Fever and Asthma. ☞ BUY ONLY CUSHMAN'S.
If you can't get it at Druggists send for it. By mail, 50 cents. Send for Book on Menthol, free. CUSHMAN DRUG CO., VINCENNES, IND., U. S. A.

R·I·P·A·N·S
Packed Without Glass.
TEN FOR FIVE CENTS.

This special form of Ripans Tabules is prepared from the original prescription, but more economically put up for the purpose of meeting the universal modern demand for a low price.
DIRECTIONS.—Take one at meal or bed time or whenever you feel poorly. Swallow it whole, with or without a mouthful of water.
They cure all stomach troubles; banish pain; induce sleep; prolong life. An invaluable tonic. Best Spring Medicine. No matter what's the matter, one will do you good. One gives relief—a cure will result if directions are followed.
The five-cent packages are not yet to be had of all dealers, although it is probable that almost any druggist will obtain a supply when requested by a customer to do so; but in any case a single carton, containing ten tabules, will be sent, postage paid, to any address for five cents in stamps, forwarded to the Ripans Chemical Co., No. 10 Spruce St., New York. Until the goods are thoroughly introduced to the trade, agents and peddlers will be supplied at a price which will allow them a fair margin of profit, viz.: 1 dozen cartons for 40 cents—by mail 45 cents. 12 dozen (144 cartons) for $4.32—by mail for $4.82. 5 gross (720 cartons) for $20.52. 25 gross (3,600 cartons) for $100. Cash with the order in every case, and freight or express charges at the buyer's cost.

50 YEARS' EXPERIENCE
PATENTS
TRADE MARKS
DESIGNS
COPYRIGHTS &C.
Anyone sending a sketch and description may quickly ascertain our opinion free whether an invention is probably patentable. Communications strictly confidential. Handbook on Patents sent free. Oldest agency for securing patents.
Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice, without charge, in the Scientific American.
A handsomely illustrated weekly. Largest circulation of any scientific journal. Terms, $3 a year; four months, $1. Sold by all newsdealers.
MUNN & Co. 361 Broadway, New York
Branch Office, 625 F St., Washington, D. C.

CASTORIA
For Infants and Children.
The fac-simile signature of Chas. H. Fletcher is on every wrapper.

No-To-Bac for Fifty Cents.
Guaranteed tobacco habit cure, makes weak men strong, blood pure. 50c, $1. All druggists.

HIGH GRADE FERTILIZERS
Sold Direct to Farmers.
Made from Vegetable & Animal Matter.
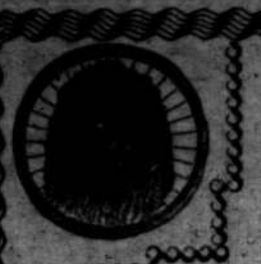
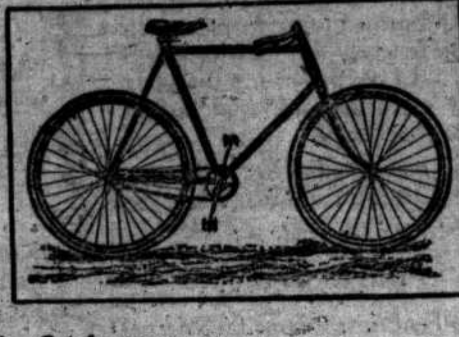
Send for circulars.
AMERICAN REDUCTION CO.,
1514 to 1516 Second Avenue,
Pittsburg, Pa.





"All the World Loves a Winner"
Monarch Bicycles are the Supreme Result of our
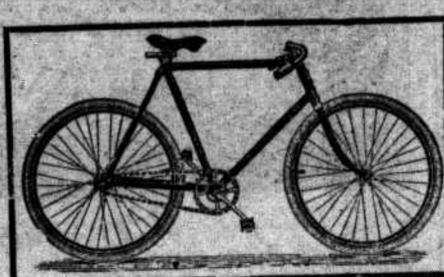
Years of Experience
Send for Catalogue.
MONARCH CYCLE MFG. CO.
CHICAGO NEW YORK LONDON
Send nine two-cent stamps for a deck of Monarch Playing Cards, illustrating Lillian Russell, Tom Monarch Cooper, Lee Richardson and Walter Jones. Regular 50c cards.



The Fifty Dollar Tribune,
THE BEST WHEEL FOR THE PRICE IN THE WORLD.
Don't Think of Buying Until You Have Seen It.
The Famous Blue Streak,
FASTER THAN EVER.
Write for Catalog.
The BLACK Mf'g. Co.,
Erie, Pa.

CANDY CATHARTIC
Cascarets
CURE CONSTIPATION
REGULATE THE LIVER
10c 25c 50c
ALL DRUGGISTS

Winchester MEANS PERFECTION WHEN APPLIED TO
REPEATING RIFLES SHOT-GUNS SINGLE-SHOT RIFLES AND ALL KINDS OF AMMUNITION
Pronounced by Experts the Standard of the World.
Ask your dealer for WINCHESTER make of Gun or Ammunition and take no other.
FREE:—Our new Illustrated Catalogue.
WINCHESTER REPEATING ARMS CO., New Haven, Ct.

Direct from Mill to Wearer,
★ Which Saves you 4 Big Profits. ★
The Commisson House. The Wholesaler The Jobber and Store Keeper.
E. ROSENBURGER & CO. 202-204 E. 102nd St., NEW YORK CITY

$5.00 SUIT OR $2.98
We pay all Express Charges.
Our Great Bargain Offer!
BOYS' ADONIS SUITS, WITH EXTRA PAIR OF PANTS.
These Suits are guaranteed to be made from imported Wool Cheviot, in Black, Blue, Grey and Brown, in sizes from 3 to 9 years of age. Made up double-breasted, with Sailor Collar—Collar fancy embroidered — lined with fast Black Albert Twill Sateen and Patent Waist Bands. Trimming and Workmanship the very best. Sizes for ages 10 to 15 years, without Sailor Collar. Mention age at last birthday, and if large or small.
$2.98 with Extra Pants.

★ JUST THINK OF IT! ★
A CUSTOM MADE TO ORDER
$14.00 MAN'S SACK SUIT For $8.98
What you can save by buying direct from the manufacturer.
Guaranteed to be made from All Wool, Fancy Brown, Gray, Black or Blue Tweed, made in latest style, lined with Imported Farmer Satin, trimmed and finished in the best of Custom Tailor manner. You cannot duplicate it in your town for $14.00. Sizes 34 to 42.
The same goods made for Youths, 13 to 18, in long Pants, Coat and Vest................ 6.00
How to measure men's & youth's Suits:
Measure around the breast and waist over the Vest, and from crotch to heel for Pants.
When ordering, send Post-Office Express money order or Registered Letters. Money cheerfully refunded if not satisfactory. Send 2c. stamp for samples, tape measure, measuring blanks, etc.

THIS STYLE
$8.98

$22 IRISH FRIEZE MEN'S ULSTERS $10.75
Largest Value ever Offered.
On account of the failure of one of the largest Commission Houses here, representing a Woolen Mill in Ireland, we bought last Spring the entire product on of their gray and black Irish Frieze of 6,000 pieces at a sacrifice. Therefore we are able to sell them at the above less than the raw material price, $10.75, never before in the history of clothing and probable never again will you have a chance to get half such a value for your money. Above price is less than the new tariff duty on the material. They are made up double-breasted as per cut below, with raised seams lined throughout with extra heavy woven plaid linings, pinked facings, all pockets framed and well stayed with extra deep storm collar and throat latch. Above Ulsters are retailed at $22.00 after these are closed out we will not be able to duplicate them for double the price on account of the new tariff duty.
Measure same as for a Sack Coat, giving length wanted, also hight and weight.
A 2c. stamp will bring you samples, catalogue, tape measure and blanks.
We pay express charges and should you not feel satisfied we will refund the money.
Remember you buy direct from one of the largest clothing manufacturers in America.

This Style
$10.75
In Oxford Gray and Black.

BIOGRAPHIC NOTES.

John Webb, Revolutionary Veteran. An Irish, Branchless Tree.

JOHN WEBB, the subject of this biographic article, is a character about whom it may be said as was said about Melchizedek, he was without father or mother, so far as any biographical purpose can be served. His Milesian brogue and his habit of saying not foolish things, and never doing any thing very wisely, tended to corroborate what he always averred that he was of Irish nativity. He had the papers showing that he was an honorably discharged soldier of the Revolution, and as a pensioner received ninety-six dollars a year. How he ever came to Pocahontas is simply conjectural; but from the fact he he chose his place of rest near Mt. Zion, he must have had some acquaintance with parties that may have been in the army when he was.

This Revolutionary veteran, tho he exposed his life for independence, never owned any land and never married. Yet he wanted a home of his own, a place where he could lay his head and feel at home,—which was very commendable in him. He received permission of William Moore, son of Pennsylvania John Moore, to use without rent as much land as he might want for a cabin, garden, and "truck patch." He built himself a cozy cabin, opened up two or three acres where he produced corn, vegetables, and poultry. On this he subsisted, with the assistance of his pension and such wages as he could earn in harvesting and haying for the farmers on Knapp's Creek. This spot was on the place recently owned by Ralph Dilley, and now in the possession of William Moore, son of the late James C. Moore.

One of John Webb's favorite places to work in harvest and haymaking was at Isaac Moore's. At this period late in the teens of this century making hay was a long, tedious industry. One morning quite early as the hands gathered in the meadow, when Webb, to use his own expression, came up missing. It was surmised that he had worn off his "wire edge" on the hot sun day before and was about to give it up for the time being, and so the hands went to work. Between nine and ten o'clock they heard his jovial brogue in the direction of the apple cellar, and upon looking in that course Webb's head was seen, "red as a beet," peering over the comb of the cellar roof. He inquired in the most impassioned manner whether any one would like to have a "dhrink ave cither." It seems Webb knew where to look for the lost "wire edge," and had indulged his thirst until he was so much exhilerated as to climb the roof with nimble feet and willing hands and from his lofty perch invite others to share with his jovial comforts that he had been finding for the past hours in "dhrinkths ave cither."

This Revolutionary veteran had one of his arms very curiously tattooed between the wrist and elbow with the initials of his name and emblematic characters like anchors and arrows, whose significance was not known. This was done while he was in the army, and several other soldiers were tattooed at the same time. The chemicals used disabled them so much that a regimental order was issued prohibiting the practice. Tattooing seems to have been a fad among soldiers and sailors. If any thing should happen their personality might be identified and assistance obtained from some guild or fraternity. At least, this was the supposition. He never disclosed to any one what the characters symbolized; the initials of course could speak for themselves. It is commonly believed now that he served with the troops from Augusta County under General Mathews.

In the later years of his life John Webb was very piously inclined and was demonstrative of his religious emotions, and was long remembered as the life of many "good meetings" at old Mt. Zion, Frost, and elsewhere. He would frequently have "the jerks," which was such a feature in the revival services so common in the closing and opening years of the late and present centuries. As long as he lived he would always have a spasmodic jerk as he repeated the Amen, even when asking a blessing on his meals.

This phenomenon that characterized the religious services of most of the denominations a hundred years ago in Kentucky, Tennessee, and Virginia, has been attentively considered by mental experts as one of the curiosities of the emotional faculty of the human race. What surprises them in their investigations is to find some of the most pronounced examples of its influence among the Mohamedan Dervishes in the East and in the West it seems to have been the most striking feature in the Indian Ghost solemnities but a few years since. The Dervishes furiously deny the existence of the Holy Ghost, as a fiction of Christianity; and American Indians have never so much as heard that there is a Holy Ghost Max Nordau, an eminent Jewish scientist, thinks he has found the explanation to be a disease of the nervous system, that is so highly infectious as to sweep the whole round of humanity at recurring periods.

John Webb remained in his bachelor home until he became disabled by the infirmities of advanced age. Then it was the late Martin Dilley, of revered memory, took charge of the old veteran. He built a very comfortable cabin for his use in the yard near his own commodious dwelling and cared for him until the old soldier "fought his last battle" on the borders of the unseen world. This building is standing yet. His "silent tent" is in the Dilley graveyard on the line between the Andrew Dilley and John Dilley lands Here in this quiet spot unheeded o'er his sleeping dust the storms of life may beat in pitiless rage.

He will not always remain so however; for just as certain as Christ lives he is going to descend with a shout, the voice of the arch angel and the trump of God, and the dead in Christ will rise first. Then we who may be alive and remain unto the coming of the Lord will be caught up together with them in the clouds to meet the Lord in the air, and so shall we ever be with the Lord. Wherefore let us comfort one another with these words when we think of Martin Dilley and John Webb now resting in their lowly graves so near each other.

W. T. P.

LOST!

Have You Seen Him? $100,000.00 Reward, Dead or Alive.

A Lean Fat Boy With an Ingrowing Nail on His Romanesque Proboscis.

Green Bank, W. Va., March 31.—Missing from this place about the 6th of next month, 1893, a tall-complexioned young man about 5 feet 16 inches of age and in height about 37 yeors. He had on when last seen a pair of swallow tail seal skin trousers with wienerwurst stripes; double barrel frock coat lined with bean soup calico, and water tight canvass boots with patent-applied-for leather tops. He also wore a Mechanic's Delight Plug Hat and a crosseyed standup collar, and was accompanied by a dude dog with a split tongue and creases in its pants. The young man is badly pockmarked at the back of his head and has a slight impediment in his looks. He wore a Grecian Bend on his upper lip, which he often uses as recepticle for schooners and jerked tripe.

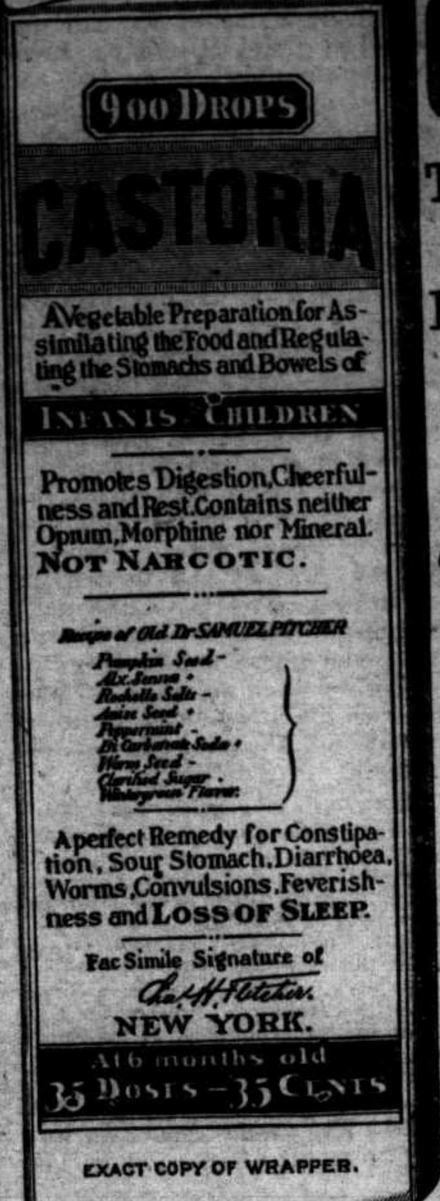
He carried an empty carpet box in one hand and a wooden bag in the other, the latter containing several screw steamers, three railroad tunnels, and four bungholes, and a safety razor marked "Dangerous." At first it was supposed he had walked off on his ear while laboring under a hypnotic or jimnastic spell because being born before his younger brother; and he furthermore claims that his mother was present when he himself was born.

His mind is easily influenced. When asked to take something at the bar he rarely refuses, and always drinks his liquor through a straw in order to take it straight—as he was the sole support of several pet theories advanced by his deceased grandfather.

When last heard from he was shoveling wind off of Eleber ridge at 5c a minute to supply vacancies in the atmosphere occasioned by Swecker's auctions. If said boy fails to comply with the above contract he will be tried before Billy B. Wooddell and prosecuted to the fullest extent of the law by Attorney J. L. Hudson, and afterwards rode on a rail to Point Look Out. Address all communications to detective C. L. Burner, Point Lookout, West Virginia.

Leather Medal Hustler.

The beard, mustache, and eyebrows may be made a desirable and uniform brown or black by an occasional application of Buckingham's Dye for the Whiskers.



900 DROPS
CASTORIA
A Vegetable Preparation for Assimilating the Food and Regulating the Stomachs and Bowels of INFANTS CHILDREN
Promotes Digestion, Cheerfulness and Rest. Contains neither Opium, Morphine nor Mineral.
NOT NARCOTIC.
Recipe of Old Dr SAMUEL PITCHER
Pumpkin Seed -
Alx. Senna +
Rochelle Salts -
Anise Seed +
Peppermint -
Bi Carbonate Soda +
Worm Seed -
Clarified Sugar .
Wintergreen Flavor.
A perfect Remedy for Constipation, Sour Stomach, Diarrhoea, Worms, Convulsions, Feverishness and LOSS OF SLEEP.
Fac Simile Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher.
NEW YORK.
At 6 months old
35 Doses – 35 Cents
EXACT COPY OF WRAPPER.

CASTORIA
The Kind You Have Always Bought, Bears the Fac-simile Signature
—of—
Chas. H. Fletcher.
ON THE WRAPPER OF EVERY BOTTLE.
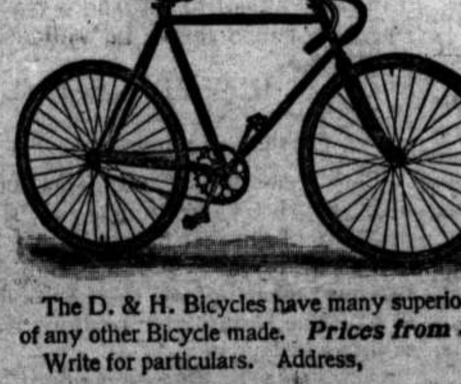
THE KIND YOU HAVE ALWAYS BOUGHT.
THE CENTAUR COMPANY, NEW YORK CITY.

The Osborne
SPRING-TOOTH HARROW.
The frames are made in one piece of steel angle bar, and formed to withstand all strain without buckling or warping. The teeth in this harrow are so spaced that they will not trail each other, Pulverizing the ground thoroughly. The steel pipe tooth bars are mounted in maleable boxes secured to the frame, and will not bend or break. The peculiar shape of the teeth curling twothirds about the bar gives the greatest amount of spring possible without straining the bolts, and because of their shape and fastening are stronger than used on any other harrow. By the levers the depth of work can be regulated while the harrow is in motion. The draft is steady and direct as the harrow has no side motion.
ALL THESE FEATURES COMBINED HAVE MADE THE OSBORNE CELEBRATED.
It has no EQUAL,—it never will have a SUPERIOR.
Call and examine the Osborne line consisting of—
BINDERS, MOWERS, RAKES, TEDDERS, HARROWS AND CULTIVATORS.
The most complete line of Farming Implements to be found in the State.
FOR SALE BY—
EAGLE & OTT,
Ronceverte, W. Va.



"the D. H." ROAD RACER
WEIGHT 21 POUNDS.
The Ideal Wheel for the Scorcher.
A WINNER
SURE TO PLEASE
WE are desirous of introducing the D. & H. Bicycles throughout the country and offer special inducements to agents and riders as a matter of introduction. Write for our Special Offer.
The D. & H. Bicycles have many superior points of excellence in advance of any other Bicycle made. Prices from $40.00 to $75.00.
Write for particulars. Address,
ADVT. DEPT. Budd Bros. Mfg. Co., Glens Falls, N. Y.
Special We have an offer. (Our Offer No. 2) for every School Teacher in the United States. Teachers write us quick.

FEED, LIVERY
—AND—
SALE STABLES.
First-Rate Teams and Saddle-Horses Provided.
☞ Horses for Sale and Hire. ☜
SPECIAL ACCOMODATIONS FOR STALLIONS.
A limited number of Horses boarde.
All persons having horses to trade are invited to call. Young horses broke to ride or work.
J. H. G. WILSON,
Marlinton W. Va.

DO YOU TRAVEL
Are you going to take a trip? Do you suffer from Severe Headaches, Nervousness, Seasickness or Exhaustion? Why not prevent it all by using CUSHMAN'S MENTHOL INHALER. Help that headache, cure that nervousness and seasickness by the use of this Inhaler, the greatest stimulant and preventative known. Wonderful relief in Hay Fever and Asthma. ☞ BUY CUSHMAN'S INHALER and you will always use it. If you can't get it at Druggists send for it. By mail, 50 cents. Send for Book on Menthol, free. CUSHMAN DRUG CO., VINCENNES, IND., U. S. A.

THE GREATEST BOOK OF THE AGE!
Should be in Every Home and Library.
The People's Bible History
Is written by Right Hon. William Ewart Gladstone, Ex-Premier of Great Britian and Ireland, Chester, Eng.; Rev. A. H. Sayce, Queen's College, Oxford, Eng.; Rev. Samuel Ives Curtiss, D.D., Chicago Theological Seminary, Chicago, Ill.; Rev. Frederic W. Farrar, D.D., F.R.S., Dean of Canterbury, Canterbury, Eng.; Rev. Elmer H. Capen, D.D., Tufts College, Somerville, Mass.; Rev. Frank W. Gunsaulus, D.D., Armour Institute, Chicago, Ill.; Rev. George F. Pentecost, D.D., Marylebone Presbyterian Church, London, Eng.; Rev. R. S. MacArthur, D.D., Calvary Baptist Church, New York City, N. Y.; Rev. Martyn Summerbell, D.D., Main Street Free Baptist Church, Lewiston, Me.; Rev. Frank M. Bristol, D.D., First Methodist Episcopal Church, Evanston, Ill.; Rev. W. T. Moore, LL.D., "The Christian Commonwealth," London, Eng.; Rev. Edward Everett Hale, D.D., South Congregational Church, Boston, Mass.; Rev. Joseph Agar Beet, D.D., Wesleyan College, Richmond, Eng.; Rev. Caspar Rene Gregory, Leipzig University, Leipzig, Germany; Rev. Wm. Cleaver Wilkinson, D.D., University of Chicago, Chicago, Ill.; Rev. Samuel Hart, D.D., Trinity College, Hartford, Conn.; Rev. J. Monro Gibson, D.D., St. John's Wood Presbyterian Church, London, Eng.; Rev. George C Lorimer, LL.D., The Temple, Boston, Mass.
POPULAR EDITION.—942 pages, 57 full-page illustrations, gilt edges, cloth, $4.00; half levant, $5.00; full levant, $6.00.
QUARTO EDITION.—1,200 pages, 200 full-page illustrations. Style A—gilt edges, full levant, one volume, $15.00; Style B—two volumes, full levant, tufted, $20.00; in 16 PARTS, quarto size, review questions to each, stiff paper covers, sewed, trimmed slightly, $1.00 each part.
For sale at all bookstores and by booksellers. For further information, write HENRY O. SHEPARD, Publisher, 212 and 214 Monroe Street, Chicago, Illinois.

CASTORIA.
The fac-simile signature of Chas. H. Fletcher is on every wrapper.

The Pocahontas Times.

Andrew & Norman Price, Owners. "Montani Semper Liberi!" Andrew Price, Editor
VOL. 15, NO. 37 MARLINTON, WEST VIRGINIA, APRIL 8, 1898. $1.00 PER YEAR

No. 083. Made in 54, 48, 42, 36 inch widths.

$2.25 buys this Brass-trimmed White Enameled Bedstead. In stock in all widths; length, 75 inches. It has one-inch pillars, two-inch brass vases and caps. This bed retails at from 5 to 6 dollars.

Buy of the maker and save the middleman's large profits. Our Catalogues are mailed for the asking. Complete lines of Furniture, Carpets, Draperies, Crockery, Pictures, Mirrors, Stoves, Refrigerators, Baby Carriages, Lamps, Bedding, etc., are contained in these books. Our Lithographed Carpet Catalogue showing all goods in hand-painted colors is also free; if Carpet Samples are wanted mail us 8c. in stamps. Drop a postal at once to the money-savers and remember that we pay freight this month on purchases of Carpets, Lace Curtains, Portiers and Rugs amounting to $9.00 and over.

Julius Hines & Son
BALTIMORE, MD.
Please mention this Paper.

LAW CARDS.

N. C. McNEIL,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

Will practice in the Courts of Pocahontas and adjoining counties and in the Court of Appeals of the State of West Virginia.

L. M. McCLINTIC,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

Will practice in the Courts of Pocahontas and adjoining counties and in the Supreme Court of Appeals.

H. S. RUCKER,
ATTY. AT LAW & NOTARY PUBLIC
HUNTERSVILLE, W. VA.

Will practice in the courts of Pocahontas county and in the Supreme Court of Appeals.

J. W. ARBUCKLE,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
LEWISBURG, W. VA.

Will practice in the courts of Greenbrier and Pocahontas counties. Prompt attention given to claims for collection in Pocahontas county.

W. A. BRATTON,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

Prompt and careful attention given to all legal business.

ANDREW PRICE,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

Will be found at Times Office.

SAM. B. SCOTT, JR.
LAWYER,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

All legal business will receive prompt attention.

H. M. LOCKRIDGE,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
HUNTERSVILLE, W. VA.

Prompt and careful attention given all legal work.

JOHN A. PRESTON FRED. WALLACE
PRESTON & WALLACE,
Attorneys at Law,
LEWISBURG, W. VA.

Will practice in the Courts of Greenbrier and adjoining counties, and in the Court of Appeals of the State of West Virginia.

PHYSICIANS' CARDS.

DR. O. J. CAMPBELL,
DENTIST.
MONTEREY, VA.

Will visit Pocahontas County at least twice a year. The exact date of his visit will appear in this paper.

DR. J. H. WEYMOUTH,
RESIDENT DENTIST,
ELKINS, W. VA.

Will visit Pocahontas County every spring and fall. The exact date of each visit will appear in The Times.

J. M. CUNNINGHAM, M. D.,
PHYSICIAN & SURGEON,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

Office next door to C. A. Yeager's Hotel. Residence opposite Hotel. All calls promptly answered.

$18. IMPROVED SINGER FREIGHT PREPAID.

For this style new high arm sewing machine with all attachments warranted 10 years. If machine is not satisfactory in 30 days money will be refunded. Send cash with order. Descriptive circular sent on application.

WHAYNE M'F'G CO.,
560 FOURTH AVE., LOUISVILLE, KY.

For The Pocahontas Times

The Treasure Trove.

IX

MRS CASEY remembered Harvey perfectly. He had called at her house the day he had been separated from Weston's father. She was the first one to give him news of what had happened. Her husband was a Southern sympathizer, tho' he was too old for active services. Besides he was a physician and it was absolutely necessary that he should stay at home and attend to his practice. At the time we speak of, a raid had been made into that neighborhood and several regiments of Union troops occupied a strong position on the turnpike, prepared to check the advance of any Confederate troops who might use that road. With such a force of troops present, the home guards disbanded, and went into hiding.

To fully understand the situation of the country, the reader must remember that in West Virginia, especially in the central sections, the people were divided against themselves. There were no courts and no law. The rule was very much like Rob Roy's, that those might take who had the power, and those might keep who could. It was still Virginia, and the section around Prattville, the majority of citizens sided with the South. The men who stayed at home were in a state of excitement and the worst passions showed themselves, and many terrible things happened because of the war, that were not of the war. The home guards were good to harass a luke-warm patriot when the regular soldiers were at a distance, but at the first sign of hostilities they crawled into the woods, and came in home at nights for some thing to eat. They belonged to the south because they said they did, not because they aided any particular cause.

On the side of the Union were those bands which necessarily arose when the police regulations of the States amounted to nothing. They were those who shunned regular service, and went in gangs, armed, and under the polite name of independent companies, but who never having been mustered in, could not after the war claim anything in the bountiful distribution of pension money. The regular armies found them in every locality. They moved in the border lands and did effective duty as scouts. In the absence of either army they kept up their quarrels with the home guards. A man was marked for death, and it was accomplished by lying in ambush and shooting him before he knew an enemy was near. They helped many a man to the kind of death mentioned in the following lines:

"With noiseless tread death comes on man,
No plea, no prayer delivers him;
From amidst busy life's unfinished plan,
With sudden hand it severs him;
And ready, or not ready, no delay,
Forth to his judges bar he must away."

Scouts, refugees and adventurers formed these companies, and there were deadly feuds between them and the home guards. They were on the order of desperate guerillas, young, active, adventurous.

The home guards were soldiers in a very mild and harmless form. They, too, were accused of "bushwhacking," but such violence was not often to be attributed to the home guards. The rebel bushwhacker was a criminal who killed by himself for the love of killing and plunder. The "swamp-dragons" as the independent companies were called, went in organized bands and had hiding places carefully concealed and guarded, until the presence of the army made them bold and they were sent about through the country as scouts to obtain whatever information might be useful to the commanding officers.

The events of that day in 1862, in which the carefully laid plans of the two cotton planters to get to Canada were frustrated became known after the war.

Lige Jacobs was the captain, or rather head-man, of the desperadoes, who had seized the opportunity of the war to act as they pleased with other people's lives and property. He was watching for signs of any advance on the part of a large force of Confederates who were camped forty miles south of the Federal forces. One evening he saw an officer in the Confederate uniform ride up to a farm house and dismount. His horse was put in the barn to be fed, and Jacobs got it out shortly after dark and rode it away. He collected a half-dozen of his men and lay near the road all night, in ambush for the young officer. In addition to the dispatches which the young man carried, Lige wanted his life, as he did every one who wore the uniform, and he hated all such enemies with the blind and unreasoning hatred of a savage.

Dawn beginning to show in the east, the men left their place of concealment in some low bush on the roadside, and went on a mile or so where the road wound round the base of a steep rocky mountain. On the top of a cliff the men lay down and waited. Soon after dawn the courier appeared in the distance. He had after a night's delay secured another horse. He came in a long swinging trot.

The morning sun was just tinting the tops of the hills. Jacob's command was that no one should fire but himself. With his long mountain rifle resting in the crevice between two great boulders, he felt the same thrill of excitement the hunter experiences who sees a deer coming for a long distance, straight to the muzzle of his gun. For fifty yards, Jacobs has had the gray coat in his rifle sights. As he comes closer he changes the aim to the head and when only a few yards from him, he gives a slight cough. The courier instantly stops, as does the deer at an unexpected noise, and the rifle in the hands of Lige Jacobs rings out with a sharp report on the morning air. Jacobs, who could "center" a shot at that distance, has found the mark an easy one. The form of a man lies in the road, shot through the temple, and the riderless horse gallops back to its home in an hour; the owner remarks gloomily that Lige Jacobs has been at his work again, but does not investigate.

The group of men rifle the body. They look for the dispatches and find them. Having come prepared the body is carried some distance into the woods and buried, every shred of clothing having been taken. The gang then reach their horses and start to ride into camp, where they will make a report to the Colonel, in their simple, unvarnished way, and the Colonel will think what innocent unsophisticated boys these are. They have made him believe that they are as honest as the day is long. He feels like he ought to tell them that they might help their horses to a feed from some rich farmer's crib, whether they have the money or not, but desists.

As they are speeding swiftly, they meet the young cotton planter riding a mule. They hustle him along with them. In five or six miles they turn up a grassy hollow and arrive at the home of one of the bush-whackers. The horses are fed here and the woman cooks them some fat meat and corn bread. Jacobs had been exercising his ingenuity to give a satisfactory account of how he had got the dispatches without getting the man. He attempted that before, and he had to lie as he had never lied before when the officers at headquarters, who all had a profound conviction that he had bush whacked his man and robbed him at leisure, cross-examined him at great length. He was indisposed to risk such another soul searching experience, even with the guileless old Colonel at camp who though him such a good, honest scout. When he captured the stranger on a mule, he saw a safe way out of the dilemma. He made him put on the clothes of the murdered officer, and carried him triumphantly in as a prisoner of war, and delivered the dispatches.

Harvey came to the home of the Casey's that evening. Doctor Casey had been out hiding the horses. Mrs Casey told him of having seen such a man as he described riding by with some of Lige Jacob's gang. There was no telling what they had done or would do with him. Mrs Casey remembered that Harvey had spent a year or two in that neighborhood, but did not know what had become him. While he was pursuing his inquiries, Weston spent most of his time at the widow Casey's. It was not remarkable that he became an inmate of the family by simply walking up to the house one evening on a matter of business. He was in a country where a man might ride up to stay all night and make it his home for years.

(To be Continued.)

NEW YORK NEWS LETTER.

THE Kentucky and Kearsarge were launched March 24 at Newport News, Va. The Kentucky was christened by Governor Bradley's daughter with a bottle of pure spring water, but before she reached the sea the superstitious sailors and the majority of the 500 Kentuckians present broke hundreds of pint-bottles of prime old Kentucky whiskey over her bows.

⁂

Lieut. Jenkins' body has been recovered. It will be sent to Key West. This brave fellow could have escaped but he lingered in hope of securing important papers. He did his duty. Will the murder of the 257 brave American sailors and 2 officers ever be avenged?

⁂

Two Maine hunters were trampled to death by an infuriated moose. Both skulls were fractured and the skin stripped off of their faces. A bull moose is a terrible animal when cornered and fights to the death.

⁂

A well-known society woman in New York has tired of fashionable life and has started a typewriter office. She has made a success, business increasing to such an extent that four assistants are necessary. Her name is Elizabeth Markoe Marquand, and she is a very wealthy and religious woman. May others follow in her footsteps.

⁂

Madison Square Garden this afternoon and evening (March 25) will be the scene of the "Journal's' Grand Carnival of Sports, gotten up for the benefit of the Maine Monument fund, Over 3000 have volunteered their services. John L. Sullivan, who fought every body for 12 years hand-running, will speak for three minutes on Spain. Jimmy Michael, the great bicycle rider, will ride a record-breaking race. Bob Fitzsimmons will give an exhibition in bag-punching. Yousouf, the Turk, wrestling champion of Europe, will wrestle with the American wrestler Ernest Roeber. Col W. F. Cody, (Buffalo Bill) will ride. In fact every notable in the sporting line will be on deck to help swell the fund. In the evening Pain, the world-famous fireworks man, will set off set pieces, sky rockets, Roman candles, colored fire, etc., etc., from the roof of the Garden. But he will eclipse anything he has ever done in a pyrotechnic way, at the conclusion of his fireworks display, in the shape of the battle-ship Maine. The Garden holds thousands and the receipts will be very large. Price of admission for afternoon is 50c. In the evening a trifle higher.

⁂

A thief, while trying to effect his escape on the house-tops the other day, fell down an air-shaft to the distance of 8 stories on to a stone pavement and was killed instantly. It is needless to say that the policeman who was chasing him did not follow, but came down the usual way by the stairs.

⁂

John L. Sullivan in his latest speech among other things said: "Spain could not lick a postage stamp." GEORGE M. SANGSTER.

BIOGRAPHIC NOTES.

John McLaughlin—Pioneer of Jacksons River.

FOR the past seventy-five or eighty years the McLaughlin name has been a familiar one among our people. For this reason the relationship so long identified with our county history deserves special mention therefor. This relationship may be considered in groups as it is so numerous and widely distributed and derived from a varied tho related ancestry.

John McLaughlin, the ancestor of several Pocahontas families of that name, was a native of Ireland, and settled on Jackson's River, seven or eight miles south of Monterey, and was one of the pioneer settlers of that vicinity previously to the Revolution. The lands he settled were lately in possession of his son, John McLaughlin, Jr.

His family consisted of six sons and five daughters. In reference to these persons the following particulars have been mainly learned from Mrs Morgan Grimes, one of the descendants by the third or fourth remove.

Margaret McLaughlin became Mrs William Carpenter and lived on Deer Creek, near Green Bank.

Nancy McLaughlin was married to John Carpenter and lived on Thomas Creek, near Dunmore, where Peter Carpenter now lives.

Jane McLaughlin became Mrs Alexander Benson, and settled in Illinois.

Mary McLaughlin was married to John Beverage and lived on Straight Creek near Monterey.

Susan McLaughlin became Mrs Kyle Holcomb, and went to West Virginia.

Abigail was married to Thomas Galford and lived near Dunmore on lands lately owned by J. Hervey Curry, Esq.

Major Daniel McLaughlin upon his marriage with Mary Carpenter, settled on Deer Creek, opening lands now held by the Oliver brothers. In reference to his family the following particulars are in hand:

His son, the late David McLaughlin, married Jane Wanless, daughter of William Wanless on Back Alleghany, and settled on lands lately occupied by his sons Joseph and James. [Special mention of this family in the Wanless sketch.]

Abigail became Mrs A. Jackson Moore, on Back Alleghany.

Mary Elizabeth was married to George Sutton and lived near Green Bank.

John M. McLaughlin married Mary Jane Moore, daughter of W. D. Moore on Elk. John was a Confederate soldier, taken prisoner, and died at Camp Chase, Ohio.

Margaret Jane was married to Morgan Grimes, Esq., and lives near Mount Zion in the Hills.

Major Daniel McLaughlin was much respected. He was a very hard working man and almost wore himself out clearing lands. He was a major of the militia and was a fine-looking officer on the parades that came off annually.

Hugh McLaughlin, of John the Irish immigrant, married Sally Grimes, daughter of Arthur, of Felix Grimes the pioneer. He lived near Huntersville on lands now owned by Dr Patterson and J. J. Beard. Mrs Mary Hogsett, J. A. McLaughlin, on Brown's creek, and Lieut James Hickman McLaughlin, a Confederate officer who perished in the war, were his children. He was a popular and prominent citizen.

Samuel McLaughlin, another son of John the early Jackson River settler, married a Miss Wright and lived on Jackson's River. There were two children, Mary Jane who was married to Martin Sharp and lives on little Back Creek, near Mt. Grove. H. P. McLaughlin married Alcinda Bird, daughter of the late George Bird, Esq., Valley Centre, Va. He lives on Brown's Creek, near Huntersville. He was a Confederate soldier. Our readers have seen some of his letters in The Times describing the dangers, privations, and hardshtps that a true soldier had to endure in the war between the States.

Robert McLaughlin, another son of John the pioneer, died in early manhood. He is reported to have been a young man of much promise.

James McLaughlin settled in Illinois soon after his marriage. His wife's name is not remembered. He was enthused by the gold excitement of 1849 and crossed the plains to California in search of wealth. He was in a measure successful. It may be said too to his credit he was not so very hard to satisfy, and so he returned to his family and settled in Missouri.

John McLaughlin, Jr., married Sally Hamilton and spent his days at the homestead on Jackson's River, Highland County. His children were Ewing, Ada, Sally, and Letcher.

John McLaughlin was widely known for his jovial ways and amusing expressions, and was also somewhat eccentric in his ideas. When about to be overcome by disease and the infirmaties of an advanced age, he pointed out a spot overlooking his dwelling that is well-nigh inaccesssible and gave positive orders to have his body buried there. He seemed to abhor the idea of being trampled upon and appeared to feel that his head would be secure from such indignity if he could have his grave in a spot almost impossible to reach, and so steep that erect posture would be impracticable. It was his boast that when he was alive he generally came out "on top," and so he seemed to wish to be on top when not alive.

His friends saw to it that his wishes should be complied with to the very letter. A more unique burial scene never witnessed in that region. The pall-bearers on their knees and holding to the bushes and rocks with one hand and the coffin handles with the other, and the procession following on all fours, compose a scene the like of which may never be witnessed while the world stands. Here an illustration of the ruling passion strong in death.

We close this paper hoping ere long to prepare one or two more in illustrating the McLaughlin relationship. W. T. P.

Drs. Maybe and Mustbe.

You choose the old doctor before the young one. Why? Because you don't want to entrust your life in inexperienced hands. True, the young doctor may be experienced. But the old doctor must be. You take no chances with Dr. Maybe, when Dr. Mustbe is in reach. Same with medicines as with medicine makers — the long-tried remedy has your confidence. You prefer experience to experiment — when you are concerned. The new remedy may be good — but let somebody else prove it. The old remedy must be good — judged on its record of cures. Just one more reason for choosing AYER'S Sarsaparilla in preference to any other. It has been the standard household sarsaparilla for half a century. Its record inspires confidence — 50 years of cures. If others may be good, Ayer's Sarsaparilla must be. You take no chances when you take AYER'S Sarsaparilla.

How Men Regard the Oft-Engaged Girl.—Edward W. Bok writes of the importance of the betrothal with characteristic force and earnestness in the April Ladies' Home Journal. An engagement to marry he considers one of the most serious compacts in life, as sacred as marriage, and only the most extraordinary circumstances would warrant its being broken. Only one other agency—alcohol—is responsible for more broken hearts and wrecked lives than broken betrothals. Mr Bok frankly says that a man looks upon an oft-engaged girl as he does upon a peach with much of the bloom rubbed off.

BALD heads are becoming too frequent among the middle aged. This can be prevented by the timely use of Hall's Vegetable Sicilian Hair Renewer.

THE West Virginia University now has the highest enrollment ever made in its history.

Anglo-Saxon Union.

The London Mail, under the caption of "A Voice from the West," prints a poem by Alfred Austin, the Poet Laureate, which is based on the idea of co-operation between Great Britain and the United States.

"What is the voice I hear
On the wind of the Western sea?
Sentinel, listen from out Cape Clear,
And say what the voice may be.
'Tis a proud, free people calling loud
To a people proud and free.

"And it says to them, Kinsmen, hail,
We severed have been too long;
Now let us have done with the wornout tale,
A tale of an ancient wrong,
And our friendship last long as love doth last
And be stronger than death is strong.

"Answer them, sons of the self-same race,
And blood of the self-same clan,
Let us speak with each other face to face
And answer as man to man,
And loyally love and trust each other
As none but free men can.

"Now fling them out to the breeze—
Shamrock, thistle and rose,
And the Star-Spangled Banner unfurl with these,
A message to friends and foes,
Wherever the sails of peace are seen,
And wherever the war wind blows.

"A message to bond and thrall to wake
For wherever we come, we twain,
The throne of the tyrant shall rock and quake,
And his menace be void and vain,
For you are the lords of a strong young land,
And we are lords of the main."

Deafness Cannot be Cured.

by local applications, as they can not reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube gets inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed deafness is the result, and unless the inflamation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give one hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.
F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O.
Sold by Druggists, 75c
Hall's Family Pills are the best.

FOREST and STREAM

THE SPORTSMAN'S JOURNAL.

Travel Fishing The Dog Adventure Nature Trap and Hunting Yachting Target Camping Canoeing Shooting

FOREST AND STREAM illustrated journal, devoted to the sports of the field and the encouraging in men and women of a healthy interest in outdoor recreation.

Weekly, 32 pages; $4 per year; $2 for six months; 10 cents a copy. Sample free.

We are the largest American publishers of works on outdoor sports. Send for our free illustrated catalog of books.

Forest and Strerm Publishing Co.
346 Broadway, New York.

THE GREATEST BOOK OF THE AGE!
Should be in Every Home and Library.

The People's Bible History

Is written by Right Hon. William Ewart Gladstone, Ex-Premier of Great Britain and Ireland; [illegible]

The Pocahontas Times,

Hear, Land o' Cakes and brither Scots,
Frae Maidenkirk to Johnny Groats,
If there's a hole in a' your coats,
I rede ye tent it;
A chiel's amang you takin' notes,
An' faith he'll prent it. —Burns

Local Events.

THE Mutual Telephone Company of Ronceverte has elected officers, selected its phone, and will build the line from Marlinton to Union in the near future.

COL LEVI GAY brought his cattle home from Rockbridge the other day. He will continue to rent his farm there to be farmed on the shares.

WAGONERS have been delayed on account of high waters in Back Creek and Jacksons River. If Bath had the enterprise of Pocahontas these streams would be bridged at once.

THE new preacher for the Huntersville circuit is Mr Anderson. Rev B. L. Parrott goes to Linganore. Rev Eavey is returned to the Green Bank Circuit and Rev J. H. Dills to The Levels.

DON'T shut your eyes to the saving opportunities that greet you on every hand. Among our bargains we will sell you a 12 inch cake of good castile soap for 5c.

L. D. SHARP.

NOTE the advertisement of Hudg ns and Shackelford in this issue. These gentlemen are in the carriage and harness business in Ronceverte and constitute a thoroughly reliable firm.

JOHN N. ADKISON, of Buckeye, has no more corn to sell at present. Lately he inserted advertisement in The Times one time, and the result was numerous orders, most of them directly tracable to it

BOYD BARTLETT attended the Addison Court. The trial of Ledford Bartlett for shooting was continued until August on account of necessary witnesses from Pocahontas who could not attend, being summoned to their home court.

J. D. PULLINS & Co., propose to meet competion at every point. Witness a varied and elegant line dry goods, notions and general merchandise. The largest and best assortment of ladies shirtwaists in Pocahontas County.

To illustrate how much earlier the season was on his farm on the river than on the mountain, an old gentlemen of the county is fond of saying, "Why, the hen eggs down here on the river are as big in March as they are on the mountain in June."

HANNAH & HARPER, of Frost advertise great reductions in price of goods until the 15th of April,—a bargain sale in fact. If you see a thing in The Times its so—most always—and the proprietors of this paper vouch for the truth and genuineness of this offer. Investigate.

CALVIN W. PRICE, of this place, has received from a breeder in Columbus, Ohio, a pair of thoroughbred chickens, Light Brahmas. The roosters of this breed average twelve pounds and the hens ten pounds at maturity. The pair cost at Marlinton $6.50. To quote Bill Nye they are heavy draft chickens.

OUR popular assessor started to the railroad last week a three horse and mule team to get his books for assessing this year. At Back Creek the ford was deep and he was unfortunate in losing his two leaders in the middle of the stream. At Jacksons River he lost his two wheel horses. He got his team together and made a successful trip.

LATELY several of our correspondents have been indiscreet in their remarks, and we would say to them not to write any thing that they will regret when they are older, wiser, or better informed. We wish we could say that we had followed this rule, even tolerably closely. News letters are made up largely of personalities and they should be pleasant. Try not to hurt any body's feelings. Fire at those who have tough hides.

THE attorneys from a distance attending this court are, Hon C. P. Jones, S. B. Sieg, and E. H. McClintic, Monterey; John W. Stephenson, and William M. McAllister, Warm Springs; Col R. S. Turk, Staunton; Henry Gilmor, H. Van Sickler and Fred Wallace, of Lewisburg. The court will probably adjourn by Friday. The first day of Court was a very bad day. The crowd gathered in the hallways of the court-house and talked business and politics.

THERE is some talk of an application to start a bar-room at this place. The man proposes that he will enter into a bond with the county court to discontinue his business any time in the year they see fit to rescind the permission to sell intoxicating liquors. We do not believe in the traffic, but we cannot blind our eyes to the fact that the law is violated on a general scale, and the code of ethics among the customers is so adhered to that they will not give evidence against the sellers. For this reason we have grave doubts on the subject. There is much to be said in favor of a well conducted barroom for this sole reason. The problem is too deep for us to solve. We only know that both are evils greatly to be deplored.

PERSONAL MENTION.

Ligon Marshall, a medical student, has returned from Baltimore.

Hon M. J. Cook, a Republican candidate for Congress, is in town. He hails from Hinton.

Hon C. P. Jones has recently been made the presiding officer of the board of visitors of the University of Virginia.

Sheriff E. M. Arbogast, of Highland, is in Marlinton. He has recently cleared several thousand dollars handling mountain land in this county.

R. D. Herold, of Kiowa, Kansas, who left this county about twelve years ago, came back to attend to some business matters at our April Court. He is a successful merchant.

T. S. McNeel, of Mill Point, a recent graduate of the University of Virginia law department, has been in Marlinton for several weeks preparing his legal matters for April Court. His friends here will be sorry to learn that he does not intend to locate in his native county, but has in view Clay Court-house. He will go there before the May Court to determine finally whether he will chose that as his field of practice.

Is the Sunday School Degenerating?

Sunday school was begun at the church last Sunday. The prospects are good for interesting pleasant sessions of the same during the summer.

Edward W. Bok, a well-known social scientist, in the Ladies' Home Journal writes at length about the Sunday school. He says the movement is degenerating, is half dead; and that the great need is for cultured, magnetic men and women as teachers, especial care being used to fill the responsible office of superintendent. The Advocate, Richmond, prefers to think that the Sunday school is half alive and growing in usefulness; that the officers generally are earnest men, and while confessing imperfection, they do their best.

It is certain that in rural communities, where preaching service is rare, the attendance of Sunday school largely prevents idle visiting and conversation on the Sabbath,—if nothing more. Not so long ago the lesson consisted in teaching childred to spell words of three letters from McGugey's old blue back. Now Sunday school literature is prepared with the most painstaking care along lines of modern Christian thought.

The Dickey in Front.

The Marlinton stores have on exhibition an article of apparel which afforded Charles Dickens infinite delight in ridiculing. It appears under the name of the economical shirt-bosom, but is nothing more nor less that the "dickey' of Dickens' time. The object of this invention is to replace the shirt-bosom when it becomes soiled, and to prolong the life of a shirt four or five weeks between washings. It strikes a deadly blow at the laundryman. When they were in use before an amusing affair occurred at a meeting in western Pocahontas.

A young swell attended preaching on a hot summer day. At the end of the services his sweetheart accepted his company home, but his hated rival, who was bigger and stronger than he, brought him into disrepute. He ran up behind him and stripped off his coat and vest and the people saw that he had on no shirt or undershirt, but the starchiest of economical shirt-bosoms was held in place by an ingenious arrangement of twine.

That was about the last appearance of the "dicky" until they turned up again this spring.

A Pocahontas Wildcat.

The largest wildcat ever seen in Pocahontas County was killed on Douthard's Creek recently by R. H. Warren and George Dunkel, two noted hunters of Cumberland Valley, Penn. As related by them the cat was from six to eight feet long and fought desperately in the capture, killing two dogs, and had to be shot thirteen times with a 44-60 Winchester before it was dead. The killing of this cat rids the neighborhood of a great nuisance, as it has been known, it is said, to have killed and carried off one-year-old steers. The captors relate a thrilling tale about the capture; one of them stating the cat had great long whiskers, just like Captain McCormic's. We do not vouch for the truth of this story, but simply relate it as it was told Captain A. E. Smith by the celebrated hunters, whose well-known reputation for veracity (?) will convince all our readers of the truthfulness of the story.

An Invitation.

THANKS to those who have called since our last invitation through The Times. We have had a rush, which we enjoy. Now, we extend the invitation indefinitely, hoping to have many callers and that our dealings may be agreeable and profitable. We, on our part, promise to do our best to give you good value for the money you spend with us. Come in while at Court. Yours, for bargains in high grade Saddle and Harness goods,

THE MARLINTON SADDLE & HARNESS COMPANY,
G. F. Crummett, manager.

MAIL CARRIER DROWNED.

Unacquainted With the Dangerous Suck of the Ford Below Mt. Grove, He ventured in and His Feeble Mail-Horse Was Swept Over the Falls Below the Ford.

A tragic story of the drowning of a mail-boy comes from Mt, Grove. Frank Coyner, a youth of twenty, came from Parkersburg to carry the mail on the route between Mt Grove and Warm Springs, a distance of thirteen miles. He made daily trips leaving Mt Grove in the morning and returning there in the evening. He crossed two swift, dangerous streams in going and returning, Back Creek and Jackson's River. Back Creek could well be dignified by the name of river as it is nearly as large as Jacksons River.

There had been a heavy rain Monday night, and on Tuesday, March 29th, he left his boarding place with every prospect of high waters to cross. He placed a letter he had written home behind the clock, remarking that if he did not get back the people could write to his father that he had found a watery grave. This was not an unnatural remark under the circumstances.

He made the trip and had got back to the ford on Back Creek, two miles below Mt Grove, where he was drowned. There were no witnesses of the accident.

Tuesday evening John Landes, who lives near the ford, went there for the express purpose of warning the mail boy that the creek was dangerous, knowing that he was a stranger in the country. He got there a few minutes too late. When he arrived at the ford he saw below it some distance a horse on an island near the shore with its foot hung in the bridle. He waded in and brought it out. He recognized the horse and took it to Mt Grove, where it was surmised in all probability the mail carrier was drowned. A party went there immediately but no trace of the body could be discovered. Mike O'Farrel who was riding a powerful horse attempted to cross but was obliged to return.

The ford is at the lower end of an eddy, and immediately below the water dashes down a steep declivity forming frightful rapids. When the stream is high the water appears smooth above, but in reality it has a terrible suck. The mail-boy rode a weak horse which was tired from its long journey.

The fate of the boy was known when the party reached John Darnell's house situated about a mile below the ford. His daughter was watching the rising waters and saw the mail-bag float by. She ran to the house with the news and returned in time to see the body of the unfortunate boy. First a hand was thrust high above the surface of the water, and then the knee appeared.

A large party searched the creek for the body and found it Friday. First the overcoat, then a boot, and then a vest were found. The mail-bag was lodged in a drift-heap two miles below the ford. The mail was damaged but the letters were readable. A postal card received by the writer which had been submerged shows little sign of damage. It was nothing like our Lewisburg mail in ordinary wet weather. The first two days the searchers did not go down the stream far enough, but on Friday at a point nearly three miles below the ford they found the body on the rocks on the edge of the stream.

In all probability the boy's foot hung in the stirrup and this would account for the body floating at a considerable distance behind the mail-bag. Also for the fact that the overcoat, coat, vest and boot were stripped off. The stream runs with almost incredible swiftness from the ford to the place the body was found. It is in the gap where Back Creek breaks through the mountain to flow into Jacksons River.

Railroad Matters.

A change has been made in the plans of the rail road engineers. Instead of starting at the forks of the river and surveying down to Marlinton, the corps, with Captain Bartholemew at the head, will arrive at Marlinton Thursday or Friday and survey from this point to Ronceverte.

B. M. Yeager sent teams from Travelers Repose to Beverly this week for the purpose of bringing in the engineers and these teams will come on to Marlinton.

William Siple, John Yeager and Emery Smith have been engaged to work on the survey.

There have been numerous reports printed lately concerning the work being done on the Fredericksburg extension of the Chesapeake & Western. The contractor recently bought 200.000 ties. The object of this road is to reach the coal fields of West Virginia, and will cross Pocahontas from east to west.

Primary Election.

The Executive Committee of the Democratic party met in a full session April 5th. It was decided to hold a primary election June 4th, 1898, and a convention June Court to nominate delegates to district convention. Full call next week.

Roller and burr flour for sale at A. B. McComb's Huntersville.

J. W. Beard & Bro.

HUNTERSVILLE.

William Irvine, of Marlinton, was in town Friday on business.

The Sunday School was reorganized here Sunday.

Col D. A. Fisher was on Knapps Creek on business last Saturday.

Henry Malcomb, who was taken suddenly ill several days ago, is able to be around again.

George Buzzard, who has been working in the Webster lumber camps, came in Sunday.

Dr Harry Beard, of Lewisburg, is spending a few days with his parents, Mr and Mrs J. J. Beard.

Considerable rain and snow have fallen lately, and farming has come to a stand still. Mud is plentiful.

Any person desiring to know what became of the man in the hearse who was selling Hite's Pain Killer, can call on A. B. McComb and he will gladly give the desired information.

The case of Lanty McCarty vs Henry Gum was heard before Squire Grose last Saturday. After hearing the evidence and argument the Justice decided in favor of the defendant. H. M. Lockridge represented the plaintiff and H. S. Rucker the defendant.

Messrs J. Willis Baxter and G. R. Curry, of Academy; L. M. McClintic, W. A. Bratton, S B. Scott, N. C. McNeil Uriah Bird, A. E. Smith, and Dr Cunningham, of Marlinton; I. B. Moore, L. W. Herold and D. B. McElwee. of Knapps Creek, and D. T. McNeil, of Buckeye, were welcome visitors at our town last week.

Our esteemed fellow townsman, George W. Ginger, is adding very much to the value and appearance of his property on Main Street. He has been engaged for the last month building a picket fence in front of his residence, and has nearly finished putting in the posts. He is very anxious to complete it this season. O. E. McKeever says the reason the work has not progressed more rapidly is because Mr Ginger had some trouble in borrowing the necessary tools. Do not be discouraged, George, as you may yet finish your fence before Capt Apperson completes his job of sawing for John Grogg in Hickory hollow.

Everybody is talking of war.

ALFRED.

A Heartfelt Tribute.

One of the finest meals we have eaten this side of Philadelphia lately, we took at T. T. Hodges', last Tuesday. Talk about clever people and good livers, but no people ever lived who can make you feel more at home than you will feel in the (valley of plenty) home of T. T. Hodges.—Calhoun Chronicle.

Verily the editor of the Chronicle chronicles his downsittings and his uprisings. The writer has often felt like proclaiming the excellence of a friend's cuisine, but we did not for we were not able to convey all we felt. If the editor of the Chronicle were to come to Pocahontas and visit around for a few weeks he would have his hands full for his experience would give him three realistic, luscious, throbbing locals a day.

Notice to Tax-Payers.

Notice is hereby given to all pesons who owe back taxes that I shall expect them to settle them in full, at my office in the Court House, at the April Term of Court. These taxes are all past due and the tax year is drawing to a close. I cannot afford to let the taxes of one year run over to be collected in the next.

R. W. HILL, S. P. C.

HILLSBORO.

C. L. Clark is having a well drilled this week.

Mr Vineland, of Texas, was in this community last week.

H. W. McNeel's sheep sale was very well attended last Saturday.

Rev W. E. Miller preached at the M. E. Church Sunday evening.

L. C. Hill, of Frankford, spent a few days with friends and relatives in this county last week.

John McLaughlin, of Marlinton, was a caller in the Levels Sunday.

C. K. Moore, of the Hills, is in our section for a few weeks.

Ligon Marshall is the guest of E. I. Holt.

J. A. Argabrite, of Asbury, was in this section over Sunday and bought a fine Hereford bull from J. S. McNeel.

A. M. Oliver is here again. He comes this way every once and a while.

BUMBLEBEE.

EYE TEST.

Should be Read at 15 Inches.

[illegible]

I have a first-class optician's outfit, such as eye specialists use, and am prepared to examine eyes and adjust glasses in a satisfactory manner.

J. M. CUNNINGHAM, M D

C. B. SWECKER,
General Auctioneer and Real Estate Agent.

I sell Coal, Mineral and Timber Lands. Farms and Town Lots a specialty. 21 years in the business. Correspondence solicited Reference furnished.

Postoffice—Dunmore, W. Va., or Alexander, W. Va.

The Great War.

We have won success by our ability to demonstrate our bargain claims; we guarantee the smallest of our patrons the same courteous attention given the largest.

We are taking great pains in buying our

Spring and Summer Stock of Goods...

And all bargains will be shared with our customers.

We keep goods moving by keeping goods that move;—we test every value our prices do the rest. Its not a question of opinion, its a rock-ribbed fact that our prices can not be successfully cut under. Don't scatter your dollars unwisely; concentrate them here and save more of them.

It is shrewd and well directed effort that makes our bargains unusual. Our PRICES PUZZLE COMPETITORS AND DELIGHT PURCHASERS.

Thanking you for your past patronage, we remain
Yours respectfully,

L D Sharp.
Linwood W. Va.

The Levels News.

Edited by Payne Bros.

Vol. 1 Academy, W. Va., April 8, 1898. No. 12

Market, April 7, 1898.

- —Eggs 8½c per dozen.
- —Butter 16⅔c per pound.
- —Lard 8c per lb.
- —Corn 65c per bushel.
- —Wheat 90c per bushel.
- —Oats 40c per bushel.
- —Hams 10c per lb.
- —Side Bacon 9c.
- —Shoulder 8c.
- —Beans $1 per bushel.
- —Beeswax 25c per lb.

—AT PAYNE BROS.

—Sheep Dip at Payne's.

—A. M Hubbard and Mr Holmes were in town Tuesday night.

—Tar in quarts and ½ gal. cans at Payne Bros.

—Nearly all our merchants were at Court on Tuesday.

—Rev W. E. Miller preached Sunday evening in the Methodist church.

—Chairs, Bedsteads Dressers, Safes, and Mattresses at Payne's very cheap.

—Payne has a few Overcoats and Winter Suits to close out at cost. Call and see.

—Langman and Martinez Pure Mixed Paints at Payne Bros. The best paint ever offered to the trade.

—Rev W. T. Price assisted Dr Sydenstricker in his communion services Sunday in the Presbyterian church.

—Seed Oats at Payne Bros.

—Dynamite and caps at Payne's.

—Lake Herring and Mackerel at Payne Bros.

—Clover and Timothy seed at Payne Bros.

—Sash and Doors and Building Paper at Payne Bros.

—Excelsior Cook Stoves and Repairs at Payne Bros.

—Send orders to Payne Bros. for Brick, as they are going to burn 200,000 as soon as the weather will permit.

SALT: $2 A SACK.
AT PAYNE BROS.

Best grades of Roller Flour at

J. H. DOYLE'S,
Huntersville, W. V.
G. L. HANNAH'S,
Yelk, W. Va.
BARLOW & MOORE'S,
Edray, W. Va.
J. H. CURRY'S,
Green Bank, W. Va.
R. L. NOTTINGHAM'S,
Dunmore, W. Va.

Hungry Muscles

have to be fed. Give them rich, pure blood and they glow with health; give them poor blood and they do not recuperate—exercise does not refresh you. If you are worn out, nervous or feeble, there is one thing that will aid you—pure, rich blood. There is but one way to gain it—

Johnston's Sarsaparilla

QUART BOTTLES.

For thirty years it has stood at the head; THE remedy for poor blood. Quart bottles, $1.00 a bottle. Begin this day to give your muscles good food.

WILLIAMS, DAVIS, BROOKS & CO., Detroit, Mich.

Try Liverettes the Famous Little Liver Pills. 25c.

For sale by—
URIAH BIRD, Marlinton, W. Va.; and A. BARLOW, Huntersville

Attention, FARMERS.

We will be at Court this week with a full line of

Farming Implements,

and be prepared to give you unheare of bargains in Hay Rakes, (of any pattern), Wagons, Cultivators, Section Grinders, and the celebrated McCORMICK BINDERS, New Vertical Mowers, in fact everything to make you happy.

J. W. Beard & Bro.

Great Bargain Sale!

of

Store Goods -- at Frost, W. Va.

To Cash Buyers

From this Date to April 15th, 1898.

We do not ask you to buy our goods at auction. But come to our store with your cash, where you can examine what you buy, and we will insure you great bargains.

We must have money to buy our Spring and Summer stock.

Yours for Fair Dealing,

Hannah & Harper.

Plow Repairs

We have at last succeeded in making arrangements to supply points for the RONCEVERTE PLOW. Full stock now on hand. Send in our orders early. . . .

We are Factory Agents for IMPERIAL and SILVER STEEL Plows.

(The Best Hill-side Plow on the Market.)

Simms & Co.,
Opp. Passenger Depot, RONCEVERTE, W. Va.

The Pocahontas Times,

Hear, Land o' Cakes and brither Scots,
Frae Maidenkirk to Johnny Groats,
If there's a hole in a' your coats,
I rede ye tent it;
A chiel's amang you takin' notes,
An' faith he'll prent it.—BURNS

Local Events.

Roller and burr flour for sale at A. B. McComb's Huntersville.
J. W. Beard & Bro.

D. L. ANDERSON has returned from a month's visit to the Warm Springs. He is much improved, having fattened up while there.

VERY special attention is invited to the Millinery Stock at MRS CUNNINGHAM'S, which is replete with the newest and prettiest ideas.

MRS CUNNINGHAM can furnish you with all kinds of fashionable dress trimmings, including fine laces, velvets, silks, ribbons, chiffons and the latest gimps.

DRS CUNNINGHAM and Price went to Buckeye Tuesday to amputate Mrs Jonathan McNeil's arm. She is afflicted with cancer and the physicians, though acceding to the wish of her and her friends, consider the operation hopeless.

THE Mutual Telephone company of Ronceverte is simply organized for the town and does not contemplate extending a line to Marlinton. The telephone from Mingo, we understand, is to be completed to this point at once, and from here it is to be extended to Green Bank.

THE dogs of this town have become a great nuisance. A man can not walk the principal street without being bayed by them in great numbers. They have also ruined the nervous constitutions of a number of worthy cows. Last week poison was put out and a number of them ate it, but only one died. We may add that he was the only decent dog in the place. The reason is he belonged to the writer. The rest are worthless curs.

Messrs A. C. and Frank Nickel, agents for Monarch bicycles, have been in town with a line of wheels. This wheel represents the acme of bicycle construction, and the beautiful samples are the admiration of all who have seen them. They have made a few sales and have other deals in sight. They expect to return to Pocahontas about the middle of next month to deliver purchases. The Monarch is a little high in price, as compared to "cheap" wheels, but it is also high quality.

IF you pay too much for goods you are throwing your money away. The majority of merchants don't want close buyers. They'd rather draw trade on the friendship basis because there is more profit in it and less trouble. I only want the very closest buyers. A few prices which are a sample of what can be found here at any time: Nice Crepon latest effects, worth 12½c, only 6¾c per yard. A nice line of ribbed black hose 5c per pair, worth 10c. At the GOLDEN store.

THE case of A. M. McLaughlin vs John T. McGraw and others in the Supreme Court has been reversed. The points of error sustained are that the bill did not set out the subsequent conveyances of the land with sufficient fullness and was therefore demerrable and that is was error to decree a sale of the part still remaining in the hands of the original vendee without ascertaining fully the facts concerning subsequent conveyances when this residue was clearly insufficient to pay the unpaid purchase money.

A CITIZEN near Marlinton was put to considerable extra trouble recently through ignorance of express office customs. He received a card from the agent at Hot Springs that an express package awaited him. The card had the usual printed instructions to present at the office, tho very seldom is this rule complied with. In the hurry of departing he forgot the card which was to be the open sesame, and had gone to Mt Grove when he returned in the dead of night, 15 miles, for the precious cardboard.

The ghost scare at George Lewis' in the Levels, which was reported in the Greenbrier Independent last week, was told some men in the court-house by Chet Rogers who is as firm a believer in ghosts as he is in litigation. We do not hesitate to say that there may have been a ghost there at that time, but before we take any stock in it, we require proof that the whole business was not gotten up expressly for Chet's benefit. Chet was relating the horrors of that night, the snarling and groaning, the gleaming tusks and the shaking of the house, and it was plain to be seen he believed every word of it. There was a ventriloquist in the crowd that heard him. One of the party remarked that a man could be heard behind the tower door of the court house at times. The ventriloquist, Mr Maxim, the McCormick Machine Agent, caught on at once. He walked over near the door and the sound of a man's voice could be heard plainly, and Chet was given a brand new sensation while he waited.

They're Off.

The new railroad survey started in near Dave Anderson's abode and ran a bee line to the point of the hil at the cabin in the McClintic bottom, crossing the Creek at an angle. The corps came up to start the survey. Mr Bartholemew the chief engineer is an elderly gentlemen, with gray hair and mustache, and was stepping around as lively as a cricket. Mr Gray, of Richmond, is the engineer in charge of the field work, and has all the glory of the transit.

The work progressed very rapidly through the open fields of the town. First the axmen made a lot of stakes and they were numbered, the chain, a ribbon of steel, was run out its full length from the transit, and the front rodsmen holds his red and white staff until he is in line, and then stake no. 1 is driven, and they carry the chain on in a straight line and set stakes every hundred feet, as far as the engineer can see through the magnificent telescope, on top of the transit. Then in the parlance of survey they "give him a hub." The engineer carries his instrument forward and levels it up by the hub, which is a broad headed stake driven level with the ground with a tack in the exact center.

At the second hub, Mr Gray, who is a tall, stoop shouldered man, with a very commanding voice, was working his crew in front of him, waving his arms and getting the stakes in with great expedition. The hands were nearly all new men, and there was a sort of nervous eagerness to get every thing done promptly. Shortly the front rod chainman came to the brink of Knapps Creek, which had a four foot flood in it. Here he hesitated. The engineer waved him on. They asked him to have a hub. He pointedly refused. The word came along the line for him to go on. The boy looked at the stream as if he had a desperate notion to wade it, but finally decided that it could n't be done, and the engineer was finally persuaded to have a hub.

Taking one he decided to have another, and, looking at the creek, muttered an explanation that he couldn't tell whether it was too high to wade or not. From the two he got the angle to the third on the other side of the stream. The party crossed in a big wagon and on horseback, and disappeared in the direction of Ronceverte.

By very careful work the track was run through the heart of this city striking but two buildings, Mart McDowell's barber shop and an old barn.

The Railroad Surveying Corps.

The engineer's outfit arrived last Saturday, and went into camp at the mouth of Swago. They expected to start from Marlinton Monday morning, but the heavy rain prevented them.

The corps consists of seventeen men. The greater number of them are Pocahontas boys. John Yeager has charge of the lock level, Ligon Marshall front chainman, Emery Smith rear chainman, and William Siple and Willy Gatewood are axemen. Brown McLaughlin measures from the stakes set a certain distance to either side. Jim Kirkpatrick, a very popular young man, who has been working in Marlinton for some time, is cook.

It must be very expensive work making a survey of this kind. It was necessary to buy a new camping out fit to make this svrvey. It cost over $800 and took five wagons to bring it here from Beverly. The men sleep in tents on good mattresses. The cook has received instructions to have breakfast at six and supper at six. They live on the best that can be obtained from the farm houses and stores.

The survey started down the east bank of the river and it is a matter of considerable conjecture as to where they will cross the river.

Republican Mass Meeting.

The Republican Executive Committee met the first day of Court at N. C. McNeil's office. Committeemen present were S. B. Moore E. A. Smith, W. H. Dilley, William Gibson, Jr., C. B. Grimes, J. W. Grimes, and W. B. Hill. N. C. McNeil being absent, W. B. Hill was appointed temporary chairman

To fill vacancies in Committee: George W. McCarty and Phil Edmiston.

E. A. Smith and S. B. Moore were appointed as sub Committee to confer with N. C. McNeel as to time and place of holding massmeeting, at which time delegates to the Congressional Convention will be appointed. Adjourned to meet first day of June Court.

J. W. GRIMES, Secretary.

Church Notes.

A Sunday-school will be organized at the Huntersville Presbyterian church next Sabbath morning April 17 at 9½ o'clock.

Rev M. T. Turner will preach at Huntersville Friday, April 15, at 7 30 p. m. At Clover Lick Sunday April 18, at 11 30 a. m. At Hillsboro, Monday, April 18 at at 7 30 p. m.

Misses Maude Yeager and Daisy Yeager have been elected President and first Vice-President respectively of the Epworth League chapter 1738 at Marlinton. The League meets regularly every Sunday evening.

COURT INCIDENTS.

No one has been able to remember a term of the court when as many as four convicts were sent to the penetentiary from this county before. Three confessed and Wilfong was tried.

* *

There were thirty-three indictments returned by the grand-jury. Four of these were for felony. The others were for minor offenses, directly or indirectly connected with liquor.

* *

The famous divorce case of Cochran vs Cochran was called up on the question of suit money to be provided the defendant, Mrs Cochran. An order was entered requiring the plaintiff to pay to the defendant the sum of $75, on the penalty of having his suit dismissed.

* *

Charles Beverage, the witness of last court, who refused to divulge the name of the man of whom he bought moonshine whiskey, and who was let out on his own recognizance to come back and testify, again refused in his quixotic manner to give evidence, and the Judge sent him to jail for an indefinite length of time, and adjourned court without releasing him or fixing his sentence.

* *

The school money case heard under the caption of B. M. Yeager vs J. H. Buzzard et als has resolved itself into a right bitter fight between the securities of J. C. Arbogast for the term of '91 and '92, and his last term. The question seemed to hinge on the question of the solvency of J. C. Arbogast July 1, 1893, when the fiscal year of his last term began. The case was recommitted to the commissioners to settle several important items of account.

* *

A large amount of chancery orders were entered. One case which has been pending for five years or so was finally disposed of. It was the case of O. S. Wilson & Bro. vs C. A. Yeager et als, concerning the selling of the hotel property at Marlinton, belonging to Mrs C. A. Yeager, for debts contracted by her husband while engaged in the logging business in Tucker County. The court decided that the hotel was the seperate property of Mrs Yeager, and not responsible for her husband's debts.

* *

Rev John H. Ratliff, accused of stealing a horse, came into court with his head held high in the air, and thanked the Judge most sincerely for the two years that were given him. Elmer Jackson and Ervine Houdyschell both went up for two and one years. Wilfong elected to be tried and was defended by McNeil and Scott. His defense was that he had bought the horse, and, by a strange co-incidence, Ervine Houdyschell a fellow prisoner, had happened along the road at that time and saw the whole occurrence. Rev John H. Ratliff was called, and he testified that he had heard them concocting the story in the jail. The jury seemed to have no difficulty in finding him guilty, and a motion to set aside the verdict was denied, and he was sentenced a term of three years.

BUCKEYE.

Some sickness in this part at this time.

Miss Lula Auldridge was at home on a visit Sunday.

Wilson Courtney seems to have some attraction in this part.

A. S. and U. S. McNeil will start with their families to Webster this week.

T. M. Auldridge says he will have to move his new barn before the railroad can be built.

Died: At his home, on Friday, April 8, Jacob Simmons, after a long sickness.

Matthew Hall, of White Sulphur, has moved to W. McClintic's farm, and will have charge of it this summer.

ONE WHO KNOWS.

CLOVER CREEK.

We have not seen N. W. Courtney on the Creek for a long time.

Philip Kramer has fine lot of lambs.

Messrs Woods Dilley, G. C. Geiger and J. C. Price have been putting up a fine lot of fence.

Amos Wooddell has been losing a great many lambs by foxes and wildcats.

Messrs Dudley, Dice and Myers have moved their cattle from Augusta County to their grazing farms.

Some of the boys have come home from the lumber camps and report times as tolerably good in Webster.

For Sale.

Livery Stable and dwelling house located at the East End of Marlinton, W. Va., including, rolling stock if desired. For further particulars apply to
J. H. G. WILSON,
Proprietor.

HUNTERSVILLE.

G. W. Ginger is on the sick list.

L. W. Herold is off to Staunton on a business trip this week.

Dr J. B. and H. M. Lockridge are in Cincinnatti this week on business.

Rev M. T. Turner will preach in the Presbyterian church Friday at 7-30 P. M.

Mrs William Cole, of Brown's Mountain, who has been sick for some time, is no better.

N. J. Brown, of Mill Point, was in this neighborhood buying cattle last week.

C. B. Swecker and Cris MacLaughlin, of Dunmore, were in town Sunday.

Messrs R. S. Turk, of Staunton; J. W. Stephenson and son, and W. M. McAllister, of Warm Springs, were in town Friday.

We are called upon to announce the death of one of our most valued citizens, in the person of Mr J. J. Beard, who died this morning at 11 o'clock.

Col David Ruckman, of Agusta County, accompanied by Wise Herold, was in our [illegible] one day last week on his way to the Marlinton Court.

Messrs Pyle, traveling for a tobacco firm; Coyle and Gardner, representing a shoe firm, and U. S. Ward, representing M. F. Crawford, Baltimore, were guests at the Huntersville Hotel last week.

Miss Lucy Kincaid and Frank Mann, of Marlinton; Reece Pritchard, of Dunmore; John and William Van Buren, of Anthony's Creek attended the funeral services here Sunday.

George Dunkle, of Driscol, who mashed his finger some weeks ago, has just received a draft from the United States Benevolent Society for $75. He has been a member of the society for some time. H. M Lockridge is the agent and secretary of tne society in this county. This company is very prompt in paying its members for loss of time occasioned by sickness or accident.

Mrs Mattie Ann, wife of J. W. Loury, died last Saturday, and was buried in the Huntersville cemetary Sunday at 4 P. M. Over two hundred people attended the funeral. The pall bearers were H. P. Patterson, Howard Barlow, Isaac Barlow, Elihu Moore, Paul Crummett, and Charles McLaughlin.

ALFRED.

DRY BRANCH.

Mrs E. J. Brady is on the sick-list.

J. T. Sharp feels ten years younger—It is a girl.

Weymouth Conrad rows his boat up the Branch.

Willie McCloud has engaged all the tobacco plants around.

Everett, dont get discouraged; coon is plentiful yet.

Junior says there is lode stone at the mouth of the Branch, but it is farther up as he goes that way.

BOBOLINK.

EYE TEST.

Should be Read at 15 Inches.

Defects of eyesight requiring correction by the use of spectacles are purely mechanical, and can be so corrected by the proper adjustment of perfectly made lenses that their effects will be entirely obviated. This print should be read easily at fifteen inches from the eye. If you cannot do so you should wear spectacles. It does not pay to buy cheap spectacles. They distort the rays of light, disturb the angles of vision, cause pain and discomfort and injure the eyesight. When it is necessary to hold work or reading matter farther than fifteen inches from the eyes in order to see distinctly, it is a sure sign of failing vision, and much annoyance, discomfort or pain will be prevented by having a pair of glasses fitted.

I have a first-class optician's outfit, such as eye specialists use, and am prepared to examine eyes and adjust glasses in a satisfactory manner.

J. M. CUNNINGHAM, M D

DILLEYS MILL.

James Reed has moved to the Hively farm.

G. E. Moore has closed his school and gone to Hillsboro.

A. W. Fertig made a flying trip to Huntersville.

H. M. Lockridge was a caller in this part lately.

We have had an Easter storm, and lots of March weather. The farmers are very much behind in their work.

The Mt Zion Sunday school was organized Sunday, and will meet again the first Sunday in May. Rev Adamson will preach immediately after Sunday school.

We hope for better things than war, but we think the President wise in the steps he has taken, and will be very willing to submit to his judgement.

J. W. Grimes and Miss Lura Moore started to Washington Monday, where they will be married. After a few days in Washington and other parts, they will return to their future home, near Dilley's Mill.

YOURS FOR SUCCESS.

FROST.

T. J. Williams, who has been drumming, is at home again.

We have heard nothing more about the war. If Slick Hammer wants war, let him go to 'Cuba.'

Harry Gwinn seems to be assistant post master at this place.

Rev Adamson preached an able sermon at this place Sundsy.

U. P. Sharp is blacksmithing here.

It seems that Swecker's blankets were taken by mistake.

The Frost Football Team has concluded not to play Oak Grove any more.

POMPY.

The Great War.

We have won success by our ability to demonstrate our bargain claims; we guarantee the smallest of our patrons the same courteous attention given the largest.

We are taking great pains in buying our
Spring and Summer Stock of Goods...
And all bargains will be shared with our customers.

We keep goods moving by keeping goods that move;—we test every value—our prices do the rest. Its not a question of opinion, its a rock-ribbed fact that our prices can not be successfully cut under. Don't scatter your dollars unwisely; concentrate them here and save more of them.

It is shrewd and well directed effort that makes our bargains unusual. Our PRICES PUZZLE COMPETITORS AND DELIGHT PURCHASERS.

Thanking you for your past patronage, we remain
Yours respectfully,
L D Sharp.
Linwood W. Va.

The Levels News.

Edited by Payne Bros.

Vol. 1 Academy, W. Va., April 15, 1898. No. 13

Market, April 11, 1898.

—Eggs 8½c per dozen.
—Butter 16⅔c per pound.
—Lard 8c per lb.
—Corn 65c per bushel.
—Wheat 90c per bushel.
—Oats 40c per bushel.
—Hams 10c per lb.
—Side Bacon 9c.
—Shoulder 8c.
—Beans $1 per bushel.
—Beeswax 25c per lb.
—Tallow 6c lb.

—AT PAYNE BROS.

—Judge J. M. McWhorter spent Sunday here.

—Fred Wallace, of Lewisburg, is visiting relatives.

—25,000 Shaved Shingles at Payne Bros.

—An Easter gift to W. A. Eskridge—a girl.

—Pure Sugar Syrup at Payne Bros at 40c per gallon. Pure Apple Vinegar 30c gallon.

—Mr Ellis McCarty left last Monday for Frost with a load of flour for Payne Bros.

—Messrs Phil and Harry Renick, of Falling Springs, spent Sunday night with R. W. Hill, Esq. They are looking for cattle.

—Fine lot of Cutlery just received at Payne Bros. Examine their Table Cutlery. Also pocket Knives and Razors, and see for yourself.

—Wagon Tire at Payne Bros.

—Sheep Dip at Payne's.

—Sash and Doors and Building Paper at Payne Bros.

—Excelsior Cook Stoves and Repairs at Payne Bros.

..Clover and Timothy Seed still on sale at Payne's.

—Tar in quarts and ½ gal. cans at Payne Bros.

—Langman and Martinez Pure Mixed Paints at Payne Bros. The best paint ever offered to the trade.

SALT: $2 A SACK.
AT PAYNE BROS.

Best grades of Roller Flour at

J. H. DOYLE'S,
Huntersville, W V.
G. L. HANNAH'S,
Yelk, W. Va.
BARLOW & MOORE'S,
Edray, W. Va.
J. H. CURRY'S,
Green Bank, W. Va.
R. L. NOTTINGHAM'S,
Dunmore, W. Va.
HANNAH & HARPER, Frost

Hungry Muscles

have to be fed. Give them rich, pure blood and they glow with health; give them poor blood and they do not recuperate—exercise does not refresh you. If you are worn out, nervous or feeble, there is one thing that will aid you—pure, rich blood. There is but one way to gain it—

Johnston's Sarsaparilla
QUART BOTTLES.

For thirty years it has stood at the head; THE remedy for poor blood. Quart bottles, $1.00 a bottle. Begin this day to give your muscles good food.

WILLIAMS, DAVIS, BROOKS & CO., Detroit, Mich.

Try Liverettes the Famous Little Liver Pills, 25c.

For sale by—
URIAH BIRD, Marlinton, W. Va.; and A. BARLOW, Huntersville

War Declared!

We have declared war, relentless war, on high prices. We have adopted an aggressive policy and the fight will be carried into the enemy's lines. We have got the name of saving our customers money and mean to keep it up.

Good Muslin	6c
Good Shirting	8c
Straw Matting	10c
Fast Black Hose	5c
2 Papers Pins	5c
A Good Summer Lap Robe	45c
Table Oil Cloth	20c
Ladies' Shirt Waists Set	10c
A Plain White Bed Quilt, Extra Sizes	70c
Frank Siddall's Soap	7c
Ladies Vests	5c

Our whole stock in same proportion.
Terms made to suit.

J. D. Pullin & Co.

Great Bargain Sale!
of
Store Goods - - at Frost, W. Va.
To Cash Buyers
From this Date to April 15th, 1898.

We do not ask you to buy our goods at auction. But come to our store with your cash, where you can examine what you buy, and we will insure you great bargains. We must have money to buy our Spring and Summer stock.

Yours for Fair Dealing,
Hannah & Harper.

Plow Repairs

We have at last succeeded in making arrangements to supply points for the RONCEVERTE PLOW. Full stock now on hand. Send in our orders early. . . .

We are Factory Agents
for IMPERIAL and SILVERSTEEL
Plows.

(The Best Hillside Plow on the Market.)

Simms & Co.,
Opp. Passenger Depot, RONCEVERTE, W. Va.

THE COURTS.

Circuit Court convenes on the first Tuesday in April, third Tuesday in June, and first Tuesday in October.

County Court convenes on the first Tuesday in January, March, and the fourth Tuesday of June and September—June is levy.

County Directory

Judge	J. M. McWhorter
Pros. Attorney	L. M. McClintic
Sheriff	R. W. Hill
Clerk County Court	S. L. Brown
Clerk Circuit Court	J. H. Patterson
Assessor	J. H. Buzzard
Com'rs. Co. Ct.	Amos Barlow C. E. Beard J R Warwick
Surveyor	George Baxter
Coroner	George P.

Board of Health—Dr J. V Price, L. M. McClintic, M. J. McNeel, R. W. Hill.

Justices—Uriah Bird, Marlinton; A. C. L. Gatewood, Linwood; P. D. Arbogast, Green Bank; W. H. Grose, Huntersville; G. R. Curry, Academy; T. A. Bruffey, Lobelia.

HOW TO FIND OUT.

Fill a bottle or common glass with your water and let it stand twenty four hours: a sediment or settling indicates an unhealthy condition of the kidneys; if it stains your linen it is evidence of kidney trouble; too frequent desire to pass it or pain in the back is also convincing proof that the kidneys and bladder are out of order.

What to Do.

There is comfort in the knowledge so often expressed, that Dr. Kilmer's Swamp Root, the great kidney remedy fulfills every wish in relieving pain in the back, kidneys, liver bladder and every part of the urinary passages. It corrects inability to hold urin and scalding pain in passing it, or bad effects following the use liquor, beer, or wine, and over comes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to get up many times during the night to urinate. The mild and extraordinary effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases. If you need a medicine you should have the best. Sold by druggists, price fifty cents and one dollar. You may have a sample bottle and pamphlet both sent free by mail, upon receipt of three two-cent stamps to cover cost of postage on the bottle. Mention The Times and send your address to Dr Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. The proprietors guarantee the genuineness of this offer.

YOUR FORTUNE

is your health. Your happiness is your strength. Keep the Head and Throat clear and healthy and your mind and brain is always at rest and ease. CUSHMAN'S MENTHOL INHALER is the greatest relief to mankind in all head troubles. CURES COLDS, SORE THROAT, CATARRH. That awful odor of Catarrh disappears by its use. Wonderful in Hay Fever and Asthma. ☞BUY ONLY CUSHMAN'S. If you can't get it at Druggists send for it. By mail, 50 cents. Send for Book on Menthol, free. CUSHMAN DRUG CO., VINCENNES, IND., U. S. A.

R·I·P·A·N·S

Packed Without Glass.
TEN FOR FIVE CENTS.

This special form of Ripans Tabules is prepared from the original prescription, but more economically put up for the purpose of meeting the universal modern demand for a low price.

DIRECTIONS.—Take one at meal or bed time or whenever you feel poorly. Swallow it whole, with or without a mouthful of water.

They cure all stomach troubles; banish pain; induce sleep; prolong life. An invaluable tonic. Best Spring Medicine. No matter what's the matter, one will do you good. One gives relief—a cure will result if directions are followed.

The five-cent packages are not yet to be had of all dealers, although it is probable that almost any druggist will obtain a supply when requested by a customer to do so; but in any case a single carton, containing ten tabules, will be sent, postage paid, to any address for five cents in stamps, forwarded to the Ripans Chemical Co., No. 10 Spruce St., New York. Until the goods are thoroughly introduced to the trade, agents and peddlers will be supplied at a price which will allow them a fair margin of profit, viz.: 1 dozen cartons for 40 cents—by mail 45 cents. 12 dozen (144 cartons) for $4.32—by mail for $4.82. 5 gross (720 cartons) for $20.52. 25 gross (3,600 cartons) for $100. Cash with the order in every case, and freight or express charges at the buyer's cost.

50 YEARS' EXPERIENCE

PATENTS

TRADE MARKS
DESIGNS
COPYRIGHTS &c.

Anyone sending a sketch and description may quickly ascertain our opinion free whether an invention is probably patentable. Communications strictly confidential. Handbook on Patents sent free. Oldest agency for securing patents.

Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice, without charge, in the Scientific American.

A handsomely illustrated weekly. Largest circulation of any scientific journal. Terms, $3 a year; four months, $1. Sold by all newsdealers.

MUNN & Co. 361 Broadway, New York
Branch Office, 625 F St., Washington, D. C.

CASTORIA

For Infants and Children.

The fac-simile signature of Chas H. Fletcher is on every wrapper.

No-To-Bac for Fifty Cents.

Guaranteed tobacco habit cure, makes weak men strong, blood pure. 50c, $1. All druggists.

$1 50 Per Day

A few energetic Ladies and gentlemen wanted to canvass. Above salary guaranteed. Call or address:

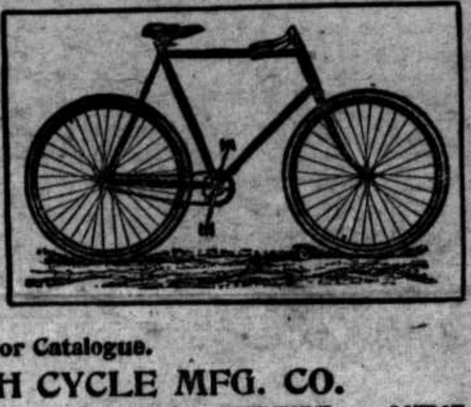
C. C. CRICKARD.
4t Crickard, W. Va.

To Cure Constipation Forever.

Take Cascarets Candy Cathartic. 10c or 25c. If C. C. C. fail to cure, druggists refund money

"All the World Loves a Winner"

Monarch Bicycles are the Supreme Result of our Years of Experience



Send for Catalogue.
MONARCH CYCLE MFG. CO.
CHICAGO NEW YORK LONDON

Send nine two-cent stamps for a deck of Monarch Playing Cards, illustrating Lillian Russell, Tom Monarch Cooper, Lee Richardson and Walter Jones. Regular 50c cards.

The Fifty Dollar Tribune,

THE BEST WHEEL FOR THE PRICE IN THE WORLD.

Don't Think of Buying Until You Have Seen It.

The Famous Blue Streak,

FASTER THAN EVER.

Write for Catalog.

The BLACK Mf'g. Co.,
Erie, Pa.

CANDY CATHARTIC
Cascarets
CURE CONSTIPATION
REGULATE THE LIVER
10c 25c 50c ALL DRUGGISTS

Winchester MEANS PERFECTION WHEN APPLIED TO REPEATING RIFLES SHOT-GUNS SINGLE-SHOT RIFLES AND ALL KINDS OF AMMUNITION

Pronounced by Experts the Standard of the World.
Ask your dealer for WINCHESTER make of Gun or Ammunition and take no other.
FREE:—Our new Illustrated Catalogue.
WINCHESTER REPEATING ARMS CO., New Haven, Ct.

Direct from Mill to Wearer, Which Saves you 4 Big Profits.
The Commission House. The Wholesaler The Jobber and Store Keeper.
E. ROSENBURGER & CO. 202-204 E. 102nd St., NEW YORK CITY

$5.00 SUIT or $2.98
Our Great Bargain Offer!
BOYS' ADONIS SUITS, WITH EXTRA PAIR OF PANTS.

$22 IRISH FRIEZE MEN'S ULSTERS $10.7
Largest Value ever Offered.

JUST THINK OF IT!
A CUSTOM MADE TO ORDER
$14.00 MAN'S SACK SUIT For $6.98

BIOGRAPHIC NOTES.

Second Part—McLaughlin Family Biographies.

The second group of the McLaughlin relationship trace their ancestry to two brothers and two sisters of that name who settled in Pocahontas early in the century. How near the relationship is, the writer has not the requisite information. William and John McLaughlin and their sisters Jennie and Nancy are the persons remembered as the ancestry of the second group.

William McLaughlin married Nancy Wylie, head of Jacksons River, Bath, and settled on Thomas Creek, near Dunmore. His lands are now held by his sons Hugh and Robert. Mrs McLaughlin died a few years since at a very advanced age, of a cancerous affection. She is remembered as a faithful and devoted nurse of her sick neighbors, and her services were held in high appreciation in times when there were no physicians convenient. She and her neighbor Elizabeth McCutcheon were sisters of charity in the best sense of the word. Sheep saffron was their main dependence in cases of measles. They were fully posted in the virtues of herb remedies.

In reference to William MacLaughlin's family, we have the following details: His daughter Jane was married to John Hiner—second wife and lives on Jacksons River.

Rachel became Mrs Jacob Beverage and lives on the Old Field Fork of Elk.

Elizabeth married James Townsend and lived on Back Alleghany near Driftwood.

Hugh McLaughlin married Nancy Ratcliffe and livs on a section of the Thomas Creek homestead. Their children are Mary Alice Davis, a well-known teacher of public schools; Lena Arnold Lee, also a teacher and now Mrs William Deputy; William Andrew Gatewood, Jacob Renick Cassell, Brown Galford, Muscoe Hamilton, John Letcher, Minnie Belle (lately deceased), Annie, Charle, and Lola.

Robert McLaughlin was married twice and lives on a section of the old homestead. His first marriage was with Minta Rusmisell. Her children were Nebraska, Melissa, Lovie, Christopher, Catherine, Bertha, Lawrence, Cameron, and Russell. The second marriage was with Lydia Rusmisell. Her children are Elmer, Joseph, and Annie. These ladies were cousins and were from near Moscow, Augusta County, Virginia.

Nancy, McLaughlin, one of the ancestral sisters, became the wife of Jacob Cassell, senior, and lived on the Greenbrier at the Cassell Fording, four miles west of Green Bank. Full particulars of Mrs Cassell's family were given in the Cassell sketches.

Jennie McLaughlin, the other ancestral sister, was married to John Galford and lived near Glade Hill on property now owned by Frank Patterson, Esq. John, Allan, Thomas, and James Galford were her four sons. Her daughter Nancy Galford became Mrs John Kilpatrick and lived in Highland. Naomi Galford died in early youth. Margaret Galford went to Barbour County, W. Virginia, and married there.

John McLaughlin, one of the ancestral brothers, married Clarissa Gregory and settled on the Greenbiier at the place recently owned by the late Allan Galford, Esq., mouth of Deer Creek. Their children were John, James, Elizabeth, and Nancy. Elizabeth was married to Harvey Ratcliffe and went to Lewis County. Nancy became Mrs Henry Higgins, and lived near Clover Lick. John married Sidney Carpenter and settled on the homestead. James married Miss Nottingham and migrated to the West.

Thus far we have been able to trace something of the history of a relationship that has furnished our county with some faithful schoolteachers, patriotic citizens, and good soldiers in the Confederate cause. Hugh McLaughlin was wounded during the war, and suffers yet from the effects. Jacob McLaughlin died in the war. Our readers have seen one or more of his letters.

He is to be remembered as one of the noblest young men that was sacrificed in the cruel war. His bravery and good moral character reflected great honor upon his country and kindred. He made the best use of his limited opportunities for improvement in heart and mind, and succeeded so well that wherever he went and became acquainted people would make the remark: They say that Pocahontas is in the backwoods, but if there are many young men raised up in it liks young Jake McLaughlin it will be in the front woods the first thing people will know.

Nothing is more cheering and inspiring than to see young men overcoming difficulties, rising superior to their surroundings, deaf to taunts and ridicule, not afraid to do right but perfect cowards as to doing wrong. In the presence of God Jacob McLaughlin was as humble as a little child, but as a man among men no one held himself higher, and so he had their confidence and respect. W. T. P.

Trustee's Sale.

Pursuant to a deed of trust made on the 12th day of July, 1897, by John T McGraw to the undersigned trustee, and recorded in the Clerk's office of the county court of Pocahontas County, in Deed Book No. 27, page 432, to secure the payment of two certain notes each for $2·33 33 negotiable and payable at the People's National Bank, of Charlottesville, Virginia with 6 per cent interest from July 12, 1897, until paid to Samuel B. Woods, and costs of executing the said deed, and default having been made in the payment of the first of said notes, and being required by the said beneficiary, Samuel Woods, the undersigned trustee will on the

7TH DAY OF MAY, 1898,

between the hours of ten o'clock A. M. and four o'clock P. M., at the front door of the court house of Pocahontas County, West Virginia, in the town of Marlinton, proceed to sell at public auction to the highest bidder the land conveyed in said deed of trust, comprising a tract of 1000 acres of land situated in said Pocahontas County, lying on the east side of the West Fork of Greenbrier River, and bounded as follows:

Beginning at two maples, cherry, beech, and yew pine, on the east bank of the Greenbrier River, and with the old line S 78½ E 812 poles to two pines and a beech in a hollow on the west side of the divide between the west branch and Little River, 5½ poles to the north of a blazed line, S 24 55 M W 204 to a beech, witnessed by two yew pines and two beeches on a north hillside corner to the other 1000 acres of the Slaughter land, sold Craig & Upton, the same leaving the old line N 78½ W 852 poles, at 133 poles crosses the top of the divide at 210 poles passes two marked sugar trees by a small spring or drain, 235 poles crosses a north eastern branch of Paul's Lick Run, at 360 poles passes a large marked cherry on top of a spur of Paul's Lick Ridge, at 433 crosses the northwestern fork of Paul's Lick Run, at 563 poles passes a marked birch on top of a spur of Paul's Lick Ridge, at 663 poles crosses Paul's Lick Run about six poles above the Mud Lick, at 745 poles crosses the top of the north spur of Hunter's Camp Ridge, to two maples witnessed by two birches on the east bank of the west fork of the river, thence up the river with its meanderings to the beginning. It being that tract of land conveyed to John T. McGraw by Samuel B. Woods and wife by deed bearing date on the 12th day of July, 1897, and recorded in the clerk's office of the county court of Pocahontas County West Virginia, in Deed Book No. 27, page 445.

Terms of Sale: Cash

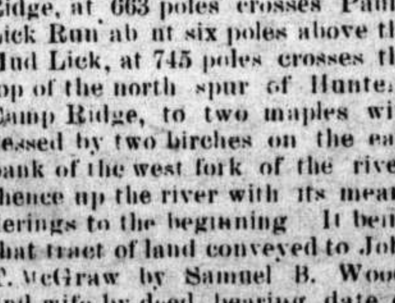
Given under my hand this 12th day of March, 1898.

JAMES MORGAN, Trustee.

Don't Tobacco Spit and Smoke Your Life Away.

To quit tobacco easily and forever, be magnetic, full of life, nerve and vigor, take No-To-Bac, the wonder-worker, that makes weak men strong. All druggists, 50c or $1. Cure guaranteed. Booklet and sample free. Address Sterling Remedy Co., Chicago or New York

We Make WHEELS, Too!



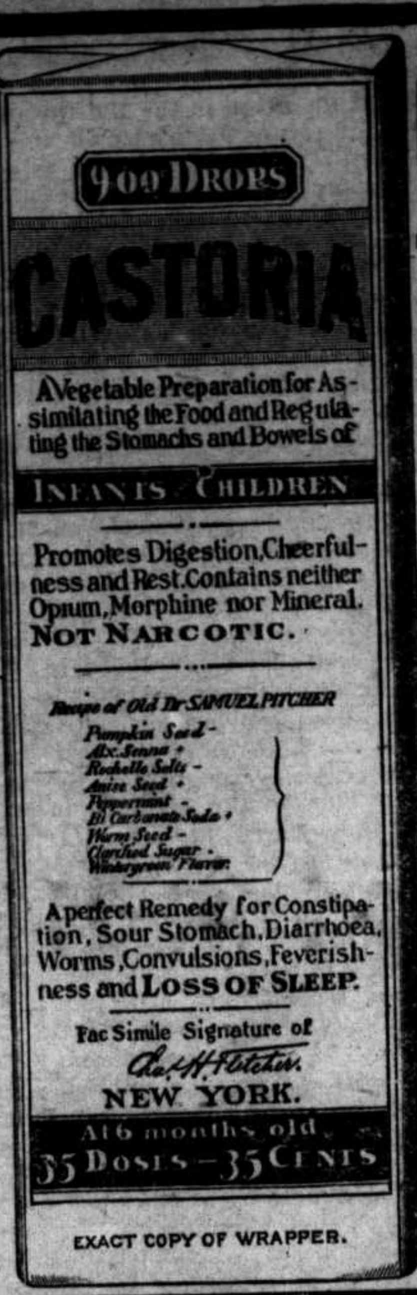
MILLER RODE ONE 2093 MILES IN 132 HOURS

The Eldredge
$50.00

The Belvidere
$40.00

Superior to all others irrespective of price. Catalogue tells you why. Write for one.

NATIONAL SEWING MACHINE CO.,
339 BROADWAY, New York. Factory, BELVIDERE, ILL.



900 DROPS
CASTORIA
A Vegetable Preparation for Assimilating the Food and Regulating the Stomachs and Bowels of INFANTS CHILDREN
Promotes Digestion, Cheerfulness and Rest. Contains neither Opium, Morphine nor Mineral.
NOT NARCOTIC.
Recipe of Old Dr SAMUEL PITCHER
A perfect Remedy for Constipation, Sour Stomach, Diarrhoea, Worms, Convulsions, Feverishness and LOSS OF SLEEP.
Fac Simile Signature of Chas H. Fletcher
NEW YORK.
35 DOSES—35 CENTS
EXACT COPY OF WRAPPER.

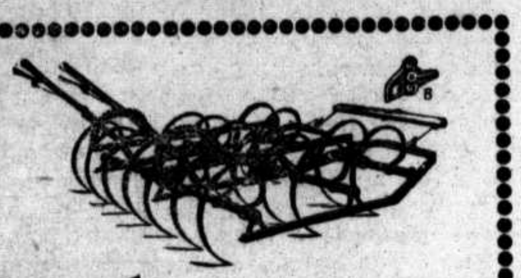
CASTORIA

The Kind You Have Always Bought, Bears the Fac-simile Signature —OF— Chas H. Fletcher ON THE WRAPPER OF EVERY BOTTLE.

THE KIND YOU HAVE ALWAYS BOUGHT.

THE CENTAUR COMPANY, NEW YORK CITY.

The Osborne



SPRING-TOOTH HARROW.

The frames are made in one piece of steel angle bar, and formed to withstand all strain without buckling or warping. The teeth in this harrow are so spaced that they will not trail each other, Pulverizing the ground thoroughly. The steel pipe tooth bars are mounted in maleable boxes secured to the frame, and will not bend or break. The peculiar shape of the teeth curling twothirds about the bar gives the greatest amount of spring possible without straining the bolts, and because of their shape and fastening are stronger than used on any other harrow. By the levers the depth of work can be regulated while the harrow is in motion. The draft is steady and direct as the harrow has no side motion.

ALL THESE FEATURES COMBINED HAVE MADE THE OSBORNE CELEBRATED.

It has no EQUAL,—it never will have a SUPERIOR.

Call and examine the Osborne line consisting of—BINDERS, MOWERS, RAKES, TEDDERS, HARROWS AND CULTIVATORS.

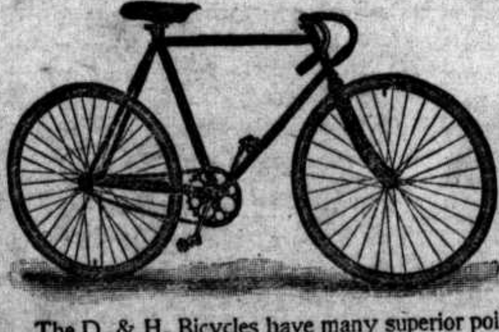
The most complete line of Farming Implements to be found in the State.

FOR SALE BY—
EAGLE & OTT,
RONCEVERTE, W. VA.

"The D. & H." ROAD RACER

WEIGHT 21 POUNDS.

The Ideal Wheel for the Scorcher.



A WINNER SURE TO PLEASE

WE are desirous of introducing the D. & H. Bicycles throughout the country and offer special inducements to agents and riders as a matter of introduction. Write for our Special Offer.

The D. & H. Bicycles have many superior points of excellence in advance of any other Bicycle made. Prices from $40.00 to $75.00. Write for particulars. Address,

ADVT. DEPT. Budd Bros. Mfg. Co., Glens Falls, N. Y.

Special We have an offer. (Our Offer No. 2) for every School Teacher in the United States. Teachers write us quick.

FEED, LIVERY AND SALE STABLES.

First-Rate Teams and Saddle-Horses Provided.

☞ Horses for Sale and Hire. ☜

SPECIAL ACCOMODATIONS FOR STALLIONS.

A limited number of Horses boarde

All persons having horses to trade are invited to call. Young horses broke to ride or work

J. H. G. WILSON,
Marlinton w. Va

DO YOU TRAVEL

Are you going to take a trip? Do you suffer from Severe Headaches, Nervousness, Seasickness or Exhaustion? Why not prevent it all by using CUSHMAN'S MENTHOL INHALER. Help that headache, cure that nervousness and seasickness by the use of this Inhaler, the greatest stimulant and preventative known. Wonderful relief in Hay Fever and Asthma. ☞BUY CUSHMAN'S INHALER and you will always use it. If you can't get it at Druggists send for it. By mail, 50 cents. Send for Book on Menthol, free. CUSHMAN DRUG CO., VINCENNES, IND., U. S. A.

WHITMER'S
EUREKA, LIVER AND KIDNEY REMEDY.

A Vegetable Combination of Barks, Roots and Herbs, for diseases of the Blood, Liver, Kidneys, Stomach, Dyspepsia, Sick and Nervous Headache, Fever and Ague, Constipation of the Bowels, Sour Stomach, Indigestion, Depression of Spirits, Loss of Appetite, Bladder and Kidney Affections.

INDIGESTION

from which Constipation and all other Physical Miseries arise, is surely and speedily overcome by the use of a Wonderful but Harmless Remedy. Read Carefully. Act Promptly.

CONSTIPATION DEFINED.

"Constipation.—Sluggish or incomplete action in evacuating the bowels; the inability of the lower intestines to expel the alvine discharges; the putrid matter often remaining in the bowels several days."—Wurtburg.

When this effete and poisonous matter remains in the system, it poisons and contaminates every organ with which it comes in contact.

It comes in contact with the Stomach, Liver, Heart, and all Vital Organs.

How does it do this? The blood becomes poisoned, and in its circulation through our entire system, it carries the poison from this foul, effete matter to every organ and tissue in the body.

Liver Complaint, Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Sour Stomach, Loss of Appetite, Bad Taste in the Mouth, Coated Tongue, Kidney and Bladder Diseases are all brought about by the Digestive Apparatus being deranged by coming directly in contact with the effete foul matter in the bowels. Even the Lungs are affected by Constipation causing Lung Trouble and Consumption.

WHITMER MEDICINE CO.
LOGAN, OHIO.

The Pocahontas Times.

Andrew & Norman Price, Owners. "Montani Semper Liberi!" Andrew Price, Editor

VOL. 15, NO. 39 MARLINTON, WEST VIRGINIA, APRIL 22, 1898. $1.00 PER YEAR

No. 083. Made in 54, 48, 42, 36 inch widths.

$3.25 buys this Brass-trimmed White Enameled Bedstead. In stock in all widths; length, 75 inches. It has one-inch pillars, two-inch brass vases and caps. This bed retails at from 5 to 6 dollars.

Buy of the maker and save the middleman's large profits. Our Catalogues are mailed for the asking. Complete lines of Furniture, Carpets, Draperies, Crockery, Pictures, Mirrors, Stoves, Refrigerators, Baby Carriages, Lamps, Bedding, etc., are contained in these books. Our Lithographed Carpet Catalogue showing all goods in hand-painted colors is also free; if Carpet Samples are wanted mail us 8c. in stamps. Drop a postal at once to the money-savers and remember that we pay freight this month on purchases of Carpets, Lace Curtains, Portiers and Rugs amounting to $9.00 and over.

Julius Hines & Son
BALTIMORE, MD.
Please mention this Paper.

LAW CARDS.

N. C. McNEIL,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

Will practice in the Courts of Pocahontas and adjoining counties and in the Court of Appeals of the State of West Virginia.

L. M. McCLINTIC,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

Will practice in the Courts of Pocahontas and adjoining counties and in the Supreme Court of Appeals.

H. S. RUCKER,
ATT'Y. AT LAW & NOTARY PUBLIC
HUNTERSVILLE, W. VA.

Will practice in the courts of Pocahontas county and in the Supreme Court of Appeals

J. W. ARBUCKLE,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
LEWISBURG, W. VA.

Will practice in the courts of Greenbrier and Pocahontas counties. Prompt attention given to claims for collection in Pocahontas county.

W. A. BRATTON,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

Prompt and careful attention given to all legal business.

ANDREW PRICE,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

Will be found at Times Office.

SAM. B. SCOTT, JR.
LAWYER,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

All legal business will receive prompt attention.

H. M. LOCKRIDGE,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
HUNTERSVILLE, W. VA.

Prompt and careful attention given all legal work.

JOHN A. PRESTON FRED. WALLACE
PRESTON & WALLACE,
Attorneys at Law,
LEWISBURG, W. VA.

Will practice in the Courts of Greenbrier and adjoining counties, and in the Court of Appeals of the State of West Virginia.

PHYSICIANS' CARDS.

DR. O. J. CAMPBELL,
DENTIST,
MONTEREY, VA.

Will visit Pocahontas County at least twice a year. The exact date of his visit will appear in this paper.

DR. J. H. WEYMOUTH,
RESIDENT DENTIST,
ELKINS, W. VA.

Will visit Pocahontas County every spring and fall. The exact date of each visit will appear in The Times.

J. M. CUNNINGHAM, M. D.,
PHYSICIAN & SURGEON,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

Office next door to C. A. Yeager's Hotel. Residence opposite Hotel. All calls promptly answered.

$18. IMPROVED SINGER FREIGHT PREPAID.

For this style new high arm sewing machine with all attachments warranted 10 years. If machine is not satisfactory in 30 days money will be refunded. Send cash with order. Descriptive circular sent on application.

WHAYNE M'F'G CO.,
860 FOURTH AVE., LOUISVILLE, KY

For The Pocahontas Times

The Treasure Trove.

XI.

THE suggestion of the old lady in Weston's hunt for the trail of Harvey was that a man named John Rockway would be a man who might give some information about him, as it was at his house that Harvey made his home during the time he stayed in the neighborhood. Rockway was a man who had a deformed leg which prevented his being called upon to enter the army. His home was now some fifteen or twenty miles away. Weston resolved to abandon the pernicious habit of walking in the mountains of West Virginia, on account of the loss of prestige he suffered, otherwise he would have been glad to have walked to Rockway's farm to see him. He sent a line to be inserted in the county paper to the extent that he wanted to buy a horse, and he occasioned more comment than any thing in that week's issue of The Blast. The natives had never known a man who wanted to buy a horse. They had seen many a one bought, but it was always by a man who seemed to think he needed nothing so little as a horse. When a man was in earnest about buying a horse, he carefully concealed all signs of eagerness, as any show of it added cent per cent upon the price.

For the present trip he was able to borrow a fine horse from old Mrs Casey, and a McClellan saddle, a peculiar piece of furniture, in the building of which the comfort of the horse was the sole object in view. He started out one morning to make the visit to Rockway.

He was several miles on his way when he was overtaken by a man on a fine bay horse. The man wore a suit of rusty black, a broad brimmed hat and voluminous wrappers on the lower part of his legs for leggings. A pair of saddle pockets hung over his saddle, and as he rode up he appeared to be studying a hymn-book. His whole equipment denoted that he was a minister of the gospel. He accommodated the pace of his horse to that of Weston, who remarked that it was a "fine day."

"That's what our judge calls the last day of the term, when he gets all the prisoners who have been convicted up before him to be sentenced. Traveling this road far?"

"For about ten miles."

"Well, good company makes a short cut, they say, so we will jog along together, if you have no objection."

"With pleasure."

"Young man, are you a Christian?"

"I hope I am worthy the name."

"Pray on, brother, that the Lord hide not his face from you."

"I see that you are a minister?"

"A most unworthy evangelist, my young brother. I was one of a wicked band. One night as I was passing a church, to show my spirit of bravado, I crawled in at the window and shot a hole through the Holy Scriptures on the pulpit. I have since preached from that Bible, and told the congregation the true history of the mutilation.

"Seventeen years ago this month I was in the bonds of sin. I had been on a wild, reckless spree. There had been a dance in the school house. We had represented that the trustees had allowed us to dance there, and we came with jugs of new apple brandy on our horses. We piled the benches up in the corner and danced to the prompting of three fiddles of the devil. The music and the hot liquor we drank made our evil natures triumphant, and we sung and we swore. When the trustees of the school, the school-teacher and other young men came into the room armed with clubs, we flew at their throats, and the women screamed. I remember no more until I found myself underneath the school house next morning at sun up, wedged in between the leepers. I suppose I had crawled there in my drunken stupor. The rest of my male companions went to the county jail. For some reason I was not accused of any part of it.

"I was dying for a drink. I saw a broken jug with some brandy held in the bottom of it, near half a pint. I poured it down my throat and went to a farm house for breakfast. I did not have a cent. A dancing picnic was to be held on the Fourth of July and I wanted to have some liquor and go. I asked the man who owned the farm for a job of work, and to accomodate me, it seemed to me, he set me to making rails in the woods. He agreed to give me ten dollars a thousand. I went to work when the days were as hot as summer could make them. I labored with the timber. I had the choice of the best oak and chestnut trees in that whole region, but choose as I would I could not pick out a tree that would split. My sins were holding me back. I chosed the smoothest oak I could find, and chopped it into lengths. My wedges would fly out and the rails would have to be fairly rived out. By three o'clock I was worn out. I lay down and slept, and had a vision. A man came down on one side of a broad river and I was on the other side. He held his hands up to attract my attention and shouted, 'Israel, preach the gospel!' I awoke and there was nothing there. I fell into sleep again, and this time the vision was repeated, and the voice said, 'Woe unto ye, if ye preach not the gospel!' I worked at the rails. I had pondered on the call, but had disregarded it in the pride of my flesh. I made a thousand rails. The job was done on the 3rd day of July. I went to get my money, and my employer produced a note for fifteen dollars which I had given to a store keeper a year or two before. He offered it to me for the work I had done. I begged for five dollars, one dollar, fifty cents, but he said he had been laying for me for a long time. I cursed him and left.

"That night I entered the room of that storekeeper and took a ten-dollar bill from a pocket-book stuffed full of paper money. He never missed it. I bought two gallons of brandy and went to the Fourth of July picnic. There was a man there I had fought the year before. He was also drinking. He trod on my toe, and we clinched. Immediately, we were the center of a madly fighting throng. Mine adversary pulled a long knife, and I grabbed it and sunk it into his breast up to the hilt and withdrew it. He gave one look of hate and fell to the ground. A small sapling had been cut where he fell and his body, guided by a hand that never errs, was so directed that the stob entered the wound I had made, and he was lifted off the stob dead. I hid the knife under my coat, and the hundreds of eye-witnesses had never seen a weapon in the fray.

"I have not tasted liquor from that hour. The night following I lay and writhed and again I had a call to preach. I studied and prayed and have labored in the Master's vineyard since."

As the preacher closed his wierd experience, Weston saw two men riding as if to overtake them. They rode up and one of them laid his hand familiarly on the preacher's arm, and said:

"Helio, parson, I thought I never would catch up with you!"

"Get behind me Satan! You are disturbing religious worship. I am engaged in converting a notorious horse thief who, even now, is fleeing with his stolen property," replied the preacher.

"But, parson, have you forgotten that you have an appointment to preach at Bending Lane tonight? Come on back with us." "As you say, James, I will go back."

As he rode rway with his keeper the other stopped long enough to say that the poor man was a hopeless maniac, who imagined that he was a preacher. He had gone mad on the day he had a fight at a picnic, in which a man was found dead with a stake driven into his heart. He had been confined in the asylum since then. A few days before he had escaped, and, meeting a venerable old circuit rider on the road that morning, had robbed him of every thing he had, horse, saddle-bags, clothes, spectacles, hymn-books and Bible. The preacher had come to him, the constable, and he was already looking for the man with an attendant from the lunatic asylum, who had been following him. Having tarried long enough to explain the the case, the constable rode back to overtake the old lunatic and his keeper.

Weston arrived about noon to find that Rockway was away from home on some cattle business and would not return for two weeks. He had dinner there, and in the afternoon he rode back. As he passed through a small village, a man of about his own age joined him as a matter of course, for nothing helps a trip through the mountains like company. The young man remarked that he knew the horse Weston was riding well, and mentioned that he and "Jim," the horse, had boarded at the same place. It was so plain that the stranger regarded "Jim" as living in the vicinity of some sort of rose that Weston guessed, rightly, that this was the heiress of Bald Knob's sweet-heart, Cassidy. He said:

"I shouldn't wonder if you were not Mr Cassidy?"

"That's correct, but who you are is more than I can imagine."

"Oh, I was a transient, until I reached Grandma Casey's, and I think I shall stay as a boarder, as long as she will let me."

"Well, I hope that you will succeed in pleasing her better than I did!" said Cassidy very ruefully.

Weston took this opportunity of saying, with significance, "Previous Engagements will prevent my giving the same cause for offense."

(To be Continued.)

Nature's Secrets Exposed.

What makes the moon so clear and bright,
Against the ebon vault of night
While sliding down the star-lit slope?
The constant use of Peach's Soap.

What makes the sky so fine and blue,
And gives the leaf its gorgeous hue,
When on the Autumn breeze it flies?
They both result from Topaz Dyes.

What makes the song bird's voice so clear,
when in the summer of the year
It sendeth forth its sweetest note?
McQuackam's Tabules for the Throat.

What makes the sun from June to June
But ne'er too late, nor yet too soon,
But always move right on the notch?
It travels by a walgin watch.

What makes Dame Nature's breath so sweet when toward her haunts we turn our feet,
And through the fields and forest roam?
She cleans her teeth with Sozofoam.

what makes the time so swiftly fly
That none can beat it if they try, while all who watch it dizzy feel?
It rides upon a Rumbler wheel.

what makes the country now feel gay when late depressions held full sway
And it was hard to hide our grief?
One Timpans Tabule gives relief.
—New York Journal.

DID it ever occur to you whose hair is thin and constantly falling off that this can be prevented? Hall's Hair Renewer is a sure remedy.

CASTORIA.

The fac-simile signature of Chas. H. Fletcher. is on every wrapper.

No-To-Bac for Fifty Cents.
Guaranteed tobacco habit cure, makes weak men strong, blood pure. 50c, $1. All druggists.

CASTORIA.

The fac-simile signature of Chas. H. Fletcher. is on every wrapper.

To Cure Constipation Forever.
Take Cascarets Candy Cathartic. 10c or 25c. If C. C. C. fail to cure, druggists refund money.

CASTORIA.

The fac-simile signature of Chas. H. Fletcher. is on every wrapper.

Educate Your Bowels With Cascarets.
Candy Cathartic, cure constipation forever. 10c, 25c. If C. C. C. fail, druggists refund money.

Everybody Says So.
Cascarets Candy Cathartic, the most wonderful medical discovery of the age, pleasant and refreshing to the taste, act gently and positively on kidneys, liver and bowels, cleansing the entire system, dispel colds, cure headache, fever, habitual constipation and biliousness. Please buy and try a box of C. C. C. to-day; 10, 25, 50 cents. Sold and guaranteed to cure by all druggists.

CASTORIA
For Infants and Children.

The fac-simile signature of Chas. H. Fletcher. is on every wrapper.

BIOGRAPHIC NOTES.

Charles Kinnison and Jacob Kinnison.

AMONG the earlier pioneers of the Little Levels were Jacob and Charles Kinnison. They were among the persons who had heard the wonderful intelligence brought in by a half-demented neighbor that he had seen streams flowing towards the west during his last excursion in the wilderness regions beyond. In their explorations of the Greenbrier Valley they fonnd John McNeel, a refugee neighbor, near Mill Point. He gave them the benefit of his observations, and the three persons attempted permanent settlements about 1765, and thus left their old homes a few miles of Winchester. Virginia, near Capon Springs.

Charles Kinnison's wife was Martha Day. About the period of Braddock's defeat she and her mother were taken prisoners by the Indians in the Capon neighborhood. On the morning after the captivity Mrs Day remarked to her friends that she believed the Indians intended to kill her.

"O, mother, what makes you think so?" exclaimed Martha.

"Because they have given moccasins to all the prisoners but me and have left me barefooted," replied the mother.

When all were ready to move on a warrior walked up to Mrs Day and with his war-club struck her a stunning blow between her shoulders, knocking the breath out of her, and then in an instant lifted the scalp-lock. She was left there in a state of insensibility, and it was never known whether she recovered consciousness or died immediately.

The lands settled by Charles Kinnison are now occupied by Sherman H. Clark, Esq., as a residence. Charles Kinnison remained on this place until he was far advanced in life, when he migrated to Ohio. Mr and Mrs Kinnison were the parents of two daughters, whose names are not remembered; and five sons, David, Charles, Mark, Nathaniel, and Amos.

David Kinnison was born June 7th, 1767. He married Susanna Hughes, a sister of Moses and Milburn Hughes. She was born April 17th, 1767. He died in 1835 aged 67 years. She died in 1851 aged 83 years. David Kinnison, soon after his marriage settled north of Mill Point where Kenney Hogsett lives. They were the parents of two daughters, Esther who became Mrs William McNeel, and Elizabeth; and these are the names of the seven sons: Charles, William, Lawrence, Mark, David, James, and Jacob. All these children went west except Jacob Kinnison, and we have no information as to their families.

Jacob Kinnison married in 1828 Catherine Clendennin, a sister of William and John Clendennin, and settled on the homestead. In reference to their children we have this information.

Hannah was the first wife of the late William Morrison, near Buckeye.

William married Jane, daughter of Squire John McNeill, and lived on Dry Branch. He was a Union soldier.

Hezekiah Bland married Eliza beth Ann Silva, and located in Braxton County.

Allan married Rebecca Perkins, and lives on the Greenbrier east of Hillsboro.

Nancy is now Mrs John D. Rorke, near Marlinton.

Sarah Ann became Mrs Isaac Hill, on Hill's Creek.

John Bland died in early youth.

Davis-Dyerly, a Confederate soldier, died during the war.

Mrs Catherine Kinnison died in 1864. Jacob Kinnison was a well-known citizen. He served many years as constable of his district. He seemed never suited in politics and would sometimes decline voting, and claimed to be a conservative.

Nathaniel Kinnison, of Charles

Our I's and Other Eyes.

Our I's are just as strong as they were fifty years ago, when we have cause to use them. But we have less and less cause to praise ourselves, since others do the praising, and we are more than willing for you to see us through other eyes. This is how we look to S. F. Boyce, wholesale and retail druggist, Duluth, Minn., who after a quarter of a century of observation writes:

"I have sold Ayer's Sarsaparilla for more than 25 years, both at wholes and have never heard any-my customers; not a single ne. I believe Ayer's Sarpurifier that has been intro-
This, from a man who has er's Sarsaparilla, is strong popular sentiment the world out words of praise for or the "Curebook."

ures doubters.
Lowell, Mass.

For sale by—
URIAH BIRD, Marlinton, W. Va.

War De

We have declared war, relen
We have adopted an aggressiv be carried into the enemy's name of saving our customers it up.

Good Muslin ....
Good Shirting ...
Straw Matting ...
Fast Black Hose ..
2 Papers Pins
A Good Summer L
Table Oil Cloth....
Ladies' Shirt Waist
A Plain White Bed
tra Sizes ....
Frank Siddall's So
Ladies Vests.......

Our whole stock in s
Terms made

J. D. Pull

New C

Will Be On Our Sh
And We Cordially
Ready to Exami
Which We w
Cheap for Trad

Thanking our many pa and hoping to merit y
We are, Yours R

Hannah &

FROST

6 days.
died July
2 months, 23 da

Jacob Kinnison, the fellow pioneer with his brother Charles, located on lands just east of Hillsboro, lately occupied by his sons, Nathaniel and William Kinnison. There was one daughter Elizabeth, who was never married. Nathaniel Kinnison was never married also, and brother and sister kept house for a great many years. The neatness and generous hospitality that characterized this home made it pleasant for the itinerant ministers for a long while. Nathaniel died February 13, 1859, at a very advanced age, having lived a consecrated Christian life.

William Kinnison married Nancy Oldham, of Locust, and settled on the homestead. There were two daughters and four sons.

Sarah became Mrs William Oldham; Elizabeth Mrs James Burnsides, first wife.

The sons were Davis, John, Nathaniel, and William. The three sons first named were Confederate soldiers.

Davis Kinnison ranked among the first class of our county citizenship. He was for many years a magistrate in his district. He received a liberal education at the Hillsboro Academy, mainly under the tuition of Rev Dunlap. Mr unlap regarded him as one of the ost exemplary young persons he d ever instructed.

In 1849 one of the 'biggest boys' oclaimed in a very oracular man-r that "Davis Kinnison was st too good a boy for this world.
will not live long and you will see it, mind what I say." The boy was spoiling for a fight, d Davis would not touch the ip to please him.
Squire Davis Kinnison died arch 28, 1893, about 62 years of e.
Charles and Jacob Kinnison, the oneer brothers, were skillful rkers in wood with the broad ax d whip-saw. Some of the first rpenter work ever done in the unty was by them and Richard ll, the pioneer.
Charles Kinnison hewed the logs
r John McNeel, the pioneer.
e building yet stands, and is the perty of Matthew John Mc-eel, near Mill Point. He also pared the logs for the house
w dwelt in by Claiborne McNeil ar Buckeye. His services were atly valued in planning and nstructing forts.
Thus with assistance J. B. Kin-son, Allan Kinnison, and Clairne McNeill something has been tempted to embalm the memos of these good men and their rthy descendants. We believe s the temper of many of the ing Kinnisons to see that the tre of the Kinnison name shall t be tarnished, but rendered re illustrious by all the facili-s that may come to hand.

W. T. P.

OREST and STREAM

THE SPORTSMAN'S JOURNAL.

avel Fishing The Dog lventure Nature Trap and unting Yachting Target
Camping Canoeing Shooting

FOREST AND STREAM illustrated journal, devoted to the sports of the field and the encouraging in men and women of a healthy interest in outdoor recreation.

Weekly, 32 pages; $4 per year; $2 for six months; 10 cents a copy. Sample free.

We are the largest American publishers of works on outdoor sports. Send for our free illustrated catalog of books.

Forest and Strerm Publishing Co.
346 Broadway, New York.

WHITMER'S
EUREKA, LIVER AND KIDNEY REMEDY.

A Vegetable Combination of Barks, Roots and Herbs, for diseases of the Blood, Liver, Kidneys, Stomach, Dyspepsia, Sick and Nervous Headache, Fever and Ague, Constipation of the Bowels, Sour Stomach, Indigestion, Depression of Spirits, Loss of Appetite, Bladder and Kidney Affections.

INDIGESTION
from which Constipation and all other Physical Miseries arise, is surely and speedily overcome by the use of a Wonderful but Harmless Remedy. Read Carefully. Act Promptly.

CONSTIPATION DEFINED.
"Constipation.—Sluggish or incomplete action in evacuating the bowels; the inability of the lower intestines to expel the alvine discharges; the putrid matter often remaining in the bowels several days."—Wurtburg.

When this effete and poisonous matter remains in the system, it poisons and contaminates every organ with which it comes in contact.

It comes in contact with the Stomach, Liver, Heart, and all Vital Organs.

How does it do this? The blood becomes poisoned, and in its circulation through our entire system, it carries the poison from this foul, effete matter to every organ and tissue in the body.

Liver Complaint, Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Sour Stomach, Loss of Appetite, Bad Taste in the Mouth, Coated Tongue, Kidney and Bladder Diseases are all brought about by the Digestive Apparatus being deranged by coming directly in contact with the effete foul matter in the bowels. Even the Lungs are affected by Constipation causing Lung Trouble and Consumption.

WHITMER MEDICINE CO.
LOGAN, OHIO.

The Pocahontas Times,

Hear, Land o' Cakes and brither Scots,
Frae Maidenkirk to Johnny Groats,
If there's a hole in a' your coats,
I rede ye tent it;
A chiel's amang you takin' notes,
An' faith he'll prent it.—BURNS

Local Events.

W. W. TYREE has received his commission as postmaster at Marlinton. He mailed his bond last Monday.

A BAND of Gypsies passed thro Marlinton Monday and camped at the mouth of Stony Creek. They have been camped at Mill Point for some time, trading horses, telling fortunes, etc. They had about fourteen head of horses.

GREENBRIER PRESBYTERY will meet at Lowell, W. Va., April 27 at 7½ P. M. Dr S. P. Patterson and J. H. Doyle, as principal and alternate, are delegates of the Huntersville church. Allan Levesay. Esq., and G. M. Kee are the representatives of the Marlinton church.

THE will of John J. Beard has been probated. It is a simple, comprehensive document, occupying about one half a page of note paper, and entirely in the hand writing of the testator. He leaves all his property, both real and personal, to his wife.

MEMBERS of the engineer corps, operating in the Greenbrier River Valley, scored their first thrilling adventure, last Saturday night. Messrs Marshall, Gatewood and Dailey were crossing the river at the Swago Eddy, when their boat became unmanageable and started down the rapids. Jumping out in to the river at high tide, they swam ashore. For some time, one of the party failed to put in his appearance, and his companions started in to rescue him. It turned out, however, that he was safe, farther down. When last heard from the boat was still a derelict, floating aimlessly and helplessly towards Ronceverte.

NEAR Clark Kellison's is the king of the sassafras tribe. It is over two feet in diameter and between 60 and 70 feet in height. It is over 20 feet to the first limb, the trunk is straight and symmetrical. Sassafras was much esteemed in Europe at the time America was discovered. The bark brought five shillings a pound, and was considered a sovereign remedy for all diseases, It has now fallen into disuse. Ships were fitted out to import Virginia Spice, as it was called, and they obtained their cargo in Massachusetts. The territory of Virginia then included the whole coast as far as Maine. The Indians were wont to use the leaves prepared by chewing as a poultice for gunshot wounds.

On to the Pen!

THE Sheriff, R. W. Hill, left last Friday with four felons on his hands for the Moundsville penitentiary. As we have stated, this is the finest batch of prisoners we have ever sent to the State prison. The Sheriff is allowed a guard for each prisoner, and the places were as much sought after as appointments to lucrative offices. It means a free trip to the northern part of the State. The distance traveled from Marlinton to Moundsville and returning is about twelve hundred miles. It is a very pleasant journey for those fond of railroad traveling. The compensation is $1.00 per day and expenses, or five cents a mile. The latter is always chosen by Pocahontas guards. The four men who got the job of escorting the convicts were George R. Curry, E. N. Moore, Samuel Sheets and Lee Clark. They started off in a road wagon to take the train at Ronceverte.

The Sheep Industry.

R. B. KERR, of Gillespie, it is reported, lost a lot of sheep this spring. His loss amounts to ninety lambs and twenty ewes up to date. The trouble seemed to be that the lambs came early and the ewes had no milk. H. H. McClintic, the "Hermit" of Beaver Dam, has had splendid luck with his large lot of sheep this spring. Several years ago he built on his blue grass farm on Williams River the largest and finest barn in Pocahontas County. In building a barn so much larger than any one else had done, even on large grain farm, the wiseacres of the country side regarded it as something of a freak. But the experiment worked very well. He has a shelter for every sheep he has and has had no trouble with his lambs since it was built, and, instead of finding that he had too much shelter, he is contemplating building another large barn.

A Pretty Wedding.

Mr A. M. Oliver, of Green Bank, was married to Miss Maud Eskridge, April 13, at the residence of the bride's father, Dr C. W. Eskridge. The ceremony was performed by Rev J. H. Dills, in the presence of a few special friends. The groom looked handsome, and the pretty bride was tastfully dressed in the latest style. After the ceremony, a sumptuous dinner was served. The bride and groom then took their departure to Green Bank, their future home. We wish them a prosperous future.

The Greenbrier River Survey.

The corps is still camped at the mouth of Swago. Stakes have been driven as far as the mouth of Stamping Creek. The Marlinton citizen has been learning lately something concerning this kind of a survey. First the engineer with the transit and his crew run the line. Then follows another engineer with the level and several assistants, and last an engineer called the topographer with two men goes over the ground a third time. The most forward crew was at the mouth of Stamping Creek when the topographer was working in the McClintic Bottom below the town. They were ready to move their tent, but had to come back to help the rear along. It is thought that the tents will not be moved until the latter part of this week.

The citizens of Pocahontas will be glad to hear that the line crosses the river about seven miles below Marlinton to the west bank for this will save the building of some wagon bridges over the Greenbrier.

One of the most important features in the river route is the distance. Captain A. E. Smith, of this place estimated for the chief engineer the distance as 54 miles from Marlinton to the C. & O. Those opposed to the building of the road on this route have said that the windings of the river would make it at least seventy miles. Captain Smith has driven logs on the river for years and knows one part of it as well as another. He gave distances from point to point, and his estimate was a quarter of a mile too great as far as Stamping Creek. He gave the distance to the mouth of Swago as four miles, hitting it exactly. To the mouth of Beaver Creek 7 miles, which measured 7 miles and 200 yards. To the mouth of Stamping Creek 10 miles, and it measured 9¾ miles. It is safe to say that the distance through will hold out in about the same proportion to Captain Smith's figures.

We have the greatest confidence in this survey bringing us the railroad. At least, the Greenbrier Railroad is the first Pocahontas County railroad which has ever gone so far as to acquire a valuable engineering outfit.

A Notable Sugar Camp.

One of the notable sugar groves of our county is about two miles west of Hillsboro, and is owned by the Kinnison family. It consists of about two hundred trees, many of them the largest of their kind. The most of them are of the black sugar tree class, that is reputed to furnish the sweetest sap of any. The most of the trees that came under the writer's observation were served by four troughs, two or three spiles to a trough, and so two hundred trees were rendering the service usually expected of five or siv hundred, The usual output is about one thousand pounds and syrup in proportion.

John B. Kinnison remembers these trees when of a suitable size for handspikes or sled tongues. A few weeks since a sugar maple that stood near J. B. Kinnison's residence was cut down and measured four feet and two inches across the stump. Seventy-nine years ago Mrs Kinnison bent it down on wash-days for hanging out her baby boy's clothes to dry in the sunlight. So it would seem the sugar maple is one of comparatively rapid growth. This tree was tapped forty years ago.

Hard Cider.

AT the last court an indictment was made against James H. Ratliff for selling cider. For a number of years there has been a barrel of cider at the front gate of the court-house on court days and a bag of apples presided over by a gray bearded man with one arm. He lost his arm from a gun-shot wound in war times. Cider has always been on the danger line, so far as the statute is concerned. The law says "spirituous liquors, wine, ale, porter, beer, and drinks of like nature." The vender of cider has either to cheat his customers by giving them a poor quality of goods, or else boil it down until it is good and has a sufficient per cent of alcohol to make it "worth the money." Formerly it was sold in stores, but an indictment a year or two ago being sustained, almost everybody went out of the cider business. Cider invariably contains more alcohol than beer, but can not be drunk in such large quantities.

Wanted.

To purchase live animals, for Zoological Purposes, including all kinds of animals trapped in Virginia: squirrels, fine specimens of hawks, eagles, etc., etc. Address J. H. LAINE, Secretary and Gen'l Mgr. Tri-County Agriculture and Driving Park Association, Johnstown, Pa.

Taxpayers, Green Bank District.

Notice is hereby given that all persons owing taxes in Green Bank District must be ready to settle in full at my next call. Positively no further indulgence can be given.

SAMUEL SHEETS,
Deputy Sheriff.

Notice.

The Board of Education of Edray District will meet at Marlinton Saturday, April 30, 1897.

JACOB S. MOORE, President.

PERSONAL MENTION.

Messrs Rucker and Scott attended Court at Lewisburg.

Miss Anette Ligon was in town Monday.

John A. Warwick returned Monday from a trip to Bath County.

Bernard Slavin. of Highland, was in town several days lately.

Squire Yeager went down to Academy last Sunday.

Mrs Paul Golden has returned from a visit in Baltimore.

R. E. Overholt will move to Frankford shortly.

Rev W. H. Hart, of Ritchie County, was in Pocahontas last week, seeing after his farm.

Howard Bird has sold his well boring machine to Sydenstricker & Clark, of Academy.

Miss Mabel Ligon has returned from the Lewisburg Female Institute to be with her mother, who still continues most seriously ill.

J. Emory Duffield, son of the late J. R. Duffield near Edray, is now an enterprising merchant at Gypsum, Kansas.

Rev Asa NcNeil and family were delayed several days at Enoch McNeil's, on Williams River, by deep snow and high waters.

Lawrence M'Collam, from Greenbrier, son of James McCollam, Esq., has been spending a few days at the old home. He reports the decease of Taylor Walton, whose son Hasel is remembered in Marlinton.

Luther A. Kieffer, son of Prof. Aldine Keiffer of The Musical Million, Dayton, Virginia, died a few days since. He was a youth of much promise and our sincere sympathies are hereby extended to his father, whose name is familiar to most of our readers as a poet and music composer.

P. D. Yeager and C. S Erswell while in Denver ordered a large and complete line of Victor tennis goods. Mr Yeager was employed by the C. S. Erswell Cycle Co. to select the goods which in his judgment will become the popular fancy of the expert players. Tennis promises to become the attractive amusement of the season.—Cheyenne (Wyoming) Tribune.

Ernsst N. Moore, Esq., and Samuel Sheets, of Dunmore, passed through Marlinton Tuesday on their return from Moundsville as guards in charge of the prisoners. They returned by way of Harpers Ferry, Basic City, and Ronceverte, and spent last Sunday at Piedmont the guests of Forest Moore, Esq. Preacher Ratliff behaved himself very nicely, and will no doubt be quite an acquisition to prison society.

John B. Kinnison, a venerable and much respected citizen, has lived in the vicinity of Hillsboro all his life, now verging 80 years. He is a grandson of Charles Kinnison, one of the earliest settlers of The Levels, and a Revolutionary veteran. Mr J. B. Kinnison was a skillful blacksmith, and by industry and economy has acquired a very easy competency and is surrounded by the comforts of a charming home. His politics are for gold and protection. He has been a devout a faithful reader of the Bible for sixty or more years. The Old Testament he has perused fourteen times and the New Testament thirty-four times. Every day in his humble way he prays God not to cast him off in the time of old age, nor forsake him when his strength fails.

MILL POINT.

Misses Luvecia and Lillie Pyles are visiting at Col D. O'Connell's.

Frank Thompson passed through town the other day with a drove of sheep.

The Easter meeting of the Epworth League at Marvin was a complete success and much enjoyed by all.

Miss Ettie Smith has been very sick, but is better. She was benefitted by the advice of an Indian doctor who happened to be passing by.

There are some new things to report. The engineers, who are surveying the line for the Greenbrier Valley Railroad, have crossed from the east to the west side of the river. They have made the crossing within three hundred yards of where W. H. Shafer lives.

We are glad to note the announcements, subject to the Democratic Primary, which have appeared. Mill Point will have another candidate for Superintendent of Free Schools. Who is it? Watch for his announcement.

Some of the boys, constituting the source of help for the railroad surveyors had quite a flutter, we understand. One young man, who was not accustomed to running a boat in the dark, got into a swift place, and, in his excitement, commanded all to jump overboard. The did so, and the one who could not swim was the first to strike the shore. The boat was caught by two boys next morning. Some one had left his shoes in the boat.

MUX.

Don't Tobacco Spit and Smoke Your Life Away.

To quit tobacco easily and forever, be magnetic, full of life, nerve and vigor, take No-To-Bac, the wonder-worker, that makes weak men strong. All druggists, 50c or $1. Cure guaranteed. Booklet and sample free. Address Sterling Remedy Co., Chicago or New York

DRY BRANCH.

We have had quite a cold snap, and not many Easter eggs.

John Sharp says he is ready to go to war. Why John because its a girl?

M. Crummett is plowing for corn. Keep it up Martin, you cant get too much.

Mr George Beal is still clearing away. He says every brush he gets cut gives room for another roasting ear for Francis.

Everett Moore says he thinks he will quit coon hunting; he believes the fur is good but says the pelt is cracked.

WHICK WHACK.

Branch Beal has shed his whiskers.

Miss Alley Beal expects to start to Texas ta visit relations.

J. F. Ware cant get his phone to work right.

Thomas Lindsay has moved to Neil Wood's place on the Mingo road.

W. H. Brady has been sowing oats and preparing to go to fight Spain.

Mrs E. J. Brady, who has been on the sick-list for some time, is better at this writing.

Charles Rhey, of Linnwood, was on the Branch recently to see his betsy.

S. D. Beal, of Bergoo, Webster County, was on the Branch buying corn this week.

M. Crummett has been suffering for several days with a boil on his neck.

News scarce—our mail-bags are gone to S. Hall's and W. Sharp's, at Mingo.

G. C. Hoover, of Lynnwood, and J. D. Miller, of Branch, are off to Beverly for goods for L. D. Sharp.

Printz, Crawford and Parsons, of Beverly, are on the Branch surveying the old Bradshaw lands. Long Ware, from Valley Head, is carrying the chain.

Mrs B. Shafer, who has been visiting Cameron Beal's family for some time, started for her home in Webster County, accompanied by F. H. Beal. In crossing Elk River her horse stumbled and threw her in the water. F. H. Beal sprang from his horse and by a terrible effort caught her as she floated down the stream. She put him under twice, but he succeeded in getting her to the shore.

CODY BILL.

For Sale.

Livery Stable and dwelling house located at the East End of Marlinton, W. Va., including rolling stock if desired. For further particulars apply to

J. H. G. WILSON,
Proprietor.

EYE TEST.

Should be Read at 15 Inches.

Defects of eyesight requiring correction by the use of spectacles are purely mechanical, and can be so corrected by the proper adjustment of perfectly made lenses that their effects will be entirely obviated. This print should be read easily at fifteen inches from the eye. If you cannot do so you should wear spectacles. It does not pay to buy cheap spectacles. They distort the rays of light, disturb the angles of vision, cause pain and discomfort and injure the eyesight. When it is necessary to hold work or reading matter farther than fifteen inches from the eyes in order to see distinctly, it is a sure sign of failing vision, and much annoyance, discomfort and pain will be prevented by having a pair of glasses fitted.

I have a first-class optician's outfit, such as eye specialists use, and am prepared to examine eyes and adjust glasses in a satisfactory manner.

J. M. CUNNINGHAM, M D

STRANGE END

Of the most Notable Divorce Case Ever Instituted in the Courts of this County.

Jonathan Cochran has run off with his own wife, and left his divorce suit pending. Last January he started his suit and an immense amount of costs has accumulated. Depositions were being taken in the case for two weeks or more.

Last Sunday he sent to the Levels for his wife, and on Tuesday he left with all his family for parts unknown. He took his team and a load of funiture, leaving the balance for a neighbor, whom he owed.

Some think he has gone to Virginia, while others are positive that his destination is Upshur county.

The officers of the court and the lawyers are left in a bad shape for their costs in this behalf expended.

PINE GROVE.

We are having some fine weather, which is badly needed.

Some of the people are having protracted log rollings this spring.

A. C. Barlow will move to his farm, near Mill Point, this week.

A. L. McClure left for Bath last Sauturday to visit relatives.

Mr Walker, of Huntersville, was in this section Sunday.

The singing at Edray and West Union was largely attended Sunday.

Sunday school will be organized at Hamlin Chapel next Sunday.

A. L. Mayse will move to the Lobelia neighborhood, in a short time.

The County Normal is progressing finely with 26 students. Prof Barlow says he has the best lot of students that he has ever seen together.

SOUTHERN GIRLS.

The Great War.

We nave won success by our ability to demonstrate our bargain claims; we guarantee the smallest of our patrons the same courteous attention given the largest.

We are taking great pains in buying our

Spring and Summer Stock of Goods...

And all bargains will be shared with our customers.

We keep goods moving by keeping goods that move;—we test every value—our prices do the rest. Its not a question of opinion, its a rock-ribbed fact that our prices can not be successfully cut under. Don't scatter your dollars unwisely; concentrate them here and save more of them.

It is shrewd and well directed effort that makes our bargains unusual. Our PRICES PUZZLE COMPETITORS AND DELIGHT PURCHASERS.

Thanking you for your past patronage, we remain
Yours respectfully,

L D Sharp.
Linwood W. Va.

The Levels News.

Edited by Payne Bros.

Vol. 1 Academy, W. Va., April 22, 1898. No. 14

Market, April 11, 1898.

—Eggs 8½c per dozen.
—Butter 16⅔c per pound.
—Lard 8c per lb.
—Corn 65c per bushel.
—Wheat 90c per bushel.
—Oats 40c per bushel.
—Hams 10c per lb.
—Side Bacon 9c.
—Shoulder 8c.
—Beans $1 per bushel.
—Beeswax 25c per lb.
—Tallow 6c lb.

—AT PAYNE BROS.

—S. J. Payne went to Ronceverte Monday.

—25,000 Shaved Shingles at Payne Bros.

—Rev Turner of the Episcopal Church preached Monday night at the Presbyterian church.

..Pure Sugar Syrup at Payne Bros at 40c per gallon. Pure Apple Vinegar 30c gallon.

—Fine lot of Cutlery just received at Payne Bros. Examine their Table Cutlery. Also pocket Knives and Razors; come, see for yourself.

—Gentlemen, you will do well to buy a good cornfield hat before the hat rays of the sun smite you. You will find them at Payne's.

—Ladies, call at Payne Bros and buy a new hat. They have just received a fine lot of millinery of the latest styles, and will sell to you at low prices.

—Wagon Tire at Payne Bros.

—Sheep Dip at Payne's.

—Tar in quarts and ½ gal. cans at Payne Bros.

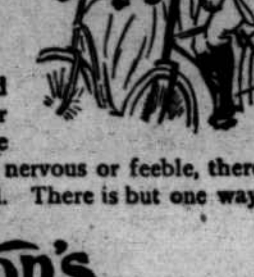
—Mrs Dr McClintic went to see her mother last week and has not yet returned.

—Fresh oranges and lemons just received. Prunes, peaches, and apricots received Saturday—Payne Bros.

—Married: At the home of the bride, on Wednesday 13th, by Rev J. H. Dills, in the presence of a few friends, Miss Maude Eskridge and Mr Andrew Oliver.

SALT: $2 A SACK.
AT PAYNE BROS.

Best grades of Roller Flour at
....
J. H. DOYLE'S,
Huntersville, W V.
G. L. HANNAH'S,
Yelk, W. Va.
BARLOW & MOORE'S,
Edray, W. Va.
J. H. CURRY'S,
Green Bank, W. Va.
R. L. NOTTINGHAM'S
Dunmore, W. Va.
HANNAH & HARPER, Frost



Hungry Muscles

have to be fed. Give them rich, pure blood and they glow with health; give them poor blood and they do not recuperate—exercise does not refresh you. If you are worn out, nervous or feeble, there is one thing that will aid you—pure, rich blood. There is but one way to gain it—

Johnston's Sarsaparilla
QUART BOTTLES.

For thirty years it has stood at the head; THE remedy for poor blood. Quart bottles, $1.00 a bottle. Begin this day to give your muscles good food.

WILLIAMS, DAVIS, BROOKS & CO., Detroit, Mich.

Try Liverettes the Famous Little Liver Pills. 25c.

For sale by—
URIAH BIRD, Marlinton, W. Va.; and A. BARLOW, Huntersville

War Declared!

We have declared war, relentless war, on high prices. We have adopted an aggressive policy and the fight will be carried into the enemy's lines. We have got the name of saving our customers money and mean to keep it up.

Good Muslin	6c
Good Shirting	8c
Straw Matting	10c
Fast Black Hose	5c
2 Papers Pins	5c
A Good Summer Lap Robe	45c
Table Oil Cloth	20c
Ladies' Shirt Waists Set	103
A Plain White Bed Quilt, Extra Sizes	70c
Frank Siddall's Soap	7c
Ladies Vests	5c

Our whole stock in same proportion.
Terms made to suit.

J. D. Pullin & Co.

New Goods

Will Be On Our Shelves by May 1st.
And We Cordially Invite You to be Ready to Examine Our Stock
Whieh We will Sell Very Cheap for Cash or Trade.

Thanking our many patrons for past trade,
and hoping to merit your future orders,
We are, Yours Respectfully,

Hannah & Harper
FROST, W. VA.

Plow Repairs

We have at last succeeded in making arrangements to supply points for the RONCEVERTE PLOW. Full stock now on hand. Send in our orders early. . . .

We are Factory Agents
for IMPERIAL and SILVER STEEL
Plows.

(The Best Hillside Plow on the Market.)

Simms & Co.,
Opp. Passenger Depot, RONCEVERTE, W. Va.

THE COURTS.

Circuit Court convenes on the first Tuesday in April, third Tuesday in June, and first Tuesday in October.

County Court convenes on the first Tuesday in January, March, and the fourth Tuesday of June and September—June is levy.

County Directory

Judge	J. M. McWhorter
Pros. Attorney	L. M. McClintic
Sheriff	R. W. Hill
Clerk County Court	S. L. Brown
Clerk Circuit Court	J. H. Patterson
Assessor	J. H. Buzzard
Com'rs. Co. Ct.	Amos Barlow C. E. Beard J R Warwick
Surveyor	George Baxter
Coroner	George P. [illegible]

Board of Health—Dr J. V. Price, L. M. McClintic, M. J. McNeel, R. W. Hill.

Justices—Uriah Bird, Marlinton; A. C. L. Gatewood, Linwood; P. D. Arbogast, Green Bank; V. H. Grose, Huntersville; G R. Curry, Academy; T. A. Bruffey, Lobelia.

HOW TO FIND OUT.

Fill a bottle or common glass with your water and let it stand twenty four hours: a sediment or settling indicates an unhealthy condition of the kidneys; if it stains your linen it is evidence of kidney trouble; too frequent desire to pass it or pain in the back is also convincing proof that the kidneys and bladder are out of order.

What to Do.

There is comfort in the knowledge so often expressed, that Dr. Kilmer's Swamp Root, the great kidney remedy fulfills every wish in relieving pain in the back, kidneys, liver bladder and every part of the urinary passages. It corrects inability to hold urin and scalding pain in passing it, or bad effects following the use liquor, beer, or wine, and over comes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to get up many times during the night to urinate. The mild and extraordinary effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases If you need a medicine you should have the best. Sold by druggists, price fifty cents and one dollar. You may have a sample bottle ond pamphlet both sent free by mail, upon receipt of three two-cent stamps to cover cost of postage on the bottle. Mention The Times and send your address to Dr Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. The proprietors guarantee the genuineness of this offer.

YOUR FORTUNE is your health. Your happiness is your strength Keep the Head and Throat clear and healthy and your mind and brain is always at rest and ease. CUSHMAN'S MENTHOL INHALER is the greatest relief to mankind in all head troubles. CURES COLDS, SORE THROAT, CATARRH. That awful odor of Catarrh disappears by its use. Wonderful in Hay Fever and Asthma. ☞BUY ONLY CUSHMAN'S. If you can't get it at Druggists send for it. By mail, 50 cents. Send for Book on Menthol, free. CUSHMAN DRUG CO., VINCENNES, IND., U. S. A.

50 YEARS' EXPERIENCE

PATENTS

TRADE MARKS
DESIGNS
COPYRIGHTS &C.

Anyone sending a sketch and description may quickly ascertain our opinion free whether an invention is probably patentable. Communications strictly confidential. Handbook on Patents sent free. Oldest agency for securing patents. Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice, without charge, in the Scientific American.

A handsomely illustrated weekly. Largest circulation of any scientific journal. Terms, $3 a year; four months, $1. Sold by all newsdealers.

MUNN & Co. 361 Broadway, New York
Branch Office, 625 F St., Washington, D. C.

We Make WHEELS, Too!

MILLER RODE ONE 2093 MILES IN 132 HOURS

The Eldredge
$50.00

The Belvidere
$40.00

Superior to all others irrespective of price. Catalogue tells you why. Write for one.

NATIONAL SEWING MACHINE CO.,
339 BROADWAY, New York.
Factory, BELVIDERE, ILL.

DO YOU TRAVEL

Are you going to take a trip? Do you suffer from Severe Headaches, Nervousness, Seasickness or Exhaustion? Why not prevent it all by using CUSHMAN'S MENTHOL INHALER. Help that headache, cure that nervousness and seasickness by the use of this Inhaler, the greatest stimulant and preventative known. Wonderful relief in Hay Fever and Asthma. ☞BUY CUSHMAN'S INHALER and you will always use it. If you can't get it at Druggists send for it. By mail, 50 cents. Send for Book on Menthol, free. CUSHMAN DRUG CO., VINCENNES, IND., U. S. A.

HAZLEWOOD.—Randolph County.

Cattle are scarce here and bring a large price.

W. C. Hart, a lively correspondent to our three county papers, lives here.

It is nine miles from here to the great coal and timber belt on Roaring Creek, which is booming.

Rev Gilkison, pastor of the Beverly Presbyterian church, is holding a protracted meeting near here.

Stark Chenoweth got a finger cut off by a small edging saw in the chair factory recently.

The fight over the re-location of the court house is on again to some extent.

Rev D. G. Ervine, formerly of Edry, Pocahontas County, has accepted a good position in the Stave Factory.

The Rinard Brothers have several saw mills in operation in the neighborhood, which give employment to a good many men.

It is thought the West Virginia & P. Railroad will be built from Beverly to Huttonsville this summer.

A good horse belonging to a Mr Hill, of Travelers Repose, died in Valley Bend, on his return from Beverly with a load of goods.

The largest industry we have near here is the Stave and Chair Factory, owned by R. S. Chaffey. It employs 25 men. $1.20 is paid for common labor a day.

Our Sheriff, A. W. Hart, lives three miles from here with his aged father, Elder E. P. Hart, a preacher in the Old Side (commonly called Hard Shell) Baptist church.

War excitement is very high at present. The National Guard Company A is held in readiness at Elkins and are undergoing rigid drill by their Captain, John Collett, worthy Editor of the T. V. News. He is a brave officer of handsome physique, and beloved by his command and respected by his numerous acquaintances.

Hazlewood is a peaceable little village, situated two miles north of Beverly, on the Beverly and Fairmont Pike. There are members of the Presbyterian church and three branches of the Methodist church residing here, which comprise a good class under the charge of the M. E. Church South; Rev W. H. Iden Pastor. Politically, we are proud there is but one Republican in the community.

Frank McElwee and son Walter McElwee were recent guests at the Hazelwood House, kept by Calvin Hart, an ex-Confederate soldier who serued as No. 1 to a gun in McClanahan's Battery under General John D. Imboden. We are proud of several old Rebel soldiers in our community, some of whom attended the Reunion at Marlinton last September, and were well pleased, ane speak very highly of the kindness of the people of Marlinton. Some of our young men went along, and were even more pleased than the old Confederates. Not in the same way tho, but with the young ladies. For instance, Clifford Scott was so much attracted by one of the young ladies there that he declares he will go to Marlinton again this spring whether the Band goes or not. As he is a good boy, we wish him success.

DEMOCRAT.

Deafness Cannot be Cured.

by local applications, as they can not reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube gets inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed deafness is the result, and unless the inflamation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give one hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free
F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O.
Sold by Druggists, 75c
Hall's Family Pills are the best.

You Can't Make a White Plume from a Crow's Tail, nor a good Bicycle from Castings. The MONARCH is good all through.

Send for Catalogue.

Every Inch a Bicycle!

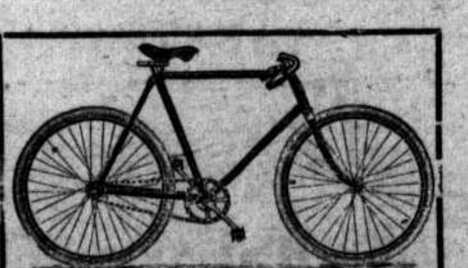
We want bright business men to represent us everywhere.

MONARCH CYCLE MFG. CO.
Chicago New York London.

Send nine two-cent stamps for Monarch Playing Cards. Regular 50c cards.

A. C. NICKEL, Sales Agent, SINKS GROVE, W. VA.

The Fifty Dollar Tribune,



THE BEST WHEEL FOR THE PRICE IN THE WORLD.

Don't Think of Buying Until You Have Seen It.

The Famous Blue Streak,

FASTER THAN EVER.

Write for Catalog.

The BLACK Mf'g. Co.,
Erie, Pa.

CANDY CATHARTIC
Cascarets
CURE CONSTIPATION
REGULATE THE LIVER
10c 25c 50c
ALL DRUGGISTS

OBITUARY.

Ah, why should bitter tears be shed
In sorrow o'er the mounded sod,
When verily there are no dead
Of all the children of our God?

They who are lost to outward sense
Have but flung off their robes of clay
And clothed in heavenly radiance
Attend us on our lonely way

While sorrow's tears our eyes have wet
Shed o'er the consecrated dust,
Too much our darkened souls forget
The lessons of enduring trust.

Let livin faith serenely pour
Her sunlight on our pathway dim,
And death can have no terrors more,
But holy joy shall walk with him
—Selected.

Lieut. John Jordan Beard.

It becomes our mournful duty to record the death of a widely-known and much esteemed citizen, John Jordan Beard, Huntersville, West Virginia. This event occurred rather unexpectedly. Monday, 11½ a. m., April 11th, 1898.

Lieut. Beard was the only son of the late Joseph Beard, Esq., and Mrs Mattie Beard, near Hillsboro. He was born in Greenbrier County, April 21st, 1835, and was married to Minerva, daughter of James Edmiston, Esq., September 1866. At the time of his death he was within ten days of being 63 years of age. By this event his attached family is bereaved of a kind tender husband and a very affectionate and indulgent father. The community at large honors his memory as that of a good man whose influence has been for intelligence and good morals.

In the war between the States he served in the Bath Squadron, and made a record as a gallant and distinguished soldier. Late in the war he received a frightful wound that came near ending his life at the time. He survived to the surprise of every person familiar with its nature. For more than thirty years this wound has been a great personal affliction, and it is believed hastened the termination of his useful life. He has been a resident of Huntersville about 21 years. During this time he served the county two terms as clerk of both courts.

Early in life he professed piety, and maintained a consistent character as such in the pale of the Methodist Episcopal Church. He was loyal and faithful to his communion and greatly attached to her doctrines and usages.

He is survived by his wife and two sons, Harry and Fred. Beard.

Being as Lieut. Beard was, a person of ardent social and domestic impulses, as a matter of course it was painful for him to think of the sundering of sweet home ties, yet in his sincere way he assured his loved ones that they should not grieve too much about him, for all was and would be well with him.

A month or so since we had a pleasant interchange of views concerning the 23d Psalm. In this Psalm it appears thst nothing but the shadow would touch those following the Lord our Shepherd when it comes to passing through the Valley. Having been a brave soldier and familiar with battle scenes in the presence of the enemy, that at such a time sitting down at a prepared feast would be one of the last things a leader in battle would be likely to think of doing, Lieut. Beard was prepared to appreciate words in the same Psalm where it is said: "Thou preparest a table before me in the presence of mine enemies, Thou anointest my head with oil, my cup runneth over."

It would have been a very unfeeling heart not to have been thrilled at noticing how the countenance of this veteran Christian soldier hopefully beamed as he caught the idea, then how secure those must be who follow Christ, the good Shepherd or Leader, who gave his life for his flock, and can spread a table for them in the presence of the world, the flesh, and Satan, and permit goodness and mercy to follow his people all the days of their lives. And besides all this have hopes of dwelling in his house forever.

In compliance with his wishes, the funeral obsequies were of the simplest character. Every thing like ostentation was carefully avoided. Some of us felt that this really was one of the few occasions where a marked demonstration would have been in good form. It seems, however, he desired it otherwise. Instead of oratorical eulogy and firing of musketry by platoons over his grave, there was sung "When the roll is called up yonder I'll be there." Then loving hands laid wreath and cross of flowers, and all others gave as their tribute their praises and their tears. And the dear old soldier now bivouacs in his his silent tent, where the storm that wrecks the wintry sky is no more to be heeded than summer evening's latest sigh that that lulls the flowers to rest.

W. T. P.

Mrs Mattie Ann Loury.

Mrs Mattie Ann Loury died at her home near Huntersville, April 8th, 1898, after an illness of several months' duration of a severe and complicated character.

This estimable lady was a daughter of Mr and Mrs Jacob Vanburen, of Anthony's Creek, near Loury's Mill. She was born June 18, 1850; married James W. Loury April 11, 1871, and died April 9th, 1898, aged 47 year, 9 months, and 21 days. She is survived by her husband and two sons.

Mrs Loury was highly esteemed as an excellent person in all the relations of life. She was an exemplary professing Christian in the pale of the Presbyterian church. Every person acquainted with her speaks of her in the kindest way, illustrating that a woman who fears the Lord "She shall be praised."

The crowning sorrow of her life was the painful and distressing illness and early death of her only daughter Bettie, just verging upon promising womanhood. This occurred about three years since, and from that time Mrs Loury's thoughts and hopes have been on heaven and heavenly themes in a way that was very impressive.

Nothing could be more touching than to abserve this fond mother so frail and feeble slowly ascending the cemetery hill to visit her loved child's resting place, plant flowers, weep, and pray; then returning home her countenance bright with hope there would be a joyful reunion when Jesus returns as he promises. The same Good Being that kept the flowers alive planted on that grave and had them bloom when the dark, cold winter was over ann gone, she felt assured would care for the loved daughter who wns of more value than many flowers. In conversation with her physician and other friends her testimony was to this effect: "Do not think that I am afraid of death, for it is all right with me whatever God wills." Her last words were to one of her sons: "Johnnie, the Lord will take care of us all."

About four o'clock on the afternoon of Easter Sunday, attended by more than two hundred sympathizing friends, lovingly and tenderly she was placed in her grave. The memorial address was from the words: "Wherefore comfort one another with these words." 1 Thess. iv. 18.

W. T. P.

Genevieve Silva.

Died, April 12th, Genevieve, daughter of Mr and Mrs C. C. Silva, near Buckeye, aged 2 years and 6 months. "Is it well with the child?" And she answered "It is well."—2 Kings iv. 26.

W. T. P.

Trustee's Sale.

PURSUANT to a deed of trust made on the 12th day of July, 1897, by John T. McGraw to the undersigned trustee, and recorded in the Clerk's office of the county court of Pocahontas County, in Deed Book No. 27, page 432, to secure the payment of two certain notes each for $2833.33 negotiable and payable at the People's National Bank, of Charlottesville, Virginia, with 6 per cent interest from July 12, 1897, until paid to Samuel B. Woods, and costs of executing the said deed, and default having been made in the payment of the first of said notes, and being required by the said beneficiary, Samuel B. Woods, the undersigned trustee will on the

7TH DAY OF MAY, 1898,

between the hours of ten o'clock A. M. and four o'clock P. M., at the front door of the court house of Pocahontas County, West Virginia, in the town of Marlinton, proceed to sell at public auction to the highest bidder the land conveyed in said deed of trust, comprising a tract of 1000 acres of land situated im said Pocahontas County, lying on the east side of the West Fork of Greenbrier River, and bounded as follows:

Beginning at two maples, cherry, beech, and yew pine, on the east bank of the Greenbrier River, and with the old line S 78¾ E 812 poles to two pines and a beech in a hollow on the west side of the divide between the west branch and Little River, 5½ poles to the north of a blazed line, S 24 55 M W 204 to a beech, witnessed by two yew pines and two beeches on a north hillside corner to the other 1000 acres of the Slaughter land, sold Craig & Upton, the same leaving the old line N 78¾ W 852 poles, at 133 poles crosses the top of the divide at 210 poles passes two marked sugar-trees by a small spring or drain, 235 poles crosses a north eastern branch of Paul's Lick Run, at 360 poles passes a large marked cherry on top of a spur of Paul's Lick Ridge, at 433 crosses the north-western fork of Paul's Lick Run, at 563 poles passes a marked birch on top of a spur of Paul's Lick Ridge, at 663 poles crosses Paul's Lick Run about six poles above the Mud Lick, at 745 poles crosses the top of the north spur of Hunter's Camp Ridge, to two maples witnessed by two birches on the east bank of the west fork of the river, thence up the river with its meanderings to the beginning It being that tract of land conveyed to John T. McGraw by Samuel B. Woods and wife by deed bearing date on the 12th day of July, 1897, and recorded in the clerk's office of the county court of Pocahontas County West Virginia, in Deed Book No. 27, page 445.

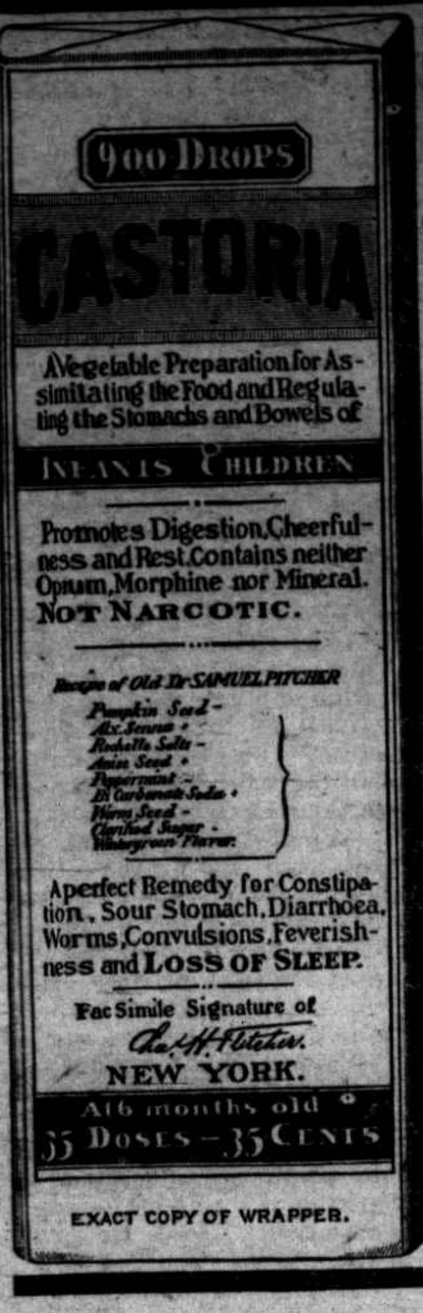
Terms of Sale: Cash

Given under my hand this 12th day of March, 1898.

JAMES MORGAN, Trustee.

Don't Tobacco Spit and Smoke Your Life Away.

To quit tobacco easily and forever, be magnetic, full of life, nerve and vigor, take No-To-Bac, the wonder-worker, that makes weak men strong. All druggists, 50c or $1. Cure guaranteed Booklet and sample free. Address Sterling Remedy Co, Chicago or New York



900 DROPS
CASTORIA
A Vegetable Preparation for Assimilating the Food and Regulating the Stomachs and Bowels of INFANTS CHILDREN
Promotes Digestion, Cheerfulness and Rest. Contains neither Opium, Morphine nor Mineral.
NOT NARCOTIC.
Recipe of Old Dr SAMUEL PITCHER
Pumpkin Seed -
Alx. Senna +
Rochelle Salts -
Anise Seed +
Peppermint -
Bi Carbonate Soda +
Worm Seed -
Clarified Sugar
Wintergreen Flavor.
A perfect Remedy for Constipation, Sour Stomach, Diarrhoea, Worms, Convulsions, Feverishness and LOSS OF SLEEP.
Fac Simile Signature of
Chas H. Fletcher.
NEW YORK.
At 6 months old
35 DOSES—35 CENTS
EXACT COPY OF WRAPPER.

CASTORIA

The Kind You Have Always Bought, Bears the Fac-simile Signature

—OF—

Chas H. Fletcher.

ON THE WRAPPER OF EVERY BOTTLE.

THE KIND YOU HAVE ALWAYS BOUGHT.

THE CENTAUR COMPANY, NEW YORK CITY.

The Osborne

SPRING-TOOTH HARROW.

The frames are made in one piece of steel angle bar, and formed to withstand all strain without buckling or warping. The teeth in this harrow are so spaced that they will not trail each other, Pulverizing the ground thoroughly. The steel pipe tooth bars are mounted in maleable boxes secured to the frame, and will not bend or break. The peculiar shape of the teeth curling twothirds about the bar gives the greatest amount of spring possible without straining the bolts, and because of their shape and fastening are stronger than used on any other harrow. By the levers the depth of work can be regulated while the harrow is in motion. The draft is steady and direct as the harrow has no side motion.

ALL THESE FEATURES COMBINED HAVE MADE THE OSBORNE CELEBRATED.

It has no EQUAL,—it never will have a SUPERIOR.

Call and examine the Osborne line consisting of— BINDERS, MOWERS, RAKES, TEDDERS, HARROWS AND CULTIVATORS.

The most complete line of Farming Implements to be found in the State.

FOR SALE BY—
EAGLE & OTT,
RONCEVERTE, W. VA.

"The D. & H." ROAD RACER

WEIGHT 21 POUNDS.

The Ideal Wheel for the Scorcher.

A WINNER SURE TO PLEASE

WE are desirous of introducing the D. & H. Bicycles throughout the country and offer special inducements to agents and riders as a matter of introduction. Write for our Special Offer.

The D. & H. Bicycles have many superior points of excellence in advance of any other Bicycle made. Prices from $40.00 to $75.00. Write for particulars. Address,

ADVT. DEPT. Budd Bros. Mfg. Co., Glens Falls, N. Y.

Special We have an offer, (Our Offer No. 2) for every School Teacher in the United States. Teachers write us quick.

Winchester
MEANS PERFECTION WHEN APPLIED TO REPEATING RIFLES SHOT-GUNS SINGLE-SHOT RIFLES
AND ALL KINDS OF AMMUNITION

Pronounced by Experts the Standard of the World. Ask your dealer for WINCHESTER make of Gun or Ammunition and take no other.
FREE:—Our new Illustrated Catalogue.
WINCHESTER REPEATING ARMS CO., New Haven, Ct.

The Pocahontas Times.

Andrew & Norman Price, Owners. "Montani Semper Liberi!" Andrew Price, Editor

VOL. 15, NO. 40 MARLINTON, WEST VIRGINIA, APRIL 29, 1898. $1.00 PER YEAR

No. 083. Made in 54, 48, 42, 36 inch widths.

$2.25 buys this Brass-trimmed White Enameled Bedstead. In stock in all widths; length, 75 inches. It has one-inch pillars, two-inch brass vases and caps. This bed retails at from 5 to 6 dollars.

Buy of the maker and save the middleman's large profits. Our Catalogues are mailed for the asking. Complete lines of Furniture, Carpets, Draperies, Crockery, Pictures, Mirrors, Stoves, Refrigerators, Baby Carriages, Lamps, Bedding, etc., are contained in these books. Our Lithographed Carpet Catalogue showing all goods in hand-painted colors is also free; if Carpet Samples are wanted mail us 8c. in stamps. Drop a postal at once to the money-savers and remember that we pay freight this month on purchases of Carpets, Lace Curtains, Portieres and Rugs amounting to $9.00 and over.

Julius Hines & Son
BALTIMORE, MD.
Please mention this Paper.

LAW CARDS.

N. C. McNEIL,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

Will practice in the Courts of Pocahontas and adjoining counties and in the Court of Appeals of the State of West Virginia.

L. M. McCLINTIC,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

Will practice in the Courts of Pocahontas and adjoining counties and in the Supreme Court of Appeals.

H. S. RUCKER,
ATTY. AT LAW & NOTARY PUBLIC
HUNTERSVILLE, W. VA.

Will practice in the courts of Pocahontas county and in the Supreme Court of Appeals.

J. W. ARBUCKLE,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
LEWISBURG, W. VA.

Will practice in the courts of Greenbrier and Pocahontas counties. Prompt attention given to claims for collection in Pocahontas county.

W. A. BRATTON,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

Prompt and careful attention given to all legal business.

ANDREW PRICE,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

Will be found at Times Office.

SAM. B. SCOTT, JR.
LAWYER,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

All legal business will receive prompt attention.

H. M. LOCKRIDGE,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
HUNTERSVILLE, W. VA.

Prompt and careful attention given all legal work.

JOHN A. PRESTON FRED. WALLACE
PRESTON & WALLACE,
Attorneys at Law,
LEWISBURG, W. VA.

Will practice in the Courts of Greenbrier and adjoining counties, and in the Court of Appeals of the State of West Virginia.

PHYSICIANS' CARDS.

DR. O. J. CAMPBELL,
DENTIST,
MONTEREY, VA.

Will visit Pocahontas County at least twice a year. The exact date of his visit will appear in this paper.

DR. J. H. WEYMOUTH,
RESIDENT DENTIST,
ELKINS, W. VA.

Will visit Pocahontas County every spring and fall. The exact date of each visit will appear in The Times.

J. M. CUNNINGHAM, M. D.,
PHYSICIAN & SURGEON,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

Office next door to C. A. Yeager's Hotel. Residence opposite Hotel. All calls promptly answered.

$18. IMPROVED SINGER FREIGHT PREPAID.

For this style new high arm sewing machine with all attachments warranted 10 years. If machine is not satisfactory in 30 days money will be refunded. Send cash with order. Descriptive circular sent on application.

WHAYNE M'F'G CO.,
600 FOURTH AVE., LOUISVILLE, KY

For The Pocahontas Times

The Treasure Trove.

XII.

THE love affair of Lewis Cassidy and Miss Liza J. Casey was as well known to the people of the county as if both had a chronic case of the measles. There were many who espoused the side of the young people, while others would have liked to see the old grandmother triumph in her efforts to keep the Cassidy blood from mingling with her own. There is no doubt but that in this matter the old grandmother was actuated by the noblest, purest and most unselfish love that is known in this world--that of the parent who watches over the welfare of the child. But parents have been so frequently mistaken and there are so many cases where the natural guardian breaks the hearts of young people, in this unselfish way that there is no precedent on which we can rely, and every case must stand on its own merits. It is especially hard when the young man has to bear the sins, or the reputed faults, of his ancestors. The Casey's and the Cassidy's had belonged to different churches and had voted and fought against each other for generations, and the old lady had been most wonderfully surprised and shocked when she found that her granddaughter had been writing to and receiving letters from Lewis Cassidy. She had blamed the whole business on the young man, and Liza Jane had had enough discretion to hide the fact from her grandmother, as she did from every one, not excepting her lover, whom she kept in dreadfully hot water, that she was not the entire mistress of her own affections. What that warm hearted young lady thought in the secret and most high places of her inmost nature is what we can never hope to know.

It was generally surmised that she was in love with Lewis Cassidy, and there were many who knew her thought that if she did love a man that it would be no half-hearted affection, and that it would be his own fault if he failed to get her to keep.

The grandmother kept up a continual skirmish about the business and she had grown very secure in the feeling that they had got over their weakness for each other. She had never said she would rather see her granddaughter in the grave than married to that man, for parents in that neighborhood han been broken of the habit of saying that years ago, when a stern man had said it to his daughter, and in a week had seen her in her coffin. But the old lady had said a great many other things, and Liza Jane had gone on loving the man of her choice, and keeping away from him and neither writing to him or allowing him to come to see her. Her sweet-heart had written to her that he would wait until she was twenty-one and that she should either take him and be poor, or leave him and be rich. He also told her that he had decided that he would not move one step out of his way to court the old lady, as he had not given her any just cause for offence, and that he had intended to be as proud as she was. But when she was twenty-one, he would be ready to take her and provide for her, and she should say then. And that she would be an enternal fool if she took him, and that he would not ask her if he could do without her. After he had thus laid down the law to her, he told her how he loved her and why he loved her, and weakened so that the letter must have been pitiful to see, and all the good undone.

When Weston became acquainted with Cassidy that afternou, he liked him from the beginning, and a friendship sprung up that will last a life time. Weston had no difficulty in getting him to speak of his notable love-case for he was full of it, and the lover usually will tell enough to condemn him if he is assured that his hearers will listen to it.

During the ride, he gave Weston a full history of his late trials. The winter before he had occasion to look up the date of the spring election of school officers, and found that it came on the same day that his sweet-heart would be twenty-one. It suddenly occurred to him that it might be his lucky day and he had already thought of being a candidate for County Superintendant. He would risk all on that day. Thoughts of being County Superintendant of Free Schools had crossed his mind, as it had every young school-teacher, but the time was some where in the distant future. But this put a new face on the matter. If he could only be elected to that office it would pay a sufficient salary to justify any young lady in marrying him, no matter how many Bald Knobs she would run the risk of losing.

There was one great drawback. The place had been filled for many years by middle aged men, and it had not occurred to any of Cassidy's friends that so young a man was an eligible candidate for the place. It was important that the public attention should be called to him before it was too late.

For several days after the plan had matured, he thought that he lived among the dumbest set of people that were ever born. In vain did he turn the conversation to the subject of the important business that was before the people of electing the head of the free schools, the stupidity of the people was appalling. They would name different old fogies, who had fossilized as public school teachers, and were entirely innocent of the fact that the man they were talking to was the very best man for the place.

One Saturday he took the bull by the horns and rode to the county seat. He was a friend of the editor of the Blast, and he had talked with him only a few minutes until he was vastly relieved by finding that he was talking to a man of fine and delicate perception. The Editor said:

"I tell you, Lew, you ought to run for county superintendent, yourself. A man never gets any thing unless he asks for it."

Then Cassidy owned up, and asked the editor what to do. The editor without a moment's hesitation said:

"You must have a call. How would this do?" And he turned and wrote rapidly for a short time, and handed this communication to him:

> Blasted Rock, W. Va.
>
> The Editor of The Blast:
>
> Dear Sir.—In looking over the field in seach of available timber for a county superintendent of free schools, we have in mind a certain gentleman who is very eligle for the place. While he may not be as old as the hills, he is as well prepared for the office as many an older man, and he is well known as a capable and progressive teacher. We do not hesitate to say that he stands at the top of the profession, and that he is in education and moral character as well fitted for the place as any man we could name. We refer to Mr Lewis Cassidy, of Glade District, and we can assure him that he will receive many votes from the UPPER END.

Then the editor said the week following a voice would come from the Lower End that agreed with the Upper End, and that Lewis Cassidy was a good man for the place. When the conspirators had instituted the campaign so nobly, a young lady teacher, whom Cassidy had helped on her examination, wrote, under a nom de plume, from where she was teaching, on the headwaters of Crooked Creek, saying that all the people on This Side of the Mountain were for him; and another letter from The Hills recommended him, and his boom seemed to be very well under way.

The present incumbent, Robert A. Holliday, a middle aged man noted for his sandy chin whiskers, in which tobacco juice found an abiding place, and his brass watch chain, got on his mule and rode to the county seat, seeing people and causing them to promise to vote for him. He announced himself in The Blast and reluctantly turned over a five dollar bill. From that time on Bob Holliday and his mule knew no rest. Cassidy announced himself and interviewed the aristocracy of the town—the bar. The lawyers had all liked him before-hand and they decided that they would help him in the fight. Cassidy had worked for some of the more prominent lawyers who had been up for office, and in the little bar associations that meet daily, they declared for Cassidy. Even Judge Wayland was constrained to announce, "D—n old Bob Holliday, any way. He scheduled that very same mule when I tried to collect an honest store debt off him."

And the prosecuting attorney consigned him to the same place and said, "He defeated half the indictments I tried to make last court by standing around electioneering the grand jury. I've had it in for him for a long time."

Cassidy took his horse and followed Holliday up streams, down valleys, over mountains, through field and forest, and saw the voters. Both got the promise of most. Occasionally they would meet a man who did not like being electioneered. One case especially Cassidy would relate with a great deal of relish.

He was riding up Butler Creek one hot summer day. He came to the house of an old settler, and he gave the customary "Hello!"

"Hello yerself!" answered a dingy old lady knocking the ashes out of her pipe.

"Is Mr Kingbolt at home?"

"Yes, he's up yander in the Hamilton Hackin' a fur'n' out corn ground;" and by turning up his face, as if he was dinking out of a jug, the young office-seeker saw, near the sky-line, the elector working a gray horse across the field.

Hitching up his horse he walked up about a mile of mountain and came to the field, heated and tired. An old man with forbidding aspect came across the plowed ground, shouting at an old gray mare. He turned the mare and was starting back. Cassidy had to call to him:

"Say, Mr Kingbolt, I want to speak to you a minute."

"Well, spit 'er out."

"My name is Cassidy, and I am running for county superintendent and would like to get you to give me a lift next Tuesday, a week."

"Wouldn't vote fer a Cassidy to clean out er stable!"

"All right, Mr Kingbolt, if I was a swearing man I would tell you to go to the devil! Good day."

This pleased the cantankerous old customer so much that he told it far and near, and voted for him on the day of election.

When that memorable day arrived the young candidate worked for votes, and when the sun was low he rode toward the county seat. The way he chose led by the home of his sweet-heart. The sun was down as he neared the house and at the milk gap he saw the girl just as she had finished milking the cows. The excitement had passed away and the hard riding and hard work of the campaign showed in his dejected manner, as he came up to his sweet heart. She had been thinking all day, and when she saw him standing there, utterly worn out, as he took her hand all the pity of her generous nature stirred her and she held up her face and whispered, "Kiss me!" And the light of the fuller life broke upon them.

"Lew, I'm afraid you ain't elected, but no body can beat you with me," she told him, and said that she was ready to go with him now. That for several days she had been getting ready. A week before the sheriff had come to collect taxes, and told her grandmother that Lew was making a fine run, but would certainly be beaten, and then she knew she must make it up to him. Her grandmother would never consent, so they must go away together. And in a few minutes she sent him on to town to see after the election. But he was to come back for her and they would go down to Prattsville and be married at the parsonage. She was twenty-one and her grandmother must not know anything about it until it was over, for there never would be any making up in that case.

Cassidy, after having ridden a few miles, woke to the fact that he was either elected to a county office or defeated. He got to the hotel, ate supper and went to his room and his thoughts were all about the sweet girl who had promised to be his.

The next morning he came down to find that he was elected, and the full returns showed that he had several hundred votes to spare.

As he rode home that afternoon he saw a man prostrate by the roadside with his face turned to the sun; a mule grazed in his vicinity. It was the Hon. Robert A. Halliday, who had comforted himself in his defeat. Cassidy dragged him into the shade, caught the mule and hitched it up, and having been the cause of all that downfall, he did all in his power to rectify it.

(To be Continued.)

ORIN W. SLAVIN, LIFE SKETCH

Orin Watts Slavin was born in Pocahontas County, West Virginia, January 29th, 1875. He departed this life April 11th, 1898, aged 23 years, 2 months, 9 days.

He was the oldest son of Winfield and Nannie Slavin. He was a young man of promise, gifted mind, genial manners, well informed on the topics of the day. When only a boy he was employed in the Times printing office, and afterwards he and Mr S. B. Scott published the Pocahontas Herald. He was full of hope and gave promise of doing something in the world.

Last spring brother Orins health began to decline, and he went to Kansas expecting the change to restore his health, and there he intended to go into business. Instead of improving he grew worse, and, seeing that his end was near, he came back to the old home, February 4th. Disease had dealt heavily with him. The strong, manly form was light, the hectic flush was upon the pale cheek.

Mother and friends could not nurse him back to life; but we could sit by him, pray with him, and talk with him of tnat life that knows no end. On the 19th of March he was converted to God, and on April 1st was received into the M. E. Church, South. From this time on he had a clear Christian experience. He had a foretaste of God's peace, in his joy he said "Heaven is so near." His mind was clear to the end. On Monday, April 11th at 3 p. m., he peacefully passed away.

Orin Slaven was a warm hearted friend. His devotion to his mother was beautiful. His young life has been strangely cut short. God knows best. He was the first member of the Marvin Epworth League to pass away. Who next?

On Wednesday at 10 a. m. his funeral service was conducted at Marvin Chapel by his pastor, assisted by Rev Perry and Dr Sydenstricker. He was laid to rest in the Ruckman graveyard. The trailing arbutus was in full bloom close by his grave. It had been awakened from the sleep of winter to beauty and fragrance. Our brother's body shall also awake and be glorified.

JOHN H. DILLS.

ANY dishonest contractor, whose wealth accumulates while his work decays, ought to read, with a blush of shame, of a new bridge across the Danube. Pillars of a bridge built at the same place by the Emperor Trajan are to form a part of the structure. The engineers attest the strength of the Roman work under an emperor whose reign began exactly eighteen hundred years ago. To do as the Romans did may sometimes mean a descent to the lowest vices, but it may also signify a noble integrity in building as in being.

"NINETY-EIGHT per cent. of genius is hard work," says Thomas A. Edison, and he adds, "As for genius being inspired, inspiration is in most cases another word for perspiration." As the foremost example in the world of one type of genius, Mr Edison is an authority on the subject, and his aphorism corroborates Johnson's often-quoted definition of genius, "the infinite capacity for taking pains."

GENIAL BOB BURDETTE echoes the lament of a vast number of people when he says, "Every day I am sorry for something I did yesterday, and live in a chronic state of remorse and hair-shirt. I only hope the day after I die I shall not be sorry I did it."

THE hair of the head to be an ornament to the wearer should receive painstaking care, and if its color is faded Hall's Hair Renewer should be applied.

"Your pills are the best in the world. I used to be annoyed with constipation until I began using them. Now I have no trouble of that kind any more and I attribute my recovery to the use of your valuable medicine. In the springtime of the year I always take your *

Pistols and Pestles.

The duelling pistol now occupies its proper place, in the museum of the collector of relics of barbarism. The pistol ought to have beside it the pestle that turned out pills like bullets, to be shot like bullets at the target of the liver. But the pestle is still in evidence, and will be, probably, until everybody has tested the virtue of Ayer's Cathartic Pills.

* This testimonial will be found in full in Ayer's "Curebook" with a hundred others. Free. Address J. C. Ayer Co., Lowell, Mass.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

How John W. Grimes Got Married in Washington.

Editor Pocahontas Times:

A letter from here at this time may be of interest to your readers.

Congress has at last acted and we have come face to face with war. The die is cast for weal or woe, and we have no alternative. It matters not now whether we wore the Gray or the Blue—we stand together as brethren, as kinsmen, as patriotic Americans. So far we have only seen the "poetic side of a tragedy that has drenched the earth in blood and filled the centuries with lamentation." Now comes death, desolation, ruined homes, and broken hearts.

After an all day and night session, about 3 o'clock this morning both Houses of Congress passed what is known as the Foraker Resolutions, with some slight modifications. They will be immediately transmitted to the President and approved by him. This means virtually a declaration of war. They proclaim to the world that "the people of the Island of Cuba are and of right ought to be free and independent." The United States demand that the government of Spain at once relinquish its authority and government in the island of Cubo and withdraw its land and naval forces from Cuba and Cuban waters. The President is directed and empowered to use the entire land and naval forces of the United States and to call out the militia of the United States to such extent as may be necessary to carry these resolutions into effect. The United States disclaims any intention to exercise sovereignty, jurisdiction, or control over said island, except for the pacification thereof, and will leave its government to its own people.

General Fitzhugh Lee received on his return here last weeek, the heartiest and grandest ovation ever accorded an American citizen. He, in good taste, declined a public reception tendered him by the old Confederate and Union veterans, the city officials, and general public. He has indicated a desire to lead our army into Cuba, and will probably be offered the commission of Major General of Volunteers for this purpose. If needed, the Virginians and West Virginians who honor the name and fame of the Lees, will rally around him under the old flag by the tens of thousands.

I was in the old Greenbrier Cavalry with General R. E. Lee, at Valley Mountain, in your county, in the fall of 1861. Had typhoid fever and was carried to Col. Paul McNeel's residence, where under the tender care of his kind family and the skill of Dr Wallace I recovered after six weeks. His sons Andrew and George were members of the same Company. I afterwards organized Company A of the 36 Virginia Battalion of Cavalry. George, William, and Ruben Overholt, Isaac Hill, George Key, Ruckman, Payne, and Brown—all good citizens and brave soldiers from your county—joined my company and remained true to the close of the war. Poor Ruckman fell by the wayside at the battle of Morristown, Tennessee, in March, 1864. I have many pleasant,—with some sad,—recollections of old Pocahontas, and would like to see again the few friends still left there. I was pained to hear of the ill health of my old friend Captain William L. McNeel. No county or people ever had a better citizen or nobler man. My last trip thro your county was in June, 1864, a wounded prisoner and unwilling visitor.

By the way, I had the pleasure of meeting accidentally Mr John W. Grimes and Miss Lura H. Moore, two young and interesting citizens of Dilley's Mill, Pocahontas County, who came here to join hands and hearts. They were married on the 13th instant in this city by Rev J. Fred Heisse of the 5th Street M. E. Church. Colonel W. L. Bridges, former Superintendent of our West Virginia Penitentiary, and myself acted as sponsors. After the union it gave us pleasure to chaperon them thro the U. S. Treasury, White House, Cochran's Gallery, Smithsonian Institution, National Museum, Surgery Museum, Fishery Building, National Library—the finest and prettiest building in the world,—the Capital building, both houses of Congress, etc., etc.

I introduced them to W. J. Bryan, the next President of the United States; Joseph Bailey of Texas, the Democratic leader of the House; McMillon of Tennessee, and others of national reputation.

Some one told Mr Bryan "that these two young people had just that day been married and had come all the way from the mountains of West Virginia to shake hands wtth him." He as quick as thought replied: "Now young man you really did not do that, is it not a case of 16 to 1?"—16 to get married and 1 to see him.

Mr and Mrs Grimes,—"two minds with a single thought, two hearts that beat as one,"—departed for home on the evening of the 14th, with my prayers and blessing; no doubt feeling this was the most pleasant trip they had ever taken.

Yours truly,
J. COLEMAN ALDERSON.

All Want Shoulder Straps.

The News gravely informs its readers that Mr C. D. Elliot has gone to Washington to offer his services to raise a regiment of soldiers to fight the Spaniards. He might set a good example by offering to be one of a thousand men to enlist in a regiment. But out of all the patriots we have read about we have not heard of a single one volunteering to carry a musket in the front ranks of the infantry. It seems that all those who are getting free advertising of their desire to serve their country have a shoulder strap sign tacked to their announcement.—Parkersburg Sentinel.

Deafness Cannot be Cured,

by local applications, as they can not reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube gets inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed deafness is the result, and unless the inflamation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give one hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O.
Sold by Druggists, 75c
Hall's Family Pills are the best.

Beauty Is Blood Deep.

Clean blood means a clean skin. No beauty without it. Cascarets, Candy Cathartic clean your blood and keep it clean, by stirring up the lazy liver and driving all impurities from the body. Begin to-day to banish pimples, boils, blotches, blackheads, and that sickly bilious complexion by taking Cascarets,—beauty for ten cents. All druggists, satisfaction guaranteed, 10c, 25c, 50c.

CASTORIA.

The fac-simile signature of Chas. H. Fletcher is on every wrapper.

Educate Your Bowels With Cascarets.
Candy Cathartic, cure constipation forever. 10c, 25c. If C. C. C. fail, druggists refund money.

The Pocahontas Times,

Hear, Land o' Cakes and brither Scots,
Frae Maidenkirk to Johnny Groats,
If there's a hole in a' your coats,
I rede ye tent it;
A chiel's amang you takin' notes,
An' faith he'll prent it.—BURNS

Local Events.

JAKE GRANT, a lumberman who worked on William's River, has joined the United States Army.

FINE laces, silks and dress trimmings of all kinds are special features in MRS CUNNINGHAM'S stock.

HANNAH & HARPER, Frost, W. Va. are receiving a nice line of new goods this week. It will pay you to examine their stock before buying.

DR LIGON is now the fortunate owner of 460 sheep and lambs. Thirty days ago his flock numbered only 230 head. Quite a number of lambs perished, besides.

A LAW-SUIT is pending between S. H. Clark Admr. vs Wm. L. McNeel. It was set for last Saturday and McClintic and Bratton went down from Marlinton as counsel. The suit was withdrawn and another started on the same matter to be heard May 14.

A. M. MCLAUGHLIN brought up 106 cattle last week, 35 yearlings and 70 twos and threes. The small cattle he left at the Johnson place at Marlinton, and the rest were taken to Elk. He has in all 87 large cattle which are as fat now as ordinary cattle are at the end of the season.

FOR quite a number of years there has not been such an influx of of cattle and horses as the present season, to Clover Creek, Elk. and Back Mountain. The pastures and ranges appear to be stocked to repletion and some parties from abroad have been disappointed in their efforts to secure summering for their stock.

WE hear of a Pocahontas storekeeper who has very little competition, there being no other store within twelve miles of his place. His custom is to charge extra for wrapping up goods. For instance, if the customer expects him to wrap up a lot of sugar five cents is added to the bill. But it must be said to his credit that he sells at short profit at a certain per cent. which does not vary with the goods.

DORSEY LITTLE, the nephew and adopted son of Joseph B. McNeel, of Buck's Run, called and presented us a very fine specimen of a stone tomahawk, or "celt," to be added to the Times collection. He is a son of Frank Little, of Addison, and tho he has lived in the adjoining county from his father during the fourteen years of his life, and kept up a friendly correspondence with him, he does not remember ever having seen him. He is contemplating a visit to him at rn early date.

UP-TO-DATE laces play a leading part in the season's styles. Stylish laces are in demand, but not all laces are stylish. A little care in choosing laces may save you some regerts. I have the latest styles in laces, and cost no more than the out of date. Now a word about ladies' trimmed hats: The millinery manufacturers are employing the very best hat trimmers; their profit is only on the material for trimming the hat—they charge only what they have to pay. Please call and examine my line before purchasing. P. GOLDEN.

WE have to report some new devilment on the part of a rooster, such as probably has never before been laid at the door of a chicken. He stood on the ground and picked all the blossoms off a peach-tree. It was a very tall rooster and a very small tree. Calvin W. Price imported a Light Brahma rooster, and has an improved peach-tree, both of which are favorites. The peach-tree is a healthy little shrub about four feet high, and put out seven blossoms. The rooster came along the other day and reached up and ate all the blossoms except one before he was discovered and driven away.

DURING the war, General Fitzhugh Lee had an adventure on Cheat in this county. He was then a young officer, and rode out from the camp with a kinsman, a Col. Washington on a pleasure excursion. He proposed returning soon but Col Washington asked him if he was afraid. This put him on his mettle and they went farther. On Cheat Mountain they were bushwhacked and a volley from the ambush killed Col Washington and disabled Lee's horse. He mounted his dead friend's horse and rode away before the guns could be reloaded.

AT the present term of the Greenbrier Court the grand jury worked for several days trying to find indictments against those who have been presenting forged prescriptions to druggists for whiskey Hundreds of the prescriptions were pronounced forgeries, but they seemed to be unable to fasten the guilt on anyone. At length they made an indictment against a young man who lives in the country, and it now turns out that he can not write his own name, much less that of any one else. While such a man may be guilty of forgery, it is a unique case where a man is charged with this crime who can neither read nor write.

Death of Mrs Ligon.

At 2 o'clock Monday morning, Mrs Sally Gatewood Ligon, wife of Dr John Ligon of Clover Lick, peacefully passed away surrounded by her loved ones.

Her illness had been one of several months' duration, and for a long time she and her family knew that death must soon intervene. It was her lot to linger long as she approached the grave, but it was with an unfaltering trust. Theirs to see her slowly sink under a hopeless and incurable malady and vainly try to recall to health and strength and to alleviate the sufferings of the one who bound that family so closely together.

We cannot refrain at this melancholy time from endeavoring to pay a tribute to the memory of the deceased, tho in doing so we realize how hopeless it is to express what we feel. Hers was a refined, sensitive, Christian spirit, and the effects of her influence will never die out. Her life lay in pleasant places, and she made such a home and reared such a family that even the casual visitor looked back on a visit to that household as one of the bright places in his life. The refining influences of her life were not confined to her own family, by any means. She had an instinctive dread of all that was low, evil, or unbecoming, and her intellectuality enabled her to make this predominant feature of her nature very impressive. These elevating influences have been felt by many far and near, She was a loving wife, a devoted mother, a generous friend, an interesting companion, a famous housekeeper, as well as homemaker; and she is justly entitled to all these attributes.

At the time of her death she was in her fifty-sixth year. She was the daughter and only child by the first marriage of the late John W. Warwick. Almost her entire life was spent at Clover Lick, the most beautiful farm in Pocahontas County. She leaves surviving her her husband, seven daughters, and one son. Her eldest daughter Mrs C. P. Dorr, preceded her to the grave, in 1892.

Mrs Ligon was a member of the Episcopal church, and was buried from the beautiful church erected on the home place by herself and husband. Long will she live in the memory of those who knew and loved her as one of the kindest, brightest, and best women who have ever lived;

"It singeth low in every heart,
We hear it each and all,
A song of those who answer not,
However we may call.

"They throng the silence of the breast,
We see them as of yore.
The kind, the true, the brave, the sweet
Who walk with us no more."

Turk vs. Skiles.

The case of Turk vs Skiles from this county was decided last week by the Supreme Court, and the decision of the lower court affirmed. This ends the battle which has been going on in the courts for years. The property in controversary is the hotel at the bridge built by Captain Jack Apperson about 1882. It was sold to Mrs Janie B. Skiles, and the purchase money bonds turned over to creditors of Apperson. A deed of trust was given by the Skiles to Mrs Skiles' father.

The suit was brought to sell the house for the benefit of the creditors of Apperson, and, while it was pending, the trustee, in the deed of trust for the benefit of Mrs Skiles' father, sold the land after a four week's advertisement, and the property was bought by Charles R. Durbin, of Grafton. The decision of the Court of Appeals confirms Mr Durbin's title to the property.

The Greenbrier Railroad.

B. M. Yeager has returned from a trip to Greenbrier where he has been taking options as to the right of way. He reports that it can be secured at a very reasonable figure and that all are anxious to have the road run down the river. Some are willing to give the right of way free. At Caldwell a landowner has donated the right of way and ground for a depot on the East bank of the river, where the junction will be formed with the C. & O.

The survey has moved its tents to Burnside's, opposite Hillsboro, and is making very good speed.

The opinion has grown more and more that if the railroad is to be built at all it will be on the river route.

Wanted.

To purchase live animals, for Zoological Purposes, including all kinds of animals trapped in Virginia: squirrels, fine specimens of hawks, eagles, etc., etc. Address J. H. LAINE, Secretary and Gen'l Mgr. Tri-County Agriculture and Driving Park Association, Johnstown, Pa.

Taxpayers, Green Bank District.

Notice is hereby given that all persons owing taxes in Green Bank District must be ready to settle in full at my next call. Positively no further indulgence can be given.

SAMUEL SHEETS,
Deputy Sheriff.

TRIMMED hats at MRS CUNNINGHAM'S from 50c up; trimmed sailors from 25c up; untrimmed sailors from 15c up. It will pay you to call and EXAMINE her stock.

PERSONAL MENTION.

Richard Hales has returned to England. Too much war.

Rev Wm. T. Price has gone to Presbytery.

The new minister of the Huntersville Circuit, Rev W. G. Anderson, has arrived, and preached here last Sunday night. Our people are very favorably impressed with him.

The many friends of Pat Montgomery, the genial Irishman, will be glad to learn that he is once more in this section, and is accompanied by a wife and baby. He will be riding master at the Hot Springs the coming season.

ACADEMY.

R. K. Burns returned from Hot Springs last week.

B. F. McElwee, of Dunmore, was in town several days, recently.

Rev John Taylor has been here on business.

Yancy Ligon was in this part last week.

G. R. Curry expects to build an addition to his house this spring.

The railroad men moved their camp from Buckeye to the Burnside ford Monday.

Sherman Curry, of Huntersville, put a lot of cattle on his farm near Academy.

Prof Terry closed his school and returned to his home Virginia, Friday.

J. H. Sydenstricker drilled a 30-foot well, which is nearly full of water, last week.

William Hill and sister Mattie, of Falling Springs, visited relatives in this section last week.

A. M. McLaughlin, Esqr., of Lewisburg, passed through the Levels Thursday with a fine lot of cattle to be grazed on his Elk farm.

R. M. Beard has purchased fifty-two head of yearling steers, which are, no doubt, the best lot of yearlings in the county. He has them on his farm on Locust Creek.

Rev D. S. Sydenstricker and Elder A. R. Kennison left Tuesday to attend the spring meeting of Presbytery which meets at Lowell, April 27.

Bernard Slavin, of Highland, will open a tin shop in town in a few days. We welcome this gentleman here, as we need such an enterprise in onr vicinity.

Dr F. T. McClintic is laying the foundation of his house, which he expects to complete soon. This house, no doubt, will set off the old town, as he will put up a good house on modern plans.

S. J. Payne planted his corn last Saturday. BUMBLEBEE.

BUCKEYE.

George McComb wants the job of running a warship.

William Hartly, of Greenbrier, was here this week on business.

Malvin Overholt went to Edray Sunday.

R. E. Overholt is expecting to move to Frakford soon.

M. J. McNeel brought some cattle to W. McClintic's farm to be grazed.

The railroad surveyors moved from here to below Academy Monday.

Jasper Auldridge, who has been cooking for Peter's men, is at home again.

W. McClintic is in from camp. He has about completed his old job, and will move to a new camp soon.

ANONYMOUS.

MINGO ITEMS.

P. O. Louk has moved to the Taylor property in Mingo.

Call and see C. N. Woods new line of goods, opposite the church.

W. H. Brady caught a beaver, which turned out to be a muskrat.

School is progressing nicely under the management of Gus Crickard and Miss Rizpah Caplinger.

Samuel Cary and E. L. Hall are painting the house at Newmarket for A. D. Bruce, Esq.

We are sorry to learn that our old friend H. H. McAtee is suffering severely from something like cancer on his hand.

NAPOLEON.

To Cure a Cold in One Day,

Take Laxative Bromo Quinine Tablets. All Druggists refund the money if it fails to Cure. 25c.

ISAAC DANIELS, a lunatic, hung himself in the Elkins jail last week.

THERE has been a disastrous fire Davis.

Mrs. Cunningham

Invites every one to her Summer Opening of Millinery, which will take place

MAY 3d, 4th, 5th, 6th, and 7th.

Her stock excels that of any previous season, and the Opening will will disply the largest and most beautiful line of trimmed hats ever shown in the county.

MRS CUNNINGHAM,
Next Post Office, Upstairs,
Marlinton, . . W. Va.

DRY BRANCH.

It rains it snows it blows, and is regular March weather.

Misses Nannie Friel and Lou Friel are staying at Mingo.

John Sharp ran and ran and barely touched the high places—its a girl!

Easter lilys and the daisy were ahead of Easter. They seem to be keeping their heads above the snow.

G. D. L. Brady is working at the carpenter trade. He has been making wash-boards and other things too tedious to mention.

Easter is past with all its eggs and fine dinners, and none the better, but I expect some are the worse.

There was preaching on the Branch the 4th Sabbath in April, by Rev Phillips. We had a very good meeting, everything considered.

Mesdames Annis Mace, Elsey Lindsay, and Emma Brady, all of Dry Branch, are visiting friends in Mingo town. We wish them a happy time.

Some one spoke of lode stone down the Branch, but if I am not mistaken the lode stone is about the cave near G. C. Beal's. It may be possible its some mineral that draws those gents.

Charles Rhea was on the branch to look about his interest in the electric light plant, and the energetic Eliot Ramsey also. Well, boys, you had better stay away, for the gentleman who is talking up the enterprise will beat yocr time.

JENNY LINN.

M. Crummett is about done sowing oats.

W. H. McCloud calls himself the champion of nothing.

Log-rollings are in full blast and lots of talk of war.

W. H. Brady has ptoved himself the champion fighter. He now wears the belt.

Cameron Beal, the champion horse trader, is now riding his blue slipper.

Miss Alley Beale is the perfect dressmaker on the Branch. Give her a call.

We are always glad to see Geo. Hoover on the Branch. He is rather pretty anyway.

Noah Ayers has taken charge of the A. Lawson farm, commonly called Duffryn.

A few copies of the Liars License are badly needed on the Branch.

Any one wanting to get the news of the Branch call on Alice Miller.

Mack Woods has moved to Windy Run, where he expects to wear his whiskers and sell the Worlds Wonders Liniment.

Dry Branch was truly glad that S. G. Simmons will recover from the explosion on Dry Branch. Dr Cody Bill can fetch him up the home stretch.

Mary Jane Simmons and daughter, of Pickens, Randolph County, have been visiting on the Branch. Every one was glad to see her and get the news in full.

Truly yours,
WILD BILL.

Notice.

We now have a larger stock than we have ever shown that we offer for your inspection. And above all it's a stock of goods bought at first hands and at the right prices. Special bargains this month.

Yours for business,
J. D. PULLIN & CO.

VALLEY HEAD.—Randolph.

The health of the community is generally good.

People are preparing to plant corn.

Hiram Ware is at the railroad for Mrs J. E. Bing & Bro.

Willie McCloud, of Dry Branch, was at Valley Head engaging tobacco plants, the first of the week.

We learn that Cameron Beal's little child is dangerously ill with catarrhal fever.

Mrs Sophie See and Miss Esta Ware are calling on friends in Valley Head today.

Hamilton & Wymer will sell their entire stock of merchandise at auction on May 6 and 7.

James H. Logan, of Beverly, is spending a few days here, and is having some work done on his mill property.

Loyd Swecker has the agency for four of the finest kinds of wheat in the United States. Any one desiring good seed wheat will do well to leave their orders with him.

Died: At Lock Port, W. Va., April 14, Mrs Linda Byron of pneumonia fever. She was a daughter of Mrs Jack Arbogast of this place. BAD BOY.

EYE TEST.

Should be Read at 15 Inches.

Defects of eyesight requiring correction by the use of spectacles are purely mechanical, and can be so corrected by the proper adjustment of perfectly made lenses that their effects will be entirely obviated. This print should be read easily at fifteen inches from the eye. If you cannot do so you should wear spectacles. It does not pay to buy cheap spectacles. They distort the rays of light, disturb the angles of vision, cause pain and discomfort and injure the eyesight. When it is necessary to hold work or reading matter farther than fifteen inches from the eyes in order to see distinctly, it is a sure sign of failing vision, and much annoyance, discomfort or pain will be prevented by having a pair of glasses fitted.

I have a first-class optician's outfit, such as eye specialists use, and am prepared to examine eyes and adjust glasses in a satisfactory manner.

J. M. CUNNINGHAM, M D

CASTORIA.

The fac-simile signature of Chas H. Fletcher is on every wrapper.

The Great War.

We have won success by our ability to demonstrate our bargain claims; we guarantee the smallest of our patrons the same courteous attention given the largest.

We are taking great pains in buying our

Spring and Summer Stock of Goods. . .

And all bargains will be shared with our customers.

We keep goods moving by keeping goods that move;—we test every value our prices do the rest. Its not a question of opinion, its a rock-ribbed fact that our prices can not be successfully cut under. Don't scatter your dollars unwisely; concentrate them here and save more of them.

It is shrewd and well directed effort that makes our bargains unusual. Our PRICES PUZZLE COMPETITORS AND DELIGHT PURCHASERS.

Thanking you for your past patronage, we remain
Yours respectfully,

L D Sharp.
Linwood W. Va.

The Levels News.

Edited by Payne Bros.

Vol. 1 Academy, W. Va., April 29, 1898. No. 15

Market, April 26, 1898.

—Eggs 8½c per dozen.
—Butter 16⅔c per pound.
—Lard 8c per lb.
—Corn 65c per bushel.
—Wheat 90c per bushel.
—Oats 40c per bushel.
—Hams 10c per lb.
—Side Bacon 9c.
—Shoulder 8c.
—Beans $1 per bushel.
—Beeswax 25c per lb.
—Tallow 6c lb.
—AT PAYNE BROS.

—Mrs J. D. Payne is seriously ill

—Hay carriers at Payne Bros.

—Mr M. Peyatt still continues quite ill.

—G. L. Clark had the misfortune to lose his milk cow a few days ago —Mrs G. F. Crummett and Miss Bird Hays, of Marlinton, were in Hillsboro one day last.

..Pure Sugar Syrup at Payne Bros at 40c per gallon. Pure Apple Vinegar 30c gallon.

—Mrs W. H. and Mrs S J Payne visited the former's daughter, Mrs K. C. King, in Renick's Valley, last Friday and Saturday.

—Dr McClintic and family and H. W. McNeel and family were hurriedly called Sunday to the deathbed of Mrs Lr Ligon. We extend our deepest sympathy to the bereaved ones.

—Wagon Tire at Payne Bros.

—Sheep Dip at Payne's.

Corn Fertilizer at Payne Bros.

—Pure Sugar Syrup only 40c per gallon at Payne Bros.

—Tar in quarts and ½ gal. cans at Payne Bros.

—The first quarterly meeting of the year will be held next Sunday. Rev Martin will preach Monday night.

Ladies call at Payne Bros and buy a new hat. They have just received a fine lot of Millinery of the latest styles and will sell you at very low prices.

SALT: $2 A SACK.
AT PAYNE BROS.

Best grades of Roller Flour at

J. H. DOYLE'S,
Huntersville, W. V.
G. L. HANNAH'S,
Yelk, W. Va.
BARLOW & MOORE'S,
Edray, W. Va.
J. H. CURRY'S,
Green Bank, W. Va.
R. L. NOTTINGHAM'S,
Dunmore, W. Va.
HANNAH & HARPER, Frost

Hungry Muscles

have to be fed. Give them rich, pure blood and they glow with health; give them poor blood and they do not recuperate—exercise does not refresh you. If you are worn out, nervous or feeble, there is one thing that will aid you—pure, rich blood. There is but one way to gain it—

Johnston's Sarsaparilla

QUART BOTTLES.

For thirty years it has stood at the head; THE remedy for poor blood. Quart bottles, $1.00 a bottle. Begin this day to give your muscles good food.

WILLIAMS, DAVIS, BROOKS & CO., Detroit, Mich.

Try Liverettes the Famous Little Liver Pills. 25c.

For sale by—
URIAH BIRD, Marlinton, W. Va.; and A. BARLOW, Huntersville

War Declared!

We have declared war, relentless war, on high prices. We have adopted an aggressive policy and the fight will be carried into the enemy's lines. We have got the name of saving our customers money and mean to keep it up.

Good Muslin	6c
Good Shirting	8c
Straw Matting	10c
Fast Black Hose	5c
2 Papers Pins	5c
A Good Summer Lap Robe	45c
Table Oil Cloth	20c
Ladies' Shirt Waists Set	103
A Plain White Bed Quilt, Extra Sizes	70c
Frank Siddall's Soap	7c
Ladies Vests	5c

Our whole stock in same proportion.
Terms made to suit.

J. D. Pullin & Co.

New Goods

Will Be On Our Shelves by May 1st. And We Cordially Invite You to be Ready to Examine Our Stock Which We will Sell Very Cheap for Cash or Trade.

Thanking our many patrons for past trade, and hoping to merit your future orders, We are, Yours Respectfully,

Hannah & Harper
FROST, W. VA.

Plow Repairs

We have at last succeeded in making arrangements to supply points for the RONCEVERTE PLOW. Full stock now on hand. Send in our orders early. . . .

We are Factory Agents for IMPERIAL and SILVER STEEL Plows.

(The Best Hillside Plow on the Market.)

Simms & Co.,
Opp. Passenger Depot, RONCEVERTE, W. Va.

The Pocahontas Times.

THE COURTS.

CIRCUIT COURT convenes on the first Tuesday in April, third Tuesday in June, and first Tuesday in October.

COUNTY COURT convenes on the first Tuesday in January, March, and the fourth Tuesday of June and September—June is levy.

County Directory

Judge	J. M. McWhorte
Pros. Attorney	L. M. McClinti
Sheriff	R. W. Hil
Clerk County Court	S. L. Brow
Clerk Circuit Court	J. H. Patterso
Assessor	J. H. Buzza
Com'rs. Co. Ct.	Amos Barlow C. E. Beard J R Warwick
Surveyor	George Bax
Coroner	George P.

BOARD OF HEALTH—Dr J. Price, L. M. McClintic, M. J. M Neel, R. W. Hill.

JUSTICES—Uriah Bird, Marlinton; A. C. L. Gatewood, Linwood P. D. Arbogast, Green Bank; W H. Grose, Huntersville; G. R. Curry, Academy; T. A. Bruffey, Lobelia.

HOW TO FIND OUT.

Fill a bottle or common glass with your water and let it stand twenty four hours: a sediment or settling indicates an unhealthy condition of the kidneys; if it stains your linen it is evidence of kidney trouble; too frequent desire to pass it or pain in the back is also convincing proof that the kidneys and bladder are out of order.

What to Do.

There is comfort in the knowledge so often expressed, that Dr. Kilmer's Swamp Root, the great kidney remedy fulfills every wish in relieving pain in the back, kidneys, liver bladder and every part of the urinary passages. It corrects inability to hold urin and scalding pain in passing it, or bad effects following the use liquor, beer, or wine, and over comes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to get up many times during the night to urinate. The mild and extraordinary effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases If you need a medicine you should have the best. Sold by druggists, price fifty cents and one dollar. You may have a sample bottle ond pamphlet both sent free by mail, upon receipt of three two-cent stamps to cover cost of postage on the bottle. Mention The Times and send your address to Dr Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. The proprietors guarantee the genuineness of this offer.

YOUR FORTUNE

is your health. Your happiness is your strength. Keep the Head and Throat clear and healthy and your mind and brain is always at rest and ease. CUSHMAN'S MENTHOL INHALER is the greatest relief to mankind in all head troubles. CURES COLDS, SORE THROAT, CATARRH. That awful odor of Catarrh disappears by its use. Wonderful in Hay Fever and Asthma. BUY ONLY CUSHMAN'S.

If you can't get it at Druggists send for it. By mail, 50 cents. Send for Book on Menthol, free. CUSHMAN DRUG CO., VINCENNES, IND., U. S. A.

50 YEARS' EXPERIENCE

PATENTS

TRADE MARKS
DESIGNS
COPYRIGHTS &C.

Anyone sending a sketch and description may quickly ascertain our opinion free whether an invention is probably patentable. Communications strictly confidential. Handbook on Patents sent free. Oldest agency for securing patents. Patents taken through Munn & Co. receive special notice, without charge, in the Scientific American.

A handsomely illustrated weekly. Largest circulation of any scientific journal. Terms, $3 a year; four months, $1. Sold by all newsdealers.

MUNN & Co. 361 Broadway, New York

Branch Office, 625 F St., Washington, D. C.

We Make WHEELS, Too!

MILLER RODE ONE 2093 MILES IN 132 HOURS

The Eldredge $50.00

The Belvidere $40.00

Superior to all others irrespective of price. Catalogue tells you why. Write for one.

NATIONAL SEWING MACHINE CO.,

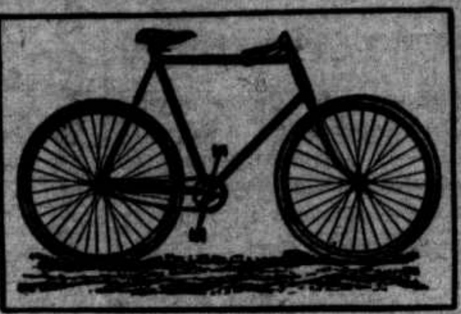
339 BROADWAY, New York.
Factory, BELVIDERE, ILL.

DO YOU TRAVEL

Are you going to take a trip? Do you suffer from Severe Headaches, Nervousness, Seasickness or Exhaustion? Why not prevent it all by using CUSHMAN'S MENTHOL INHALER. Help that headache, cure that nervousness and seasickness by the use of this inhaler, the greatest stimulant and preventative known. Wonderful relief in Hay Fever and Asthma. BUY CUSHMAN'S INHALER and you will always use it. If you can't get it at Druggists send for it. By mail, 50 cents. Send for Book on Menthol, free. CUSHMAN DRUG CO., VINCENNES, IND., U. S. A.

"All the World Loves a Winner"

Monarch Bicycles are the Supreme Result of our Years of Experience



Send for Catalogue.

MONARCH CYCLE MFG. CO.

CHICAGO NEW YORK LONDON

Send nine two-cent stamps for a deck of Monarch Playing Cards, illustrating Lillian Russell, Tom Monarch Cooper, Lee Richardson and Walter Jones. Regular 50c cards.

A. C. NICKEL, Sales Agent, SINKS GROVE, W. VA.

They banish pain and prolong life.

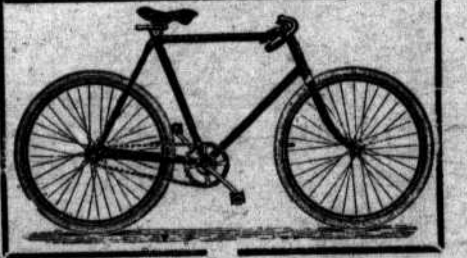
ONE GIVES RELIEF.

R·I·P·A·N·S

No matter what the matter is, one will do you good, and you can get ten for five cents.

A new style packet containing TEN RIPANS TABULES in a paper carton (without glass) is now for sale at some drug stores—FOR FIVE CENTS. This low-priced sort is intended for the poor and the economical. One dozen of the five-cent cartons (120 tabules) can be had by mail by sending forty-eight cents to the RIPANS CHEMICAL COMPANY, No. 10 Spruce Street, New York—or a single carton (TEN TABULES) will be sent for five cents. Best medicine ever made since the world was created.

The Fifty Dollar Tribune,



THE BEST WHEEL FOR THE PRICE IN THE WORLD.

Don't Think of Buying Until You Have Seen It.

The Famous Blue Streak,

FASTER THAN EVER.

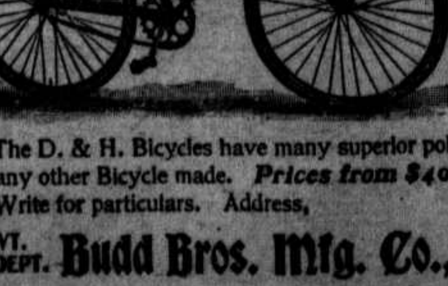
Write for Catalog.

The BLACK Mf'g. Co., Erie, Pa.

"The D. & H." ROAD RACER

WEIGHT 21 POUNDS.

The Ideal Wheel for the Scorcher.



A WINNER SURE TO PLEASE

WE are desirous of introducing the D. & H. Bicycles throughout the country and offer special inducements to agents and riders as a matter of introduction. Write for our Special Offer.

The D. & H. Bicycles have many superior points of excellence in advance of any other Bicycle made. Prices from $40.00 to $75.00.

Write for particulars. Address,

ADVT. DEPT. Budd Bros. Mfg. Co., Glens Falls, N. Y.

Special We have an offer. (Our Offer No. 2) for every School Teacher in the United States. Teachers write us quick.

BIOGRAPHIC NOTES.

John R. Flemmens.—His Wife and Children.

ONE of the most unique and picturesque characters that figure in our local history was John R. Flemmens, of Laurel Creek. Early in the century residents of the head of Stony Creek saw smoke rising from Red Lick Mountain. At first it was thought to be a hunter's camp. Upon noticing the smoke continuing for some days, curiosity was awakened and parties went up into the Red Lick wilderness to see what it meant. To their surprise they found a family in camp arranging for a permanent settlement.

There were five persons, John R. Flemmens and Elizabeth Flemmens, his wife; James and Frederick were the sons and one daughter, Elizabeth. There were nice horses and several cows ranging about. The family had been there for several weeks, yet no one ever found out when or whence they had come. Had these persons arrived in a balloon from the clouds at midnight their coming could not have been better concealed than it seemed to have been from the neighbors.

The Flemmens opened up what is now the "Rosser Place." But few persons were ever known to labor more industriously than the mother and her three children. Mr Flemmens bought lands from Isaac Gregory amounting to four thousand acres. It was a part of the William Lewis Lovely Survey, the papers dated 1777, and this region was then in the metes and bounds of Harrison County. Such a deal in lands sounds fabulous now, or did until the recent operations of Colonel McGraw and others have rather eclipsed the Flemmens' deals on that line. John R. Flemmeas at times seemed pressingly anxious to sell large tracts at ten cents an acre. Lands now held by Colonel McGraw, the Whites, Shearers, and others.

On his possessions John Flemmens made an opening, built a house, and preparations were made for an immense barn. The barn was never finished. Some of the hewn timber for the barn was more than two feet across the face and smooth as ice. How such work could be so smoothly done was the wonder of all why may have examined it.

The Flemmens family became noted for sugar making. They would work several hundred trees in the season. On the southern exposures an early camp would be worked, then move to another less exposed, and then move into the north and close the season there. The mother and children would carry the sap for miles in pails supported by straps from their shoulders, and much of the sap was carried up hill. In making arrangements for evaporating the sap an immense tree would be felled and the kettles suspended against it, and then the fires kindled. It was no uncommon thing to see fifteen or twenty large kettles boiling at the same time.

The output would amount to hundreds of pounds. The sugar was generally stirred until it pulverized, and much of it was nearly as fair as brown or coffee sugar.

A good deal of the sugar was taken to Lewisburg and exchanged for more kettles. Mr Flemmens could pack three large iron kettles on one horse. In these excursions to the sugar market, and very frequently at other times, John Flemmens had three horses, driving the foremost, riding the middle one, and leading the third, all arranged tandem fashion. In this manner he could traverse the bridle paths, at an early day the common means of communication between places.

The entire family became members of the church.

James Flemmens was fond of hunting, but he met with so little success that his father warned him that if he came home any more without venison he should not be allowed to waste any more time as he had been doing.

"Worrich pays better than no luck, Jim, in huntin', and so you will know what will be up if you don't git nothin' this time."

This was spoken in stentorian tones with a commanding voice, and it seems to have rung in Jimmy's ears to a practical purpose.

That day he had the luck to bring home a venison.

The same day the late venerable John Barlow killed a deer, but he did not bring it home; left it hanging in the woods, hunter fashion, and it mysteriously disappeared. Suspicious gossip ran high, which the Flemmens meekly endured until they began to think that forbearance was no longer a virtue, and a church trial was demanded to vindicate Jimmy's character from the slanderous insinuations in connexion with the disappearance of the deer.

The preliminaries for trial being duly arranged by the Presiding Elder at Hamlin Chapel, the slandered hunter put in his pleas, with flowing tears and tremulous voice, when the Elder asked the question

"Brother James Flemmens, did you or did you not take Brother Barlow's deer?"

"I hope not. God knows I hope God does not know I took the deer as I am slandered with."

Mr Barlow could not hold in and and exclaims: "God does n't know any such thing."

The strife of tongues now promised to become sharp, but the imperious Presiding Elder made it short and decisive by a wave of the hand and a significant look toward the door. Somehow, as the Flemmens thought unjustly, the majestic Elder construed James' plea as a virtual confession that he had spirited away the missing game. He solemnly deposed him from church membership and thus cleared all others of slanderous intentions.

Soon as the decision was announced, John Flemmens arose and asked for a dismissal. "Give me my name and give me old Betsy's too!" Young Betsy tearfully asked for her name also. They all soon found a church home elsewhere.

In the course of events Frederick was the first to die, and that too far away from his mountain home under sadly peculiar circumstances. John B. Flemmens called at John Barlow's to pass the night. Mr Barlow had heard of Frederick's death, but did not wish any one to say any thing about it before morning. But one of the boys came in before his father could repress him and said: "Mr Flemmens, do you know that Fred is dead?"

"Is it possible, Mr Barlow, have you heard that my boy is dead?'

"Yes," replied Mr Barlow, "I am sorry to say it is even so."

In an instant the bereaved father seemed to be frensied by his his grief. He caught up his three horses and started for home in the night. As he slowly ascended the mountain path his agonized cries could be heard for miles.

"O Freddy, my dear son, your poor old father will never see you again. O Freddy, Freddy, my son my son!"

While on a visit to Ohio, Mr Flemmens died there.

Mrs Flemmens and her daughter Elizabetn spent their last years in the vicinity of Buckeye. They spun and wove and industriously earned a living as long as their willing hands could retain their cunning, and had the respectful esteem of all their neighbors.

W. T. P.

CASTORIA.

The fac-simile signature of Chas. H. Fletcher is on every wrapper.

To Cure Constipation Forever.

Take Cascarets Candy Cathartic. 10c or 25c. If C. C. C. fail to cure, druggists refund money.

CASTORIA

For Infants and Children.

The fac-simile signature of Chas. H. Fletcher is on every wrapper.

WHITMER'S

EUREKA, LIVER AND KIDNEY REMEDY.

A Vegetable Combination of Barks, Roots and Herbs, for diseases of the Blood, Liver, Kidneys, Stomach, Dyspepsia, Sick and Nervous Headache, Fever and Ague, Constipation of the Bowels, Sour Stomach, Indigestion, Depression of Spirits, Loss of Appetite, Bladder and Kidney Affections.

INDIGESTION

from which Constipation and all other Physical Miseries arise, is surely and speedily overcome by the use of a Wonderful but Harmless Remedy. Read Carefully. Act Promptly.

CONSTIPATION DEFINED.

"Constipation.—Sluggish or incomplete action in evacuating the bowels; the inability of the lower intestines to expel the alvine discharges; the putrid matter often remaining in the bowels several days."—Wurzburg.

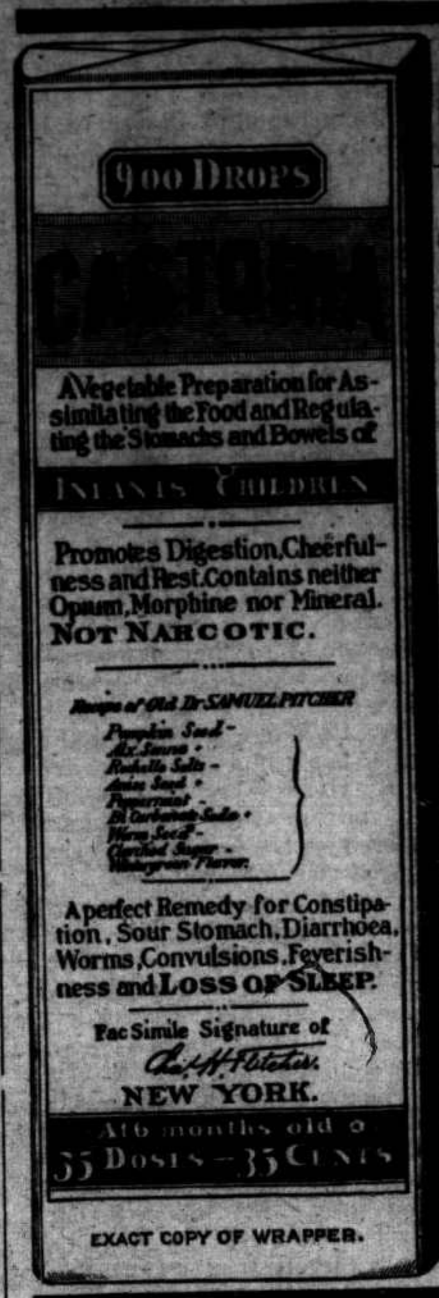
When this effete and poisonous matter remains in the system, it poisons and contaminates every organ with which it comes in contact.

It comes in contact with the Stomach, Liver, Heart, and all Vital Organs.

How does it do this? The blood becomes poisoned, and in its circulation through our entire system, it carries the poison from this foul, effete matter to every organ and tissue in the body.

Liver Complaint, Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Sour Stomach, Loss of Appetite, Bad Taste in the Mouth, Coated Tongue, Kidney and Bladder Diseases are all brought about by the Digestive Apparatus being deranged by coming directly in contact with the effete foul matter in the bowels. Even the Lungs are affected by Constipation causing Lung Trouble and Consumption.

WHITMER MEDICINE CO.
LOGAN, OHIO.



900 DROPS

CASTORIA

A Vegetable Preparation for Assimilating the Food and Regulating the Stomachs and Bowels of

INFANTS CHILDREN

Promotes Digestion, Cheerfulness and Rest. Contains neither Opium, Morphine nor Mineral. NOT NARCOTIC.

Recipe of Old Dr SAMUEL PITCHER
Pumpkin Seed -
Alx. Senna -
Rochelle Salts -
Anise Seed -
Peppermint -
Bi Carbonate Soda -
Worm Seed -
Clarified Sugar -
Wintergreen Flavor.

A perfect Remedy for Constipation, Sour Stomach, Diarrhoea, Worms, Convulsions, Feverishness and LOSS OF SLEEP.

Fac Simile Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher. NEW YORK.

At 6 months old
35 DOSES—35 CENTS

EXACT COPY OF WRAPPER.

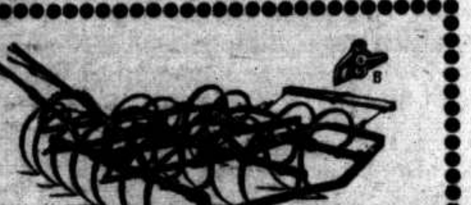
CASTORIA

The Kind You Have Always Bought, Bears the Fac-simile Signature —OF— Chas. H. Fletcher. ON THE WRAPPER OF EVERY BOTTLE.

THE KIND YOU HAVE ALWAYS BOUGHT.

THE CENTAUR COMPANY, NEW YORK CITY.

The Osborne



SPRING-TOOTH HARROW.

The frames are made in one piece of steel angle bar, and formed to withstand all strain without buckling or warping. The teeth in this harrow are so spaced that they will not trail each other, Pulverizing the ground thoroughly. The steel pipe tooth bars are mounted in maleable boxes secured to the frame, and will not bend or break. The peculiar shape of the teeth curling twothirds about the bar gives the greatest amount of spring possible without straining the bolts, and because of their shape and fastening are stronger than used on any other harrow. By the levers the depth of work can be regulated while the harrow is in motion. The draft is steady and direct as the harrow has no side motion.

ALL THESE FEATURES COMBINED HAVE MADE THE OSBORNE CELEBRATED.

It has no EQUAL,—it never will have a SUPERIOR.

Call and examine the Osborne line consisting of—BINDERS, MOWERS, RAKES, TEDDERS, HARROWS AND CULTIVATORS.

The most complete line of Farming Implements to be found in the State.

FOR SALE BY—

EAGLE & OTT,

RONCEVERTE, W. VA.

Trustee's Sale.

PURSUANT to a deed of trust made on the 12th day of July, 1897, by John T. McGraw to the undersigned trustee, and recorded in the Clerk's office of the county court of Pocahontas County, in Deed Book No. 27, page 432, to secure the payment of two certain notes each for $2-33 33 negotiable and payable at the People's National Bank, of Charlottesville, Virginia, with 6 per cent interest from July 12, 1897, until paid to Samuel B. Woods, and costs of executing the said deed, and default having been made in the payment of the first of said notes, and being required by the said beneficiary, Samuel B. Woods, the undersigned trustee will on the

7TH DAY OF MAY, 1898,

between the hours of ten o'clock A. M. and four o'clock P. M., at the front door of the court house of Pocahontas County, West Virginia, in the town of Marlinton, proceed to sell at public auction to the highest bidder the land conveyed in said deed of trust, comprising a tract of 1000 acres of land situated im said Pocahontas County, lying on the east side of the West Fork of Greenbrier River, and bounded as follows:

Beginning at two maples, cherry, beech, and yew pine, on the east bank of the Greenbrier River, and with the old line S 78¼ E 812 poles to two pines and a beech in a hollow on the west side of the divide between the west branch and Little River, 5½ poles to the north of a blazed line, S 24 55 M W 204 to a beech, witnessed by two yew pines and two beeches on a north hillside corner to the other 1000 acres of the Slaughter land, sold Craig & Upton, the same leaving the old line N 78¼ W 852 poles, at 133 poles crosses the top of the divide at 210 poles passes two marked sugar trees by a small spring or drain, 235 poles crosses a north eastern branch of Paul's Lick Run, at 360 poles passes a large marked cherry on top of a spur of Paul's Lick Ridge, at 433 crosses the northwestern fork of Paul's Lick Run, at 563 poles passes a marked birch on top of a spur of Paul's Lick Ridge, at 663 poles crosses Paul's Lick Run about six poles above the Mud Lick, at 745 poles crosses the top of the north spur of Hunter's Camp Ridge, to two maples witnessed by two birches on the east bank of the west fork of the river, thence up the river with its meanderings to the beginning It being that tract of land conveyed to John T. McGraw by Samuel B. Woods and wife by deed bearing date on the 12th day of July, 1897, and recorded in the clerk's office of the county conrt of Pocahontas County West Virginia, in Deed Book No. 27, page 445.

Terms of Sale: Cash

Given under my hand this 12th day of March, 1898.

JAMES MORGAN, Trustee.

FOREST and STREAM

THE SPORTSMAN'S JOURNAL.

Travel Fishing The Dog Adventure Nature Trap and Hunting Yachting Target Camping Canoeing Shooting

FOREST AND STREAM illustrated journal, devoted to the sports of the field and the encouraging in men and women of a healthy interest in outdoor recreation.

Weekly, 32 pages; $4 per year; $2 for six months; 10 cents a copy. Sample free.

We are the largest American publishers of works on outdoor sports. Send for our free illustrated catalog of books.

Forest and Strerm Publishing Co.
346 Broadway, New York.

Don't Tobacco Spit and Smoke Your Life Away.

To quit tobacco easily and forever, be magnetic, full of life, nerve and vigor, take No-To-Bac, the wonder-worker, that makes weak men strong. All druggists, 50c or $1. Cure guaranteed Booklet and sample free. Address Sterling Remedy Co., Chicago or New York

The Pocahontas Times.

Andrew & Norman Price, Owners. "Montani Semper Liberi!" Andrew Price, Editor

VOL. 15, NO. 41. MARLINTON, WEST VIRGINIA, MAY 6, 1898. $1.00 PER YEAR

No. 083. Made in 54, 48, 42, 36 inch widths.

$2.95 buys this Brass-trimmed White Enameled Bedstead. In stock in all widths; length, 75 inches. It has one-inch pillars, two-inch brass vases and caps. This bed retails at from 5 to 6 dollars.

Buy of the maker and save the middleman's large profits. Our Catalogues are mailed for the asking. Complete lines of Furniture, Carpets, Draperies, Crockery, Pictures, Mirrors, Stoves, Refrigerators, Baby Carriages, Lamps, Bedding, etc., are contained in these books. Our Lithographed Carpet Catalogue showing all goods in hand-painted colors is also free. If Carpet Samples are wanted mail us 8c. in stamps. Drop a postal at once to the money-savers and remember that we pay freight this month on purchases of Carpets, Lace Curtains, Portieres and Rugs amounting to $9.00 and over.

Julius Hines & Son
BALTIMORE, MD.
Please mention this Paper.

LAW CARDS.

N. C. McNEIL,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

Will practice in the Courts of Pocahontas and adjoining counties and in the Court of Appeals of the State of West Virginia.

L. M. McCLINTIC,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

Will practice in the Courts of Pocahontas and adjoining counties and in the Supreme Court of Appeals.

H. S. RUCKER,
ATTY. AT LAW & NOTARY PUBLIC
HUNTERSVILLE, W. VA.

Will practice in the courts of Pocahontas county and in the Supreme Court of Appeals

J. W. ARBUCKLE,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
LEWISBURG, W. VA.

Will practice in the courts of Greenbrier and Pocahontas counties. Prompt attention given to claims for collection in Pocahontas county.

W. A. BRATTON,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

Prompt and careful attention given to all legal business.

ANDREW PRICE,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

Will be found at Times Office.

SAM. B. SCOTT, JR.
LAWYER,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

All legal business will receive prompt attention.

H. M. LOCKRIDGE,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
HUNTERSVILLE, W. VA.

Prompt and careful attention given all legal work.

JOHN A. PRESTON FRED. WALLACE
PRESTON & WALLACE,
Attorneys at Law,
LEWISBURG, W. VA.

Will practice in the Courts of Greenbrier and adjoining counties, and in the Court of Appeals of the State of West Virginia.

PHYSICIANS' CARDS.

DR. O. J. CAMPBELL,
DENTIST,
MONTEREY, VA.

Will visit Pocahontas County at least twice a year. The exact date of his visit will appear in this paper.

DR. J. H. WEYMOUTH,
RESIDENT DENTIST,
ELKINS, W. VA.

Will visit Pocahontas County every spring and fall. The exact date of each visit will appear in The Times.

J. M. CUNNINGHAM, M. D.,
PHYSICIAN & SURGEON,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

Office next door to C. A. Yeager's Hotel. Residence opposite Hotel. All calls promptly answered.

$18. IMPROVED SINGER FREIGHT PREPAID.

For this style new high arm sewing machine with all attachments warranted 10 years. If machine is not satisfactory in 30 days money will be refunded. Send cash with order. Descriptive circular sent on application.

WHAYNE M'F'G CO.,
600 FOURTH AVE., LOUISVILLE, KY

For The Pocahontas Times

The Treasure Trove.

XIII.

A MAN lay behind the rail-fence watching the Widow Casey's house. It was after dark on an evening in June. The old dog of the house seem to know that there was something wrong, but was not certain whether to give the alarm or not. The man several times whistled in imitation of the call of the whipo'will. The house was dark and the man lying behind the fence felt very much like a thief. It was Weston and as he lay there he remembered that one month before he had attended a ball at The Jefferson, in his home city of Richmond, and now he was engaged as the best man in assisting a young mountain couple in an elopement. It reminded him of some of his pranks at college.

Cassidy had prevailed upon him to help him to run away with his sweetheart. The wedding was to be kept from the old lady, for they feared that if she got set she never would get in a good humor again, and it would be the cause of the breaking up of the family, and a possible farewell to the Bald Knob and other desirable properties held by the old widow. Eliza dearly loved her grandmother, and she hoped that she would be forgiven if she got married without antagonizing the old lady any farther. Cassidy would not wait and she would give herself the pleasure of keeping her word to him, for she was no wiser than other girls who, when they know they are wanted badly enough, will set their hearts upon certain men. They could get married in broad daylight, but in that case they could not keep the old lady from knowing it.

After the whipo'will calls had been repeated several times, Weston was aware of a rustle of a dress and he discerned the young lady coming towards him, accompanied by the dog. They walked hurreidly along the road where they found Cassidy waiting with a team of horses and a spring wagon. The plan was to drive to Prattsville, get a license and be married at the parsonage. The hotel keeper was expecting them and would be ready to receive them when they got to the county-seat.

The moon rose soon after they got started on their trip and the light was sufficient to drive by. The earth was damp from a rain storm of that evening, and vapors rose and formed little clouds above the fields. They entered strip of woods, and the night was darker under the shade of the boughs.

The horses stopped of their own accord and their driver said:

"A tree across the road."

The storm of the day had blown a large tree across the way. The road was on the side of a hill and the tree could not be avoided.

A horse's feet were heard and in a few minutes Cassidy was heard greeting a friend.

"What's this layout," asked the new-comer. "Who have you got in the buggy with you, Lew?"

"That's Mr Weston and Miss Casey."

The man gave a whistle of astonishment. "Where you goin'?"

"To town to a surprise party."

"S'prise the county clerk, I reckon. But you all will have to go home now."

But that was last thing that Cassidy wanted to do. He begged the man to go for an ax so they could chop the log out of the road, and the man rode off to a house not far from there and got an ax. It took nearly two hours to cut the tree so that a section might be rolled to one side. The man whom they met was of most material service, and presently they were on their way. The ride to the village after that was uneventful. Weston looked at his watch as they entered Prattsville and saw that it was one o'clock.

There was a light in the hotel and the proprietor lay asleep on a lounge in the office. His wife soon came out and welcomed the bride, and the groom and his best man went off to hunt the county clerk. He was an old man and after rousing him they waited a long time for him to put on his clothes. He came out cheerfully enough for he was glad to oblige a rising, young politician like Cassidy. They got to the court-house and by the light of a lantern a blank form was filled out addressed to any minister, who might be authorized to celebrate the rites, to marry the people. The old clerk had fished a substantial bottle of liquor out of an old drawer full of files of dusty papers, and having taken a liberal dose of the same was very jovial. He responded with alacrity to an invitation to be present and declared that he would give the bride away. They proceeded first to the parsonage and having hammered on the door until a window was raised in the house adjoining and a woman's voice was heard telling them that the preacher had been called away that day by the news that his mother was thought to be dying, and that if that was Lewis Cassidy to tell him that he was sorry, but that he could not help it, and to get Brother Johnson.

"Do you know whether Mr Johnson is at home?" asked Cassidy in a very anxious voice.

"Well, now he aint. Sister Johnson kem by this evnen an' said he said he had gone over on Crooked Creek to marry a couple. Is anybody sick?"

"Yes."

"Who is it?"

"Er-r me, I reckon."

"Law, Mr Cassidy, you don't say so. That's jest too plumb bad. Where's Liza?"

"What Liza?"

"Liza Cassidy, what is to be. I hope to goodness you'll get jined. But fer the lauds sakes, here I am talkin' to a passel of men in my—! Well, good night. Good luck to you." And the window went down with a bang.

A counsel was immediately held. Not a preacher in ten miles. Weston suggested a magistrate.

"They can't do it," said the clerk. "We've got a justice here who thinks he kin deprive a man of an incorporeal heriditament, but he can't marry a couple. I reckon it's a katy scrape."

The three conspirators went down to carry the news to the bride. She immediately declared that the wedding had to take place before daylight or she could never stand to look anybody in the face again. Cassidy felt very desperate. The old clerk was as solicitous as if he had been one of the parties. Cassidy said he would give every cent he had for a preacher for five minutes.

"There's a preacher down the road a piece, but he's a little off color," suggested the clerk.

"You mean old Uncle Nath?" asked Cassidy.

"Why he used to belong to grandpa," said Eliza.

"Yes," said the clerk, "and when your pa was drowned in crossing the ford above town old Uncle Nath jumped in after him and came near being drowned himself, and was unconscious when they dragged him in."

Cassidy drew his bride aside and said: "My darling, do you think you would mind being married to me by old Uncle Nath?"

"I can stand it if you can, Lew," was the brave answer.

"We must go down and get the old fellow," said the clerk, "make him give bond and have him do the job. He is a regularly licensed local preacher. Lew, you will have to go on his bond, and you go down and get him while I go for a blank bond."

Cassidy and Weston went to the dilapidated shanty where the old darkey lived. They were surprised to find him awake.

Cassidy told him to come along to the hotel. Uncle Nath had an idea that it was some kind of an arrest they were making, and came with many misgivings. When the matter was fully explained to him the old man insisted on going back to the cabin. He emerged with a long, rusty-black coat and a tall, white, stove-pipe hat, known as the Cleveland hat. The old darkey was very much puffed up over the affair.

At the hotel they found Mr McKash, the clerk, ready with the bond, and he made Uncle Nath and his bondsman acknowledge themselves to be indebted to the State of West Virginia in the penal sum of $1500, to be made and levied from their goods and chattels, lands and tenements, conditioned on the Rev Nathan Freeman marrying people properly.

The wedding was now ready to take place. Uncle Nath positively refused to sit down and was all politeness and humility.

"Miss Liza," he said, "I 'longed to your grandpa 'fore de war, an' I feel like I kinder 'longs to de Casey family. When I were 'bout grown up I asked your grandpa could I take de name of Casey, an' dat's de on'y t'ing he ever 'nied me. I'm comin' back at him now; I'se about to take erway de name from de las' of de Casey fam'ly."

Mr McKash had been busy, and Weston had finally got a pair of terribly tight gloves on the generous hands of the groom, and they were ready for the ceremony.

Mr McNash said, "Come here, Uncle Nath, and go ahead."

The old darkey was equal to the occasion. The ceremony was short and after this style.

"Boss, does you take Miss Liza, who you hol' by de han', ter be yoah wife.

"Miss Liza, does you take Mistuh Lew who you hol' by de han' ter be yoah husband.

"Den you must 'scuze de ol' man but I is jest natcherly compelled ter pronounce you husband and wife, an' may de goodness of God be wid you now and ferebber an' ebber, Amen! Salute de bride."

Mr McKash produced the license and when Uncle Nath came to sign his name he received minute direction where the signature should be placed, and right below the Clerk's index figure he made a cross mark. The clerk wrote up this signature in the usual form, and Weston went on record as the witness to it. The bird of night crowed, and it was three o'clock in the morning. All the inmates of the hotel were up and gathered in the parlor, and shortly after daylight a wedding breakfast was served, and the worthy minister was glad to stay and eat with some of his color at the second table.

Uncle Nath was the centre of an admiring crowd at the Alliance Store that morning. He related his experience, and to prove it showed a ten dollar bill which he had received as his fee.

"Yes, sah; Mistah McKash says, 'Is you and Mistah Cassidy boun' in de peanut sum of fifteen hunderd dollahs by all de Ten Commandments, and your goods and cattle?' I says, 'I aint got any cattle,' and he says 'hit means chickens, too'; and I let's dem go ahai!."

Old Uncle Nath remained in good repute with his Conference as a local preacher ever since, and performs all the marriages in colored circles for miles around. His next exploit was to marry a couple without a license and have the pleasure of repeating it two weeks after in a legal form.

After breakfast the newly married couple started for the Bald Knob. Weston had left almost immediately after the ceremony and had gone on the near cut. He was to break the news to the old lady. He arrived at the house about daybreak. Grandma Casey had been up and breakfast was on the way. As Weston entered she called Liza to get up. Weston came and sat down and looked solemn.

"Mrs Casey," he said. "I have some bad news for you."

The old lady turned pale as a sheet. She sank into a chair, for she trembled so she could not stand.

"When I heerd that whipo'will last night," she said, "I knowed that something was going to happen. It sounded near like it did the night the Doctor died, and when they brought the news that my son was drowned in the river. Is it about Liza Jane?"

"It is. Last night she ran away with Dave Ray," naming the most reckless young man known in that country.

"It's a jedgment! I parted her and Lew Cassidy. Oh, if it was him it would n't be so bad."

"Well, I am happy to inform you that he is the man. They are coming after while and they want to know if they can come in."

"Come in? They'll come here and live. I aint goin' to be parted from Liza Jane."

After breakfast Weston informed the old lady that he was to meet the young people and tell them how she regarded them. She immediately put on her sun-bonnet and got her walking stick and they walked together down the road. At a spring they waited until the wagon came in sight. Then the grandmother walked on alone to meet it and in a few minutes Liza was crying in her grandmother's arms, while the old lady whispered: "There, don't cry; the best day's work I ever did was when I run away with your grandpa."

To Cassidy she said she did not think he had the spunk to do it.

They rode home together, and the old lady was the gayest of the party. Weston said to her: "I do not believe that could have been a real whipo'will you heard last night."

"Mr Weston, I would give anything to believe that it was not."

"Then I can set your fears at rest for it was I who made the noise, as a signal to Miss Liza."

(To be Continued.)

Trustee's Sale.

PURSUANT to a deed of trust made on the 12th day of July, 1897, by John T. McGraw to the undersigned trustee, and recorded in the Clerk's office of the county court of Pocahontas County, in Deed Book No. 27, page 432, to secure the payment of two certain notes each for $2833.33 negotiable and payable at the People's National Bank, of Charlottesville, Virginia, with 6 per cent interest from July 12, 1897, until paid to Samuel B. Woods, and costs of executing the said deed, and default having been made in the payment of the first of said notes, and being required by the said beneficiary, Samuel B. Woods, the undersigned trustee will on the

7TH DAY OF MAY, 1898,

between the hours of ten o'clock A. M. and four o'clock P. M., at the front door of the court house of Pocahontas County, West Virginia, in the town of Marlinton, proceed to sell at public auction to the highest bidder the land conveyed in said deed of trust, comprising a tract of 1000 acres of land situated in said Pocahontas County, lying on the east side of the West Fork of Greenbrier River, and bounded as follows:

Beginning at two maples, cherry, beech, and yew pine, on the east bank of the Greenbrier River, and with the old line S 78½ E 812 poles to two pines and a beech in a hollow on the west side of the divide between the west branch and Little River, 5½ poles to the north of a blazed line, S24 55 M W 204 to a beech, witnessed by two yew pines and two beeches on a north hillside corner to the other 1000 acres of the Slaughter land, sold Craig & Upton, the same leaving the old line N 78½ W 852 poles, at 133 poles crosses the top of the divide at 210 poles passes two marked sugar trees by a small spring or drain, 235 poles crosses a north eastern branch of Paul's Lick Run, at 360 poles passes a large marked cherry on top of a spur of Paul's Lick Ridge, at 433 crosses the northwestern fork of Paul's Lick Run, at 563 poles passes a marked birch on top of a spur of Paul's Lick Ridge, at 663 poles crosses Paul's Lick Run about six poles above the Mud Lick, at 745 poles crosses the top of the north spur of Hunter's Camp Ridge, to two maples witnessed by two birches on the east bank of the west fork of the river, thence up the river with its meanderings to the beginning. It being that tract of land conveyed to John T. McGraw by Samuel B. Woods and wife by deed bearing date on the 12th day of July, 1897, and recorded in the clerk's office of the county court of Pocahontas County West Virginia, in Deed Book No. 27, page 445.

Terms of Sale: Cash

Given under my hand this 12th day of March, 1898.

JAMES MORGAN, Trustee.

Don't Tobacco Spit and Smoke Your Life Away.

To quit tobacco easily and forever, be magnetic, full of life, nerve and vigor, take No-To-Bac, the wonder-worker, that makes weak men strong. All druggists, 50c or $1. Cure guaranteed. Booklet and sample free. Address Sterling Remedy Co., Chicago or New York.

CASTORIA.

The fac-simile signature of Chas. H. Fletcher is on every wrapper.

BIOGRAPHIC NOTES.

Robert Moore—An Early Settler.

ROBERT MOORE was a son of Moses Moore, the distinguished pioneer. He was born May 27th, 1772, and was reared on Knapp's Creek. His wife was Rebecca McCollam, of Brown's Mountain near Driscol. After living on the Greenbrier a number of years at the Bridger Place, he moved to Edray on the Drennan opening. They were the parents of five sons, Isaac, Robert, Andrew, James, William, and one daughter Jane.

Jane became Mrs Andrew Duffield, and lived at the head of Stony Creek, now owned by the Delaney family recently moved into our county.

Isaac Moore married Catherine Gillilan, and settled at Edray where S. B. Moore lives. In their family there were three sons and five daughters.

Mary Ann became Mrs Amos Barlow, first wife; Rebecca became Mrs David Hannah; Elizabeth is Mrs Bryson Hannap, near Frost; Eveline became Mrs Paul Sharp; Julia Francis is now Mrs William Sharp.

Allen Taylor Moore married Mary Catherine Gay, daughter of the late Robert Gay and Mrs Bettie Gay. Robert Gay was Recorder of Pocahontas County in reconstruction times immediately after the civil war between the States. Mr A. T. Moore lives near Edray. His children are John Kenney, Evansville, Indiana; Robert, in Butte City, Montana; Georgia Miami, now Mrs Isaac Sharp; Alwilda Nebraska, now Mrs John Young; and Lula Elizabeth, now Mrs Davis Barlow.

William Rives Moore married Ruth Gay, and lived near Edray. He was a person greatly respected. His sympathies were with the Union adherents, and he died at Wheeling during the war, after many vicissitudes.

Samuel Bryson Moore married Ann Sharp, and lives on the Edray homestead and is a farmer and merchant. Mrs Effie Barlow and Mrs Flora Gay are his daughters.

Full particulars of Isaac Moore Esq., as teacher, magistrate, sheriff, and prominence as a citizen have been given in a special sketch

Andrew Moore fell from a tree near the sugar camp at the Bridger place in early youth and was instantly killed.

William Moore, upon attaining his majority, went to Ohio, where he arose to eminence as a physician, and became widely known as a preaching elder in the Church of the Disciples.

James R. Moore, upon his marriage with Mrs Jane Funkhouser, of Rockbridge County, lived some years on a part of the homestead now owned by G. H. McLaughlin, of Marlinton. He thence moved to Braxton County. His children were Porterfield, Ephraim, and Mary Ellen. The latest information the friends have of his sons they were arranging for a trapping and hunting excursion to the Rocky Mountains. They had previously hunted a great neal in the Williams River wilds, and were quite successful. The mantle of their eminent ancestor, Moses Moore, seems to have fallen on them.

Robert Moore, Jr., married Eliza Bruffey, a grand-daughter of Richard Hill, the pioneer. After living on the Edray homestead many years he moved to Iowa. His sons were Franklin Davis, Moses Clark, and George Preston.

Franklin D. Moore married Sally Young, and resides at Fort Scott, Kansas.

Moses C. Moore married Miss Susan Livermore, and after a brief residence at Edray, moved to Kansas, and is now at Fort Scott. He is a telegrapic operator. Mrs Moore is a teacher.

George P. Moore first married Lizzie Poage, and settled on a section of the Edray homestead. His second marriage was with Mrs Ruth Moore, relict of William R. Moore, a daughter of Robert Gay.

George P. Moore is a local Elder in the pale of the M. E. Church, a successful merchant and grazier, proficient in the use of mechanical tools, Coroner of the County and has been Commissioner of the Court, local banker, etc.

The property owned by Robert Moore, the early settler, was first opened by Thomas Drinnan, and is one of the earliest settlements in this region. The Drinnan tract must have included thousands of acres. The quality of the land is the best of its kind, much of it spontaneously sodding in bluegrass when timber is "belted." Parties who know are rather reticient as to the precise spot occupied by Thomas Drinnan's cabin home, since surveying parties have been so anxious to locate it, for fear there is something under it all that bodes trouble. The breaking up of Thomas Drinnan's home by the Indians about 1782 was one of the most distressing events that happened during Indian troubles.

When Robert Moore took possession but a few acres were cleared. He and his sons made extensive improvements of a very substantial character. He erected a commodious, two story, brick mansion, the first and only builing of its kind in the vicinity. The site was very near William Sharp's residence, and much of the brick was used in the new building. A field just beyond William Sharp's in the direction of Elk is thought to have been one of the first to be cultivated.

It is more than likely that the first time Robert Moore ever set his foot on lands some day to be his own, was when he came from the east with his father, Moses Moore, and others, in pursuit of French surveyors and their Indian guides. An Indian was killed and a Frenchman wounded near where the two prongs of the Indian Draft converge. It has not been so many years since human remains were unearthad near that place. It is the impression of some, too, that it was the dispersion of this exploring party that originated the legends of hidden treasures in two or three localities of our county, some near Mill Point others near Marlinton.

Robert Moore was the worthy son of a worthy father. Every body had confidence in "Uncle Bobby," and when he went hence to be no more, genuine tears embaimed the memory of the kind, honest, and brave old settler.

W. T. P.

FOREST and STREAM

THE SPORTSMAN'S JOURNAL.

Travel Fishing The Dog Adventure Nature Trap and Hunting Yachting Target Camping Canoeing Shooting

FOREST AND STREAM illustrated journal, devoted to the sports of the field and the encouraging in men and women of a healthy interest in outdoor recreation.

Weekly, 32 pages; $4 per year; $2 for six months; 10 cents a copy. Sample free.

We are the largest American publishers of works on outdoor sports. Send for our free illustrated catalog of books.

Forest and Stream Publishing Co.
346 Broadway, New York.

SILVER THE ISSUE IN 1900.

Money the Pricing Instrument.

Civilization and Progress Have Kept Step With Money Supply in All Ages.

The Money Question discussed in the light of experience and history.

The Silver Knight-Watchman.

The Leading Bimetallic Paper of America.

U. S. Senator W. M. STEWART, Editor.

A correct account of the doings of Congress given each week.

A family paper for the home and fireside. All the important happenings of the week, condensed, in news columns.

A large circulation in every State and Territory.

Subscription Price, $1 Per Year. Send for sample; agents wanted.

Published weekly by the Silver Knight Publishing Co., WASHINGTON, D. C.

The Pocahontas Times,

Hear, Land o' Cakes and brither Scots,
Frae Maidenkirk to Johnny Groats,
If there's a hole in a' your coats,
I rede ye tent it;
A chiel's amang you takin' notes,
An' faith he'll prent it. —BURNS

Local Events.

May.

'Tis like the birthday of the world,
When earth was born in bloom;
The light is made of many dyes,
The air is all perfume;
There's crimson buds, and white and blue,
The very rainbow showers
Have turned to blossoms where they fell,
And sown the earth with flowers.
—Hood.

The Cotillion Club had a dance Tuesday night.

There was high water in the county last Saturday.

The demand for padlocks has greatly increased in this place lately.

Charles Ivings, a Huntersville darkey, has moved into the cabin in the McClintic bottom.

The indebtedness of Capt. John Peters to his woodsmen is said to be between $1200 and $1500.

The engineering corps is camped one half mile below Bird's milldam and is surveying around Droop.

There has been a suit begun by Uriah Hevener against John Grog to set aside a deed as fraudulent on account of purchase money of the land which the plaintiff paid as surety.

Messrs Sillings & Slavin, formerly of Staunton, have opened a tin shop at Academy, and will operate throughout the county. They manufacture a stove that is said to compete successfully with the famous "King Heater."

The grass on the grazing farms is looking well and is pretty generally stocked with cattle. With a war on hand, we may expect cattle to go up very materially. There seem to be more cattle in the county this year than for a number of years.

Wild Cat Cottage had a second narrow escape from fire Sunday night. A lighted lamp was left in the house and is supposed to have exploded, Wellington Ratliff, returning from church, noticed the light and put the fire out.

Few can have failed to notice the unusual number of song-birds that gladden our fields, this blessed spring time. An ornithologist in the southern part of this State, a few weeks ago, numbered over seventy species. We can well believe that as many are to be seen in any given part of this county.

Alvin Burr, of Academy, was in town Saturday. He was one who witnessed the ghost scare at Geo. Lewis' some weeks ago, and he says that he can not explain the noise. The noise he said sounded to him like the cry of a politician. He is not convinced, however, that it was not some one playing on the fears of those [illegible]side the house.

The fo[illegible] Douthard's Creek, near Whi[illegible] has been made so dangerous [illegible] improvements put in by the lumber companies to facilitate their driving logs that it becomes impassible even before Knapp's Creek, which is a much larger stream. If the lumber company does not bridge this stream, the county court might threaten it with a submerged bridge, which would bring them to terms.

We hear a good deal of nonsense about the cost of a new lady's hat,—poor men driven to drink, heart disease brought on by milliner's bills. Certainly it is nonsense. Nobody need pay an exorbitant price for a new hat unless through their own hat. The Golden Store will furnish you a handsome hat, one that you will like, cheaply. If you have one and you would like another, I will make it so that you can afford it.

THE GOLDEN STORE.

The postoffice at this place has not changed its location. W. W. Tyree has received his appointment given bond and could assume the charge of the office at its present location, but certain particulars concerning the distance and other matters have to be submitted before he can get an order to move. He turns the blacksmith business over to his former partner, B. N. Rayburn, and will give his whole attention to the office and his store. Mr Yeager served a little over three years, and his change comes sooner than any one expected.

A private citizen's family were with him in bed Tuesday night, when he was alarmed by a loud knocking at the door. He was awakened after his wife and baby had been thoroughly frightened, and imagining all sorts of terrors went to the door. There he saw a small boy, who said. "Please, sir, can I get this bucket full of water at your well?" When asked why he did not go and get it without waking every body up, he said he was afraid he might be shot as. Then it was remembered that this was the place where a lot of boys were run off with a shot gun last Hallowe'en, and this boy was probably one of the number.

Surgical Operation.

Mrs N. S. Duffield, near this place, is lying at the point of death from an acbsess in her side. About sixteen years ago she was in a cherry tree, and, the limb breaking with her, she jumped to the ground a distance of sixteen feet. Since then she has been troubled with a pain in her side. The trouble grew worse recently. Dr Cunningham, by the use of an aspirator, has removed a large amount of matter from her side. This amount of wasting grew so large that it was weakening her daily.

The physician discovered a loose piece of bone which was the evident cause of the trouble. The patient was weakening so fast that it was necessary to do something speedily. An operation was decided upon, and it was performed by Dr Cunningham with the assistance of Mrs C. A. Yeager, who administered chloroform. When the incision was made it was discovered that the condition of that region was much more serious than had been supposed. The spinal column and ribs were diseased in several places. One rib was eaten entirely off. Over a hundred pieces of bone were taken out and one whole rib. An opening was discovered into the pleural cavity and a quantity of pus was extracted from this opening. It would be against reason to hope for her recovery.

The patient is a woman aged 38, and is the mother of a large family She is greatly respected in the vicinity and great sympathy is expressed for her and her family in this trouble.

Instinct.

A keen obsever of natural phenomena, says that old range cattle when pressed by hunger in the spring will sometimes eat the young shoots of the buckeye, but immediately after take mullen, which is the antidote universally used by stockmen in cases of buckeye poisoning; and suffer no ill effects.

It is wonderful to see a cow cross water with a very young calf. In swift water, she places the calf below and breaks the current with her body, the calf meanwhile keeping its head upstream. Where both swim, she never loses her instinctive care, and always does the right thing; a great deal more than can be said of reasoning human beings in many cases under circumstances of a like nature. Verily "not a sparrow falleth to the ground" without notice of the Guiding Power.

Far Reaching Enterprise.

Two carloads of furniture and carpets to Southern California! This was a shipment made last week by Julius Hines & Son, and it is not the first time goods have been sent so great a distance by this firm, for they number their customers in every State in the Union, Canada, Mexico and Australia. Probably no mail order house in the world publishes such comprehensive furniture and carpet catalogs. The growth of Julius Hines & Son has been phenomenal and their reputation is as enviable as their methods. Thousands of testimonials from many different places attest the satisfaction of their customers. Of course, no one in this vicinity, where they are favorably known for half a century, is surprised at their far reaching enterprise, but it is nevertheless a subject for congratulation.

Condolence.

To brother and sister C C. Silva on the death of little Genevive; born October 8, 1895, and died April 12, 1898.

Dear Brother and Sister: I know how impossible it is to silence your grief by words. The heart pleads for utterance in tears and let it speak thus. We bow in sorrow at the taking away of your little one, feeling that while the ripened fruit may be gathered, it seems cruel for the buds to be taken before they have had opportunity to unfold its blossoms, but in nature the fruit falls and so do blossoms buds. This is perhaps best, and in taking from our arms this little one, we will try to accept the cross and bear it, believing that the bud will yet bloom and bear fruit in the Angel Land whither the spirit of the pure child has so early flown.

SABINA BOGGS,
Hereford, W. Va.

J. B. Grimes Named.

Mr Editor: In looking over the list of candidates for the office of County Superintendent, we notice the name of an enthusiastic Democrat, Mr J. B. Grimes. He is a young man and is one of our leading teachers. He would make a good superintendent. EDRAY.

Taxpayers, Green Bank District.

Notice is hereby given that all persons owing taxes in Green Bank District must be ready to settle in full at my next call. Positively no further indulgence can be given.

SAMUEL SHEETS,
Deputy Sheriff.

Shropshire and Southdown Buck Lambs, and Berkshire Hogs.

Persons wanting any of the above breeds should send in their orders early to R. M. BEARD,
4t Academy, W. Va.

If you want up to date goods go to J. D. Pullin & Co.

PERSONAL MENTION.

Mrs H. S. Rucker and daughter were in Marlinton Monday.

C. R. Moore and family, of Staunton, are visiting in this county.

Misses Annie McNeel and Virgie Sydenstricker spent Thursday in town.

Misses Mary I. and Maggie McNeel and Nettie Callison were in town last Saturday.

Hon Sam'l. B. Woods and James Morgan, of Charlottsville; were in Marlinton last Saturday.

Captain A. E. Smith returned from his ordeal in Charleston. He is now at the top in Masonry.

Captain Simms, of Ronceverte, retains his rank as a staff officer. Oscar A. Price remains as a second lieutenant.

DUNMORE.

Will Wooddell has a bike.

Mrs Mary Hull went to Staunton last week.

Mr and Mrs W. B. Hannah were in town last week.

Mrs John A. Galford is quite sick at this time.

Two sawmills are busy sawing near Green Bank.

Seventy bushels of corn at the Dunmore mill for sale, from Bath.

C. R. Moore and family, Staunton, are expected home this week.

Howard Barlow and Miss Mary A. Patterson, of Huntersville, are up on a visit.

J. B. White we understand will go to Hillsboro to take charge of the McElwee & Taylor store.

There was frost enough this morning to track a Spanyard two hours after the sun was up.

We were sorry to learn that Brother W. T. Price had knocked the engine off the track at Lowell. That may keep the railroad out of our county for quite a while.

Several wagons were waterbound at Travelers Repose from Friday till Monday. Bridges are needed. Unless the roads are worked in Pocahontas the bicycling business will play out.

Sol Davis the Jew merchant returned from Spain by the way of New York and Baltimore and landed a car-load of goods in Green Bank Saturday. He can supply the people with any thing from a goose's fat up to the hull of a boat with the tariff off.

JOHN SLICKHAMMER.

Harry Taylor is back from Web- What has become of the peace at any price party.

The football game between Bunker Hill and Dunmore resulted in a victory for Bunker Hill.

Benjamin Lacy is critically ill at this writing.

J. B. White has gone to Traveler's Repose to fall in arms but not to free Cuba.

Arthur Noel has gone to Highland for the ostensible purpose of seeing his girl.

Reese Pritchard and Ben Campbell have returned from Egypt with a load of corn.

Cliff Noel is talking some about running for Superintendent of free schools.

What has become of our imaginary and visionary railroad. Did it go down at Manila with the last of Spanish tyranny in the orient?

Musto McLaughlin has returned from Williams River, and says Washington freed our country; Lincoln the slaves; but McKinley is the greatest of all—he frees us from work.

Now let Admiral Sampson emulate the example of the gallant Dewey and unfurl old glory above the ruins of old Morro!! K. D.

THERE is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease, and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be constitutional disease and therefore requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney, Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address,

F. J CHENEY & CO, Toledo, O.
Sold by Druggists. 75c.
Hall's Family Pills are the best.

Shoe Talk.

Do n't pinch your feet up with a tight shoe just to get a fit, but buy a shoe that is made to fit your foot and will look neat. Our shoes are all made to fit. They are made over a good last—that is why they fit and do n't pinch.

Yours for comfort,
J. D. PULLIN & CO.

West Virginia moonshiners are wanted to enlist. Like the cowboys they are supposed to be fearless.

The United States has now the third navy of the world. England stands first and France second.

The Republican Congressional Convention will be held at Charleston June 22.

Smallpox is spreading at Bluefield.

ORDER OF PUBLICATION.

State of West Virginia,
Pocahontas County, to-wit:

At rules held in the clerk's office of the circuit court of the said county, on Monday, May 2d, 1898.

Matilda E. Malcomb, alias
Matilda E. Wanless, ... Plaintiff. versus
John N. Wanless, ... Defendant.

The object of this suit is to subject to sale under attachment a tract of about 298 acres of land lying in Pocahontas County, west Virginia, being the residue of a tract of about 393 acres conveyed by Andrew Wanless and wife to John N. Wanless, on June 29th, 1878, belonging to the defendant, John N. wanless, or so much thereof as may be necessary to pay to the plaintiff the sum of $789.87 with interest on $697 90 part thereof, from the 1st day of May, 1898, until paid, which amount is due said plaintiff as accrued alimony under decree of the circuit court of Pocahontas county, west Virginia, entered April 5, 1893, in the chancery cause of Matilda E. Wanless vs. John N. Wanless, and the costs of this suit

This day came the plaintiff by her attorney and on his motion, it appearing by affidavit filed that the defendant is a non-resident of the State of west Virginia, it is ordered that he do appear here within one month from the first publication of this order and do what is necessary to protect his interests in this suit.

Witness, J. H. Patterson, clerk of our said court, at the court-house this 2d day of May, 1898, and in the 35th year of the State.

J. H. PATTERSON, Clerk.

S. B. Scott, Jr., p. q.

Commissioner's Notice

Commissioner's Office,
Marlinton, W. Va.
April 15th, 1898.

Pursuant to a decree of the Circuit Court of Pocahontas County, rendered in a cause therein pending in which Martha J. Hogsett's Administrator is plaintiff and J. T. Hogsett and others are defendants; at the April Term, 1898; I will proceed at my office in the town of Marlinton, West Virginia, on the 30th day of May, 1898, to take, state, and report to court the following matters of account, towit:

First. A settlement of the accounts of the said Martha J. Hogsett.

Second. All of the unpaid debts and liens upon the land of the said Martha J. Hogsett.

Third. The real estate owned by the said Martha J. Hogsett at the time of her death with the fee simple and annual rental value thereof

Fourth. The condition of the title of the said real estate.

Fifth Any other matter, etc.

At which time and place all parties in interest may attend.

W. A. BRATTON,
Commissioner.

NOTICE TO CREDITORS.

To the creditors of Martha J. Hogsett, deceased:

In pursuance to a decree of the Circuit Court of the County of Pocahontas, West Virginia, in a cause therein pending to subject the real estate of the said Martha J. Hogsett to the payment of her debts, you are required to present your claims against the estate of the [illegible] Martha J. Hogsett for adjudication [illegible] A. Bratton, Commissioner, at his [illegible] in the town of Marlinton, in the said county, or before the 30th day of May, 1898.

Witness J. H. Patterson, Clerk of the said Court, this the 15th day of April, 1898.

J. H. PATTERSON, Clerk.

6w

Ice formed last Sunday night and a white frost was on the ground Monday morning. The fruit has had a hard fight for its life this year, but it is about the same every season.

NOTICE.

SILLING & SLAVEN,

TIN, SHEET-IRON
ROOFING,
GUTTER SPOUTING,
ROOF PAINTING,
FLUES, STOVE PIPE.

Shop-Made Tin Ware Always on Hand.

LIGHTNING RODS.

Work Done on Short Notice.

Call or write to
SILLING & SLAVEN,
ACADEMY, W. VA.

EYE TEST.

Should be Read at 15 Inches.

[illegible]

I have a first-class optician's outfit, such as eye specialists use, and am prepared to examine eyes and adjust glasses in a satisfactory manner.

J. M. CUNNINGHAM, M D.

Educate Your Bowels With Cascarets.
Candy Cathartic, cure constipation forever. 10c, 25c. If C. C. C. fail, druggists refund money.

The Great War.

We have won success by our ability to demonstrate our bargain claims; we guarantee the smallest of our patrons the same courteous attention given the largest.

We are taking great pains in buying our
Spring and Summer Stock of Goods...

And all bargains will be shared with our customers.

We keep goods moving by keeping goods that move;—we test every value our prices do the rest. Its not a question of opinion, its a rock-ribbed fact that our prices can not be successfully cut under. Don't scatter your dollars unwisely; concentrate them here and save more of them.

It is shrewd and well directed effort that makes our bargains unusual. Our PRICES PUZZLE COMPETITORS AND DELIGHT PURCHASERS.

Thanking you for your past patronage, we remain
Yours respectfully,

L D Sharp.
Linwood W. Va.

The Levels News.

Edited by Payne Bros.

Vol. 1 Academy, W. Va., May 13, 1898. No. 17

Market, [illegible] 10, 1898.
—Eggs 8c per [illegible]
—Butter 12½ to 15c per pound.
—Lard 8c per lb.
—Corn 75c per bushel.
—Wheat $1 per bushel.
—Oats 40c per bushel.
—Beeswax 25c per lb.
—Hams 10 to 12½c per lb.
—Side Bacon 10c.
Shoulder 9c.
—Tallow 6c lb.
—At PAYNE BROS.

—Hay carriers at Payne Bros.

Mr John White was visiting his sister Mrs Burns Monday night.

M. F. Harper commenced making brick for S. J. Payne Monday.

—Mr McElwee, of Dunmore, was in town Monday and Tuesday.

—Captain A. E. Smith passed through town Sunday on his return from Ronceverte.

—High Arm Singer Sewing Machines, finished in oak, guaranteed for 10 years, only $18 at Payne Bros.

—Mr and Mrs J. K. Bright and Misses Nettie and Nannie Callison left Wednesday on an excursion to Washington, D. C.

—The infant child of W. A. Eskridge died Monday morning about 3 o'clock. Also, about the same time, the 18-months' old child of S. E. McNeel.

—Wagon Tire at Payne Bros.

—Sheep Dip at Payne's.

Corn Fertilizer at Payne Bros.

Fresh lemons and millet seed at Payne Bros.

—Pure Mixed Paints at Payne Bros,

—Garden rakes, hoes, etc., at Payne Bros.

—Breakfast Food at Payne Bros. Try a package—only 15 cents.

—J. H. Clark is painting the store house of S. J. Payne.

—A very fine line of Millinery at Payne Bros. Call and examine.

SALT: $2 A SACK.
AT PAYNE BROS.

Best grades of Roller Flour at

J. H. DOYLE'S,
Huntersville, W. V.
G. L. HANNAH'S,
Yelk, W. Va.
BARLOW & MOORE'S,
Edray, W. Va.
J. H. CURRY'S,
Green Bank, W. Va.
R. L. NOTTINGHAM'S,
Dunmore, W. Va.
HANNAH & HARPER, Frost

A Word in private to ... Suffering Women.

No one but yourselves know of the suffering you go through. Why do you suffer? It isn't necessary. Don't lose your health and beauty, (for the loss of one is speedily followed by the loss of the other.) Don't feel "weak" and "worn out." Impure blood is at the bottom of all your trouble.

Johnston's Sarsaparilla

QUART BOTTLES.

will purify your blood and bring the bloom of health back into your cheeks. Each bottle contains a quart.

Painful and Supressed Menses, Irregularity, Leucorrhœa, Whites, Sterility, Ulceration of the Uterus, change of life in matron or maid, all find relief, help, benefit and cure in JOHNSTON'S SARSAPARILLA. It is a real panacea for headache, pains in the left side, indigestion, palpitation of the heart, cold hands and feet, nervousness, sleeplessness, muscular weakness, bearing-down pains, backache, legache, irregular action of the heart, shortness of breath, abnormal discharges with painful menstruation, scalding of urine, swelling of feet, soreness of the breasts, neuralgia, uterine displacement, and all those symptoms which make the average woman's life so miserable. We have a book full of health information. You want it—its free.

WILLIAMS, DAVIS, BROOKS & CO., Detroit, Mich.

Liverettes for Liver Ills. The Famous Little Liver Pills. 25c.

For sale by—
URIAH BIRD, Marlinton, W. Va.; and A. BARLOW, Huntersville

Announcement.

The GOLDEN STORE announces its candidacy for your patronage, as a money saver and economizer of time and patience in supplying your needs. Our sole claim to your support is—

YOUR OWN INTEREST,

as we propose to serve you so well that it will be a case of the people seeking the store, and not the store drumming the people.

"MERIT WILL WIN."

In that consciousness we await the issue with composure.

Yours very truly,

The Golden Store.

plow Repairs

We have at last succeeded in making arrangements to supply points for the RONCEVERTE PLOW. Full stock now on hand. Send in our orders early. . . .

We are Factory Agents
for IMPERIAL and
SILVER STEEL
Plows.

(The Best Hillside Plow on the Market.)

Simms & Co.,
Opp. Passenger Depot, RONCEVERTE, W. Va.

Look Out!

We are after you, and we shall use every honorable method that we can think of to get your patronage; and we propose to get it by giving you lower prices than you can get elsewhere. If you do n't believe we will, come and see. No angry looks if you don't buy,—but we invite you to come and see.

Frank Siddall's Soap 7c
Ladies Vests 5c
Good Muslin 6c
Good Shirting 8c
Straw Matting 10c
Fast Black Hose 5c
2 Papers Pins 5c

J. D. Pullin & Co.

The Pocahontas Times.

Andrew & Norman Price, Owners. "Montani Semper Liberi!" Andrew Price, Editor

VOL. 15, NO. 43 MARLINTON, WEST VIRGINIA, MAY 20, 1898. $1.00 PER YEAR

From FACTORY to CONSUMER.

$[illegible].39 buys this (exact) Rattan Rocker, the largest size ever made; per dozen, $14.50. Our new 112 page catalogue containing Furniture, Draperies, Crockery, Baby Carriages, Refrigerators, Stoves, Lamps, Pictures, Mirrors, Bedding, etc., is yours for the asking. Special supplements just issued are also free. Write to-day. CARPET CATALOGUE in lithographed colors is also mailed free. Write for it. If you wish samples, send 8c. stamp. Matting samples also mailed for 8c. All Carpets sewed free this month and freight paid on $9 purchases and over.

$7.45 buys a made-to-your-measure All-Wool Cheviot Suit, expressage prepaid to your station. Write for free catalogue and samples. Address (exactly as below),

JULIUS HINES & SON.
Dept. 909. BALTIMORE, MD.

LAW CARDS.

N. C. McNEIL,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

Will practice in the Courts of Pocahontas and adjoining counties and in the Court of Appeals of the State of West Virginia.

L. M. McCLINTIC,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

Will practice in the Courts of Pocahontas and adjoining counties and in the Supreme Court of Appeals.

H. S. RUCKER,
ATT'Y. AT LAW & NOTARY PUBLIC
HUNTERSVILLE, W. VA.

Will practice in the courts of Pocahontas county and in the Supreme Court of Appeals.

J. W. ARBUCKLE,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
LEWISBURG, W. VA.

Will practice in the courts of Greenbrier and Pocahontas counties. Prompt attention given to claims for collection in Pocahontas county.

W. A. BRATTON,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

Prompt and careful attention given to all legal business.

ANDREW PRICE,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

Will be found at Times Office.

SAM. B. SCOTT, JR.
LAWYER,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

All legal business will receive prompt attention.

H. M. LOCKRIDGE,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
HUNTERSVILLE, W. VA.

Prompt and careful attention given all legal work.

JOHN A. PRESTON FRED. WALLACE
PRESTON & WALLACE,
Attorneys at Law,
LEWISBURG, W. VA.

Will practice in the Courts of Greenbrier and adjoining counties, and in the Court of Appeals of the State of West Virginia.

PHYSICIANS' CARDS.

DR. O. J. CAMPBELL,
DENTIST,
MONTEREY, VA.

Will visit Pocahontas County at least twice a year. The exact date of his visit will appear in this paper.

DR. J. H. WEYMOUTH,
RESIDENT DENTIST,
ELKINS, W. VA.

Will visit Pocahontas County every spring and fall. The exact date of each visit will appear in The Times.

J. M. CUNNINGHAM, M. D.,
PHYSICIAN & SURGEON,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

Office next door to C. A. Yeager's Hotel. Residence opposite Hotel. All calls promptly answered.

C. B. SWECKER,
General Auctioneer
and Real Estate Agent.

I sell Coal, Mineral and Timber Lands. Farms and Town Lots a specialty. 21 years in the business. Correspondence solicited. Reference furnished. Postoffice Dunmore, W. Va., or Alexander, W. Va.

THE FIELD HAND'S SONG.

FRANK L. STANTON.

De parson wear a Number Twelve,
(Shout, mo'ners, shout!)
En when de devil git him
He'll stomp the fire out!

Oh, dat fire!
Hot ez hot kin be;
Parson, when you gits dar,
Stomp it out for me!

De parson wear a Number Twelve,
(Sinner, what yo' doom?)
De devil say: "You go away—
You take up too much room!"

Oh, dat fire!
Hot ez hot kin be;
Parson, when you gits dar,
Stomp it out for me!

—Atlanta Constitution.

The Treasure Trove.

XV.

THIS narrative should have eliminated all irrelevant matter. We should only have recorded that pertinent to the trailing of a man who had passed along a way some thirty years before. But the writer may be like the traveller.—It is not those who follow the beaten track with the eyes bent to the ground and who describe only what can be touched or felt in its prosy reality that may please. It is he whose eyes rove over the enchanted landscape and who tells of the beauties of that borderland that lies alongside of the plain road of facts and figures. Such are content to believe in the mirage of the distance, and are not restless and uneasy because they can not cage the sunbeam or crystallize the rainbow.

This chapter must be history, and the glamour that surrounds the dead past would creep in under proper treatment. But we must ask you to prepare yourself in this instance for a dry statement.

On Rockway's plantation lived a negro man named Tim. In the eyes of the law he belonged to Rockway, and no doubt he could have been put up at the front door of the court-house and sold by an auctioneer, if Rockway had been so disposed; or an execution taken out by some importunate creditor might have levied on him and sold him for his owner's debts. But it is safe to say that both Tim and his employer never thought what was in the eyes of the law, and if they did they knew there were so many motes, and beams, and cataracts, and obstructions to the vision generally in the same place, that they were not disposed to come near enough to examine. If Tim ever mused on the possibility of being sold, it was with the same used and dulled sensibility that every man thinks on his own death

Tim was a natural born gentleman. He took as much pride in his young master's affairs as did Rockway himself. Why should he be paid wages like the common white laborers when he had a proprietary interest in every thing on the place? This beautiful relationship, like that of a parent and a contented child, existed almost perfectly in many instances between white master and black slave. Such cases are so satisfactory to contemplate that with many people the whole horrid system of slavery became ennobled and justified.

Tim was a miller. On the banks of the clear mountain stream that rushed down the steep valley to wind its way through Rockway's meadows, was a little mill. The mill ground the wheat and corn of the plantation and the grists sent in on the backs of horses from smaller farms in the neighborhood. Tim ran the mill to suit himself. His master never interfered with him in the least. There was no settlement of accounts. If the mill had belonged to Tim he could not have exerted a more absolute control of the property. And he was a happy darkey. When the mill was grinding Tim would trot up and down stairs covered with dust, shifting grain bags, testing the flour running from the spout, tolling grain, and generally singing to the loud accompaniment of the wheels and burrs. But many a time the noise drowned the sounds of an approaching customer, who coming up behind the old man would hear him rehearsing his prayer to be delivered at the next prayer-meeting. Above all the grinding and clatter of the mill old Tim would be shouting at the top of his voice the prayer which was to be delivered in public.

When Harvey came to live at Rockway's in the way we have described, he soon found Tim out and they became good friends, and it was through Tim that Harvey had left the county very suddenly; and that is how Tim comes to be in this tale.

The crowning sorrow of Tim's life was being separated from his wife and child. He had married late in life and had found his wife on a near by plantation. After a year or two of happiness, the owner of his wife unfortunately moved to an adjoining county about forty miles away. For several years before the war he was deprived of their company except on the infrequent visits which he made to them, and he was so busy that his his visits were necessarily of short duration and far between.

His last visit to his wife was in 1863. As he was returning he was arrested by a few men who were lingering around home. He had fallen into bad hands. They were intensely Southern in their hatred of the North, and the privileges which had been accorded Tim by his master were disapproved of by them. The exciting times caused a corresponding current in their natures, and they wanted to do something in the bloody line without going to the front.

There were no courts. In sixty-one the judge had adjourned his court until the "next term." And in 1865 there appears on the record a next term. But the gap in the record is suggestive of the horrible period when the country was baptized in blood, when death grew so familiar that it was scarcely feared.

The men who caught Tim accused him of making regular trips on the other side of the mountain to carry news to the enemy. In vain he protested. It was only a few miles from the county-seat. There they hurried him.

Using the court-house to give a quasi-legality to the proceedings, they charged him with being a spy. They took the evidence very informally. Of evidence to show that he carried news to the enemy there was absolutely none. They tried another tack, charging a conspiracy on the part of the negroes of the county to rise in insurrection and murder the whites, but even this damning accusation lost all of its plausibility when it was suggested by a spoilsport present that there were not over six negro men in the county.

But they got something tangible at last. Enough to hang any man. It was given by a vagabond, a weak-faced renegade who had never shown any adeptness except in keeping out of the army, and he even owed his immunity from service more to the fact that he was so utterly undesirable that no man or set of men would want to serve with him. This man gave in his evidence. He had gone to mill with a grist and had talked to the prisoner about the war. He had said:

"Tim, don't you wish the Yankees would whip so that you would be free?"

Tim had said:

"Dave, if the two sides were fighting right out in that hillside meadow there, and that fight decided the war, I would n't give the turn of my hand which whupped."

Away with him! Evidence as conclusive as that needed no corroboration. The man must die and that at once, and the best man in the whole mock court was led out to be hung.

They halted long enough to tear from the fence opposite the court-house some broad, weather-beaten boards. These were sawed and an oblong box large enough to hold a man's body made. They made the hapless negro lie down in the box and put the lid on to see if it was large enough.

The hanging bee then proceeded. The box was carried first. Then followed the prisoner. In all the tales told of this shameful affair, it has never been stated that the negro weakened or asked for mercy. Was he not raised by the Rockway's, and had he not known the men in whose hands he had fallen. He may have been paralyzed by fear, but it is more likely that he would not ask his life from those of a class whom he despised.

At the distance of a half mile from the court-house they came to where the advance party had dug a shallow grave. A tree stood near, and then the very trying question came who was to put the rope around his neck. The men were new at the hanging business, and each had supposed that someone else would fix the noose around the neck of the negro, so that he could be swung from the limb of a tree. This caused a break in the proceedings until the man, who had testi- to the conversation he had had with the negro, stepped up and affixed the rope. Then the rope was thrown over a limb and a dozen hands drew the unfortunate negro up. The men were new at the work and after he had hung there what seemed an interminable length of time, a man rode up and shouted to them that he had met Sam Barnwell riding to tell John Rockway that they were hanging old Tim. The group were pale and frightened by the terrible death they had deliberately brought about. The leader suggested that he take him down, and with frantic haste they place the body in the box, and cover it in the shallow grave. One man looks pale and sick and endeavors to walk away, but he is sternly ordered back by his partners in crime.

The grave was nearly filled when Rockway and Harvey dash up, their horses showing signs of being desperately ridden. They had met a boy a short distance away and he told them what had occurred. The little fellow had followed out of curiosity to see the affair, and he told them where to find the party, and added, in an awe-struck tone, that he had seen old Tim turn over in his coffin just before they nailed it up.

Rockway threw himself from his horse, and, crippled man as he was, he seized a spade and commenced to open the grave. Harvey sat on his horse and toyed with a big revolver. He talked slowly and in an ordinary tone of voice said, "Men, you have done a hellish thing. If there is a man here who says that there was any cause to hang that poor old nigger, let him say it to me." The gang cowed before him and not a man opened his lips. He then said, "Go, every one of you cowardly dogs, and if there is ever a time when there is law in this land I will see that every one of you answers for this, and until then, may God's curse rest upon you for this days work." And glad enough to go, the miserable men slunk away and left the two men to uncover the body of the faithful black man, and, though they found that the body lay face down in the coffin, life was extinct, and they had the horror of seeing that the bunglers had buried him alive.

In a few days Harvey was riding along the road, in a secluded place, when he noticed a man lying behind a log with his gun styled upon him. He turned his horse and escaped. A short time afterwards, he was fired upon from the bushes as he was working in a field for Rockway. He saw that he was marked for death, and he saddled up his mule and left that section of country.

The preceding was the occasion which caused Harvey to leave the vicinity in which he had been separated from his young companion. Weston detirmined to investigate the report that a man by the name of Harvey had died at Woodbine, about a hundred miles beyond Prattville, and he bought a good horse and took his departure from the Widow Casey's, in a few days. The ride to Woodbine was uneventful, and further news of Harvey which he received must go over to another chapter.

BIOGRAPHIC NOTES.

Squire Hugh McLaughlin, Late of Marlinton.

THE third group of the McLaughlin relationship in our county are the descendants of Squire Hugh McLaughlin, late of Marlinton, West Va. His early life was spent in part on Jackson's River, Bath County.

His wife was Nancy Gwinn, daughter of John Gwinn, Sr., and grand-daughter of John Bradshaw, the founder of Huntersville.

Squire Hugh McLaughlin and Hugh McLaughlin, Esq., late of Huntersville, were cousins and were intimately associated when young men. They were married about the same time, jointly leased a piece of land on Jackson's River, built a cabin and went to housekeeping. There was but one room. This they divided between them and kept seperate establishments. Squire McLaughlin would often tell how an axe, maul, and Wedge made up his original business capital, and how his housekeeping effects were carried by his young wife on a horse the day they went to themselves in their cabin home on leased land.

Upon the expiration of the lease early in the twenties, Squire McLaughlin settled in the woods on Thomas Creek and opened up lands now owned by his son, Geo. H. McLaughlin.

Mr and Mrs McLaughlin were the parents of three sons and two daughters. William Jacob, John Calvin, George Henry, Elizabeth, and Margaret.

Margaret, a promising young girl, died very suddenly.

Elizabeth became Mrs George Rohan, lived awhile on Roaring Creek, Randolph County, and finally located near the Hot Springs, where her family now lives. Mr Rohan was one of the builders of the Marlinton Bridge, 1854–5; a faithful Confederate soldier in the war from start to finish. His young wife refugeed from Roaring Creek soon after the battle of Rich Mountain, with her two little children, one tied behind her and the other in her arms, and made the journey from Roaring Creek to the Warm Springs alone on horseback.

William Jacob McLaughlin first married Sarah Gum, from Meadow Dale, Highland County, and settled near Huntersville. One daughter, Nancy Jane, who died in early youth. His second marriage was with Susan Bible, daughter of Jacob Bible, near Green Bank. In this family were two sons and two daughters.

Elizabeth became Mrs John M. Lightner, lately of Abilene, Texas.

Alice was a teacher of public schools, married Dennis W. Dever, of Knapp's Creek, and they live near Frost.

Mitchell D. McLaughlin married Emma Kerr Greaver, of Bath, and lives near Savannah Mills, in Greenbrier County. They have five children.

Jacob Andrew McLaughlin married Sally Gibson, and lives at Brimfield, Indiana.

John C. McLaughlin married Isabella, daughter of Adam Lightner, of Highland County, and settled near Huntersville. When a youth going to school at Hillsboro he was thrown from a horse and received injuries that disabled him for manual labor. He acquired a good education, taught school, wrote in the Clerk's office, and was an expert business man greatly respected by his fellow citizens.

G. H. McLaughlin married Ruhamah Wiley, of Highland; first settled near Dunmore, but now lives at Marlinton. He was a Confederate soldier and is a widely-known citizen.

Squire Hugh McLaughlin was married the second time to Mrs Elizebeth Gum, (nee Lightner), near Meadow Dale, Va. There were two sons by this marriage.

Harper McLaughlin first married Caroline Cackley, and lived at Marlinton. Second marriage was with Etta Yeager, of Travellers Repose.

A. M. McLaughlin married Mary M. G. Price, daughter of James A. and Margaret D. Price, of Marlin's Bottom, and settled on the Marlinton homestead, lately sold to the Marlinton Development Co.

After residing a number of years near Dunmore, Squire McLaughlin located west of Huntersville, where he prospered in business. Thence he removed to Marlinton, where he died in 1870, aged 69 years. Squire McLaughlin was a prominent and influential citizen a member of the county court, a ruling elder in the Presbyterian church. He acquired an immense landed estate—one of the most valuable in the county. His influence was largely in favor of economical industry, good morals, and intelligent piety. His business sagacity was phenomenal, and he could see money where most others could not see any thing worth looking for.

About fifty years ago the county court refused license to saloonkeepers. The whole county was convulsed with the agitation that arose. At first Squire McLaughlin strenuously objected to this action of the court as doing violence to personal liberty, and depriving the county of revenue, and making it that much harder for the tax-payers. Whenever the matter was discussed this thrilling Scripture was often repeated:

"Woe unto him that giveth his neighbor drink, that putteth thy bottle to him and makest him drunken also, that thou mayest look on their nakedness."—Hab. ii 16.

His conscience was touched and he resolved to clear himself of the fearful liability implied by doing any thing to license the giving of drink to neighbors; and let the revenue take care of itself, which it could well do with a sober, prosperous citizenship to depend on.

He was also much impressed by what was reported to have passed between two saloonists. One was complaining to another how his business had fallen off. The other saloonist remarked that at one time he noticed his business was on the decline, the "old suckers" were all going to the "boneyard" so fast, and he saw if "new suckers" were not to be had he would have to quit the business. He told every young man that he met that he had laid in some of the nicest liquors that were ever brought on, and if he would come around he would give him a treat and would find out for himself what was nice. The saloonist observed that after three or four free drinks the youngsters would begin to buy and his business was on the rise quite satisfactorily. Thus he had found out that a few dimes in treating meant dollars to him in selling or salooning.

Squire McLaughlin's services as a member of the court for eighteen years were of much use, and along with John Gay, Paul McNeel, and Isaac Moore, being themselves large tax-payers, public affairs were managed on a judicious scale, and money, as a general thing, was laid out where the prospect seemed for the greatest good for the greatest number.

While these persons, and others like minded, were on the bench, the attorneys from a distance were in the habit of saying that the Pocahontas Court was so hide-bound and disagreeable that it was no use to try to do any thing with it or to make any thing out of it at the expense of the people. Moreover, they complained the court kept the county too dry by refusing saloon privileges. Reasons for such objections to the Pocahontas County Court we most devoutly hope may never cease to exist.

W. T. P.

—Water is generally reckoned to be soft when it contains less than 1-5000th part of its weight of mineral ingredients, and "hard" when it contains more that 1-4000th.

When grip or other epidemics are prevailing wear a little crude sulphur in your boots or shoes.

Avoid anything acid which has been kept in a tin can.

A STRANGE WILD SONG.

LEWIS CARROLL.

He thought he saw an Elephant
That practiced on a fife:
He looked again and found it was
A letter from his wife.
"At length I realize," he said,
"The bitterness of life!"

He thought he saw a Buffalo
Upon the chimney-piece:
He looked again, and found it was His Sister's Husband's Neice.
"Unless you leave this house," he said,
"I'll send for the Police!"

He thought he saw a Rattlesnake
That questioned him in Greek:
He looked again, and found it was
The Middle of Next Week,
"The one thing I regret," he said,
"Is that it can not speak."

He thought he saw a bankers clerk descending from the bus:
He looked again, and found it was A Hippopotamus:
"If this should stay to dine," he said,
"There won't be much for us!"

He thought he saw a Kangaroo
That worked a coffee mill:
He looked again, and found it was A Vegetable Pill.
"Were I to swallow this," he said,
"I should be very ill!"

He thought he saw an Albatross
That fluttered round the lamp:
He looked again, and found it was A Penny-Postage Stamp.
"You 'd best be getting home," he said,
"The nights are very damp!"

He thought he saw a Garden-Door
That opened with a key:
He looked again, and found it was A Double Rule of Three:
"And all its mystery," he said,
"Is clear as day to me!"

He thought he saw and Argument
That proved he was the Pope:
He looked again, and found it was
A Bar of Mottled Soap.
"A fact so dread," he faintly said,
"Extinguishes all hope!"

—From Sylvie and Bruno.

Embarrassed, But Not Silenced.

At a recent Washington reception there was a short but sharp interchange of courtesies between the wealthy wife of an ex-Congressman and the wife of a far from rich bureau chief. It was a crowded afternoon affair, and the ex-Congressman's wife was assisting the hostess in receiving guests. When the wife of the bureau official was presented the hostess said to the woman of the receiving party, "You know Mrs Blank, don't you?" "Certainly," said the ex-Congressman's wife. "I would know her anywhere by that pink dress."

The cheeks of the bureau officer's wife were suffused with a rosy glow but she turned on her tormentor and said, "Probably if my husband had been mixed up in as many questionable transactions as yours, madam, it would not be necessary for me to wear my pink reception dress so often as to cause comment."

Every word rang out clear and sharp upon the ears of the astonished guests. Inasmuch as there had been frequent criticism of the ex-Congressman for his connection with questionable lobby transactions, the force of the bureau offiicial's wife's retort can readily be imagined.—Ex.

How He Lost His Job.

An exchange tells the story of an old colored man who asked a white man if he would give him work. The white man asked the negro if he had a boat. When the negro replied, "Yes, boss," the white man responded:

"Well, you see all that driftwood floating down the river?"

"Yes, sah," was the reply.

"Well, then you row out in the river and catch that driftwood, and I'll give you half you get."

The colored man worked hard for a while, when all of a sudden he stopped and pulled for the shore.

On being asked the reason for his return, he said, "Dat wood is jest as much mine as 'tis his. I ain't gwine to give him any, and so I'm out of work agin."

—One of the ballots for Themistocles has just been found by German excavators in the Areopagus, going back to a date earlier than 370 B. C., as that was the year in which that celebrated worker of the Athenian primaries was banished. It is an inscribed potsherd bearing his name, and with proper care is good for another 2500 years. There are only three such souvenirs of the old Greek elections in existence, and only this one bears the name of Themistocles.—Facts and Figures.

Avoid drinking water which has been run through galvanized iron or lead pipes.

The Pocahontas Times,

Hear, Land o' Cakes and brither Scots,
Frae Maidenkirk to Johnny Groats,
If there's a hole in a' your coats,
I rede ye tent it;
A chiel's amang you takin' notes,
An' faith he'll prent it.—BURNS

Suitable Epitaph for a Candidate for County Superintendent.

[Sure to be Needed.[

Here rests his head upon the lap of earth,
A youth to fortune and to fame unknown;
The Primary soured all his joyous mirth,
And Melancholy marked him for her own.

Marlinton should form a spectacle club. Only those who wore spectacles should be allowed to join.

Colonel Eastham, who was serving a two-years' sentence for manslaughter in the Tucker jail, escaped last week.

Miss Nora Boblett was thrown from her horse in front of Golden's Store, last Saturday, but was not hurt. She had nerve enough to mount it again and ride it home.

In answer to the question, why is Marlinton like Mt Zion in Palestine? We can think of no better answer than it now looks like a plowed field, so much plowing has been done this season.

Andrew Moore found and killed six black snakes and two garter snakes in a hollow tree, which he had chopped down for wood. The aggregate length of the black snakes was 34 feet, string measure.

When the boys dig fishing-worms this year make them dig around the fruit trees young and old and they will get some of the cultivation they need. The boy will find also that it is a good place to dig bait.

Because we quote lower prices than we 've ever done before do n't ge' the idea that the qualities are lower. Our goods are fresh and new and we mean to sell them at a very short profit. Our expenses are short and we only ask for a short profit. Yours, etc.,
J. D. PULLIN & Co.

Our young friend John Gay of Indian Draft has been lately conspicuously absent from Marlinton. Upon inquiry we are pleased to learn that he and Miss Allie Clunen were happily married at Br·mfield, Indiana, and have made garden and planted corn. This news may not be news, but it is none the less good.

If any one who is a judge of styles and qualites will take the time to examine the difference between up-to-date milliners' hats and the ones that a country storekeeper handles, she will, if she is in the least inclined to be fashionable, want to get a hat where she can unite style, quality, and low prices. This you can do at MRS CUNNINGHAM'S. Call, and it can be proven.

Rev J. M. Anderson struck the key note last Thursday night at prayer meeting. We have some young boys at this place whose church manners are execrable. When the minister got up to read, these boys set up their usual antics so annoying to quiet people. The preacher gave them an open reproof. "Boys, be quiet! I want you to know that if I can do nothing else, I can keep order." The rebuke told, and there was immediately a stillness that could be felt, and it continued during the service.

Josh Billings said, I do n't keer how much a man talks if he only sez it in a few words! My new line of goods does not possess the power of speech by word of mouth but it does much silent, earnest talking. Do n't take my word for any thing, but come to the store and I will show a nice line of dress ducks in solid colors and figures—the kind you used to pay 20c yard—only 9-10c. Childrens' hats 15c. I have just received a very handsome line of Ladies' Sailor Hats—they are the latest and fashionable. By the way, clipp'ng time is right here and I want 25,000lbs. of wool cash or trade. P. GOLDEN.

Jim Wilson has had a peck of trouble lately and is ageing fast. His anxious friends notice more gray wool and wrinkles daily. He is stooped and bowed down under adversity. He is a colored darkey, who served as a body servant to a Confederate officer all through the war. He has been a widower for a number of years and, and was supposed to be looking out for number two. His boy, under age, has been working for John T. Byrd, of Bath County. They fell out over a settlement, and Jim brought suit. Mr Byrd wrote him that he would give him a horse and buggy and $20 to compromise. All his friends advised him to accept it, but Jim would not weaken. He boasted to his darkey friends, like an Indian around a camp-fire, how he would come riding back from the Bath Court in his buggy. He went over there and lost the whole case. The defendant produced a written agreement, showing that Jim had released to him his right to claim the wages of his infant son for fifty cents worth of tobacco. Jim came limping back to Pocahontas, and does not show his face in town. The trouble has struck him so deep that many think he is in a decline.

SUDDEN DEATH.

John L. Hannah Falls Dead From His Wagon-Seat.

John L. Hannah of Point Mountain, fell dead in his wagon on Point mountain. He was driving a two horse team and a man named Hambrick was sitting beside him. He reached forward to strike the horses and the lash returning struck him in the eye. He said, "I believe that nasty whip has put my eye out," and fell dead.

The deceased was a man about 25 years old, and married. He was a son of Sheldon Hannah, on Elk. From information gleaned from medical men, a blow in the eye might produce death from three causes, at least. The lash might reach the brain: a blood-vessel of the brain might be burst; or death might result from a weak heart.

MILL POINT.

Howard Clark is painting S. J. Payne's store.

E. H. Moore came home on Saturday to stay a few days.

J. W. Baxter went to Hinton last Saturday.

Sheep shearing next and then something else.

Dr McClintic is preparing to build a fine residence. Mr Overholt is laying the foundation.

Miss Carrie Thomas passed here Friday, on her way home on Spring Creek.

W. A. Bratton and L. M. McClintic were at Academy last Saturday on legal business.

H. S. Rucker passed here last Friday on his way to Greenbrier.

Candidates are thick. They are shaking hands and each one thinks he will get there.

Mr and Mrs A. D. Bruce passed here Sunday, on their way to Mingo.

Mr and Mrs James Bright and two of George Callison's daughters are off to Washington City.

Mr Harper is making brick for S. J. Payne, who contemplates building a fine brick residence.

Poe Weiford has lost another fine horse. This is two he has lost in the last six months.

John White, of Dunmore, is at the Taylor & McElwee store. They are selling cheap and will close out in a short time.

People are not done planting corn, on account of unfavorable weather. Oats are short, but wheat is looking well.

Mrs Mattie McNeel is home on a visit from the State of Washington. She and her little boy made the trip alone.

War is all the talk of men, women and children. Politics are as dead as Darby. When the mail arrives, the postoffice is beseiged by a dozen or two anxious peopl· to hear the latest news. W. W.

"Croakin' never buys a dress,
Growlin' is n't in it.
Fix your peepers on success,
Then go in to win it."
—ANON.

Homer B. Riffles, of Braxton, has been in the vicinity.

J. W. Smith is very sick at this time.

Miss Maud Smith caught two sick fish, which she failed to eat.

Whiskers and clubs have been flourishing in this vicinity, but all is quiet now.

E. S. McClure has ordered a bicycle. We fear his new horse will refuse to wade the river.

W. H. Shafer, of Mill Point, desires that each and every school teacher in the county send him their full name and address upon a postal card, at once.

Look for the announcement of that other candidate from Mill Point, who is running for County Superintendent of Free Schools. Why cannot all these candidates running for the same office run it out in a foot-race?

Mrs Bessie Shafer is somewhat unwell at this time. MUX.

Centenarian Dead.

Joseph Sharp, commonly reputed to be '110 years old, died last week. His exact age is not known. There are two censuses in the Clerk's office, one of 1850 and one of 1880. By the 1850 census he was 96 years at his death, and by the 1880 census 91 years. This discrepancy is not remarkable as he did not know his own age. He was a hard working man and a consistent user of Tobacco all his life.

The Kettle Says the Pot is Black.

The Hohenzollern who edits the Hinton Independent-Herald says we do not print enough war news and tell too many bear stories instead. Seest not the beam in thy own eye? The news of the war that paper gives is about as fresh as a nest egg, and as abundant as the hair on a bald man's head.

Notice.

The Musical Association of Pocahontas County which was to meet at Lobelia, June 1, is postponed to a date to be fixed, on account of the mumps prevailing in that neighborhood.
JOHN WAUGH, President.

To Cure a Cold in One Day.

Take Laxative Bromo Quinine Tablets. All Druggists refund the money if it fails to Cure. 25c.

SUMMARY OF WAR NEWS.

The Spanish fleet has been discovered in the West Indies, and a general engagement is expected soon.

The expedition to the Phillipines will start from San Francisco in a few days. Spain will send 40,000 troops there at once.

Admiral Sampson bombarded the San Juan batteries, and, after damaging them badly, drew off. One man killed and five wounded on our side. Loss on Spanish side unknown.

The first death of an American in the war occurred when the gunboat Winslow was disabled near Cardenas. A shell burst over her, killing five men. The Hudson towed the Winslow out of danger. Two Spanish ships were sunk and the battery silenced. In the battery were found 113 dead Spanish soldiers.

ACADEMY.

Plenty of rain and mud, but good growing weather.

Every body around here is wagoning

N. J. Brown passed through our town, enroute for his mountain farm.

Two candidates, Miss Dinah. Both alike and both for you. Take your choice.

Shooting black birds and crows seems to be an important industry at this time.

Give us W. H. Shafer for County Superintendent of Free Schools. He is the best educated man in the political field.

Shearing sheep is the order of the day. S. H. Clark has over five hundred sheep and is nearly done shearing them. He has over four hundred lambs.

The mumps at Lobelia have given the people, who wanted to go to the Musical Association, a scare, but they turned out to be a small affair and nothing to be affraid of.

J. A. McLaughlin has been in our part lectioneering. SENEX.

BUCKEYE.

Corn is coming up nicely, and wheat is looking extra finely.

W. McClintic's teams went to Ronceverte this week.

Miss Nora Overholt has been very sick, is better.

James Beverage is laboring for Jasper Auldridge.

George Dolan and family have been visiting here.

Colbert Duncan is a candidate for matrimony.

Andy Lightner made a flying trip to Virginia recently.

An infant son of Mr and Mrs Washington Beverage is very ill.

George Auldridge, of Edray, was in this part on business this week.

Miss Neva McNeil has returned from Alderson, where she has been attending school.

W. A. Bratton passed through town Saturday, on his way to Academy.

W. McClintic went after his mother, who spent the winter at Lewisburg.

Jasper Auldridge was looking after his interest on the Creek Sunday.

Albert Overholt and family have returned from the West where they have been living for the past year. Their many friends are glad to see them at home again.

Aubern and Miss Luvecia Pyles have been visititing in the vicinity. REV SAMUEL JONES.

Grand Entertainment.

The young ladies of Marlinton will give an entertainment next Wednesday evening, May 25, 1898, consisting of music, dialogs and drills. All are invited.

Commissioner's Sale.

Pursuant to a decree of the Circuit Court of Pocahontas County, made in the chancery cause of Levi Gay vs. D. W. Sharp, and others, on the 5th day of April, 1898, the undersigned Special Commissioner will on the

21st day of June, 1898,

At the front door of the Courthouse of Pocahontas County, West Virginia, proceed to sell by way of public auction to the highest bidder the following tract of

100 Acres of Land,

Situated in Pocahontas County, on the Greenbrier River, being the same land conveyed by Levi Gay and wife to D. W. Sharp, by deed dated January 1, 1895, and recorded in the Clerk's office of the County Court of Pocahontas County, in Deed Book No. 25, page 476. Said land comprises a well fenced farm in good state of cultivation.

Terms of Sale: Enough of cash in hand to pay costs of suit and sale, and for the residue of the purchase money, shall take from the purchaser three bonds of equal amounts, with good personal security, falling due in 6, 12, and 18 months from day of sale, respectively, with interest on all of said bonds from day of sale, the title to be retained as ultimate security.
L. M. McCLINTIC,
Special Commissioner.

I, J. H. Patterson, Clerk of the Circuit Court of Pocahontas County, do certify that the above named Special Commissioner has executed bond as required in sai l decree.
J. H. PATTERSON, Clerk.

ORDER OF PUBLICATION.

State of West Virginia,
Pocahontas County, to-wit:

At rules held in the clerk's office of the circuit court of the said county, on Monday, May 2d, 1898.

Matilda E. Malcomb, alias
Matilda E. Wanless, ... Plaintiff. versus
John N. Wanless, ...Defendant.

The object of this suit is to subject to sale under attachment a tract of about 298 acres of land lying in Pocahontas County, west Virginia, being the residue of a tract of about 393 acres conveyed by Andrew Wanless and wife to John N. Wanless, on June 29th, 1878, belonging to the defendant, John N. wanless, or so much thereof as may be necessary to pay to the plaintiff the sum of $789 37 with interest on $697 90 part thereof, from the 1st day of May, 1898, until paid, which amount is due said plaintiff as accrued alimony under decree of the circuit court of Pocahontas county, west Virginia, entered April 5, 1893, in the chancery cause of Matilda E. Wanless vs. John N. Wanless, and the costs of this suit

This day came the plaintiff by her attorney and on his motion, it appearing by affidavit filed that the defendant is, a non resident of the State of west Virginia, it is ordered that he do appear here within one month from the first publication of this order and do what is necessary to protect his interests in this suit.

Witness, J. H. Patterson, clerk of our said court, at the court house this 2d day of May, 1898, and in the 35th year of the State.
J. H. PATTERSON, Clerk.
S. B. Scott, Jr., p. q.

Commissioner's Notice

Commissioner's Office,
Marlinton, W. Va.
April 15th, 1898.

Pursuant to a decree of the Circuit Court of Pocahontas County, rendered in a cause therein pending in which Martha J. Hogsett's Administrator is plaintiff and J. T. Hogsett and others are defendants; at the April Term, 1898; I will proceed at my office in the town of Marlinton, West Virginia, on the 30th day of May, 1898, to take, state, and report to court the following matters of account, towit:

First. A settlement of the accounts of the said Martha J. Hogsett.

Second. All of the unpaid debts and liens upon the land of the said Martha J. Hogsett.

Third. The real estate owned by the said Martha J. Hogsett at the time of her death with the fee simple and annual rental value thereof

Fourth. The condition of the title of the said real estate.

Fifth Any other matter, etc.

At which time and place all parties in interest may attend.
W. A. BRATTON,
Commissioner.

NOTICE TO CREDITORS.

To the creditors of Martha J. Hogsett, deceased:

In pursuance to a decree of the Circuit Court of the County of Pocahontas, West Virginia, in a cause therein pending to subject the real estate of the said Martha J. Hogsett to the payment of her debts, you are required to present your claims against the estate of the said Martha J. Hogsett for adjudication to W. A. Bratton, Commissioner, at his office in the town of Marlinton, in the said county, on or before the 30th day of May, 1898.

Witness J. H. Patterson, Clerk of the said Court, this the 15th day of April, 1898.
J. H. PATTERSON, Clerk.
6w

Shropshire and Southdown Buck Lambs, and Berkshire Hogs.

Persons wanting any of the above breeds should send in their orders early to R. M. BEARD, 4t Academy, W. Va.

NOTICE.

SILLING & SLAVEN,

TIN, SHEET-IRON
ROOFING,
GUTTER SPOUTING,
ROOF PAINTING,
FLUES, STOVE PIPE.

Shop-Made Tin Ware Always on Hand.

LIGHTNING RODS.

Work Done on Short Notice.

Call or write to

SILLING & SLAVEN,
ACADEMY, W. VA.

Notice.

The members of John Burgess Camp U. V. C. are requested to meet at Hillsboro, next Saturday, May 21, at 2 o'clock P. M., to attend to important business.

Also, the ladies of the community are requested to meet at the same time and place to transact business for the cause of the Daughters of the Confederacy.

Respectfully,
M. J. McNEEL,
May 17, '98. Commander.

Educate Your Bowels With Cascarets. Candy Cathartic, cure constipation forever. 10c, 25c. If C. C. C. fail, druggists refund money.

The Great War.

We have won success by our ability to demonstrate our bargain claims; we guarantee the smallest of our patrons the same courteous attention given the largest.

We are taking great pains in buying our Spring and Summer Stock of Goods...

And all bargains will be shared with our customers.

We keep goods moving by keeping goods that move; we test every value our prices do the rest. Its not a question of opinion, its a rock-ribbed fact that our prices can not be successfully cut under. Don't scatter your dollars unwisely; concentrate them here and save more of them.

It is shrewd and well directed effort that makes our bargains unusual. Our PRICES PUZZLE COMPETITORS AND DELIGHT PURCHASERS.

Thanking you for your past patronage, we remain
Yours respectfully,

L D Sharp.
Linwood W Va

The Levels News.

Edited by Payne Bros.

Vol. 1 Academy, W. Va., May 20, 1898. No. 18

Market, May 17, 1898.

—Eggs 8½c per dozen.
—Butter 12½ per pound.
—Lard 8c per lb.
—Corn 75c per bushel.
—Wheat $1 per bushel.
—Oats 40c per bushel.
—Beeswax 25c per lb.
—Hams 10 to 12½c per lb.
—Side Bacon 10c.
—Shoulder 9c.
—Potatoes 75c a bushel.
Hens 5c a pound.
—Tallow 6c lb.
—At PAYNE BROS.

—Hay carriers at Payne Bros.

—E. H. Moore spent Sunday at home.

—Millet Seed, Screen Wire and Hinges at Paynes.

—Rev. Turner preached Monday night in the Presbyterian church.

—J. H. Sydenstricker and J. L. Clark were home Sunday.

—Willis Baxter was on a trip to Ronceverte Saturday and Sunday.

—L. M. McClintic, wife and daughter, were in town Saturday; also W. A. Bratton, of Marlinton, was down on business.

—Sell your produce to Payne and get top prices. He always looks after the interest of the farmer.

—Payne Bros shipped 500 bushels of wheat to Ronceverte, Tuesday.

—Mrs. John McNeel, of Washington, is now here visiting her father, Mrs. J. L. Beard.

—50,000 pounds of Wool wanted at Payne Bros. Highest prices paid in cash and goods.

—Miss Lena Watts and brother were the guests of Mrs. R. W. Hill last week.

Mr. Seldomridge and his granddaughter, Miss Allie, and Mr. Blake and sister are visiting relatives here.

SALT: $2 A SACK.
AT PAYNE BROS.

Best grades of Roller Flour at

J. H. DOYLE'S,
Huntersville, W. V.
G. L. HANNAH'S,
Yelk, W. Va.
BARLOW & MOORE'S,
Edray, W. Va.
J. H. CURRY'S,
Green Bank, W. Va.
B. L. NOTTINGHAM'S,
Dunmore, W. Va.
HANNAH & HARPER, Frost

A Word in private to... Suffering Women.

No one but yourselves know of the suffering you go through. Why do you suffer? It isn't necessary. Don't lose your health and beauty, (for the loss of one is speedily followed by the loss of the other.) Don't feel "weak" and "worn out." Impure blood is at the bottom of all your trouble.

Johnston's Sarsaparilla
QUART BOTTLES.

will purify your blood and bring the bloom of health back into your cheeks. Each bottle contains a quart.

Painful and Suppressed Menses, Irregularity, Leucorrhœa, Whites, Sterility, Ulceration of the Uterus, change of life in matron or maid, all find relief, help, benefit and cure in JOHNSTON'S SARSAPARILLA. It is a real panacea for headache, pains in the left side, indigestion, palpitation of the heart, cold hands and feet, nervousness, sleeplessness, muscular weakness, bearing-down pains, backache, legache, irregular action of the heart, shortness of breath, abnormal discharges with painful menstruation, scalding of urine, swelling of feet, soreness of the breasts, neuralgia, uterine displacement, and all those symptoms which make the average woman's life so miserable. We have a book full of health information. You want it—its free.

WILLIAMS, DAVIS, BROOKS & CO., Detroit, Mich.

Liverettes for Liver Ills. The Famous Little Liver Pills. 25c.

For sale by—
URIAH BIRD, Marlinton, W. Va.; and A. BARLOW, Huntersville

Announcement.

The GOLDEN STORE announces its candidacy for your patronage, as a money saver and economizer of time and patience in supplying your needs. Our sole claim to your support is—

YOUR OWN INTEREST.

as we propose to serve you so well that it will be a case of the people seeking the store, and not the store drumming the people.

"MERIT WILL WIN."

In that consciousness we await the issue with composure.

Yours very truly,

The Golden Store.

Plow Repairs

We have at last succeeded in making arrangements to supply points for the RONCEVERTE PLOW. Full stock now on hand. Send in our orders early....

We are Factory Agents for IMPERIAL and SILVER STEEL Plows.

(The Best Hill-side Plow on the Market.)

Simms & Co.,
Opp. Passenger Depot, RONCEVERTE, W. Va.

Look Out!

We are after you, and we shall use every honorable method that we can think of to get your patronage; and we propose to get it by giving you lower prices than you can get elsewhere. If you do n't believe we will, come and see. No angry looks if you don't buy,—but we invite you to come and see.

Frank Siddall's Soap	7c
Ladies Vests	5c
Good Muslin	6c
Good Shirting	8c
Straw Matting	10c
Fast Black Hose	5c
2 Papers Pins	5c

J. D. Pullin & Co.

Pocahontas Times
Marlinton
W.Va.

The Pocahontas Times.

Andrew & Norman Price, Owners. "Montani Semper Liberi!" Andrew Price, Editor
VOL. 14, NO. 28. MARLINTON, WEST VIRGINIA, FEBUARY 5, 1897. $1.00 PER YEAR

IN Lewis County a number of prominent citizens have formed a "blood-hound" syndicate, and are arranging to procure a well trained hound to run down the outlaws that annoy them so grievously by their depredations.

THERE seems to be a fiery state of things in Gilmer County respecting education and religion. In the past six weeks four schoolhouses and one church have been destroyed by firebugs, with motives unknown. All remaining churches and school-houses are guarded night and day.

THE new judge for Mingo County is named Doolittle. By the time he clears up the Mingo docket he ought to be named Judge Doomuch. He found 700 cases on the criminal docket alone, and the late grand jury added 350 more, thus over a thousand cases for him to meet next court. There are 25 murders, and other felonies will make it nearly a hundred. This is a wonderful showing for a county of 1,800 voting population.

THE Tyler Star has something felicitous to say of ex-Senator Willey, of Morgantown, W. Va. He is 85 years of age, and has just retired from active business life. His birth was of parentage in very humble circumstances. In childhood his home was a log-cabin, and he had no advantages of any kind while growing up; and yet he rose to eminence in his State, and was known throughout the nation. All his life he has been a devoted Christian, and hence his actions were consistant with his profession. Hence he deserved and received the respect, admiration, confidence, and esteem of all who knew him, and his State delighted to honor him.

DREAMS.

Dreams, in the abstract, are nothing. By common consent this is settled. What are dreams? Revolving thoughts of the ever active and wakeful mind,—thoughts lacking the control of reason and the right knowledge and connection of the affairs of life. Yes, dreams are nothing; and yet few will deny that an impenetrable mystery hangs over the subject.

Dreams occur at times that seem so real, so remarkable and are so closely followed by such events that we are startled and never forget them. Of this character is the dream I will now relate. Told me by my mother; I cannot recall the time when my mind failed to be powerfully affected by it. She and my father and myself, an infant, were trying the difficulties of a new, scarcely opened Southern country—not even a State then; flourishing now, it may be, but in wild, chaotic condition at that time. Indians and beasts of prey were common. To the story—my mother might have been thinking more than usual, perhaps, of her early home, her father's house, now over a thousand or two miles from her, and all the members, so far as she knew, in perfect health Falling asleep at night, she was transported in a dream to that early home and at once became aware that something sad had occurred: mourning garments, especially gloves, were handed her, and in deep distress of feeling my mother wept aloud. Awakened by her husband, it was only to fall asleep again and repeat the sinular dream. The very next day brought tidings of death from her old family. A young brother of 12 years, bright and promising, named James had suddenly been killed. Mourning her dear little brother, she felt as if in some way during sleep she had been forewarned and as much prepared as is possible for the coming of death to one beloved.

This true, sad dream-story always solemnized my childish mind and I think of it to night as something that cannot be explained, tho science is very busy in every direction for body and mind, and scientific men and their literary productions are not a few. A. L. P.

THE Shah of Persia on State occasions smokes a pipe set with diamons, emerals and rubies. Its value is unknown, but it is said to have cost $400,00.

Pocahontas School Statistics.

OUR thanks are due Hon Virgil A. Lewis, State Superintendent of Free Schools, for a copy of his twelfth Biennial Report. It is a model of its kind, and is replete with information respecting the condition of the school system. Superintendent Barlow's report for Pocahontas is equal to the best of the county reports. The following items are given for the information of our patrons from the report for 1896.

EDRAY.

President Board of Education, Jacob S. Moore; Secretary, J. E. Barlow. Schools, 25. White enumerated, 715; colored enumerated, 42. Total 757. White enrollment, 611; colored, 34. Total 615. Total valuation of property, $864,491.65. Levy for building fund, 6 cents; rate for teachers fund, 21 cents; total of building fund, $461.61; total teachers fund, $2,143.62.

GREEN BANK.

President, S. B. Hannah; Secretary, J. H. Curry. Schools, 23; white enumeration, 609; colored, none;—total; 609. White enrollment, 519. Property valuation, $645,257.51. Levy building fund, 5c; teachers fund, 34. Total building fund, 324.81. Total teacher's fund, $2,196.91.

HUNTERSVILLE.

President, J. H. Doyle; Secretary, W. H. Grose. Schools, 13. White enumeration, 365; colored, 21. White enrollment, 315; colored, none. Property valuation, $393,363.88. Levy, building fund, 5;—$198.95; teachers fund, 36;—$1,432.90.

LEVELS.

President, Isaac McNeel, Mill Point; Secretary, R. W. Hill, Academy. Schools, 16. White enumeration, 588; colored, 36;—total 623. White enrollment, 448; colored, 24;—472. Property valuation, $609,103.76. Levy building fund, 7; teachers fund, 25. Total, $425.44; $1,522.21.

REMARKS.

In summing up the totals for the whole county the following is found: Schools, 77; white enumeration, 2277; colored, 99; total, 2376. White enrollment, 1893, colored, 58. Valuation, $2,512,216 80. Building fund, $1,520.83; teachers fund, $7,296.64.

The following from a tabulated statement given by Superintendent Barlow, shows the cost of education per pupil, including teachers' salaries and current expenses:

Edray District.—Based on enumeration, 4.29; on attendance, 7.76; on enrollment, 5.03.

Green Bank.—On enumeration, 5.25; on enrollment, 6.18; attendance, 8.47.

Huntersville.—Enumeration, 5 .43; enrollment, 7.17; attendance, 10.83.

Levels.—Enumeration, 4.18; enrollment, 5.53; attendance, 8.26.

Thirty-three male and forty-one female teachers were employed in the public schools for 1896. In looking over the reports of superintendents, there is a surprising agreement as to the necessity of a judicious compulsory school law, in order to secure proper efficiency for the public school system in our State.

VICE-PRESIDENT Adlai E. Stevenson has large property interests California. He has an olive grove near Etiwanda, in which are growing the best varieties of Italian olives, a lemon grove in San Diego county, and 800 acres of land in Riverside. He will go to California to look after his interests as soon as his term as Vice-President expires.

AN EXAMPLE FOR US.—"You may talk as you like," said the solid citizen, "but there was one good thing about the gladitorial fights of olden times."

"What was that?"

"The loser never had a chance to talk to the papers and explain why he lost."—Truth.

HE TOOK NO CHANCES.—"Here is my obolus, ferry me across."

Charon looked at the young man, sized him up, then pounded him into insensibility with an oar.

"This fellow," he explained to the other passengers, as he threw the body under a seat, "is one of the fools who love to rock a boat."

All agreed that it was a deed of justice.—Truth.

The Weekly Letter.

It is easy to be misunderstood. I have been placed in some very awkward positions in my life. One that I remember rather distinctly was when I was coming thro the the corn, and I chanced upon a watermelon looking as fine and large as you please. My bosom companions and myself were always in the fields and woods when we were not in the water, and might have been regarded as naturalists. Never a fruit or flower escaped our notice, and we would even steal walnuts to find out what was in them. We were each about four feet high, and of an age when watermelons, especially other peoples', were very interesting to us.

We stopped and held an examination. Kneeling down beside it, we pressed it to hear it crack, in order to see whether it was ripe. If ripe, we would of course either have left it or delivered it to the owner of the field. We could hear no crack, but we were unwilling to leave it in that field, for that was not a conclusive sign. We had decided that it was necessary to be plugged, and had just plunged a Barlow knife into its vitals, when an humble portion of my anatomy resounded to a terrible whack, and my bosom friend escaped. The owner of the melon had arrived, carrying in his hand a halter-strap, or something of that kind, which he had taken the liberty to hit me with. He was the most unreasonable man to deal with I have ever met. My explanation that I was trying to dissuade the other boy was not free from badges of fraud. My part of the argument after that was more noisy than intelligible, and the halter-strap was very hard on me.

I have been misunderstood very often. Once at a circus I paid for my ticket with a silver dollar, and seeing that the man selling tickets was busy, just for his accommodation I attempted to make the change ont of the cash-box, as I had seen the pillars of the church do from the collection box, and the man got absolutely insulting and gave me the change himself. I felt inclined to explain, but I am afraid that he would not have banked on my honesty. I thought he was unnecessarily severe, but he was only mistaken.

Next to being misunderstood, I think that to have a delightful reverie broken up unduly is trying to the nerves. On one occasion, on a beautiful Sabbath evening, in early spring, I was in a strange town without a friend or acquaintonce and I strolled out to the cemetary. There on the brow of a hill I took a seat upon a stone, and either the balmy air or the peaceful repose of the grave-yard caused me to lapse into a delightful thinking spell. I verily believe I loved all of my relations that afternoon. I was good for the time-being. My thoughts went back over my life, and I fancied how much I would do good and a philanthropist was being made by the harmonious surroundings. I think I might have wrritten a poem that evening that would have soothed the sorrows of men. I was so dreamy and restful!

Suddenly I felt as tho I had had a piece bitten out of me. Jumping up I found that I was infested with ants, that the stone on which I was sitting was over their nest, and the big, red demons had been exploring my frame by a very underhanded way of crawling up under my clothes. If I could have realized what had happed to me I would not have noticed the one bite, but sat still until the thousand ants had surveyed every inch of my surface and withdrawn. But of course all the brute aggressiveness of my nature was in arms, and jumping up I whacked myself myself where I had been bitten. It seemed to be a signal of attack. In a half-minute I had slapped myself on every portion of my body; and there were two or three hanging on for dear life between my shoulder blades, and I was trying to get them to loose me, and protect myself otherwise, too. I can feel my whole body itch now with the recollection of those ants rushing around and making a nip where it would do the most good.

To add to my embaraassment, four young ladies, in the hey-day of youthful health and beauty, strolled along the road which led by the base of the hill. I was on top about seventy-five yards above them. They thought I was crazy, for they never even smiled. The young ladies' faces wore a look of pity for the poor man, so young and handsome, who was dancing and flinging his arms about in the cemetary. I could not bear to be misunderstood, and I tried to explain that I was being bitten to death by ants. The four continued to stare as if they did not know whether to laugh or go for assistance. I grew very oratorical as the distance was great, but their faces wore a puzzled expression, and still they lingered.

Finally, driven desperate by the ants and being viewed in my agony by four girls, I threw off my coat and vest and made as tho I would divest myself of other articles of clothing, and one set of my tormentors fled, and did not look back.

I got rid of the ants finally, and was not seriously bitten,—that is, I was not disabled,— but I was sore for days, and all the good intentions of that evening were not thought of until time enough had passed that I could laugh over the way I had put one set of my enemies to flight.

CAFE THROWOUT, or, The Hey Rube's Dream.

It was a cold, blustering night in the very heart of the bitter month of January, and the stranger who entered the front door of the Cafe Throwout, on Sixth Avenue, let in after him a fierce gust of wind that brought a chill to the two men who were seated at a table in the corner, engaged in earnest conversation, and caused the bar-tender—the only other occupant of the room—to look up quickly from the sporting paper which engrossed his attention and closely scan the face of the newcomer.

"Gimme a hot apple toddy, an' put a little nutmeg on the top of it," said the newcomer as he dropped into an armchair by the stove and stretched out his hands to catch some of the genial warmth.

The bar-tender silently prepared the drink, and the two men in the corner continued their conversation, but in lowered tones and with less eagerness than before, for both of them were sharply watching the new arrival. It was a strange pair to find in a Tenderloin barroom, and it was not easy to conceive of two men, differing so widely in appearance and manner, having anything in common. The elder of the two wore a black broadcloth suit of clerical cut, deaconish whiskers of iron-gray, a white lawn tie, and a mouth so devoid of expression that the owner was perfectly safe in exposing it without the precautionary covering of beard or mustache. His companion looked as if he might have come in that very afternoon, in his best clothes, from some point midway between Rochester and Elmira. He wore a checked suit of distinctly provincial cut, a cloth cap similar to those worn by rustic milkmen on cold mornings, a high, turndown collar and no cravat, and, for ornament, a rather conspicuous bit of jewelry which might have been an heirloom known to the family as "gran'pa's buzzom pin."

As the bartender handed the hot drink to the man beside the stove, the clergyman whispered in a low voice to his companion, "I wonder what his graft is."

"Graft, nothing!" retorted the other; "there 's one of him born every hour—did n't I tell you? Look at the roll he 's flashing up! He handles money as if he 'd never heard of the Cafe Throwout before."

It was true. The newcomer, in paying for his drink, had drawn from his pocket a large roll of greenbacks, displaying them as carelassly as if he had been in a banking house instead of one of the most famous resorts for smart people that the Tenderloin precinct contains.

Of course by this time the reader has discovered that the man in clerical and his companion of provincial aspect were "smart" people, each working his own particular graft with skill and success. The faces of both brightened when their eyes fell upon the newcomer, who was a sucker of the kind some times sent by a beneficent providence to afflicted people in times of drought.

The elder of the two men was known to those who contributed to the orphan asylum that he conducted in Dreamland, as the Rev William Cassock, but the workers of the town called him "Soapy Sam." His companion's face adorns the largest and most interesting gallery of portraits that the city contains and is labeled in the catalog and explanatory text-book pertaining to the gallery "Crooked Charlie, the man of many grafts."

The two had, indeed, known hard times since the close of the summer, and were now in no mood to let any stranger go unscathed. A sudden gleam of intelligence came into Crooked Charlie's face, and at the same moment a bright light gilded the tips of the Rev William Cassock's iron gray whiskers.

"Gimme another o' them toddies an' do n't forgit the nutmeg," cried the stranger, and then the two smart people rose in their places and made a mysterious signal to the bartender.

As the sucker by the stove slowly sipped his second hot drink the red-hot iron in front of him changed into the glowing base of the old wood-burner that has warmed two generations of loafers in the little manufacturing town of Bilkville Centre, Conn. He could hear the voice of old Hiram Goodsell inviting him to a game of 'setback' in the back room of the tavern, and then some invisible force bore him up to the big hall over the school-house, where the fireman's ball was in progress, and he found himself balancing to corners with Mirandy Tucker, her that was a Larrabee.

"Cross over! Cross back! Balance all and swing yonr partners!" chanted old Bill Cadg, and the sucker went swinging down the room and out into the cold field and across the snow to the railroad train which whirled him on to New York. He was filled with glad anticipations; he would go to see Lydia Thompson, he would plunge into the heart of the gay and beautiful Tenderloin, where the corks pop merrily all night long and the ivory chips rattle and the music of the banjo and piano fills the air. Yes, here was New York at last, and here was the kindly old gentleman, known affectionately as Grand Central Pete, who has directed the urban revels of many a lonely stranger. The old man welcomes him, and explains that the city pays him to look after unsuspecting visitors and keep them from being robbed before they get to Forty-first street. Arm in arm, the two bend their steps toward what is believed in the provinces to be the merry quarter of the town, stopping at a saloon to enable the sucker to change a counterfeit twenty-dollar bill for an obliging gentleman, who hopes he will enjoy his stay in the city.

They are in the midst of gayety now, and as he sits there by the stove, unconscious of where he is, he is living over again the delights of many memorable nights in the great metropolis. He hears the glad strains of piano, the merry shouts of feminine laughter, and sees the whirling skirts and flying feet of myriad fleet dancers, His throat is parched and he must have wine, and so must they all, at his expense. Kindly faces cluster around him, kind hands help to pull his money from his pocket, his rings from his fingers, his pin and studs from his shirt, his watch from his fob, lest he should lose them; these are, indeed, swift-passing, merry hours——

"Have to wake up, sir; it 's 1 o'clock, and I 've got to close up! Did n't you have a watch-chain on when you came in here first?"

It is the bartender who has broken the spell, and the sucker's glad dream is over.

⁂

"Well, suppose you take the the watch, and I 'll take the pin and studs, and we 'll divide the sleeve buttons," says Crooked Charlie to his companion, as the two enter a saloon a few blocks away from the Cafe Throwout.

"That 's all right, that 's all right," rejoined the Rev William Cassock, as he stuffed his share of the bills away in an inside pocket, "but in the meantime let us not forget that the same providence that caused the manna to fall in the desert and sent the ravens down to feed Elisha brought this sucker to Cafe Throwout, and cast on him the mystic spell of deep, painless sleep. By the way, let me compliment you on a certain detail in you make-up which has attracted my attention. I notice that you wear one of those dude collars, without either cravat or pin. That is in keeping with your part, A jay would be content with such a collar, but one of us would get a cravat and pin first.—James L. Ford, in New York Journal.

Poetry.

Contented Jim.

Everything pleased our neighbor Jim,
When it rained
He never complained,
But said wet weathor suited him.
"There never is too much rain for me,
And this is something like," said he.

When earth was dry as a power mill,
He did not sigh
Because it was dry,
But said if he could have his will
It would be his chief supreme delight
To live where the sun shone day and night.

When winter came, with its snow and ice,
He did not scold
Because it was cold,
But said: "Now this is real nice;
If ever from home I 'm forced to go,
I'll move up north with the Esquimo.

A cyclone whirled along his track;
And did him harm—
It broke his arm,
And stripped the coat from off his back
"And I would give another limb
To see such a blow again," said Jim.

And when at length his years were told,
And his body bent,
And his strength all spent,
And Jim was very weak and old:
'I long have wanted to know,' he said,
'How it feels to die,'—and Jim was dead.

The Angel of Death had summoned him
To heaven, or—well
I cannot tell;
But I know that the climate suited Jim;
And cold or hot, it mattered not—
It was to him the long-sought spot.
—[O. F. Pearre, in The Pantagraph.

The Riker Island Farm.

Commissioner of Corrections Robert J. Wright has laid a plan before the Mayor for the establishment of a farm on Riker's Island as a sort of home for vagrants. He is going to ask the Board of Estimate for an appropriation of $20,000 to build a house on the island and lay out a farm on which the vagrants can find employment.—Evening Paper.

Perchance when Maytime's blossoms pop
The vacillating vagrant
Behind the plow will gaily hop
Across the meadows fragrant,
And carol like the gull sky high
O'er rolling green Lepanto,
The words of Horace, "Virgin i—
Bus puerisque canto."

And when the wood dove seeks the bough,
And day s dull cares diminish,
He 'll have to sit and milk the cow
Serenely to a finish.
To bed at six he 'll have to climb—
A boot his only booster,
And rise, like Phœbus, pink and prime,
Coeval with the rooster.

Across the garden bed's he 'll bound,
With sublest necromancy,
And raise the beans, to be when ground
Rare Java to his fancy.
He 'll have to raise the chick to fry,
When comes the lively tadpole,
And in the river, rolling by,
He notes the swaying shad-pole.

And when serenely on he goes,
The wabbling harrow steering,
And suddenly upon his nose
Goes skating down the clearing,
He 'll vow that to no pard he 'll pop,
Again to dream enraptured,
Till by the lithe and wary cop
He 's lit upon and captured.

And he 'll avoid the ways of sin,
To make life's couch more cosy,
And on the cocktail made of gin
Ne'er look when it is rosy.
By light and airy fancy fed,
As lively as a sparrow;
To dodge hard work he 'll fondly tread
The path that's straight and narrow.
—[R. K. Munkittrick, in the Journal, New York.

THE BLOOMER GIRL'S SECRET.—"At last!"

The young man heaved an intense sigh of relief as he heard her well-known footstep descending the stairs. For more than an hour he had sat by the drawing-room window waiting for her to dress. His only amusement had been watching the two bicycles lined up against the curbstone in front of the house. She had promised to take an early spin with him, and as he noted the beautiful autumn morning fleeting away, he began to chafe impatiently and almost regret that he had not gone alone.

"I told you I would be only a few minutes," she said, with an innocent laugh that showed she was perfectly oblivious of the flight of time, as she bounded into the room and ran her hand carelessly over the mantel in search of a hair-pin to fasten her glove.

"Why, my dear, you 've been over an hour," he replied with a trace of resentment in his tone.

"Pshaw!" she laughed, "you ought to know by this time what a woman means by a few minutes.'

"No doubt I should," he returned, "but you 're a new woman, you know, and I supposed she was different. How is it you can't dress as quickly as a man, when your clothes are almost identical?"

Before she could reply, her little brother, who had overheard the remark, said:

"'Cause she wears four pairs of stockings under her leggings."—Truth.

A FEW months ago Mr Byron Every, of Woodstock, Mich., was afflicted with rheumatism. His leg was swollen the full lenght, causing him great sugering. He was advised to try Chamberlain's Pain Balm. The first bottle of it helped him considerably and the second bottle effected a cure. The 25 and 50 cent sizes for sale by druggists.

A TREE WHICH WILL NOT BURN.—A government report from Columbia contains a description of a tree, known as the chapparo, which is said to possess the quality of being fireproof. It grows on the vast plains of Columbia and the north of South America, called savannas, extensive districts which are parched with heat except during the rainy season.

It has long been the custom to clear the ground for the new vegetation, which springs up so luxuriantly, by means of fire, and such fires, miles in length, kindled by herdsmen, destroy every thing in the shape of vegetation except the chapparro tree, which survives to afford a welcome shade in an almost treeless region.

It is a small tree, seldom growing more than twenty feet high, with a girth of about three feet. It owes its protection from fire to the nature of its thick, hard bark. The bark lies on the trunk in loose layers, which do not readily conduct heat to the more delicate parts of the structure. It is a general idea among the natives that this tree only grows where gold is abundant in the soil below. That it common in auriferous districts is undisputable, but there is no ground for supposing that it does not grow elsewhere. Exchange.

I HAVE given Chamberlain's Cough Remedy a fair test and consider it one of the very best remedies for croup that I have ever found. One dose has always been sufficient, altho I use it freely. Any cold my children contract yields very readily to this medicine. I can conscientiously recommend it for croup and colds in children—GEO. E. WOLFF, Clerk of the Circuit Court Ferdinanda, Fla. Sold by druggists.

MRS DANIEL HOWARD, of Jeffersonville, Ind., had her home connected by telephone with the Presbyterian church, of which she is a member, she, at times, being prevented by illness from attending services. Her experiment proved a success, and her example has been followed in Jeffersonville and some of the neighboring towns.

HENRY W. OLIVER, of Pittsburg Pa., is said to have received a commission of $2,000,000 for having effected a fifty-year lease of the mines in the Mesba Range, Minn., It was a Rockfellow-Carnegie ore deal, and by it the Carnegie-Oliver interests may be able to command the markets of the world.

CRUCIAL TEST OF GREATNESS.—"And is Biggun really so great a man?".

"Great? Why, that fellow could leave his umbrella in a hotel corridor on a rainy day and no one would dare to touch it."—Cincinnati Enquirer.

SIR JOHN GROST, head of the Educational Department in Engfiland, in a public speech, declared thet "at birth there is not much differnce between a baby and a monkey," and that the monkey had the advantage. He has been taken to task for this in all parts of the kingdom.

JULES VERNE still writes two novels a year, altho he is nearly 80 years old. After his novels are finished, he selects the better one and publishes it. The other is laid away. He writes from 4 o'clock a. m. until noon each day. He goes to bed at 9 o'clock p. m.

CAPT. ZALINSKI, inventor of the pneumatic dynamite gun, has been studying high explosives abroad, and now declares that gunpowder as a destructive agent in warfare will soon be supeseded by modern explosives.

SUSAN B. ANTHONY began her speechmaking career in 1853, working for the freedom of slaves. It was not until this had been accomplished that she turned her attention to the emancipation of woman.

LOUIS DARWIN and his wife recently celebrated the eightieth aniversity of their wedding. He is 107 and his wife is 101 years old. They are French-Canadians, and live in St. Paul, Minn.

THE STATE of Kansas is going to celebrate its birthday. It would be a fitting occasion for Kansas to turn over a new leaf.

BARONESS HIRSCH has given $250,000 to endow a home for consumptive Jews in England.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., expects soon to become the greatest mule market in the world.

MASSACHUSETTS annually imports from beyond her border eggs to the value of $5,000,000.

DURING the recent holidays every single girl in the town of Brookston, Ky., was married.

The Pocahontas Times.

Andrew & Norman Price, Owners. "Montani Semper Liberi!" Andrew Price, Editor

VOL. 15, NO. 45. MARLINTON, WEST VIRGINIA, JUNE 3, 1898. $1.00 PER YEAR

From FACTORY to CONSUMER.

$1.39 buys this (exact) Rattan Rocker, the largest size ever made; per dozen, $14.50. Our new 112 page catalogue containing Furniture, Draperies, Crockery, Baby Carriages, Refrigerators, Stoves, Lamps, Pictures, Mirrors, Bedding, etc., is yours for the asking. Special supplements just issued are also free. Write to-day. CARPET CATALOGUE in lithographed colors is also mailed free. Write for it. If you wish samples, [illegible] stamp. [illegible] free this month and freight paid on $5 purchases and over.

$7.45 buys a made-to-your-measure All-Wool Cheviot Suit, expressage prepaid to your station. Write for free catalogue and samples. Address (exactly as below),

JULIUS HINES & SON.
Dept. 909. BALTIMORE, MD.

LAW CARDS.

R. C. McNEIL,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

Will practice in the Courts of Pocahontas and adjoining counties and in the Court of Appeals of the State of West Virginia.

L. M. McCLINTIC,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

Will practice in the Courts of Pocahontas and adjoining counties and in the Supreme Court of Appeals.

H. S. RUCKER,
ATTY. AT LAW & NOTARY PUBLIC
HUNTERSVILLE, W. VA.

Will practice in the courts of Pocahontas county and in the Supreme Court of Appeals.

J. W. ARBUCKLE,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
LEWISBURG, W. VA.

Will practice in the courts of Greenbrier and Pocahontas counties. Prompt attention given to claims for collection in Pocahontas county.

W. A. BRATTON,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

Prompt and careful attention given to all legal business.

ANDREW PRICE,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

Will be found at Times Office.

SAM. B. SCOTT, JR.
LAWYER,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

All legal business will receive prompt attention.

H. M. LOCKRIDGE,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
HUNTERSVILLE, W. VA.

Prompt and careful attention given all legal work.

J. HN A. PRESTON FRED. WALLACE
PRESTON & WALLACE,
Attorneys at Law,
LEWISBURG, W. VA.

Will practice in the Courts of Greenbrier and adjoining counties, and in the Court of Appeals of the State of West Virginia.

PHYSICIANS' CARDS.

DR. O. J. CAMPBELL,
DENTIST,
MONTEREY, VA.

Will visit Pocahontas County at least twice a year. The exact date of his visit will appear in this paper.

DR. J. H. WEYMOUTH,
RESIDENT DENTIST,
ELKINS, W. VA.

Will visit Pocahontas County every spring and fall. The exact date of each visit will appear in The Times.

J. M. CUNNINGHAM, M. D.,
PHYSICIAN & SURGEON,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

Office next door to C. A. Yeager's Hotel. Residence opposite Hotel. All calls promptly answered.

C. B. SWECKER,
General Auctioneer
and Real Estate Agent.

I sell Coal, Mineral and Timber Lands. Farms and Town Lots a specialty. 21 years in the business. Correspondence solicited. Reference furnished.
Postoffice Dunmore, W. Va., or Alexander, W. Va.

For The Pocahontas Times

The Treasure Trove.

XVII.

WESTON, being in possession of the knowledge that Harvey had the large sum of money before he died, was able to form the conclusion that this mysterious paper with its meaningless words must be the memorandum of the hiding place of the treasure. A man feeling an attack of fever or some other serious sickness coming on, would naturally think, in those troublous times, when among strangers, of hiding his money and keeping a written memoranda of the place, but would be averse to put directions down on a piece of paper which if lost or stolen could be read by any one and divulge the secret of the hiding place.

He made a copy of the scrawl, and went home with Mr Saunders, leaving old Abe McClusky and his wife very much concerned over the news they had heard. At Mr Saunders' he made a copy of the matter again and mailed it to a friend of his in the City of New York, asking him to have it translated by someone who was expert at finding the lost keys of ciphers. In the meantime Mr Saunders, who was by this time intensely interested in the case, had him make his home with him, and it was to these days that he looks back as the period when that "visitation to the heart and the brain," of which Emerson writes, began.

In a few days he received a letter from his New York friend, saying that he had submitted the record to a cryptographer, who in turn had explained to him that it would aid him very materially in his work at deciphering the cryptogram if he was put in possession of all the facts concerning the finding of it, the time it was written, if known, by whom written, and under what circumstances.

To this Weston replied that it was found among the papers of a man who was traveling in West Virginia, in 1863, and who had fallen sick and died at a house along the route.

After this was received, the cryptographer seemed to have very little difficulty in interpreting the mysterious writing. The translation was submitted in a few days. Weston's friend wrote him also that to get the paper he had been obliged to pay him $25, which he would please remit. The translation was a bitter disappointment. It read:

"To J. E.

Upon receipt of this dispatch two regiments of infantry to converge with me to meet at Moorefield a large force of the enemy, now moving southward, per diagram. IMBODEN.

"And this ends the whole thing" mused Weston. "Three months and a couple hundred dollars to find poor old Harvey's grave, and a gray mule. I believe that he hid that money out some where. He would hardly take it in with him when he got sick, though it is a very suspicious circumstance that old McClusky has quadrupled his farms since the war. Well, home we go, after selling that horse and paying that $25," and then his sweetheart came in and was intensely sympathetic upon finding that the full and complete record of the hidden treasure had turned out to be a military dispatch which had never been delivered. Mary fully appreciated the extent of the disappointment, and under these favorable circumstance the bond between them was tacitly acknowled from that time. The sweetest moment of life is when this silent message passes between two homeless hearts to be followed, maybe years later, by the only only open confession which is good for the soul.

Weston went home and duly reported the matter to his father. Mr Weston had settled on the question of investment and established himself in business on a smaller scale than formerly, and the son entered the store and worked as he had never worked before. The air of the mountains had made a new man of him, said all his friends. Weston may have acknowledged to himself that there were other developing influences at work besides, for letters passed regularly between him and his sweet heart. He wrote by return mail; she in a couple of weeks thereafter, for she set the pace. The busy city man could find time to sit down when his heart was full from reading her letter and answer it. The young country maiden did not have time —or did not dare—to do this, and she must consider well for two weeks what she could venture to put in a letter to him. In the fall Weston made a trip to Woodbine, much to his family's surprise, and was gone a week. At Christmas he did the same unaccountable thing, and then he was compelled by his sisters to tell them about the pleasant people he met there.

The bag of gold had never rested easier than during these months. Very unexpectedly, Weston was put once more on the trail of it. An article appeared in the newspapers concerning cryptography. It casually mentioned that there were a large number of frauds perpetrated by those who practiced it. That when they found a cryptogram which was indecipherable to them, they invented a translation, and were safe in doing so, as their victims, being unsuspecting, took no trouble to prove the translation. Weston acted on the hint. He took a copy of the paper to an expert, who was operating in his own city, saying that he had found it on the street, and, for curiosity's sake, would be willing to give five dollars to know what it meant. The expert gave him an answer to it in two days. His version of the same record read by the New York man, was:

"May 1, '92.—Sell lots in Buena Vista at once. Things are going to smash in a very short time. Take the first offer made for any property. G. D. R."

Evidently there was a lie out some where, but the fortune hunter did not know how to take advantage of it. At this time he happily thought of some public servants, or savants, who come in useful once every hundred years or so— the learned men of the Smithsonian Institution. To them he submitted the mystic scroll. and asked them to read it if possible, sending in the two interpretations given him by the cryptographers. The answer he received in April, 1893, and it was eminently satisfactory.

It should be remembered that it has been stated that the man Harvey was at one time a captive of an Indian tribe and had learned the language. Weston's father remembered his fondness for using Indian words on every suitable occasion. When Weston thought of this he was not surprised at the following report:

Bureau of Ethnology of the Smithsonian Institution, Washington, D. C.
Mr Sam'l Weston,

Dear Sir: Yours of recent date received, tubmitting the following:

Heta bynu hu nina bogna nike ba weta loosa ʌ hana ke yeya hahat yeya bathena lana hiyu pawpaw inu.

We find that this is a record of a hiding place written in an Indian language, (Arapaho,) by a man of fair English education who has brobably learned the language by association with that tribe. A free translation of it is given below. The connection is not perfect which is pobably due to the poverty of the language, and to the fact that Indian languages are not meant to be written, so much depending upon gesture, intonation, and facial expression:

TRANSLATION:

I am struck with a deathly sickness. On Turtle Creek, where the road crosses it, one hundred paces* to a rock surrounded by growing trees, forty (paces) to a cottonwood, forty (paces) to a cedar: Where the lines cross, here is hid among the pawpaws†, for my brother.

[*The figure like an inverted ʌ, which was interpreted by the New York expert as a military diagram, and ignored by the Richmond man is supposed to follow the Indian custom of pictorial illustration and from its resemblance to a man walking to mean a pace.

[†Pawpaw, a West Virginia tree, and for the purpose of the scroll, an English word.]

AMERICAN GINSENG.

Scientific American.

For centuries Chinese ginseng (Panax ginseng) has been to China far more than quinine has been to America. Unlike quinine however its use has not been limited to certain classes of disorders. It has been used in America only as a demulcent, a mild aromatic and stimulant, for which purpose our materia medica recommends many more effective drugs. Not so in China; the conservatism of the Mongolian and his belief in the occult have maintained an exaggerated estimate of its efficiency. It has been employed by the Chinese as a specific for nearly every ailment that flesh is heir to, from the most trivial to the most serious. It is further thought, such is the superstitious belief, to procure and insure immunity from all sorts of diseases, and even to possess the power of prolonging life. It is well named panacea.

The esteem, nay veneration, in which it is held and the high price that it commands in the market have naturally led to a thorough search for a substitute, not only in eastern Asia but in other parts of the world. Japan and Korea have furnished roots that so closely resemble the true ginseng in form that their detection in samples of the genuine is attended with great difficulty. These roots are simply adulterants, since they lack the officinal qualities of the true root. America however, produces a plant (P. quinquefolium) that not only resembles the latter in appearance but also in its properties, and that has been an important article of commerce for more than a century and a half.

In 1714, Father Jartoux, a missionary in China, published "The Description of a Tartarian Plant called Gin-seng" in the Philosophical Transactions of the Royal Society of London. A copy of this letter fell into the hands of Father Lafitau, a missionary among the Iroquois Indians. In 1716, after diligent search and inquiry among his flock, he succeeded in finding a plant near Montreal, Canada, that answered well the description given by Father Jartoux.

Samples of this root were collected by the Indians and exported to China by the French. These shipments were so well received that a considerable trade was built up, much to the profit of the traders. In Quebec the root was purchased at 2 francs a pound; in China it was sold as high as 25 francs. Trade with China was at that time controlled by the Company of the Indies, which, believing that the market demand was slight, at first allowed its officers to handle ginseng as a private speculation. In 1751, however, seeing that the commerce in this root was becoming important, the company prohibited private ventures on the part of the officers and assumed control itself. In only a short time the price was advanced from 12 to 33 francs a pound. But, in 1752, owing to an excessive demand in France, a large quantity of the root was dug out of season and improperly dried in ovens. When this reached China it was found to be of such poor quality that it was refused. This practically ruined the Canadian trade.

The New England States and, later, the sister States as far west as the borders of the Mississippi, profited by the misfortune of their northern neighbors and gradually built up a trade with the Chinese that in 1858 amounted to 366,053 pounds, valued at $770,673, or an average price of $3.86 a pound. It will at once be noticed that the quantity exported in 1896 is only about half as much as was shipped in 1858, but that the average price has increased more than seven times. This increase is due to the market demand and an inadequate supply; the decrease in quantity to improper methods of digging more than any thing else. (The figures for the exports of 1897 have not yet been made publicly available.)

American ginseng is a perennial herb indigenous in almost all of the States east of the Mississippi, in the first tier of States west of that river, and in Canada. It is of very slow growth, even under the most favorable conditions, reaching a commercial size not sooner than the fourth year. In the forest, its native haunt, it rarely produces seed before that time, and even when older this is borne in comparatively small quantities seldom being more than fifty seeds to a plant. In a state of nature its only means of propagation is by means of seeds. These ripen in September. If, therefore, the plant be dug prior to the ripening of the seed, it is deprived of its only means of perpetuating itself. Yet this is the very thing that happens. The "sang" diggers, a class of people that eke out a livelihood by hunting this root, by trapping and shooting, exercise no judgment as to the season of digging. The plant is dug as soon as found, whether in April, August, or November. It is little or nothing to them that the quality is poorer and that the shrinkage is greater than when dug in season. It is also of small moment that the two Virginias have passed laws to prevent the digging until after the fall of the seed. Their nomadic life insures them against capture, and if they are accidentally caught they live at the expense of the State and go back to their old tricks as soon as released. The only other causes of the lessened supply of this root are the clearing of forest lands and the browsing and trampling of stock pastured in the woods.

The visible decrease in the supply of the wild root and the constant increase in the market price have led to many experiments in the cultivation of ginseng. But so frequent have been the failures that its culture has been declared impossible. Such is however not the case, since with proper attention to its peculiarities it may be grown successfully and profitably. It is of prime importance that the conditions of the forest be closely imitated. In fact, the best place to locate the plantation is in the woods, altho if provided with artificial shade, such as is afforded by an open lattice roof, the plots may be located in the garden or the orchard. It is essential that the beds be made in loose soil retentive of moisture and well supplied with humus, that they be kept free from tree roots, well shaded, fenced off to protect them from stock, and covered in winter with a mulch to prevent damage by severe frost. The seed must never be allowed to become dry or it will fail to germinate. The risk run in saving seed is all the greater since the seed must be protected until eighteen months old, as it will not sprout sooner; i. e., seed ripened in the autumn of 1897 will not germinate until the spring of 1899. The seedlings must be transplanted at least once before being set in the final beds. At all times these beds must be kept clear of weeds by hand. Ginseng will not tolerate [illegible] cultivation is out of the question. Such, in brief, are the principal points to be observed in the cultivation of the plant. The care necessary in the preparation of the root for market is no less important.

In the autumn of the sixth or seventh year—sometimes as early as the fifth—from the time of sowing the seed, the roots may be dug This is done not earlier than the latter part of September, after the seed has been gathered. Roots that have not attained a desirable size should be replanted, only the largest being marketed.

The operations of washing and drying must be very carefully done, since the mutilation of a root lessens its value in market. In the washing the roots are agitated with a broom in a tub of water. The water is frequently changed to insure cleanliness, and the roots, not perfectly clean at the close of the rough washing, are finished by by hand brushes. They are then dried on wire netting trays in a current of warm air, the fibrous portion, or "beard," as it is called, being rubbed off when it becomes brittle. This "beard" is sold to the local drug trade for people who like to chew ginseng. In the drying the roots lose about two-thirds of their weight and become very hard and brittle. They are then ready for shipment.

The cultivation of ginseng is a promising industry. The extension of the cultivated beds is not at present rapid enough to supply the deficiency in the wild root and an immediate glut is not likely. Should there be a temporary decline in price or should a glut occur, as has sometimes been the case, a grower need lose nothing, since he may leave the roots in the ground for one or more seasons, knowing that they are improving in size and quality. Other advantages in this industry are that it may be made incidental to general farming, may be started and continued without excessive outlay of capital, and may be confined to land that otherwise could not be used for cultivated crops. When properly managed, a very small area may be made to yield a very large proportionate return.

One grower, Mr George Stanton Summit Station, N. Y., obtained from 4½ square rods, in five years, 320 pounds of green root, which, when dried, would have been about 106 pounds, worth, at the price then ruling for cultivated root, $575. On the other hand, figures such as these must not be used to compute returns from an acre or acres, since the cultivation of ginseng in large areas is likely to prove infeasible from inattention to necessary detail. Ginseng is an exacting crop and will be disappointing if not properly managed.

WHO IS "UNCLE SAM?"

This query is suggested by the fact that no figure appears more frequently and conspicuously in the cartoons of the period than his or whose name is oftener repeated. Nothing seems to thrill the nerves or warm the blood like "Uncle Sam" and his favorite refrain, Humanity, Prtriotism and an Honorable Peace. Uncle Sam is the metophorical impersonation of all that is distinctively American. He is a part of all that he has ever met, as Tennyson would put it. Hence he is not Yankee, German, Irish, French, Hungarian, Slavic, Spanish, nor, which is best of all, English.

Uncle Sam is the genuine, cosmopolitan American, conglomerating and fusing into his make-up all nationalities and creeds, and hence he represents the stunning force of the physical and mental power of the civilized world at this period, the closing hours of the nineteenth century. He holds near his heart a flag that symbolizes the development of free thought and and unfettered conscience.

John Sherman, the old man eloquent of American politics, the Gladstone, so to speak, was about right when he said, "Spain threatens but does not mean to fight. England makes promises she does not mean to keep."

Uncle Sam connot afford to break his promises, for republics are founded on truth as the people understand it. While monarchies lean on pretenses and misleading phrases. Demagogues and crowned heads understand each other. They aim to deceive each other, and that, with them, is statesmanship or diplomacy. The parties referred to, have gone rather farther than they had intended, and now Uncle Sam is on his mettle and thinks he bears the people of all Europe, Asia, and Africa calling to him to give the signal to rise for liberty, truth, justice and equity among all nations. What he is going to do about it, the reader may make whatever conjectures he pleases, so he makes them bigger than anything that has yet happened in the world'f great history.

S. C. R.

The reception of the catalog of the officers and students of Hampden Sydney College, Prince Edward County, Virginia, is hereby acknowledged. From it we learn the one hundred and twenty-second session ends June 15, 1898. Hence the first session must have closed in June, 1776, and so the usefulness of this institution is cotemporous with the history of American independance and human liberty. Hampden and Sydney were the earlier exponents of the principles that led to the Declaration that makes July 4th, 1776, so memorable. The faculty consists of eight professors. Rev Richard McIlwaine is President. One hundred and twenty-eight students enrolled the current session. The next session opens September 13, 1898. There were two students from Pocahontas, Messrs J. A. Sydenstricker and J. S. Kennison; with twelve others from West Virginia. The names of the students represent many of the choicest people in the two Virginias.

No doubt the question has often occurred why is it at certain seasons of the year cattle are so much in the habit of standing in the streams. A close observer gives this as his opinion, and which seems, very plausible. He says that, so far as his observation extends, cattle are most in the habit of doing this in the early spring before the trees are fully leaved, for the purposes of shade. The sun being hot and the trees affording no shade, they resort to the streams for relief and find in the water a substitute for the comfort that shade trees afford them. He thinks the flies have nothing to do with it, for soon as the trees are in full leaf they are rarely if ever seen standing in the water.

Don't Tobacco Spit and Smoke Your Life Away.

To quit tobacco easily and forever, be magnetic, full of life, nerve and vigor, take No-To-Bac, the wonder-worker, that makes weak men strong. All druggists, 50c or $1. Cure guaranteed. Booklet and sample free. Address Sterling Remedy Co., Chicago or New York.

ANNOUNCEMENTS.

Superintendent of Schools.

We are authorized to announce JAMES W. WARWICK as a candidate for the office of Superintendent of Free Schools of Pocahontas County, subject to the action of the Democratic primary.

I hereby announce myself a candidate for the office of County Superintendent of Free Schools, and kindly solicit your support in the Primary, June 4th, 1898.

Your obedient servant,
J. BARNET GRIMES.

Fellow Citizens of Pocahontas County:

I hereby announce myself a candidate for the office of County Superintendent of Free Schools, subject to the action of the Democratic Primary Election, to be held on June 4, 1898, and earnestly solicit your support. Yours obediently.
WM. R. SUTTON.

To the Voters of Pocahontas County:

At the request of many of my friends, I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the office of Superintendent of Free Schools of Pocahontas County, subject to the action of the Democratic primary. If elected I pledge myself to do all in my power to advance the cause of the free schools of our county.

Respectfully,
J. A. McLAUGHLIN.

County Commissioner.

We are authorized to announce Amos Barlow as a candidate for the office of County Commissioner for the County of Pocahontas, subject to the action of the Democratic primary to be held June 4, 1898.

To the voters of Pocahontas County:

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the office of Commissioner of the County Court of Pocahontas County, subject to the action of the Democratic party at the Primary to be held June 4th, 1898. Respectfully,
J. C. PRICE.
Clover Lick, W. Va.

House of Delegates.

We are authorized to announce I. B. MOORE, ESQ., as a candidate for the House of Delegates, before the Democratic primary election to be held June 4, 1898.

A correspondent of the Wheeling Register, May 18th, speaks of an interview with Isaac Smith, a Wetzel County citizen, who has reached the ripe age of 110 years, having been born in Pocahontas County in 1788. He was in the war of 1812 and the Mexican war, but says if his services are needed he is willing to raport for duty in the pending war.

$100 Reward, $100.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly on the blood ond mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of Testimonials. Address,

F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O.
Sold by Druggists. 75c.
Hall's Family pills are the best.

Commissioners Notice.

Isaac H Clutter's Administrator,
vs. In Chancery.
Isaac H. Clutter's Heirs et als.

Pursuant to a pecree rendered in above styled cause at the April Term, 1898, of the Circuit Court of Pocahontas County, the undersigned Commissioner of said Court will proceed at his office in Marlinton in said county on the 4th day of June, 1898, to take, state, and report to Court the matters heretofore reported on in the above cause except that under said decree the Commissioner shall not allow to the Administrator any commissions, he not having made his settlements as required by law, and shall charge interest on all legacies after one year from the qualification of the Administrator, with interest upon the entire fund that came into the hands of the Administrator (as in the first report made in this cause), and shall charge the Administrator with the value of all legacies which went into his hands and haue not been paid over by him, whether the legacies are specific or general.

At whice time and place all parties in interest may attend.

Given under my hand this 4th day of May, 1898.

W. A. BRATTON,
Commissioner.

The Pocahontas Times.

ANDREW PRICE, - - - EDITOR.

MARLINTON, FRIDAY, JUNE, 3 1898

Entered at the post-office at Marlinton, W. Va., as second class matter.

CHOOSE YOUR MEN.

Facsimile of Ballot in Democratic Primary, June 4th.

COUNTY AND DISTRICT BALLOT.

FOR HOUSE OF DELEGATES.

I. B. MOORE.

FOR COMMISSIONER OF COUNTY COURT,

AMOS BARLOW,
J. C. PRICE.

FOR SUPERINTENDENT OF FREE SCHOOLS,

J. A. McLAUGHLIN.
JAS. W. WARWICK.
J. B. GRIMES.
WM. R. SUTTON.

Binding twine has gone up since the taking of Manila.

The present war seems to be waged in the interests of daily newspapers.

Napoleon said, "Questionable characters form the wood from which politicians are hewn."

The second call for volunteers, for 75,000 men, will pull the very eye teeth of some States. The newspapers carefully suppressed the facts that in some States the troops did not respond with alacrity.

Hon Thos. H. Dennis, of Lewisburg, will announce this week that should the Democratic party think fit to tender him the nomination, he will appreciate the honor and do what he can to bring success to the Democratic party of this district in its campaign this year. This was learned in a personal interview with him. By reason of matters which have appeared in newspapers and are therefore on record, Mr Dennis has been regarded as the logical candidate of Greenbrier County, and the law of rotation in the nominating conventions leaves Greenbrier in undisputed grounds this year. It was only when he could be morally sure that if he did not offer for the office Greenbrier would not have a man in the field, that he makes this statement. Our affiliation with the County of Greenbrier and memory of benefits bestowed in the two last conventions in the direction of the nomination of a Pocahontas County man, would make us the worst of ingrates if we did not support the Greenbrier candidate in his race this year.

GINSENG.

On the first page will be found an interesting article relating to the ginseng root and its cultivation. Unlike the newspaper talk about this plant,—for the most part mythical and exagerated, the article referred to bears the impress of truth and common sense.

Pocahontas is in the heart of the great ginseng belt, but the industrg is sadly run down owing to causes enumerated, to-wit: digging out of season and clearing oi forest lands. The fact that the seed germinates only after eighteen months explains the myth current among country people that the root sends up a stalk each second year, only.

The writer remembers when he was used to eke out his available cash by sang-digging, and retains in their native state a dozen stalks known to be eight years old

A great drawback to the cultivation of ginseng would be the depredations of thieves. A patch of well grown roots would be as tempting to the common thief as so much buried treasure or watermelons. However, with the light thrown on the subject in the article referred to, there is no reason why each farmer should not grow ginseng profitably. The principal thing is to maintain natural conditions, with attention to detail.

A new leaf or "prong" is supposed to mark the growth of the plant each year up to the fourth; a "six prong" is hailed by diggers as denoting an unusually large tuber. but they do not spare even the smallest.

DOWN THE PIKE.

The trip to Lewisburg can be made in much shorter time than formerly, owing to having no stops to make at toll gates. There have been dollars saved Pocahontas people this year, owing to the efforts of Sidney Payne who refused to be robbed in any but a legitimate way. He hired a lawyer, paying out enough to settle his toll for years, to test the case, and it was done.

His gift of a free road for several months has not been sufficiently acknowledged. The story of our thralldom is something like this:

There was a great and powerful principality, named Greenbrier, which was accustomed to levy tolls and tribute on all the subjects of its neighbors who ventured into its boundaries. Its own independent subjects, who paddled about on the roads all the time, would get off by promising to pay a dollar or so when they felt able.

This condition of affairs continued until a man came along who had been in a train robbery in the West. It was when he was traveling in Wyoming trying to find a place where he could forge out the most dollars. The outlaws boarded the train, and the crew and rest of the passengers surrendered unconditionally. This man kept firing away with a 17 cent pistol, until the desperadoes decided to leave the train alone.

When the Greenbrier toll-gatherers struck this man they ran against a snag. He got out injunctions and made things so warm that they dropped the toll and have not been able to get it put back on. Long live Sidney Payne and long may the armistice continue.

When one looks at the vast expanse of green fields in the Greenbrier Valley, he is impressed with the idea that it is very fitting that the new railroad should be built along the river bank, just out of sight. The trains will be running soon. Then we can go by rail for less than our toll cost us formerly. The gossip from the engineering corps informs us that the present survey will be completed by the middle of June, when they will immediately turn back and work out the way for the construction company which will follow close on their heels. Last week a depot site was purchased from Austin Kinkaid at the mouth of Spring Creek. This is to serve for the two towns of Falling Spring and Frankford.

Renick's Valley is a peculiar town. It has three houses, all stores, and what is most peculiar is that each store seems to be a larger establishment than the one that used to be kept there. Falling Spring, the next place, has four stores, and claims to sell more goods than Lewisburg. The same set of fossils ornament the store porches. When passing to find these landmarks, if in the morning, look on a porch on the east of the road; in the evening, look to the west. They seek the shade, but are not what is generally known as shady characters.

This is the week of weddings at Falling Spring. There are no less than six couples to join in the wholly and entirely bonding of matrimony. This includes Harry Renick, who is owner of the "Colonial" homestead, who brings a Kentucky bride home, and William Wiley, late of this county, who marries a granddaughter of district attorney Harrison, of the Western District of the Federal Court of Virginia. If Marlinton could see six weddings one week, how fine it would be.

We must not fail to give the latest intelligence from J. W. Schisler, the keeper of one of the best wayside inns. He labors at a disadvantage of living at the top of Droop, as the air at that elevation makes a man ravenous. Schisler's menu is all right in quantity and quality, and he is a public benefactor, as is every man who keeps a good hotel. He talks on all subjects from farming to philosophy. He has a famous raspberry patch; shows you the twin heifers twenty-two months old, each of which has a fine bull calf, and his fish pond which has thousands of carp, some of which would eight pounds.

Since the war began every body from here to Lewisburg reads a daily paper. The Cincinnatti Post and Times-Star are printed about midnight and at 1.45 A. M. the fast C. & O. train pulls out for West Virginia, and about 8 o'clock arrives in Ronceverte. They peddle these papers for two cents apiece and the Pocahontas mailboy has a big load which he sells to people along the route. The use of paper in the increased circulation of dailies has had as much to do in putting up the price of paper as has the act of Spain of making sulphur a contraband of war.

There is a very good tale of a Greenbrier farmer who sold his wheat at $1.10 per bushel, after holding it, one day in Lewisburg. His neighbor, a smaller farmer, had also been holding his wheat, and, the price being a good one, he sold his too. This was a rather unusual proceeding, but the farmer being worth 'steen thousands of dollars, the wheat buyer considered him good for his statements, and bought the wheat. At his request the wheat buyer went to the neighbor with the instruction that he was to ask how much he would take. This was carried out to the letter. The neighbor asked $1 a bushel, and was informed that he could consider it sold at $1.10. It is a great thing to have friends in this world.

Even the proprietors of the Pocahontas Times have suffered by the advance of paper. This is due to three causes: The formation of a paper trust; more paper is consumed, there being more papers sold; and sulphur has been made a contraband of war. Sulphuric acid is a prime factor in the reducing of forest trees to pulp. Sulphur comes mainly from Sicily. It being a contraband of war has too many risks to run in passing through the Straits of Gibralter. There are sulphur mines in Lousiana and Nevada, but it takes a larger sum to produce it from American mines.

School Commissioners Sale of Lands.

Pursuant to a decree of the Circuit Court of Pocahontas county, West Virginia, made at the April term of said court, 1898 in the chancery cause of

State of West Virginia
versus
J. W. F. Allemong and others,

I will proceed on the 21st day of June, 1898, it being the first day of June term of court, 1898, at the front door of the court house of Pocahontas county to sell to the highest bidder at public auction the following described real estate, viz:

The mineral privilege in a certain tract of 710 acres situated on Browns Mountain in Pocahontas County, West Virginia. Said mineral privilege to extend for a term of 99 years from May 22d, 1873. with option to renew for a like period, being the same privilege conveyed to J. D. Price by Samuel Harper on May 22d, 1873, and forfeited in the name of J. W. F. Allemong.

Terms of Sale: CASH.

B. M. YEAGER,
School Commissioner.

Commissioner's Sale OF School Lands.

Pursuant to a decree of the Circuit Court of Pocahontas County, made at the April Term, 1898, in the chancery cause of the State of West Virginia versus J. B. Lowe and others, the undersigned School Commissioner of Pocahontas County, will on the

21st Day of June, 1898,

at the front door of the court house of Pocahontas County, proceed to sell at public auction to the highest bidder for cash, the following tracts of land:

1st. The Mineral rights in a tract of 450 acres conveyed by Henry Bazzard to J. D. Price, May 17. 1873, and conveyed to and forfeited in the name of J. B. Lowe, for the non-payment of taxes.

2d. The mineral rights in a tract of 360 acres conveyed by Jas. P. McComb to J. D. Price, May 17, 1873, and forfeited in the name of J. D. Price and Oramel Barrett.

3d. The mineral rights in a tract of 500 acres of land conveyed by John Burr to J. D Price, May 17, 1873, and by him conveyed to and forfeited in the name of John E. Roller for the non payment of taxes.

4th. The mineral rights in a tract of 250 acres of land conveyed by G. H. Rider to J. D. Price May 16th, 1873, and by him conveyed to and forfeited by John E. Roller for the non payment of taxes.

All of the above mentioned tracts are mineral leases for the term of 99 years, granted on the 16th and 17th days of May, 1873, and recorded in the Clerk's office of the County Court of Pocahontas County, to which records reference may be had for a more specific description of the said lands.

5th. A tract of 5 acres situated in the "Hills" and forfeited in the name of Samuel Curry.

6th. A tract of 83 acres situated in the "Hills" and forfeited in the name of Samuel Curry.

B. M YEAGER,
Commissioner of School Lands.

Commissioners Sale —OF— Valuable Land —IN— POCAHONTAS COUNTY.

Pursuant to a decree of the Circuit Court of Pocahontas County, West Virginia, rendered at the April Term, 1898, of said Court, in a cause therein pending in which Levi Gay et als., are plaintiffs and J. B. Lockridge and others are defendants, the undersigned Commissioners appointed by said decree to sell the land in said county of the said J. B. Lockridge, will offer for sale in front of the Court house of said County, at public auction to the highest bidder, on

TUESDAY, JUNE 21st, 1898,

All that tract or parcel of land containing 324 acres more or less, lying on the waters of Knapp's creek in said county, near Driscol, and on which the said J. B. Lockridge now resides, except forty four acres thereof which was assigned to the defendant Lillie B. Lockridge as and for her dower in said land, which said forty four acres is subject to the life estate only of the said Lillie B. Lockridge, the reversion therein belonging to the said J. B. Lockridge. And at the same time and place the undersigned Commissioners will sell the said reversion, belonging to the said J. B. Lockridge, in the said forty four acres, and the right is reserved to sell the same either separated from, or with, the fee simple of the said J. B. Lockridge in the residue of the said 324 acres.

The said 324 acres is the same land sold by the defendant H. M Lockridge to the defendant J. B Lockridge on the 30 day of March, 1888, by deed of record in the Clerk's office of the County Court of said county in Deed Book No. 1[illegible] at page 93; and the forty four acres is fully set out by metes and bounds in the report of I. B. Moore and others, Commissioners to assign said dower, filed with the papers in said cause, and is a part of the said 324 acre tract.

The farm lies on Knapps Creek four miles east of Huntersville, is finely watered, and one of the most valuable in the county. The attention of the public is also called to the easy terms upon which it is sold.

TERMS: Cash enough on day of sale for costs of suit and sale and the residue upon three equal installments, due in one, two, and three years from day of sale, for which the purchaser shall execute bond, with interest from date, with good personal security, the title to be retained as ultimate security.

W. A. BRATTON,
L. M. McCLINTIC,
H S. RUCKER,
J. T. McALLISTER,
Commissioners.

L. M. McClintic and W. A. Bratton, two of the above Commissioners, have this day executed before me the bond of $8000.00 required by the above decree and conditioned according to law.

Given under my hand this 16th day of May, 1898

J. H. PATTERSON, Clerk.

Hungry Hair is the beginning of Baldness.

Protracted hunger means starvation, and starvation means death. When the scalp is starved the hair dies at the roots. What's the matter with your hair? It gets dry, harsh, brittle, dull of color, the ends split. You wash it and brush it, but it still comes out. It's hungry! If washing and brushing would stop starvation, then all the expense of a horse's keep would be a sponge and a currycomb. Hunger needs bread, not a bath. That is why

AYER'S Hair Vigor

Prevents Baldness.

It supplies the requisite nourishment for the hair, and the hair grows. It restores the tone of the scalp and so induces the secretions of the follicles that the coloring matter is renewed and fading hair regains its natural color, dandruff disappears, and the hair becomes thick and glossy. Men and women whose abundant hair is the envy and admiration of friends, admit that they owe it to Ayer's Hair Vigor.

"Last winter I discovered a bald spot on my head as large as a silver dollar. A few applications of Ayer's Hair Vigor started a healthy growth of hair, and in a short time the disappearance of the bald spot was a subject of wonderment to my friends and pleasure to myself." A. M. ALLEN, No. 3116 Locust St., St. Louis, Mo.

"I have used your Hair Vigor for a great many years and know of nothing equal to it as a hair dressing and restorer. It has given satisfaction among my customers who speak highly in its praise." A. E. FIELDS, Barber, No. 45 Princess St., Kingston, O.

"I am sixty-nine years old and have used Ayer's Hair Vigor for fifteen years to prevent my hair from turning gray. It is an excellent preparation for that purpose and I shall always use it." JOHN HECHTMAN, Osseo, Minn.

"I find Ayer's Hair Vigor to be indispensable. My hair fell out for five years, but a few applications of the Vigor stopped it. It gave the hair a beautiful glossy appearance, and I also found that it did not affect curling or crimping." M. E. SNYDER, Brantford, Ont.

Wanted. 25,000lbs of Wool.

Good Wool. Will pay a little bit more than any one else, and as much money; and will take all kinds of PRODUCE.

But if you can't bring me your Wool I will be a little slow about certain kinds of Produce.

I have the goods and wont hold them. even at very low prices. Come one, come every body. Yours for Bisness, Huntersville, W. Va. S. J. BOGGS.

NEW GOODS!

They are here and coming in. We hardly need say that early customers get pick and choice of stock.

We show the newest and choicest in Staples and Novelties in all the lines we carry.

WE WILL NOT BE UNDERSOLD.

Goods from eastern markets received every week.

J. B. McNeil the popular salesman whose services we have secured for the season, takes this opportunity to invite his frieds to call and see him when in town.

Make our place your headquarters when in town.

Yours to Please,

J. D. Pullin & Co.

The BUCKEYE Mower, Binder, and Reaper.

THE KING OF GRASS AND GRAIN CUTTERS.

FOR SIMPLICITY, LIGHTNESS OF DRAFT, SAFETY, CONVENIENCE, CAPACITY, AND DURABILITY, THEY STAND WITHOUT A PEER.

They Stand By the Farmer and the Farmer Stands By Them.

BUCKEYE HARVESTING MACHINERY has reached the highest degree of excellence made possible by the inventive genius of man, and HAS LED THE VAN FOR OVER HALF A CENTURY.

ALL BEARINGS Subject to Wear in Connection With Cutting Apparatus Are Adjustible, So that All Wear is Taken Up. All Other Important Bearings Brass Lined.

TUBULAR FRAME Insuring STRENGTH and LIGHTNESS.
EVERY PURCHASER Given One Day's Fair Trial in The Field.
EVERY MOWER SOLD UNDER WARRANTY.

FOR SALE BY M. C. GATEWOOD,
Linwood, W. Va.

FOR SALE!

50 Geiser Separators, — All Sizes.
50 Peerless " — " "
50 Geiser Saw-mills — " "
50 Geiser Engines — " "
10 " Clover Hullers

Repairs for Geiser Separators, Engines, and Saw-mills.

At low prices and on easy terms by

G. W. GRAVES, Agent
Alderson, W. Va.

CASTORIA.
Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher. The Kind You Have Always Bought

Everybody Reads the Charleston

Daily Gazette,
Daily and Weekly.

Published at the State Capital of West Virginia.

Latest Market Reports.

Write for Terms to Agents and free sample copies.

R. M. JOHNSON, Bus. Mg'r.
Charleston, W. Va.

CASTORIA.
Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher. The Kind You Have Always Bought

The Pocahontas Times,

Hear, Land o' Cakes and brither Scots,
Frae Maidenkirk to Johnny Groats,
If there's a hole in a' your coats,
I rede ye tent it;
A chiel's amang you takin' notes,
An' faith he'll prent it. — BURNS

Local Events.

Some excellent work was put on the road between Huntersville and Marlinton last Friday and Saturday.

A fine gray horse belonging to El McLaughlin died Wednesday evening, from what cause could not be known.

On May 25, Amos N. Fertig and Miss Onie Grimes were married by Rev Oscar Sharp, at the residence of Morgan Grimes, near Mt Zion.

McBryde Gum, a Confederate Veteran, of advanced age, died after many months of illness, Tuesday, May 24, on Clover Creek.

A literary meeting under the auspices of the Epworth League, consisting of special music, readings, essays, etc., was held at the church Sunday evening.

We learn that at one time the Elk Ironclads "bantered" the Frost team for a game of football, the teams to meet at Marlinton. That would be a battle of the giants sure enough.

Bob Gibson Esq. who as an Elk footballist would play in any weather, and strike terror to the heart of Marlinton "Maneaters," camped in town Friday night on his return from Mill Point with a wagon.

Unusual activity seems to characterize the wool buyers this season. Blankets and uniforms will be wanted, they think. The Marys who have little lambs are likely to have the lead in popularity with the merchants.

Henry Knapper and a Miss Goldsbury, of near Richmond, were married recently, and are visiting at the home at the home of the groom's step-father, John Cuningham, of Knapp's Creek. All the parties colored.

Harvey Francisco has erected a Memorial Chapel in honor of his venerated grandfather, C. L. Francisco, late of the Warm Springs. It is about three miles west of Warm Springs on the Huntersville road. It was to have been dedicated last Sabbath, May 29.

Bernard Slaven, of Sillings & Slaven, Hillsboro, returned Thursday from a trip with his tin wagon down Elk. These gentlemen have a very complete outfit, manufacturing all kinds of tin goods, and are prepared to go anywhere in the county on short notice.

James Wilson died at the home of William Walker, in the Brush, Tuesday, May 24. His case was diagnosed as Bright's disease of the Kidneys. Mention was made a week ago of his sickness, but his rather sudden demise was a surprise to many. The deceased was a colored man about 55 years old.

Candidates and corn-plowers seem to have a move on themselves the past few days. There is much complaint of crows and black birds.

The black bird says to the crow,
"Why do men hate us so?"
"Because corn pulling has been our trade Ever since old Adam was made."

One day last week, while Otis Warwick and Dennis Carter were out in the mountains hunting sheep, they came upon a large, black rattle snake which ran under a rock. Upon further investigation they killed four others, three of which measured three feet in length and were about as thick as a man's wrist.

William McLaughlin and Robert Miller started Monday to Millboro with teams to bring goods for J. D. Pullen & Co. The increase in the business of this firm the last two years is almost phenominal. Such an increase is an index that our people appreciate the goods, prices and the methods of doing business at J. D. Pullin & Co's. Notice their new ad.

A good line of torpedo boat destroyers is a good thing in case of war, but my line of clothing is the best and the cheapest I ever had, and they destroy high prices; here are a few pointers: Allwool cassimere in brown and $5.48 to 5.75 per suit. Workmanship and fit guaranteed. Come and be convinced. P. G.

A bargain got should be a bargain given. That is one of the secrets of our success. Some prices. Ladies' $2.00 hats for $1.55; mens' 75c straw Hats 35c; Mens 35c shirt 20c; Suspenders worth 25c, our price 15cc; 10c worth soap, 6c; good adamantine pins, 1c a paper; 5 Papers Sharp's needles for 5c; and all other goods proportionaliy low. L. D. SHARP.

Bee keepers in Pocahontas county are becoming fully convinced that a good hive is a necessity for pleasant and profitable bee culture. Only the initial cost of improved hives seems tremendous to a man with twenty or more colonies, or even less. Without pretending to any great knowledge of the subject, the writer is convinced that Ware's Improved Hive fills every requirement and is furnished at the minimum of cost.

The Ronceverte Assault Case.

The tragedy in Greenbrier over the attempted rape of a white woman, Mrs Alice Beard, of Ronceverte, by Walter Beard, a muscular young negro of twenty-seven, presents some dramatic phases. It is not known whether he went to the store to accomplish his purpose or whethet it was a momentary impulse. He asked to buy a chicken, and the lady went into the back yard and had stooped to take a fowl from the coop when the negro overpowered her and she became unconscious. She was discovered in an insensible condition several hours later. It is not known to what extent he had injured her, and it is likely that this knowledge will be mercifully withheld from her.

The negro wandered about in the woods for several days with over a hundred men in pursuit of him. Finally a man named Dudley came up with him in a ravine near the Monroe and Greenbrier county line. Dudley ordered him to stop. The negro replied that he would never be taken alive, and he had two courses to escape; he could either run or close with his pursuer. He chose the latter. He tried to get inside the gun, and was shot by Dudley with the long mountain rifle he carried through the bowels, the bullet lodgings in the bones surrounding the pelvic cavity. With this deadly wound the negro walked down to the railroad track.

Dudley is the man who killed a lumberman at Caldwell a few years ago for an alleged insult to his wife; and stranger still to say that old mountain rifle more than forty years ago killed a noted desperado not twenty steps from the spot the negro was shot. With such a man and such a gun is it any wonder the State was saved a trial!

Retribution came in even more horrible form than lynching. A gut shot wound means that an otherwise healthy man will die dreading death and suffering the hopeless tortures of the damned.

There might have been a lynching. Over a hundred men visited the doomed man in his cell and found at least three Lewisburg doctors in attendance. With the indifference of perfectly healthy men, they remarked that many doctors would kill any body, and left the malefactor in the doctors' hands. The negro's ante-mortem statement cleared Dudley of any suspicion of unnecessary killing. He said that he was "making for him" when he was shot, and that was all that was needful.

The horror of the Southern States is coming close on us. We call on all colored men who read this to inculcate in their code of morals for their rising generations that this is the one and only unpardonable sin of the new dispensation.

The Stage.

The performance at the town hall Wednesday night by a new company composed of the young boys and girls of the place was entirely free and enjoyable. Preparation and drills for the occasion occupied the labor of several days. The music was fine. The black comedy acts by girls and small boys, a variation of negro minstrelsy, were uncommonly amusing; and the chorus "Hot Times" was simply ridiculous. The hoop drill, by twelve young ladies, excited admiration, and was repeated in all its sinuous details.

Misses Daisy Yeager and Emma King were the managers of this affair, and that their efforts were successful all present Wednesday night will attest.

The old Marlinton dramatic company seems to have made its final disappearance, but this latter organization has both the spirit and the ability to furnish amusement and relaxation to the toilers in the town and vicinity.

PERSONAL MENTION.

J. W. Baxter, of Academy, was in town Monday.

Mrs B. M. Yeager has returned from Baltimore.

Mrs Ann Clark, of Academy, and daughter Rella, visited friends and the Marlinton stores last week.

Hon W. M. McAllister, of Warm Springs, was at Marlinton last week. He does not want any "Spanish Brown" in his war paint.

Frank Hogsett, of Browns creek, was in town Saturday on a bicycle which he had purchased from B. N. Rayburn.

Mrs Joseph McNeel, of the Levels, accompanied by Mrs George Callison, was shopping in Marlinton last Friday.

J. C. Gay, of Elk, a veteran Confederate officer, was at The Times office a few days since. He thinks he had "enough of war in hisen, and any body may go that wants to."

Rev John C. Givens, of Jefferson City, Missouri, delegate to the recent General Conference at Baltimore, is on an extended visit to friends in Highland and Pocahontas, for health and friendship.

Mrs Minerva Beard, of Huntersville, is ill. Her son Dr Harry Beard, of Lewisburg, received a telegram Sunday evening about dark and rode to Huntersville that night.

To Cure a Cold in One Day.

Take Laxative Bromo Quinine Tablets. All Druggists refund the money if it fails to Cure. 25c.

SLATY FORK.

Sam Jackson is hauling a load of goods for L. Sharp.

L. D. Sharp has a fine lot of goods in his store, and more coming. Bring your money and take advantage of his low prices, and take the goods home with you.

Messrs Broomfield Craig and son have returned to their home at Union Town, Pa., who have been fishing in this part. Samuel Gibson accompanied them to Beverly.

D. F. Pell, representing the V. D. Roe Co., and B. Baily, selling for Greer & Laing, were fishing Saturday. Mr Baily and wife tried Slaty Fork, while Messrs Pell and Silas Sharp made a bee line for Elk. Mr Baily said he had the pleasure of trying to catch trout if he did fail to get them. Fifty was the total. Mr Silas Sharp was the main spoke in the wheel; without him fish for breakfast Sunday morning would have been a scarce article.

The bears are doing a good business eating sheep for James Gibson, George Hoover, and others. Dogs and traps have proved unsuccessful so far. A reward of $15 is offered for the largest one. His track is about seven inches across ball of foot. George Hoover and C. L. Curtis believe they will get him soon. They have built a pen that will cause bruin great trouble if he gets in. A live sheep is in it and fed every day, and a large steel-trap awaits his approach at the pen. TIM.

Strayed or Stolen.

Shepard dog black, yellow legs, with white feet, Missing Saturday, May 21. Answers readily to his name, "Dick." Information leading to recovery thankfully received. ASA BARLOW,
Mill Point, W. Va.

Taxpayers, Green Bank District.

Notice is hereby given that all persons owing taxes in Green Bank District must be ready to settle in full at my next call. Positively no further indulgence can be given.

SAMUEL SHEETS,
Deputy Sheriff.

TRUSTEE'S SALE.

By virtue of a deed of trust executed to Wm. M. Sharp, Trustee, by Charles Cook and Mary M. Cook his wife, dated on the 26th day of June, 1890, and recorded in the clerk's office of the county court of Pocahontas county, W. Va., in deed book No. 20 at page 479, to secure the payment of certain debts fully mentioned and described therein, and default having been made in the payment thereof, and being required so to do by the holders of said debts, I William M. Sharp, will on the 2d day of July, 1898, commencing 10 o'clock A. M. at the front door of the court-house of said Pocahontas County, W. Va, proceed to sell by way of public auction to the highest bidder, the property conveyed by said deed of trust, or so much thereof as may be necessary to satisfy said indebtedness,—said real estate lying and being in the 2d District, Pocahontas county, W. Va., adjoining S. B. Moore and others, at the junction of the Williams River Road with the Huttonsville and Marlins Bottom Turnpike, containing two acres, on which there is a good dwelling house and shop.

Terms of Sale.—Sufficient cash in hand to pay costs of sale, balance on six months time with interest from date. Bond with approved security, and title retained as ultimate security. Title perfect.

Given under my hand this 30th day of May, 1898.

WM. M. SHARP, Trustee.

Commissioner's Sale.

Pursuant to a decree of the Circuit Court of Pocahontas County, made in the chancery cause of Levi Gay vs. D. W. Sharp, and others, on the 5th day of April, 1898, the undersigned Special Commissioner will on the

21st day of June, 1898,

At the front door of the Courthouse of Pocahontas County, West Virginia, proceed to sell by way of public auction to the highest bidder the following tract of

100 Acres of Land,

Situated in Pocahontas County, on the Greenbrier River, being the same land conveyed by Levi Gay and wife to D. W. Sharp, by deed dated January 1, 1895, and recorded in the Clerk's office of the County Court of Pocahontas County, in Deed Book No. 25, page 476. Said land comprises a well fenced farm in good state of cultivation.

Terms of Sale: Enough of cash in hand to pay costs of suit and sale, and for the residue of the purchase money, shall take from the purchaser three bonds of equal amounts, with good personal security, falling due in 6, 12, and 18 months from day of sale, respectively, with interest on all of said bonds from day of sale, the title to be retained as ultimate security.

L. M. MCCLINTIC,
Special Commissioner.

I, J. H. Patterson, Clerk of the Circuit Court of Pocahontas County, do certify that the above named Special Commissioner has executed bond as required in said decree.

J. H. PATTERSON, Clerk.

To Cure Constipation Forever.
Take Cascarets Candy Cathartic. 10c or 25c.
If C. C. C. fail to cure, druggists refund money.

Commissioner's Sale
School Lands.

Pursuant to two decrees of the Circuit court of Pocahontas county, West Virginia, made on the 18th day of June, 1897, and the 9th day of October, 1897, respectively, in the chancery cause of

State of West Virginia
versus
George L. Clark and others,

the undersigned Commissioner of School Lands for Pocahontas county, West Virginia, will proceed to sell at public auction to the highest bidder for cash, at the front door of the courthouse of the said county, on the

21st DAY OF JUNE, 1898,

the following described real estate.

First: A tract of 219 acres of land, situated on Michaels Mountain on the waters of Knapps creek in the said county, and forfeited for the non payment of taxes in the name of John Kelly, Sr's. estate.

Second: A tract of 76 acres of land, situated on the waters of Knapps creek in the said county, adjoining the lands of I. B Moore and others, and forfeited for the nonpayment of taxes due thereon in the names of Lanty Lockridge and William Cleek.

Third: A tract containing 6¼ acres of land, situated on Elk Mountain in the said county, being waste and unappropriated land.

Fourth: A tract containing 7¼ acres of land, situated on Elk Mt. in the said county, being waste and unappropriated land.

B. M. YEAGER,
Commissioner of School Lands.

Commissioner's Sale.

Pursuant to a decree of the Circuit Court of Pocahontas County, West Virginia, entered in a cause therein pending at the April Term 1898, of said Court, in which cause Thomas L. Coulehan and others are plaintiffs and Daniel O'Connell and others are defendants, the undersigned Commissioners, as required by said decree, will proceed on at the front door of the Courthouse of said County, to offer for sale at public auction to the highest bidder, the following lot, tract, or parcel of land, to wit:

TUESDAY, JUNE 21st, 1898,

A four sixths undivided interest in a tract of 220 acres of land, lying on the waters of Douthard's Creek in Pocahontas County, West Virginia; being the same land purchased from N. S. Alderman and wife on the 14th day of March, 1894, by the said D. O'Connell, by deed duly recorded in the Clerk's office of the County Court of said County.

The standing white pine timber on said tract is not to be sold, as it was several years ago sold by the said N. S. Alderman and wife to one James R. Brewer, and is expressly excepted from this sale.

This tract has a good house on it with necessary out buildings, and will make a good home for any one who buys.

TERMS: Cash for costs of suit and sale, and the residue upon a credit of six twelve, and eighteen months, the purchaser giving for the deferred payments bonds of even date with the sale, with interest from date, and good personal securit , the title to be retained as ultimate security.

L. M. MCCLINTIC,
W. A. BRATTON,
Commissioners.

I, J. H. Patterson, do certify that the above commissioners have executed before me the bond required by the foregoing decree, conditioned according to law.

J. H. PATTERSON, Clerk.

NOTICE.

SILLING & SLAVEN,

TIN, SHEET-IRON
ROOFING,
GUTTER SPOUTING,
ROOF PAINTING,
FLUES, STOVE PIPE
GALVANIZED FLUES,
SMOKE STACKS,
FRUIT DRYERS,
GALVANIZED TANKS,
AND CISTERNS.

Shop-Made Tin Ware
Always on Hand.

LIGHTNING RODS.

Work Done on Short Notice.

Call or write to
SILLING & SLAVEN,
ACADEMY, W. VA.

Notice.

All persons who have claims against the estate of the late John J. Beard will present and prove the same to me on or before the 10th day of June, 1898.

T. S. MCNEEL, Administrator.
May 24, 1898.

No-To-Bac for Fifty Cents.
Guaranteed tobacco habit cure, makes weak men strong, blood pure. 50c, $1. All druggists.

The Great War.

We have won success by our ability to demonstrate our bargain claims; we guarantee the smallest of our patrons the same courteous attention given the largest.

We are taking great pains in buying our
Spring and Summer Stock of Goods...

And all bargains will be shared with our customers.

We keep goods moving by keeping goods that move;—we test every value—our prices do the rest. Its not a question of opinion, its a rock-ribbed fact that our prices can not be successfully cut under. Don't scatter your dollars unwisely; concentrate them here and save more of them.

It is shrewd and well directed effort that makes our bargains unusual. Our PRICES PUZZLE COMPETITORS AND DELIGHT PURCHASERS.

Thanking you for your past patronage, we remain
Yours respectfully,

L D Sharp.
Linwood W Va

The Levels News.

Edited by Payne Bros.

Vol. 1 Academy, W. Va., June 3, 1898. No. 20

Market, May 31, 1898.

—Eggs 8½c per dozen.
—Butter 10 to 12½ per pound.
—Lard 8c per lb.
—Corn 75c per bushel.
—Wheat $1 per bushel.
—Oats 40c per bushel.
—Beeswax 25c per lb.
—Hams 10 to 12½c per lb.
—Side Bacon 10c.
—Shoulder 9c.
—Potatoes 75c a bushel.
—AT PAYNE BROS.

—Hay carriers at Payne Bros.

—Garden rakes, hoes, etc., at Payne Bros.

—Breakfast Food at Payne Bros. Try a package—only 15 cents.

—A very fine line of Millinery at Payne Bros. Call and examine.

—Some parties left yesterday for Cranberry to take a fish.

Constable Shisler passed through town yesterday, with a man and woman under arrest for fighting.

R. M. Beard, Esq. of Locust will connect his farm with his home by a telephone line.

—Mr C J Stulting and part of his family have gone to Highland county on a visit.

—The statement that appeared in The Times last week of the death of Cy Smith is incorrect. He was badly hurt but will recover.

—Millet Seed, Screen Wire and Hinges at Paynes.

—50,000 pounds of Wool wanted at Payne Bros. Highest prices paid in cash and goods.

—William Wylie, of this place, was married Wednesday, June 1st to a Miss Harrison. We extend congratulations.

—Messrs Overholt and Sharp are putting up a very fine dwelling on Nicholas street for Dr F. T. McClintic.

—Sell your produce to Payne and get top prices. He always looks after the interest of the farmer.

SALT: $2 A SACK.
AT PAYNE BROS.

Best grades of Roller Flour at
...
G. L. HANNAH'S,
Yelk, W. Va.
BARLOW & MOORE'S,
Edray, W. Va.
J. H. CURRY'S,
Green Bank, W. Va.
R. L. NOTTINGHAM'S,
Dunmore, W. Va.

The Horrors of Nervousness.

Those who are going through the indescribable terrors of this dreadful disease, require no description of the agonies they constantly suffer. But why suffer? Good blood gives good nerves; and gives good blood. It is a nerve strengthener and restorer, the efficacy of which cannot be over-estimated; when it is learned that its absolute freedom from poisonous drugs or opiates, makes it safe for use in the hands of sick or inexperienced persons, there is an increased appreciation of it. JOHNSTON'S SARSAPARILLA is a specific for impoverished or impotent nerves; it feeds the nervous system to high health, provides for physical and brain endurance, cheerfulness, happiness and energy.

Johnston's Sarsaparilla
QUART BOTTLES.

Our thirty-six page illustrated book contains some interesting pages on Nerve Exhaustion. It is free for the asking. Quart bottle, $1.00.
WILLIAMS, DAVIS, BROOKS & CO., Detroit, Mich.

Liverettes cure Indigestion and Sick Headache. 25c.

For sale by—
URIAH BIRD, Marlinton, W. Va.; and A. BARLOW, Huntersville

Announcement.

The GOLDEN STORE announces its candidacy for your patronage, as a money saver and economizer of time and patience in supplying your needs. Our sole claim to your support is—

YOUR OWN INTEREST.

as we propose to serve you so well that it will be a case of the people seeking the store, and not the store drumming the people.

"MERIT WILL WIN."

In that consciousness we await the issue with composure.

Yours very truly,

The Golden Store.

Sampson Heard From!

WAR WILL SOON BE OVER,

And You can Invest in Buggies Spring-Wagons, and Carriages.

We have just gotton in a car load of fine Buggies and Carriages which we are selling very low. Call and see us. We can save you money and give you better work.

VEHICLES MADE TO ORDER.

We also make a specialty of repairing and painting vehicles of all kinds. When in Town call and see our work.
Yours truly,

Hudgins & Shackelford,
Ronceverte, W. Va.

Plow Repairs

We have at last succeeded in making arrangements to supply points for the RONCEVERTE PLOW. Full stock now on hand. Send in our orders early....

We are Factory Agents
for IMPERIAL and
SILVER STEEL
Plows.

(The Best Hillside Plow on the Market.)

Simms & Co.,
Opp. Passenger Depot, RONCEVERTE, W. Va.

The Pocahontas Times.

Andrew & Norman Price, Owners. — "Montani Semper Liberi!" — Andrew Price, Editor

VOL. 15, NO. 46 — MARLINTON, WEST VIRGINIA, JUNE 10, 1898. — $1.00 PER YEAR

From FACTORY to CONSUMER.

$1.39 buys this (exact) Rattan Rocker, the largest size ever made; per dozen, $14.50. Our new 112 page catalogue containing Furniture, Draperies, Crockery, Baby Carriages, Refrigerators Stoves, Lamps, Pictures, Mirrors, Bedding, etc., is yours for the asking. Special supplements just issued are also free. Write to-day.

CARPET CATALOGUE in lithographed colors is also mailed free. Write for it. If you wish samples, send 8c. stamp. Matting samples also mailed for 8c. All Carpets sewed free, this month and freight paid on $9 purchases and over.

$7.45 buys a made-to-your-measure All-Wool Cheviot Suit, expressage prepaid to your station. Write for free catalogue and samples. Address (exactly as below),

JULIUS HINES & SON.
Dept. 909. BALTIMORE, MD.

LAW CARDS.

N. C. McNEIL,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

Will practice in the Courts of Pocahontas and adjoining counties and in the Court of Appeals of the State of West Virginia.

L. M. McCLINTIC,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

Will practice in the Courts of Pocahontas and adjoining counties and in the Supreme Court of Appeals.

H. S. RUCKER,
ATTY. AT LAW & NOTARY PUBLIC
HUNTERSVILLE, W. VA.

Will practice in the courts of Pocahontas county and in the Supreme Court of Appeals

J. W. ARBUCKLE,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
LEWISBURG, W. VA.

Will practice in the courts of Greenbrier and Pocahontas counties. Prompt attention given to claims for collection in Pocahontas county.

W. A. BRATTON,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

Prompt and careful attention given to all legal business.

ANDREW PRICE,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

Will be found at Times Office.

SAM. B. SCOTT, JR.
LAWYER,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

All legal business will receive prompt attention.

H. M. LOCKRIDGE,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
HUNTERSVILLE, W. VA.

Prompt and careful attention given all legal work.

JOHN A. PRESTON FRED. WALLACE
PRESTON & WALLACE,
Attorneys at Law,
LEWISBURG, W. VA.

Will practice in the Courts of Greenbrier and adjoining counties, and in the Court of Appeals of the State of West Virginia.

PHYSICIANS' CARDS.

DR. O. J. CAMPBELL,
DENTIST,
MONTEREY, VA.

Will visit Pocahontas County at least twice a year. The exact date of his visit will appear in this paper.

DR. J. H. WEYMOUTH,
RESIDENT DENTIST,
ELKINS, W. VA.

Will visit Pocahontas County every spring and fall. The exact date of each visit will appear in The Times.

J. M. CUNNINGHAM, M. D.,
PHYSICIAN & SURGEON,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

Office next door to C. A. Yeager's Hotel. Residence opposite Hotel. All calls promptly answered.

C. B. SWECKER,
General Auctioneer
and Real Estate Agent.

I sell Coal, Mineral and Timber Lands. Farms and Town Lots a specialty. 21 years in the business. Correspondence solicited. Reference furnished.

Postoffice Dunmore, W. Va., or Alexander, W. Va.

MAUD MULLER'S BIKE.

Maud Muller, on a summer's day,
Mounted her wheel and rode away.

Beneath her blue cap glowed a wealth
Of large red freckles and first-rate health.

Singing she rode, and her merry glee
Frightened the sparrow from his tree.

But when she was several miles from town
Upon the hill-slope coasting down,

The sweet song died, and a vague unrest
And a sort of terror filled her breast—

A fear that she hardly dared to own,
For what if her wheel should strike a stone!

The Judge scorched swiftly down the road
Just then she heard his tire explode!

He carried his wheel into the shade
Of the apple trees, to await the maid,

And asked her if she would kindly loan
Her pump to him, as he'd lost his own.

She left her wheel with a sprightly jump,
And in less than a jiffy produced her pump.

And she blushed as she gave it, looking down
At her feet once hid by a trailing gown

Then said the Judge as he pumped away,
"'Tis very fine weather we're having to day."

He spoke of the grass, and flowers, and trees,
Of twenty-mile runs and centuries;

And Maud forgot that no trailing gown
Was over bloomers hanging down.

But the tire was fixed, alack-a-day!
The Judge remounted and rode away.

Maud Muller looked and sighed, "Ah me!
That I the Judge's bride might be!

"My father should have a brand new wheel!
Of the costliest make and finest steel.

"And I'd give one to ma of the same design,
So that she'd cease to borrow mine."

The Judge looked back as he climbed the hill,
And saw Maud Muller standing still.

"A prettier face and form more fair
I've seldom gazed at, I declare!

"Would she were mine, and I today
Could make her put those bloomers away!"

But he thought of his sisters, proud and cold,
And shuddered to think how they would scold

If he should, one of these afternoons,
Come home with a bride in pantaloons!

He married a wife of richest dower,
Who had never succumbed to the bloomers' power.

Yet, oft while watching the smoke wreaths curl,
He thought of that freckled bloomer girl;

Of the way she stood there pigeon-toed
While he was pumping beside the road

She married a man who clerked in a store,
And many children played round her door.

And then her bloomers brought her joy
She cut them down for her oldest boy.

But still of the Judge she often thought
And sighed o'er the loss her bloomers wrought.

Or wondered if wearing them was a sin
And then confessed: "It might have been."

Alas for the Judge! Alas for the maid!
Dreams were the only stock in trade.

For of all wise words of tongue or pen,
The wisest are these: "Leave pants for men!"

Ah, well! For us all that hope remains
For the bloomer girl and the man of brains,

And in the hereafter bloomers may
Be not allowed to block the way.

—Buffalo Commercial.

ACETYLENE GAS.

There was a time when the name kerosene was as strange to the average man as the name in the heading of this article. Yet it seems that acetylene gas is destined to become as much of a household word as kerosene oil, and supersede its use to as great an extent as coal oil has candles. It may be that there will be found families in this county who will never have used coal oil but will pass from candles to acetylene gas.

The writer had, of course, read of the recent discovery of a cheap method of producing the calcium carbide from which the gas is generated, but it was in a superficial way, and had not realized that probably the odor of acetylene gas would soon be as familiar to the children of men as coal oil, but now we begin to think it. While in Lewisburg, Mr L. C. Steele, a plumber of Charleston, was kind enough to give us an opportunity of observing the effects of this gas.

It should be stated that acetylene gas has been known to scientists for a long time, but no way of producing it cheaply had ever been discovered. A boy near an iron furnace lighted his cigarette and threw the match into a pool of water. The pool took fire and burned. He learned that this was due to fusion of coal with limestone. Then with the knowledge of a chemist it was discovered that coal-dust and limestone if subjected to 5000 degrees of heat would fuse, and this forms the calcium carbide which generates the gas. The stuff looks like a cement made out of whitewash thickened with coal dust. For an experiment you break off a piece with a hammer and throw it in a bucket of water. The water immediately begins to boil. A match is applied and for several minutes the bucket of water burns fiercely. You pour off the refuse and find that the carbon has burned out and that a tolerable quality of whitewash remains in the pail.

This gas gives the most perfect artificial light in the world at one-third the cost of coal oil at its present prices. The calcium carbide retails at 4 cents per pound. In a few years carbide will be sold in country stores to the extent coal oil is now. Keep carbide away from the air or water and it will keep forever. If air strikes it, it will slack; if water, gas will be generated. The generators arrange for carbide to be submerged in water until enough gas is formed, and the elasticity of the gas raises the carbide chamber above the water and no more gas is generated.

Fire insurance companies advocate this new method of lighting, so it is supposed to be safe.

To illustrate briefly what the light is like, it is sufficient to say that dark blue cloth can be distinguished from black as well by its light as by daylight.

A CARD.

To the Democratic Voters of the 8th Senatorial District:

The Democratic press of this district having made kind and favorable mention of me in connection with the party's nomination for the State Senate; and, having been requested by a number of my friends to make known to the public my wishes and intentions in the matter, I deem it proper to make a brief statement.

I am not a candidate for the State Senate, nor for any other office, and do not expect to solicit, for the nomination, the support of any gentleman who may be appointed as a delegate to the Hinton Convention.

Under the rotation rule, which has prevailed so long that it has come to be a kind of unwritten law of the party, the nomination comes to Greenbrier this time, and I take it for granted that the county's delegation in the convention will insist upon an observance of the rule. If there be another gentleman in Greenbrier who desires the nomination, I will not throw a straw in his way, and, if he be nominated, I shall be satisfied, and will, of course, support the nominee of the convention, regardless of the county from which he comes.

Having said this much, it is proper I should add that if the convention should see fit to name me as the party's candidate for the Senate, I will occept the nomination, and, fully appreciating the honor, will use my best efforts to carry our banner to victory, and, if elected, will be none the less diligent in the effort to render faithful and efficient service.

THOS. H. DENNIS,
Lewisburg, W. Va.
May 30, 1898.

A Bee is Kept.

A girl from town is staying with some country cousins who live at a farm. On the night of her arrival she finds, to her mortification, that she is ignorant of all sorts of things connected with farm life which to her country counsins are matters of every day knowledge. She fancies they seem amused at her ignorance.

At breakfast the following morning she sees on the table a dish of very fine honey, whereupon she thinks she has found an opportunity of retrieving her humiliating experience of the night before and of showing her country cousins that she knows something of country life after all. So, looking at the honey, she says carelessly:

"I see you keep a bee."—Pearson's Weekly.

For The Pocahontas Times

The Treasure Trove.

XVIII.

SUCCESS is never so sweet as when we have resigned ourselves to failure. As it was, Weston thought fully as much about his chance of seeing his sweetheart as he did of digging up the buried treasure. He traveled by the first train, and as he would get there before a letter if he had mailed it after he knew he was going, he did not write. He thus surprised the citidel of the maiden's heart, and she surrendered.

This narrative can only treat the love phases of the characters in a hurried manner. It deals with a much more important theme—money. We can go about among men without love in our hearts, and be an acceptable member of society, but we must have money in our pockets. And so we can not be expected to record every whispered word and every kiss that passed between the two lovers. The billing and cooing of two young people, which is supposed to be a perfectly private performance, is described in detail by the ancient and modern novelist. We have been educated to read all this lifelike reproduction of their words upon each occasion without once thinking what these two estimable people,—who have become real under the skillful treatment of the novelist,—think of having this most sacred scene laid bare before the world. How can they go about among their acquaintances without some mischievous friend retailing scraps of that wonderful conversation. What a row would be raised when the jovial friend would quote, "'On my bended knees I swear it, Elaine!'"; or the equally jolly girl friend of the lady, when she got Elaine in a crowd would give a passage from the record, "'Oh, Launcelot! My prince and my king!'" And Elaine will remember the last time she combed Launcelot's hair for saying the baby was crying for meaness; and Launcelot will reflect on the time he got in a swivet because Elaine burned up his oldest pipe.

While we can not undertake to give the full details, we must before passing tell of the strange effect of Weston's sudden appearance at Mr Saunders'. Mary answered the knock at the door and when she saw him standing there, the poor girl could not help her eyes shining like a happy child's, and before Weston had hung up his hat in the hall she remembered that she had thrown off the reserve which was her disguise, and she blushed and became confused.

It all happened so suddenly that they themselves could not tell how it was. Weston had her in his arms, and Mary, who had wanted a place to hide her blushing face, was compelled to use his shoulder for that purpose and found it did very well.

After they had discussed some private matters relating to weddings, which it is unnecessary to divulge for the benefit of the curious, Mrs Saunders entered the room.

Poor Mary's face revealed the secret. Let a loving young girl, whose life is so much one of suppression, discover by the best and most pleasant possible means that the man she had set her heart upon loves her, and the veil will be lifted for a time and her face will shine like an angel's in heaven. Weston took courage by an indefinable look in Mrs Saunder's face and told her that he was thenceforth to be her son, and, trusting him, she kissed them both and told them to be good children.

Thus having given a short statement of a very important incident, we will return to business.

Weston knew that there was a stream called Turtle Creek. The year before he had gone with a young boy to fish for trout in it. On that occasion while resting by a spring they had heard the sound of a muffled explosion, and the boy had remarked that that was Anthony Frenger dynamiting fish.

"Say, let's ketch him," said the young sportsman. "Them fellers down at the court-house hev a standin' offer of $20 for the arrest and conviction of a man what dynamites fish, and I've laid fer old Frenger lots of times, but I aint never done it yit."

They stole softly around a bend creeping behind the willows. They looked cautiously from their place of concealment and saw a dead fish floating on the top of the water. A big trout which had withstood the temptations of the bait offered by fishermen for years, and had retired into the deep water of that pool to live secure. They saw an old man with a long gray beard at the lower end of the pool waiting for the dead fish and putting them in a bag slung around his shoulders.

His plan had been to explode a charge of dynamite on the top of the water. This has the effect not only of killing a large number of fish, but if done a number of times causes all fish big and little to abandon the stream. Hence the activity on the part of the sportsmen at the county seat to make an example of an offender. The Judge, who had sporting instincts, openly declared that if a conviction could be secured he would give him the longest sentence in his power.

Old Frenger had been suspected a long time. The Prosecuting Attorney had hired a man to watch him several times, but on those occasions he fished diligently with hook and line, and as he failed to catch an unusual number of fish, every one was morally sure that he was a dynamiter. But retribution was coming close now.

Weston and the boy had crept to a point opposite to where the dynamite had been used. They saw that old Anthony had got a few fish, but the water having cleared it was apparent from the shining places at the bottom of the water that the greater part of the fish had sunk. Anthony noted this, too, and set about getting them out. He took off his clothes down to the skin, and stood among the willows perfectly naked. He looked carefully around and seeing no one he ventured out of his place of concealment. He tried the water and found it too cold. The water of Turtle Creek was almost as cold as ice. He waded out to the centre of the stream in the shallow water at the head of the pool. There he hesitated before advancing into the deeper water for his fish. He stood peering down in the deep pool at them, with the water nearly up to his knees.

Just then down the woodland path tripped a dainty city maiden who was a summer boarder at The Oaks. Her way lay across a foot-log at the bottom of the pool and she was half way across before old Antony saw her. If he had just stood still he would have probably been unobserved, but it occurred to him that the proper thing for him to do would be to submerge his body, and consequently he started to sit down.

The young lady had a very well defined idea that there were dangers unseen in the wood. Therefore, when she heard the loud

"Oogh! Oogh!" an involuntary exclamation which Anthony gave as he tried to force his shrinking flesh into the cold water, she promptly fell off the foot-log, crying, "Save me!"

She recovered sufficiently to stand up in the water, cling to the foot-log, and scream shrilly.

The old dynamiter hurried in the brush looking vainly for his clothes. The boy had stolen them. Weston helped the young lady from the water. She was badly frightened.

"What was that horrid animal?" she asked.

"It was a wild hog after fish."

"Oh! It seemed to be coming right at me. When it saw me it made such horrid sounds."

Weston saw the young lady out of the woods and received many protestations of gratitude. He returned in time to meet two constables, and they ran old Anthony up and down through the willows until sundown. They succeeded in making him break cover just before dark, and having got him in the open, they being younger, speedily overhauled him. He confessed and was sent to jail for six months.

Thus Weston by this adventure had no trouble remembering Turtle Creek.

The morning after his arrival at Woodbine he proceeded to the ford where the only road of any importance crossed this stream. There he found his bearings by finding the marks as called for in the memorandum. He had made the necessary measurements and found that as he completed the triangle he crossed his trail by a clump of pawpaw trees. Being provided with a mattock and shovel he began to dig. Just then a hard-featured man rode up and asked him what he did there.

"Are you the owner of this land?" Weston replied.

"Yes, sir."

"I had neglected to ask your permission to dig here for some money which was hid here during the war."

"Oh, no; dig away. You air welcome to anything you find jest so you don't dig any sang on my land, and if you wasn't better dressed than the balance of them I'd a run you off the place for a sanger."

Weston worked diligently while Judson sat on his horse and talked to him. Suddenly the mattock gave a ringing sound and a handful of gold coins rolled out. Judson saw the gold, and he went back to barbarism. Forgetting all his training, and that he was class leader and Sunday-school superintendent, he shouted profanely:

"Get off of my land, you damned dude," and getting down commenced to finger the gold lovingly. Weston handled him roughly and finally overpowered him. Judson came back from his fit and agreed to leave the gold in a third party's hands and let the court decide the owership thereof. This brings us down to the lawsuit.

(To be Continued.)

THE HEAVENS IN JUNE.

From The Scientific American.

At 9 P. M. in the middle of June the great star Arcturus is overhead. Even for those who know and care but little about astronomy it is worth while to look carefully at Arcturus, because Arcturus is the very mightiest sun that the heavens are known to contain. Its distance is about a thousand millions of millions of miles, or more than ten million times the distance of our own sun. Since the intensity of light decreases as the square of the distance increases, it is easy to show that if we were as near to Arcturus as we are to the sun, the earth would be vaporized by the blast of unimaginable heat which would smite it, for Arcturus must exceed the sun in light and heat giving power in the ratio of six thousand to one! As to the actual size of Arcturus, it is not improbable that its globe would more than fill the entire space that is belted by the orbit of the planet Mercury! Not to know Arcturus, then, is to be unacquainted with the most stupendous physical phonomenon within the range of human vision.

An easy way to make certain of the identification of Arcturus is this: Look for the Great Dipper, which will be found between the pole and the zenith, with its handle upward. Follow with the eye the bending line of the handle, beginning with the bowl, and continue it beyond the last star to the end, to a distance about equal the entire length of the Dipper, and thus the eye will be led to a bright yellowish star, which is Arcturus. Far southward shines the white star Spica, in Virgo, and farther west the planet Jupiter, the three—Arcturus, Spica, and Jupiter—marking the corners of a large triangle.

Northeast of Arcturus will be seen the beautiful circlet of the Northern Crown, and half way between the Crown and the horizon the brilliant Vega will catch the eye. This star ranks next to Arcturus among the recognized giants of starry space. Its distance is more than five hundred millions of millions of miles, and in light-giving power it probably exceeds the sun about two thousand times! Those who have telescopes may enjoy an exceedingly beautiful contrast of color by looking alternately at Arcturus and Vega.

A VERSATILE LAWYER,

Or, A Tale of the Great "Pocahontas Andy."

It may or it may not be known by a majority of the reading public that the accomplished and exceedingly resourceful editor of the Pocahontas Times is a lawyer of high standing as well as a proficient journalist. In the former professional capacity, it was his misfortune to run afoul of the learned judge of the Eighth Judicial District, some time since, when the following "passage-at-arms" occurred, much to the discomfiture of the hereinbefore mentioned distin- [illegible]

It seems that Pocahontas Andy had applied to the Court for a temporary injunction, restraing the further collection of claims against the sheriff of Pocahontas County, pending the settlement of the said sheriff's affairs which were then very badly tangled. The injunction was granted. But as a matter of course and to be very naturally expected of such an exalted member of the legal profession, Andy had some claims for collection against that same sheriff himself. Even the densest mind can see the dilemma in which the lawyer-journalist was placed. To save his own claims from the legal force of said injunction, while all other creditors took the consequences, was the problem that presented itself to the legal acumen of Pocahontas Andy, and thereby hangs a tale.

With Napoleonic confidence Anday approached the Judge and addressed him:

"Your Honor, I move that the injunction protecting the sheriff from further legal proceedure on behalf of his creditors be suspended as to certain claims I now hold, but that it be held effective as to evory body else."

The force of this proposition temporarily stunned the Judge, but he presently recovered and sternly interrupted Andy with—

"Sit down, sir."

But the speaker was persistent and quite unmoved by the impatience of His Honor, so he tried again with—

"Now perhaps your Honor does not understand me—I AM ON BOTH SIDES OF THIS CASE!"

But the Court understood by this time, and, shaking his finger in a threatning manner at the speaker, said in his most emphatic manner:

"Sit down, Mr Price, or I shall fine you for contempt."

And Pocahontas Andy, for the first time in his career, was compelled to subside, while the Judge adjourned Court for the remainder of the day, in order to allow the balance of the bar to regain their equilibrium.—Webster Echo.

As there was a general expressed desire to see the above item, we publish it. Unfortunately for the reputation for veracity of him who wrote it, there is not a word of truth in the whole article. There has never been such an incident in the court-house at Marlinton. The lawyers who obtained the injunction are Messrs McAllister and McAllister, of Warm Springs, and the rest of the pack, including your humble servant, have been clogging them ever since to get the injunction dissolved. The article seems to be the idle vaporings of an idiotic brain.

Our Navy—Illustrated.

At the present moment, when all eyes are turned to the fleets which are sustaining so nobly the honor of our country, we often hear people ask, "What is the difference between an armed cruiser and a protected cruiser?" Very few people are able to answer such queries off hand, and it would be hard to obtain satisfactory answers to them from cyclopedias or dictionaries. To answer these and similar queries the Scientific American has just published a "Special Navy Supplement" a large folio of forty pages illustrated by ninety illustrations, showing the vessels of the Navy, whether battleships, coast defense vessels, gunboats and marine boats. Unlike most publications dealing with the navy, the actual methods of the "Fighting the Ship" are described—the engines, boilers, guns, turret, mechanism, steering gear being illustrated. We do not know of any publication which gives in any degree the same matter. The present time is most opportune for a publication of this kind and we are pleased to know that the sale has been phenominal. This issue contains a colored map of Cuba and the West Indies. It is sold for 25 cents a copy by all newsdealers or by Messrs Munn & Co., Publishers, 361 Broadway, New York.

"This thing ought to be published."
"Very well, I'll tell it to my wife."

The Pocahontas Times.

ANDREW PRICE, - - - EDITOR.

MARLINTON, FRIDAY, JUNE 10 1898

Entered at the post-office at Marlinton, W. Va., as second class matter.

"The toils of law, (what dark, insidious men
Have cumbrous added to perplex the truth,
And lengthen simple justice into trade),
How glorious were the day that saw these broke,
And every man within the reach of right!"

A great many of our soldiers are sent to Tampa to be made fit to tamper with the Spaniards.

The indictment against Mrs G. W. Atkinson was quashed in the circuit court of Gilmer county. The grand jury took up the evidence again for consideration.

The primary of Monroe County resulted in the nomination of J. D. Logan for House of delegates; C L. Johnson Commissioner; and J. P. Leach for County Superintendent.

A. M. McLaughlin and Jonh Peters, of Greenbrier, are on the Goshorn jury in the Federal Court at Charleston. Goshorn sues prominent citizens of Kanawha for false imprisonment and asks $100,000 damages.

The last legislature made some changes in the delegate districts of this State, putting Webster with Upshur, Morgan to itself, and leaving out Mingo and Logan, two strongly Democratic counties. The result would be that the Republicans would secure two delegates beyond a doubt. It seems absolutely certain that this law is a nullity. The law is that the delegates must be apportioned soon after each census, and when this is once done it can not be changed until after the next census. In 1891 the districts were apportioned, and so they would have to rest until the census of 1900.

THE PRIMARY ELECTION.

The Democratic Primary has once more settled the nominations in a perfectly harmonius manner.

For the House of Delegates Hon I. B. Moore was alone voted for. In a few instances prejudice was shown by the scratching of his name off the the ticket. This is not a very deadly blow, however.

The race for County Commissioner was conducted in very gentlemanly manner. There was absolutely no bad feeling engendered. The result means that the present member of the County Court had conducted himself in a satisfactory manner, and that the people saw no reason to remove him.

When we come to the County Superintendency however, we have to review a noble fight for an office which has much money to recommend it, in addition to the honorary distinction which it confers. The battle was among four, and they all worked until sundown on election day. They met at Green Bank where the largest vote is always polled.

The candidate who offered from Marlinton failed to carry this precinct. His friends inform me that he would undoubtedly have carried it but for the rumor that he had withdrawn. When traced to its source it was found to have originated in the expression of a racing man that he "was not in the race." This being misconstrued the voting for the Marlinton candidate stopped. The seven who had voted appeared and asked to please let them see their ballots, as they had not been fully informed when they voted for County Superintendent. We can remind the candidate at the Bridge of Horatius at the Bridge's platform:

"How can a man die better Than facing fearful odds."

But, laying all jokes aside, we would remind all defeated candidates that tho they may feel the defeat, not the least bit of odium is atttached to it in the minds of the people at large. They can hardly realize it, but it is never-the-less true.

The nominee for County Superintendent served in that capacity in the seventies. He will be an acceptable man. A very peculiar thing connected with the race is that none of his three competitors ever considered him a dangerous man in the least, tho his election was not a surprise generally.

NAVAL ENGAGEMENT.

The American fleet under Admiral Schley engaged the Spanish forts at the mouth of Santiago Bay, and the flag-ship of the Spanish fleet. The Spanish ship was hit repetedly and also the forts. It is not known what the loss of life was. Not a shot took effect on the American fleet.

The plan of naval warfare has changed. Once if a ship behaved gallantly in action she had to stand up and batter and be battered like two men in a fist fight. The result was that the progress of invention worked to the effect of of sending an irresistable projectile against an impenetrable armorplate. They left the strategist a chance, however. He could run away. Now the American tactics are to swoop down on the enemy after the fashion of the Indians on their ponies, and fire when at the nearest point and pass on. Thus a ship becomes very difficult to hit.

* * *

The Americans accomplished a daring maneuvre last Friday at Santiago bay. Sampson decided to block the harbor by sending in the Merrimac, an old freighter of 5000 tons burden. Volunteers were called for and 4000 seamen offered. Six were chosen and placed under naval constructor Hobson who had formulated the plan. The steamer started in without a gun or any defensive armor. Under cover of darkness they penetrated to a considerable distance when the steamer was sunk by submarine explosives. Not a man was injured, but were all captured by the Spanish. Their heroism was praised by the Spanish admiral, who immediately offered to exchange them. The channel is effectually blocked.

THE LEVELS.

Rev D. S. Sydenstricker was absent at Dunmore over Sunday.

J. W. Beard was in Randolph County last week.

Andrew Oliver and wife are the guests of Dr C. W. Eskridge this week.

Calvin Stulting, of Virginia, is spending a few days at his old home.

Washington Moore and daughter Annie, of Frost, were visiting in the Levels last week.

R. M. and Harry Beard, James Mann and C. P. Dunlap were fishing on Cranberry, and report all the trout gone.

The Children's Day Exercises at the M. E. Church, Sunday morning, was a success and was largely attended.

Charles McClintic and sister, Miss Parker, of Monroe County, and Misses Hunt and Lee, of Mineral County, are the guests of F. A. Renick.

Prof J. L. Sydenstricker returned home from Athens last Sunday. His cousin, Prof Blackman, of Fort Springs, came up with him.

The war with Spain is supposed by all to be near an end. Dr La Rue, C. L. Clark and Balis Fowler have a substitute. It's a boy in each case this time.

DILLEY'S MILL.

Another wedding in sight.

F. L. Fertig expects to return home soon from Davis.

Mrs J. F. Wanless lost a very fine horse last week.

Rev W. T. Price will preach at school-house on Brown's Creek Sunday next.

Dr J. P. Mooman and daughter, of Green Bank, were the guests of W. H. Dilley Thursday.

A. L. Dilley spent a few days in the vicinity of Green Bank last week on business.

Rev O. B. Sharp preached an interesting sermon at Mt Zion last Sunday.

We learn that there is going to be a grand picnic on Top of Alleghany the 4th of July. A grand time is anticipated.

Peter McCarty, while out burning brush last week, pulled off his coat and laid it down. It caught fire from the brush-heap and burnt up.

The road between here and Huntersville is almost impassable in some places. Only two men to five miles of road. This part of the county fails to get any money applied on roads for repair.

BIG FOOT.

PERSONAL MENTION.

L. D. Sharp, the Elk merchant was here Saturday.

Miss Edith Haupe, of Staunton, is visiting Mrs Andrew Price.

Miss Bertha Sharp is stopping for the present in Marlinton.

James W. Warwick, of Mill Point, was in town Monday.

Mr S. H. Clark and Col G. S. McNeel, of the Levels, were in town Monday.

Mrs E. L. Beard and Miss Annie McNeel of Academy, were in town Monday.

Mr and Mrs Joseph Smith, of Marvin, were in town Friday, giving their depositions in a case pending between Dr McClintic and the administrator of the late Mrs J. T. Hogsett's estate.

OBITUARY.

J. W. Smith.—Life Sketch.

James William Smith was born in Pocahontas County, W. Va., Dec. 18, 1827, and died at the home of his brother, Joseph Smith, May 27, 1898. Mr Smith, though a man of delicate health, reached the age of 70 years, 5 months and 9 days. During his long life he was always in public business. Years ago he was post master at Mill Point, and for forty years he was engaged in the saddle and harness making business. He dealt fairly, was moderate in his charges and did honest work; nothing half done was allowed to leave the shop. In his transactions he had a strict regard for the truth.

About 1878, Mr Smith built a valuable mill on Greenbrier River. This mill has been a success. It has been of great service to the people, especially during dry weather or before steam was applied to other mills; otherwise many would have been compelled to go out of the county to get flour. He was never married. While a young man he was disappointed in love, and he never made suit to another.

In 1879 he joined the M. E. Church South, and was a loyal church member. His experience was not that of climbing hills and descending into the depths, but rather moving on in the even way. He delighted in talking of heavenly things, and in this way he exerted a quiet influence for good. The church was remembered in his will. He directs that $200 be invested by the trustees of Marvin Chapel; the yearly interest to go to the support of the ministry for Marvin Chapel for 25 years. Then if the trustees see proper the principal may be applied to building or repairing the church.

Last fall Mr Smith saw that his health was fast failing and to his brother's where he desired to die. As the end drew near he spoke freely of the coming change. He died in the hope of a glorious immortality, and was buried in the private burying ground at Mr Joe Smith's. Here he rests by the side of his father and mother awaiting the awakening time.

JNO. H. DILLS.

DRIFTWOOD.

Wheat is looking well.

Mrs Nancy Galford is visiting her daughter, Mrs Nancy McCloud

Walter Vint was around warning hands to work the roads last week.

Miss Emma Burner was in this neighborhood last week.

A wedding in sight. Keep your eyes open and watch Clace.

S. A. Meeks was up at Lawrence Dysard's on business, last week.

J. T. is working for Robert Griffin. J. T. is a hustler.

S. C. McCloud thought he was taking the mumps, but it happened to be the sun pain.

C. B. Meeks has returned from camp and says that work is scarce.

Mrs Lizzie Dysard is with her daughter, Mrs R. L. Brown at this writing.

Plenty of rain and mud, but good growing weather. Sheep shearing is the order of the day, and some are hoeing corn, but most of their time is taken up in shaking hands with the candidates.

BUMBLEBEE.

W. H. Hartley,

Plasterer and Painter.

I wish to inform the citizens of the county that I am prepared at any time to do any work in my line.

One smooth coat plastering for papering or painting......	7c yd
Two coats and a skim of lime	9c yd
Hard finish....	10c yd

[Including boarding and tending and horse found.]

CALSOMINING A SPECIALTY.

Any letters addressed to me will be promptly answered. All work attended to in this and adjoining Counties.

W. H. HARTLEY,
Jacox, W. Va.

June 1 8m.

Everybody Reads the Charleston

Daily Gazette,
Daily and Weekly.

Published at the State Capital of West Virginia.

Latest Market Reports.

Write for Terms to Agents and free sample copies.

R. M. JOHNSON, Bus. Mg'r.
Charleston, W. Va.

FOR SALE!

50 Geiser Separators, — All Sizes.
50 Peerless " — " "
50 Geiser Saw-mills —" "
50 Geiser Engines — " "
10 " Clover Hullers

Repairs for Geiser Separators, Engines, and Saw-mills.

At low prices and on easy terms by

G. W. GRAVES, Agent
Alderson, W. Va.

LOBELIA ITEMS.

Joe Buzzard has been around.

G. P. Hill is off to Edray at this time.

Harvey Taylor and wife, of Friar's Hill, were the guests of W. B. Hill last week.

W. B. Hill is in the eastern markets to buy goods for the Lobelia store. He will visit the Capital while gone.

Fine growing weather. Corn looks well, wheat good. Roadworking has been the order of the last few days.

Mumps are a thing of the past here. The report of Mount Lebanon and the surrounding country, where our Musical association was to have been held, has dealt a death blow, by one of our county boys so we learn. The report was this: that we could not accommodate more than fifteen persons and the place where the church was situated was not fit for a pauper's grave yard. We hope this gentleman will find something else to talk about at leisure hours. Come one come all.

OBSERVER.

Lieut Oscar A. Price, of the 1st West Virginia Infantry has been appointed division quartermaster.

Commissioner's Sale.

Pursuant to a decree of the Circuit Court of Pocahontas County, West Virginia, entered in a cause therein pending at the April Term 1898, of said Court, in which cause Thomas L. Coulehan and others are plaintiffs and Daniel O'Connell and others are defendants, the undersigned Commissioners, as required by said decree, will proceed on at the front door of the Courthouse of said County, to offer for sale at public auction to the highest bidder, the following lot, tract, or parcel of land, to wit:

TUESDAY, JUNE 21st, 1898,

A four sixths undivided interest in a tract of 220 acres of land, lying on the waters of Douthard's Creek in Pocahontas County, West Virginia; being the same land purchased from N. S. Alderman and wife on the 14th day of March, 1894, by the said D. O'Connell, by deed duly recorded in the Clerk's office of the County Court of said County.

The standing white pine timber on said tract is not to be sold, as it was several years ago sold by the said N. S. Alderman and wife to one James R. Brewer, and is expressly excepted from this sale.

This tract has a good house on it with necessary out buildings, and will make a good home for any one who buys.

TERMS: Cash for costs of suit and sale, and the residue upon a credit of six twelve, and eighteen months, the purchaser giving for the deferred payments bonds of even date with the sale, with interest from date, and good personal securit , the title to be retained as ultimate security.

L. M. McCLINTIC,
W. A. BRATTON,
Commissioners.

I, J. H. Patterson, do certify that the above commissioners have executed before me the bond required by the foregoing decree, conditioned according to law.

J. H. PATTERSON, Clerk.

Commissioner's Sale OF School Lands.

Pursuant to a decree of the Circuit Court of Pocahontas County, made at the April Term, 1898, in the chancery cause of the State of West Virginia versus J. B. Lowe and others, the undersigned School Commissioner of Pocahontas County, will on the

21st Day of June, 1898,

at the front door of the court house of Pocahontas County, proceed to sell at public auction to the highest bidder for cash, the following tracts of land:

1st. The Mineral rights in a tract of 450 acres conveyed by Henry Buzzard to J. D. Price, May 17, 1873, and conveyed to and forfeited in the name of J. B. Lowe, for the non-payment of taxes.

2d. The mineral rights in a tract of 360 acres conveyed by Jas. P. McComb to J. D. Price, May 17, 1873, and forfeited in the name of J. D. Price and Oramel Barrett.

3d. The mineral rights in a tract of 500 acres of land conveyed by John Burr to J. D. Price, May 17, 1873, and by him conveyed to and forfeited in the name of John E. Roller for the non payment of taxes.

4th. The mineral rights in a tract of 250 acres of land conveyed by G. H. Rider to J. D. Price May 16th, 1873, and by him conveyed to and forfeited by John E. Roller for the non payment of taxes.

All of the above mentioned tracts are mineral leases for the term of 99 years, granted on the 16th and 17th days of May, 1873, and recorded in the Clerk's office of the County Court of Pocahontas County, to which records reference may be had for a more specific description of the said lands.

5th. A tract of 5 acres situated in the "Hills" and forfeited in the name of Samuel Curry.

6th. A tract of 8½ acres situated in the "Hills" and forfeited in the name of Samuel Curry.

B. M YEAGER,
Commissioner of School Lands.

NEW WINTER WHEAT & RYE.

FOR DELIVERY AT SEEDING TIME IN FALL OF 1898.

Grown and for Sale By
Ewd. C. Bro n & Co., Rochester, N. Y.

Four varieties of wheat in lots of 5 60 pounds:

Cap Sheaf (white)	100 ark (red)
Winter King (white)	Multiplier (red)

Giant Siberian Rye.

FARMERS! Buy small amounts of several varieties, find out which are best adapted to your particular soil and climate, and then

Grow Your Own Seed.

You can grow your own seed in quantities cheaper than any one else can grow it for you.

W. M. DEAN has the agency for Pocahontas County, and will call upon you or may be addressed at LOBELIA, WEST VIRGINIA.

School Commissioners Sale of Lands.

Pursuant to a decree of the Circuit Court of Pocahontas county, West Virginia, made at the April term of said court, 1898 in the chancery cause of

State of West Virginia
versus
J. W. F. Allemong and others,

I will proceed on the 21st day of June, 1898, it being the first day of June term of court, 1898, at the front door of the court house of Pocahontas county to sell to the highest bidder at public auction the following described real estate, viz:

The mineral privilege in a certain tract of 710 acres situated on Browns Mountain in Pocahontas County, West Virginia. Said mineral privilege to extend for a term of 99 years from May 22d, 1873, with option to renew for a like period, being the same privilege conveyed to J. D. Price by Samuel Harper on May 22d, 1873, and forfeited in the name of J. W. F. Allemong.

Terms of Sale: CASH.

B. M. YEAGER,
School Commissioner.

Commissioner's Sale.

Pursuant to a decree of the Circuit Court of Pocahontas County, made in the chancery cause of Levi Gay vs. D. W. Sharp, and others, on the 5th day of April, 1898, the undersigned Special Commissioner will on the

21st day of June, 1898,

At the front door of the Courthouse of Pocahontas County, West Virginia, proceed to sell by way of public auction to the highest bidder the following tract of

100 Acres of Land,

Situated in Pocahontas County, on the Greenbrier River, being the same land conveyed by Levi Gay and wife to D. W. Sharp, by deed dated January 1, 1895, and recorded in the Clerk's office of the County Court of Pocahontas County, in Deed Book No. 25, page 476. Said land comprises a well fenced farm in good state of cultivation.

Terms of Sale: Enough of cash in hand to pay costs of suit and sale, and for the residue of the purchase money, shall take from the purchaser three bonds of equal amounts, with good personal security, falling due in 6, 12, and 18 months from day of sale, respectively, with interest on all of said bonds from day of sale, the title to be retained as ultimate security.

L. M. McCLINTIC,
Special Commissioner.

I, J. H. Patterson, Clerk of the Circuit Court of Pocahontas County, do certify that the above named Special Commissioner has executed bond as required in said decree.

J. H. PATTERSON, Clerk.

TRUSTEE'S SALE.

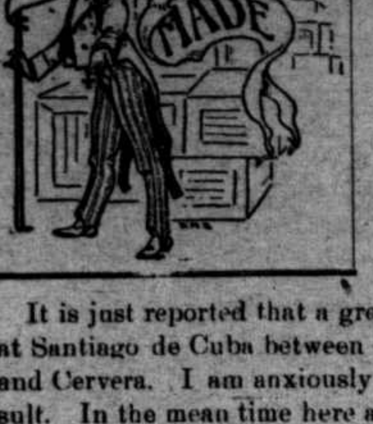
By virtue of a deed of trust executed to Wm. M. Sharp, Trustee, by Charles Cook and Mary M. Cook his wife, dated on the 26th day of June, 1890, and recorded in the clerk's office of the county court of Pocahontas county, W. Va., in deed book No. 20 at page 479, to secure the payment of certain debts fully mentioned and described therein, and default having been made in the payment thereof, and being required so to do by the holders of said debts, I William M. Sharp, will on the 2d day of July, 1898, commencing 10 o'clock A. M. at the front door of the court-house of said Pocahontas County, W. Va., proceed to sell by way of public auction to the highest bidder, the property conveyed by said deed of trust, or so much thereof as may be necessary to satisfy said indebtedness,—said real estate lying and being in the 2d District, Pocahontas county, W. Va., adjoining S. B. Moore and others, at the junction of the Williams River Road with the Huttonsville and Marlins Bottom Turnpike, containing two acres, on which there is a good dwelling house and shop.

Terms of Sale.—Sufficient cash in hand to pay costs of sale, balance on six months time with interest from date. Bond with approved security, and title retained as ultimate security. Title perfect.

Given under my hand this 30th day of May, 1898.

WM. M. SHARP, Trustee.

To Cure Constipation Forever.
Take Cascarets Candy Cathartic. 10c or 25c.
If C. C. C. fail to cure, druggists refund money.



RUMORS
OF WAR!

It is just reported that a great battle has taken place at Santiago de Cuba between the Sampson-Schley fleet and Cervera. I am anxiously awaiting news of the result. In the mean time here are a few hot shots. If strikes let me know promptly:

Mens' Pants..........	50 cts.
Bulldog Pants......	62½ cts.
Linen Crash Hats....	25 cts.

HIGHEST MARKET PRICE FOR WOOL.

PAUL GOLDEN.

Wanted. 25,000lbs of Wool.

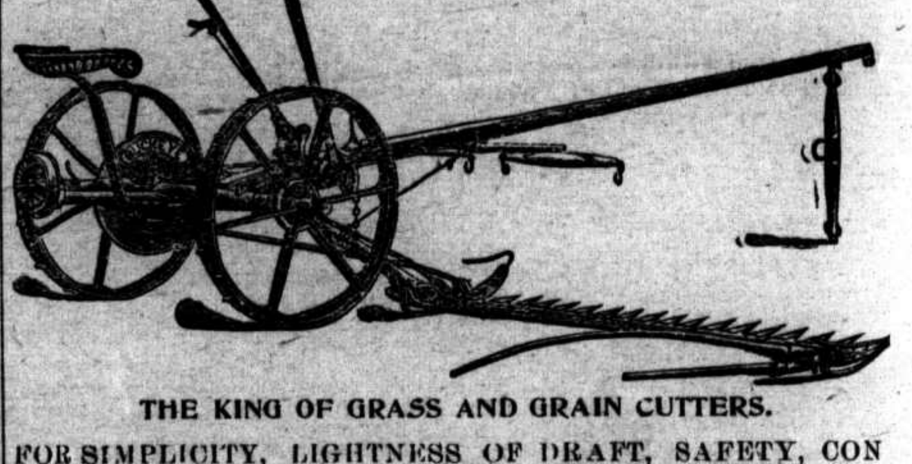
Good Wool. Will pay a little bit more than any one else, and as much money; and will take all kinds of PRODUCE.

But if you can't bring me your Wool I will be a little slow about certain kinds of Produce.

I have the goods and wont hold them, even at very low prices.
Come one, come every body. Yours for Bisness,

Huntersville, W. Va. S. J. BOGGS.

The BUCKEYE Mower, Binder, and Reaper.



THE KING OF GRASS AND GRAIN CUTTERS.

FOR SIMPLICITY, LIGHTNESS OF DRAFT, SAFETY, CONVENIENCE, CAPACITY, AND DURABILITY, THEY STAND WITHOUT A PEER.

They Stand By the Farmer and the Farmer Stands By Them.

BUCKEYE HARVESTING MACHINERY has reached the highest degree of excellence made possible by the inventive genius of man, and HAS LED THE VAN FOR OVER HALF A CENTURY.

ALL BEARINGS Subject to Wear in Connection With Cutting Apparatus Are Adjustible, So that All Wear is Taken Up. All Other Important Bearings Brass Lined.

TUBULAR FRAME insuring STRENGTH and LIGHTNESS.
EVERY PURCHASER Given One Day's Fair Trial in The Field.
EVERY MOWER SOLD UNDER WARRANTY.

FOR SALE BY M. C. GATEWOOD,
Linwood, W. Va.

Plow Repairs

We have at last succeeded in making arrangements to supply points for the RONCEVERTE PLOW. Full stock now on hand. Send in our orders early. . . .

We are Factory Agents for IMPERIAL and SILVERSTEEL Plows.

(The Best Hillside Plow on the Market.)

Simms & Co.,
Opp. Passenger Depot, RONCEVERTE, W. Va.

The Pocahontas Times,

Hear, Land o' Cakes and brither Scots,
Frae Maidenkirk to Johnny Groats,
If there's a hole in a' your coats,
I rede ye tent it;
A chiel's amang you takin' notes,
An' faith he'll prent it. – BURNS

Local Events.

Depositions are being taken in the case of Preston Harper vs Frank Harper.

John Lange, who had been confined in the asylum and dismissed as cured, was again committed to jail as a lunatic.

J. H. Buzzard finished assessing this week. He has recently moved to Driscol, having rented his farm. He is now nine miles nearer civilization.

A young man named Riley, of Green Bank, was arrested last week and while waiting to be examined by the justice he made his escape and has not been retaken.

A. W. Bester, of Baltimore, will spend the summer with relatives in Pocahontas. His brother Lewis a volonteer in the 5th Maryland Regiment, stationed at Jacksonville.

J. H Landes will have on exhibition and for sale a number of his rustic withe chairs at June Court. The price, $2.50 each, is very low. Produce he can handle taken in exchange.

The great war of commerce as refers to wool gathering, is in full movement in Pocahontas County. We hear of one merchant engaging the clip of several big Elk growers. and the local dealer buying the same wool for cash. Prices range from 17 cents cash to 19cts in trade.

M. W. Gordon, of Beaver Dam. a Confederate Veteran who saw two brothers die in the war, was a welcome visitor to The Times office last Friday. He was accompanied to Marlinton by Mrs Gordon who was taken suddenly ill and had to wait some hours before she could return home.

A hen belonging to James Hultz of Academy, made a good fight against a hawk the other day. The hawk swooped down and captured one of her chickens and sailed away. The hen took to her wings and flew right under the hawk. A hundred yards distant the hawk dropped the chicken, and the hen brought it back unharmed.

Jim Sizemore, who was indicted some time ago, charged with stealing a polecat skin, was arrested last week on a capias and lodged in jail. The evidence against him is supposed to show that he took the pelt from Pullin & Co.'s wareroom and sold it to Golden. He had absented himself from the county, but returned to visit his parents who live on Valley Mountain in the Levels. There he was nabbed by a deputy sheriff.

Professor D L. Barlow's training school will close about the 17 of June. The term has been well patronized and the results are of a very satisfactory character. Geo. E. Moore is there this week giving instruction in penmanship, and a better course has never been in our county. The writer believes that this training school might become a permanent institution and secure patronage from a wide territory were its merits become properly kuown.

W. M. Dean, of Lobelia, is agent for a firm dealing in the best varieties of improved wheat, and is trying to introduce it among the farmers of this county. We believe the bettering of wheat stock is a matter that should receive the attention of farmers. About a year ago Mr Dean's new house and all its contents, representing the savings of himself and wife for thirty years, ever since he came out of the Confederate army, burned up. He desires to return thanks for the many kindnesses shown him since that time by friends who have contributed to his great necessity.

Peter C. Hill, of Jacox, was in town Monday, and called at The Times office. He informs us that his neighbor, L. P. Curry, found a fine gold-plated watch in a piece of new ground, which was not damaged in the slightest and runs well. It was probably lost by a hunter or sang-digger. Mr Hill has in his possession a book which was presented to his grandmother more than one hundred years ago; the hand made hunting knife used by Richard Hill, (his grandfather), a silver coin of 1777, and other relics of Richard Hill, the famous hunter and scout.

A few nights since a Cuban insurgent waited on the writer in his dreams and gave him a pressing invitation to visit their encampment. He was more than pleased to do so, and arrangements were made accordingly as to time and place. Upon repairing to the camp he was mot by the committee of reception, headed by the interesting volunteer aforesaid, who, with the three others, had been 'filling up.' They seemed extremely gratified that the visiting chaplain was riding such a nice horse and all four got up behind him and requested him to stick in the spurs, for the crowd was waiting and it would soon be 'drill time.' There was a scuffle to get them off and before it was over, the dreamer was awake and streaming with perspiration, with a feeling that he had been very neatly sold.

The Horse Stealing Case.

It will be remembered that at the April Court John Wilfong was sent from this county to the penitentiary for stealing John R. Warwick's horse. The evidence was very conclusive. Wilfong was seen in the neighborhood the night before the theft, and the horse was sold by him to Isaac Hoover in Rockingham County two days after. He was traced over the course and the horse recovered. His defence was that he had bought the horse of a stranger, but there seemed to be no color of truth to this story whatever, as he had no money to buy horses, had no occasion to ride a horse nearly to death and then sell him for half price.

In the face of this conclusive evidence, letters have been received here by the prosecuting attorney and by the committing magistrate from a man who claims to be the guilty person. It is needless to say that no weight is attached to these letters, as it is a very easy way to declare the innocence of a convicted prisoner. It is evident that Wilfong has a friend who is working for a pardon, and no man in his senses would imagine that such letters have any weight when the legal aspect of the case is considered. The letters were similar. The one printed purports to be from Union, Monroe County; but shows by the postmark that it was mailed on a train between Bradford and Norton on the Norfolk and Western railroad.

Union monroe
ma 30 1898.

Mr Uriah Bird—i want you too show thise too prose attornenye, he hase one too an sherife Hill. it ize fur the benfite ove mr John Wilfong fur i am thee gilty one an thee one that sole him that hose. He did not stele that hose, an thee one that swore he did swore a black lie or sase so either fur i am the one that done the crime and I know there iz one inosente man at mondsvile penitary if no more he is not guillty but i am. keepe thise this is not the name i tole him. GORGE WINFREY ise mi name.

Gigging in The Greenbrier.

The waters of the Greenbrier and Knapp's Creek are unusually low for June and the light of the torches of gigging or spearing parties are to be seen at night. The method is to cause the fish to be blinded by a bright light, when they lie still and the man with the gig or spear walks up and kills it with a quick unerring blow. It is sport in the highest degree, for it requires a noiseless approach, a trained eye to distinguish a fish from the rocks in the bed of the stream, and a steady hand. The light flashing on the clear water has a wierd effect. Outside the little circle of light the darkness is intense, but near the torch every pebble in the bed of the stream shows distinctly.

Fat pine makes the best and most desirable light, but those who do not wish to take the trouble to range the woods hunting for pine knots, put a ball of cotton or carpet rags on the end of an iron rod and soak it in coal oil. They carry along a gallon or so of oil in an ordinary oil can, and when the torch burns low, oil is poured on it from the can. It is a great argument in favor of the safety of oil that it may be poured from the can on a blazing torch. An explosion occurs very frequently, but it amounts only to a loud "chug!" and smoke arises from the can.

The majority of fish taken are suckers and an occasional catfish. Bass can be occasionally be gigged but it is now illegal. It is rather common for bass, bewildered by the light, to run ashore so far that they may be picked up.

Three Children Burned to Death.

The three youngest children of Alex. McChesney, more familiarly known as Alex. Tite, a colored man living near Huntersville, were burned to death last Wednesday. The childrens' ages ranged from one to five years. The mother was working at some distance from the house and the children were left playing in the cabin. There was a little fire on the hearth. The oldest child ran to its mother burning. When she got to the cabin she found that the baby had been burned to death in the cradle and the other two children so badly burned that they died that night.

Farmer's Institute.

The second annual meeting of the Pocahontas County Farmer's Institute will be held at Academy, Friday and Saturday, June 17th and 18th, 1898. An elaborate programme has been arranged for the discussion of a number of subjects by representative farmers of Pocahontas County. All are invited and urged to attend and meet the institute directors. It will be time profitably spent for the farmer.

Musical Association.

The Pocahontas County Musical Association will meet at Mount Lebanon Church Thursday, June 16th, 1898, at 7.30 p. m. The music leaders of the county are requested to be present and bring with them their choicest music books especially the Psalms and Hymns Combined and Young People's Hymnal. The public is cordially invited.

JOHN WAUGH, President.

OFFICIAL RETURNS

From the Pocahontas County Democratic Primary.—628 Votes.

PRECINCTS AND CANDIDATES.	I. B. Moore, H. of D.	Amos Barlow, Co Court.	J. C. Price, Co. Court	J. A. McLaughlin, Supt.	Jas. W. Warwick, Supt.	J. B. Grimes, Supt.	W. R. Sutton, Supt.
Green Bank	137	90	47	17	12	30	81
Dunmore	33	22	9	6	10	5	12
Trav. Repose	38	32	6	0	0	28	10
Huntersville	68	66	5	4	65	3	0
Frost	20	16	4	1	5	8	7
Marlinton	50	22	28	7	21	12	9
Edray	29	27	21	5	6	22	17
Split Rock	31	3	28	0	9	8	14
Mill Point	58	33	18	2	34	14	5
Academy	105	87	16	4	70	32	1
Lobelia;	28	26	2	0	3	25	0
Total	592	444	183	46	235	191	156

District Nominees.

PRES. B. OF E.

Green Bank, Dr Moomau.
Huntersville, J. H. Doyle.
Edray, Jacob S. Moore.
Levels, Isaac McNeel.

MEMBER B. OF E.

Green Bank, G. W. Kerr.
Huntersville, S. P. Curry.
Edray, Joseph B. McNeel.
Levels, E I. Holt.

DUNMORE.

Finest growing weather in the county.

Mr and Mrs Craigan Grimes spent last week with relatives here.

Stonewall has returned from Horton.

Hon H. A. Yeager was in town last week.

Will Jackson is off to Mill Point for flour.

Swecker and McElwee are painting the Baxter Church.

Mrs William Siple and children are up on a visit.

Mrs Gus Eskridge is visiting her people.

R. L. Nottingham and Jacob Jr. are off on a business trip.

Benjamin Taylor was at Edray last week.

Mrs Julia Lockridge was visiting friends there recently.

Mr and Mrs Dan O'Connel, Mr and Mrs A. F. Hanck and Miss May Best were in town recently.

Worth Nottingham has returned home from Texas, where he has been living for a year or two.

Dr A. C. Jones, of the University of Virginia, spent several days in town a few days since.

About two weeks ago James Riley lost two of his work horses in one night.

C. E. and Reece Pritchard took a load of wool to Monterey last week.

Some of the boys went fishing the other night and killed two water snakes and bruised the head of a fish.

Sampson knocked down the Spaniards and the cut worms knock down the beans and tomaters.

When Asa Barlow's dog was last seen he was following the last man who was seen in Green Bank district, with a rail on his shoulder.

A man going throunh the county a few days ago says that the Pocahontas roads begin to look like wartimes.

Renick Kerr started to Staunton one day last week and got to Green Hill and one of his horses dropped dead in the wagon. This is a great loss to Mr Kerr.

Some of our Republican friends are getting all the high tariff they want.

PAT MALEY.

A little dry at this time.

John West Carpenter lost a fine cow. She died for want of breath.

Big Dick returned from Horton and brought the mumps with him.

Some excitement has started up over the foot base at Dunmore.

Gov Hughes has returned to town.

Price Moore and his betsy were in town Sunday.

Brown Moore says it is no trouble to be elected if you get a majority.

Miss Alice McLaughlin has closed her school at the Sinks and returned home.

Our railroad, Klondike, Whiting Sharp and Billy Buzard have gone to the war or somewhere else.

Edward Mullenax, the mill wright, is here and will repair Col. Pritchard's mill this summer.

Dr Sydenstricker has been holding a series of meetings at Dunmore and has preached some very able sermons. The meeting Sunday morning was largely attended.

R. L. Nottingham and Jacob Jr. spent last week in Randolph County. They say it is a sure thing about the railroad to Huttonsville. Work commenced Monday.

A few nights ago in Upshur Co., meat was taken from a Gold Bug Republican's smoke house, and the following note left: "You man can live on Prosperity but it takes bacon at our house."

Our merchants are getting on a nice lot of Fourth of July goods for picnics: Such as mowing mashines, buggy rakes, cook stoves, cyth-snaths, salt fish, bacon, lamp oil, whet stones, over coats and straw hats.

ZICKAFOOSE.

The Lewisburg Commencement.

The Lewisburg Female Institute the most important female educational institute in the State, closed last week with elaborate commencement exercises.

Friday evening the alumnæ formed an association. Miss Susie Price is vice-president for this county. An organization is expected to be formed in each county. An elaborate banquet followed, of seven courses but no wine. The girls drew the line where we would have drawn the cork. Miss Susie Price, of this county, responded to the second toast, "Our Girls of the Past."

Saturday night Waiteman Barbe read a lecture to the literary society

Sunday Dr Quarles, of the W. & L. University preached the baccalaureate sermon from the text: "I pray that our daughters may be as corner stones polished after the similitude of a palace."

Monday evening the art exhibit brought several hundreds of invited guests together for a social time in the beautifully decorated rooms of the Institute. Several hundred beautifully executed and nicely framed drawings occupied the walls of the room, representing the work of the pupils during the past school year.

Tuesday night the regular commencement exercises were held at the town hall. Miss Moomau, of Green Bank, received one of the medals.

This school should be patronized by Pocahontas people. It is situated in the most respectable town of Lewisburg, noted for its refinement and culture. The school is in care of those who care as much for the comfort and moral training of young girls as they do for the mental qualifications.

WANTED.—An energetic, intelligent young man in Pocahontas County, West Virginia. Exclusive territory given and references required. Address Kentucky Protection Co., Covington, Ky.

Commissioner's Sale
—OF—
School Lands.

Pursuant to two decrees of the Circuit court of Pocahontas county, West Virginia, made on the 18th day of June, 1897, and the 9th day of October, 1897, respectively. in the chancery cause of

State of West Virginia
versus
George L. Clark and others,

the undersigned Commissioner of School Lands for Pocahontas county, West Virginia, will proceed to sell at public auction to the highest bidder for cash, at the front door of the courthouse of the said county, on the

21st DAY OF JUNE, 1898,

the following described real estate.

First: A tract of 219 acres of land, situated on Michaels Mountain on the waters of Knapps creek in the said county, and forfeited for the non payment of taxes in the name of John Kelly, Sr's, estate.

Second: A tract of 76 acres of land, situated on the waters of Knapps creek in the said county, adjoining the lands of I. B Moore and others, and forfeited for the nonpayment of taxes due thereon in the names of Lanty Lockridge and William Cleek.

Third: A tract containing 6¼ acres of land, situated on Elk Mountain in the said county, being waste and unappropriated land.

Fourth: A tract containing 7¼ acres of land, situated on Elk Mt. in the said county, being waste and unappropriated land.

B. M. YEAGER,
Commissioner of School Lands.

NOTICE.

SILLING & SLAVEN,

TIN, SHEET-IRON
ROOFING,
GUTTER SPOUTING,
ROOF PAINTING,
FLUES, STOVE PIPE.
GALVANIZED FLUES,
SMOKE STACKS.
FRUIT DRYERS,
GALVANIZED TANKS,
AND CISTERNS.

Shop - Made Tin Ware
Always on Hand.

LIGHTNING RODS.

Work Done on Short Notice.

Call or write to
SILLING & SLAVEN,
ACADEMY, W. VA.

Reward!

We will pay a reward of $25.00 for the arrest and conviction of the arrest and conviction of the parties whe stole three long chains from the Boom on Cochran's Creek the last week of May, 1898.

SMITH & WHITING,
June 6, 1898.

No-To-Bac for Fifty Cents.
Guaranteed tobacco habit cure, makes weak men strong, blood pure. 50c, $1. All druggists.

The Great War.

We have won success by our ability to demonstrate our bargain claims; we guarantee the smallest of our patrons the same courteous attention given the largest.

We are taking great pains in buying our
Spring and Summer Stock of Goods. . .

And all bargains will be shared with our customers.

We keep goods moving by keeping goods that move;—we test every value—our prices do the rest. Its not a question of opinion, its a rock-ribbed fact that our prices can not be successfully cut under. Don't scatter your dollars unwisely; concentrate them here and save more of them.

It is shrewd and well directed effort that makes our bargains unusual. Our, PRICES PUZZLE COMPETITORS AND DELIGHT PURCHASERS.

Thanking you for your past patronage, we remain
Yours respectfully,

L D Sharp.
Linwood W Va

The Levels News.

Edited by Payne Bros.

Vol. 1 Academy, W. Va., June 10, 1898. No. 21

Market, May 31, 1898.

—Eggs 8½c per dozen.
—Butter 10 to12½ per pound.
—Lard 8c per lb.
—Corn 75c per bushel.
—Wheat 90 to $1 per bushel.
—Oats 40c per bushel.
—Beeswax 25c per lb.
—Hams 12½c per lb.
—Side Bacon 10c.
—Shoulder 10c.
—Potatoes 75c a bushel.
—Flour $5 to $6 bl.
—Wool 20c.

—AT PAYNE BROS.

—Pure Sugar Syrup only 40c per gallon at Payne Bros.

—Pure Mixed Paints at Payne Bros,

—Lime, calsomine and white wash brushes at Paynes.

—30 bushels of nice potatoes for sale at Paynes.

Cradles, sythes, and snaths just received at Payne Bros.

A. Oliver and wife are visiting Dr C. W. Eskridge.

—C. L. Stalting and family, of Augusta County, will spend the summer here with friends and relatives.

—Children's Day services were held at the Methodist Church Sunday morning and at Marvin Chapel in the afternoon. Both services were very interesting and enjoyed by young and old.

—Born, June 1st, a boy to Dr and Mrs Larue.

—Wm. Wylie and bride returned to their home at Falling Springs after a few day's visit in our town.

—Miss Emma McClintic and brother Charles of Highland are visiting the Misses Renick.

—Mr Washington Moore and daughter Miss Anna, of Knapp's Creek, have been visiting relatives in this vicinity.

To Cure a Cold in One Day.

Take Laxative Bromo Quinine Tablets. All Druggists refund the money if it fails to Cure. 25c.

SALT: $2 A SACK,
AT PAYNE BROS.

Best grades of Roller Flour at

G. L. HANNAH'S,
Yelk, W. Va.
BARLOW & MOORE'S,
Edray, W. Va.
J. H. CURRY'S,
Green Bank, W. Va.
R. L. NOTTINGHAM'S,
Dunmore, W. Va.

The Horrors of Nervousness.

Those who are going through the indescribable terrors of this dreadful disease, require no description of the agonies they constantly suffer. But why suffer? Good blood gives good nerves; and gives good blood. It is a nerve strengthener and restorer, the efficacy of which cannot be over-estimated; when it is learned that its absolute freedom from poisonous drugs or opiates, makes it safe for use in the hands of sick or inexperienced persons, there is an increased appreciation of it. JOHNSTON'S SARSAPARILLA is a specific for impoverished or impotent nerves; it feeds the nervous system to high health, provides for physical and brain endurance, cheerfulness, happiness and energy.

Johnston's Sarsaparilla
QUART BOTTLES.

Our thirty-six page illustrated book contains some interesting pages on Nerve Exhaustion. It is free for the asking. Quart bottle, $1.00.

WILLIAMS, DAVIS, BROOKS & CO., Detroit, Mich.

Liverettes cure Indigestion and Sick Headache. 25c.

For sale by—
URIAH BIRD, Marlinton, W. Va.; and A. BARLOW, Huntersville

NEW GOODS!

They are here and coming in. We hardly need say that early customers get pick and choice of stock.

We show the newest and choicest in Staples and Novelties in all the lines we carry.

WE WILL NOT BE UNDERSOLD.

Goods from eastern markets received every week.

J. B. McNeil the popular salesman whose services we have secured for the season, takes this opportunity to invite his frieds to call and see him when in town.

Make our place your headquarters when in town.

Yours to Please,

J. D. Pullin & Co.

Sampson Heard From!

WAR WILL SOON BE OVER,

And You can Invest in Buggies Spring-Wagons, and Carriages.

We have just gotton in a car load of fine Buggies and Carriages which we are selling very low. Call and see us.

We can save you money and give you better work.

VEHICLES MADE TO ORDER.

We also make a specialty of repairing and painting vehicles of all kinds.

When in Town call and see our work.

Yours truly,

Hudgins & Shackelford,
Ronceverte, W. Va.

They banish pain and prolong life.

ONE GIVES RELIEF.

R·I·P·A·N·S

No matter what the matter is, one will do you good, and you can get ten for five cents.

The Pocahontas Times.

Andrew & Norman Price, Owners. | "Montani Semper Liberi!" | Andrew Price, Editor

VOL. 15, NO. 48 | MARLINTON, WEST VIRGINIA, JUNE 24, 1898. | $1.00 PER YEAR

From FACTORY to CONSUMER.

$1.39 buys this (exact) Rattan Rocker, the largest size ever made; per dozen, $14.50. Our new 112 page catalogue containing Furniture, Draperies, Crockery, Baby Carriages, Refrigerators Stoves, Lamps, Pictures, Mirrors, Bedding, etc., is yours for the asking. Special supplements just issued are also free. Write to-day. CARPET CATALOGUE in lithographed colors is also mailed free. Write for it. If you wish samples, send 8c. stamp. Matting samples also mailed for 8c. All Carpets sewed free this month and freight paid on $5 purchases and over.

$7.45 buys a made-to-your-measure All-Wool Cheviot Suit, expressage prepaid to your station. Write for free catalogue and samples. Address (exactly as below),

JULIUS HINES & SON,
Dept. 909. BALTIMORE, MD.

LAW CARDS.

N. C. McNEIL,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

Will practice in the Courts of Pocahontas and adjoining counties and in the Court of Appeals of the State of West Virginia.

L. M. McCLINTIC,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

Will practice in the Courts of Pocahontas and adjoining counties and in the Supreme Court of Appeals.

H. S. RUCKER,
ATTY. AT LAW & NOTARY PUBLIC
HUNTERSVILLE, W. VA.

Will practice in the courts of Pocahontas county and in the Supreme Court of Appeals.

J. W. ARBUCKLE,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
LEWISBURG, W. VA.

Will practice in the courts of Greenbrier and Pocahontas counties. Prompt attention given to claims for collection in Pocahontas county.

W. A. BRATTON,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

Prompt and careful attention given to all legal business.

ANDREW PRICE,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

Will be found at Times Office.

SAM. B. SCOTT, JR.
LAWYER,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

All legal business will receive prompt attention.

H. M. LOCKRIDGE,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
HUNTERSVILLE, W. VA.

Prompt and careful attention given all legal work.

JOHN A. PRESTON FRED. WALLACE
PRESTON & WALLACE,
Attorneys at Law,
LEWISBURG, W. VA.

Will practice in the Courts of Greenbrier and adjoining counties, and in the Court of Appeals of the State of West Virginia.

PHYSICIANS' CARDS.

DR. O. J. CAMPBELL,
DENTIST,
MONTEREY, VA.

Will visit Pocahontas County at least twice a year. The exact date of his visit will appear in this paper.

DR. J. H. WEYMOUTH,
RESIDENT DENTIST,
ELKINS, W. VA.

Will visit Pocahontas County every spring and fall. The exact date of each visit will appear in The Times.

J. M. CUNNINGHAM, M. D.,
PHYSICIAN & SURGEON,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

Office next door to C. A. Yeager's Hotel. Residence opposite Hotel All calls promptly answered.

C. B. SWECKER,
General Auctioneer
and Real Estate Agent.

I sell Coal, Mineral and Timber Lands. Farms and Town Lots a specialty. 21 years in the business. Correspondence solicited Reference furnished.
Postoffice Dunmore, W. Va., or Alexander, W. Va.

THE MAIDEN'S SONG.

Alexis calls me cruel:
The crags that hold
The gathered ice of winter,
He says are not more cold.

When even the very blossoms
Around the fountains brim,
And forest walks, can witness
The love I bear to him.

I would that I could utter
My feelings without shame;
And tell him how I love him,
Nor wrong my virgin name.

Alas! to seize the moment
When heart inclines to heart,
And press a suit of passion,
Is not a woman's part

If man comes not to gather
The roses where they stand,
They fade among the foliage,
They cannot seek his hand.

[Translated from the Spanish by Bryant.]

For The Pocahontas Times

The Treasure Trove.

XX.

THE suit of Weston vs Judson and the Bank of Danton was duly instituted and while it was maturing, the plaintiff was exercising his wits and working to be ready to prevail over Judson's cleverly devised defense. Weston went home for a few weeks and then came back to be on hand and to be near the scene. About the first of June he came back and it is needless to say that he was with his sweetheart many deliciously long hours. Mary and he talked the suit over and weighed all the chances. The winning of it meant that they were to enter hand in hand into that dreamland which to lovers seems the consumation of earthly happiness, but so unreal and unrealized that though the thoughts of that constant and unrestrained companionship is ever present with both, waking or sleeping, it doth not yet appear what it shall be. The mere possession of 'enough money to get married on,' or, which is the same thing, what they think is enough,—so paltry when human happiness is compared with it,—means, in nine cases out of ten, that lovers will plight their troth and taste happiness not of this world, and get bravely over it. While if they are cursed with a feeling of poverty the unfortunate children will eat out their hearts apart, and the two natures meant to home with each other are cursed by their very capability for true happiness.

Colonel Wilson's idea that they might capture Judson's witness was evidently not wholly unsuspected by Judson. It can be relied on that Judson knew his old lawyer as well as the lawyer knew him. Black Robert had been temporarily sequestered by his employer, and it was not until the 1st of June that the Colonel learned that Judson had sent him to the head of Laurel River to range cattle for the summer.

"It becomes our duty," he said solemnly to Weston, "to tamper with this witness in order that the truth may be told in court and justice prevail. Suppose you dress yourself in some good strong clothes and go up to the head of Laurel River and see if you can corrupt that nigger into telling the truth. We have got a full month until court, and I will stay around here and see if any thing turns up to our advantage."

Weston set off to the wilderness to find the dangerous witness. He had about fifty miles to go and he decided to tramp it. He set off equipped for rough work. He wore a stout cordfiroy suit and substantial shoes. In a knapsack he carried extra clothing. He had no definite idea beyond perhaps finding the negro's camp and living with him a while under the plea of wanting to fish. So he took his fishing tackle with him.

The first day he made twenty miles and stopped with a farmer. He went on the next day another twenty miles. He found he was getting much deeper into the mountains than he had been before. The road had narrowed gradually until it became a bridle-path well worn, but not wide enough for wagons. The path lay on the bank of a noisy stream which flowed between two high mountains. He could barely see the tops in the dim distance as he looked up the heavily wooded mountain side. A man overtook him riding one horse and leading another with a pack-saddle loaded with store goods. Weston had passed out of the world that used wheels, and he was entering an enchanted region where the women and children had never seen a wagon or any wheeled vehicle. Only the men who went to the store and attended court knew what such marvels were like.

Weston and the stranger fraternized. City bred though Weston was, he began to realize what it was to be scarce of anbody to talk to, and how important the least among those who walk up and down the earth may be under certain circumstances. As to old Rube Callahan, who was on his native heath, he was so near a monarch of all he surveyed that he could afford to treat any man royally.

The meeting was not without incident. Weston had seen the mountaineer coming up behind him, his small, wiry horses stepping out briskly towards home, picking their way between rocks and finding places to set their feet among the roots. Old Rube had a mountain rifle as long as he [illegible] which he [illegible] mel of his saddle. Weston knew that people in this section would naturally carry more or less of an armament and was not a bit dismayed to meet a man in this lonely place, even tho he was armed.

The horses had approached Weston where the stream made a bend and the path was at the top of the bank. He had just stepped to one side to allow the horses to pass, when he heard a sharp "Lay down, stranger," and turning looked in the unfathomable depths of a big rifle, which the mountaineer held to his face cocked and ready. To hear was to obey, and as he sank to the ground the report of the rifle rang. "The scoundrel has shot me" was the first agonizing thought.

The startled horses wheeled and the old man landed on the ground beside Weston. In a moment Weston was holding him on the ground and at the same time he saw a red calf go clattering over the stones of the creek and disappear in the thick cover which fringed the side of the creek.

"I guess I've got you," remarked Weston.

The old man made a desperate effort to get up, and his gigantic frame and hardened muscles gave him the greatest strength, but he was dealing with a young and powerful man who held him down. He lay back finally panting, great beads of sweat standing on his face, and began to plead with his captor. "Say, mister, you aint goin' to bother an ole man for a little thing like that, air ye?" he asked anxiously.

"Do you call an attempt at murder a little thing, you old devil?"

"What do you mean?" inquired the old man in astonishment.

"Did you not shoot at me," asked Weston fiercely.

"Dang my skin, mister," said old Rube, as a look of relief spread over his face, "ef I did n't think you war arrestin' me fer killing a deer in the red, I hope I may never find another sang root. Jest as I rounded the turn I seed the finest forked horn buck in the bed of the creek, and if I was to be hung fer it I'd er gin that deer the contents of my ole rifle. Say, you let me up, and I'll gin you half of it."

Dawning intelligence showed in Weston's face, and he promptly let the old man up.

"I am sorry you missed him," said Weston. "I do n't own any deer, and therefore I do not feel any disposition to raise trouble over any deer that you might happen to kill."

"I wont gainsay you, stranger, that I mought have missed that there deer, fer I fired the minute yer head dropped out of the sights but if my old eyes did n't deceive me I seed a spot erbout the size of a dollar behind that deer's shoulder arter I shot, and I didn't see the bullet strike the water anywhere. But that fetch-taked ole mare o' mine wheeled so damned suddent that I did n't hev the chance to observe every thing. We 'll have a search fer the body after I load up and tie up them pesky hosses. Dang my skin, stranger, you air a wrassler! You end I must hev a fall er two tergether er I can't hold up my head in the church no more."

The gun being loaded and the horses tied up, the two men climbed down the bank and into the bed of the creek. Weston was able to show his companion where the red calf had gone into the bushes, and the old man made preparations for for a systematic search. They had only taken a few steps into the brush when they came upon the deer lying dead, shot through the lungs. The deer was killed out of season, but at the first of June they are often very fat, and are considered as being more fit for food than at any other time.

The shadows were already over the valley, and as Weston watched the old Calahan dress the deer by the water-side he asked him about a place to spend the night, explaining that he was out on a fishing expedition. Old man Callahan replied:

"Down this here Wild Goose Crick erbout two mile is the dangest poorest [illegible] I reckon if I war to tell them folks that you held the old man down on a fair and square tussle and you tuk your sheer of the venison, they mought keep ye. Jest wait till I swing the carcase on to my shoulders and I'll git you to ride that ole mare o' mine, fer the plague-taked old beast never would let me carry a deer on her, and we'll drap down on 'em tergether. Come ter think erbout hit, I think I'll try to ondure one night in that old cabin, and we'll jest take a mess o' venison tergether, bein' as the sun's erbout down."

The mountaineer put the deer's legs criss-cross by running one foot between the tendons of another, and Weston placed it on his back, and which it fitted perfectly, and the bearer walked off proudly with the evidence of his hunting prowess. Weston was not sorry to have a horse to help him over the toilsome miles that lie at the end of every journey.

They came in sight of a substantial log-house, well built and cared for, with broad porches, and surrounded by convenient outhouses. A large log-barn stood in a green field, and the whole was situated on an eminence overlooking the creek that tumbled over a precipitous fall at its base. A mill built on a large flat rock ground unattended at the rate of a peck of corn an hour.

"Is this the place we are going to stop?" asked Weston.

"It is, stranger, if they 'll keep us."

"I thought you said we would have very poor accommodations here? If ever I saw a place that looked like people enjoyed more solid comfort I do not remember it."

"They air mighty poor, stranger; but I reckon you ought to stand fer one night what they have ter the whole year."

"I believe you are the owner of this magnificent home," said Weston.

"Well, stranger, I cant gainsay ye, but come in, we'll do the best we can fer ye."

Weston seated himself in a comfortable chair covered with a sheep-skin. In a few moments a motherly old lady came out and welcomed Weston, who introduced himself. This was Mrs Callahan, and she, having made him feel at home, immediately seized a broom and swept off some imaginary dirt from the porch floor. Presently Mr Callahan came back, having dressed the deer and sunk it in the spring branch to preserve the meat until it was eaten. He spoke to a man on a hill across the valley about a mile away to come in and attend to the horses and then joined Weston on the porch. He carried a bundle of newspapers.

As he approached he said:

"'Scuse me, Mr—well I declare I fergit names so easy."

"Weston!"

"That's it! 'Scuse me, Mr Weston, but mought you be able to read?"

"Well, I can read print tolerable well."

"I wish you would look over these here papers that my son sent me from the Univsity and see if there is anything erbout him in 'em."

Weston took the paper and a marked passage caught his eye:

"The orator's medal was awarded to Mr J. T. Callahan, class of '94."

"That's my son Jake. We 're mighty unfortunate in him. His uncle left him the best farm on the creek, and he sold the whole caboodle and went ter school on the money. He have got a powerful sight of money invested in his head. Anybody who had no more to show fer a fine farm than education ought ter jist, plumb, natcherly go crazy fer fear he'd die and lose it."

The young Callahan had evidently broken away from home entirely. He was an only son and his father wanted to see him first in strength and skill in the settlement and his hankering after a higher education had estranged them. [illegible] house as well as [illegible] a nameless waif who was never to have any slight or to be illtreated on that account.

Supper was served and it was a feast such as nature furnishes to those who live near her. Venison steak and trout, corn pone. tree molasses, good butter and milk, maple sugar, preserved and fruits: making a feast fit for a king.

The girls, tall fine looking young women, entertained the guest in the "house," where Weston was surprised to see a cabinet organ. One of the girls, I think her name, was Nancy, explained that pap had hearn one of them organs when he went to court and he hed bought it and fetched it down the creek, him and Jack Fender, slung on a pole. He set it up and said the agent told him anybody whose hands were soft enough could play on the dratted thing, and they had tried and tried and soaked their hands in buttermilk and greased em with bar oil, and made some just beautiful sounds, but pap would cuss like all the world and say they didn't have no gift at playing.

"Yes," said the old man, "I'd as leave hear en old sow fast in the fence."

Weston could play and sing, and he opened up the instrument and sat down and played "Yankee Doodle," and "Dixie" and sang some old songs, and his audience was enchanted. Old Calahan immediately wanted him to agree to stay till the deer was eaten up, and Miss Nancy got over her rapture long enough to ask him what he had used on his hands. He replied:

"My mother used to poultice them every night when I was a child. You have passed the age when you can ever hope to be a performer." And Nancy sighed and resigned herself to her fate.

A diversion was here made by Mrs Calahan coming in and demanding them to get ready if their pap was going to take them to the wake.

The old man declared that the deceased must excuse him for he was too tired. The girls raised a protest declaring that was always the way; that they never did have any fun; that they never got to go nowhere and that they didn't keer how soon they had a wake at their house, and they reckoned they'd get to go to that one; and they all looked very ominous at their father. Weston offered to escort the young ladies to that interesting assemblage, and the girls to save hair-pulling agreed to draw straws to settle who was to walk with the young man. At dusk they proceeded to the house of mourning where the wake was to be held.

(To be Continued.)

MEMORANDA OF ROAD LAW.

Surveyor's duties:—To put the road in good repair, proper width, well drained, cleared of rocks, fallen timber, land slides, and to cut dead timber within 50 feet, to put guide boards at forks of road, foot logs for foot men: When the road is suddenly obstructed, he immediately call out sufficient hands to open it, no matter how many days they have worked, and can fine them for not obeying.

Time to work roads is between the the 1st day of April and the 1st day of Sept each year, two days work to be done before June 1

By paying 75 cents commutation any person can refuse to work. Three days notice to be given. Number of days to work FOUR.

Persons liable to work are all male persons over 21 and under 50 years of age, except paupers found in the precinct, preachers in charge of a church, excused by the court The hands to attend with sufficient tools and if they fail to bring them or to work when they do attend they can be fined just as if they had stayed away. The fine in any case is $1.25 per day.

Fines, how collected: The surveyor to make off an account in the following words against hand: "A...... B...... to Road Precinct No...... in District of .... in the county of Pocahontas, Dr. To Road Tax for failing to perform .... days of work on roads at $1 25 per day, $............" This account to be delivered to a constable within TEN days from the 1st of September each year, who can levy it just as a tax ticket is levied. The surveyor should take the constable's receipt for it.

Persons failing to work can not make up their time after the 1st of September.

Surveyors may hire wagons, plows, scrapers, oxen, mules, or horses. upon fair terms, with gears for them, and if they can not be hired may impress them, the price to be paid by the county court.

All accounts and road reports to be brought to the levy term of the county court the fourth Tuesday in June.

Biographic Notes.

William Warwick, Son of John Warwick of Deer Creek.

W. T. P.

The group of the Warwick relationship in Pocahontas treated of in this paper includes the descendants of William Warwick, of John Warwick the Englishman from Warwickshire, England, as is generally believed.

Like his brother Andrew, William Warwick lost his heart in the [illegible] of Greenbrier, and mar- [illegible] Andrew Warwick. They settled on Deer Creek where Peter H. Warwick now lives, and were the parents of three children. Robert Craig, Elizabeth, who became Mrs Benjamin Tallman; Margaret, who became Mrs John Hull and lived on the head of Jackson's River.

Robert Craig Warwick, the only son, seemed to have been much attached to his sister Peggy, and at one time crossed the Alleghany paid her a visit, but lost his heart. He came to the conclusion that life on Deer Creek was not worth living after this, and he told Esther Hull about it. They agreed and were married, and the happy young people settled on the Deer Creek homestead. They were the parents of three sons and six daughters. In reference to their children the following items are recorded:

Catherine Hidy Warwick is now Mrs William W. Bird, Hillsboro, W. Va. Her children Elvira Louisa, now Mrs William McClune, near Mill Point; Robert Craig Bird, at Clifton Forge; John Henry Bird, Covington; George Newton Bird, Clifton Forge; William Lee Bird, Roanoke City, Virginia.

Her husband Major W. W. Bird was a Confederate officer. He had command of Company K 52d Virginia Regiment in the battle of McDowell, and was in charge of a regiment of reserves in the battle of New Hope. He was near General William Jones when he fell in that engagement and received his last verbal orders that General gave just a few minutes before his death. He was named for William Wallace, a renowned hero in Scottish history.

Nancy Jane Warwick is now Mrs Jacob Lightner, Highland, Va. Her children were John Adam, now in the west; Robert, on Back Creek; William Craig died in youth; Jacob Brown, on Back Creek; Peter Hull lives in Greenbrier; James Cameron, a lawyer at the Warm Springs, Va.; Malcena Catherine, now Mrs George Cleek on Jacksons River; Virginia Rachel, now Mrs John Wallace, of Highland; Mary Etta, now Mrs Peter Gum, Meadow Dale, Va.

Sarah Elizabeth Warwick became Mrs Daniel Matheny, and lives at Valley Centre, Va. Her children Esther Ann, Melissa, now Mrs Charles Bird; Robert Matheny, who married Miss Gabbert and lives at Valley Centre.

Margaret Ann Warwick became Mrs Nelson Pray. Her family was quite a large one, but only one survives, Ella, who is now Mrs John Riley and lives in one of the western counties. One of Mrs Pray's daughters, Regina, received fatal injuries in a railway collision.

Hannah Rebecca Warwick was married to Captain George Siple, a Confederate officer, 31st Virginia Infantry, and lives on Deer Creek in sight of the Warwick homestead. Her children were Nancy Jane, now Mrs Pierce Wooddell at Green Bank; Anna, Mrs William Jackson at Dunmore; Mary Catherine, now Mrs Bernard McElwee at Dunmore; Clara Belle, now in the west; William M. Siple married Alice Reaburn, and lives at Marlinton; Joseph Siple married Anna Mary, only daughter of Mr [illegible]

Louisa Susan Warwick was married to Eli Seybert, settled near Mt. Grove, Va., then went west. But one of her children survives, Mary Amaret, now Mrs Morgan Matheny, Top of Allegheny.

William Fechtig Warwick was named for a pioneer Methodist preacher. He married Anthea Pray, and lives near Mt. Grove, Va. His children Paul, Pray, Robert, Nelson, Peter Hull, George Craig, Charles, Amelia, who became Mrs George Dilley and is now Mrs Hopkins Wanless, near Mt. Tabor; Amanda Gabrielle, now Mrs John Landes, near Mt. Grove; Sally, and Louise Catherine. Three of the sons Robert, Nelson, and Peter went to Kansas.

Peter Hull Warwick married Caroline Matheny, and settled on the Deer creek home place. Their children were Jesse, Otis Dent, Forest, and Elbert Cecil. By the death of Cecil, in 1896 at Cowen, Webster county, his mothers heart was so broken that she did not survive him very long.

John Robert Warwick married Jennie Cleek, daughter of the late John Cleek, of Bath County, and lives on a section of the Deer Creek homestead. Their children are Mary and Nancy. Lieut. Warwick was a Confederate officer, 31st Virginia Infantry, and is a commissioner of the Pocahontas Court.

Elizabeth Warwick became Mrs Benjamin Tallman, and lived on the property now held by Captain Siple. Her children were William Warwick, James Crawford, Robert Boone, John Wolfenbarger, Cyrus, and Nancy Craig. Nancy became Mrs Benjamin Tallman and lives in Illinois.

Margaret Warwick was married to John Hull, on Jackson's River. Her Children were William Warwick Hull, who was one of the California forty-niners and has not been heard of since; Robert, Andrew, Norah, Nancy Jane, who became Mrs Col Peter H. Kincaid, in Crabbottom; Margaret, who is now Mrs Christopher Wallace, of Williamsville; Irene Esther, who became Mrs James Fleisher, first wife, Meadow Dale.

This relationship has furnished our citizenship with good citizens, brave soldiers, industrious tillers of the soil and self-sacrificing home keepers, and deserves honorable recognition in the short and simple annals of our own Pocahontas people. Pocahontas people are all the people we have, then let it be our untiring effort to make the best of what we have and be content with nothing less.

No-To-Bac for Fifty Cents.
Guaranteed tobacco habit cure, makes weak men strong, blood pure. 50c, $1. All druggists.

LOCAL EVENTS.

FEBRUARY 5, 1897.

THE city editor had to surrender space this week to advertisers and correspondents.

DIED: At his home at Mill Point Richard Mathers, at a very advanced age. He was a shoe-maker.

THE Hinton Republican expresses its sympathy that the theater goers of Pocahontas county will have to endure the large theater hats which so obstruct the view.

READ Swecker's big auction sale at Marlinton at March Court. Swecker makes things lively at an auction and always sells you goods whether you want to buy or not.

WE learn thro the Greenbrier Independant that T. I. Quick, the person who killed Reuben McKeever, a few years since, was wanted for forgery and fled from Greenbrier county. It is believed that Quick went as far as Chicago, where he is supposed to be under arrest, and measures are being taken to have him back, should he be inentified.

I AM not going to sit on the counter and wait for old-time business at old-time prices to come around. I have just lowered the price on all my clothing to make it a matter of economy for you to buy here. Nothing is cheap if you do n't want it, but if you really need a good, serviceable suit made of all-wool, rough cursey or fine clay worsted. I know that both price and quality ought to tempt you to buy it at the GOLDEN Store.

THE Bridghwater Herald is the latest addition to the list of newspaper failures. In the past year about one half of the papers in this section of the country have suspended publication. The cause seems to have been that the number of newspapers became largely out of proportion to the number of people. As in this county, when two papers were running for a couple of years, while Greenbrier and Fayett, each having three or four times the inhabitants, had two papers. Staunton has had three newspapers failuros with in the year.

THAT terrible "g", which the careless and unthinking put in the spelling of the word Marlinton, gives the residents of the town a great deal of pain. No matter how much they strive against it, they never receive a letter in which this error occurs in the address, but that they form a lower estimate of the character of the writer. We cannot be correcting people all the time. Neither can we change the name of the post office to "Marlinton-without-the-g-please," for that would shock the people more than did the old name of Marlin's Bottom. We admit that euphony demands that it should be either "Marlington" or "Marlintown" but the fact remains that the only rigth way is to spell it is Marlinton. The error may grow out of the Virginia style of dropping the final "g", which is put in when spelled. This comes natural to so many that they shock us without thinking.

Personal Mention.

Mr Reynolds, of Ronceverte, was in Marlinton last week in the interest of the Farmer's Mutual Insurance.

Neal Barlow, of Edray, was a welcome visitor at the Times office last Friday.

S. M. Gay & Sons are preparing to establish a permanent sawing set on the Indian Draft.

Geore Taylor and Frank Dilley have a large saw set at Mt Pleasant where the road crosses the Indian Draft. People clearing land are thus enabled to utilize their surplus oak, chestnut and ash, of fine quality, when these mills go into operation.

A pleasant occurrence took place at Marlinton last week when fifteen or twenty neighbors met at Mrs. Johnson's and prepared an ample supply of fire wood.

Hon. Henry A. Yeager is absent at Fredricksburg and other points in Virginia.

Paris Yeager started last week to visit his brother Walter, in Cheyenne, Wyoming, and will remain there indefinitely.

An Old And Well-Tryed Friend.

THE YOUTH'S COMPANION will celebrate its seventy-first birthday in 1897. Among the attractive announcements of the paper for the coming year is an article by Mr. Andrew Carnegie on "The Habit of Thrift." Successful men in other walks of life will second Mr. Carnegie's paper with readable, practical articles. The non-partisan editorials, the "Currents Events" and "Nature and Sience" who wish to keep informed of the world's progress. Of course there will be the usual high class fiction. New subscriders who send $1.75 to THE COMPANION will receive free a very beautiful Calendar, printed in twelve colors. The Illustrated Prospectus of the next Volume may be had by had adressing

THE YOUTH'S COMPANION,
205 Columbus Ave., Boston, Mass.

Lumber.

I have for sale a quantity of first-class white-pine lumber, well sawed.

Can furnish bills sawed to order if bills are given me by February 1ts.

H. M. MOORE,
Dunmore, W. Va.

Narrow Escape from Freezing.

GILLESPIE, W. VA., Jan. 30,—Mr John E. Burner met with an experience during the recent blizzard which he is not likely soon to forget, or care to have repeated.

Mr Burner has been holding possession of a tract of woodland for Mr S. B. Woods, of Charlottesville Va., and as some of the camps on adjoining tracts have been recently burned he spends considerable time at building on the aforesaid tract, to prevent its being destroyed as well as to keep up a social intercourse with sundry coons, minks, wild cats and other cats not so wild, which infest the neighborhood.

On Friday the 22nd ult., notwithstanding the fact that he was suffering from some affection of the legs which renders him quite lame at times, he started out thro the snow for a ten mile walk to camp. Upon arrival there he became so lame as to be almost helpless. To return unaided was out of the question and he proceeded to make himself as comfortable as his crippled and lonely condition would permit.

Mr B. is a mighty hunter and at first his friends and family felt no uneasiness at his delayed return, but as the bitter, blustering days succeeded each other, uneasiness gave way to alarm and on the eighth day of his absence his son-in-law started out to investigate. He was found camp barely able to collect wood enough to keep from freezing, and with one tin of coffee and two or three biscuits remaining in the pantry.

Mr B. is 64 years old and during that long lease of life he has been noted for his piety. To those who know him it is needless to state that those long, dreary, anxious hours of waiting were spent in fervent supplication and when he was restored to the bosom of his family his pent up feelings gave vent the declaration, "I didn't catch a —— coon!"

NIMROD.

DUNMORE.

Tuesday morning was twelve degrees below zero. A fine time for making ice cream.

Quite a lot of logs are being hauled to the Harry Moore saw mill set at Dunmore.

Under the single gold standard we have 16 patches to 1 pair of pants.

We have a great deal of sickness in our district. Some families are all sick.

There were two deaths above Green Bank last week. A Miss Grogg, aged 13 years, and a child of Lee Ervine, aged six months.

Mr Gum Mathews is down sick Miss Emma burner is teaching for him. Prof. Ed McLaughlin taught last week.

Will Wooddell is going to school at Dunmore and is learning the taylor trade.

Arthur Noel is improving some.

C. P. Kerr is building a house.

Mr Q. W. Poage, one of our cattle kings, brought over a fine lot of cattle last week to be fed at Wash Oliver's.

L. E. Gumm, our black smith, has been laid up for some time with sore throat.

The junior foot ball team of Green Bank will pull whiskers with the Dunmore team for the championship ot Dunmore, on the 6th of February.

Miss Laura Maxwell closed her school at Cross Roads last Friday.

Col S. C. Pritchard talks of building a bone mill and a new carding machine. We hope he will do so.

There is some talk of opening a road across the mountain, from Will Galford's to Amos Gum's. It would be a good thing for the county.

Washington Hoover made a trip to the Levels last week for flour.

Woods & Swecker are making some of the finest furniture and coffins ever put up in the county.

Auctioneer Swecker is thinking of making some large auction sales of goods, very soon.

The Historical and Phrofetical writings in the Times are read with a great deal of interest by a number of our people.

JENNIE LIN.

Your Vitality?

The essence of life is force. Every breath you breathe, every heart beat, every motion of your hand, takes force. The measure of force we call vitality. If this is lacking, there is loss of flesh, lack of resistive power, a tendency to catch disease easily, especially a tendency to Consumption. For low vitality nothing is better than Scott's Emulsion. It supplies force by furnishing the nourishing, strengthening elements of food in an easily digested form; enriches the blood, and builds up the system. When ordinary food is of no avail, Scott's Emulsion will supply the body with all the vital elements of life.

Two sizes, 50 cts. and $1.00. All druggists.

If you will ask for it we will send you a book telling you all about Scott's Emulsion. Free.

SCOTT & BOWNE, New York.

The Arbogast School.

We seem to be right in our surmise that the Arbogast School, the extreme northern school-house in the county, was not in such a bad way. While they need a new school-house, and ought to have one; still that is no evidence that the Board of Education of Green Bank District, the County Superintendent, and the other county officers are wholly corrupt and full of duplicity. We know them to be honorable men, and so we refused to print the charges made by a gentleman from Travelers Repose. We are glad to place before our readers a letter from Miss Rella F. Clark, the teacher, by which may be seen that instead of great discontent on the part of the patrons, they are the best supporters of the free school of any in the State, making an average of nearly one hundred per cent. We learn that this has always been the case, to a greater or less extent, with this school.

To the Editor of THE TIMES:

After reading your comments on the letter from Travelers Repcse, in a late issue of The Times, I would like to state that neither the patrons nor the teacher of the Arbogast School had anything to do with writing that letter.

It is true that our school-house is small and not very comfortable, but it is well ventilated without opening the door. We have an abundant supply of fresh air from all parts of the building, and we have an interesting school of fifteen pupils, well supplied with new books. The school will be graded this year, and it will then rank among the interesting schools of Green Bank District. The patrons have the promise of a school-house, and the Board of Education will fulfill this promise at no distant day.

There are nineteen children in the district,—four not old enough to go. The per cent. of attendance for this month will reach 95.

The school-house is situated in a romantic spot, with a pretty view of the East Branch of Greebrier River. The picturesque valley is owned by the patrons of the school. Adjoining this valley is the large tract of land owned by the Rochester Company,—40,000 acres in all, —and most of it has timber of the best quality on it.

We are only twenty-two miles from the railroad, A branch of the West Virginia Central is slowly coming down the river, and it is thought that this part of the county will have a railroad first.

R. F. CLARK.

FROST.

News is scarce, the sick improving, and the weather is very cold at this writing.

Brison Wade was in this vicinity over night, when on his way to Highland, last week.

Mr Sam Sheets, Deputy Sheriff, of Dunmore, passed thro town last week.

Those wanting thermometers should have bought them last week, as they were probably lower than they will be soon again.

J. C. Harper's little girl, who has been very ill with pneumonia, is better at this time.

W. B. Sharp is reading law at his home this winter. He expects to take a law course soon.

Rev Clutterbuck preached a very interesting sermon at Mt. Zion, last Sunday.

Mr W. Oliver was in town last week on business.

We expect a joint discussion between the Frost and Cove Hill literary societies, next week. Come! don't be mistaken, we have some very oratorical men in this part.

W. A. Bussard mad a flying trip to Virginia on business, last week.

Subscribe for the Times by so doing you can bo well posted on local, state and national affairs. There is no excuse for us to be ignorant on any of these subjects, but pay $1 for the Times and be a thoroughly posted man for a year.

BUCKEYE.

S. J. Payne, of Academy, was in this part buying cattle to ship.

Roy Crummett, of Highland was in this vicinity, a few days ago.

W. McClintic was at home from camp for a few days.

A. S. Overholt closed his school with an enjoyable entertainment. W. A. Shafer made an interesting address.

Mr Walter Mann, of Edray, was in this part a few days ago on business.

Jim Patterson, of Marlinton, was in this part on business, we suppose.

W. A. Hefner went to the camp with an ox; he will be useful if the sliding is good.

Willis McKeever was visiting on Dry Creek on Sunday.

And the next thing will be something else.

ANONYMOUS.

Valuable Land for Rent

A valuable grazing farm of more than 300 acres for rent,—well watered and under good fence. Will rent or take in cattle by the month.

For further information call on or address

ALLIE B. McLAUGHLIN,
f5tf Edray, W. Va.

Pay your subscription.

DRY BRANCH of ELK.

News scarce, a little snow on the ground, and pretty cold.

J. T. Friel, who had a cancer cut off his face, is on the mend.

Capt J. W. Marshall is very poorly. We feel sorry to hear of any of our old Confederate veterans lying sick, and hope he will be up in a few days.

Dr Cameron is sick at this time.

Jacob Taylor and Musto McLaughlin, from Dunmore, passed thro our neighborhood the 21st ultimo, on their way to Cowen, hunting work.

Martin Crummett is still building fence for H. B. Marshall, of Mingo. Martin is a hustler,—he don't care for rain or snow.

David Lindsay, who got his diploma from W. A. Swecker as a champion blacksmith, is working himself nearly to death. Hold up, Davy, do n't work so hard!

Our esteemed friend, Arthur Lawson, got hurt pretty badly the other day while driving Old Bob in the cart. Bob became unruly and threw Lawson out, and his leg catching between the spokes, bent his leg very near double; but it being good material, has sprung back and got near straight again. XXT.

LOBELIA.

Warm and moderate at this writing. Has been a little cool for a few days—4 degrees below at this place.

Some sickness in this section.

Mr Willis Hill, of Lewis County, will build on the old farm one mile from Lobelia at once.

Some of the boys came in from camp on Thursday with their ears stiff as bench-legs.

Rev C. M. Anderson will locate at Lobelia in the spring. Failure of health the cause.

W. B. Hill found two fine red-foxes one morning of late.

Mr Wilfong and wife, of Greenbrier, were the guests of W. B. Hill on the 31st of January.

Mr C. L. Vaughn moved to the head of Bruffey's Creek last week.

Some of us would like to be at the Capitol when they make laws in regard to the killing of deer. I think the sooner they are all killed the better; it is too late to make provision for their safety now. There are only about 1,000 in West Virginia, and it has been some time since they were all seen.

Messrs John Eagle and Lovie Vaugh have secured work on the new railroad at Ronceverte.

Some of the Hill boys must find something very attractive. They do n't get home till late hours. Boys, be careful, or Nathan's panther will get you!

Mr H. L. Casebolt, one of the oldest citizeus of the county, is doing his own feeding, about 40 head of stock.

Mrs P. M. Townsend is suffering very much with ihe grip.

A fine deer entered the residence of one of our citizens, and it happened to find him at home feeding his face. ('spec it staid all night.)

More coming. OBSERVER.

LAUREL CREEK.

News too scarce last week and times too dull for anything from our neighborhood.

We have seen a good many bob-sleds going in towards the sawmill at Nathan's, and it makes the Creek pretty lively.

Andy Campbell and Billy Hevener are out this week hauling lumber to the top of the mountain for Galford and and McClintic. Andy hauled at one load with four horses 1760 feet to Buckeye.

H. Nathan and W. A. Shearer are also using their bob-sleds for the same purpose.

Nathan must have plenty of nursing-bottles: we saw him one day last week hauling a calf home in a sled because it was to young to make the trip,—but I think it is sound.

I was down at Nathan's Tuesday morning to see him on business, and found that he had butchered his beef; and am willing to swear to the hide by the burrs in the tail, and identify by the teeth in the lower jaw.

Some low-life, dirty tramp came along the other day, and was mean enough to shoot the saw at the mill of Mr Hamp Galford.

A panther was killed near Mr Wesley Barlow's, at the place called Devil's Den.

We are sorry to learn that H. Nathan lost one of his best milk-cows last Friday.

Mr John Galford has gone to Capt Apperson's camp to work.

Plenty of snow and cold weather.

Little Mallett Nathan, youngest child of Mr and Mrs Nathan, is very sick at this writing.

Sam Baxter and W. H. Shearer were out last week trading horses with H, Nathan,

Notice to Contractors.

SEALED BIDS will be received by the undersigned at his office in the town of Marlinton, W. Va., until 12 o'clock m., March 2, 1897. for putting up and keeping in tollable order 9 miles of the Huntersville and Warm Springs Turnpike road, commencing at the residence of Mrs Carter and extending to the State line on top of Alleghany Mountain, for the period of 6 years.

All bids to be accompanied with a bond in the penalty of $500.00, conditioned for the faithful keeping up of said road, and the return of said road, at the end of 5 years, to this Court in good tollable order.

The Court reserves the right to reject any or all bids.

S. L. BROWN, Clerk County Court

WE PAY POSTAGE.

Free of all charges, we will mail to anyone our advance illustrated catalog for 1897 (just issued.) It contains 554 illustrations of Furniture, Carpets, Lace Curtains, Bedding, Stoves, lamps, Refrigerators, Baby Carriages, etc. You save the middleman's profits by trading with the manufacturer, as you are paying local dealers double our prices. Drop a postal now for our money-saver.

Julius Hines & Son,
Baltimore, Md.

Notice.

Your accounts are footed up, ready for settlement. Please call on me at my place of business and pay what you owe. I cannot carry your accounts from year to year. Pay as you go and keep even.

Very respectfully,
Jan. 8, 1897. S. B. MOORE.

Order of Publication.

STATE OF WEST VIVGINIA, } ss.
POCAHONTAS COUNTY; }

At rules held in the clerk's office of the Circuit Court of Pocahontas County, on Monday, the 1st day of February, 1897.

Wm. M. McAllister ...... Plaintiff
vs.
Mary Florence Adams, Thomas Adams, her husband, and C. R. McDannald, Executor of Mary C. Bias, deceased, ... Defendants.

The object of this suit is to obtain a decree against the defendant, Mary Florence Adams, for the sum of $626.16, with interest from the 1st day of January, 1885, on $497.26 part thereof, and the cost of this proceeding; to require C. R. McDannald, Executor of Mary C. Bias deceased, to sell the remainder of the lands devised to him for that purpose and apply the interest of said Mary Florence Adams to the discharge pro tanto of said debt, and to attach said proceeds and said interests in his hands; and to attach the undivided interest of said Mary Florence Adams as an heir of Margaret Gatewood, deceased, in the lands in Pocahontas County, whereof the said Margaret Gatewood died seized and possessed, to wit: The undivided one-half interest in 1,000 acres, lying on Big Spring Run, in Pocahontas County, and to have a sale made of said undivided interest, and the proceeds applied to the discharge of said debt.

This day came the plaintiff, by his attorneys; and on their motion, and it appearing by affidavit filed, that the said defendants, Mary Florence Adams, Thomas Adams, her husband, and C. R. McDannald, Executor of Mary C. Bias, deceased, are non-residents of the State of West Virginia, it is ordered that they do appear here within one month after the first publication of this order, and do what is necessary to protect their interests in this suit.

Teste:
J. H. PATTERSON, Clerk.
Wm. M. & J. T. McAllister, p. q.

ORDER OF PUBLICATION.

STATE OF WEST VIRGINIA, } ss.
POCAHONNAS COUNTY, }

At Rules held in the clerk's office of the Circuit Court of Pocahontas County, on Monday, February 1st, 1897.

William M. McAllister, ... Plaintiff.
vs.
Levi Gay, late Sheriff of Pocahontas County, and as such administer of J. W. W. Bias, deceased; Kate E. Cowan (nee Bias), wife of —— Cowan; Mary Florence Adams (nee Bias). wife of Thomas Adams; Margaret S. Long (nee Bias), wife of — Long; and Warwick G. Bias, heirs at law of said J. W. W. Bias and said Thomas Adams, — Long, and — Cowan, C. R. McDannald, Executor of Mary C. Bias and Eliza J. Warwick, and J. W. Warwick, her husband .... Defendants

The object of this suit is to have a decree against the Administrator, J. W. W. Bias, in favor of plaintiff for $372.17 with legal interest thereon from the 1st day of January, 1885, till paid, due by bond, less $26.28 paid December 15, 1896, and to have sale of undivided interest in the residue of a tract of 1,000 acres devised by M. C. Bias to be sold, and the interest of said J. W. W. Bias in another tract of 57½ acres and a tract of 700 acres devised of said M. C. Bias, and, if necessary, a sale of the interest of said J. W. W. Bias' estate in the one half interest in the residue of said tract of land of 1,000 acres, whereof Margaret Gatewood died seized and possessed.

This day came the plaintiff by his attorneys, and on their motion, and it appearing by affidavit filed that the said defendants, Kate E. Cowan and —— Cowan, her husband; Mary Florence Adams and Thomas Adams, her husband; Margaret S. Long and —— Long, her husband; Warwick G. Bias, C. R. McDannald, Executor of Mary C. Bias; Eliza J. Warwick and J. W. Warwick, her husband, are non residents of the State of West Virginia, it is ordered that they do appear here within one month after the date of the first publication of this order, and do what is necessary to protect their interest in this suit.

Teste:
J. H. PATTERSON, Clerk.
Wm. M. & J. T. McAllister p. q.

FURNITURE FACTORY

AND

Furniture Stcre.

Fine Furniture Made to Order.

STOCK ALWAYS ON HAND.

I am occupying the Temporary Court-house and am prepared to make to order all kinds of Furniture at lower prices than can be obtained elsewhere. Don't be cheated in Furniture but buy from a reliable cabinet maker who works up the native woods.

I can order you furniture from the city at better terms than you can to save your life. Whenever you need anything in my line you will save money by giving me a call.

W. J. Killingswcrth.

ORDER OF PUBLICATION.

STATE OF WEST VIRGINIA, } ss.
POCAHONTAS COUNTY, }

At rules held in the clerk's office of the Circuit Court of Pocahontas County, on Monday, February 1st, 1897.

Clifton Forge Grocery Company, a corporation under the laws of Virginia .... Plaintiff,
vs.
C. C. Arbogast, W. B. Ellis & Ellis partners trading as W. B. Ellis & Co., A. Elhart, C. G. Joyner and M. H. Witz, partners trading as Elhart, Joyner, & Co.; E. M. Brown, George Blome and George J. Blome, partners trading as George Blome & Son; S. R. Sutton, H. S. Rucker, Charles P. Jones, J. H. Shears, J. W. Lukins, P. D. Arbogast, C. O. Tracy, Emma A. Tracy, J. Wesley Hevener, Old Dominion Building and Loan Association; and J. Taylor Ellyson and W. A. Bratton, Trustees .... Defendants

The object of this suit is to subject the land of the defendant C. C. Arbogast, lying near Green Bank, in Pocahontas County, W. Va., being 181 acres, more or less, to the payment of the liens thereon, and for general relief. This day came the plaintiff by its attorney, and on his motion, and it appearing by affidavit filed that the defendants, the Old Dominion Building and Loan Association, J. Taylor Ellyson, Trustee, and C. P. Jones, are nonresidents of the State of West Virginia, it is ordered that they do appear here within one month after the date of the first publication of this order and do what is necessary to protect their interest in this suit.

Teste:
J. H. PATTERSON, Clerk.
H. S. Rucker, p. q. f5

Lost! Lost! Lost!

Money Lost

by not trading with us. We mean business, as you will find if you give us a trial.

'The proof of the pudding is in the eating.'

Buy one bill of us for your own special benefit.

THE MONEY WE DO NOT SPEND PAYING TRAVELLING MENS' BILLS IS SHARED WITH OUR CUSTOMERS. WE SEEK NO TRADE THAT IS NOT OURS BY VIRTUE OF LOW PRICES AND HONEST GOODS. OUR REPUTATION AS Spot Cash Buyers bring us bargains that credit never saw. We give bargains; the prices tell the people, and the people tell the prices.

We will sell wire-nails, from 4 to 20 penny @ $3.50 per keg.

Best Granulated Sugar @ 6½.

Fancy Green Coffee @ 18c.

Corn Starch 5c a box.

Elegant good Tobacco 25c to 35c per pound.

We will buy beef-hides.

We will buy beeswax and fur throughout the winter. Friends, do n't forget to give us your trade.

Yours respectfully,
L. D. Sharp,
LINWOOD, W. VA.

RECEIVERS'

RENTAL OF LANDS.

Pursuant to a decree of the Circuit Court of Pocahontas County, made on the day of October, 1896, in the chancery cause of Levi Gay, et als., vs. J B. Lockridge, et als., the undersigned special receivers will on the 6th day of Feb., 1897,

at the front door of the court house of said county, proceed to rent by way of public auction to the highest bidder for the term of one year, the lands in the bill and proceedings mentioned belonging to the defendant, J. B. Lockridge, consisting of the farm upon which the said Lockridge now resides, situated at Driscol, in said county. Said farm is in good state of cultivation and has thereon all necessary buildings in good repair.

Terms.—Cash in hand sufficient to pay costs of rental, and for the residue the renter executing bonds with good personal security, payable on the 21st day of December, 1897.

W. A. BRATTON,
L. M. McCLINTIC,
Receivers.

By order of said decree, the bond already given in this case is held sufficient for the above rental.

J. H. PATTERSON, Clerk.

Order of Publication.

State of West Virginia, County of Pocahontas, to wit:

At rules held in the Clerk's office of the Circuit Court for said county, on Monday, Janunry 4th, 1897.

Quintilla M. Burrows, Plaintiff
vs.
A. G. Burrows, Defendant.

The object of this suit is to procure a divorce by the plaintiff from the bonds of matrimony with the defendant; and it appearing from affidavit filed, that the defendant, A. G. Burrows, is a non-resident of the State of West Virginia, it is ordered that he do appear here within one month after the first publication of this order, and do what is necessary to protect his interest in this suit.

Witness: J. H. Patterson, Clerk of said Court, this 5th day of January, 1897.

J. H. PATTERSON, Clerk.

NOTICE TO TAKE DEPOSITIONS.

To A. G. Burrows, take notice, that on the 20th day of February, A. D., 1897, between the hours of six o'clock, a. m., and six o'clock p. m., at the residence of Quintilla M. Burrows, near Marlinton, in Pocahontas County, West Virginia, I will take the deposition of myself, and others, to be read as evidence in my behalf, in a certain suit in chancery now pending in the Circuit Court of the County of Pocahontas, and State of West Virginia, in which I am plaintiff and you are defendant.

If from any cause the taking of said deposition shall not be commenced or completed on the day aforesaid, the same shall be continued from day to day, or from time to time, at the same place and between the same hours, until the same shall be completed.

QUINTILLA M. BURROWS,
By Counsel.
H. S. Rucker, solicitor.

Look! This Way!

We call your special attention to your notes and accounts you are due us. We have waited on you a long time to pay us what you owe, but you have not done so. You will please call on S. B. Moore, Edray, W. Va., and pay every cent you owe. We cannot wait always on you for our money, and if our accounts and notes are not paid soon we will be compelled to place them in the hands of an officer for collection.

Very respectfully,
MOORE & HANNAH.
Per S. B. Moore. Jan. 8, 1897.

WANTED—AN IDEA Who can think of some simple thing to patent? Protect your ideas; they may bring you wealth. Write JOHN WEDDERBURN & CO., Patent Attorneys, Washington, D. C., for their $1,800 prize offer.

The Pocahontas Times.

ANDREW PRICE, - - - EDITOR.

MARLINTON, FRIDAY, JULY 1, 1898

Entered at the post-office at Marlinton, W. Va., as second class matter.

The Goshorn damage suit resulted in a verdict of $4000 for the plaintiff.

The Democratic conventions met at Hinton Tuesday and Wednesday of this week.

W. S. Edwards was nominated for Congress by the Republican convention at Charleston, by acclamation.

Friday morning about a thousand Americans attacked about two thousand Spanish in the thickets five miles from Santiago. The victory was gained at great cost: thirteen killed and fifty wounded. Captain Capron, of the Rough Riders, and Hamilton Fish are among the slain. The Americans hold the position at the threshold of Santiago and are preparing for a final assault. This is the most serious and holtly contested land engagements that has yet occurred and indicates fierce and bloody work ere the place is taken.

The war tax goes into effect July 1. Internal revenue stamps must be affixed to bank checks, telegraph messages, deeds mortgages, conveyances, notes, and steamship tickets. Express companies will probably require stamps to be affixed to parcels to meet the tax imposed on them, and telephone messages costing over 15 cents will be taxed. A two-cent tax is required on every $100 worth of stock sold. Tea has a duty imposed of 10 cents a pound. It will be very troublesome besides expensive for the taxpayer to keep and affix the various stamps.

YEAGER VS. BUZZARD.

The above is the style of the case which has been pending in the Circuit Court of this county, the object being to settle the question of J. C. Arbogast, the late sheriff's, indebtedness to the district school funds. At the time he resigned two years ago a large number of school drafts were outstanding, one teacher alone having $300 in drafts. These have never been paid. When they sought to collect them by the means provided by statute they were met with an injunction secured by B. M. Yeager, one of the sureties on the school-bond, granted on the grounds that a multiplicity of suits was to be feared. While this suit was pending the plaintiff as a surety of the long term sought to divide the liability for the school debt with the sureties of the short term of '91 and '92. This occasioned a big fight, which has just been decided by Judge McWhorter, holding both sets liable in part.

When a settlement was made with the various Boards of Education, July 1, 1893, the end of the short term, it was shown that Arbogast was indebted to the Boards in the sum of $4706.64. At the end of the next term, July 1, 1896, he was indebted in the same way in the sum of $5514.40. The court held that the old set of sureties should be held chargeable with a part of the indebtedness, and as a basis to fix their proportionate share of the burden, the smallest balance due a district in any settlement of the years '92, '93, '94, and '95 was to be charged to the old set of sureties. This was reported to the court was ascertained to be $2866.96. The sureties of the first term were to be further exonerated by a sum equal to the amount of the outstanding school-drafts on the 1st day of July, 1893, and afterwards paid, which was $1322.65. This would leave the amount decreed against them $1544.31, subject to their proportionate part of the funds in the hands of J. C. Arbogast's receiver, Levi Gay, which will reduce the amount by several hundred dollars. The indebtedness due the Boards of Education July 1, 1896, is $5514.40, and this includes the depositum of the Boards and the outstanding school drafts which are all filed in this case.

The case was referred to a commissioner to calculate the exact amounts due from each surety, and action of the decree was suspended for sixty days to allow the sureties of '91 and '92 a chance to apply for an appeal, but it is not likely that the application will be made.

MARLINTON, POCAHONTAS, W. VA.

Merchants, malaria, mumps, muskrats,
Artesian wells and aristocrats,
Rocky roads, razor backs, and rugs,
Lizards, lanes, and lightning-bugs,
Ice-cream, iced-tea, and iced-soups,
Nosegays, nectie nincompoops,
Teas, toads, twice told tales,
Onions that tone our salt sea gales;
Nettles, nabobs, nine-pins, nails.

Peanut philosophers, picnics, and pies,
Orange peel, onions, and "daisies" "oxeyes."
Cabbage, canned things, croquet, and courts,
Air, ague and its antidotes,
Happy homes, health in each household,
Organs and "old songs that never get old,"! (?)
Near neighbors, and notions, and notaries,
Travelers from whom the hotel keeper draw tears,
Arguments, ailments, artists, and aches,
Strawberry short cakes, sugar-trees, speckled snakes.

Wheels and whirls and "whales from whence," the Visitor with vim his vitality vents
A-wondering why "folks in the woods pay rents."

S. A. P.

PERSONAL PROPERTY OF POCAHONTAS COUNTY, 1898.

Total Assessment,	$357,663.
Green Bank....	84,702.
Edray..........	111,367.
Huntersville....	51,980.
Levels.........	109,614.

In 1897 the total assessment $337,232.

The above statement was furnished by J. H. Buzzard, the popular Assessor.

Judge Quarles, of Staunton, was nominated for Congress by the Covington Democratic convention. He has been a Readjuster, Republican, and Democrat, and makes a first rate war candidate.

Dr Kilpatrick, of Fayette, will in all probability be nominated by the Republicans of this district for Senator. His opponent Colonel Andrew is handicapped by being an amateur newspaper man.

It was a common remark of a venerable Pocahontas citizen that when the moon changed in the neck, or sign of the Steer, there would be frost, even were it in dog days. The recent coolness reminded us of the dictum, and it is reported that frost was seen. We are now reading news of the war under the June moon, and will do so until well on into July, and we will be surprised if we do not hear of surprising things in the meanwhile. We sincerely hope our armies may not catch it in the neck. It would seem a propitious time for the steer with his stars to avenge his fallen peers on so many bloody arenas under Spanish auspices for the past centuries.

A few days since Admiral Sampson permitted the Vesuvius, the dynamite cruiser, to take part in the pending bombardment of Santiago's approaches. Each of the three big popguns sent out a shell, each containing 200 pounds of nitro gelatine, which is 1½ times as powerful as nitro glycerine, the commonly used dynamite. These shells are projected by pneumatic tubes. There is no noise, no flash, no smoke. The shots were aimed at a fort in the horbor of Santiago de Cuba. It is reported that when the shells exploded the land was as if smitten by an earthquake. Tons of rock and earth thrown high in the air, and the American ships far away in the water trembled with the shock. The possibilities of the new explosive far transcend anything yet discovered, and thoughtful minds may well fail in the effort to forecast the coming horrors of warlike operations.

Wonderful Chicken.

One of the wonders of the world happened at Frank Thomson's recently. It was a chicken that hatched out but died in the hatching. It had four legs about ¾ of an inch apart, and was a full developed fowl. Two of the feet were turned direct from the two natural ones, as tho it would walk backward as well as forward. If this fowl had lived it might have been a fortune to Frank, but all such miracles as this die. This is a true bill,--there is no joke about it, as I got it for the truth.

Yours for truth—in this case.

J. D. RORKE.

Notice.

The undersigned hereby gratefully acknowledges the sympathy shown and the assistance rendered by friends and neighbors in the sad bereavement that has come upon him and his children.

NEWTON DUFFIELD.

Strayed Sheep.

The undersigned has fifteen sheep missing from his flock near Huntersville; eight of them lambs. Any information as to their where abouts would be very thankfully received.

OTIS WARWICK.

No-To-Bac for Fifty Cents.

Guaranteed tobacco habit cure, makes weak men strong, blood pure. 50c, $1. All druggists.

CIRCUIT COURT.

Chancery.

Beery v Poage, dropped from docket.

McNeil v Simmons, referred to commissioner.

Charley Friel v Martha Friel, divorce granted.

G. P. Kerr v P. B. Rader, referred to a commr.

A. C, Wooddell v F. H. Chapman, decree of sale.

Levi Gay v D. W. Sharp, sale confirmed at $300.

Coulehan v O'Connel, re-referred to Commissioner.

J. W. Marshall v Andrew Workman, referred to commr.

W. B. Hill v John T. McGraw, dropped from docket.

Johnson & Gwin v J. T. Hogsett referred to commissioner.

Clutter v Clutter, final decree settling admr accounts.

Phebe R. Phillips v William A Phillips, decree of divorce.

Levi Gay v J. B. Lockridge, sale of land confirmed at $3100.

Peter Beverage's administrator v D. W. Sharp, decree of sale.

G. F. Crummett v John P Varner, referred to commissioner.

Mary C. Bias' exor. v Mary C. Bias' distributees, decree of sale.

Jonathan Cochran v Roxy A. Cochran, dismissed at costs of pl'ff.

J. R. Moore v James E. Johnson, rule against purchaser of lands. Joseph T. Moore v J. W. Marshall, rule awarded against purchaser.

Hugh P. McGlaughlin's ad'mr. v heirs. H. S. Rucker appointed to make deed.

William Doyle's admr, v Elizabeth Doyle's admr. Levi Gay appointed receiver

Preston M. Harper v F. W. Harper, consent decree, the plaintiff recovering $750.

B. M. Yeager reports five tracts of land as liable to be sold for nonpayment of taxes.

Rider's Admr v Rider's heirs, decree appointing L. M. McClintic commissioner to make deed.

Lillie B. Lockridge v W. S. Harper, decree in favor of plaintiff for $410.65 in lieu of dower.

J. W. McNeil's administrator v heirs. N. C. McNeil receiver of fund, which amounts to 209.09.

McLaughlin v McGraw, the mandate and judgment of the Supreme Court ordered to be recorded.

Amos Barlow v L. D. Barlow's adm'r. Consent decree, the plaintiff recovering the sum of $3000.

W. A. Bratton appointed trustee in deed of trust executed by J. T. Hogsett, in stead of Lanty Lockridge.

B. M. Yeager v J. H. Buzzard, decree holding the securities of J. C. Arbogast for the short and long term, each bound in part for the indebtedness of said sheriff to the dictrict school funds.

Law Orders.

State v Floyd Dilley, nolle.

State v J W. Yeager, nolle.

State v Kemp Johnson, nolle.

State v Hamrick, jury, not guilty.

State v Andy Sheets, jury, guilty

State v Jack Noonan, confessed, $5.00.

State v C. M. Acord, confessed, $1.00.

State v. W. Reckman, confessed, $1.00.

State v And Shelton, confessed, $1.00.

State v Hammond Mann, confessed, $1.00.

State v Melvin Sharp, no. 1 nolle no. 2, confessed, $25.

State v Lee Hinkle, no. 1 confessed, $25: no. 2, nolle.

L C. McMillion v F. W. Harper, judgment for $893.75.

State v Escro Alderman, indictment 1, nolle; no. 2 confessed, $25

State v D. W. Sharp, confessed two cases, $10 each; nolle in two cases.

County Court v Joseph B. and Sarah E. McClure, ordered that $20 be paid defendants for right of way.

Drs Cunningham and Price and W. H. Grose, commissioners, reported on county jail. The county court is directed to supply jail with water.

Patterson and Williams, trustees vs H. A. Rankin. "We the jury find for the plaintiff, Mattie E Fisher, and assess the damages at $58.66."

Rules against witnesses David Gladwell, Joseph B. Sutton, Upton Sharp, Q. W. Poage, George Hefner, Ernest Hefner, for failure to attend grand jury, were abated for reasonable excuse.

NEW YORK LETTER.

The eastern ball clubs are off on western trips and are meeting with moderate luck. New York is seventh on list and Brooklyn ninth. Dollars to doughnuts the Brooklyns beat the New Yorks.

⁂

I suppose you know there is a war going on—a sort of peaceful affair. Troops have been landed at Santiago de Cuba and adjacent points. There will be some hot fighting soon. As the cable is connected the latest news will be received throughout the country. Our hero Hobson and his gallant crew are still prisoners. Blanco & Co. of Spain will not exchange them. Admiral Sampson has warned Cervera that if harm befalls them, he (Cervera) will be held personally responsible.

⁂

A little 3-year-old girl was crushed under the wheels of a trolley-car in Brooklyn on June 22. In her little chubby hand she clutched a penny. The baby attempted to cross the street to buy a stick of candy. The car was a block away from her and there was plenty of time to cross, thought this little girl. But baby traveled slowly—the car came fast, making up lost time, and the careless motorman "did not see" the little child. Of course the fender (cow-catcher) was down, but these fenders are too high from the street to push a small body to one side. When the car was raised and the baby taken out there was still life left, but, like the burning of a candle, it soon went out and the soul of this little one went to heaven. The mother is very low from the terrible shock, and it is thought may kill her.

⁂

These trolley cars are terribly dangerous affairs. Brooklyn is full of them. One time Brooklyn was called "The City of Churches." Now Brooklyn goes by the name of "Trolley Dodgers." You can form an idea of the number of trolley cars running in Brooklyn every day, when 3200 of them cross the Bridge. Hundreds of them go to other points. On Sundays extra cars are seen to accommodate the heavy traffic to Manhattan Beach, Coney Island, Bergen Beach, [illegible] etc., for you know that Brooklyn is the watering place of the country.

⁂

This time of year our citizens shut up their city homes and go to the country. Why? I couldn't tell. Only its the fashion you know. I send my family away, too. But it is foolish to do so. The air is cool and refreshing—right off of the ocean. Thousands of out-of-town people flock to New York to spend the summer. The hotel registers are full of people from the South. Why do the people come here? Its the fashion, you know. My good friends, if one does not keep in the fashion these days he might as well go to the nearest duck pond and jump in and say "Here goes nobody."

⁂

In olden times when my grandmother was alive a fellow could go to a city church seedily dressed, and be shown to the front pew. Now if a poor devil should come to one of these high toned churches. (on 5th Avenue, for instance, with his clothes tattered and torn, unshaven, but as good as the millionaire pew-holder, would he be allowed to sit down and listen to the Word of God? NO! He would be to go to such a street, near such a corner, and there he would find the mission church and be welcomed. That's fashion, and the regular custom these days. I have a pew for myself and family and if ever I come across a poor fellow (a bum they call one when down) that wants to go to church why in he pops in my pew. If there is a kick from deacons in charge, why out I pop. I would not be missed much I know, but my collection money and pew rent would be. Last Sunday was the first time I attended divine service for quite a while. Instead of being received with smiles and 'how-do-you-do's,' the ushers stood like a lot of stuffed mummys or trained coachmen and not a word escaped them. What a cold, clammy feeling comes over one when they come across such stiff people. (It is these well-dressed, moneyed church people that drive the ordinary mortals from church.) Well the minister preached a fine sermon—a financial sermon. He exhorted. Oh, how he talked for the dollars. His whole talk was: "Will you give." Good gracious, I do n't mind giving once and a while, but this thing of having it pumped into one every Sunday is really painful. And if one gives his all as the minister wants, who will pay your butcher and grocer. Enough said.

GEO. M. SANGSTER.

To Cure a Cold in One Day.

Take Laxative Bromo Quinine Tablets. All Druggists refund the money if it fails to Cure. 25c.

Beauty Is Blood Deep.

Clean blood means a clean skin. No beauty without it. Cascarets, Candy Cathartic clean your blood and keep it clean, by stirring up the lazy liver and driving all impurities from the body. Begin to-day to banish pimples, boils, blotches, blackheads, and that sickly bilious complexion by taking Cascarets,—beauty for ten cents. All druggists, satisfaction gueranteed, 10c, 25c, 50c.

NEW WINTER WHEAT & RYE.

FOR DELIVERY AT SEEDING TIME IN FALL OF 1898.

Grown and for Sale By

Ewd. C. Brown & Co., Rochester, N. Y.

Four varieties of wheat in lots of 5 60 pounds:

Cap Sheaf (white) | 100 Mark (red)
Winter King (white) | Multiplier (red)
Giant Siberian Rye.

FARMERS! Buy small amounts of several varieties, find out which are best adapted to your particular soil and climate, and then

Grow Your Own Seed.

You can grow your own seed in quantities cheaper than any one else can grow it for you.

W. M. DEAN has the agency for Pocahontas County, and will call upon you or may be addressed at LOBELIA, WEST VIRGINIA.

To Friends and Customers.

I thank you all for your liberality in patronizing me; but it 'pears like some of my customers have got offended at me but I cant tell what for, unless it is because I tried to accom- [illegible] made up my mind that the best way way is to treat every body alike and let no one have goods without paying for them when they leave. I will chop my goods down to

Rock Bottom Prices

and sell strictly for cash and produce. I pay best market prices for produce and sell goods the cheapest. I will give you a list of Prices: Wool 22c Eggs 8c, Butter 15c, chickens 6½ and 8c, beeswax 25c, Ginseng 85 to $1.00, and all other good produce at the same rate. Good Calico 4c to 7c, Gingham 5 to 8, Coffee 10 to 15, sugar 6 and 7½c—all other goods likewise. Now come and bring you want goods for, and don't ask or hint for credit. But come and pay what you owe and see if "Cash and Produce" rules are not the best. I will not be undersold by any.

All Trade or Cash

Yours for business,

Steward Boggs.
Huntersville, W. Va.

W. H. Hartley,

Plasterer and Painter.

I wish to inform the citizens of the county that I am prepared at any time to do any work in my line.

One smooth coat plastering for papering or painting...... 7c yd
Two coats and a skim of lime 9c yd
Hard finish.... .... 10c yd

[Including boarding and tending and horse found.]

CALSOMINING A SPECIALTY.

Any letters addressed to me will be promptly answered. All work attended to in this and adjoining Counties.

W. H. HARTLEY,
Jacox, W. Va.

June 1 3m.

Notice. There will be a Grand PICNIC near Driscol in W. L. Harper's Sugar Grove, on the

4th of July, 1898

Platform Dancing, Merry-go-Round; and all kinds of Refreshments on the ground. Mr O. E. Gum, one of the best Photographers in the County, will take pictures in Smith & Whiting's office at Old Camp. Come one and all. Have your beauty struck and have a grand time. Good order expected.

HAMILTON & HARPER.
Proprietors.

Attention, FARMERS!

Harvest is almost on you, and do n't run any risk in thinking that you can pull through with your old Binder, Mower, and Rake; but see us at Court and let us fix it so you will have no risks to run,—by giving us an order for a new McCORMICK BINDER or MOWER and HOOSIER RAKE.—for the best is the cheapest. Do n't take our word for it, but read what a few of the many patrons say of McCormick.

WHAT THEY SAY.

The undersigned gentlemen are citizens of Pocahontas County, West Virginia, are users of McCormick's Mowers and Harvesters, and all join heartily in giving the following testimony:

That we have tried them up hill and down dale, and in all kinds of grass and grain, and find them the peer of all others. As light draft as is consistent with strength and durability. And that no one can make a mistake in trying a McCormick.

James K. Bright,
T. S. Sydenstricker,
R. W. Hill,
Abraham Hayes,
C. L. Clark,
H. S. Galford
George W. Callison,
J. A. McLaughlin,
S. J. Payne,
M. F Gum,
W. H. Callison.
A. R. Kennison,
J. G. Sharp,
Clark Kellison,
Owen Kellison,
A. J. Burr,
K. E. Hogsett.

J. W. BEARD & BRO.

NOTICE.

There will be a Grand PICNIC near Harmon Sharp's Sugar Grove on the 4th of JULY!

Platform Dancing, Swing, Ice-Cream, and All Refreshments on the Ground. Come one, come all and have a Jovial Time.

By order of the Committe,
HAMILTON & STALNAKER.

RUMORS OF WAR!

AMERICAN MADE

It is just reported that a great battle has taken place at Santiago de Cuba between the Sampson-Schley fleet and Cervera. I am anxiously awaiting news of the result. In the mean time here are a few hot shots. If strikes let me know promptly:

Mens' Pants.........50 cts.
Bulldog Pants......62½ cts.
Linen Crash Hats....25 cts.

HIGHEST MARKET PRICE FOR WOOL.

PAUL GOLDEN.

NOTICE!

There will be a grand picnic on

JULY 4, 1898,

near the Big Spring, where there was a happy day spent last September, which is the best grange picnic in the County. There will be Merry-Go-Round, Platform, and Dinner prepared for one and all.

Hopeing there will be good behavior,
COME ONE AND ALL.

C. W. SHOWALTER,
Proprietor.

The Pocahontas Times,

Hear, Land o' Cakes and brither Scots,
Frae Maidenkirk to Johnny Groats,
If there's a hole in a' your coats,
I rede ye tent it;
A chiel's amang you takin' notes,
An' faith he'll prent it.—BURNS

Local Events.

WANTED: To buy a pet bear. Apply to R. M. BEARD, Locust, W Va.

John Lange was removed from the County jail to the Spencer Asylum for the insane last Sunday.

The Childrens' Day services will be held at Edray church on the third Sunday in July beginning at 10 a. m.

Andrew Hannah, of Lower Elk, brought over some Indian relics and interesting fossils, which are here on exhibition.

From the number of celebrations annouced there has never been such an epidemic of patriotic sentiment in our mountains since 1776. This may be safely asserted.

A three-sided tennis tourney-ment is looked forward to at Mingo during July. Mr Rumbo and another player from Covington, and two players from Marlinton will go to Mingo.

Lost, in Marlinton on last Friday afternoon, somewhere in the vicinity of the court-house or the McLaughlin House, a lady's handkerchief. The finder will please return to this office and receive reward.

The county court granted the right to put telephone poles on the county roads from Marlinton to the Randolph line; to Academy; and to the top of Cheat by Huntersville, Frost, Dunmore, Green Bank and Traveler's Repose. The contractor has been putting in poles this week.

The Bank of Ronceverte will stamp all checks of its customers presented on or before the 15th day of July and charge the customer with the stamp. After that date unstamped checks will not be paid. Orders for documentary stamps of any kind, and to any amount, will be taken by the bank.

Sacramental services at Marlinton next Sunday, July 3. Preaching Saturday night, Sunday morning and Sunday night, by Rev Dr Sydenstricker. Sacramental services at Poage's Lane, the 5th Sunday of July. Preaching Friday and Saturday nights before, by Rev W. T. Price. The rite of infant baptism will be administered if desired.

Rev J. D. Martin, P. E., of Lewisburg district, M. E. S., sends circular for second round of quarterly meetings, from which we reproduce the following: Huntersville, Mt Vernon, July 3, 4; Green Bank McLaughlin, July 2, 3; Levelton Emanuel, July 16, 17. District Conference at Union July 26. Brushy Ridge Camp Meeting, August 18-25; Marvin Grove Camp Meeting August 25 to September 1.

Uncle Sam to the American people: "Go right ahead, gentlemen, push your business. This war is simply a bit of experience." The Golden Store has experienced more business this spring than ever before. I am still selling ladies' trimmed hats at the reduced price, and they are moving lively. Now I am making a reduction on gentlemen's dress shirts of all descriptions. My line is very handsome and the low prices, quality considered, will give a saving of 25 per cent. PAUL GOLDEN.

A gigging party saw two eels at the mouth of Knapps Creek last Friday night. They are very unusual in these waters, owing, no doubt, to the fact that our rivers flow to the southern seas. Just across in Virginia they are plentiful. It is authoritatively stated that eels only spawn in the ocean in temperate latitudes, and the number to be found in our rivers corresponds with the eels that are to be found in land locked waters. It may be that migratory aquatic birds carry some of the spawn from the sea.

About ten years ago the suckers of Greenbrier river died by the hunkreds from a large sore on their head or sides. It was suggested then that it was caused by the bass "horning" them. It was undoubtedly a disease. Several suckers have been seen lately with the same kind of sores, and it may be this season will see an epidemic among them again. The river has just begun to be well stocked up again with this fish. In speaking of it some one suggested that the wet weather recently was the cause of it.

The wild service-tree yields more bountifully this season than for many years past. The berries are as large as cherries and very sweet and luscious. Every one has been going to the woods of late to eat "sarvises." The parties carry an axe and cut down the trees in a very wasteful manner. There are those who maintain that this fruit is the best eating, raw, of any of our wild or domesticated fruits, but it does not bear cooking. It is cultivated in Southern Europe and produces fruit as large as pears.

PERSONAL MENTION.

W. A. Bratton went to the Hinton Conventions.

Capt E. A. Smith and son Jim are in Ronceverte.

W. J. Yeager, of Traveler's Repose, was in town this week.

Miss Cochran, of Harrison Co., is visiting relatives a Buckeye.

H. H. McClintic, of Beaver Dam, is building a palatial residence.

Ashby Slaven and Miss May Slaven, of Monterey, are visiting friends and relatives in Marlinton.

W. W. Tyree expects to take charge of the post office at this place at the beginning of this quarter.

The friends of E. D. McClintic, of Seattle, who went to Klondyke, have received two letters from him which report good progress.

C. Thomson, of Staunton, and O. A. Bird, of Highland County, are representing the Union Central Life Insurance in this county.

Col John T. McGraw and party are expected to visit the Greenbrier Valley soon, as they expected to leave Grafton the latter part of June.

The advertisement of a picnic on Knapp's Creek signed by Hannah & Harper was a mistake. It should have been Hamilton & Harper. Note correction.

Rev M. M. Everly, a well known minister of the M. P. Church, has recently gone to Denver City, Colorado, with his family in search of health, being threatened with lung trouble.

Captain R. D. Simms, of Ronceverte, is now at Tampa in charge of Company I. West Virginia Volunteers. He is a son of the executive officer of the Confederate iron-clad Merrimac in the contest with the Federal ironclad Monitor, revolutionizing incident in naval warfare. Captain Simms is now on duty in Tampa with Lieutenant Green, who is a son of the executive officer of the old Monitor. The young men are attached friends and are called "the naval twins." This is one of the queer coincidences of the pending war.—Gazette.

Court Incidents.

Aunt Betsy Clater was on hands bright and early to lay her case before the Judge before any of the lawyers could get at him, so she informed a friend.

* *

The Jonathan Cochran divorce case was dismissed at his costs. Clutter vs. Clutter and Gay versus Lockridge, two chancery cases of long standing, reached an end practically this court.

* *

The taxpayers were glad to see Charles Beverage, the recalcitrant witness who would not answer questions before the grand jury, turned loose. They were begrudging him the 50 cents a day that it took to keep him. The Judge gave him a talking to and made him tell who sold him the liquor. He said it was Barnes. It is too late to indict him in this court. The Judge then told him to go.

* *

Jim Sizemore confessed with bitter tears that he had taken the polecat skin from Pullin & Co's., but was inclined to throw the blame on a younger boy whom he accused of tempting him to take the treasure. The Judge considered the 19½ days that Jim said he had been in prison, and gave him five days more on Jim's solemnly promising to never take any thing which did not belong to him.

* *

Andy Sheets, of Back Alleghany, was tried for disturbing religious worship. He is a one-legged man and looks very pugnacious. The evidence unfolded a tale of great slaughter at the McGlaughlin Church one night during a revival in the fall of '96. Not only were the church people disturbed in their religious meditations but by fears of bodily harm. The jury found him guilty, and he left the place on his horse. A capias ad audiendum was awarded and will be sentenced when he can be got.

* *

The trial of Jim Ratliff for selling cider on court days resulted in a hung jury. A number of witnesses testified that they had got very drunk off his cider, while others swore that they had drunk considerable quantities of the same vintage and had not felt the least bit tight. We do not care to see the old man get into trouble, but wish he would take his unsightly old cider barrel from right square in front of our handsome court-house. On the day of his trial he was doing business at the old stand.

Dental Notice.

Dr O. J. Campbell will visit the following points on dates named:

Marlinton,..	21st June, eight days.
Edray........	2d July, four days.
Hillsboro....	8th July, eight days.
Huntersville..	16th July, six days.
Dunmore......	23d July, six days.
Frost........	30th July, four days.

For a "harp of a thousand strings" or any other musical instrument go to J. D. Pullin & Co.

PINE GROVE.

Miss Vallie Russell of Crickard, W. Va., has been visiting in this neighborhood for a few days.

About one dozen persons from this part of the county attended the Association at Lobelia, and report a very nice time except that it was very muddy and rainy.

We noticed Amos Gillispie, of Gillispie; M. D. Anderson, of Lobelia; D. P. Sullivan, of Jacox; Charles Eskridge, of Academy; Mrs S. J. Boggs, of Huntersville, here Thursday after their friends and relatives who have been attending the Normal.

The writer's attention has been called (by an old citizen) to the grave of one Henry Brock, the first person buried in the Duffield grave-yard, whose initials were cut on a mulberry headboard in 1801. Altho Mr Brock was buried 97 years ago, yet the headboard is but little decayed and the initials and date are plain.

In regard to John Gammon, mentioned in The Times lately, the writer failed to say that at one time he was at what is now Buckhannon but was then called Buckwheat. Mr Gammon was trying to buy a pound of butter, when some one asked him what he wanted with it. He told him that he wanted to swallow the dam place.

The County Normal closed June 16. This has been one of the most interesting schools ever taught in the county. One old gentleman who spent an evening in the school said: "The young man at the head of the Normal keeps up with the times. His teaching surpasses any thing I have ever seen." Mr Barlow has had calls to higher positions, yet he says he will remain in the school work of Pocahontas for one more year. His school will begin next year about the middle of March. Already a number of students have arranged to attend, and long before the opening of the school students will be turned away because there is no room. TIM.

VALLEY HEAD, W. VA.

The health of our village is good.

Walter & Feltner, the wool men, are in town today.

The railroad will be completed to Huttonsville inside of ninety days.

Mrs Bing and family are visiting her mother, Mrs Swecker of Monterville.

W. H. Brady, of Dry Branch, registered at the Valley Head House yesterday.

Mrs Loyd Conrad has been sick for a few days, but is much improved at present.

Labe Curtis has been hanging doors for Loyd Conrad. Laban understands his business and is never out of a job.

Dr E. A. Teets, of Buckhannon, is at the Valley Head House, filling and pulling teeth. He is a fine dentist.

Hurrah for Elkins and the Court House! It is rumored that the old town of Beverly and two members of the most honorable county court died last Saturday and were buried Monday morning when the injunction was served on them to hold up on the Court House till the people of the county decide whether it shall be built at Beverly or Elkins. Three men can't rule this county. Hurrah for Elkins and the Court House!

Quite a number of our boys have gone to Beverly to work on the railroad. It will not be long till the iron horse will pass Valley Head and on to Pocahontas. We feel somewhat sorry for Beverly; it is dying so hard, the railroad and court house leaving at the same time, but we feel sure that their loss is our gain. The people in this end of Randolph feel an interest in Beverly, and this fall when the records are moved to Elkins, Beverly will have the honor of seeing one hundred of us boys coming into town with our haver sacks on our backs to sow the streets down in timothy and clover. Hurrah for Elkins and the Court House! BAD BOY.

TOP OF ALLEGHANY.

The farmers are buckwheating.

Miss Lucy Hevener, of Gillespie, is visiting friends in this locality.

A gramophone was exhibited at the school house Monday night.

Jonas Colaw, of Crabbottom, was visiting his son Martin, Monday.

Worth Wilfong, who has been sick so long, is some worse.

William Collins lost two of his cows by eating poisonous weeds, recently.

J. E. Lunsford is building a big barn, and the next thing will be something else.

Mrs John Flenner, of Traveler's Repose, is visiting at W. L. Wilmouth's.

Captain Bumgardner and crew, of Staunton, returned home from the Greenbrier where they had been fishing.

Rev George Wine, of Rockingham, is conducting a series of meetings at the Top of Alleghany church.

We had a hail storm and frost here recently, but no damage was done. P. P.

J. D. Pullin & Co. recently received a full line of harps, banjos, fiddles and accordians which he offers for sale at reasonable prices.

HUNTERSVILLE.

A fine son was born to Mr and Mrs G. W. Ginger, last week.

R. R. Mason and daughter Maud from Dunmore were in town Monday.

H. M. Lockridge has about completed his road work from Huntersville to Rimel's.

Mrs Minerva Beard has improved in health, and Dr Beard has returned to Lewisburg.

Mrs George Callison, son and daughter, from Hillsboro, visited friends in Huntersville last week.

Mrs Agnes Loury, who was alarmingly ill some weeks since, has rallied from her prostration and is able to visit the neighbors.

Mr and Mrs J. W. Warwick returned from Warwickton last week and report Mrs Frazier as being still prostrated by illness.

Rev J. M. Anderson started for White Sulphur, Monday morning, where he expects to address the Epworth League Conference.

Sacramental services Saturday and Sunday were well attended. Rev Caldwell preached a series of highly interesting and edifying sermons.

Russel & Son, of Buckhannon, were at Huntersville Hotel Friday night, looking after wool. They pay 20 and 20½ cents a pound, cash.

Mrs Doyle ann Miss Lucy Kincaid were at Marlinton Saturday afternoon, and were three hours in passing from Marlinton to Huntersville, being delayed by the fallen timber.

ALFRED.

BUCKEYE.

George Jackson is still sick.

Ed Rutledge went down to River Side Sunday.

Jasper Auldridge was sailing on the Creek Sunday evening.

J. O. Beverage is a delegate to the Senatorial Convention.

Preaching next Sunday by Rev McKeever at the M. P. Church.

Andy Lightner has a job of hauling for the McClintic Mill.

G. S. McNeel, of Academy, was in this neighborhood on business last week.

Luther Kellison is buggy riding for a business nowadays.

Owen Kellison and his "better half" went to Stamping Creek recently.

A. W. McNeil is a candidate for matrimony, and I think he will get the nomination.

Mr and Mrs Bud Hogsett, of Mill Point, are visiting in this part this week.

Mr and Mrs T. M. Hill and Miss Mamie Silva are visiting here this week.

M. C. Overholt, of Frankford, was here a few days ago, looking after his interest.

Walter Clark and sister, Miss Rella were here this week on business.

George Simmons and Harper Adkison went to Ronceverte Sunday.

Rev A. L. McKeever preched a very able sermon Sunday morning. Singing in the evening by Little Johnnie Rorke.

Yours truly,
John Duly.

Fiduciary Notice.

The following fiduciary accounts are before me for settlement:

J. M. Kinnison, Administrator of Jane Ratliff, deceased.

J. H. PATTERSON,
Commissioner of Accountr.

NOTICE.

SILLING & SLAVEN,

TIN, SHEET-IRON
ROOFING,
GUTTER SPOUTING,
ROOF PAINTING,
FLUES, STOVE PIPE.
GALVANIZED FLUES,
SMOKE STACKS.
FRUIT DRYERS,
GALVANIZED TANKS,
AND CISTERNS.

Shop - Made Tin Ware Always on Hand.

LIGHTNING RODS.

Work Done on Short Notice.

Call or write to

SILLING & SLAVEN,
ACADEMY, W. VA.

Reward!

We will pay a reward of $25.00 for the arrest and conviction of the parties who stole three long chains from the Boom on Cochran's Creek the last week of May. 1898.

SMITH & WHITING,
June 6, 1898.

Educate Your Bowels With Cascarets.
Candy Cathartic, cure constipation forever. 10c, 25c. If C. C. C. fail, druggists refund money.

The Great War.

We have won success by our ability to demonstrate our bargain claims; we guarantee the smallest of our patrons the same courteous attention given the largest.

We are taking great pains in buying our

Spring and Summer Stock of Goods...

And all bargains will be shared with our customers.

We keep goods moving by keeping goods that move;—we test every value our prices do the rest. Its not a question of opinion, its a rock-ribbed fact that our prices can not be successfully cut under. Don't scatter your dollars unwisely; concentrate them here and save more of them.

It is shrewd and well directed effort that makes our bargains unusual. Our PRICES PUZZLE COMPETITORS AND DELIGHT PURCHASERS.

Thanking you for your past patronage, we remain.
Yours respectfully,

L D Sharp.
Linwood W Va

The Levels News.

Edited by Payne Bros.

Vol. 1 Academy, W. Va., July 1, 1898. No. 24

Market, June 29, 1898.

—Eggs 9c per dozen.
—Butter 10 to 12½ per pound.
—Lard 8c per lb.
—Corn 75c per bushel.
—Wheat 90 to $1 per bushel.
—Oats 40c per bushel.
—Chickens 5c to 10c lb.
—Bacon 10c to 12½c.
—Ginseng $2.50 a pound, dry.
—At PAYNE BROS.

—Curtain Poles at Payne Bros.

—G. L. Clark spent Sunday at home.

—Buy your harvest tools of Payne Bros.

—Fresh lemons, and oranges, at Payne Bros.

—Mrs Mattie Jackson is visiting friends on Anthony's Creek.

—Mr Mayo and family, of Kentucky, are spending a fortnight at P. S. Clark's.

—Messrs A. R. Russell & Son, wool merchants, spent some days in this neighborhood.

—Cradle and Fingers, Scythes, Snaths, Brush Hooks and Brush Scythes sold very cheap at Payne Bros.

—S. J. Payne takes charge of the mail between Academy and Huntersville July 1st. and all orders sent to Payne Bros. will be delivered along the route free of freight charges.

—Suits of furniture at Payne's.

—Any carriers and rope, Payne Bros.

—Linseed oil and paints very low at Payne Bros.

—High Arm Singer Sewing Machines at Payne Bros.

—Childrens' Day service was held at the Presbyterian church last Sunday morning.

Don't Tobacco Spit and Smoke Your Life Away.
To quit tobacco easily and forever, be magnetic, full of life, nerve and vigor, take No-To-Bac, the wonder-worker, that makes weak men strong. All druggists, 50c or $1. Cure guaranteed. Booklet and sample free. Address Sterling Remedy Co., Chicago or New York

SALT: $2 A SACK.
AT PAYNE BROS.

Best grades of Roller Flour at
....
G. L. HANNAH'S,
Yelk, W. Va.
BARLOW & MOORE'S,
Edray, W. Va.
J. H. CURRY'S,
Green Bank, W. Va.
R. L. NOTTINGHAM'S,
Dunmore, W. Va.

Blood Brains Money

A sick man can't make money That's because his brain wont work. A horse wont do work unless he is properly fed. Neither will a brain. If the brain is not kept in good condition with pure, rich blood, it wont produce much.

Men who fail, and men who don't, often have what they call "Nervous Prostration." Nine times in ten the nervous trouble is purely secondary. The real sickness is in their digestion and in their blood. If a man keeps his digestion in good order, and keeps his body full of pure, rich blood, he is never going to be very sick.

Johnston's Sarsaparilla is made for people who want to get well and stay well. Sarsaparilla is a simple, "grandmother" remedy, but it cures. It purifies and enriches the blood and sends it tingling to every part of the body. That is the way it cures all ailments of the brain and nerves—cures insomnia—cures dyspepsia, rheumatism, scrofula, and every other blood disease. It clears the complexion, plumps out the cheeks, and brings back the sparkle to lifeless eyes.

One Dollar is the price, and One thousand Dollars is the health-giving value of every Quart Bottle of Johnston's Sarsaparilla

WILLIAMS, DAVIS, BROOKS & CO., Detroit, Mich.

Try a bottle of Liverettes, the famous little liver pills. 25c.

For sale by—
URIAH BIRD, Marlinton, W. Va.; and A. BARLOW, Huntersville

NEW GOODS!

They are here and coming in. We hardly need say that early customers get pick and choice of stock.

We show the newest and choicest in Staples and Novelties in all the lines we carry.

WE WILL NOT BE UNDERSOLD.

Goods from eastern markets received every week.

J. B. McNeil the popular salesman whose services we have secured for the season, takes this opportunity to invite his frieds to call and see him when in town.

Make our place your headquarters when in town.

Yours to Please,

J. D. Pullin & Co.

Sampson Heard From!

WAR WILL SOON BE OVER,

And You can Invest in Buggies Spring-Wagons, and Carriages.

We have just gotton in a car load of fine Buggies and Carriages which we are selling very low. Call and see us.

We can save you money and give you better work.

VEHICLES MADE TO ORDER.

We also make a specialty of repairing and painting vehicles of all kinds.

When in Town call and see our work.

Yours truly,

Hudgins & Shackelford,
Ronceverte, W. Va.

Plow Repairs

We have at last succeeded in making arrangements to supply points for the RONCEVERTE PLOW. Full stock now on hand. Send in our orders early.

We are Factory Agents for IMPERIAL and SILVER STEEL Plows.

(The Best Hill-side Plow on the Market.)

Simms & Co.,
Opp. Passenger Depot, RONCEVERTE, W. Va.

The Pocahontas Times.

Andrew & Norman Price, Owners. "Montani Semper Liberi!" Andrew Price, Editor

VOL. 15, NO. 50 MARLINTON, WEST VIRGINIA, JULY 8, 1898. $1.00 PER YEAR

From FACTORY to CONSUMER.

$1.39 buys this (exact) Rattan Rocker, the largest size ever made; per dozen, $14.50. Our new 112-page catalogue containing Furniture, Draperies, Crockery, Baby Carriages, Refrigerators, Stoves, Lamps, Pictures, Mirrors, Bedding, etc., is yours for the asking. Special supplements just issued are also free. Write to-day. CARPET CATALOGUE in lithographed colors is also mailed free. Write for it. If you wish samples, send 8c. stamp. Matting samples also mailed for 8c. All Carpets sewed free this month and freight paid on $5 purchases and over.

$7.45 buys a made-to-your-measure All-Wool Cheviot Suit, expressage prepaid to your station. Write for free catalogue and samples. Address, (exactly as below),

JULIUS HINES & SON,
Dept. 909. BALTIMORE, MD.

LAW CARDS.

N. C. McNEIL,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

Will practice in the Courts of Pocahontas and adjoining counties and in the Court of Appeals of the State of West Virginia.

L. M. McCLINTIC,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

Will practice in the Courts of Pocahontas and adjoining counties and in the Supreme Court of Appeals.

H. S. RUCKER,
ATT'Y. AT LAW & NOTARY PUBLIC
HUNTERSVILLE, W. VA.

Will practice in the courts of Pocahontas county and in the Supreme Court of Appeals

J. W. ARBUCKLE,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
LEWISBURG, W. VA.

Will practice in the courts of Greenbrier and Pocahontas counties. Prompt attention given to claims for collection in Pocahontas county.

W. A. BRATTON,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

Prompt and careful attention given to all legal business.

ANDREW PRICE,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

Will be found at Times Office.

SAM. B. SCOTT, JR.
LAWYER,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

All legal business will receive prompt attention.

H. M. LOCKRIDGE,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
HUNTERSVILLE, W. VA.

Prompt and careful attention given to all legal work.

JOHN A. PRESTON FRED. WALLACE
PRESTON & WALLACE,
Attorneys at Law,
LEWISBURG, W. VA.

Will practice in the Courts of Greenbrier and adjoining counties, and in the Court of Appeals of the State of West Virginia.

PHYSICIANS' CARDS.

DR. O. J. CAMPBELL,
DENTIST,
MONTEREY, VA.

Will visit Pocahontas County at least twice a year. The exact date of his visit will appear in this paper.

DR. J. H. WEYMOUTH,
RESIDENT DENTIST,
ELKINS, W. VA.

Will visit Pocahontas County every spring and fall. The exact date of each visit will appear in The Times.

J. M. CUNNINGHAM, M.D.,
PHYSICIAN & SURGEON,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

Office next door to C. A. Yeager's Hotel. Residence opposite Hotel. All calls promptly answered.

B. SWECKER,
Auctioneer
and Real Estate Agent.
Mineral and Timber Lands
Lots a specialty. 21
Correspondence
furnished.
more, W. Va., or Al

WHAT CONSTITUTES A STATE.

What constitutes a State?
Not high-raised battlement or labored mound,
Thick wall or moated gate;
Not cities proud with spires and turrets crowned;
Not bays and broad-armed ports,
Where, laughing at the storm, rich navies ride;
Not starred and spangled courts,
Where low-browed baseness wafts perfume to pride.

No: Men, high-minded men,
With powers as far above dull brutes endued
In forest, brake, or den,
As beasts excell cold rocks and brambles rude:
Men who their duties know,
But know their rights, and knowing, dare maintain,
Prevent the long-aimed blow,
And crush the tyrant while they rend the chain:
These constitute a State;
And sovereign Law, that State's collected will,
O'er thrones and globes elate
Sits empress, crowning good, repressing ill;
Smit by her sacred frown,
The fiend Discretion like a vapor sinks,
And e'en the all-dazzling crown
Hides his faint rays, and at her bidding shrinks.

Such was this heaven-loved isle,
Than Lesbos fairer, and the Cretan shore!
No more shall Freedom smile?
Shall Britons languish, and be men no more?
Since all must life resign,
Those sweet rewards, which decorate the brave,
'Tis folly to decline,
And steal inglorious to the silent grave.

—Sir William Jones, (1746–1794.)

For The Pocahontas Times

The Treasure Trove.

XXII.

FROM the waters of Wild Goose Creek a road was blazed out over Laurel Mountain to the headwaters of Laurel River. During the War a refugee from Virginia whose nerves were shattered by the tales of horror of the battle-field, came to the mountains to keep out of the army. He had squated on some lands on Laurel River and lived there for several years. He had some cattle and had opened up several acres and the bluegraas had sprung up. It was about ten miles from the nearest habitation of man, which was on Wild Goose Creek. It was known as the Harrison Place, from the man who had cleared it out. It belonged to Judson and he had sent his negro hired man, Robert Freeman, to range a lot of young cattle on the place. It was in the heart of an immense wilderness. In those forests the deer had their abiding place; the panther sped noiselessly on the quest of prey; and the Tug and sang digger moved under the branches as silently as any of the other denizens of the forest.

Old Man Callahan gave Weston very precise directions to find the blazed path, and he succeeded in doing so for the herd of cattle had marked the trail plainly enough. He had no trouble following the right direction up the incline of more than a mile, but having arrived at the top of the mountain he found that the cattle had scattered and very soon he was at a loss as to how he should proceed. The track he had followed had faded away, and he made up his mind to go back to the place where he had reached the top of the mountain, and in case he did not find a plain trail to turn back. The wildness of his surroundings impressed him with an uncomfortable feeling of awe. He had not searched for the trail very long before he realized that he was lost. Remembering a like experience he made only one desperate effort in what he supposed was the proper direction, and after a half hour searching for the brow of the mountain he sat down to rest and plan. He had nothing to eat with him. It was supposed to be ten miles from the Creek to the Harrison Place, and he thought that he could walk that. Now it was nearly the middle of the day and he had no idea where he was. He had worked so long to get back to the place the trail topped the mountain that it might possibly be miles away.

Having nothing else to guide him he took to the first stream he came to and followed it. At first it was a tiny stream with little pools big enough for a man to bathe his hands in, but as he walked it grew to be a noisy run tumbling down the mountain side until it flowed with a grand flourish into a stream of considerable size.

He pursued his course down this stream clambering over large rocks, and fallen logs, and making what speed he could. The sun went behind the mountain and the valley began to look dark. Weston was becoming thoroughly alarmed and thoughts of passing the night alone presented themselves. All at once he stopped and began searching his pockets with frantic eagerness. It proved what he feared and that was that he had no matches. To spend the night alone with such surroundings would not be pleasant even with a fire to cheer and comfort, but to be in such a wilderness without a fire would dismay the most experienced woodsman. Therewas nothing to do but to keep going as long as he could, but when darkness came on he found that he not possibly continue to walk among the boulders that filled the bed of the creek. He stopped to rest on the trunk of a tree that lay across the stream. He heard the screams of innumerable panthers, as he thought, but which must have been owls, and a tramp such as his to a man unused to the woods leaves him in only a tolerable condition. So tired was he that in spite of the screams of the owls, which in these mountains are fearful sounds, he sank down beside the log and did not awaken until the smell of dawn was in the air.

Soon as he awoke he first knew that he was hungry and then that he had nothing to eat. He lay still and when he next awoke from a short nap his eyes opened on a sight which would gladden the eyes of any man with hunting instincts. It was a large deer crossing the stream twenty steps below him. Weston had a pistol, and the deer made a mark such as he could not miss in target practice. He got his revolver and took aim. Noble game as deer is disconcerting to most marksmen. Some men rise to the occasion and shoot as they should when every thing depends upon their steadiness, but it demoralizes most of them.

Weston thought he had made a pretty fair shot, as he fired hurriedly. The buck jumped and was out of sight in a moment. Weston's recent experience with the deer old man Callahan killed made him feel hopeful that he had killed this one, so he followed the deer into the woods. He found its trail very plainly marked for several hundred yards and then it became confused with many others. He could not find it again. As he looked for traces of it he observed a place which was very much trampled. Looking up his heart gave a bound for he saw a bag of salt hanging from the bough of a tree. Here was a sign of man in this boundless contiguity of shade!

But a little reflection taught him that this was a deer lick. Some hunter had hung up a bag of salt and deer would come and lick the ground where the salt drippings of the rain would fall. And this would only be done at a place far distant from the haunts of men. But still it cheered him.

He soon got discouraged in his hunt for the body of his deer and returned to the creek to get his fishing-rod and knapsack which he had not abandoned. In passing near the place where the deer was crossing when he shot he observed a twig hanging from the limb of a beech, and looking closely at it could only conclude that it was cut by his bullet and that he had shot ten feet above the deer.

Weston was rested but he was hungry. He was experiencing such hunger as only one man of a thousand ever knows. He resorted to his fishing rod, putting it together and using a trout fly made of gay and gaudy feathers, he caught trout at the rate of one a minute until he had twenty or so. At least he was not to starve. He had heard of the princess who declared she would eat bread and cheese before she would starve, and Weston declared he would eat raw fish. He felt that he could eat a bite right then. He thought of a time he had left a dinner untasted at a banquet the winter before. What an idiot he was! How he wished he had let Callahan help him three times to venison the morning before. But he prepared a large trout by peeling the skin off and he tried to eat some but he could not. He was only healthfully hungry so far.

He had heard of Indians rubbing two sticks together and making a fire, and he sat and rubbed two likely looking sticks for an hour and threw them away in strong disgust.

But a happy thought struck him. He removed the crystal from the face of his watch and holding it steadily in the rays of the sun gathered them at one point and soon he had a fire eating up the dry twigs with which he supplied it. He broiled a big trout at the end of a stick and tasten it. It was good, but if he had salt he would have a most desirable breakfast. An egg without salt does not lack it as does a fish. He remembered the salt at the deer lick, went back and got it and sat broiling fish and eating them until he had become perfectly well satisfied with his condition. Fire and food reassured him; he felt that he was in no special danger from his position. While he was musing, wondering whether he had better be walking, he was startled by hearing some one say:

"Hello, down thar!"

Nothing could have been more welcome an hour before, but now the sound of a man's voice coming unexpectedly was positively terrifying. The spirit of the wilderness had entered into him and he was ready to leap at an alarm like a deer.. He steadied his nerves and responded in a friendly way, and out from behind a large stone stepped a Tug.

He came toward Weston with a conciliating smile.

"Thought I'd speak, stranger, as I was passin'. I do n't keer what you 're in the woods fer, jest so you dont tell me."

"I've simply lost my way. I did not come in here to hide," explained Weston.

The Tug smiled knowingly, but it was evident that he had a very well defined idea that Weston was a fugitive from justice, and Mr Tug did not want to be particeps criminis.

(To be Continued.)

CUBA IN HISTORY.

Has it ever occurred to the reader that, as it appears on the map, the contour of Cuba bears resemblance to a Greenbrier alligator, which is one of the most unique creatures in natural history. Santiago is the principal city in the head, while Havana lies in a different direction, and is much nearer the United States.

Looking over the wall map of the world, Cuba seems scarcely an appreciable feature, and yet how strange it fills the eye and thought of the world more than all the rest put together just now, and did so once before. Its history opens with that most memorable of mornings in the history of the Western Continent, September 25, 1492. That morning's "outgoing was made glad" by the sentinel calling from his lofty outlook 'Land!' and then it was found that one of the beautiful American islands was near. A wonderful dream now materialized, a scientific theory that seemed inconsistent with Bible teachings misconstrued was verified, and mysterious questions about terrestial extent was about to be cleared up, now.

From September 25 to October 12, what Columbus was thinking about must be left to the reader's imagination. October 12 he went ashore, and, with his devout heart thrilled with joy and thanks giving, he bowed in prayer to God, and, being a devout believer in the divine right of kings to the earth and the fullness rhereof, he declared possession in the name of the soverigns of Spain. He soon found that he had landed on an island, to which he gave the name San Salvador, which the British afterward called Cat Island in their coarse humor.

Columbus spent some time in a search for the mainland which he believed to be near. In his search he sailed among many islands and thus he writes: "I know not where to go first nor are my eyes ever weary of gazing upon the beautiful verdure. The song of the birds is so sweet that it seems as if one would never desire to depart hence. There are flocks of parrots that obscure the sun and other birds of many kinds, large and small. There are majestic trees of a thousand species, each having its particular fruit and of marvelous flavor."

It is interesting to notice what an influence a mere fiction may sometimes exert on the destines of nations. By his amazing talent for drawing upon his imagination for something to write books of travel, Marco Polo has fascinated all European nations with glowing accounts of the Great Kahn's dominions, so rich with spices, gold and precious things. This land was located beyond India to the far East, but as a matter of fact never had an existence except in the brain of the imaginative writer.

Columbus was familiar with Marco Polo's travels, and when he learned from the natives that there was a great and rich land toward the south, he seems to have been of the opinion that this was the wonderful land of Khan and sailed in that direction. October 28, 1492, he touched its scores, and he appears to have been impressed more than ever, for he exclaimed, "This is the most beautiful land ever beheld by human eyes," as he stepped on the Cuban shore.

Columbus lived believing that he had found the mainland and died without knowing any better. The lofty mountains rising to the altitude of six or seven thousand feet, the clear rivers, the excellent natural harbors and the charming surroundings deeply impressed him. After landing and visiting many of the villages he gave much of the coast a careful examination. Wherever he went he found a gentle and contented people, living on the spontaneous products of a fertile soil, believing in the immortality of the soul and worshiping one all pervading and beneficent spirit. They knew nothing about war, living and dreaming the years away without taking any note of passing centuries.

Such were the beautiful and peaceful auspices that opened up the discovery of America.

Pretty much all that Columbus had to write about in the history of his discoveries pertained to Cuba. His three voyages seemed to begin and end with Cuba, hence what a wonderful part Cuba has had in the history of nations the past four hundred years, and what a stupendous part she may yet have in the destinies nations is more than a Marco Polo or a Columbus can possibly forecast.

S. C. R.

Nothing short of an archeological society will be able to locate Mason and Dixon's line after this.—Detroit News-Tribune.

Hobson is everybody's choice.—Milwaukee Journal.

Biographic Notes.

The Drinnon Family.—Famous in Pioneer History.

W. T. P.

Among the pioneer settlers of the Edray district the Drinnons are believed to have been among the very first. From what the venerable James McCollam, a grandson of Lawrence Drinnon, remembers there were three brothers: Charles, Lawrence and Thomas. It is more than probable they came here about the time John McNeel and the Kinnison brothers had made their settlement in the Levels, for they were from the same county and neighborhood.

Lawrence Drinnon settled on the Greenbrier above the mouth of Stony Creek, on land now occupied by the family of the late George Gibson and Col Levi Gay. His wife was a member of the Day family, referred to in the Kinnison Sketches, but her name is not remembered. Their children, who were being taught by James Baker at the time of his death by the Indian warrior, were James, Charles, John, Susan and Sally.

Susan married John Boggs and lived for years in the Meadows, of Greenbrier. Mr Boggs was engaged a long while with Charles MacClung, a noted Greenbrier grazier and stock dealer, and prospered in business. From Greenbrier he went to Putman County, entered 16,000 acres of land and founded the notable Boggs settlement by situating his sons and daughters around him.

Sally Drinnon became Mrs William McCollam and lived on Buck's Mountain, overlooking Edray. Particulars of her family were given in the McCollam paper.

John Drinnon married his cousin Elizabeth, of Thomas Drinnon the Edray pioneer, and opened up the property lately owned by Thomas Auldridge, Sr. Traces of the building yet discernable in the meadow, two or three hundred yards from William McClure's residence, in the direction of W. C. Mann's residence. The spot ought to be marked with something durable. His sons were Thomas, Lawrehce, James and John.

Thomas Drinnon, of John, of Lawrence, married Rebecca Grimes of Arthur, of Felix, the Pioneer of The Hills, and lived in Huntersville, keeping jail and shoemaking. Finally he went to Harrison County. Two of his sons were with the Union Cavalry engaged in the battle of Droop Mountain.

Lawrence married Bettie Ratcliffe and moved to Roane County.

James Drinnon went to Nicholas County.

John Drinnon went to Clay County and was a prominent teacher of schools in that and Nicholas Counties.

John Drinnon, of Lawrence, was a soldier in the war of 1812 and was in camp near Norfolk. One damp day he was out on dress parade, rather too early after an attack of the measles, took a relapse and died soon after.

At that time the late William Gay, Senior, was a youth living at Josiah Brown's. He had been to mill on Knapp's Creek and was returning home after sundown, and it was getting dusk as he came near the place where the gate opens leading to Thomas Auldridge's present residence. The way to Brown's went up the crest of the ridge on the side of which are the traces of the Drennon residence, already referred to. The horse suddenly stopped and the mill-boy looked to see what it was, and there ina fence corner he saw John Drinnon, wrapped in a blanket, and seemed to be taking his rest. But before he could speak to him the horse started off at head long speed and he could not check him up before reaching Brown's.

He told the family he had seen John Drinnon on his way home, and now they could hear news from the war. Upon going to Drinnon's however, it was found that he had not come in, and when they looked for him he could not be found.

The whole matter remained a mystery until David Cochran and John R. Flemmens returned bringing the news of Drinnon's death. Upon comparing the time of his decease with the time Gay saw the apparition at the side of the road, there was a striking coincidence.

Thomas Drinnon, a brother of Lawrence, the pioneer, settled at Edray. After him Drinnon's Ridge is named, and so he has monument as enduring as the 'everlasting hills'. He made the first opening where the village Edray now stands and owned much of the land that comprise the neat and attractive farm homes that present such a charming scene when viewed from the "big turn," on the mountain road, whence is unfolded some of the most picturesque mountain scenery in our county. The breaking up of his home and the dispursion of his family make the of the most pathetic episodes in our pioneer annals. The names of his sons were Jacob, William and James.

Jacob Drinnon married Elizabeth, daughter of John Smith, on Stoney Creek, and settled in Nicholas County.

William Drinnon lived in Nicholas County.

James Drinnon settled in Muskingum County, Ohio. He seems to have been deeply interested in legends concerning silver on Elk Mountain, at a locality called Hickory Ridge. It is believed he returned from Ohio and spent quite a while in efforts to identify the place, but was not able to make the find he was after.

Charles Drinnon, believed to have been a younger brother of Thomas and Lawrence, was in Indian captivity for several years. When redeemed and brought home he frequently complained of it, as if he was sorry to leave his captors so attached he seemed to have become to Indian usages, manners and customs. It is hinted too that there might have been an attractive young squaw in the question, a daughter of some tribal chief, but we will leave this for what it may be worth as a romantic conjecture. At any rate he seemed sick about something and he always had a good word for the Indian friends of his youth.

One of the nice and pleasant things about Indian habits in his opinion, was that his old friends made their fires, took the good of them and were never in hurry about their business of any kind. His name is perpetuated by a field now owed by Anderson Barlow. The legend is that this field was cleared by Charles Drinnon and is probably the first opening on Hazel Ridge and is now designated as the "Charley Field."

The Rundschau, Berlin, relates some interesting details regarding the war indemnity paid by France to Germany. France, it will be remembered, had to pay $1,000,000,000. At one time the Minister of Finance, Poyer-Quertier, was forced to stop payment, not because there was no money, but because of a dearth of linen bags. Germany furnished the bags. H. v. Poschinger remarks in his memoirs that France exhibited at that time the most scrupulous integrity. The bags were received by the Germans without scrutiny, but not a centime was wanted when the money was counted. The only mistake made by the French officials was when they included in a package of bank-notes a bogus 100 thaler bill (Prussian). It looked all right, but it had been made by a Parisian engraver, who substituted for the usual warning against counterfeiting the following legend in German: "Whoever hands over to the French Government William or Bismark will be paid 10,000,000 francs." The bill was purchased at its face value by a collector of curios.

According to a Berlin paper, conscription has much lowered the standard of height among the soldiers of the world. In the German it is now only 1.54 meters (60.63 inches), excepting the imperial Guards. The latter, comprising in themselves an army of 180,000 on a war footing, are 1.70 meters (66.93 inches), and above. In the British army the height is 1.65 meters (64.96 inches), which shows the tall growth of the average Englishman. Frenchmen Spaniards are taken at 1.54, ians at 1.55 meters (61 inche same as in Austria. The minimum is 1.54, in the States it is 1.619 met inches.)

The Pocahontas Times,

Hear, Land o' Cakes and brither Scots,
Frae Maidenkirk to Johnny Groats,
If there's a hole in a' your coats,
I rede ye tent it;
A chiel's amang you takin' notes,
An' faith he'll prent it.—BURNS

Local Events.

Howard Bird is the proprietor of a new thresher and eight-power traction engine.

WANTED.--Good, strong teams to work on railroad construction. Will pay $3 a day. Apply to Contractor Patterson, Beverly, W. Va.

We are informed that we may now look for the elder flower tide, a spell of wet weather while the elder is in bloom, ~~as something~~ that was never known to fail.

The weather for a few days has been almost ideal. Warm breezy days with cool nights and little dust, such as we now enjoy, are rare in any climate at midsummer.

William Sharp, trustee, sold the Charles Cook property, at Edray, Saturday, to John Tyler for the sum of $450. The price is fair for two acres of land and house, considering the circumstances of sale.

John F. Wanless, near Dilley's Mill, who was severely injured by the falling in of a cattle shed some years since, seems to be gradually regaining the use of his injured limb and can move around with some degree of comfort and ease.

Gillaspie & Alphin, of the Hot Springs, have opened a first class European restaurant and barber shop in connection with their bar. Also free wagon yard with stalls for horses, and house for wagoners to camp in, located just below the freight depot.

William Dean has sold improved wheat to nearly all the big raisers and many others. He has canvassed the county thoroughly. An improvement in quantity and quality is sure to follow, as much proportionately as in other fruits and grains.

The shepherd dog and the sheep recently advertised in The Times have been found. The dog at Clover Lick and the sheep in the Greenbrier mountains west of Dunmore. Nothing is better for finding missing things than avertising. It puts everybody on the lookout, far and near.

Frank Hogsett, the Brown's Creek cyclist, is becoming an expert. He was met on his return from the Dilley's Mill postoffice Monday morning. When his wheel is in good order he can make the trip in fifty minutes, four miles each way, eight miles in all. He says wheeling is better than walking.

It was the writer's pleasure to enjoy a luscious treat of service berries, gathered and sent by esteemed friends. They were the largest he has ever seen. He recently partook of jam made from this berry and it had a delicious fig like relish. Any one fond of figs will enjoy service berry jam and jelly, judging from the sample referred to.

In the Blue Sulphur District, not far from Alderson, a large grey fox was killed having on a leather collar put there while a small cub, and would scarcelp span a common sized hoe handle. How it lived and grew to be a big fox is a puzzling question in natural history. Joseph Stevens would like to know who lost a pet fox several years with such a collar.

"Never look a gift horse in the mouth."—The wise man who originated that saying swiped a bargain when he saw it and asked no questions. The Golden Store makes the following low prices in clothing: All wool, cassimere suits, in round sack and cutaway frock, $5.50 and $5.75, spot cash. I could raise the price on these suits and still undersell competition, but my prices are calculated on cost and not on demand. GOLDEN STORE.

It seems that the denizens of the Brushy Flats, Falling Springs district, are much excited over the indications of a foul murder. Last week a dog carried in a human bone. An investigation was made and it was learned that one Preston Cline had disappeared last March. A youth named Green owed Cline $80 and when a settlement was asked, a boy reports that Green struck Cline over the head with an axe handle. A few days after Cline's disappearance Green left for parts unknown. In the search last week Cline's overhalls were found near a large pond.—Independent.

A pathetic incident occurred in connexion with the Fourth Missouri Regiment. One of the soldiers, aged 22, upon leaving home a month ago, received from his mother, as a memento, a small chain made from her hair, which was at that time beautifully brown. The other day in camp he received from his mother another lock of her hair which was white. The change was the result of her anxiety. The colonel of the Regiment shed tears and the men generally were greatly affected. Life and treasure that go into the war may be estimated, but there is no way to measure what it costs in anxiety and sorrow in the hearts of those at home who are friends of the soldiers and sailors on the waves, or the bloody field.

PERSONAL MENTION.

H. A. Yeager and daughter Sallie went to upper Pocahontas last Saturday.

Mrs Elizabeth Loury, relict of the late Patrick Loury, near Mt. Tabor, an aged and respected lady, has recently gone blind.

When Lieutenant R. D. Kerr was last heard from he was on board a transport sailing for Manilla and is no doubt with Dewey by this time.

Charles H. Grose, of Huntersville, is sick with typhoid fever, but is believed to be convalescent. Hallie Moore has also been quite unwell, but is something better.

There is a very prolific chestnut bloom on Brown's Mountain this season. The bees seem to be doing uncommonly well in many places on the chestnut and white lynne.

S. B. Loury, of Daleville, Virginia, has been in the county, visiting relatives at Huntersville. Newspapers, in his opinion, are a "necessary evil," and in that category the Pocahontas Times is proud to be classed.

Mr C. L. Stulting will canvass the county in the interest of the Alleghany Collegiate Institute at Alderson, W. Va. There were 3 pupils from Pocahontas in this school last year, Miss Neva McNeil, Earnest Hill, and A. L. Anderson.

Hanson Dilley, the veteran miller, is diligent in business at the old Dilley's Mill, that seems to be a perennial institution of its kind and is run by a turbine wheel. Never freezes in winter to hinder, and rarely goes dry in summer to amount to any thing, the motive power being supplied by neighboring springs.

Similarity of names caused a slight error to appear in the account of a "Fishing Party" on the Greenbrier, in The Times of last week. The name of Miss Rachel Clark should be substituted for Miss Rella Clark, where it is recorded that she "did not fish for bass, etc." Miss Rella was with the party and was kind enough to write the interesting account of the day's pleasures. She informs us that she was very busy fishing for bass, but did not get one.

John A. McLaughlin, a well-known citizen on Brown's creek, was a Confederate soldier and belonged to Captain J. W. Marshalls command. He was a prisoner of war for nearly two years at Camp Chase, Ohio. He retains staunch bodily vigor and bore the heat and burden of the recent hot days in the harvest field about as well as the younger hands. He thinks all who have a fancy for war will have "a chance to get their fill" before matters are settled with Spain.

A sad bereavement has befallen the family of Colonel J. W. St Clair, of Fayettville, in the death of Mrs St. Clair at Johns Hopkins Hospital, July, 1; never reviving from a severe surgical operation. The news of her serious condition came to the Colonel while arguing the Goshorn case at Charleston, he closed his argument and hastened to her at Baltimore. The Gazette thus speaks of this estimable lady: "She was in all things noble and lovable, a wifely wife and a model mother. A woman who would have shone in society, accomplished and beautiful. She was in love with her home and rarely left it."

A Daily Mail.

We learn from the Independent an item of postal news that is of interest to our readers, It has been decided to make one route from Lewisburg to Marlinton, and the arrangement is to go into effect September 5.

Postmaster Pare is instructed to advertise for bids and has posted notices for letting, and bids will be received until July 15. The mail is to leave Lewisburg daily, except Sunday, not later than 11 A. M. and arrive at Marlinton in ten hours, and returning leaves Marlinton at 6 A. M. and reaches Lewisburg at 6 P. M.

This insures the mail direct from Ronceverte and daily papers will be received a day earlier. The Cincinnati Post will be received on day of publication, and the Richmond dailies the day after. Pocahontas is now in the front woods or soon will be.

Tardiness in Church Attendance.

Church-going people in Marlinton are urged by pastors and others to give more earnest heed to the ringing of the first bell for divine service. It is not intended for a musical symphony, but is supposed to give the signal for persons who are robed and ready to start at once for church. As it is now nearly every one waits for the second bell before starting, reasoning falsely that everybody will do the same.

The sexton will see to it that the bell for Sunday-school is always rung promptly at 9, and for services at night at 7-30.

Dental Notice.

Dr O. J. Campbell will visit the following points on dates named:

Hillsboro....8th July, eight days.
Huntersville..16th July, six days.
Frost........23d July, four days.
Dunmore.....28th July, six days.
Green Bank, 4th August, six days.
Trav. Repose, 11th Aug. four days.

DUNMORE.

A little cool and frosty.

Halifax James is out on a visit.

Big Bill is over cutting wheat.

Jacob Kerr and wife are no better.

Harry Nottingham is complaining quite a bit.

Laurence McElwee has joined the U. S. Army.

Snowding Cooper is on a visit to Knapp's Creek.

Ac Orndorff is getting ready to thrash for the people.

Mr Payne, of Hillsboro, was in town Monday on his bike.

Robert M. Pritchard spent Saturday night in town.

James Moore and Mrs George N. Tacy are on the sick list.

Poor Peet has gone to Edray to spend the balance of his days.

P. H. Warwick and Mrs G. W. Siple are on a visit to Greenbrier.

Mr and Mrs Newton Busard, of Highland, are visiting friends here.

Loop Bill is in from the railroad and says the work is progressing rapidly.

F. M. Gum has bought a thrasher with a subtraction engine—that is it will subtract the grain from the straw.

Billy Bussard has finished sawing for Whiting Sharp. Billy knows how to run a saw mill and the next thing he will be running his planer.

Dr Gum has sold his entire stock of goods to J. C. Harper, the hustling merchant.

Some of the boys ran off with Cliff's lemon Sunday, and Cliff had a long face on himself all day.

E. H. Smith and Lew Yeager passed through town Tuesday morning, headed towards the new railroad.

A mob of roughs jumped on A. E. Ward, Editor of the Hinton Republican, at Frost last week and put a head on him.

We understand that the bridge at Marlinton has been put on the free list—it ought to have a stamp on it like chewing gum.

Worth Willfong died at his home on Top of Alleghany last week. He was a good citizen and a hard working man, and leaves a large family.

Mr Pritchard is going to put in new burrs and two new turbine wheels in his mill at Dunmore, so he can grind wheat and corn at the same time.

We would like to have another vote on the road law this fall—that is the whole county. Those fellows who voted to keep her up by work are letting her get in bad shape.

Otis Warwick is like little Joe Peep who lost his sheep and did not know where to find them. Let them alone and they will come home and wagle their tails behind them.

One of our Republican friends remarked recently that he had been told that the farmer paid the tariff when he had to pay 12 cents more on the pound for tobacco, than a short time ago. Boys, you voted for high tariff and prosperity and now you are getting it in the neck, where the chicken got the ax.

Clayton, turn the cows in.

SHAKY JAKE.

Fight at Frost.

A. E. Ward, typograpical editor, and whose name appears at the mast-head as manager of the Hinton Republican-Leader, and of late manager for Miss Virginia Burrows, with whose entertainments nearly every one in the county is now familiar, had an unpleasantness with a certain "tough gang" at Frost, Friday.

It seems slanderous stories were circulated about Miss Burrows, and Mr Ward, rather unwisely, set out to get satisfaction, as becomes a Kentuckian and a gentleman. He cornered seven of the offenders and had them "chew their words." As he turned to go he was struck a murderous, cowardly blow on the back of the head with a stone or club, cutting through the brim of a derby hat and raising a big welt, the hat, probably, saving his life. Citizens interfered to prevent more bloodshed.

A warrant was sworn out before Justice Grose for Melvin Sharp, Butler Sharp, ——Sharp, and one Rider, but a constable was not found to serve it.

Mr Ward is a Kentuckian, and unless appearances deceive us, not lacking in sand. He has lately had a prolonged skirmish with Joe White, of the Hinton Republican, and may be called a fighting editor.

Miss Burrows was billed for an entertainment at Frankford, which place she was unable to reach Friday night on account of this very unpleasant affair.

Tetter, Salt-Rheum and Eczema.

The intense itching and smarting incident to these diseases is instantly allayed by applying Chamberlan's Eye and Skin Ointment. Many very bad cases have been permanently cured by it. It is equally efficient for itching piles and a favorite remedy for sore nipples, chapped hands, chilblains frost bits and chronic sore eyes. 25cts. per box. For sale by

DR CADY'S CONDITION POWDERS are just what a horse needs when in bad condition. Tonic, blood purifier and vermifuge. They are not a food but a medicine and the best in use to put a horse in prime condition. Price 25 cents per package. For sale by

PINE GROVE.

We are having some fine growing weather now and crops are looking fine in this section

The whooping-cough is raging around the mountains west of here in a very bad form.

George H. McGlaughlin has got his mill-wheel refilled, and is ready to grind any thing that comes along.

The writer likes to read of the success of our soldiers in Cuba, but like Job's war-horse he prefers to snuff the battle from afar.

What will we do with the islands after the war is over? Some would suggest that we make Spain take them back. The present unpleasantness with Spain reminds us of a conversation General (then Captain) W. T. Sherman had with President Taylor, just after the war with Mexico. Taylor sent Sherman out to Arizona and Southern California to investigate the value of our new possessions gained from Mexico by the war. He penetrated the sandy deserts of Arizona and New Mexico and looked over the cactus country of Southern California, and then returned to Washington and called on the President.

"Well, Captain, said the President, what do you think of our new possessions. Will they pay for the blood and treasure spent in the war?"

"Do you want my honest opinion, sir," replied Sherman.

"Yes. Tell us privately what you think."

"Well, General," said Sherman, "it cost $100,000,000 and 10,000 of our men to carry on the war with Mexico."

"Yes, fully that; but we got New Mexico, Arizona, and California."

"Well, General," continued Mr Sherman, "I've been out there and looked them over, all that country; and between you and me, I feel that we will have to go to war again—yes, we will have to have another war."

"What for?" asked Taylor.

"Why to make them take the —country back!"

But some of our leading Senators claim that these islands should neither be given back to Spain nor auctioned off to any European power, and so we say "in remembering the Maine," let the American flag remain where it flies by right of conquest, and let the inhabitants of the Spanish islands learn that the American flag and Government are better calculated to bring peace and prosperity to mankind than any other flag and Government under the sun.

AMERICANO.

Indian Relics.

Norman Price has added to a collection of Indian relics the past week an incomplete stone pipe of a fine-grain sandstone, with borings in bowl and stem about one inch deep, found by Mr William Sharp, at Edray. Marvin Courtney contributed a hoe or spade of flint, plowed up in a corn-field. The specimen, a fine one, is seven inches long by three and one-half broad. From Miss Amanda Lightner were gotten a fine flint spear 5½ inches and a "gorget" of blue limestone or compact slate, with heart or spear-shaped end and pierced. This stone was worn as ornament or charm.

"I have used Chamberlain's Cough Remedy in my family for years and always with good results," says Mr W. B. Coopr of El Rio, Cal. "For small children we find it especially effective."

BUCKEYE.

Otis Morrison is at home from camp.

Clayborn Morrison went to Ronceverte on business.

H. Nathan was in this part on business last week.

Owen Kellison made a flying trip to Riverside recently.

N. C. McNeil has been buying timber for the railroad here.

Miss Lula Auldrtidge has gone to Stamping creek on a visit.

Wheeler Simmons has been looking after his interests in this part.

Sherman Pyles and sister, Miss Lou, were visiting in this part last week.

It is supposed that a gobbler will suffer in a short time in this vicinity.

Isaac Smith and wife and little daughter were visiting in this part last week.

Wind, rain, and sunshine, and George Jackson takes his girl to Greenbrier.

A. W. Rogers has heart trouble. But we think it is caused by disappointments.

A. W. McNeil is a delegate to the Alderson convention, which convenes July 19.

Singing at Rocky Point the 4th Sunday, by sundry Professors. There will be sessions before and afternoon.

REV LEWIS.

"During the hot weather last summer I had a severe attack of cholera morbus, necessitating my leaving my business," says Mr C. A Hare, of Hare Bros., Fincastle, O. "After taking two or three doses of Chamberlains Colic, Cholera, and Diarrhoea Remedy I was completely relieved and in a few hours was able to resume my work in the store. I sincerely recommend it to any one affected with stomach or bowel trouble." For sale by Amos Barlow, Huntersville; Barlow & Moore, Edray.

The Great War.

We have won success by our ability to demonstrate our bargain claims; we guarantee the smallest of our patrons the same courteous attention given the largest.

We are taking great pains in buying our

Spring and Summer Stock of Goods...

And all bargains will be shared with our customers.

We keep goods moving by keeping goods that move;—we test every value—our prices do the rest. Its not a question of opinion, its a rock-ribbed fact that our prices can not be successfully cut under. Don't scatter your dollars unwisely; concentrate them here and save more of them.

It is shrewd and well directed effort that makes our bargains unusual. Our PRICES PUZZLE COMPETITORS AND DELIGHT PURCHASERS.

Thanking you for your past patronage, we remain
Yours respectfully,

L D Sharp.
Linwood W Va

The Levels News.

Edited by Payne Bros.

Vol. 1 Academy, W. Va., July 8, 1898. No. 25

Market, July 12, 1898.

—Feathers Live Goose, 40c lb.
—Eggs 9c per dozen.
—Butter 10 to 12½ per pound.
—Lard 8c per lb.
—Corn 75c per bushel.
—Wheat 90 to $1 per bushel.
—Oats 40c per bushel.
—Chickens 5c to 8c lb.
—Bacon 10c to 12½c.
—Ginseng $2.50 a pound, dry.
—AT PAYNE BROS.

—Stoneware at Payne Bros.

—Jar tapes and rubbers at Payne Bros.

—Buy Mason's Fruit Jars from Payne Bros.

—Miss Georgie Ligon is visiting Mrs McClintic.

—Miss Lou Levisay is visiting friends and relatives here.

—H. W. Payne went to Dunmore and back Monday on a bicycle.

—Granite ware in Stew Pans, Buckets, Wash Basins, and Rensing Pans at Payne Bros.

—Mr Howard Bird commenced threshing at Mrs A. S. Clark's with his new machine, Tuesday.

—Cradle and Fingers, Scythes, Snaths, Brush Hooks and Brush Scythes sold very cheap at Payne Bros.

—Have a few very fine Pictures of Dewey and the Battleship Maine framed at very low prices at Payne Bros.

—Suits of furniture at Payne's.

—Hay carriers and rope, Payne Bros.

—Linseed oil and paints very low at Payne Bros.

—High Arm Singer Sewing Machines at Payne Bros.

Mr Mayo and family have returned home from accompanied by Miss Rachel Clark who will spend a short time in Kentucky.

To Cure a Cold in One Day.

Take Laxative Bromo Quinine Tablets. All Druggists refund the money if it fails to Cure. 25c.

SALT: $2 A SACK.
AT PAYNE BROS.

Best grades of Roller Flour at

G. L. HANNAH'S,
Yelk, W. Va.
BARLOW & MOORE'S,
Edray, W. Va.
J. H. CURRY'S,
Green Bank, W. Va.
R. L. NOTTINGHAM'S,
Dunmore, W. Va.
J. H. DOYLE,
Huntersville, W. Va.

Blood Brains Money

A sick man can't make money That's because his brain wont work. A horse wont do work unless he is properly fed. Neither will a brain. If the brain is not kept in good condition with pure, rich blood, it wont produce much.

Men who fail, and men who don't, often have what they call "Nervous Prostration." Nine times in ten the nervous trouble is purely secondary. The real sickness is in their digestion and in their blood. If a man keeps his digestion in good order, and keeps his body full of pure, rich blood, he is never going to be very sick.

Johnston's Sarsaparilla is made for people who want to get well and stay well. Sarsaparilla is a simple, "grandmother" remedy, but it cures. It purifies and enriches the blood and sends it tingling to every part of the body. That is the way it cures all ailments of the brain and nerves—cures insomnia—cures dyspepsia, rheumatism, scrofula, and every other blood disease. It clears the complexion, plumps out the cheeks, and brings back the sparkle to lifeless eyes.

One Dollar is the price, and One thousand Dollars is the health-giving value of every Quart Bottle of Johnston's Sarsaparilla

WILLIAMS, DAVIS, BROOKS & CO., Detroit, Mich.

Try a bottle of Liverettes, the famous little liver pills. 25c.

For sale by—
URIAH BIRD, Marlinton, W. Va.; and A. BARLOW, Huntersville.

Sampson Heard From!

WAR WILL SOON BE OVER,

And You can Invest in Buggies Spring-Wagons, and Carriages.

We have just gotton in a car load of fine Buggies and Carriages which we are selling very low. Call and see us.

We can save you money and give you better work.

VEHICLES MADE TO ORDER.

We also make a specialty of repairing and painting vehicles of all kinds.

When in Town call and see our work.
Yours truly,

Hudgins & Shackelford.
Ronceverte, W. Va.

A STORY.

ABOUT THE NIMBLE SIX-PENCE.

It is Like a Ball of Snow, the Faster You Roll It the More Rapidly It Will Accumulate.

We recognize the fact that to succeed we must undersell.

We recognize that in order to keep our stock complete we must get the pay for our goods promptly.

We also recognize the fact that when we sell our goods on such close prices as to bring them below competition we must collect frequently in order to keep the ball rolling.

We appreciate highly the patronage and kind words of encouragement from our friends and patrons, and request you to encourage us further by coming in and paying up your accounts with cash, so we can replace the goods which you have bought without involving ourselves in dept these scary wartimes.

We hope to be of service to our patrons and can save you money, but do not overlook the main essential point: We need our money often. We are anxious to reduce stock in many lines as much as possible from now till September 1st and will sell at greatly reduced prices.

We have just received a new book of receipts which we would like to up inside of the next thirty days

Call and see us when in town.

Respectfully,
J. D. PULLIN & CO.

Plow Repairs

We have at last succeeded in making arrangements to supply points for the RONCEVERTE PLOW. Full stock now on hand. Send in our orders early. . . .

We are Factory Agents
for IMPERIAL and
SILVER STEEL
Plows.

(The est Hillside Plow on the Market.)

Simms & Co.,
Opp. Passenger Depot, RONCEVERTE, W. Va.

The Pocahontas Times.

Andrew & Norman Price, Owners. "Montani Semper Liberi!" Andrew Price, Editor

VOL. 15, NO. 52 MARLINTON, WEST VIRGINIA, JULY 22, 1898. $1.00 PER YEAR

From FACTORY to CONSUMER.

$1.39

buys this (exact) Rattan Rocker, the largest size ever made; per dozen, $14.50. Our new 112-page catalogue containing Furniture, Draperies, Crockery, Baby Carriages, Refrigerators, Stoves, Lamps, Pictures, Mirrors, Bedding, etc., is yours for the asking. Special supplements just issued are also free. Write to-day. CARPET CATALOGUE in lithographed colors is also mailed free. Write for it. If you wish samples, send 8c. stamp. Matting samples also mailed for 8c. All Carpets sewed free this month and freight paid on $5 purchases and over.

$7.45

buys a made-to-your-measure All-Wool Cheviot Suit, expressage prepaid to your station. Write for free catalogue and samples. Address (exactly as below),

JULIUS HINES & SON,
Dept. 909. BALTIMORE, MD.

LAW CARDS.

N. C. McNEIL,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

Will practice in the Courts of Pocahontas and adjoining counties and in the Court of Appeals of the State of West Virginia.

L. M. McCLINTIC,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

Will practice in the Courts of Pocahontas and adjoining counties and in the Supreme Court of Appeals.

H. S. RUCKER,
ATTY. AT LAW & NOTARY PUBLIC
HUNTERSVILLE, W. VA.

Will practice in the courts of Pocahontas county and in the Supreme Court of Appeals

J. W. ARBUCKLE,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
LEWISBURG, W. VA.

Will practice in the courts of Greenbrier and Pocahontas counties. Prompt attention given to claims for collection in Pocahontas county.

W. A. BRATTON,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

Prompt and careful attention given to all legal business.

ANDREW PRICE,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

Will be found at Times Office.

SAM. B. SCOTT, JR.
LAWYER,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

All legal business will receive prompt attention.

H. M. LOCKRIDGE,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
HUNTERSVILLE, W. VA.

Prompt and careful attention given all legal work.

JOHN A. PRESTON FRED. WALLACE
PRESTON & WALLACE,
Attorneys at Law,
LEWISBURG, W. VA.

Will practice in the Courts of Greenbrier and adjoining counties, and in the Court of Appeals of the State of West Virginia.

PHYSICIANS' CARDS.

DR. O. J. CAMPBELL,
DENTIST,
MONTEREY, VA.

Will visit Pocahontas County at least twice a year. The exact date of his visit will appear in this paper.

DR. J. H. WEYMOUTH.
RESIDENT DENTIST,
ELKINS, W. VA.

Will visit Pocahontas County every spring and fall. The exact date of each visit will appear in The Times.

J. M. CUNNINGHAM, M. D.,
PHYSICIAN & SURGEON,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

Office next door to C. A. Yeager's Hotel. Residence opposite Hotel. All calls promptly answered.

C. B. SWECKER,
General Auctioneer
and Real Estate Agent.

I sell Coal, Mineral and Timber Lands. Farms and Town Lots a specialty. 21 years in the business. Correspondence solicited. Reference furnished. Postoffice Dunmore, W. Va., or Alexander, W. Va.

THE WHISTLING BOY.

Is there a sound in the world so sweet,
on a dark and dreary morn,
When the gloom without meets the gloom within, till we wish we 'd not been born,
As the sound of a little barefoot boy
gayly whistling in the rain,
While he drive the cows to pastures
green, down the path in the muddy lane?

The joy of a boy is a funny thing, not dampened by autumn rain:
His clothes and his hands and his sturdy feet ar not spoiled by grime or stain;
The world to him is a wonderful place that he means some day to explore;
If there 's time to play and plenty to eat who cares if the heavens pour?

Oh, that cheery trill of a heart as fresh as the drops that clear the air,
Brings a smile to our lips and clears the soul of the gloom that brooded there
And we bless the boy as he spats along through rivers of rain and mud,
For the hope and cheer in that whistled note would rainbow the sky in a flood.

CELIA S. BERKSTRESSER, in the July Ladies' Home Journal.

For The Pocahontas Times

The Treasure Trove.

XXIV.

THE enforced wait caused Weston to form one of the audience who listened to the trial of the case against the colored man. The law is very strict in enjoining good manners on people at church. The measure provided is that the worshiper must not be disturbed. His mind must be allowed to remain upon that high plane of religious feeling, and any thing which produces a discord and breaks the charm is disorder, and the courts are very severe on the man who is responsible for it.

It is impossible for the law to insure perfect security for a state of religious ecstasy. For instance, if a lady appears in a bonnet that turns the hearts of her sisters to gall and wormwood with envy, she can not be indicted for it. If a brother's eyes wander from the preacher's face through the windows to the fields beyond until they rest on a fat steer and his thoughts turn to his cattle, the cow-beast can not be abated as a nuisance.

But if the gent from high up on Bitter Creek comes dashing up to the meeting with a jug of liquor slung to his saddle, and comes into the Presence with defiant air and clanking of spurs, and laughs and talks and leers at the young women, and is ominous of trouble if he is interrupted, why then an outraged feeling takes possession of the staid people of the church, and they feel like it is an open insult to the Higher Power and that they must avenge it. They should scourge him from the temple. A few cases of tearing such bullies limb from limb, in the stern style of the Christians of ancient times, would teach those capable of improvement better manners. But the plan pursued is to appear before the Grand Jury, and in due time the bully appears in Court, as much abashed by that assembly as he was boisterous in the other, and justice is meted out to him.

The case which we propose to relate seemed very serious when the State had closed. The colored man, Billy Butler, had been sitting in the gallery at Mount Horeb one day and had suddenly laughed in time of prayer. Not a gentle expression of amusement, but a regular guffaw that could be heard a half-mile. The prayer was not finished, and Billy and another colored man had rushed from the church and hid in the woods several days as fugitives from justice. The witness all solemnly swore they were disturbed.

Colonel Wilson had Billy take the stand and said encouragingly, "Now, Billy, tell the Judge all about your laughing out in church.

"All right, boss. You see, jedge, I did n't mean to do bit a' tall. I 'tends my own chu'ch, and I is en unworthy class-leader, suh, sometimes. Dis Sunday on dis occasion I 'tended white folk's meeting cause old Mas'r Henry's boy gwine ter preach, and he call on Mr Charley Haukenbaugh ter lead in prayer. De day were powerful hot and Mr Charley start in on his Sunday prayer, and everybody kneel down, and Benny huh kneel down side er me. We wuz de only cullud pussons in de gallery.

"Mr Charley he pray en pray, and de white folks lots of dem wuz lookin' erround kinder keepin' one ear a timin' Mr Charley. Mr Charley he done cum to de place he pray fer dem outside de palin's ob de chu'ch, en I kotch sight ob old Mas'r Henry. He's a great big fat man, Jedge, and he wuz kneelin' down ober a bench and he clothes wuz stretched tight and dar wuz a split en de flies dey was a-wukin' in end a-wukin' out, like a passel of bees ersackly. Soon es dat fool Benny see I see dem flies he lean ober and 'mark, 'I found dat bee-tree,' en I bus' out laughing. I jest pintedly could n't he'p it."

A wave of laughter rippled thro the court-room, and the Judge, to whom a bit of a joke in court comes as a boon, turned to the Prosecuting Attorney and said:

"Do you think, Mr McNaughton, that this boy is telling the truth?"

"I hav' n't the least doubt of it, your honor."

"Well then we had better ask the jury to enter a verdict of 'not guilty,' in the box."

The court adjourned for its noon recess, and Colonel Wilson pressed through the crowd with Weston and the Tugs, avoiding many who wanted to speak with him. He preceeded to his office, successfully avoiding all, except an elderly gentleman, a "prominent citizen," who would have his opinion on a matter of importance. Thirty years before he had given a turnpike company a right of way; they had promised to put him in a cattle culvert. They had not done so and the road had become the property of the county. Could he compel the county to build the culvert?

"Say, Frank, when does Presbytery meet?"

"The 20th of September, suh; why?" he asked off his guard.

"Oh, that would be a good case to lay before Presbytery, but it would go to pieces in Court," replied the Colonel. "Come on, boys."

The dissatisfied client went around all day declaridg that the Colonel "Did not treat me like a gentleman, suh."

It only took a few moments to place Colonel Wilson in possession of their trump card. The Colonel's eyes came as near sparkling as a lawyer's ever do as he exclaimed, "We 'll trade Judson one for the other."

A messenger brought Judson around to the lawyer's office. Weston managed the affair.

"Mr Judson," he said, "I want to see whether we can not compromise our suit."

"I never compromise, young man. All or nothing with me."

"Well, all of us are in the secret and I want to make a proposition to you before Colonel Wilson and these friends of mine with whom I have been camping on Laurel River."

"Well, I bet you did n't corrupt my nigger, and if you say you have captured him I wont talk business till I see him."

"Let me finish. That lot of gold is not the only thing which lies buried on your farm. On the upper side of that elm-tree, Mr Judson? I 'll trade you what is there for your claim on the money I honestly found, and give you $100 to bind the bargain. If you refuse we will detain you here until we dig there and see what is to be seen."

The hard-featured farmer sat apparently unmoved. He had no ordinary nerves. He recognized the strength of the argument and said:

"I guess you are fooling me, but if you pay the costs and my lawyer beside I'll take you up."

This was agreed to and the suit was dismissed. He was compelled to go into court and dismiss the suit and enter the contract to be recorded. He rode home. The next day he started his plows and prepared the ground around the elm-tree for an early seeding in wheat. There can be little doubt that the bones of the murdered wan found another resting place shortly, and Robert still thinks that the body is interred beneath the elm.

It is now necessary to wind up this little ball of yarn.

Judson has since died raving in such a manner that his wife let no man come into the room. And she has since borne evidence of knowing what can not be revealed that causes people to talk and to pity her.

The Cassidy's came to Weston's wedding, They were as happy as could be, both worshipping a young stranger of the same name.

Weston has two proteges, the Tugs, with whom he spends several weeks each summer in the woods. He keeps them in a constant state of gratitude with suitable presents. They are the best-equipped tugs in the mountains.

Weston and Mary were married in the fall and lived happily ever afterward; with which short and sweet statement, we write

THE END.

POST-SCRIPT.

Thus endeth a serial story written by one who never reads stories thus printed, tho he realizes that it is best to take same tales in broken doses. At several times during the six months it has been running we have felt like apologizing for its being long drawn out, and will say now that when it was begun it was the intention to divide it into two or three chapters. Getting in was easier than getting out; but now it is ended, with the people therein neither saying or doing what was intended for them. It would be the part of an ingrate not to acknowledge the kindness of a number of our friends, who when we were being agitated by fears that we were boring them to death, showed that they were reading the chapters with some interest as they came out. And especially do we value the opinion of a man who has raised more cattle than he has read books, who asked us if there was any such man as Weston living, and who was interested in the story.

A MAY DAY IN 1857.

W. T. P.

A few weeks since the writer, while in Greenbrier, spent a day or two in a home that revived touching memories of a day spent there early in May, 1857, in company with a young pastor of two interesting churches amid the adjacent Greenbrier hills and dales. It was at the time a rural home of rare loveliness, and as I think of that scene as it presented itself to us as we turned from the main road, leading from Frankford to Lewisburg, and passed the gate the words of the sweet singer of Grasmere are recalled:

"Meek loveliness is around thee spread,
A softness still and holy;
The grace of forest charms decayed,
And pastoral melancholy,"

At the time of our visit a highly accomplished and attractive young lady was teaching in the family. A year or two after that she was married to a young professor of Greek in a Southern college, and to whom she was then engaged. Her married life, though very auspicious, was but brief. She left her sweet valley home under the shadows of the Blue Ridge, the loveliest of brides, but ere long returned to be laid to rest beside the dear mother whose spririt had preceeded hers to heaven.

At noon recess she met us in the parlor and entertained us delightfully by her spritely conversation and sweet singing. It was then the writer heard for about the first time the sentimental song, "I'd offer thee this hand of mine," and was much impressed with its beautiful sentiments.

The writer complimented the song as being so beautifully touching, but she observed it was no favorite with her for she could not help reading something very deceitful and treacherous between the lines. In her opinion the song would not be admired by any person unless there was an engagement he was tired of and wished to have broken off, and if any one should ask her to sing that song with the sentiment she would soon give him to understand that he ought not to take matters so hard as all that.

Suffice it to say we had a discussion in which we differed very widely. In the meantime the clock struck the hour for school, she arose having the last word, but both of the opinion still when we parted, as events turned out, to meet no more in this life. My ministerial friend agreed with her in the opinion that it was the sentiment of one who was tired of his engagement ring, and there was another discussion in which neither was convinced. Late in the afternoon he and I separated. He went to the Blue Sulphur and I to Frankford. We never met afterward for he passed away sooner than the sweet songstress, so skeptical of the poet's purity and sincerity of intention.

It was years afterward that it was our pleasure to learn something of the circumstances under which the song in question was written. According to the Lynchburg (Va.,) News, the name of the writer was Bransford Vawter, who died too young to have learned how his worth would have been estimated by the world. He wrote one of the simplest and most plaintive compositions in the English language, suggested by a tender and sincere attachment for one of Lynchburg's purest and best young ladies, far above him in social standing and pecuniary advantagees. Her name is not given, for the reason it would not be proper to invade the sanctity of the tomb and print the name of a woman so lovely as to inspire such a song. For years the flowers have bloomed and drooped above her dust, but her heart was Bransford's.

It seems that at first the poem was attributed to Thomas Moore, and the American journals have copied it extensively and repeatedly, never dreaming it to be the sudden and irresistable expression of the feelings of a Lynchburg youth and that it was written in a log cabin at the point known as the corner of Main and Ninth streets. This is the poem:

"I leave thee in thy happiness
As one too dear to love—
As one I think of but to bless
As wretchedly I rove.
And oh, when sorrow's cup I drink,
All bitter though it be,
How sweet twill be for me to think
It holds no drop for thee.

"And now my dreams are sadly o'er,
Fate bids them all depart,
And I must leave my native shore,
In brokenness of heart.
And oh, dear one when far from thee,
I'll never know joy again;
I would not that one thought of me,
Would give thy bosom pain."

About the year 1824 this poem appeared in the Lynchburg Press, and was very extensively copied by the papers and magazines. It is a matter of uncertainty where Bransford Vawter is buried, but however be his obscurity this spontaneous outburst of his young and guileless heart has been treasured in costly bindings and sung in many a refined and happy home. It is of no avail to form conjectures as to what the future of this bright and pomising youth would have been, had Povidence spared him to his friends and to Virginia. His purity of character, tenderness of heart moral courage and inspiring eloquence of expression gave promise of a very brilliant life, indeed. As it was, however, ere this rare endowment had become known even to those nearest him, those who loved him were called to gather around a newly made grave and perform the last tender offices in memory of Bransford Vawter.

Of those who listened to the singing that beautiful day, in that rural Greenbrier home, but one survives besides the writer, and it is more than probable that she has no recollection of it whatever, as she was then a little girl.

unusual. OUR PRICES PUZZLE COMPETITORS AND DELIGHT PURCHASERS.

Thanking you for your past patronage, we remain.
Yours respectfully,

J. D. Sharp

THE THREE FORKS OF CRANBERRY.

The Cranberry country is nothing if not solitary. When the lawyer of Marlinton, worn out by his arduous duties and his overwhelming cares, flees as a bird to the mountain to forget the struggle for existence, he hopes to see no strange face. There duns are neither given or required, and all who have camped at the Forks of Cranberry know that it is very unusual to meet a stranger there. Last Wednesday-week a party of Marlinton men were in camp there, when the place suddenly swarmed with Greenbrier and Nicholas men. They came as a band of Indians might have come upon a camp of white men a century ago.

The expedition was a survey, such as has been frequently instituted to settle the frontier boundary line of two counties.

A year or two ago they were trying a man at Lewisburg for stealing a hog, and when the prosecuting attorndy asked the perfunctory but very necessary question, What county did this happen in?' he ununexpectedly struck a snag, for the witness was divided in his mind whether the pig-pen was in Greenbrier or Nicholas, and the man went clear. The great American hog must be protected at any cost, and therefore the counties of Greenbrier and Nicholas appointed surveyors, and tho the hog has been slain and eaten, the survey goes maching on merrily piling up bills already amounting to hundreds of dollars.

The old act of the legislature gave a bearing to the Three Forks of Cranberry. The survey ran a line twenty-two miles long and came to Cranberry. Their course would have brought them near the three forks of Williams River, which is probably the point meant. The country west of them had been lopped off of Greenbrier to form Nicholas, Pocahontas, and Webster, but they needed the Three Forks to verify the bearing.

An English Surveyor named Henderson, a son-in-law of the Honorable Charles Buster, Clerk of the County Court of Greenbrier county, headed the expedition, and they left their tent pitched on the banks of Cranberry in quest of three forks. They measured the bed of the stream from Dogway to the Forks of Cranberry and found it nearly five miles; but the third fork was not forthcoming. The stream at the Forks was singularly devoid of runs large enough to be classed as a fork, and the expedition returned unsatisfied and very hungry.

There were ten men in the party and they had brought very little grub. They arrived tired and wet and built a camp and made a monstrous log-heap, and talked three forks to the Marlinton gang who were comfortably situated in a lean-to tent and plenty to eat. The commissary department was absent and it leaked out that two Cobbs from Webster had promised to have a deer for them. The Cobbs did not turn up, and they suggested that the presence of the Prosecuting Attorney of Pocahontas was to blame for it. But those acquainted with deer know that an event contingent upon killing a deer rarely materializes.

The party explored both forks next mornihg, and went away to report to court and get further instructions.

One member of the party of whom we must make special mention was the Honorable Jake McClung, a member of the County Court of Nicholas, who informed us that as a young man he had worked for Mr S. H. Clark and Captain McNeel, of the Levels.

"During the hot weather last summer I had a severe attack of cholera morbus, necessitating my leaving my business," says Mr C. A Hare, of Hare Bros., Fincastle, O. "After taking two or three doses of Chamberlains Colic, Cholera, and Diarrhoea Remedy I was completely relieved and in a few hours was able to resume my work in the store. I sincerely recommend it to any one afflicted with stomach or bowel trouble." For sale by Amos Barlow, Huntersville; Barlow & Moore, Edray.

THE SPANISH IN MANILLA.

In the time of Philip the Second, 1570, Spain was the preponderating power in the civilized world. His revenues were far in excess of any other crowned ruler, his armies regarded as the most formidable in Europe and his power over the seas questioned by none but the Turk. So in every international respect the supremacy of Spain was the consternation of the nations, and how this could be avoided was the most lively of the problems that confronted European statesmen for an entire century. Finally this much dreaded power waned, but it was not the efforts of opposing statesmen that brought about this much wished for result. For internal were the true effective causes of Spain's decadence. Numerous they were, yet all may be recognized as springing from conservatism, pride and clericalism.

More or less all Spanish colonies were places where clericalism rioted without restraint. Among the colonies, it seems, none suffered more than the Philippines from the usurpation of the clericals in the name of religion. The missions of the Augustinian Recollects as far back as 1719 had acquired such prominence in colonial affairs that the history of the Philippine Spanish Colony seems rather made up of the records of the Augustinian province of St Nicholas than those of a royal or political dependancy.

About 1720 Bastinielo was appointed governor at Manilla, and he thought he would make a clean sweep as he was a new governmental broom, when he discovered that all the officers had embezzled and pilferred so as to leave the treasury almost empty. He made a seaching investigation for facts and was proceeding to punish the guilty who at once sought refuge in the churches.

One official in particular had purloined official records neded to verify accounts had refugeed in a church. Bastillo requested the Arch-bishop in charge to make the absconding official return the civil records. The Archbishop replied with a learned argument prepared by a Jesuit, designed to prove that the Governor's request was illegal. Bastillo was incensed by this and put the Archbishop under arrest, who at once put a terrible interdict over the city, warning people at the peril of their souls against the Governor.

The monks, friars and devotees turned out in full force and moved along the streets, holding their crucifixes aloft like flags and proclaiming in loud wailing tones, "Viva la fe! Viva la glesia!" (Let faith live! Let the Church live!) The excited populace, to save their souls, rallied around the crucifixes, followed the friars to the palace, battered down gates and doors and slew Bastillo and his son, and released the Archbishop. The Archbishop took the dead governor's chair, became governor and managed the affairs of the colony under the advice of an assembly consisting entirely of ecclesiastical functionaries.

In such frequently recurring troubles between the secular and clerical authorities the Inquisition was not behind hand, though there was no organized inquisitorial tribunal in Manilla.

The history of the Spanish people affords an impressive object lesson of what pride, conservatism and meddlesome clericalism will do with the noblest and highest of the nations in a very few generations.

Writing of the thirteen-inch gun used in our navy, a writer in the Engineering Magazine says: "It is difficult to appreciate the power, and at the same time the delicacy, of these great fighting-machines. At the muzzle the immense projectile has been forced through twenty-seven inches of Harveyized steel. At two thousand yards the penetration is twenty-two and one-half inches. The extreme range is thirteen miles. The projectile leaves the gun with a velocity of 2200 feet per second, or 1400 miles per hour. A shot can be fired every one and one-half minutes for a period of several hours. The force imparted to the projectile, if properly applied, would lift a battle ship bodily three feet, and yet this great machine, weighing 145,000 pounds, is as accurate as a high-grade watch.

The Pocahontas Times.

ANDREW PRICE, - - - EDITOR.

MARLINTON, FRIDAY, JULY 22, 1898

Entered at the post-office at Marlinton, W. Va., as second class matter.

Special Inducements Genuine Bargains!!!

The War Stamp is going on nearly all kinds of goods, as you know; but instead of charging that to my customers I will take off more than that. I have the goods and must sell them. I have a large amount of money to raise, and will give customers a chance to get extra good bargains, for I will sell

28, 29, and 30 of July

for cash all goods for

Cost and Carriage.

You have a chance to select what you want and pay for what you get. So come now one and all, far and near, as you will not have such a chance soon again to make you a little change. And those that owe me please come prepared to pay their little account. Come on the days specified and help me while you are helping me you can help yourself. Human nature seems to lean this way now a days—to help each other when we can receive our part of help. Any how in this case all will be benefitted.

Yours for Business,

Steward Boggs.
Huntersville, W. Va.

A good motto for a yellow journal: "Any color so it 's read."

The loss of the Santiago naval battle was a Cevera blow to Spain than even that of Manila Bay.

Uncle Sam should look up in his lexicon the Spanish word for "Enough!" as he may expect to hear it any day.

The stamp-tax has its drawbacks. An important deed has been held up for days in this county because stamps could not be procured. The parties were afraid to use postage-stamps, not being informed, and were unable to get the documentary stamps.

We have now a law relating to bankrupts which allows a man to lay down all that he hath for the benefit of his creditors and start again a free man. The right to pass such a law was given to Congress by the Constitution, but owing to the impracticability of such laws as the mind of man could conceive, there has been no general bankruptcy law for many years. The same session of Congress which resurrected the stamp law brought back the other abandoned law concerning bankrupts.

SANTIAGO.

Gen. Toral in command of all the troops on the east end of Cuba, and who held the strongly fortified city of Santiago, which is the second city of Cuba, surrendered all the under his command to Gen. Shafter. The estimated number of prisoners is 25,000, and the munitions of war secured were enormous.

It is the third great victory for the United States, but it was purchased at the cost of many lives, as is the case in every infantry engagement.

Gen. Shafter is now one of the nation's heroes for work well done.

Our flag floated over Santiago, last Sunday.

The government is advertising for transports to send the prisoners back to Spain.

Now let us have peace!

Dental Notice.

Dr O. J. Campbell will visit the following points on dates named:

Hillsboro....8th July, eight days.
Huntersville..16th July, six days.
Frost........23d July, four days.
Dunmore.....28th July, six days.
Green Bank, 4th August, six days.
Trav. Repose, 11th Aug. four days.

Strayed—Fifteen or 20 ewes and lambs, bought of Levi Gay, having his mark, ½ crop each ear and branded with tar on back or side with a ring. Lambs marked slit in under side each ear. I will be thankful to know of them, or will pay for any trouble that will enable me to secure them.

JOHN LIGON.

No-To-Bac for Fifty Cents.
Guaranteed tobacco habit cure, makes weak men strong, blood pure. 50c, $1. All druggists.

THE TUG SHOOTING SCRAPE.

William Colley Shot by His Step-Son-in-Law Milam, at the Old Cline Place, Opposite Mill Point.

Last Thursday a young man, giving his name as O. T. Milam, aged 25 years, surrendered himself to the sheriff at Mill Point and was committed to jail by Justice Curry, on the charge of shooting William Colley. There were no witnesses, and the statements of Milam and Colley vary very materially. It is no unusual thing for Tugs to engage in little shooting matches to settle disputes, but it is generally understood that the law is not to be called in to take a part in the adjustment, and that this shooting is not reported accidental argues that Colley is only a Tug by adoption, as he really is.

Milam's Statement.

Milam was found in the county jail. He is a tall, dark skinned man, smooth shaven. He appeared somewhat nervous when he was asked for the details.

Colley married Samantha Perkins and Milam her daughter May. They moved to the Cline place in April. On the day of the shooting Colley became very disagreeable and made the domestic circle very unpleasant. They all went for mulberries. Arrived at home Milam and Mrs Colley worked at stemming them on the porch. Mrs Colley called to her husband to come and help. He replied:

"— —you! You say mulberry to me again and I 'll come out and put five of these 38's in you!"

The woman then got scared and left. Milam and Colley got dinner and spent the afternoon together. Milam urged Colley to let the old woman come in out of the rain and was bullied by Colley who had two pistols. Colley threatened to run him off the mountain. Milam asked for his gun, having agreed to go. He got his gun and had got outside of the yard when he heard Colley come to the door and snap a pistol. He whirled and shot him and ran. He heard Colley cry out "Murder! I 'm killed!" He went to the nighbors and then for the doctor and gave himself up the next day. The gun he used was a mountain rifle running 108 balls to the pound.

Milam says that Colley is a bad man and was shot in Nicholas county by one Carl McGlaughlin a year or so ago.

Colley's Account of It.

Colley simply says that he was bushwhacked. Milam had departed a few minutes before and had shot him from the hill-side a hundred yards away. He was standing in the house with the door open.

The Wound.

Dr H. W. McNeel is attending the wounded man. The ball struck the collar bone on his right side and ranged down. It is a very serious wound and the recovery of the patient doubtful. The surroundings are the worst imaginable for nursing. Owing to the fact that the ball had glanced from the collar-bone it could not be located. The wound shows unmistakably that the shot was fi [redacted] from an elevation, and will ha great significance owing to t conflicting statements of the pri cipal parties.

Colley.

Those who attended Court Marlinton in April and June m remember seeing Colley, who was there to answer indictments. He is a thick, heavy set man, about 45 years old, and has the look of a tough customer. He claims to be a graduate of a Tennessee College and he speaks like a man of some education. He claims also to have served in the navy and is fond of relating incidents of his life there, and those who are well read in naval affairs find nothing in his description to discredit the statement. He has cherished two murderous pistols, and was indicted in two cases for carrying such weapons.

The County Institute.

The Teachers' Institute will be held at Marlinton, August 8, 1898, at 10-30 A. M. and will continue five days.

The law states explicitly that every teacher shall attend a county institute at least five full days, or have an excuse for not attending. Teachers will only get credit for the actual time they are in attendance. Trustees violate the law if they employ a teacher who has not a certificate of attendance for five days at an institute held in this State since June 1, 1898, or have an excuse for non-attendance, properly signed by the Board of examiners. Excuses for non-attendance will be signed only when the board is in session at the regular stated examinations. Frivolous and petty excuses will not be accepted.

No topics have been arranged for the evening session, but a program will be arranged, consisting of music, essays, recitations, etc., and we hope the teachers will be prepared to take a part in these exercises.

Teachers examination will be held at Marlinton Monday and Tuesday, August 15 and 16.

D. L. BARLOW,
County Superintendent of Schools.

LOBELIA.

G. M. McMillion, miller, is doing a big business.

Rev C. M. Anderson is building a dwelling on Main street.

There are lots of berries of all kinds in this section.

Corn looks better than ever was known to look at this time.

Prof W. S. Anderson has returned home. Also Prof Stulting and wife.

H. W. Williams died last week after a long sickness. He leaves a wife and a large family of small children.

There has been some rioting in this section, but the list of wounded and killed are not known, but some have been badly scared.

Quarterly meeting at Imanuel last Saturday and Sunday. Good preaching by Brother Martin, and excellent behavior.

The funeral sermon of Rev S. C. Morgan took place at White Oak Grove, Sunday a week. The services were largely attended.

Some of the people ran the risk of losing their lives in fording high water Sunday. W. B. Hill says it ran over the wheels of his buggy.

Hot and wet. Some wheat not in yet. There was a fearful rain storm on the heads of Hills and Bruffeys Creeks Sunday. The rain was accompanied by hail which injured gardens and crops.

W. B. Hill has secured a nice post office cabinet of the latest style and will take charge of the U. S. Mail at Lobelia in a short time. We would be glad if the other post masters would follow his example.

LONG JAKE.

Thriving Communities.

Dunmore and its surroundings impress one as a place of grand possibilities and its worthy citizens may be pardoned for cherishing great expectations when railway facilities, so long expected, should materialize. The scenery is poetically attractive, mineral waters of several kind within the radius of a mile, and sites for machinery propelled by water power exceptionally good. This is the home of the Silver Tongued Auctioneer whose voice and presence is so familliar to our citizenship far and near. The writer hopes the genial Captain will pardon him for the mistake he made when he mistook the whistling of the steamer at the shop for the echoes of his enthusiastic friend's voice, practising for a musical concert at the cross roads or Driftwood.

Green Bank is a place of marked importance in the affairs of the county. As was formerly remarked of Pennsylvania, 'As goes Pennsylvania so goes the Union.' So by way of accomodation, 'As goes Green Bank so goes the county.' Hence it is the "keystone" district even when Split Rock is to be heard from. There are three stores four resident physicians, a manse, several nice residences occupied by genteel families, and two churches generally filled by large, orderly assemblies. For years there has been a literary society attended by the leading citizens, and many [redacted] cahontas Confederate soldiers was bestowed upon a Green Bank volunteer.

A Freak of Nature.

In passing recently over the road between Huntersville and Dunmore many thousands of trees were passed, presenting a great variety in form, kind and proportions, and yet but one tree attracted special notice and examination: a small white oak perhaps five or six inches in diameter and twenty or thirty feet in height. Sometime it had been bent double and partially broken. Some eighteen or twenty inches below the curvature a shoot put forth that grew reversely to the rest of the limbs on that part of the tree, and seemed to have absorbed all the vitality beyond it and so the top decayed and dropped off just beyond this shoot. Now there is a curious triple convolution or contortion that is suggestive of the long and persistent effort to regain its normal posture.

Persons troubled with diarrhoea will be interested in the experience of Mr W. M. Bush, clerk of Hotel Dorrance, Providence, R. I. He says: "For several years I have been almost a constant sufferer from diarrhoea, the frequent attacks completely prostrating me and rendering me unfit for my duties at this hotel. About two years ago a traveling salesman kindly gave me a small bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera, and Diarrhoea Remedy. Much to my surprise and delight its effects were immediate. Whenever I felt symptoms of the disease I would fortify myself against the attack with a few doses of this valuable remedy. The result has been very satisfactory and almost complete relief from this affliction." For sale by Amos Barlow, Huntersville; Barlow & Moore, Edray.

Educate Your Bowels With Cascarets.
Candy Cathartic, cure constipation forever. 10c, 25c. If C. C. C. fail, druggists refund money.

Commissioner's Notice

G. F. Crummett, Assignee, Pff.
vs.
John P. Varner.. ...Defendant.

Pursuant to a decree of the Circuit Court of Pocahontas County. West Virginia, rendered in the above styled cause on the 21st day of June, 1898. the undersigned Commissioner will proceed at his office in the town of Marlinton, West Virginia, on the 15th day of August, 1898, to take, state, and report to Court the following matters of account, to wit:

First: A statement showing the liens upon the lands of the defendant John P. Varner, with their respective legal dignities and priorities.

Second: What land the said John P. Varner owns in this county subject to said liens.

Third: Whether or not the lands of the said John P. Varner will rent in five years for a sum sufficient to pay said liens.

Fourth: Any other matter, &c.

At which time and place all parties in interest may attend.

Given under my hand this 6th day of July, 1898.

W. A. BRATTON,
Commissioner.

NOTICE to LIEN HOLDERS.

To all persons holding liens, by judgment or otherwise, on the real estate or any part thereof of John P. Varner.

In pursuance of an order of the Circuit Court of Pocahontas County, rendered in a cause therein pending to subject the real estate of the said John P. Varner to the satisfaction of the liens thereon, you are hereby required to present all claims held by you and each of you against the said John P. Varner, which are liens on his real estate or any part of it, for adjudication to me, at my office in the town of Marlinton, West Virginia, on or before the 15th day of August, 1898.

Given under my hand this 6th day of July, 1898.

W. A. BRATTON,
Commissioner.

Trustee's Sale

PURSUANT to a deed of trust made on the 12th day of July, 1897, by John T. McGraw to the undersigned trustee, and recorded in the Clerk's office of the county court of Pocahontas County, in Deed Book No. 27, page 432, to secure the payment of two certain notes each for $2-33.33 negotiable and payable at the People's National Bank, of Charlottesville, Virginia, with 6 per cent interest from July 12, 1897, until paid to Samuel B. Woods, and costs of executing the said deed, and default having been made in the payment of the second of said notes, an being required by the said beneficiary, Samuel B. Woods, the undersigned trustee will on the 13th day of August, 1898,

between the hours of ten o'clock A. M. and four o'clock P. M., at the front door of the court house of Pocahontas County, West Virginia, in the town of Marlinton, proceed to sell at public auction to the highest bidder the land conveyed in said deed of trust, comprising a tract of 1000 acres of land situated im said Pocahontas County, lying on the east side of the West Fork of Greenbrier River, and bounded as follows:

Beginning at two maples, cherry, beech, and yew pine, on the east bank of the Greenbrier River, and with the old line S 78¼ E 812 poles to two pines and a beech in a hollow on the west side of the divide between the west branch and Little River, 5½ poles to the north of a blazed line, S 24 55 M W 204 to a beech, witnessed by two yew pines and two beeches on a north hillside corner to the other 1000 acres of the Slaughter land, sold Craig & Upton, the same leaving the old line N 78¼ W 852 poles, at 133 poles crosses the top of the divide at 210 poles passes two marked sugar-trees by a small spring or drain. 235 poles crosses a north eastern branch of Paul's Lick Run, at 360 poles passes a large marked cherry on top of a spur of Paul's Lick Ridge, at 433 crosses the northwestern fork of Paul's Lick Run, at 563 poles passes a marked birch on top of a spur of Paul's Lick Ridge, at 663 poles crosses Paul's Lick Run all at six poles above the Mud Lick, at 745 poles crosses the top of the north spur of Hunter's Camp Ridge, to two maples witnessed by two birches on the east bank of the west fork of the river, thence up the river with its meanderings to the beginning It being that tract of land conveyed to John T. McGraw by Samuel B. Woods and wife by deed bearing date on the 12th day of July, 1897. and recorded in the clerk's office of the county court of Pocahontas County West Virginia, in Deed Book No. 27, page 445.

Terms of Sale: Cash

Given under my hand this 16th day of July, 1898.

JAMES MORGAN, Trustee.

CASTORIA
For Infants and Children.
The Kind You Have Always Bought
Bears the Signature of

NOTICE.

SILLING & SLAVEN,

TIN, SHEET-IRON
ROOFING,
GUTTER SPOUTING,
ROOF PAINTING,
FLUES, STOVE PIPE.
GALVANIZED FLUES,
SMOKE STACKS,
FRUIT DRYERS,
GALVANIZED TANKS,
AND CISTERNS.

Shop - Made Tin Ware Always on Hand.

LIGHTNING RODS.

Work Done on Short Notice.

Call or write to

SILLING & SLAVEN,
ACADEMY, W. VA.

MARLINTON HOUSE
Located East End of Bridge

Terms.
per day - $1 & $1.50
per meal - - 25

Good accommodations for horses at 25 cents per feed.

Special rates made by the week or month.

C. A. YEAGER. - - Proprietor

W. H. Hartley,

Plasterer and Painter.

I wish to inform the citizens of the county that I am prepared at any time to do any work in my line.

One smooth coat plastering for papering or painting	7c yd
Two coats and a skim of lime	9c yd
Hard finish....	10c yd

[Including boarding and tending and horse found.]

CALSOMINING A SPECIALTY.

Any letters addressed to me will be promptly answered. All work attended to in this and adjoining Counties.

W. H. HARTLEY,
Jacox, W. Va.

June 1 3m.

Commissioners Notice.

Office of S. B Scott, Jr., Commissioner in Chancery, Marlinton, W. Va., July 8th, 1898.

Pursuant to a decree of the Circuit court of Pocahontas county, entered on the 24th day of June, 1898 in a chancery cause therein pending entitled:

Johnson and Gwinn and others,
versus
J. T. Hogsett and others,

I will proceed at my office in the town of Marlinton, West Virginia, on the 8th day of August, 1898, to take, state, and report to court the following matters of account to wit:

First: A statement showing the subsisting liens upon the lands of the defendant, J. T. Hogsett, showing the respective dates, dignities, and priorities of the same and to whom due and payable.

Second: A statement showing the real estate owned by the defendant, J. T. Hogsett, against which said liens may be asserted.

Third: A statement showing the fee simple and annual rental value of said real estate, and whether or not the same will in five years rent for a sum sufficient to pay off and discharge the liens thereon.

Fourth: Any other matter to be specially stated, deemed pertinent by the Commissioner, or required by any party in interest to be specially stated.

At which time and place all parties in interest may attend.

Respectfully,
S. B. SCOTT, Jr.,
Commissioner in Chancery.

NOTICE to LIEN HOLDERS.

To all parties holding liens by judgment or otherwise on the real estate, or any part thereof, of J. T. Hogsett:

In pursuance of a decree of the Circuit court of Pocahontas county made in a cause therein pending to subject the real estate of the said J. T. Hogsett to the satisfaction of the liens thereon, you are hereby required to present all claims held by you and each of you against the said J. T. Hogsett, which are liens on his real estate or any part of it, for adjudication to me at my office in the town of Marlinton, Pocahontas county, West Virginia, on or before the 8th day of August, 1898.

Given under my hand this 8th day of July, 1898.

S. B. SCOTT, Jr.,
Commissioner in Chancery.

Commissioners Notice.

Office of S. B. Scott, Jr., Commissioner in Chancery, Marlinton, W. Va., July 22d, 1898.

Pursuant to a decree of the Circuit Court of Pocahontas County, made on the 24th day of June, 1898 in a chancery cause therein pending, entitled:

J. W. Marshall and others
vs.
Andrew Workman and others,

I will proceed at my office in the town of Marlinton, West Virginia, on the 16th day of August, 1898, to take, state and report to court the following matters of account towit:

First: An account of the liens upon the land of the defendant, Andrew Workman, with their respective amounts and priorities, showing to whom such amounts are due and payable.

Second: A statement showing the lands owned by the said Andrew Workman, together with the fee simple and annual rental value thereof.

Third: Any other matter to be specially stated deemed pertinent by the Commissioner or required by any party in interest to be so stated.

At which time and place all partiee in interest may attend.

Respectfully,
S. B. SCOTT, Jr.,
Commissioner in Chancery.

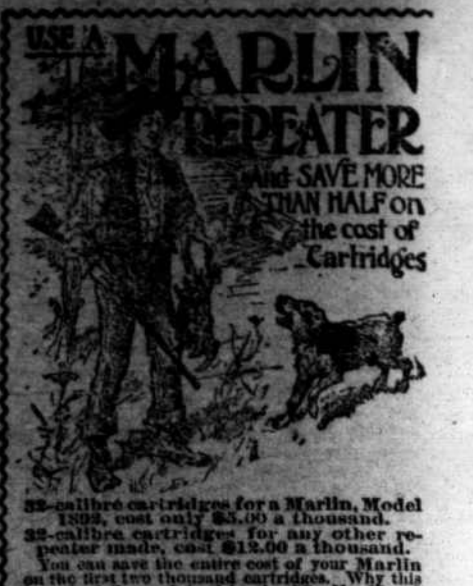
NOTICE to LIEN HOLDERS.

To all persons holding liens, by judgment or otherwise, on the real estate or any part thereof of Andrew Workman:

In pursuance of a decree of the Circuit Court of Pocahontas County made in a cause therein pending to subject the real estate of the said Andrew Workman to the satisfaction of the liens thereon, you are hereby required to present all claims held by you and each of you against the said Andrew Workman which are liens on his real estate or any part of it, for adjudication to me at my office in the town of Marlinton, Pocahontas County, West Virginia, on or before the 16th day of August, 1898.

Given under my hand this 22d day of July, 1898.

S. B. SCOTT, Jr.,
Commissioner in Chancery.



USE A MARLIN REPEATER And SAVE MORE THAN HALF on the cost of Cartridges

32-calibre cartridges for a Marlin, Model 1892, cost only $5.00 a thousand. 32-calibre cartridges for any other repeater made, cost $12.00 a thousand. You can save the entire cost of your Marlin on the first two thousand cartridges. Why this is so is fully explained in the Marlin Hand Book for shooters. It also tells how to care for firearms and how to use them. How to load cartridges with the different kinds of black and smokeless powders. It gives trajectories, velocities, penetrations and 100 other points of interest to sportsmen. 136 pages. Free, if you will send stamps for postage to THE MARLIN FIREARMS CO., New Haven, Conn.

$18. IMPROVED SINGER. FREIGHT PREPAID.

For this style new high arm sewing machine with all attachments warranted 10 years. If machine is not satisfactory in 30 days money will be refunded. Send cash with order. Descriptive circular sent on application.

WHAYNE M'F'G CO.,
860 FOURTH AVE., LOUISVILLE, KY.

ALLEGANY COLLEGIATE INSTITUTE.

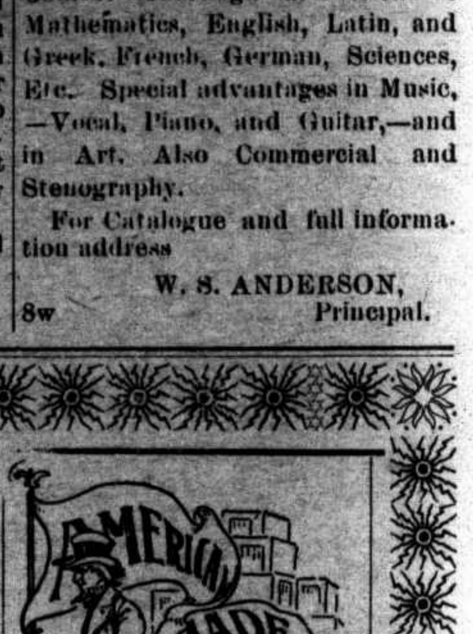
Alderson, W. Va.

SIXTH SESSION OPENS SEPT. 15TH.

Full Academic and Collegiate Course. Thorough instructions in Mathematics, English, Latin, and Greek, French, German, Sciences, Etc. Special advantages in Music, —Vocal, Piano, and Guitar,—and in Art. Also Commercial and Stenography.

For Catalogue and full information address

W. S. ANDERSON,
8w Principal.



REMEMBER THE MAINE!

But do n't forget that the Golden Store has reduced the prices on CALICO from 6cts to 3 1-2c. This seasons purchase, Standard make, and handsome patterns.

Do n't overlook the fact that the Golden Store can do more for you than other stores in giving good quality for the least money

THE GOLDEN STORE.

LEWISBURG FEMALE INSTITUTE.

THE LEADING FEMALE SEMINARY IN WEST VIRGINIA.

Collegiate, Academic, and Preparatory Departments. Classical, Scientific, Music, and Art. Best of Fare. Hot and Cold Baths. Rooms Carpeted. Gives a Thorough Christian Education.

TESTIMONY.

REV E. O. GUERRANT, D. D., of Kentucky:

"A good Female School is a public blessing, and among many noble institutions I do not know a better one than the one presided over by Rev R. L. Telford at Lewisburg, W. Va. It is Christian, Biblical, thorough, and attractive making not only finished scholars but lovely Christian charaters. It is good enough to educate my own daughter, and I take pleasure in commending it to my friends.'

REV M. L. LACY, D. D, of West Virginia:

"I honestly believe it is the very best school of which I have any knowledge."

HON JOHN W. McCREERY, of the State Senate, W. Va.:

"Having had two daughters at the Lewisburg Female Institute, under the management of Rev R. L. Telford, it affords me pleasure to say that I regard the school as one of the best in the country."

DR J. M. POYNTZ, of Richmond, Ky.:

"Rarely indeed does one have the opportunity of placing their daughters in so good an institution of learning as the one presided over by Rev R. L. Telford, at Lewisburg. Anyway, it has been good enough for me. My daughter has been cared for as if she had been a member of the family."

REV D. S. SYDENSTRICKER, D. D., Hillsboro, W. Va.:

"Having been a patron of the Lewisburg Female Institute for two years, I can sincerely commend it to the attention and patronage of all who desire to have their daughters thoroughly trained in mind and heart. The course of instruction is thorough and honest No half-way work is done. The refining and elevating Christian influences thrown around the pupils are most excellent."

IMPROVEMENTS.

Seventeen Thousand Dollars expended during the last five years in additions and improvements.

Send for illustrated catalogue to

Rev R. L. TELFORD, Lewisburg, W. Va.

The Pocahontas Times,

Hear, Land o' Cakes and brither Scots,
Frae Maidenkirk to Johnny Groats,
If there's a hole in a' your coats,
I rede ye tent it;
A chiel's amang you takin' notes,
An' faith he'll prent it.—BURNS

Local Events.

WANTED.—Good, strong teams to work on railroad construction. Will pay $3 a day. Apply to Contractor Patterson, Beverly, W. Va.

William Burns, of Academy, has gotten up the frame of a dwelling-house. Dr McClintic's house is nearly completed and is a very handsome residence.

Options have been taken by Senator N. C. McNeil on property situated at Buckeye, the first station south of Marlinton on the Greenbrier Valley Railroad.

There will be horse racing and tennis at Mingo next Friday and Saturday. Representatives from Marlinton and Covington will be present and engage in both pastimes.

"I have used Chamberlain's Cough Remedy in my family for years and always with good results," says Mr W. B. Coopr of El Rio, Cal. "For small children we find it especially effective."

We learn that 1½ miles of track have been laid between Beverly and Huttonsville. William Irvine of this place is working there with two teams and writes that the work is very hard on his horses.

Gillaspie & Alphin, of the Hot Springs, have opened a first class European restaurant and barber shop in connection with their bar. Also free wagon yard with stalls for horses, and house for wagoners to camp in, located just below the freight depot.

A fine Presbyterian church is being built on a lot given by A. M McLaughlin, of Greenbrier. The church is built as a branch of the Lewisburg church. It is said to be one of the most tasteful in the Greenbrier Valley. Mr McLaugh- is the practical head of the enterprise.

Sydenstricker & Clark are drilling a well for A. M. McLaughlin, near Lewisburg. They have secured a good many orders in Greenbrier. The deepest well they have yet sunk was at the steam mill at Savannah, where they reached 104 feet. They are working in a rich and populous section. At Mr McLaughlin's they struck solid limestone at the depth of seven feet.

Monday, Tuesday, and the four following days are bargain days with us. To anyone who will buy $1.00 worth of dry goods we will sell them 1 set Glass Tumblers for 10c; or 1 pound Red Elk Tobacco for 20c. This offer only holds good until 1st August, 1898, and only one from each family will be allowed this prize. Come one and all—its our loss and your gain. Remember, this is a cash sale.

Yours respectfully,
L. D. SHARP.

Tom Shelton, an old Confederate soldier, visits around until patience ceases to be a virtue. He has recently had so much trouble that he declares if the Democrats of Pocahontas do not treat him better he is going to stop voting the ticket. This terrible threat will cause the Democratic party to reward him for the good he has done by securing him a room at George Gladwell's county hotel where they stay at home on election day, When he called in his off-hand style at the printing office the other day for a "little chuck of dinner," he was requested to show his good faith by cutting wood. He did it but was terribly grieved and said that we were certainly turning Republican.

Advertising helps every live business. It widens the reach and invigorates it generally. If your business is dead advertising will not help it any more than a stimulant will revive a corpse. The best advertisement a country merchant can have is in his home paper. If he advertises in a unique and noticable way his name will be in everybody's mouth and they will come miles to his store, passing other other stores on ther way. But they will make only one trip if he does not come up to expectations. What a store-keeper should do is to sell large quantities of goods at reasonable prices and become a public benefactor. To do this he must have the inducements and let his popular prices be known.

For the past two years a very interesting phenomenon has been nototiced in one of Amos J. Dilley's meadows. About the last of July, 1896, Hevener Dilley raked hay one afternoon and was stopped by the evening dews. Next afternoon Howard Dilley began where Hevener left off and raked twenty-four rows, running about due north and south. When the aftermath grew up there was a marked difference in the rows, alternately twelve one color and twelve a different color, while nothing of the sort could be noticed in what Hevener raked over. A difference is still perceptable after a lapse of two years. Much attention has been attracted and the place has been visited by quite a number of persons and it has been the wonder of all.

PERSONAL MENTION.

K. E. Hogsett, of Mill Point, has gone to Addison Springs.

Miss Mamie McClintic gave a birthday party July 7th in honor of her eighth birthday. The little hostess' mother, Mrs L. M. McClintic, gave them a fine supper. There were no young gentlemen present except John and George McClintic who were permitted to come to the table. Those present were Mary Yeager, Katie Irvine Ona Bird, Edith McLaughlin, Texia Yeager, Gertrude and Vernie Files.

Harvey Nottingham, now in the eighties, a much respected citizen of the Glade Hill vicinity, is in a precarious state of health and suffers much. He devoted his early manhood to building up an ideal home in the primative forest; thinking Pocahontas was good enough for him. In his home in a secluded quiet vale, surrounded by his attached family, he is tranquilly awaiting the call to a "house not made with hands but eternal in the heavenlie."

Ezra Wooddell is building up a very attractive home on Rosin Run, two or three miles east of Green Bank. This young man has had a chance to make something of himself. and according to Dr Talmage he may be classed among the fortunate ones, as he had no fortune to inherit, and consequently was not robbed of the privilege of making something of himself and for himself and country. Dr Talmage seems to feel very sorry for those who are so unfortunate as to be heirs of thousands or millions, and thus be cruelly deprived of opportunities for making something of themselves.

John B. McCutchan, at the old McCutchan home on Thomas Creek near Dunmore, a faithful Confederate veteran, is well nigh disabled by rheumatic infirmaties and a prolonged attack of influenza, all which he bears patiently. His has been a life of faithful endeavor for the comfort of aged parents, and then to his own family, and now in his sad afflictions he has the memories of a useful, well spent life and hopes of a better life beyond the present to sustain him. It is touching to see him sitting at the window with his Testament opened at words like these, "Let not your heart be troubled. In my fathers house are many mansions. I go to prepare a place for you"

The Telephone.

The Beverly and Marlinton Telephone Company expect to have their phones put in in Marlinton by August 10th. The work of putting in the poles is very much advanced. One landowner near Edray uprooted a telephone pole which had been placed along the road outside his fence. This action was about as safe as destroying property of other people generally. The State takes the right of eminent domain in the matter of setting telephone poles along public highways, and by the statute the county court gives the right to set poles regardless of the landowners along the right of way. Until that statute is declared unconstitutional, a landowner who acts in this way is as much within his rights as if he had torn up a culvert or any other improvement put there by the county authorities.

Fatal Accident.

Paul Vandervort, eldest son of Frank Vandervort, of Savannah, was killed in the oil fields near Mannington. He was engaged in hauling some heavy irons, such as are used in oil wells, and the wagon was upset and a portion of the load fell across the young man, crushing him in such a manner that he died in a few hours.

His grandfather, William Vandervort, lives in Marlinton. This is the third death in the family within eight months. His sister Nellie died last Christmas and a brother a week or so since. Paul was the eldest of the family and was a hard worker aud and a young man of exceptionally good habits.

Notice.

The two Ladies' Aid Societies connected with the M. E. church at Marlinton will on the evening of August 10th at 8 o'clock, give entertainment at the school-house consisting of ice-cream, cake, and other refreshments, the proceeds to be applied to the furnishing of the church now being constructed at this place. All assistance thankfully received. All are cordially invited to attend and aid in this cause. Every effort will be made by the ladies to make the evening pleasant and agreeable to young and old.

Detinue.

Dr Cunningham and H. Nathan had a horse trade, "sight-unseen," and the Doctor gave Nathan $12.50 to boot. The Doctor knew he could not be hurt and Nathan thought he was getting a good price for his horse. Nathan went to look at his bargain and concluded he was only in fun, and rode his horse on to the Levels and traded it to Henry McNeel. Hence the Doctor brings his suit.

All parties met at Marlinton last Saturday and the matter was satisfactorily arranged. The trade stood and the action was abated.

DUNMORE.

Mrs S. B. Hannah was in town Monday.

Boys, you must not kiss your girl without a stamp.

John B. McCutchan has been quite sick for a few days.

The planing machine at Sweecker's Station is in full blast.

Mr and Mrs D. B. McElwee spent several days in town.

R. L. Nottingham and Sid are out to Staunton with the wagon.

Quite a large crowd attended the meeting at Liberty church Sunday.

Peace may be declared, but where is prosperity coming from?

Rev W. T. Price will lecture at the Oak Grove Church Friday night.

Jacob Kerr is is very ill. Mrs Kerr is better. Joseph Moore is also better.

Frank Patterson, Jr., has returned from Parkersburg where he has been at school.

John A. Noel has gone to Huttonsville to contract for a fine dwelling house for Dr Snyder.

Very wet and warm; wheat and rye cutting about over; corn, oats and buckwheat fine; grass heavy, and garden stuff doing well.

Mr Pritchard will put in a flour sifter in his mill instead of a bolt. The sifter is said to be a great improvement over the bolt or reel.

We find a good many people wanting better roads. The only way to get them is by taxation and some one to see that the money is applied properly.

NIMROD SHIFTER.

Pocahontas Scenery.

Pocahontas has never appeared to a better advantage than the past few weeks. As one passes from place to place he feels like saying what H. W. Beecher is reported to have remarked about strawberries: The Creator could have made a better berry, but so far as known he has not done so. So the writer would say of Pocahontas: Providence could have made more varied and attractive scenery, but so far as the writer's observation goes it has not been done. Time after time the Psalmist's words have come to mind:

> "Thou waterest the ridges thereof abundantly: thou settest the furrows thereof; thou makest it soft with showers; thou blessest the springing thereof.
>
> "Thou crownest the year with thy goodness and thy paths drop fatness.
>
> "They drop upon the pastures of the wilderness and the little hills rejoice on every side
>
> "The pastures are clothed with flocks the valleys also are covered over with corn; they shout for joy, they also sing.—Psalm 65.

The New Road.

The new road that has been much talked about between Glade Hill and Meadow Dale promises to be one of the most beneficial improvements now in sight. A competent surveyor has been over the route and he says the top of Alleghany can be reached by 2 degrees and from that to Meadow Dale 3 degrees would be the steepest grade at any point. By this route the distance between Monterey and Dunmore would be 18 miles, thence to Marlinton 20 miles and from Marlinton to Monterey 38 miles.

Were a road opened up between Dilleys Mill and Marlinton the distance from Dunmore would be shortened about five miles and then Marlinton Monterey would be 33 miles apart. Driscol is about 33 miles from Monterey, and therefore the new route would be shortened as far as Driscol is from Marlinton. The possibilities of the proposed improvement are very encouraging.

Our baby has been continually troubled with colic and cholera infantum since his birth, and all that we could do for him did not seem to give more than temporary relief, until we tried Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera, and Diarrhoea Remedy. Since giving that remedy he has not been troubled. We want to give you this testimonial as an evidence of our gratitude, not that you need it to advertise your meritorious remedy.—G. M. LAW, Keokuk, Iowa.

Notice.

All persons who are owing me on mill accounts will take notice that they are expected to settle their accounts with me by August 15. I am about to sever my connection with the mill, and if prompt settlement is not made I will put out my accounts for collection.

J. W. BURGESS.

Mill Point, W. Va.

Tetter, Salt-Rheum and Eczema.

The intense itching and smarting incident to these diseases is instantly allayed by applying Chamberlan's Eye and Skin Ointment. Many very bad cases have been permanently cured by it. It is equally efficient for itching piles and a favorite remedy for sore nipples, chapped hands, chilblains frost bits and chronic sore eyes. 25cts. per box. For sale by

DR CADY'S CONDITION POWDERS are just what a horse needs when in bad condition. Tonic, blood purifier and vermifuge. They are not a food but a medicine and the best in use to put a horse in prime condition. Price 25 cents per package. For sale by

To Cure a Cold in One Day.

Take Laxative Bromo Quinine Tablets. All Druggists refund the money if it fails to Cure. 25c.

MILL POINT.

We hope the war will soon close so a poor fellow can build a chicken coop without a revenue stamp.

Cherries still seem to be plentiful as ever in places. Ivetta Auldridge, of Buckeye, caused the writer to get his mouth blackened with them last Friday.

Some one from Buckeye last week referred to Isaac Smith and his little daughter. Miss Maud says she is glad they called her little for she always did like little people.

John Hambrick and W. H. Shafer have traded farms. The trade seems to suit all parties well. It gives Hambrick more land and more work to do, and gives the greater convenience to Shafer, being near the road at Marvin.

We noticed a few words of encouragement, in The Times a short time ago, to mechanics. I would like to refer also to Patterson Simmons, who has done a job of plastering for Isaac B. Smith that is an exceptionally good one—not a single crack or break can be found. Let the good work go on, boys!

MUX.

The Mail Routes.

The Department has awarded Marlinton a daily mail and notices have been posted at the Marlinton postoffice for bids on a route of 41 miles from Lewisburg to Marlinton arriving at Marlinton not later than 9 P. M., and on a route from Travelers Repose to Marlinton. We have heard of only one bid being submitted and that was sent in from Lewisburg. In the winter time the mail often reaches Academy as late as nine o'clock at night, and the contractor must put in a better service for the county-seat will not wait aftertime for its mail.

The contractor should bid at a price that will not enable him to carry it at a profit. The bids were closed July 17.

Commissioners Notice.

Commissioner's Office, Marlinton, W. Va., July 16th, 1898.

Pursuant to a decree of the Circuit Court of Pocahontas County, entered on the 24th day of June, 1898, in the chancery cause of

G. P. Kerr and others
vs.
P. B. Rader and others.

The undersigned Commissioner will proceed at his office in the town of Marlinton, West Virginia, on the 20th day of August, 1898 to take, state, and report to court the following matters of account, towit:

1st. An account showing what amount, if any, of the purchase money on said 136 acres of land is due to the defendant O. P. Chew from the defendants Philip B. Rader or S. D. Bright.

2d. An account showing how much money has been paid by the defendant S. D. Bright to the defendant O. P. Chew, since his pretended purchase on the 12th day of September, 1896.

3d. An account showing the amounts due the plaintiffs in this cause, together with their dates and priorities.

4th. An account showing the subsisting liens on the lands of the said Phillip B. Rader.

5th. Any other matter deemed pertinent by the Commissioner, or required to be specially stated by any other party in interest.

Given under my hand this 16th day of July, 1898.

ANDREW PRICE,
Commissioner in Chaucery.

BUCKEYE.

Plenty of rain and mud.

O. W. Kellison was at Riverside Sunday.

Vick Kelley, of Academy, was in town Monday.

J. C. Duncan was doing some milling last Sunday.

Walter Mann, of Edray was in town on business last week.

A. W. McNeil and A. W. Rogers were gathering cherries Sunday.

E. S. Hefner and Miss Nelia Gordon were married last Tuesday. They had a very pleasant time.

SLICK HAMMER.

Store News.

You cant make a purse from a sow's ear, and if you could it would n't pay you. So you can not expect bargains except from merchants who are getting bargains. The Golden store buys goods in such large quantities that manufacturers are making closer prices. In some things you probably would not see much difference, but take it all through you will find a big difference in prices. Here is for a flyer: 2½ gallon Brass Kettles. heavy weight. for $1.19 cash and larger sizes in proportion. I also have a few pieces in the 3½ cent calico. Persons who have tried them say they are fast colors. Come and buy while they last. A choice lot of Oxford ties latest styles at 98c.; worth $1.50.

P. GOLDEN.

J. D. PULLIN & CO.,
Manufacturers' Agents for all kinds of Musical Merchandise.
Lowest estimates furnished on everything in this line.
J D PULLIN & CO,
Marlinton, W. Va.

The Great War.

We nave won success by our ability to demonstrate our bargain claims; we guarantee the smallest of our patrons the same courteous attention given the largest.

We are taking great pains in buying our
Spring and Summer Stock of Goods. . .

And all bargains will be shared with our customers.

We keep goods moving by keeping goods that move;—we test every value—our prices do the rest. Its not a question of opinion, its a rock-ribbed fact that our prices can not be successfully cut under. Don't scatter your dollars unwisely; concentrate them here and save more of them.

It is shrewd and well directed effort that makes our bargains unusual. Our PRICES PUZZLE COMPETITORS AND DELIGHT PURCHASERS.

Thanking you for your past patronage, we remain.
Yours respectfully,
L D Sharp.
Linwood W Va

The Levels News.

Edited by Payne Bros.

Vol. 1 Academy, W. Va., July 22, 1898. No. 27

Market, July 22, 1898
—Feathers Live Goose, 40c lb.
—Eggs 9c per dozen.
—Butter 10 to12½ per pound.
—Lard 8c per lb.
—Corn 75c per bushel.
—Wheat 90 to $1 per bushel.
—Oats 40c per bushel.
—Chickens 5c to 8c lb.
—Bacon 10c to 12½c.
—Ginseng $2.50 a pound, dry.
—At PAYNE BROS.

—Stoneware at Payne Bros.

—Jar tapes and rubbers at Payne Bros.

—Buy Mason's Fruit Jars from Payne Bros.

Prof W. S. Anderson was in town Tuesday.

Mrs J. H. Sydenstricker has returned home.

—Dr J. A. Larue has sold his house and lot to H. W. McNeel.

—W. M. Burns is building a dwelling house on Nicholas Street.

Mrs Holt has been visiting her son E. I. Holt the past few weeks.

—Mrs Arbogast and little girl, of Green Bank, are visiting Mrs W. A Eskridge.

—Quite a number of our people attended the Quarterly meeting at Lobelia last Saturday.

—Have a few very fine Pictures of Dewey and the Battleship Maine framed at very low prices at Payne Bros.

—Suits of furniture at Payne's.

—Hay carriers and rope, Payne Bros.

—Granite ware in Stew Pans, Buckets. Wash Basins, and Rensing Pans at Payne Bros.

—Cradle and Fingers, Scythes, Snaths, Brush Hooks and Brush Scythes sold very cheap at Payne Bros.

—Any one having live stock to sell will do well to write S. J. Payne, as he is now shipping and paying top prices.

Mrs May Levisay and daughter and Misses Rate and Jane Bell, of Frankford have been visiting Mrs P. S. Clark the past few days.

SALT: $2 A SACK.
AT PAYNE BROS.

Best grades of Roller Flour at
G. L. HANNAH'S,
Yelk, W. Va.
BARLOW & MOORE'S,
Edray, W. Va.
J. H. CURRY'S,
Green Bank, W. Va.
R. L. NOTTINGHAM'S,
Dunmore, W. Va.
J. H. DOYLE,
Huntersville, W. Va.

Blood Brains Money

A sick man can't make money That's because his brain wont work. A horse wont do work unless he is properly fed. Neither will a brain. If the brain is not kept in good condition with pure, rich blood, it wont produce much.

Men who fail, and men who don't, often have what they call "Nervous Prostration." Nine times in ten the nervous trouble is purely secondary. The real sickness is in their digestion and in their blood. If a man keeps his digestion in good order, and keeps his body full of pure, rich blood, he is never going to be very sick.

Johnston's Sarsaparilla is made for people who want to get well and stay well. Sarsaparilla is a simple, "grandmother" remedy, but it cures. It purifies and enriches the blood and sends it tingling to every part of the body. That is the way it cures all ailments of the brain and nerves—cures insomnia—cures dyspepsia, rheumatism, scrofula, and every other blood disease. It clears the complexion, plumps out the cheeks, and brings back the sparkle to lifeless eyes.

One Dollar is the price, and One thousand Dollars is the health-giving value of every Quart Bottle of Johnston's Sarsaparilla

WILLIAMS, DAVIS, BROOKS & CO., Detroit, Mich.

Try a bottle of Liverettes, the famous little liver pills. 25c.

For sale by—
URIAH BIRD, Marlinton, W. Va.; and A. BARLOW, Huntersville.

Sampson Heard From!

WAR WILL SOON BE OVER,

And You can Invest in Buggies Spring-Wagons, and Carriages.

We have just gotton in a car load of fine Buggies and Carriages which we are selling very low. Call and see us.
We can save you money and give you better work.

VEHICLES MADE TO ORDER.

We also make a specialty of repairing and painting vehicles of all kinds.
When in Town call and see our work.
Yours truly,
Hudgins & Shackelford.
Ronceverte, W. Va.

A STORY.

ABOUT THE NIMBLE SIX-PENCE.

It is Like a Ball of Snow, the Faster You Roll It the More Rapidly It Will Accumulate.

We recognize the fact that to succeed we must undersell.

We recognize that in order to keep our stock complete we must get the pay for our goods promptly.

We also recognize the fact that when we sell our goods on such close prices as to bring them below competition we must collect frequently in order to keep the ball rolling.

We appreciate highly the patronage and kind words of encouragement from our friends and patrons, and request you to encourage us further by coming in and paying up your accounts with cash, so we can replace the goods which you have bought without involving ourselves in dept these scary wartimes.

We hope to be of service to our patrons and can save you money, but do not overlook the main essential point: We need our money often. We are anxious to reduce stock in many lines as much as possible from now till September 1st and will sell at greatly reduced prices.

We have just received a new book of receipts which we would like to up inside of the next thirty days

Call and see us when in town.

Respectfully,
J. D. PULLIN & CO.

Plow Repairs

We have at last succeeded in making arrangements to supply points for the RONCEVERTE PLOW. Full stock now on hand. Send in our orders early. . . .

We are Factory Agents
for IMPERIAL and
SILVER STEEL
Plows.

(The Best Hill-side Plow on the Market.)

Simms & Co.,
Opp. Passenger Depot, RONCEVERTE, W. Va.

The Pocahontas Times.

Andrew & Norman Price, Owners. "Montani Semper Liberi!" Andrew Price, Editor.
VOL. 16, NO. 1 MARLINTON, WEST VIRGINIA, JULY 29, 1898. $1.00 PER YEAR

From FACTORY to CONSUMER.

$1.39 buys this (exact) Rattan Rocker, the largest size ever made; per dozen, $14.50. Our new 112-page catalogue containing Furniture, Draperies, Crockery, Baby Carriages, Refrigerators, Stoves, Lamps, Pictures, Mirrors, Bedding, etc., is yours for the asking. Special supplements just issued are also free. Write to-day. CARPET CATALOGUE in lithographed colors is also mailed free. Write for it. If you wish samples, send 8c. stamp. Matting samples also mailed for 8c. All Carpets sewed free this month and freight paid on $9 purchases and over.

$7.45 buys a made-to-your-measure All-Wool Cheviot Suit, expressage prepaid to your station. Write for free catalogue and samples. Address (exactly as below),

JULIUS HINES & SON,
Dept. 909. BALTIMORE, MD.

LAW CARDS.

N. C. McNEIL,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

Will practice in the Courts of Pocahontas and adjoining counties and in the Court of Appeals of the State of West Virginia.

L. M. McCLINTIC,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

Will practice in the Courts of Pocahontas and adjoining counties and in the Supreme Court of Appeals.

H. S. RUCKER,
ATT'Y. AT LAW & NOTARY PUBLIC
HUNTERSVILLE, W. VA.

Will practice in the courts of Pocahontas county and in the Supreme Court of Appeals.

J. W. ARBUCKLE,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
LEWISBURG, W. VA.

Will practice in the courts of Greenbrier and Pocahontas counties. Prompt attention given to claims for collection in Pocahontas county.

W. A. BRATTON,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

Prompt and careful attention given to all legal business.

ANDREW PRICE,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

Will be found at Times Office.

SAM. B. SCOTT, JR.
LAWYER,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

All legal business will receive prompt attention.

H. M. LOCKRIDGE,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
HUNTERSVILLE, W. VA.

Prompt and careful attention given all legal work.

JOHN A. PRESTON FRED. WALLACE
PRESTON & WALLACE,
Attorneys at Law,
LEWISBURG, W. VA.

Will practice in the Courts of Greenbrier and adjoining counties, and in the Court of Appeals of the State of West Virginia.

PHYSICIANS' CARDS.

DR. O. J. CAMPBELL,
DENTIST,
MONTEREY, VA.

Will visit Pocahontas County at least twice a year. The exact date of his visit will appear in this paper.

DR. J. H. WEYMOUTH.
RESIDENT DENTIST,
ELKINS, W. VA.

Will visit Pocahontas County every spring and fall. The exact date of each visit will appear in The Times.

J. M. CUNNINGHAM, M. D.,
PHYSICIAN & SURGEON,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

Office next door to C. A. Yeager's Hotel. Residence opposite Hotel. All calls promptly answered.

C. B. SWECKER,
General Auctioneer and Real Estate Agent.

I sell Coal, Mineral and Timber Lands. Farms and Town Lots a specialty. 21 years in the business. Correspondence solicited. Reference furnished.
Postoffice - Dunmore, W. Va., or Alexander, W. Va.

Financial Statement.

The Receipts and Expenditures of Pocahontas County during the year ending June 30, 1898.

R. W. HILL, S. P. C.
In Account with POCAHONTAS COUNTY.

		DR.	CR.
1897. July	To amount of Levy on Real Estate	8370.83
"	Personal Property	1350.00
"	Jury Fees collected	30.00
1898 June 30	By Delinquent List on Real Estate		671.56
"	Personal Property		8.95
	By Com. on $9040.32 net levy at 7½ per cent		678.02
	By county orders paid and returned		5887.01
	By Jury Claims "		1095.61
		$9750.83	8341.15
	To Balance due the County	$1409.68

Jury Claims.

Vouchers for amounts paid the following persons for services as Grand Jurors, returned by said Sheriff, in above settlement, viz:

C B Grimes, April Term '97	$ 7 10
M W Gordon	7 16
Ellis McCarty	7 30
W T Moore	6 80
I B Moore	7 60
D A Peck	7 80
J A Young	6 00
A M Kee	6 20
S B Moore	6 56
R C Shrader	6 00
J D Dilley	7 00
S W Kerr	8 70
J J Spencer	10 00
B M Yeager 1898	6 00
Andrew Sheets	8 60
James W Gillispie	8 80
W H Hull	8 60
B F McElwee October 97—	8 10
W R Sutton	8 90
W A G Sharp	8 00
B F White	7 10
P M Harper	7 30
George G Clendennin	7 20
Joel O Hill	7 90
J K Bright	7 20
W W Beard	7 40
Levi Gay	6 30
D B McElwee	6 90
Robert Gibson	7 30
S B Hannah	8 80
Lee R Overholt	1 95
	$216 57

Petit Jurors.

H A Rankin, April, '97	$ 9 10
W E Overholt	10 36
H W McCoy	11 70
S D Hannah	10 65
W B Hannah	10 30
Clark Sharp	11 85
A R Smith	10 20
Clark Kellison	9 56
A J McCoy	9 25
M Ruckman	11 25
C C Silva	9 60
Isaac Sharp	9 60
A W Hannah	10 75
Joel R Hill, June,	9 60
J D Gibson	9 00
J A Moore	9 10
C B Grimes	8 66
A N Barlow	8 40
W W Beard	8 90
S B Moore	8 00
L D Sharp	9 35
Oscar Bell	5 10
C W Rider	9 40
G W McCollam	7 80
N S Duffield	7 80
C M Wallace	8 40
H P Patterson	8 10
I B Moore	9 10
W H Hannah	9 05
W H Callison	9 21
K E Hogsett	8 30
J H Clark	8 81
F L Beard	8 81
G B Cochran	10 01
S S Varner	9 50
Jacob S Moore	8 60
W M Sharp	8 10
J W Baxter	8 81
Abram Hays	8 81
M J McNeel	8 70
Ellis McCarty, October	7 20
W E Overholt	8 50
C B Grimes	8 50
Patrick Henry	9 50
M J McNeel	8 60
W H Cleek	8 65
Mathews Ruckman	8 25
Aaron Moore	7 65
J. Register Moore	7 65
A J McCoy	9 10
W H Boblett	8 50
Eugene Gatewood	9 50
John A Gibson	8 70
Zane Moore	8 90
Uriah W Beverage	8 20
John H Doyle	4 40
Ewing Sharp	8 20
J A Beverage	8 10
Lincoln Cochran	3 50
S J Gay	2 70
C M Wallace	8 30
Saml H Good	9 30
J R Boggs	9 80
Ellis McCarty	7 20
L W Herold Apr 98	5 50
J A Patterson June 98	6 90
George Bambrick	7 10
S P Curry Oct 95	12 60
John Buckley Oct 96	3 40
R J Brown Apr 97	13 50
M C Dilley	11 40
H C Yoakum	12 90
J D Kerr	10 60
E F Arbogast Apr 98	8 60
W H Wooddell	8 60
L J R Dysard	10 00

A P Gay	June 98	7 00
W C Buzzard	June 96	3 50
S D Bright	June 97	10 50
W A Gladwell		10 10
J L McGlaughlin		3 00
P M Yeager	June 96	5 10
W W Arbogast	June 97	10 30
J D Kerr		11 00
John A Sheets	Oct 97	8 70
H M Sutton		9 90
J W Riley		10 30
J R Hevener		10 20
W H Taylor		8 40
P M Yeager		11 20
W J Yeager		11 10
John D Payne	Apr 97	11 70
W W Ruckman		11 75
Peter McCarty		11 60
John W Tyler		9 50
Edgar Smith		11 50
E H Moore		11 70
		$879.04

Amounts paid the following persons for services as Road Surveyors, Repairing Roads and Bridges, viz:

F. Lee Cackley	3 00
W H Callison	3 00
W H McGlaughlin	3 75
Joseph Pyles	9 00
Sherman Gibson	9 10
Oscar A Bell	5 00
H S Galford	16 85
W H Baxter	9 00
W A Shearer	11 62
John Waugh	3 00
W A Wooddell	4 50
J H Buzzard	10 50
B F White	2 00
H H McClintic	3 00
W C and G W Mann	80 05
John A Sheets, son of Geo.,	2 50
F Lee Cackley	3 00
Wm L Gay	5 00
John D Gay	5 00
A M Kee	2 00
Jas J Hannah	4 50
Wm M Siple	35 00
A N Barlow	7 78
Wm M Siple	3 00
J A Young	11 00
Joseph Pennel	9 50
T A Sydenstricker	29 50
E L Smith	3 60
Richard Callison	6 00
Wm Wade	5 80
D A Peck	7 50
H Lee White	9 00
same	6 25
S C Baxter	8 00
D W Sharp	19 00
W M Sharp	2 00
A P Gay	15 50
Page Lee Carter	3 00
K O Wade	16 30
H N Moore	5 50
James E. Wilfong	7 00
D M Kinnison	8 00
N C Rodgers	3 00
G W Whiting	3 00
J H Shrader	7 10
S D Waugh	8 50
R L Crummett	500 00
G M Kee	2 00
A C L Gatewood	2 50
Dr John Ligon	1 25
Hugh Sharp	3 00
J P Carr	6 50
S C Kincaid, Jr,	4 75
L J Pyles	3 25
R W Hill	1 50
A D W Hill	3 50
A H Sharp	8 00
S J Boggs	8 00
Wm H Dilley	2 75
Wm H Cleek	5 50
same	7 50
M A Friel	3 00
James N. White	5 00
J E Wifong & J A Sharp	70 00
Luther Kellison	5 00
Loyd Reid	4 50
T H McGlaughlin	3 00
W A Gladwell	10 00
C O Arbogast	62 50
Ezra Wooddell	5 52
Henry Flenner 1896	5 50
same 1897	8 00
Loring Kerr	100 00
R B Kerr	100 00
J F Patterson	6 50
Ezra Wooddell	3 25
G D Oliver	5 50
J W Oliver	8 00
W A Gladwell	15 00
E F McGlaughlin	12 50
same	10 00
H M Moore	8 00
Sandy Patterson	13 75
J L McGlaughlin	6 00
T J Cassell	5 00
John Grogg	6 50
John W Hollen	11 00
Robert L Brown	2 50

Continued on 2nd page.

ARITHMETIC.

BY D. L. BARLOW, COUNTY SUPERINTENDENT OF SCHOOLS.

One, or a collection of ones is a number. One is the standard by which we count seperate objects. Hence a clear conception of one lies at the basis of all knowledge of numbers.

Without the aid of a teacher, a child, through the use of his senses, will gain a knowledge of numbers. At an early age he will be found able to count—that is, to say the names of numbers in their proper order. The teacher will not resort to any special exercises to develop the idea of counting; but but it is the teachers first duty to ascertain just how far the child's present knowledge of numbers extends, and see if he has a clear conception of the unit or one, which is the standard of numbers. Children can often count as far as a hundred, and yet are unable to select five articles from a collection They use the names as mere words but a few questions in connection with visible objects will soon give the child a knowledge of the meaning of the words. Where the school authorities have declined to purchase the simple apparatus for work in elementary work in numbers, the teacher may use blocks, books, sticks, beads, lines, circles, and dots on the board, etc. Lessons with the numerical frame will also be found of great value.

When the pupil has a clear conception of one as one block, let him place together one and one of the same kind, as one block and one block, one book and one book, one leaf and one leaf, etc. Teach him to call the sum two, two blocks, two books, etc. He should identify the number two with a number of objects.

Show the pupil that the ones must be of the same kind, or the word two cannot be applied to the collection. Have the child to place one block and one book together, and he will at once see, that he cannot say "two blocks" nor "two books." From this experiment the child has learned that two is one and one of the same kind, and that similar numbers must be added to form new numbers.

I would teach the other numbers in the same way. Having two objects of the same kind, let the child put another of the same kind and call the collection three. Lead up to the number four in the same way. Let the pupil do the work. Be careful that he does not use the names as mere words. Make the numbers with a great variety of objects.

Continue the work until the pupil becomes thoroughly acquainted with all the numbers from one to ten. Do not leave this part of the work until it is fully mastered.

When the child has mastered the numbers as far as ten, he is ready to study the numbers from eleven to twenty. He has learned that nine is the largest number that can be expressed by one figure, and now he must learn that numbers greater than nine are expressed by combining two or more figures. We must begin by making the pupil acquainted with the method of grouping. Lead the pupil to see that when we have counted ten objects of the same kind we make a group of them and count them as one of the group. In order to show the composition of numbers containing tens and ones, it is absolutely necessary for the teacher to have bundles of ten things (sticks, matches, etc.) kept separate by strings, or better, by small rubber bands. Now if the bundles are made up of ten sticks, each, the pupil will see that eleven sticks is one bundle and one loose stick taken together; also that fourteen is one bundle and four loose sticks taken together. Proceed with the numbers in regular order up to nineteen. Give the pupils a good deal of practice in this work, and when they have once been taught to count by saying, thirteen is three and ten, fifteen is five and ten, twenty is two tens, twenty-one is two tens and one, thirty is three tens, etc., they will have no difficulty in learning to write numbers.

In the study of numbers from one to ten the pupil has been led to unite and separate them. It is evident to every thoughtful teacher that addition and subtraction should be taught with objects and should be considered together in the first lessons in numbers. As soon as a pupil knows that 5 and 2 are 7, he can see that 7 diminished by 5 is 2, or 7 diminished by 2 is 5.

It is of the highest importance that the pupil be required to commit the sums and differences of the nine significant figures. The pupil should be so thoroughly drilled that when two numbers are given their sum and difference will appear in his mind at once. He should be taught to add and subtract with accuracy, ease, and rapidity. From the beginning never permit your pupils to add in this manner: 3 and 4 are 7 and 9 are 16 and 8 are 24; but add by naming the results only—thus: 7, 16—24. This is three times as rapid and just as easy.

After the pupil is familiar with the sums to 9 plus 9, and the differences as far as 18 minus 9, he can begin to learn multiplication, and division. Let the pupil construct the multiplication table for himself. This he do if he clearly understands that multiplication is only a short process of adding equal numbers. I would teach multiplication and division together. As soon as the pupil sees that 2 times 2 are 4, he is ready to see that 4 equals two 2's or contains 2 two times. It will take some time for the pupil to complete this work. "Make haste slowly." Be very careful not to confuse or discourage the pupil, but make each lesson short and make it an easy stepping-stone to the one that follows. The reason that I urge so earnestly that the elementary sums, differences, products and quotents be committed to memory is that no real progress can be made without it. Train the pupil until he becomes expert in this work.

The first lessons in arithmetic should be given orally by the teacher. There is little danger of doing too much oral work. Pupils are very often permitted to take up written arithmetic before they are ready for it. Let us give to oral exercises all the attention their great importance demands. A pupil must be taught to think as well as to work problems. His reasoning powers must be developed. The teacher should allow no working of problems "to get the answer." Let the pupil explain the problem before he attempts to work it. He should be taught to study the conditions of the problem and to determine what operations are to be performed, before he attempts a written solution of it.

Rules should not be memorized and blindly followed, but pupils should be drilled in such a way as to become independent of them. I have noticed that pupils who depend upon rules altogether usually make a low per cent in an examination, while those who do not depend upon them altogether make a high per cent.

I sometimes meet with pupils who can solve the problems found in the text book, but cannot solve similar ones found in business transactions. The complaint is justly made by school patrons that the important subject of arithmetic is not taught as thoroughly as it should be. They claim that the principles that enter into everyday business are neglected. Have the school patrons good cause for complaint? We answer, "They have." We know that pupils leave our common schools without a practical or thorough knowledge of arithmetic, and we may expect the patrons to complain as long as this continues. Let us change our methods, and not allow any more work "by rules" and "to get answers." We should, if possible, prevent the pupils from assisting each other or using keys. In written work have the pupils to give the "reason why" for every step. Do not allow pupils to leave your school and say they can work examples but cannot explain them. Remember the explanation should always precede the work.

Use text book as a guide and give practical problems made up from real business transactions. Give examples relating to the measurement of land, lumber, bins plastering, papering, walls, piles of wood, etc. Accept no work that is carelessly done. Give frequent reviews.

I would have advanced pupils to construct their own problems. Such a plan will aid in inspiring interest in class work, and will make the pupils thoughtful. If you have plenty of black-board room, you should not allow your pupils to come to recitation with examples worked on paper or slate. The should not use the text-book during recitation, but the problems should be read to them by the teacher. If you would have your pupils become mathematicians you must see to it that they acquire the habit of correct and close thinking.

Impressive Initiation.

A man who had applied for admission into a secret society, which for the purpose of this narrative, may be called the Ancient Order of Queer Fish, and had been accepted, presented himself at the appointed time for initiation.

In accordance with ancient usages, the candidate was blind folded, ushered into the lodge-room, marched in slow and solemn procession around the darkened hall, subjected to various trying ordeals including that of being tossed in a blanket held at the four corners by athletic members, and having come through the ceremonies alive and in fair preservation, was declared duly anitiated and entitled to the right hand of fellowship. The bandage was removed from his eyes and the brethren crowded about him to extend their congratulations on the fortitude he had displayed.

"How did it impress you?" asked one of them.

"It was the most impressive ceremony, take it all around," he answered, "that I ever knew or ever knew or ever heard of."

"You were aware, of course, that there was a fire across the street while we were putting you thro'?"

"Why," rejoined the new member, "I could hear the puffiing of the engines, the tramping of the horses upon the stone pavement, the yelling of the firemen and the swish of the streams from the hose, and I could smell the smoke, too, but good gracious, I thought it was a part of the initiation!"

Cevera's Arithmetic.

The Spanish officers' account of the naval action off Santiago reminds one of the good old connumdrum, "A man had four daughters and every one of them had a brother, how many children had de?" The answer of course is five.

Cevera and his captains put it: "We had only four ships and each of them had four antagonists; of course the contest was hopeless."

Of couse it was, and that is pretty example of the ingenious art of putting things.—New York Sun.

Dewey Paid the Fine.

George Plaisted a trial justice of York county, Maine, has an old docket of which he is very proud, for it shows that George Dewey was once fined $25 by him and the fine promptly paid. Dewey during his courtship of the daughter of Governor Goodwin, was much at Portsmouth. Going over to the navy yard one day he was met by a marine, wo was intoxicated and in a fighting mood. Dewey thrashed him and paid the fine cheerfully remarking that it was worth $25 to thrash such a disgrace to the United States navy.

Sectional Pride in the Army.

A Maine soldier boy writes home that an Arkansas guard was chinning the Maine sentry who was pacing his parallel beat.

"S'near as I can see, there ain't much difference atween we uns and you uns, 'cept that we uns reckon and you uns guess."

"That's about all, neighbor," replied the Maine man, " 'cept we can guess a darn sight better than you can reckon."—Kennebec Journal.

Welcome Home.

From an advertisement in the Gloucester Times:

This is to give notice that my wife who left my house without sufficient cause, has returned and is glad to be back again, and will not leave again in a hurry.

JERRY AMERO.

NEVER CARES TO WANDER.

The Busy Bee Doesn't Like to Go More Than Five Miles After Raw Material.

The range of the honey bee is but little understood by the masses many supposing that bees go for miles in quest of nectar, while others think that they go only a short distance. It my be curious to many to understand how any one can tell how far a bee may fly, but this is simple when understood. Years ago when the Italian bees were first introduced in the United States, these bees, having marks different to the common bees already here, were easily distinguished and after any beekeeper had obtained the Italian bee they could be observed and their range noticed. If bloom is plentiful near where bees are located they will not go very far, perhaps a mile in range, but if bloom is scarce they may go five miles. Usually about three miles is as far as they may go profitably.

Bees have been known to go as far as eight miles in a straight line crossing a body of water that distance to land. It is wonderful how the little honey bee can go so far from its home and ever find its way back to its own particular hive. If, while the little bee is out of its hive, the hive should be removed some ten or twenty feet, according to the surroundings, when it came back to where its home was first located it would be hopelessly lost. If its home was in an open spot, with no other objects close, it might find its way home, but, even should the hive be moved only a few feet, many of the bees would get lost.

So to move a hive, if done in the winter time it would be all right, but if in the summer time it should be done after dark or when they are not flying, and even then the bees should be stirred up some and smoke blown in at the hive entrance and a board or some object placed in front of the hive so that the bees in coming out may mark their new location. Bees no doubt are guided by sight and also by smell. They are attracted by the color of bloom, as, if they are at work on a certain kind of bloom, they are not likely to leave that particular kind of bloom for any other as long as they can find that kind. Again, bees are often attracted to sweets by their sense of smell, for they will go after sweets even if in the dark if close. However, any kind of sweets may be placed in glass in plain sight, but if covered so as not to emit any smell, the bees will take notice of them.—Baltimore American.

Dead-beats.

Some editor, no doubt who lived in a community where the loud mouthed office-seekers of his party sponged their reading, was inspired to utter these words:

When you ask a man to subscribe for your paper, and he says: "Oh I never read very much, besides the times are so tight," apologize to him for the mistake, and leave him. Life is too short to try to teach a mule to sing Soprano. All gentlemen nowodays read newspapers and plenty of them.

Show us a man that lives in town or country and never spends a red cent for the newspapers there, and we will show you a man whose ignorance is only exceeded by his self complacent narrow mindedness. A local paper is an institution that works day in and day out for the good of the community, and every man in it is in honor bound to assist in its support. The trouble is that some peculiar individuals fancy they are making the editor a present when they take his paper. We have the profound est sympathy for the man who never subscribes for his home paper.

A Spiral Wound.

The doctors at the division hospital at Tampa, are fairly mystified at the extraordinary nature of some wounds inflicted by the Mauser rifle bullets. In the case of one man, the bullet penetrated his belt plate, ran round his body under the skin of his abdomen, took a downward course through the muscles of his right leg and came out at the back of the calf. The bullet was found in the man's clothing slightly bent.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Unnecssary Procrastination.

"The man who wins," said she, is the man who is always ready to embrace an opportunity."

"Well," he whispered, after he had slipped an arm around her, "how do I strike you as a winner?"

"Only fair," she answered. "This might have happened a month ago."—Chicago News.

Photographer (to Captain in his new uniform)— "Look fierce, please."—Cincinnati Enquirer.

The Pocahontas Times.

ANDREW PRICE, - - - - EDITOR.

MARLINTON, FRIDAY, JULY 29, 1898

Entered at the post-office at Marlinton, W. Va., as second class matter.

Special Inducements Genuine Bargains!!!

The War Stamp is going on nearly all kinds of goods, as you know; but instead of charging that to my customers I will take off more than that. I have the goods and must sell them. I have a large amount of money to raise, and will give customers a chance to get extra good bargains, for I will sell

28, 29, and 30 of July

for cash all goods for

Cost and Carriage.

You have a chance to select what you want and pay for what you get. So come now one and all, far and near, as you will not have such a chance soon again to make you a little change. And those that owe me please come prepared to pay their little account. Come on the days specified and help me while you are helping me you can help yourself. Human nature seems to lean this way now a days—to help each other when we can receive our part of help. Any how in this case all will be benefitted.

Yours for Business,

Steward Boggs.
Huntersville, W. Va.

THOROUGHBRED CATTLE.

Pocahontas has been noted for her fine cattle. Immense droves are bought here by Harrison county feeders and shipped from that county. Harrison's reputation for fine cattle is due largely to the cattle born and bred in this county. Much care has been exercised to attain this high standard, and the favorite stock is the shorthorn Durham. Lately breeders have been importing the Polled Angus and the Hereford, both of which will only improve the grade of stock, and are therefore welcome innovations.

Within the last year, however, the farmers have been amused to see some droves of East Virginia cows and heifers, which have been driven into the county and sold to small farmers. If these men had thought for a moment they would see that it is a sad sight in a stock-raising way. These very cows will cause the grade of cattle in Pocahontas to deteriorate.

In East Virginia for a hundred years nature has been at work to fashion a cow-beast to meet the exegences of her times. The result has been an animal partaking of the nature of a goat. She has large horns to dig in the ground for roots; a stomach fitted to utilize old rubbish of every kind; a thick hide, as she remains shelterless from generation to generation; and other marks so well known in East Virginia cattle. The grade has become so general that it is as distinct as the Isle of Jersey cow, tho not so desirable.

The stock raisers of this county hate this kind of cattle. They are so very light in weight, being as well perfect eye-sores. They take no pleasure in them. The large graziers depend upon picking up good calves from their tenants and others who keep only a cow or two and in this way their herds are made up. The man who buys this East Virginia stock handicaps them in their effort to keep the stock pure, and the more the blood mixes the worse it will be. If all the people around the mountain get East Virginia stock then goodbye to the magnificent herds of cattle in Pocahontas.

The worst about Garcia drawing off his horde of insurgents in his rage is that the United States will lose the benefit of that fili. When they came out of the woods they were as hungry as hounds and it took an enormous sum to fill them up and victual them. Now they have gone off mad from a fit of indigestion and they will come back more ravenous than ever. A few such occurrences and we will have to issue bonds again.

How sharper than a serpent's tooth to have a thankless insurgent.

Miles to Porto Rico. How many?

THE GREENBRIER RAILWAY.

The surveying corps under Mr Bartholemew, chief engineer, is camped at Keister's mill, about 10 miles by the river from Caldwell. The survey has worked since the 9th day of April. They surveyed both sides of the river for nine miles above the C. & O. and found the east bank the most practicable. They found that two tunnels were necessary, the longer one being five hundred feet.

The preliminary survey set stakes every one hundred feet in the general course that the road was to be built. If a farmer finds stakes in his bottom land when he thinks they should follow the ridge, he need not get excited for the road will, in all probability, be built in the hillside.

The county is used to preliminary surveys, there having been many such surveys through this county, but there has never been a "location survey" made, such as is now advancing up the river. In this survey the stakes are set every fifty feet in the exact centre of the road-bed. Owing to the curves it requires a great deal of cutting of timber for the man at the transit to see. No matter how big a tree comes in the way it must be cut down. The speed made in this second survey is not more than half as fast as in the preliminary survey.

The next step will be to let the grading to contract, and then the right of way will be cleared of timber. The survey goes over the ground the third time and sets the "slope stakes," and the workmen follow behind them.

The distance from Marlinton to Caldwell is fifty-four miles. The grade is magnificent and the cost of construction will be comparatively low. The Anthony's Creek route is out of the question now, only the river route being considered.

As Regards Toughs.

To the Editor of The Times:

Dear Sir, I see in one of the columns of your valuable paper dated July 15th, a piece headed "Frost Fight." Mr A. E. Ward, typographical editor of Hinton and late manager for Miss Virginia Burrows, has exagerated to a very great extent. As to the "tough gang," well he may call it by that name if he chooses, but we have another name for it. As to the slanderous tale (not stories) we think it not very wise that he started out to clear up facts, and as to cornering seven of the offenders as he called them, that is falsehood; because there were but two of the so-called offenders, and he never made either of them chew their words, nor is it doubted that in trying to do so got in an altercation with one of the Sharps mentioned, and the rest of the so-called toughs took him off Mr Ward, and no one else proposed having an encounter with Mr Ward nor insinuated any thing of the kind to him.

He was treated badly by some unknown persons, who removed the wheels of his buggy and hid them. But that was merely done for a joke we guess, as they were recovered not far off.

Mr Ward should be a little careful as to his exagerations, and if he wants a prolonged skirmish over this just let him come ahead. I am sure he rather forced his way here to hold his entertainment in the church. BUTLER SHARP.

Commissioners Notice.

Commsssioner's Office, Marlinton, W. Va., July 16th, 1898.

Pursuant to a decree of the Circuit Court of Pocahontas Conn y, entered on the 24th day of June, 1898, in the chancery cause of

G. P. Kerr and others
vs.
P. B. Rader and others.

The undersigned Commissioner will proceed at his office in the town of Marlinton, West Virginia, on the 20th day of August, 1898 to take, state, and report to court the following matters of account, towit:

1st. An account showing what amount, if any, of the purchase money on said 136 acres of land is due to the defendant O. P. Chew from the defendants Philip B. Rader or S. D. Bright.

2d. An account showing how much money has been paid by the defendant S. D. Bright to the defendant O. P. Chew, since his pretended purchase on the 12th day of September, 1896.

3d. An account showing the amounts due the plaintiffs in this cause, together with their dates and priorities.

4th. An account showing the subsisting liens on the lands of the said Phillip B. Rader.

5th. Any other matter deemed pertinent by the Commissioner, or required to be specially stated by any other party in interest.

Given under my hand this 16th day of July, 1898.

ANDREW PRICE,
Commissioner in Chancery.

HILL POINT.

Hip, hurrah! Lively times these days.

Austin Hambrick will move this week and take charge of Isaac McNeel.

W. H. Shafer made a flying trip to Elk this week for S. J. Payne.

Threshing grain seems to be the order of the day. J. H. Bird has been making things hum with his new machine, and is doing the best work that has been done for several years.

William Colley, who was shot not long since, seems to be getting along all right, as we hear that he ran everybody off the place the other day declaring he would kill them.

Mr Petts went to George R. Curry's after warrant, but for some cause failed to get it, and on his way back he received a notice signed by a White Cap, giving him fifteen days to leave the country,

Who can explain the following bit of antiquity:

> Mr James Smith will pay D. L Ruckman the sum of one dollar and seventy-nine cents which I will take in when we settle. WILLIAM C. PRICE.
> This 4 January, 1844.

The above was found on a slip of old paper floating down the Greenbrier, by Marshall Isabell, who was fishing at the mouth of Stamping Creek. MUX.

FROST.

D. W. Dever is at work on his new dwelling house.

Miss Myrta Herold is visiting friends at Monterey.

Ezra Wooddell and family are guests of T. J. Williams.

Cam has been trying to teach Uncle Sam to ride a bicycle. What next?

Miss Hattie Hudson, who has been here for some time, returned home Friday.

Miss Nannie Warwick, of Green Bank, who has been visiting here, returned home Sunday.

Mrs Amanda Sharp has gone to Alderson to spend some time with her sister, Mrs Sarah Matics.

Sherman and Will Gibson have been hauling wheat from the hill fields on a wagon with all the wheels locked. Why not use a sled?

George and Bradford Sharp have returned from the Hot Springs, where they have been working for some time.

Why does M. F. carry his arm in a sling when he goes to see his girl? We suppose it is to keep it from going to 'waist.' VIOLA.

Every thing is on the move here.

Rev W. T. Price passed through town Saturday.

Lee Sharp is off to the railroad for goods for Hannah & Harper.

A. J. Hook and Amos Wooddell are buying sheep and cattle.

Dr O. J. Campbell, of Monterey, is in town fixing the people's teeth.

W. B. Sharp has returned from Hot Springs and is complaining.

T. M. McCarty, of Lobelia, has been in the vicinity looking after a school.

Most people are done stacking wheat and are waiting for the thresher. A few have begun hay making.

The clouds of war and despondency which have long been lowering upon us seem to have vanished like a mist before the beaming rays of the morning sun, and with a prophet's vision we see one clear spot which seems as bright as the noon day sun, therefore we grasp this opportunity to write to The Times, which we hope will not be out of place.

Those who voted for McKinley have long since recognized the fact that protection and 'sound money' are not the only elements of success but that there is another very important factor lying within themselves which is the basis of accumulating wealth and which they must perform. Therefore all have gone quietly to work. Those who voted for Bryan being disappointed in getting their 'free silver' weighted out to them, have submitted to the principle that the majority must rule and have gone to work. The result of which is that every thing is booming.

W. A. Busard has moved his saw mill from Whiting Sharp's to D. W. Dever's, where he will run his new planer. SORGUM.

Persons troubled with diarrhoea will be interested in the experience of Mr W. M. Bush, clerk of Hotel Dorrance, Providence, R. I. He says: "For several years I have been almost a constant sufferer from diarrhoea, the frequent attacks completely prostrating me and rendering me unfit for my duties at this hotel. About two years ago a traveling salesman kindly gave me a small bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera, and Diarrhoea Remedy. Much to my surprise and delight its effects were immediate. Whenever I felt symptoms of the disease I would fortify myself against the attack with a few doses of this valuable remedy. The result has been very satisfactory and almost complete relief from this affliction." For sale by Amos Barlow, Huntersville; Barlow & Moore, Edray.

FARMERS!

YOUR WHEAT WILL BE EQUIVALENT TO CASH FOR FERTILIZERS AT THE LEWISBURG ROLLER MILLS.

We handle a number of the best grades of FERTILIZERS on the market, put up in 100 and 200 lb. bags, which we can furnish at the above mills or at Caldwell or Ronceverte.

Our Fertilizers have been used by the best farmers in Greenbrier and adjoining counties, and we will be very glad to furnish you reference if you desire. Hold your orders until you call and examine our grades and get our prices. We are also prepared to furnish you at the lowest possible prices.

GRASS SEED, SALT, and HARD and SOFT COAL

Very truly yours,

LEWISBURG ROLLER MILLS CO.

VALLEY HEAD, W. VA.

There will be a show here the first of next week.

Mrs Endora Trimble, of this place, is visiting friends at Huttonsville.

Dr J. H. Weymouth, of Elkins, passed throught town today, enroute for Mingo.

Hot weather. The rain damaged the wheat a little by causing it to rust.

We are very sorry to learn that French Beal is dangerously ill with the fever. Dr Cameron is attending him.

L. D. Sharp, of Linwood, stayed in Valley Head last night, returning from Beverly. He had the misfortune to loose his pocket book and $20 on his way down.

Loyd Swecker has a a patent bee hive that has made $12 worth of honey this season, and the season is not yet over. Bees have done better this summer than they have in the last twenty years.

Our quiet town was aroused from its dorment condition last nigh between 3 and 4 o'clock by a little shooting fray. Eleven shots were fired in quick succession, and the gentleman, who makes a practice of getting up sooner than the rest of the town in order to milk some man's cow, disappeared in great haste. A hint to the wise is sufficient. The next time I will shoot much faster and take better aim.

The West Virginia Central Rail Road is nearly completed to the bridge across Valley River. It will take but a short while to complete it to Huttonsville. We like to see the good work go on, if we don't do it. BAD BOY.

Dental Notice.

Dr O. J. Campbell will visit the following points on dates named:

Dunmore.....28th July, six days.
Green Bank, 4th August, six days.
Trav. Repose, 11th Aug. four days.

Commissioner's Notice

G. F. Crummett, Assignee, Pl'ff.
vs.
John P. Varner.. ... Defendant.

Pursuant to a decree of the Circuit Court of Pocahontas County, West Virginia, rendered in the above styled cause on the 21st day of June, 1898, the undersigned Commissioner will proceed at his office in the town of Marlinton, West Virginia, on the 15th day of August, 1898, to take, state, and report to Court the following matters of account, to wit:

First: A statement showing the liens upon the lands of the defendant John P. Varner, with their respective legal diguities and priorities.

Second: What land the said John P. Varner owns in this county subject to said liens.

Third: Whether or not the lands of the said John P. Varner will rent in five years for a sum sufficient to pay said liens.

Fourth: Any other matter, &c.

At which time and place all parties in interest may attend.

Given under my hand this 6th day of July, 1898.

W. A. BRATTON,
Commissioner.

NOTICE to LIEN HOLDERS.

To all persons holding liens, by judgment or otherwise, on the real estate or any part thereof of John P. Varner.

In pursuance of an order of the Circuit Court of Pocahontas County, rendered in a cause therein pending to subject the real estate of the said John P. Varner to the satisfaction of the liens thereon, you are hereby required to present all claims held by you and each of you against the said John P. Varner, which are liens on his real estate or any part of it, for adjudication to me, at my office in the town of Marlinton, West Virginia, on or before the 15th day of August, 1898

Given under my hand this 6th day of July, 1898

W. A. BRATTON,
Commissioner.

FINANCIAL STATEMENT.

(Continued Next Week.)

Commissioners Notice.

Office of S. B Scott, Jr., Commissioner in Chancery, Marlinton, W. Va., July 8th, 1898.

Pursuant to a decree of the Circuit court of Pocahontas county, entered on the 24th day of June, 1898 in a chancery cause therein pending entitled:

Johnson and Gwinn and others,
versus
J. T. Hogsett and others,

I will proceed at my office in the town of Marlinton, West Virginia, on the 8th day of August, 1898, to take, state, and report to court the following matters of account to wit:

First: A statement showing the subsisting liens upon the lands of the defendant, J. T. Hogsett, showing the respective dates, dignities, and priorities of the same and to whom due and payable.

Second: A statement showing the real estate owned by the defendant, J. T. Hogsett, against which said liens may be asserted.

Third: A statement showing the fee simple and annual rental value of said real estate, and whether or not the same will in five years rent for a sum sufficient to pay off and discharge the liens thereon.

Fourth: Any other matter to be specially stated, deemed pertinent by the Commissioner, or required by any party in interest to be specially stated.

At which time and place all parties in interest may attend.

Respectfully,
S. B. SCOTT, Jr.,
Commissioner in Chancery.

NOTICE to LIEN HOLDERS.

To all parties holding liens by judgment or otherwise on the real estate, or any part thereof, of J. T. Hogsett:

In pursuance of a decree of the Circuit court of Pocahontas county made in a cause therein pending to subject the real estate of the said J. T. Hogsett to the satisfaction of the liens thereon, you are hereby required to present all claims held by you and each of you against the said J. T. Hogsett, which are liens on his real estate or any part of it, for adjudication to me at my office in the town of Marlinton, Pocahontas county, West Virginia, on or before the 8th day of August, 1898.

Given under my hand this 8th day of July, 1898.

S. B. SCOTT, Jr.,
Commissioner in Chancery.

W. H. Hartley,

Plasterer and Painter.

I wish to inform the citizens of the county that I am prepared at any time to do any work in my line.

One smooth coat plastering for papering or painting...... 7c yd
Two coats and a skim of lime 9c yd
Hard finish..... .... 10c yd

[Including boarding and tending and horse found.]

CALSOMINING A SPECIALTY.

Any letters addressed to me will be promptly answered. All work attended to in this and adjoining Counties.

W. H. HARTLEY,
Jacox, W. Va.

June 1 3m.

Administrators Notice.

All persons holding claims against the estate of Andrew Dilley deceased, will please present the same to me or to my attorney, H. M. Lockridge, at his office in the town of Huntersville, West Va., on or before the 5th day of September, 1898. MARTHA DILLEY,
4w Administratrix.

Commissioners Notice.

Office of S. B. Scott, Jr., Commissioner in Chancery, Marlinton, W. Va., July 22d, 1898.

Pursuant to a decree of the Circuit Court of Pocahontas County, made on the 24th day of June, 1898 in a chancery cause therein pending, entitled:

J. W. Marshall and others
vs.
Andrew Workman and others,

I will proceed at my office in the town of Marlinton, West Virginia, on the 16th day of August, 1898, to take, state and report to court the following matters of account towit:

First: An account of the liens upon the land of the defendant, Andrew Workman, with their respective amounts and priorities, showing to whom such amounts are due and payable.

Second: A statement showing the lands owned by the said Andrew Workman, together with the fee simple and annual rental value thereof.

Third: Any other matter to be specially stated deemed pertinent by the Commissioner or required by any party in interest to be so stated.

At which time and place all parties in interest may attend.

Respectfully,
S. B. SCOTT, Jr.,
Commissioner in Chancery.

NOTICE to LIEN HOLDERS.

To all persons holding liens, by judgment or otherwise, on the real estate or any part thereof of Andrew Workman:

In pursuance of a decree of the Circuit Court of Pocahontas County made in a cause therein pending to subject the real estate of the said Andrew Workman to the satisfaction of the liens thereon, you are hereby required to present all claims held by you and each of you against the said Andrew Workman which are liens on his real estate or any part of it, for adjudication to me at my office in the town of Marlinton, Pocahontas County, West Virginia, on or before the 16th day of August, 1898.

Given under my hand this 22d day of July, 1898.

S. B. SCOTT, Jr.,
Commissioner in Chancery.

NOTICE.

SILLING & SLAVEN,

TIN, SHEET IRON
ROOFING,
GUTTER SPOUTING,
ROOF PAINTING,
FLUES, STOVE PIPE.
GALVANIZED FLUES,
SMOKE STACKS.
FRUIT DRYERS,
GALVANIZED TANKS,
AND CISTERNS.

Shop - Made Tin Ware Always on Hand.

LIGHTNING RODS.

Work Done on Short Notice.

Call or write to

SILLING & SLAVEN,
ACADEMY, W. VA.

ALLEGANY COLLEGIATE INSTITUTE.

Alderson, W. Va.

SIXTH SESSION OPENS SEPT. 15TH.

Full Academic and Collegiate Course. Thorough instructions in Mathematics, English, Latin, and Greek, French, German, Sciences, Etc. Special advantages in Music,—Vocal, Piano, and Guitar,—and in Art. Also Commercial and Stenography.

For Catalogue and full information address

W. S. ANDERSON,
8w Principal.

AMERICAN MADE

REMEMBER THE MAINE!

But do n't forget that the Golden Store has reduced the prices on CALICO from 6cts to 3 1-2c, This seasons purchase, Standard make, and handsome patterns.

......

Do n't overlook the fact that the Golden Store can do more for you than other stores in giving good quality for the least money

THE GOLDEN STORE.

LEWISBURG FEMALE INSTITUTE.

THE LEADING FEMALE SEMINARY IN WEST VIRGINIA.

Collegiate, Academic, and Preparatory Departments. Classical, Scientific, Music, and Art. Best of Fare. Hot and Cold Baths. Rooms Carpeted. Gives a Thorough Christian Education.

TESTIMONY.

REV E. O. GUERRANT, D. D., of Kentucky:—

"A good Female School is a public blessing, and among many noble institutions I do not know a better one than the one presided over by Rev R. L. Telford, at Lewisburg, W. Va. It is Christian, Biblical, thorough, and attractive making not only finished scholars but lovely Christian charaters. It is good enough to educate my own daughter, and I take pleasure in commending it to my friends."

REV M. L. LACY, D. D., of West Virginia:

"I honestly believe it is the very best school of which I have any knowledge."

HON JOHN W. McCREERY, of the State Senate, W. Va.:

"Having had two daughters at the Lewisburg Female Institute, under the management of Rev R. L. Telford, it affords me pleasure to say that I regard the school as one of the best in the country."

DR J. M. POYNTZ, of Richmond, Ky.:

"Rarely indeed does one have the opportunity of placing their daughters in so good an institution of learning as the one presided over by Rev R. L. Telford, at Lewisburg. Anyway, it has been good enough for me. My daughter has been cared for as if she had been a member of the family."

REV D. S. SYDENSTRICKER, D. D., Hillsboro, W. Va.:

"Having been a patron of the Lewisburg Female Institute for two years, I can sincerely commend it to the attention and patronage of all who desire to have their daughters thoroughly trained in mind and heart. The course of instruction is thorough and honest. No half-way work is done. The refining and elevating Christian influence thrown around the pupils are most excellent."

IMPROVEMENTS.

Seventeen Thousand Dollars expended during the last five years in additions and improvements.

Send for illustrated catalogue to

Rev R. L. TELFORD, Lewisburg, W. Va.

The Pocahontas Times,

Hear, Land o' Cakes and brither Scots,
Frae Maidenkirk to Johnny Groats,
If there's a hole in a' your coats,
I rede ye tent it;
A chiel's amang you takin' notes,
An' faith he'll prent it.—BURNS

Local Events.

H. A. Yeager was down the pike last Sunday.

B. M. Yeager went to Greenbrier last Monday.

William Siple was at home for a few days this week.

Charley Grose is rapidly convalescing from his illness.

Mrs W. A. Bratton will spend the month of August in Virginia.

Mrs Mary A. McClintic was in Marlinton for a few days this week.

Rev R. M. Caldwell will preach at Mt Vernon 5th Sunday of July at 11 A. M.

Miss Lucy Kincaid is spending a part of her vacation at Frankford with friends and relatives.

Dr Finley, D. D., of Tinkling Spring church, and William M. McAllister, of Bath, passed thro Marlinton on their way to Addison Jacob McLaughlin, from Noble County, Indiana, and his mother Mrs Susan McLaughlin were visiting Mrs Dennis Dever, near Frost, last week.

2.008 inches of rain fell at this place last Tuesday in a little over two hours. The runs were the highest in many.

S. W. Holt, of Lewisburg, passed through Marlinton on his way to Huttonsville to see about his real estate there which has raised considerably in that town.

Dennis Dever has a nice residence in course of erection near the site of the old Lightner mansion on Knapps Creek. The location is an ideal one and commands a charming outlook.

Mr J. Scott and Miss Walmsley, from near Huttonsville, spent several days in Huntersville, visiting his step daughter, Mrs J. C. Loury. They started homewards on Monday.

The Beverly and Marlinton Telephone has been completed as far as Linwood. The corps of workmen have been delayed a few days waiting for wire.

The tin-ware manufactured by Silling & Slaven, of Academy, is fully equal in appearance to that sold in stores, is sold at a competative price, and is doubtless of superior quality.

Shows and entertainment are a way below par in upper Pocahontas. Parties who figured in the late unpleasantness at Frost are anxious that our readers would heed Captain Sigsbee's suggestion and suspend judgment until an investigation is held, and both sides heard from in reference to the Frost explosion.

Amos Barlow has some prehistoric corn growing that is now ten feet in height and seems to have just gotten a fair start. The writer was shown a stalk and he could just make his thumb and fore finger meet around it. Mr Barlow thinks it would be excellent for insilage, the blades so large and the stalk so succulent.

A person presenting the appearance of a visiting statesman called at Hotel Doyle late Sunday evening and spoke for lodgings, qualified by the remark that he had no money, but he was on his way to Staunton on business and would certainly pay the bill on his return. The genial host observed that if he would leave off the qualifying clause he would stand a much better chance for accommodation. The visitor looked abashed and upon recovering from his confusion, observed, "I want to stay all night, and with draw that objectionable remark about paying when I come back."

There was once a well known character in Highland county, whose oddities are often recounted. His only expletive was "dams," but that he used constantly. In discussing education he said, "Dams, I don't want none of my boys to learn to write, fer if they do they git'll tey forgin'." One of the boys did learn to write and got into a scrape by forging a man's name. The old gentleman had considerable property. He wished to give his son a farm for his life and secure it for his heirs. He went to his lawyer and said, "Dams, you fix the deed so that it will go to his insects."

One of the interesting features that engage the visitor's attention about most of our Pocahontas homes are the exceptionally fine gardens, profusely supplied with the staple vegetables. Our friends Mr and Mrs Tom Patterson, of Glade Hill, have a garden as good as the best, which is in its second year. Spring before last he grubbed a piece of the thickest brush, that had once been densely covered with white pine. A dozen or more large stumps were taken out and the brush rooted out, making a pile of roots and rubbish as large as a small haystack. In brief the ground was so prepared that a large plow could be used. The first crop was good, but the second or present crop is as good as the best of old gardens. A ripe tomato was found July 22 and in a week there would be plenty. The potatoes are of a phenomenal size.

Gymkana Races.

The English residents astonished the natives, who turned out enmasse to see the gymnastic feats of horsemanship at the Mingo race course last Saturday. An admirable program was arranged by Mr Ernest Hebden, Hon Secretary.

In the first heat of the one-half mile hurdle (four jumps) Agent (Miles up) won, with Sister Mary (Mrs Hebden up) in a close finish.

Second heat,—Belle first, ridden by E. Hebden; Dandy Dick (Miss Forster up.) Blue Ridge (L. Tuke up) won the third heat, and the final as well; Mr S. L. Grews riding the bay gelding Peter.

The mule Charley led gallantly in the mule race, well ridden by Mr Schawen (very recently from England), but turned at the quarter for the stable and Schawen came a cropper into the fence and was lost to sight in dust and rails. He remounted, pluckily, and rode it out.

What boots it to mention particularly the cigarette race, colt race, tandem, affininity race, hand-in-hand; bareback race, postillion, scrub races, etc. Suffice is to say that O. Miles and E. Hebden won the majority of honors as winning jockeys, and J. H. G. Wilson, of Marlinton, rode like a good man and true.

At tennis the Marlinton representatives, J. H. G. Wilson and Norman Price, made a very good showing in competition with S. L. Grews, O. Miles, E. Hebden, Mrs Hebden, and Miss Forster.

A "Marathon" race, 23 miles on foot, from Marlinton to Mingo, is talked of. Entries will be received at The Times office up to October 1.

A Pontoon Bridge.

Silas Mason was the contractor who made the big fill at Millboro on the C. & O., and who was well know as one of the most remarkable men of his time. He could not read or write, but he possessed an understanding that enabled him to disregard these attainments. He has been known to calculate the cost of a tunnel by means of pebbles used as counters. He has built bridges and grades, having made his calculations the same way. He learned to sign his name late in life, and was fond of remarking that that got him into trouble for he went a man's security. He amassed a large fortune.

One of the most relished anecdotes has been told of him hundreds of times. In the Southern Confederacy, he had charge of the construction of a pontoon bridge across the James River. The engineers were set to work to devise some plan to bridge the stream and they had decided on their plan and were making drawings.

Silas Mason in the mean time had built the bridge. All this time the commanding officer was fretting and fuming under the delay, and he sent for Mason.

"When can we get across the river?"

Mason replied, "The engineers are drawing pictures for the bridge and the bridge are done."

He had loaded a lot of wagons with rock and placed them in the river, and constructed a bridge using the wagons as piers.

The New Schedule.

The contract for carrying the mail from Lewisburg to Travelers Repose has been let to F. E. Smith, of the District of Columbia for $1869.20. From Lewisburg to Marlinton, $1034.60: from Marlinton to Traveler's Repose, $834.60. The distance from Marlinton to Lewisburg is 42 miles; to Travellers' Repose 36 miles. The mail-carrier waits for the carrier from Ronceverte, and leaves Lewisburg not later than 11 a. m., and has 10 hours to reach Marlinton, thus arriving here at 9 p. m. As this is nearly bed time, the carrier must be very prompt or he will give occasion for complaint, and to drive from Lewisbvrg to Marlinton in 10 hours in the winter is almost an impossibility.

The contractor is a stranger and will no doubt depend upon letting the mail to sub-contractors, and this means poor pay and poor service from some poor devil who will take the contract. Mr Smith will no doubt be on hand some time soon looking for suckers.

The horses will be terribly abused to make the drive every day.

The new schedule goes into effect September 5.

Sheep Strayed.

Nine ewes and seven lambs. All marked with bar on shoulder; lambs half-crop of right ear and split in left. Bought in the Levels of Henry McNeel. Liberal pay for their return PAGE GAY.

Edray, W. Va.

"I have used Chamberlain's Cough Remedy in my family for years and always with good results," says Mr W. B. Coopr of El Rio, Cal. "For small children we find it especially effective."

Rev J. C. Given, D. D., of Missouri, is expected to preach at Liberty Church first Sunday of August, at 11 A. M.

Don't Tobacco Spit and Smoke Your Life Away.

To quit tobacco easily and forever, be magnetic, full of life, nerve and vigor, take No-To-Bac, the wonder-worker, that makes weak men strong. All druggists, 50c or $1. Cure guaranteed. Booklet and sample free. Address Sterling Remedy Co., Chicago or New York.

BUCKEYE.

Mrs Jacob Simmons is on the sick-list.

Lete Young is farming for Mr Duncan nowadays.

Fred Wade and his white mule attended the singing Sunday.

Jasper Auldridge spends his leisure on Stamping Creek.

Wheeler Simmons was wading last Sunday and made himsel sick.

Miss Neva McNeil is visiting relatives at Huntersville at present

Dr Haul, of White Sulphur, was visiting his brother Mathew Haul.

H. H. McClintic is building a new house, Jeff Killingsworth contractor,

N. C. McNeil and Winters McNeil attended the Republican convention at Alderson.

The singing at Rocky Point was a success. Many professors attended. Dinner on the ground.

A large crowd attended the wedding and social given by Mr Hefner. Let the good work go on.

Misses Bertha and Blanche Overholt, of Mill Point, were visiting friends in this part last Sunday.

A croquet party and birthday supper was given the young people by Harper Adkison, which was much enjoyed by all.

PUNKEN FACE.

Girl Wanted.

While walking down the Main Street of Buckeye, in search of a melon factory, I met a young man singing in the best patent note, double distilled, separator and distributor voice that sweet song, "The maple on the hill." His voice was so striking that I paid particular attention to his personal appearance. On his breast he wore a badge of strange device which read, "Girl wanted." At first I thought he was in search of a cook and then it dawned on me that it was an advertisement for a sweetheart.

I conversed with him for some time and discussed all the young ladies. I told him that the girls were plentiful and sweet, but hard to please.

If he did not ride a pacing horse he would be considered a sand kicker and an all round dummy. I directed him to Mr ——, where I have learned since he has secured a lasting position:

Good company, good pay,
A square meal three times aday.

D. H. T.

An Indian Captive.

From Jackson Moore, Esq., on Back Mountain, we learn that Moses Moore, his grandfather, was captured by the Indians at the Dunwoody Spring on the Collins place, and taken down to the McLaughlin spring where he was fastened to a beech-tree and left in care of a warrior. The rest of the party went in a westerly direction and were gone about three hours. On their return they went up to the mouth of Deer Creek and stopped at the Furnace Hollow above Peter Warwick's, where they made bullets. The ore lost about half of its weight in the process of melting. The Ohio River was crossed near where Wheeling is now situated and Mr Moore remained in captivity five years. In all that time he saw but one Indian that made any pretence to decency, a young squaw that would pick the hairs from the meat before cooking. One of the dainty dishes was deer head soup. The head, just as it was when cut off, would be thrown into a pot and boilded to a jelly.

"During the hot weather last summer I had a severe attack of cholera morbus, necessitating my leaving my business," says Mr C. A Hare. of Hare Bros., Fincastle, O. "After taking two or three doses of Chamberlains Colic, Cholera, and Diarrhoea Remedy I was completely relieved and in a few hours was able to resume my work in the store. I sincerely recommend it to any one afflicted with stomach or bowel trouble." For sale by Amos Barlow, Huntersville; Barlow & Moore, Edray.

Notice.

All persons who are owing me on mill accounts will take notice that they are expected to settle their accounts with me by August 15. I am about to sever my connection with the mill, and if prompt settlement is not made I will put out my accounts for collection. J. W. BURGESS.

Mill Point, W. Va.

Tetter, Salt-Rheum and Eczema.

The intense itching and smarting incident to these diseases is instantly allayed by applying Chamberlan's Eye and Skin Ointment. Many very bad cases have been permanently cured by it. It is equally efficient for itching piles and a favorite remedy for sore nipples, chapped hands, chilblains frost bits and chronic sore eyes. 25cts. per box. For sale by

DR CADY'S CONDITION POWDERS are just what a horse needs when in bad condition. Tonic, blood purifier and vermifuge. They are not a food but a medicine and the best in use to put a a horse in prime condition. Price 25 cents per package. For sale by

To Cure a Cold in One Day.

Take Laxative Bromo Quinine Tablets. All Druggists refund the money if it fails to Cure. 25c.

DUNMORE.

Big Dick is in from Horton.

Mrs Jack Kerr is some better.

J. B. McCutchan is improving some.

Mrs Alex Butterbaugh is on the sick list.

Mrs Schuler Fitzgerald is on the sick list.

Rev Telford passed through town last week.

K. D. Swecker is complaining somewhat.

Mack Lockridge has come in from camp.

Miss Emma Jane Taylor is staying at Edray.

Peyton Moore brought his girl home last week.

Died: A little child of Malvin Keirns, Tuesday.

Mrs Levi Beverage, of Clover Creek, is quite ill.

The old mill building at Dunmore has been torn down.

James Moomau and family are visiting Dr J. P. Moomau.

Mike Potter, of Horton, spent several days with his betsy.

Mrs David Hevener, of Back Alleghany, was over Saturday.

Paris Johnson and Miss Ed Benson, of Monterey, are in town.

R. M. Pritchard and family are visiting at Col. S. C. Pritchard.

Old man Joe Taylor, of Huttonsville, spent a few days at home.

Mrs Morgan Grimes spent last week with friends and realatives.

Misses Annie and Alice MacLaughlin have returned from Highland.

And it rained again. Our farmers have been busy for a few days stacking grain. The grain crop is good. Corn never was better

B. F. McElwee is hauling his interest of the goods in the Hillsboro store to Dunmore, where he will have a full store.

A child of John Shrader died on Thursday of typhoid fever. There are four more cases in the same family.

Bernard Slavin, the tinner man, was in town Monday with a wagon load of hand made furniture and evaporators.

Billy Sheets is off to Hillsboro for a load of goods for B. F. MacElwee. He had two wagon loads of mowing machines and buggies, and two loads of goods this week.

Another streak of prosperity under the single gold standard struck the lumber camps of Randolph and Tucker, and seventy of the men got the "G. B." Some more stamps needed.

Died: At his home, near Dunmore, last Friday, Jacob T. Kerr, aged 72 years, of cancer of the stomach. He was one of our best best citizens and a hardworking, honest, upwright, christian gentleman. He was buried in a grave of his own selection Saturday, in the presence of a large crowd. He leaves many friends, an aged wife, one son and three daughters. Mr Kerr was a brave soldier in time war. He battle for the Master and and won a crown.

NIMROD SHIFTER.

Our baby has been continually troubled with colic and cholera infantum since his birth, and all that we could do for him did not seem to give more than temporary relief, until we tried Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera, and Diarrhoea Remedy. Since giving that remedy he has not been troubled. We want to give you this testimonial as an evidence of our gratitude, not that you need it to advertise your meritorious remedy.—G. M. LAW, Keokuk, Iowa.

PINE GROVE.

Mrs P. L. Clark has been on the sick list for some time.

T. M. McCarty, of Lobelia, was around this week looking for a school.

Mrs James McClure and H. H. Shearer returned Monday from a visit to Bath county.

Albert Gay started to Elk Monday to take a lot of pictures of the natives of that region.

The weather is very hot with plenty of rain. Farmers are very backward with their harvesting.

Several of the people of this vicinity attended singing at Rocky Point Sunday and report a nice time.

C. M. Silva, of Mill Point, and Prime Dilley, of Dilley's Mill, spent Monday night in neighborhood. They were on their way to the lumber camps.

Miss Mamie Silva, of Mill Point left for home Tuesday, accompanied by her sister, Mrs W. A. Barlow. who will spend a week or two visiting friends and relatives at her old home.

The Edray people are beginning to make preparations for the box supper on August 12, and expect to have a nice time. The committee will spare no pains to make it a success. AMERICANO.

Preaching services at Poage's Lane the fifth Sunday of July; also Friday and Saturday nights before by Rev W. T. Price.

Strayed—Fifteen or 20 ewes and lambs, bought of Levi Gay, having his mark, ½ crop each ear and branded with tar on back or side with a ring. Lambs marked slit in under side each ear. I will be thankful to know of them, or will pay for any trouble that will enable me to secure them.

JOHN LIGON.

The Great War.

We have won success by our ability to demonstrate our bargain claims; we guarantee the smallest of our patrons the same courteous attention given the largest.

We are taking great pains in buying our

Spring and Summer Stock of Goods...

And all bargains will be shared with our customers.

We keep goods moving by keeping goods that move;—we test every value—our prices do the rest. Its not a question of opinion, its a rock-ribbed fact that our prices can not be successfully cut under. Don't scatter your dollars unwisely; concentrate them here and save more of them.

It is shrewd and well directed effort that makes our bargains unusual. Our PRICES PUZZLE COMPETITORS AND DELIGHT PURCHASERS.

Thanking you for your past patronage, we remain
Yours respectfully,

L D Sharp.
Lin wood W Va

The Levels News.

Edited by Payne Bros.

Vol. 1 Academy, W. Va., July 29, 1898. No. 28

Market, July 29, 1898.

—Eggs 9c per dozen.

—Butter 10 to12½ per pound.

—Lard 8c per lb.

—Corn 75c per bushel.

—Wheat 90 to $1 per bushel.

—Oats 40c per bushel.

—Tallow 6c pound.

—Ginseng $2.50 a pound, dry.

—AT PAYNE BROS.

—Stoneware at Payne Bros.

—Jar tapes and rubbers at Payne Bros.

—Hay carriers and rope, Payne Bros.

—Buy Mason's Fruit Jars from Payne Bros.

—Miss Jane Bell is still visiting at P. S. Clark's.

—Linseed oil and paints very low at Payne Bros.

—Miss Knapp is visiting her aunt, Mrs A. B. Smith.

—Samuel Holt, of Lewisburg, spent Sunday in town, the guest of E. I. Holt.

—Granite ware in Stew Pans, Buckets. Wash Basins, and Rensing Pans at Payne Bros.

—Hon N. C. McNeel passed thro town on his way to the Republican convention which met at Charleston.

—Some of our townsmen attended the Childrens' service at Locust Sunday afternoon, and reported the exercises very good.

—Suits of furniture at Payne's.

—E. H. Moore was home a few days.

—Miss Mary I. McNeel has returned home..

—Sell S. J. Payne your fat stock such as hogs, cattle, sheep, etc. Highest prices paid.

—Have a few very fine Pictures of Dewey and the Battleship Maine framed at very low prices at Payne Bros.

—Cradle and Fingers, Scythes, Snaths, Brush Hooks and Brush Scythes sold very cheap at Payne Bros.

SALT: $2 A SACK.
AT PAYNE BROS.

Best grades of Roller Flour at
....
G. L. HANNAH'S,
Yelk, W. Va.
BARLOW & MOORE'S,
Edray, W. Va.
J. H. CURRY'S,
Green Bank, W. Va.
R. L. NOTTINGHAM'S,
Dunmore, W. Va.
J. H. DOYLE,
Huntersville, W. Va.

Blood Brains Money

A sick man can't make money That's because his brain wont work. A horse wont do work unless he is properly fed. Neither will a brain. If the brain is not kept in good condition with pure, rich blood, it wont produce much.

Men who fail, and men who don't, often have what they call "Nervous Prostration." Nine times in ten the nervous trouble is purely secondary. The real sickness is in their digestion and in their blood. If a man keeps his digestion in good order, and keeps his body full of pure, rich blood, he is never going to be very sick.

Johnston's Sarsaparilla is made for people who want to get well and stay well. Sarsaparilla is a simple, "grandmother" remedy, but it cures. It purifies and enriches the blood and sends it tingling to every part of the body. That is the way it cures all ailments of the brain and nerves—cures insomnia—cures dyspepsia, rheumatism, scrofula, and every other blood disease. It clears the complextion, plumps out the cheeks, and brings back the sparkle to lifeless eyes.

One Dollar is the price, and One thousand Dollars is the health-giving value of every Quart Bottle of Johnston's Sarsaparilla

WILLIAMS, DAVIS, BROOKS & CO., Detroit, Mich.

Try a bottle of Liverettes, the famous little liver pills. 25c.

For sale by—
URIAH BIRD, Marlinton, W. Va.; and A. BARLOW, Huntersville.

Sampson Heard From!

WAR WILL SOON BE OVER,

And You can Invest in Buggies Spring-Wagons, and Carriages.

We have just gotton in a car load of fine Buggies and Carriages which we are selling very low. Call and see us.

We can save you money and give you better work.

VEHICLES MADE TO ORDER.

We also make a specialty of repairing and painting vehicles of all kinds.

When in Town call and see our work.

Yours truly,

Hudgins & Shackelford.
Ronceverte, W. Va.

A STORY.

ABOUT THE NIMBLE SIX-PENCE.

It is Like a Ball of Snow, the Faster You Roll It the More Rapidly It Will Accumulate.

We recognize the fact that to succeed we must undersell.

We recognize that in order to keep our stock complete we must get the pay for our goods promptly.

We also recognize the fact that when we sell our goods on such close prices as to bring them below competition we must collect frequently in order to keep the ball rolling.

We appreciate highly the patronage and kind words of encouragement from our friends and patrons, and request you to encourage us further by coming in and paying up your accounts with cash, so we can replace the goods which you have bought without involving ourselves in dept these scary wartimes.

We hope to be of service to our patrons and can save you money, but do not overlook the main essential point: We need our money often. We are anxious to reduce stock in many lines as much as possible from now till September 1st and will sell at greatly reduced prices.

We have just received a new book of receipts which we would like to up inside of the next thirty days

Call and see us when in town.

Respectfully,
J. D. PULLIN & CO.

Plow Repairs

We have at last succeeded in making arrangements to supply points for the RONCEVERTE PLOW. Full stock now on hand. Send in our orders early. . . .

We are Factory Agents
for IMPERIAL and
SILVER STEEL
Plows.

(The Best Hillside Plow on the Market.)

Simms & Co.,
Opp. Passenger Depot, RONCEVERTE, W. Va.

The Pocahontas Times.

Andrew & Norman Price, Owners. "Montani Semper Liberi!" Andrew Price, Editor

VOL. 16, NO. 2 MARLINTON, WEST VIRGINIA, AUGUST 5, 1898. $1.00 PER YEAR

From FACTORY to CONSUMER.

$1.39 buys this (exact) Rattan Rocker, the largest size ever made; per dozen, $14.50. Our new 112-page catalogue containing Furniture, Draperies, Crockery, Baby Carriages, Refrigerators, Stoves, Lamps, Pictures, Mirrors, Bedding, etc., is yours for the asking. Special supplements just issued are also free. Write to-day. CARPET CATALOGUE in lithographed colors is also mailed free. Write for it. If you wish samples, send 8c. stamp. Matting samples also mailed for 8c. All Carpets sewed free this month and freight paid on $9 purchases and over.

$7.45 buys a made-to-your-measure All-Wool Cheviot Suit, expressage prepaid to your station. Write for free catalogue and samples. Address (exactly as below),

JULIUS HINES & SON, Dept. 909. BALTIMORE, MD.

LAW CARDS.

N. C. McNEIL,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

Will practice in the Courts of Pocahontas and adjoining counties and in the Court of Appeals of the State of West Virginia.

L. M. McCLINTIC,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

Will practice in the Courts of Pocahontas and adjoining counties and in the Supreme Court of Appeals.

H. S. RUCKER,
ATTY. AT LAW & NOTARY PUBLIC
HUNTERSVILLE, W. VA.

Will practice in the courts of Pocahontas county and in the Supreme Court of Appeals.

J. W. ARBUCKLE,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
LEWISBURG, W. VA.

Will practice in the courts of Greenbrier and Pocahontas counties. Prompt attention given to claims for collection in Pocahontas county.

W. A. BRATTON,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

Prompt and careful attention given to all legal business.

ANDREW PRICE,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

Will be found at Times Office.

SAM. B. SCOTT, JR.
LAWYER,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

All legal business will receive prompt attention.

H. M. LOCKRIDGE,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
HUNTERSVILLE, W. VA.

Prompt and careful attention given all legal work.

JOHN A. PRESTON FRED. WALLACE
PRESTON & WALLACE,
Attorneys at Law,
LEWISBURG, W. VA.

Will practice in the Courts of Greenbrier and adjoining counties, and in the Court of Appeals of the State of West Virginia.

J. W. YEAGER,
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

Prompt attention given to collections

PHYSICIANS' CARDS.

DR. O. J. CAMPBELL,
DENTIST,
MONTEREY, VA.

Will visit Pocahontas County at least twice a year. The exact date of his visit will appear in this paper.

DR. J. H. WEYMOUTH.
RESIDENT DENTIST,
ELKINS, W. VA.

Will visit Pocahontas County every spring and fall. The exact date of each visit will appear in The Times.

J. M. CUNNINGHAM, M. D.,
PHYSICIAN & SURGEON,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

Office next door to C. A. Yeager's Hotel. Residence opposite Hotel. All calls promptly answered.

To Cure a Cold in One Day.

Take Laxative Bromo Quinine Tablets. All Druggists refund the money if it fails to Cure. 25c.

TEACHERS AND THINGS.

Does the teacher have to confront a condition or a fact, we ask in a dramatic way in the words of a rising young novelist. This reminds us of the way they theorize in the training schools, shaping young persons to teach and filling them chock full of ideas and ideals. The novice who has been taught sees the smooth current of the stream down which he is to travel but not the rocks beneath the surface.

Nearly every one who has risen from among the people to assume prominence as a public man or a public deadbeat has taught. Nearly every child has a desire for teaching bred into him as he sits day after day under the control of his teacher, who is the monarch of all he surveys. A great many teachers get bravely over their desire to teach, but it hangs to some. It seems bred in the bone.

Professor D. L. Barlow, County Superintendent, from whose pen we published a typical article last week, is a good example of one confirmed in the habit of teaching. He lays awake at night planning how he can impart information by making a point plain.

In Pocahontas the school teacher receives an appalling amout of attention, and the people of the neighborhood watch him like hawks. This is very flattering when the teacher succeeds in pleasing those who exercise this surveillance, but as a rule it causes much irritation to the teacher and therefore interferes with his good work. When the country at large have their eyes upon the doings of Congress, and are grumbling and growling about high taxes and lavish appropriations, our average school patron is making the neighborhood too hot to hold the school teacher.

The first school that I taught was in a truly rural district, and I entered on the work with the feeling that I had reached the very acme of my ambition. The longer I taught the more I chafed under the conditions confronting those who indulged in teaching, and I did as the majority do—fled the scene, and let another take my place who goes to his work in a blissful state of ignorance.

Those who have never taught have no idea of the finesse required to teach a school.

My first school was what is known as a success. That is I taught to the last day of the term with an average attendance, but I had trouble. People talked about me. Some said I taught too many hours and others too few. I was too strict and too mild. They complained that I had never whipped anybody and that young ones needed to be whipped with the same regularity that cattle should be salted. I whipped a boy for a petty offence to quiet this rumor, and expected to be bushwhacked for weeks. I kept the school-room too hot; I kept it too cold. I let the children starve to death for water; I had the children carrying water half the time. One old clod compeller complained that I did not teach from six to six.

These are only a few of the many complaints that rose throughout the neighborhood on account of my mismanagement. I never dared to do or say anything without weighing the consequences and thinking how it would sound. One set would tell me what another set said, and I was overwhelmed and vexed with the cares of state.

One of the worst troubles I got into was caused by the introduction of calisthenics, which are "light gymnastics, suitable for and adapted to girls, designed to promote grace and health." The children took to them wonderfully well, and I would have my little gang of twenty or so fling their arms in unison, and it made an agreeable change in school work. But the little scamps soon saw a way to utilize the exercise. When their mother wanted a back-log cut, why the the teacher had put him through such violent exercise he was so stiff and sore that he could n't get his coat off. And the girls were the same way.

Pretty soon there was a cornshucking, and the brutal treatment by the teacher was discussed in all its phases. I was notified that I would have to stop abusing the children. I did not comply as I had found out the best plan to pursue was not to weaken. One evening a trustee came spying around, and when I put the team through their exercises he had to admit that it was about as heavy work as shaking hands.

After this it gradually dawned on the old folks that the young ones were a-doing of them, and the next plaint was naturally that I did not whip enough. I thought there might be some justice in this, myself; and shortly after one of the boys whose arms had suffered most from calisthenics gave me an opening, and nerving myself to do the desperate deed, I cut a twig and brushed him. I scared him very much and hurt him very little, and the school was tremendously impressed and the neighborhood pleased, but some complications arose with his immediate connections. The whipping evidently did him good, for he grew up and lately distinguished himself by licking a man fifty pounds heavier than he. We hope this is partly due to his early training.

The greatest forte a school-teacher can have is to make himself solid with the children. If the school interests them they will come, and if it bores them they will not, for the children rule the roost. Therefore the school-teacher should provide lots of Noah's Arks; Punch and Judy shows; unlimited supply of candy and lickerish; picture-books, and other things to make the school attractive and not like home. I offered a dollar on the first day of school for the pupil who attended the most days. The school was nearly out and there were two children, a boy and a girl about 8 years old, who had not missed a day. On the last Thursday the little boy was sick, and the little girl looked at him constantly, hoping he would be too sick to come next day. The next morning found him much worse, but he managed to reach the school-house and everybody gloried in his spunk. He made no attempt to study or recite. We gathered all the girls' shawls and made him a bed on a bench, and he lay there all day the sickest child I have ever seen. He was game to the last and received the half-dollar that was his with the greatest complaisance.

We feel that the school-teacher is poorly paid in Pocahontas, but it is nevertheless true that we are paying too much school-tax. It would be better if there were half the number of schools.

* * *

At Camp Alger among the twenty thousand white troops there is one battalion of colored troops attached to an Ohio regiment. The officers are all colored men, the major commanding the regiment being Young, who is the colored West Pointer in the army. A few days ago an officer of the colored troops stood by the side of a private in a Tennessee regiment in one of the boothes that have been erected for the sale of all sorts of things. The private made no move to salute the colored officer.

"Do n't you salute officers in your regiment?" asked the officer, sharply.

The Tennesseean looked at the officer for a moment. Then he drawled out:

"All coons look alike to me."

He has been under arrest ever since awaiting court-martial.—Ex.

* * *

In the fighting around Santiago General Joseph Wheeler, late of the Southern Confederacy made a bad break. When it became necessary for him to put his soldiers at the trenches he shouted: "Forward, men! Charge the damned Yankees! Charge the damned Yankees!"

* * *

"Me an' the old woman," said the Kentuck mountaineer, "had a little debate t'other day 'bout how long we wuz married. I says hit wuz twelve years an' she stuck out fo' eleb'm."

"An' which one was right?" asked the grocer.

"She wuz. I'd forgot 'bout Bill an' Buck bein' twins."—Ex.

A SENTIMENT.

"I 'd offer thee this hand of mine
If I could love thee less:
But hearts so warm, so fond as thine,
Should never know distress.
My fortune is too hard for thee,
'T would chill thy dearest joy;
I 'd rather weep to see thee free,
Than win thee to destroy."
—Branson Vawter.

Dear Mr Editor:

When I see "The Pocahontas Times" I always look to see if there is anything in it written by W. T. P., who is a charming writer. His article last week was unusually entertaining; and I was reminded of the first time that I heard the doubtful little song which he likes so much. It was at the "reception" of a newly married couple at the home of the groom's father, in the neighborhood of where I live.

Most of the bridal party were strangers to me. In the course of the evening a gentleman who looked to be about fifty years old, was asked to play and sing. As soon as the request was made his friends began to smile and to exchange amused glances. Someone began to hum "I'd offer thee this hand of mine"; and someone else said: "Yes, Mr F., please sing your little song." He took it all very pleasantly and sang the song beautifully.

I was sitting near the organ, and when he had finished he turned to me and asked me how I liked the sentiment of the song. I replied like W. T. P's. young lady, that I was not particularly impressed, and that I considered the compliment implied a "dubious" one to say the least. I quoted to him a line from a novel written by a prominent Monroe gentleman:—"Men often think they are chivalrous with women when they are cruel and senseless." I saw that he was not at all pleased, and I was told afterwards that I had made a dreadful faux pas.

Tho he was at that time "well off" in this world's goods, he had in his youth given up his sweetheart because he was poor, and she had married another man, and, I think, died. Evidently his conscience had always upbraided him, and he endeavored to console himself with the little song. That his comfort was very little was shown by his always wanting to know what others thought of it. He was a Christian—an elder in the Presbyterian church.

Shortly after I met him he died a horrible death—was burned to death in the night by some fiend who set fire to his house. I hope that he met his sweet-heart in the place where he had "treasures" which "neither moth nor rust doth corrupt." Truly, a great many women are very lovable, but I do not know one who deserves to be loved too much. C. E.

Pickaway, W. Va., July 29.

"SWAGO."

Mr Editor:

As a sequel to the pretty little wedding, noted in your last week's issue, which took place from the Swago church on the 20th instant, at which young Mr Everett Heafner and his pretty bride went forth into the world to battle with life, hand in hand, with the brightest prospects, it remains for your correspondent to write up a pleasant gathering of the friends of the contracting parties at the residence of Mr L. A. Heafner, the father of the groom, on the eve of this propitious wedding day.

At an early hour, even before the time had arrived for the "early lighting of the lamps," the guests began to arrive and were most graciously received by Mr and Mrs L. A. Heafner, and every thing was done that heart could wish by these truly hospitable people to make the occasion an enjoyable one. And when the lamps were lit in the room set apart for the occasion, they shone on fair women and brave men; "and when music arose with its voluptuous swell, soft eyes looked love to eyes which spake again, ond all went merry as a marriage bell." The bride of a day was most becomingly dressed in a costume which displayed the finest taste, and was apparently envied by all the fair sex present as she was led forth in the first dance by her gallant husband.

The crowd was a large one, as every body was invited and every one was welcome. A merry company was in all the rooms and on the piazza waiting their opportunity to get into the "next set"; Mr and Mrs L. A. Heafner moving among the throng with smiles and pleasant words for all. Considering the entire lack of restraint, every thing went pleasantly.

There was an alarm, however, sounded of "trouble outside," but which proved to be only a false alarm. Two boys having gotten to scuffling it was thought the time had arrived when it was rather too rough amusement, but when pulled apart by their friends they each smiling through his tears averred that they were only in fun, and peace and pleasure again crowned the scene.

Your correspondent was the witness of some amusing occurrences, such as frequently occur even on solemn occasions. One young swain, who doubted his ability to appear to advantage on the floor, had up to a late hour been successful in beating off all advances made toward his best girl from other knights present, and so far had not assayed to "trip the light fantastic toe," found himself suddenly placed in a very embarrassing situation. Being approached by the floor manager with the information that his presence with his partner was all that was necessary to complete the next set, his confusion wrs most complete, and to add fuel to the fire his best girl consented. After making a very minute investigation to see if his rudimentary mustache was in statu quo, he remarked that he "guessed it was time for him to be going down the line." However, another couple appearing at this time from the veranda took the place assigned to him, and the danger of having to appear on the floor with a lady was for the time averted.

A more enjoyable occasion was never witnessed in this neighborhood, and those who participated will have reeson to remember the kindness and hospitable treatment received for many days to come.

Who will be the next young couple? CLOSE OBSERVER.

THE FIRST TO FALL.

The July Confederate Veteran has an article about the first Confederate killed. W. R. Hall, who has been to the State Library at Richmond, finds that Captain J. Q. Marr, of the Warrenton Rifles, was the first to be killed, June 1, 1861, at Fairfax C. H., and Colonel Ewell, afterwards General, was slightly wounded. He also refers to an article in the Richmond Dispatch stating that eight soldiers were killed June 3, 1861, at Phillippi, Barbour County, West Virginia.

Thee names are given, Captain Archy Richards, Thomas E. Sims and Leroy Dangerfield. It turns out that Richards and Dangerfield survived the war, the latter still lives near Staunton, but lost his foot June 3, 1861. There seems to be much interest attached to the first happenings of the war between the States.

So far as the writer knows, the first Confederate soldier to die in the service was Private Phares, of the Pendleton Company, commanded by the late Captain David Anderson, of Franklin. He died of fever at Phillippa June 1, 1861, and was buried with the honors of of war on Saturday afternoon, June 2. Under Captain Anderson's direction, the writer, W. T. Price, acted as volunteer chaplain. The grave is near the cemetary gate and when the writer visited in November, 1873, it seemed to have been nicely cared for. The late Mrs Elizabeth Morall giving it her special attention. So far as known the kistinction should be accorded this lady and Phillippa lady friends as among the first to have planted flowers in memory of the Confederate dead.

Don't Tobacco Spit and Smoke Your Life Away.

To quit tobacco easily and forever, be magnetic, full of life, nerve and vigor, take No-To-Bac, the wonder-worker, that makes weak men strong. All druggists, 50c or $1. Cure guaranteed. Booklet and sample free. Address Sterling Remedy Co., Chicago or New York.

A CONTRAST.

For quite a while the vaporings of the "eloquent Robert" were considered beneath the notice of those of highest attainments in the relms of "pure reason." By such it was deemed impossible for him to influence any one having a modicum of logical perception, and something more than the mere rudiments of genuine knowledge. The unexpected, however, has happened, and the eloquent Robert has admirers who are doing a great deal of harm, and they have a following in centres end positions of influence that threaten dire consequences to ten thousand otherwise prosperous and happy homes, by corrupting the youth, fondly believed by parents and friends to be persons of flattering promise.

In respect to these the soul of the "eloquent Robert" has marched so far as to associate the gospel with weakness and superstition, and that to be a believing, faithful Christian is to be something weak, superstitious, and pusillanimous.

Let us reason about the dying prayer of a bright man who had this idea of what it would be to be a Christian, and see how it sounds and whether we would like it or something of the kind to fall from our pallid, dying lips: "O God—if there be a God—have mercy on my soul—if I have a soul."

With all his wit and all of his learning expended in hostile expressions against the religion of our Lord Jesus, this is all he has to say in the way of prayer, and dark, and wretched, and desolate are his prospects as he nears eternity. How low and grovelling must have been his views, and how meanly contracted must have been his spirit when the best he could say in the supreme moment was: "O God—if there be a God—have mercy on my soul—if I have a soul."

Let this demeanor be contrasted with the spirit and conduct of the Apostle Paul in the presence of death. What composure, elevation, and dignity as he fixes his eye upon heaven and says: "I am now ready to be offered, and the time of my departure is at hand. I have fought a good fight, I have finished my course, I have kept the faith. Henceforth there is laid up for me a crown of righteousness, which the Lord, the righteous Judge, shall give me at that day."

One is a true man with his intellectual, noble, and elevated bearing; the other a mere worm of the dust, writhing and contracting himself in his own littleness and selfishness of spirit. While considering such a contrast, may it ever be in our hearts to say, with holy enthusiasm: "God forbid that I should glory, save in the cross of our Lord Jesus Christ." S. C. R.

Villager's Idea of Hotel Business.

A young lawyer in one of the leading lake cities recently passed a few days at the home of his childhood, a rural hamlet in an adjoining county. While there he ran across one of the characters of the place, a quaint old man whom he had known ever since he could remember.

"How's bizness in town?" inquired the aged man.

"Pretty good," replied the lawyer.

"What ye doin' now?"

"Practising law."

"What's your brother Jim doin'?"

"Jim is running a hotel," and he named one of the largest public houses in the city.

"Is Jim married yet?"

"No."

The old man raised his head with a commiserating glance. Then he dryly observed:

"Has to dee-pend on hired help, eh!"—Cleveland Plaindealer.

* * *

The question now is have the Senators from the 2d and 9th districts, Getzendanner and Pierson, forfeited their seats by accepting commissions in the United States army. The Constitution provides that no man holding a lucrative office under the United States shall be entitled to a seat in the legislature. Thus they are compelled to resign when they are appointed to a postmastership. It seems pretty well settled that these gentlemen are no longer Senators, and that their successors will be elected this fall.

Force of Habit.

"I was once speaking at a temperance meeting in Green Bay," says ex-Governor Peck, of Milwauked, "and in the course of my remarks I looked about for some water. A mug had been placed beside me, and how it could have happened at a temperance convention I do not know, but it was a beer mug filled with water. Well, it was a warm day, and where there is convention food spread out on a warm day there are likely to be flies. There were flies, and one had lighted trustingly on the surface of the water in that mug. I saw him as I lifted it and did the most natural and human thing I could think of—blew him off the water. Well they cheered for five minutes, And to this day I don't suppose you can persuade a Green Bay man that any body from Milwaukee can drink a glass of water, even at a temperance convention, without first blowing off the foam!"—Chicago Daily News.

Japanese Journalism.

"Japanese journalism," says a missionary's wife, "is a singular profession in many of its features. There is practicably no such thing as freedom of the press in Japan. Whenever a newspaper publishes something unfriendly to the government it is surpressed and the editor sent to prison. The real editor is never imprisoned, though. Every newspaper has what the Japanese call a 'dummy editor,' and it is his sole duty to go to jail every time the paper is surpressed for offending the mikado. Then the real editor changes the name of his paper and keeps on publishing it. Dummy editors spend most of their time in prison."—Lippincott's Magazine.

Deafness Cannot be Cured

by local applications as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed deafness is the result, and unless the inflamation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condditon of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars; free.
F. J. CHENEY & Co., Toledo, O.
Sold by druggists, 75c.
Hall's Family Pills are the best.

Commissioners Notice.

Office of S. B Scott, Jr., Commissioner in Chancery, Marlinton, W. Va., July 8th, 1898.

Pursuant to a decree of the Circuit court of Pocahontas county, entered on the 24th day of June, 1898 in a chancery cause therein pending entitled:

Johnson and Gwinn and others,
versus
J. T. Hogsett nnd others,

I will proceed at my office in the town of Marlinton, West Virginia, on the 8th day of August, 1898, to take, state, and report to court the following matters of account to wit:

First: A statement showing the subsisting liens upon the lands of the defendant, J. T. Hogsett, showing the respective dates, dignities, and priorities of the same and to whom due and payable.

Second: A statement showing the real estate owned by the defendant, J. T. Hogsett, against which said liens may be asserted.

Third: A statement showing the fee simple and annual rental value of said real estate, and whether or not the same will in five years rent for a sum sufficient to pay off and discharge the liens thereon.

Fourth: Any other matter to be specially stated, deemed pertinent by the Commissioner, or required by any party in interest to be specially stated.

At which time and place all parties in interest may attend.

Respectfully,
S. B. SCOTT, Jr.,
Commissioner in Chancery.

NOTICE to LIEN HOLDERS.

To all parties holding liens by judgment or otherwise on the real estate, or any part thereof, of J. T. Hogsett:

In pursuance of a decree of the Circuit court of Pocahontas county made in a cause therein pending to subject the real estate of the said J. T. Hogsett to the satisfaction of the liens thereon, you are hereby required to present all claims held by you and each of you against the said J. T. Hogsett, which are liens on his real estate or any part of it, for adjudication to me at my office in the town of Marlinton, Pocahontas county, West Virginia, on or before the 8th day of August, 1898.

Given under my hand this 8th day of July, 1898.

S. B. SCOTT, Jr.,
Commissioner in Chancery.

The Pocahontas Times.

ANDREW PRICE, - - - EDITOR.

MARLINTON, FRIDAY, AUG. 5, 1898

Entered at the post-office at Marlinton, W. Va., as second class matter.

DEMOCRATIC TICKET.

For Congress,
JUDGE DAVID E. JOHNSTONE,
of Mercer County.

For State Senator,
C. W. OSENTON,
of Fayette County.

For House of Delegates,
I. B. MOORE,
of Sunset.

For County Commissioner,
AMOS BARLOW,
of Huntersville.

For Superintendent Free Schools.
JAMES W. WARWICK,
of Mill Point.

The telephone wires were strung as far as Luther Sharp's, sixteen miles from Marlinton, Tuesday.

Prince Bismarck, one the most remarkable men of the 19th century, died last Sunday, in the 84th year of his age.

A German Baptist preacher at Mountain Lake Park seems fond of notoriety and to lack common sense. When his attention was called to the Presidential invitation that all worshipping assemblies render thanks to the Supreme Being for the victories at Santiago July 1-3, he observed that no one must expect any thanks from him that our covetous, rum-soaked Government was permitted to send a few hundred dirty Spaniards to hell.

The bicycle costume has had a slap in the face. Thousands of the demi monde of New York City have adopted the dress; women who could no more ride a bicycle than they could a mule colt. None of us old-fashioned people dared say a word about the costume for it denoted a depraved state of mind that was absolutely shocking, and the fault was in the observer and not the observed. But the unfortunate women, without being aware that there was a delicate ethical question involved in the new dress, saw that it suited them and settled the question very definitely by adopting the dress. The police are looking after these women and the wearing this dress must have a bicycle visible to support it in the Tenderloin district.

A good many instances of soldiers in the present war surviving terrible wounds are recounted. The long distance Mauser and other modern guns shoot throught the body without tearing, and will even pass through a bone without shattering it. One of the most remarkable cases of a man recovering from gunshot wounds was that of a man named Riddle, who lived in Harrison County. He fell into the hands of guerrillas and was shot fifteen times with musket balls. Thirteen of the balls remained in his body and yet he recovered, and a number of Pocahontas people have seen him and his wounds. One can almost believe he gave rise to the term "Riddled with balls." His was a fine illustration of the theory, "We are immortal till our work is done."

THE REPUBLICAN NOMINEE.

The convention held at Alderson, over which Senator McNeil presided, nominated H. H. Andrew for State Senate from this district. A hot contest took place between Andrew and the Fayette County candidate, Dr Kirkpatrick, and Andrew was finally nominated by one vote.

Some of the Democratic papers have indulged in slighting personal remarks about Mr Andrew. Even the Greenbrier Independant, which hardly ever says "boo, to a goose," had something to say disparaging to the nominee. While we do not know the gentleman personally, we feel sure that the Republican party has nominated as good a man as usual, and we will fight the fight on principles. The resolutions are unique. They deal in history; the history of the Administration; of Governor Atkinson; of Hon W. S. Edwards; and of the glorious achievements of our armies and navies, and then as a rider to this boasting they point to the St. Louis platform and say, "Them's our sentiments."

GRANDFATHER'S CLOCK.

The Levels people still talk about Colonel Paul McNeel's clock, occasionally. About thirty-five or forty years ago he owned a very fine clock—such a clock as is rarely seen. But accidents will happen to the best regulated clocks and it had to be sent to the local jeweler, and then its troubles began. It got in the habit of going back and loafing around the clock shop, where it kept company with other degenerate clocks of irregular habits, and when it was taken away it would get sulky and strike and refuse to run until it was taken back to be repaired. Then it would set in and run very steadily.

At last after a great deal of tinkering the bill for repairs was over ten dollars, and the clock would not run, so the jeweler took the mental and physical wreck of a time keeper as part pay for his long score. Ever since that the clock has run and kept good time, and it is known as a most remarkable instance of a clock's perversity.

Of course the jeweler has traducers who hint that he had his eye on the clock ever since it was brought into the county, but we know he would n't do a thing like that.

SCHOOL TRUSTEES.

Please puplish my reply to the following question:

The law says that the trustees shall meet at the school-house of their sub-district on the third Mondap in July of every year, or as soon thereafter as practicable, and appoint a teacher or teachers for the coming session of their school. Now I notice, under the new form of contract, we can not employ a teacher until after the Institute, and the Institute does not begin this year until August 8th. Is there any necessity for the trustees meeting on the third Monday? TRUSTEE.

In reply to the above question I said: Trustees may meet on the third Monday in July and appoint a teacher, with the understanding that they will sign his contract when he has complied with the institute law. It is just as necessary for the teacher to present to the trustees a certificate of attendance for five days at a teachers' Institute as it is to have a teacher's certificate. The following is the opinion of the Attorney-General:

The trustees, if they employ a teacher who has not complied with the law requiring teachers to attend institutes, violate their oath of office, and ought themselves be removed if it be done wilfully."

Yours most obediently,
D. L. BARLOW.

What of the motive of the man who says to his sweetheart:

"I 'd offer thee this hand of mine
If I could love thee less;
But hearts so warm, so fond as thine,
Should never know distress."

A Monroe lady writes to this paper about it, and her article will be found on the first page. As for us we think the sweet singer should have given the girl the refusal of of him, and who 's to tell but what she might have preferred such delicate sentiment to meat in the pot after all. Still the whole poem is not free from the badges of fraud, for if the young lady really wanted him to offer her that hand of hi'sn, she would have brought it to pass, for the sweet young girl is constantly working miracles in making the dumb to speak in such a way that the young man thinks that he took the initiative. It is not a very important question, for the reason that sensible men outnumber sentimental men so largely.

Parties about Washinton, D. C., say that the representatives of foreign governments have been coming in from the summer resorts and calling on the President the last few days. This is something never noticed before, and it awakens curious inquiry what it may mean. The conclusion of some is that they are there for the purpose of pressing inquiry as to what the Government intends to do with the Philippines. Now if they should be met with "words smoother than butter" to the effect that this is none of their business, and it would be better to wait and see, there is reason to believe that they will return to their summer homes with war in their hearts. It would seem from all this, provided the report is true, that European powers are greatly exercised over the Philippine issues. The plot doth thicken.

Our Stereotyped Item.

Hon. H. A. Yeager was down the pike last Sunday.

HONEY DEW.

A correspondent writing to the West Virginia News complacently makes some bad errors in writing of honey and honey dew. In reply to a question what makes red honey, he says that it is honeydew. He speaks of himself as a bee-man, and it may be presumptuous in the writer—who would as lief fight a battle as to hive a swarm of bees, to dispute his statements, but we know from study of authorities that the gentleman has not a clear conception of either honey or honey dew.

In the first place honey is the waste matter of plants; honey dew is waste matter of animals. In the growth of plants the sacharine matter is thrown off and the bee gathers it and stores it in cells. It does not undergo any change, tho it is admitted that authorities differ on this point. The bee stores the honey from various flowers in season in different cells, after the fashion of the housewife who puts raspberries in one jar and blackberries in another. Then what makes red honey? The same pigments that make the blossoms of one flower red and another white. Honey gathered from locust is one color, and that from lynn blossoms another.

Honey dew is a secretion left on the leaves of trees, especially the chestnut and hickory, by a parasitic aphadæ which feeds upon the leaves, and is as disgusting as honey is inviting. An abundance of honey dew indicates good working weather for bees, and has given rise to the supposition that bees feed upon it, which is not the case.

We have used Chamberlain's Cough Remedy in our home for many years and bear cheerful testimony to its value as a medicine which should be in every family. In coughs and colds we have found it to be efficacious and in croup and and whooping cough in children we deem it indispensable.—H. P. RITTER, 4127 Fairfax ave., St Louis, Mo. For sale by Amos Barlow, Huntersville; Barlow & Moore, Edray.

Certain parties are getting in some bloody work on Patterson Poage's sheep. Two have been found dead and one fatally wounded. The dead were killed by rifle shots and the wounded one was hurt by a shot gun. Whether they were killed for spite or table use is not known.

Paul Golden has developed some fighting qualities hitherto unsuspected. A lumberman got unruly in his store Wednesday and Golden seized a baseball bat which he keeps for the purpose and proceeded to bounce him, when the lumberman attempted some resistance but in another moment he was in the street with a bleeding face while Golden was back in the store waiting on customers.

The Rev W. B. Costley, Stockbridge, Ga., while attending to his pastoral duties at Ellenwood, that State, was attacked by cholera morbus. He says: "By chance I happened to get hold of a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera, and Diarrhoea Remedy, and I think it was the means of saving my life. It relieved me at once."—For sale by Amos Barlow, Huntersville; Barlow and Moore, Edray.

CASTORIA.
Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher. The Kind You Have Always Bought

Special Inducements
Genuine Bargains!!!

The War Stamp is going on nearly all kinds of goods, as you know; but instead of charging that to my customers I will take off more than that. I have the goods and must sell them. I have a large amount of money to raise, and will give customers a chance to get extra good bargains, for I will sell for cash all goods for Cost and Carriage.

You have a chance to select what you want and pay for what you get. So come now one and all, far and near, as you will not have such a chance soon again to make you a little change. And those that owe me please come prepared to pay their little account. Come on the days specified and help me while you are helping me you can help yourself. Human nature seems to lean this way now a days—to help each other when we can receive our part of help. Any how in this case all will be benefitted.

Yours for Business,
Steward Boggs.
Huntersville, W. Va.

We Make WHEELS, Too!

MILLER RODE ONE 2093 MILES IN 132 HOURS

The Eldredge
$50.00
The Belvidere
$40.00

Superior to all others irrespective of price. Catalogue tells you why. Write for one.

NATIONAL SEWING MACHINE CO.,
339 BROADWAY, New York. Factory, BELVIDERE, ILL.

Administrators Notice.

All persons holding claims against the estate of Andrew Dilley deceased, will please present the same to me or to my attorney, H. M. Lockridge, at his office in the town of Huntersville, West Va., on or before the 5th day of September, 1898. MARTHA DILLEY,
4w Administratrix.

C. B. SWECKER,
General Auctioneer
and Real Estate Agent.

I sell Coal, Mineral and Timber Lands. Farms and Town Lots a specialty. 21 years in the business. Correspondence solicited. Reference furnished.

Postoffice—Dunmore, W. Va., or Alexander, W. Va.

Sheep Strayed.

Nine ewes and seven lambs. All marked with bar on shoulder; lambs half-crop of right ear and split in left. Bought in the Levels of Henry McNeel. Liberal pay for their return PAGE GAY,
Edray, W. Va.

CASTORIA.
Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher. The Kind You Have Always Bought Fertilizers!

FOR SALE!

Buy your Fertilizers from J. W. BEARD & BRO., as they handle

ALLISON & ADDISON OLD DOMINION
BRANDS,
Norfolk, - Virginia.

AND

GREAT EASTERN.
Rutland, - Vermont.

THEY ARE THE BEST.
Call on or wait until they see you.

J. W. BEARD & BRO.,
Academy, W. Va.

Administrator's Sale.

As administrator of the estate of the late J. J Beard, of Huntersville, I will proceed to sell on the 16th day of August, 1898, on the premises of the late J. J. Beard, at Huntersville, W. Va., the following personal property, towit:

Two Mules, both three years old,
Two Cows,
Two Calves,
Two Horses,
One buggy,
One 2-horse Wagon,
1 Mowing Machine,
1 Buggy Rake,
1 double set of Lumber Harness,
1 set of single Buggy Harness,
1 Plow,
1 double Shovel Plow,
8 head of Hogs,
9000 feet of Pine Fencing Plank,
1 Haystack.

Also other little articles around the place too numerous to mention, including all household and kitchen furniture

TERMS: Amounts under five dollars, cash; over five dollars, six months time bond with approved security, with interest from date.

T. S. McNEEL.
Admr. of J. J. Beard.

Dental Notice.

Dr O. J. Campbell will visit the following points on dates named:
Dunmore.....28th July, six days.
Green Bank, 4th August, six days.
Trav. Repose, 11th Aug. four days.

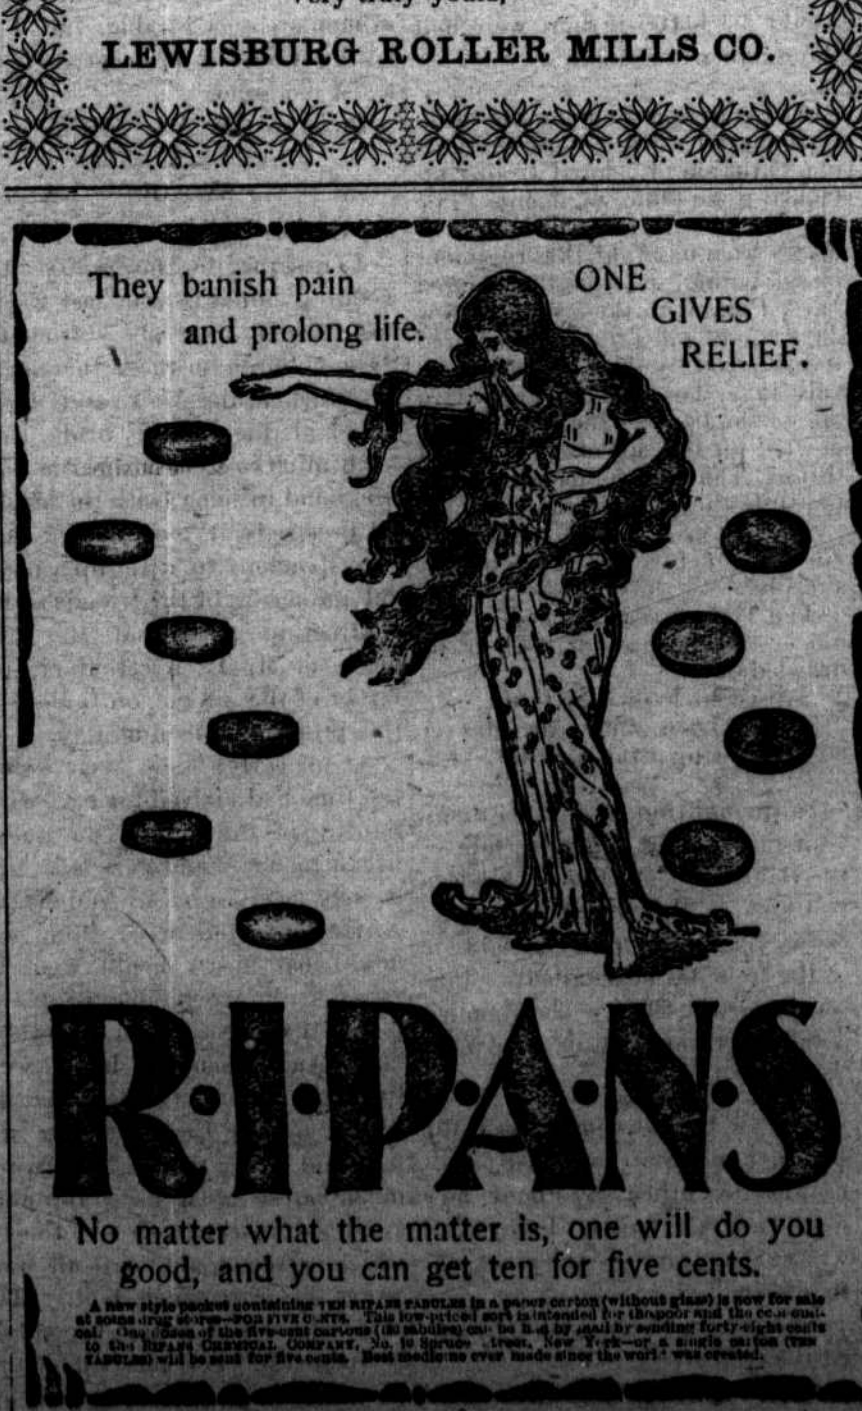
FARMERS!

YOUR WHEAT WILL BE EQUIVALENT TO CASH FOR FERTILIZERS AT THE LEWISBURG ROLLER MILLS.

We handle a number of the best grades of FERTILIZERS on the market, put up in 100 and 200 lb. bags, which we can furnish at the above mills or at Caldwell or Ronceverte.

Our Fertilizers have been used by the best farmers in Greenbrier and adjoining counties, and we will be very glad to furnish you reference if you desire. Hold your orders until you call and examine our grades and get our prices. We are also prepared to furnish you GRASS SEED, SALT, and HARD and SOFT COAL at the lowest possible prices.

Very truly yours,
LEWISBURG ROLLER MILLS CO.



They banish pain and prolong life.

ONE GIVES RELIEF.

R·I·P·A·N·S

No matter what the matter is, one will do you good, and you can get ten for five cents.

A new style packet containing TEN RIPANS TABULES in a paper carton (without glass) is now for sale at some drug stores—FOR FIVE CENTS. This low-priced sort is intended for the poor and the economical. One dozen of the five-cent cartons (120 tabules) can be had by mail by sending forty-eight cents to the RIPANS CHEMICAL COMPANY, No. 10 Spruce Street, New York—or a single carton (TEN TABULES) will be sent for five cents. Best medicine ever made since the world was created.

Commissioners Notice.

Office of S. B. Scott, Jr., Commissioner in Chancery, Marlinton, W. Va., July 22d, 1898.

Pursuant to a decree of the Circuit Court of Pocahontas County, made on the 24th day of June, 1898 in a chancery cause therein pending, entitled:

J. W. Marshall and others
vs.
Andrew Workman and others,

I will proceed at my office in the town of Marlinton, West Virginia, on the 16th day of August, 1898, to take, state and report to court the following matters of account towit:

First: An account of the liens upon the land of the defendant, Andrew Workman, with their respective amounts and priorities, showing to whom such amounts are due and payable.

Second: A statement showing the lands owned by the said Andrew Workman, together with the fee simple and annual rental value thereof.

Third: Any other matter to be specially stated deemed pertinent by the Commissioner or required by any party in interest to be so stated.

At which time and place all parties in interest may attend.

Respectfully,
S. B. SCOTT, Jr.,
Commissioner in Chancery.

NOTICE to LIEN HOLDERS.

To all persons holding liens, by judgment or otherwise, on the real estate or any part thereof of Andrew Workman:

In pursuance of a decree of the Circuit Court of Pocahontas County made in a cause therein pending to subject the real estate of the said Andrew Workman to the satisfaction of the liens thereon, you are hereby required to present all claims held by you and each of you against the said Andrew Workman which are liens on his real estate or any part of it, for adjudication to me at my office in the town of Marlinton, Pocahontas County, West Virginia, on or before the 16th day of August, 1898.

Given under my hand this 22d day of July, 1898.

S. B. SCOTT, Jr.,
Commissioner in Chancery.

NOTICE.

SILLING & SLAVEN,

TIN, SHEET-IRON
ROOFING,
GUTTER SPOUTING,
ROOF PAINTING,
FLUES, STOVE PIPE.
GALVANIZED FLUES,
SMOKE STACKS.
FRUIT DRYERS,
GALVANIZED TANKS,
AND CISTERNS.

Shop - Made Tin Ware
Always on Hand.

LIGHTNING RODS.

Work Done on Short Notice.

Call or write to
SILLING & SLAVEN,
ACADEMY, W. VA.

ALLEGANY COLLEGIATE INSTITUTE.

Alderson, W. Va.

SIXTH SESSION OPENS SEPT. 15TH.

Full Academic and Collegiate Course. Thorough instructions in Mathematics, English, Latin, and Greek, French, German, Sciences, Etc. Special advantages in Music, —Vocal, Piano, and Guitar,—and in Art. Also Commercial and Stenography.

For Catalogue and full information address

W. S. ANDERSON,
8w Principal.

REMEMBER
THE MAINE!

But do n't forget that the Golden Store has reduced the prices on CALICO from 6cts to 3 1-2c. This seasons purchase, Standard make, and handsome patterns.

……

Do n't overlook the fact that the Golden Store can do more for you than other stores in giving good quality for the least money

THE GOLDEN STORE.

LEWISBURG—
FEMALE INSTITUTE.

THE LEADING FEMALE SEMINARY IN WEST VIRGINIA.

Collegiate, Academic, and Preparatory Departments. Classical, Scientific, Music, and Art. Best of Fare. Hot and Cold Baths. Rooms Carpeted. Gives a Thorough Christian Education.

TESTIMONY.

REV E. O. GUERRANT, D. D., of Kentucky:

"A good Female School is a public blessing, and among many noble institutions I do not know a better one than the one presided over by Rev R. L. Telford at Lewisburg, W. Va. It is Christian, Biblical, thorough, and attractive—making not only finished scholars but lovely Christian characters. It is good enough to educate my own daughter, and I take pleasure in commending it to my friends."

REV M. L. LACY, D. D, of West Virginia:

"I honestly believe it is the very best school of which I have any knowledge."

HON JOHN W. McCREERY, of the State Senate, W. Va.:

"Having had two daughters at the Lewisburg Female Institute, under the management of Rev R. L. Telford, it affords me pleasure to say that I regard the school as one of the best in the country."

DR J. M. POYNTZ, of Richmond, Ky.:

"Rarely indeed does one have the opportunity of placing their daughters in so good an institution of learning as the one presided over by Rev R. L. Telford, at Lewisburg. My daughter has been cared for as if she had been a member of the family."

REV D. S. SYDENSTRICKER, D. D., Hillsboro, W. Va.:

"Having been a patron of the Lewisburg Female Institute for two years, I can sincerely commend it to the attention and patronage of all who desire to have their daughters thoroughly trained in mind and heart. The teachers are all well qualified to do honest work. No half-way work is done. The refining and elevating Christian influences thrown around the pupils are most excellent."

IMPROVEMENTS.

Seventeen Thousand Dollars expended during the last five years in additions and improvements.

Send for illustrated catalogue to

Rev R. L. TELFORD, Lewisburg, W. Va.

The Pocahontas Times,

Hear, Land o' Cakes and brither Scots,
Frae Maidenkirk to Johnny Groats,
If there's a hole in a' your coats,
I rede ye tent it;
A chiel's amang you takin' notes,
An' faith he 'll prent it. – Burns

Local Events.

Don't forget the festival at the school-house next Wednesday.

In Renicks Valley there is an unfenced cornfield bordering the pike.

The board of examiners for this year is composed of D. L. Barlow, J. W. Warwick and T. A. Bruffey.

Hunter Kee, one of the Weston hospital guards, was in last week for Lake Anderson whose mind has become impaired by disease and close study.

It is reported that a couple of men, brothers, from Nicholas or Webster, passed through this county the other day, who were deserters from the army. The penalty in time of war for deserting is death.

A son of Wm. Wysong, of Ronceverte, who belongs to the regular army, Corporal E. C. Wysong, after the battle of Santiago, was reported missing. His friends have recently heard of him as being safe and well.

Ledford Bartlett, of Addison, who has been under indictment for a year for shooting with intent to kill, confessed to a charge of assault and was fined $100 and placed in jail for 30 days. A large number of witnesses attended from this county. His proposed defense was insanity.

Lieut J. D. Kerr, of the 8th Cavalry, was wounded in the battle of Santiago, and the New York Herald and Journal thought it was Lieut. Bob Kerr and printed his photograph in their Sunday editions. The friends of the latter were not alarmed as they knew that he was on his way to Manilla.

We noticed a lot of suckling calves going out of Pocahontas to market last week. This is the greatest mistake our stock raisers can make. Shipping heifer-calves was very extensively carried on several years ago and the herds of the county had to be recruited from East Virginia.

There is at least one authenticated case of a Greenbrier River bass swallowing a ground squirrel. Allan Kinnison, who lives on the river opposite Academy, was fortunate enough to see it. The squirrel was swimming the river when the bass attacked it and swallowed it at the second attempt.

J. H. Landes walked through the mountains to Upshur and back recently. On Gauley Mountain he killed a rattlesnake 12 feet long which had 4 rattles. Tom Townsend reports having killed a rattle snake on Beaver Creek 5 feet and 10 inches long which had 26 rattles.

A genuine bargain given is like putting money out at interest—it brings business to us. We will will sell Ladies' $2.00 fine trimmed Black Hats for $1.10. Despite the high tariff on tobacco, we will sell you good tobacco for 25c lb.; 2oz bags of smoking tobacco, 3c.

Yours respectfully,
L. D. Sharp.

A little fellow went to church with his mother one Sunday, and when the contribution plate was passed the lad watched his mother putting in 1 cent. On the way home the mother was finding fault with the sermon. The lad remarked: "Well, mother, what do you expect for a cent?" A great many people think they can buy a cheap shoe and have it wear as long as a better one. Then they are sick because it dont wear longer. My ladies' slippers at 98c are really worth $1.50, but I don't want to carry them over.—P. Golden.

Wash Spence, living on the river near Academy, took a job of logging from W. H. Overholt to float a lot of logs, cut on the river ridge near the big bend in the river, a couple of miles down to James Burnsides. He built a couple of piers and put in an expensive boom. Last Wednesday there was a big tide in the river and he started up with his force of men to put in the logs. Going up they met a couple of large spruce pine trees coming down the river, top foremost. They struck the boom and cleared it out of the river. The boom has been replaced and is ready for another flood. The object is to have the lumber sawed at a point where it can be hauled into the Levels.

Aunt Betsy Rucker, who lived on Anthony's Creek, was probably the most expert huntress this county has ever produced. The older people remember her as being used to kill a large number of deer each fall. Diana was the goddess of the chase and is represented as lolling along after the deer with hunting dog and a bevy of maidens. Her disciple took a long mountain rifle and shot pouch, greased the patching of the ball, and hunted in a far more business like manner. One occasion she killed a deer and hung it up. Coming back to it she found a man just starting away with it. She tried to make him return it, but being only a woman he walked on. She took deliberate aim at one of his legs and brought him down.

PERSONAL MENTION.

T. A. Sydenstricker, of Academy was in town Monday.

Miss Ruth Randolph, of Richmond, is visiting in Marlinton.

Cary Snyder, son of the late F. J. Snyder, has enlisted in the 2nd West Virginia Regiment.

Rev R. L. Telford, principal of the Lewisburg Female Institute, was in Pocahontas last week.

Captain J. W. Marshall will visit the Red Sulphur Springs in Monroe County for a few weeks.

J. W. Barter has terminated his engagement with McElwee & Taylor and is taking a breathing spell.

Mrs J. C. Gay has been a visitor at A. M. McLaughlin's the past three weeks, and feels greatly benefitted by the alum water found in that vicinity.

Mrs Col Ervine, accompanied by Mrs Allan McDannald, of Warm Springs, passed Marlinton Wednesday, on their return from Randolph County.

Rev Clutterbuck, of Green Bank preached at Marlinton last Sunday. He is on the lookout for a small farm as he wishes to buy land. He is English by birth and came to this county when he was eleven years old. He has preached for 44 years. For eleven years he was a missionary in London. He has taught school and served a term as superintendent of free schools of a county in Missouri. He is thinking of running as an independent candidate for superintendent of this county, which shows he has not guaged the temper of the voters of this county very well. He should be informed that there is no place on the ballot for an independent candidate.

W. L. Brown, one of our esteemed citizens far advanced in the seventies, resides near Green Bank and is pleasantly enjoying the closing years of his life. He is a native of Cumberland County, Virginia, but came to this county more than fifty years ago and located at Green Bank. At fourteen years of age he went behind the counter, and has spent most of his life in the merchantile business. He was in the Confederate service nearly three years attached to a corps of topographical engineers and assisted in pontooning the James River beyond Richmond two occasions and in bridging streams in the vi of Richmond during the memorable campaigns in the latter years of the war. He has been a Justice several terms, and is a Notary Public. Mr Brown is a Ruling Elder of his church and has been a life-long Sunday school worker.

The Mail Route.

A counter petition opposing the change of schedule in the mail route has been thought of. The way it came out was when the post master at Huntersville wrote to the post master at Dilley's Mill if he would sign it, a Green Bank man saw it and sent us a copy of the letter. The reason he gives is that the mail will leave Lewisburg so early it will miss the eastern mail train. His sole reason fails when he looks at the schedule, which says expressly that this mail leaves only when the mail carrier arrives from Ronceverte.

He gives it a black eye when he says, "This is purely a Marlinton get up." Can any good thing come out of Nazareth? This is a good thing. A man at Lewisburg or at Traveler's Repose can write to the county seat of this county and get a return the next day, instead of requiring four to make the round trip, and nobody is cut out of any mail facilities they possess now. Huntersville has exactly the same mails, except that it has in addition a speedy connection with Lewisburg. It benefits Huntersville as well as every other town in Pocahontas County. It benefits Marlinton, Edray, Mill Point and Buckeye probably more than Huntersville, still it is a decided benefit to every town in the county, and that a single voice in Pocahontas should be raised to protest against the greatest favor the government has given us in many years is wonderfully strange.

The Best Remedy for Flux.

Mr John Mathias, a well known stock dealer of Pulaski, Ky., says: "After suffering for over a week with flux, and my physician having failed to relieve me, I was advised to try Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, and have the pleasure of stating that the half of one bottle cured me." For sale by Amos Barlow, Huntersville; Barlow & Moore, Edray.

Rucker—Wade.

A very pleasant wedding occurred at the Marlinton manse, Wednesday 9 A. M., when Gilbert H. Rucker and Miss Fannie E. Wade were united in the bonds of holy matrimony, by Rev W. T. Price. The parties are from Anthony's Creek, and the bride is a daughter of Anson Wade.

White Pine Lumber.

I have a sawmill set on Beaver Creek and I will sell white pine lumber in large and small bills. Those wishing to buy lumber will please send in their bills at an early date.

Levi Gay.

August 1, 1898.

Found at the girl's bathing pool a dozen safety pins.

TOP OF ALLEGHENY.

Most of the farmers are done cutting wheat and can boast of a fairly good crop.

J. E. Lunsford has just returned from Monterey with a fifteen ($15) dollar set of harness.

William Freeman paid his Randolph brethren a visit recently, and brought back two fine pet rabbits.

J. D. Wilmouth expects to move shortly to his new residence which is being finished up in workmanlike manner.

J. B. Bradshaw, proprietor of the "Mansion House" at McDowell, made a flying trip to Randolph the latter part of the week.

Granville Keller, the famous "western hunter," is building an L to George W. Beverage's barn, which will be quite an improvement both for looks and comfort.

The firm of Dysard & Kerr, of the city of Durbin, are building a park, digging a well, working the road, and making other improvements, too tedious to mention just now.

Indeed I would like to tell of another picnic, if it were not so late in the season. Suffice it to say that about 30 of Highland's fine haired lads and lassies celebrated the 20th of July at Cheat Bridge, returning the 21st inst.

Martin Colaw talks about going to Cuba—another girl.

Rev C. C. Arbogast will preach at this place the second Sunday at 10 o'clock.

Austin Wilfong has abandoned the idea of lumbering and has set down on the farm.

Charley Varner started to camp Monday last. He says farming is too slow a business for him.

We are having the same "different" weather the Dr ordered—too wet to work, but 'jis' right fo' huntin' and fishin.'

The singing at Traveler's Repose on last Sunday was fairly well attended, with Miss Gertie Yeager as organist.

W. B. Freeman made a net profit of $245.00 in a horse trade during last. If you have doubts about it, try him a round.

During a game of football Saturday last, Joe Phillips got his collar-bone broken by coming in contact with Clyde Beard.

Abija Mudhew.

About one month ago my child, which is fifteen months old, had an attack of diarrhoea accompanied by vomiting. I gave it such remedies as are usually given in such cases, but as nothing gave relief, we sent for a physician and it was under his care for a week. At this time the child had been sick for about ten days and was having about twenty five operations of the bowels every twelve hours, and we were convinced that unless it soon obtained relief it would not live. Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera, and Diarrhoea Remedy was recommended, and I decided to try it. I soon noticed a change for the better; by its continued use a complete cure was brought about and it is now perfectly healthy.—C. L. Boggs, Gilmer County, W. Va. For sale by Amos Barlow, Huntersville; Barlow & Moore, Edray.

Commissioner's Notice

G. F. Crummett, Assignee, Pl'ff.
vs.
John P. Varner.. ...Defendant.

Pursuant to a decree of the Circuit Court of Pocahontas County, West Virginia, rendered in the above styled cause on the 21st day of June, 1898, the undersigned Commissioner will proceed at his office in the town of Marlinton, West Virginia, on the 15th day of August, 1898, to take, state, and report to Court the following matters of account, to wit:

First: A statement showing the liens upon the lands of the defendant John P. Varner, with their respective legal dignities and priorities.

Second: What land the said John P. Varner owns in this county subject to said liens.

Third: Whether or not the lands of the said John P. Varner will rent in five years for a sum sufficient to pay said liens.

Fourth: Any other matter, &c.

At which time and place all parties in interest may attend.

Given under my hand this 6th day of July, 1898.

W. A. BRATTON,
Commissioner.

NOTICE to LIEN HOLDERS.

To all persons holding liens, by judgment or otherwise, on the real estate or any part thereof of John P. Varner.

In pursuance of an order of the Circuit Court of Pocahontas County, rendered in a cause therein pending to subject the real estate of the said John P. Varner to the satisfaction of the liens thereon, you are hereby required to present all claims held by you and each of you against the said John P. Varner, which are liens on his real estate or any part of it, for adjudication to me, at my office in the town of Marlinton, West Virginia, on or before the 15th day of August, 1898.

Given under my hand this 6th day of July, 1898

W. A. BRATTON,
Commissioner.

BUCKEYE.

George Jackson is very unwell.

Dry and hot. Hay harvest in full blast.

D. T. McNeil goes fishing occasionally.

Leet Young is drinking ice water for his health.

M. W. McNeil made a flying trip to Ronceverte last week.

A. W. Rodgers is doing some work for Joe Pennel.

Ed Rutledge was at Riverside Sunday on business.

Jasper Auldridge was at Mr Beverage's Sunday.

F. C. Peare, of Baltimore, is in this neighborhood, sporting.

Winters McNeil has returned from Alderson.

George Simmons is doing some sawing on his Beaver Dam farm.

Glendorious has bought himself a plug hat. He will go to drumming soon.

There was singing at the upper church Sunday evening by Professor McNeil.

A. C. Hartzell, of Addison, Pensylvania, was in town looking after seng, Friday.

W. M. Dean, of Lobelia, was in this neighborhood last week calling on the sick people.

Our Buckeye merchants have a fine line of goods. Come and get cheap goods of them.

J. C. Duncan is clerking for D. T. McNeil & Co. He looks well behind the counter.

Marcelous Dorman has finished harvesting and is ready to see his girl.

Mountaineer.

Roll of Honor.

The following persons in Green Bank district have paid taxes for the year 1897, after having been returned delinquen:

John W. Grogg, Jr.
C. H. Bush.

Cash is King!

With that potent force in hand we get Bargains that Credit never sees. We aim to handle the best class of goods. Good value with us means more than a mere

LOW PRICE

It goes on to embrace quality. We do not handle

AUCTION GOODS.

Come and see us and judge for yourself of the business we do. We are constantly receiving new goods, and we guarantee the smallest of our patrons the same courteous attention given the largest.

Yours for Low Prices and Good Goods,

L. D. Sharp,
LINWOOD, W. VA.

KNAPP'S CREEK.

Hay making in full blast.

Rev J. C. Givens is on the Creek again.

J. A. Moore was at Frost Sunday.

H. T. Gwin is working for M. F. Herald.

W. A. Bussard is building on D. W. Dever's house.

Miss Lucy Curry has been visiting on Brown's Creek.

Price Moore went to the Levels to see his betsy last week.

John A. Moore has lost some more cattle with the black leg.

Dr Charles Gwin is on the sick list. Samuel Harper is very ill.

Rev W. T. Price failed to meet his appointment at Frost Sunday night.

M. F. H says he don't have to carry his arm in a sling when he goes down the line.

Misses Birdie and Flora Notingham, of Glade Hill, was visiting at Mr Gibson's last week. Patsy.

high authority!

Dr. S. Weir Mitchell is authority for the statement that nervousness is the characteristic malady of the American nation, and statistics show that nerve deaths number one-fourth of all deaths recorded, the mortality being mainly among young people.

Johnston's Sarsaparilla
QUART BOTTLE.

is the grand specific for this great American disease, because it goes straight to the source of the weakness, building up health and strength by supplying rich, abundant food and pure blood to the worn-out tissues, rousing the liver to activity and regulating all the organs of the body.

Williams, Davis, Brooks & Co., Detroit.

Liverettes the famous little liver pills. 25c.

For sale by—Uriah Bird Marlinton; Amos Barlow, Huntersville.

W. H. Hartley,

Plasterer and Painter.

I wish to inform the citizens of the county that I am prepared at any time to do any work in my line.

One smooth coat plastering for papering or painting...... 7c yd
Two coats and a skim of lime 9c yd
Hard finish..... .... 10c yd

[Including boarding and tending and horse found.]

CALSOMINING A SPECIALTY.

Any letters addressed to me will be promptly answered. All work attended to in this and adjoining Counties.

W. H. HARTLEY,
Jacox, W. Va.

June 1 3m.

MARLINTON HOUSE
Located East End of Bridge.

Terms.
per day - $1 & $1.50
per meal - - 25

Good accommodations for horses at 25 cents per feed.
Special rates made by the week or month.

C.A.YEAGER, - - Proprietor.

The Levels News.

Edited by Payne Bros.

Vol. 1 Academy, W. Va., Aug. 5, 1898. No. 29

Market, Aug. 5, 1898.

—Eggs 9c per dozen.
—Butter 10 to12½ per pound.
—Lard 8c per lb.
—Corn 75c per bushel.
—Wheat 90 to $1 per bushel.
—Oats 40c per bushel.
—Tallow 6c pound.
—Ginseng $2.50 a pound, dry.
—At Payne Bros.

—Stoneware at Payne Bros.

—Jar tapes and rubbers at Payne Bros.

—Hay carriers and rope, Payne Bros.

Born—to M. A. Dunlap and wife July 22d—a boy.

—Buy Mason's Fruit Jars from Payne Bros.

—Miss Jane Bell is still visiting at P. S. Clark's.

—Linseed oil and paints very low at Payne Bros.

—High Arm Singer Sewing Machines at Payne Bros.

—S. J. Payne shipped a car-load of cattle, hogs, and sheep this week

—Mr Kerr and daughter have been visiting at R. W. Hill's, the past week.

—F W. Harper finished burning the brick kiln for S. J. Payne Saturday night.

—C. L. Stulting is in Staunton this week in the interest of the Alderson School.

—Suits of furniture at Payne's.

—Dressers with nice French plate mirrors at Payne Bros.

—Have a few very fine Pictures of Dewey and the Battleship Maine framed at very low prices at Payne Bros.

—Cradle and Fingers, Scythes, Snaths, Brush Hooks and Brush Scythes sold very cheap at Payne Bros.

Don't Tobacco Spit and Smoke Your Life Away.

To quit tobacco easily and forever, be magnetic, full of life, nerve and vigor, take No-To-Bac, the wonder-worker, that makes weak men strong. All druggists, 50c or $1. Cure guaranteed. Booklet and sample free. Address Sterling Remedy Co., Chicago or New York.

SALT: $2 A SACK.
AT PAYNE BROS.

Best grades of Roller Flour at
....
G. L. HANNAH'S,
Yelk, W. Va.
BARLOW & MOORE'S,
Edray, W. Va.
J. H. CURRY'S,
Green Bank, W. Va.
R. L. NOTTINGHAM'S,
Dunmore, W. Va.
J. H. DOYLE,
Huntersville, W. Va.

W. W. Tyree,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

LEADER IN LOW PRICES.

You may have seen better days; but you have never seen better bargains than we are now offering in General Merchandise.

Good Green COFFEE, 10c 12½ and 15c per pound.
SAGAR, ...7c
8lb keg good SODA, only 25c
PEACHES, 2 qt cans.....15c
Men's good Every Day Shirts, from 20 to 60 cents each.
Good SUSPENDERS.. 15c
COTTON CLOTH, 6c, 7c, 8c, and 9c per yard.

AND ALL OTHER GOODS AT ROCK BOTTOM PRICES.

Bring us your Spring Chickens. We want 25 dozen every week at 7 and 8 cents per lb. on foot. Bring us your bacon and eggs, and all the loose change you have; and we will give you bargains that cant be beat anywhere.

W. W. TYREE,

Sampson Heard From!

WAR WILL SOON BE OVER,

And You can Invest in Buggies Spring-Wagons, and Carriages.

We have just gotton in a car load of fine Buggies and Carriages which we are selling very low. Call and see us.
We can save you money and give you better work.

VEHICLES MADE TO ORDER.

We also make a specialty of repairing and painting vehicles of all kinds.
When in Town call and see our work.
Yours truly,

Hudgins & Shackelford.
Ronceverte, W. Va.

A STORY.

ABOUT THE NIMBLE SIX-PENCE.

It is Like a Ball of Snow, the Faster You Roll It the More Rapidly It Will Accumulate.

We recognize the fact that to succeed we must undersell.

We recognize that in order to keep our stock complete we must get the pay for our goods promptly.

We also recognize the fact that when we sell our goods on such close prices as to bring them below competition we must collect frequently in order to keep the ball rolling.

We appreciate highly the patronage and kind words of encouragement from our friends and patrons, and request you to encourage us further by coming in and paying up your accounts with cash, so we can replace the goods which you have bought without involving ourselves in dept these scary wartimes.

We hope to be of service to our patrons and can save you money, but do not overlook the main essential point: We need our money often. We are anxious to reduce stock in many lines as much as possible from now till September 1st and will sell at greatly reduced prices.

We have just received a new book of receipts which we would like to up inside of the next thirty days

Call and see us when in town.

Respectfully,
J. D. PULLIN & CO.

Plow Repairs

We have at last succeeded in making arrangements to supply points for the RONCEVERTE PLOW. Full stock now on hand. Send in our orders early. . . . .

We are Factory Agents for IMPERIAL and SILVERSTEEL Plows.

(The Best Hill-side Plow on the Market.)

Simms & Co.,
Opp. Passenger Depot, RONCEVERTE, W. Va.

The Pocahontas Times.

ANDREW PRICE, - - - EDITOR.

MARLINTON, FRIDAY, AUG 12, 1898

Entered at the post-office at Marlinton, W. Va., as second class matter.

DEMOCRATIC TICKET.

For Congress,
JUDGE DAVID E. JOHNSTONE,
of Mercer County.

For State Senator,
C. W. OSENTON,
of Fayette County.

For House of Delegates,
I. B. MOORE,
of Sunset.
For County Commissioner,
AMOS BARLOW,
of Huntersville.
For Superintendent Free Schools.
JAMES W. WARWICK,
of Mill Point.

THE ROUGH RIDERS.

The public has never known whether to be proud of the gay and gaudy Rough Riders, led by by that original genius, Theodore Roosevelt, or not. They were formed from a very boisterous class of individuals apt to be noted for hard drinking, hard swearing, hard riding, and maybe hard fighting qualities. They even exceeded Hobson in their eagerness to show they were game, and got into uncalled for danger and bore themselves very gallantly. It was like Hobson's feat,—very glorious but very poor war.

Now the Rough Riders have been rebuked for their self conceit. Roosevelt tried to pull a few strings in order to get his command ordered to Porto Rico. He writes his friend the Secretary of War, and declares that the Rough Riders are "as good as regulars and three times as good as any State troops."

Secretary Alger, the grim old American who sits in Washington at the head of war affairs, takes the opportunity for rebuking the dramatic Colonel who is fond of grand stand plays. He cables to Colonel Roosevelt:

> Your letter of 23d is received. The regular army and volunteer less you want to spoil the effects and glory of your victory, you make no invidious comparisons. The Rough Riders are no better than other volunteers. They had an advantage in their arms, for which they ought to be very grateful.
>
> R. A. ALGER,
> Secretary of War.

Every paper printed the correspondence, and now when the Colonel leads his regiment by other regiments the State volunteers will make remarks that the Rough Riders will find it hard to bear. Take away a soldier's honor and you strike him at the vital place. In the Civil War there were always some soldiers who in the heat of battle would spare a shot or two at an officer who like the Colonel had incurred their ill-will.

IN SOLOMON'S TIME.

Evidently in the days of King Soloman the pernicious habit of borrowing prevailed, without which the commercial world would be out of joint. In those days a man would find himself hard up and would go to a friend whom he had laid under obligation some time before and ask for a loan of a hundred shekels or so. And the friend would twist and squirm and complain of the debts which he himself would have to pay, and that he had been disappointed in collecting the money for that last bullock he sold, but if he would only wait a day or two he would see if he could not raise the money and lend it to him. But the borrower would see the white in his eye and know that he was just being let down easy and would know that the other man had refused him. This did'nt suit Solomon, who called for his pen and parchment and. wrote:

"Say not unto that neighbor, go and come again, and tomorrow I will give, when thou hast it by thee."

This state of things happens every day. The moneyied man pleads the poverty act, and is as much actuated by a desire to be courteous to the poor man in distress as he is to save the money. In the great account which is kept of of his doing he shall be charged with his lying, and credited with his politeness and consideration. And as the whole excuse was born in kindness he should not suffer so

THE TEACHER'S INSTITUTE.

The first thing to be noticed when the Marlinton lawyer approaches the court-house to attend to the usual details of his sinister business is the great outpouring of teachers this year who have taken possession of the court-house. They swarm on the steps and in the halls, offices, and vaults. In the windows of the offices you see the head gears of lady teachers, and our county clerk was being smothered by those anxious to see a deed admitted to record.

All the teachers were there on the first day. The number, ninety-five, is the high water mark of all the Institutes ever held in Pocahontas. Mr D. L. Barlow, the County Superintendent, has worked to bring this to pass in the six years he has served, and has used this paper to some purpose. Noticing this great concourse of teachers, and knowing that the institutes formerly were not more than half so large, we obtained the actual numbers which show that with the law remaining the same, the teachers attending have increased out of all proportion to the schools.

Year.	Teachers.	Attendance.
1893	67	46.
1894	80	76.
1895	75	61.
1896	74	85.
1897	80	78.
1898		96.

The Instructor, Major J. M. Lee has passed the critical approval of our teachers. He has held the attention of the teachers, is a fluent speaker and is chock full of ideas and information. Having taught for many years he is familiar with all the phases and conditions that confront the teacher, and he bears out his reputation of being one of the leading educators of the State.

The Roll.

Frank Houchin, Traveler's Repose.
Samuel Spencer, Top of Alleghany.
John Spencer, Top of Alleghany.
W. B. King, Marlinton.
M. G. Mathews, Marlinton.
Jasper Auldridge, Buckeye.
A. S. Moore, Mingo.
John S. Moore, Edray.
Amos Gillispie, Gillispie.
J. E. McMillion, Lobelia.
B. F. E. Wooddell, Green Bank.
D. A. Tharp, Lobelia.
J. E Peck, Lobelia.
T. A. Bruffey, Lobelia.
Ami Wilfong, Falling Spring.
T. M. McCarty, Lobelia.
E. B. Vaughn, Huntersville.
W. G. Curry, Edray.
J. H. McCarty. Lobelia.
J. H. Lantz, Frost
Auburn Pyles, Mill Point.
J. W. Warwick, Mill Point.
J. W. McCarty, Dilley's Mill.
E. S. Grimes, Dilley's Mill.
D. P. Barnes, Marlinton.
A. W. Hill, Lobelia.
M. C. Gatewood, Linwood.
A. D. Williams, Edray.
R. R. Vaughn, Lobelia.
Peryl L. Brown, Green Bank.
Forest H. Houchin, Gillispie.
J. M. Sutton, Green Bank.
W. H. Shafer, Mill Point.
C. B. Grimes, Mill Point.
J. W. Price, Marlinton.
J. B. Grimes, Lobelia.
E. B. Moore, Wanless.
C. M. Anderson, Lobelia.
William R. Sutton, Wanless.
J. H. Sydenstricker, Academy.
W. B. Sharp, Frost.
Aaron Sharp, Frost.
George E. Moore, Academy.
J. W. Renick (col) Academy.
O. C. Taylor (col) Academy.

J. Ann Smith, Edray.
Alice McLaughlin, Dunmore.
Mrs Lena A. Deputy, Dunmore.
Maggie Moore, Huntersville.
Bertie Beard, Green Bank.
Bess Patterson, Dunmore.
Lula Auldridge. Buckeye.
Sarah V. Morgan, Linwood.
Sailie McLaughlin, Driftwood.
Georgia M. Shearer, Marlinton.
Lillie M. Friel, Huntersville.
Virgie Gillispie, Gillispie.
Sula M. Burner, Trav Repose
Annie Sullivan, Jacox.
Lucy Anderson, Lobelia.
Georgia Baxter, Edray.
Woodsie Ratliff, Marlinton.
Riah P. Smith, Edray.
Allie Baxter, Edray.
Bertie Baxter, Edray.
Marguerite Campbell, Elkins.
Lena Caplinger, Mingo.
Rizpah Caplinger, Mingo.
Daisy Yeager, Marlinton.
Nora Bobbett, Mill Point.
Florence Hively, Dilley's Mill.
Lucy Sharp, Driscol.
Lillie Smith, Mill Point.
Lucy Smith, Mill Point.
Neva McNeil, Buckeye.
Grace McNeil, Buckeye.
Leanna Baxter, Edray.
Edith Hawpe, Staunton.
Virgie Sydenstricker, Academy.
Annette Logan, Clover Lick.
Mary Madge Brown, Green Bank
Susie McCarty, Lobelia.
Lucy E. Baxter, Edray.
Anna Wallace, Mill Point.
Lucy Kincaid, Huntersville.
Mrs Estella McKeever, "
Mrs Laura Herold, Driscol.
Myrtle Herold, Frost.
Emma Burner, Green Bank.
Carrie Thomas, Huntersville.
Daisie Eskridge, Academy.
Bella Clark, Academy.
Alice Clark, Academy.

"TO POINT A MORAL AND ADORN A TALE."

One of the oldest grave-yards in west Pocahontas is located in the midst of the primitive forest and shaded by oaks of grand and imposing proportions. Here rests a venerable man, whose last years were marked with much suffering, and his oft repeated prayer was, "Make me glad according to the days wherein Thou hast afflicted me, and the years wherein I have seen evil."—(Psalm 90.) His memory is revered by affectionate sons and daughters. All of them are persons held in high esteem by friends and acquaintances His daughters were the subjects of his special care and attention. Tho kind and indulgent almost to a fault, yet there was one respect he was scrupulously exacting and that was they must keep the best company available or none at all. It was his custom to go with his daughters and return with them while night services might be in progress in the vicinity. "Girls, you can talk all you please and have all the time you please with your boys in the day-time, but you must let them know there is to be no setting up at nights about this shebang, or they will hear from me pretty quick."

Not long since the writer's attention was drawn to a very attractive collection of rare and beautiful flowering plants. During his visit he learned the secret of their superior loveliness in the way of floral charms. They had the careful attention of one who had arranged to catch the summer showers, and while the rain was falling she would spray the plants until they were thoroughly refreshed by the bright pure waters fresh from the clouds. Her name was Flora. The scene was suggestive and pointed a very edifying moral, and and the impression was thus made upon his mind how fortunate it is for young, susceptible minds to have the careful attention of one who has a prayerful spirit, ever ready to receive heavenly influences from above and then carefully impart them to these young hearts as the opportunity presents itself. What a blessing it was for those flowers to have pearly rain drops that helped them to live and flourish in such charming beauty as to be the admiration of all beholders. In a higher sense what a heaven-sent blessing it is for a community to have those who are willing to desire and receive the influences of the Holy Spirit, and then by a pure example and spoken words nourish and refresh these young minds. Thus enable them to be pure and peaceable persons, full of the charming graces of a holy life, full of mercy and good fruits. No service could be more attractive and truly noble in every sense.

White Pine Lumber.

I have a sawmill set on Beaver Creek and I will sell white pine lumber in large and small bills. Those wishing to buy lumber will please send in their bills at an early date. LEVI GAY.
August 1, 1898.

S. J. Boggs

General

Merchandise.

Huntersville,

West Virginia.

LOBELIA.

Ben McMillion, of Nicholas, is here looking around.

John Eagle was a caller at father Dean's Sunday evening.

It raineth and the sun shineth, and haymaking progresseth slowly.

W. B. Hill & Co. are selling several goods. Mr Hill has the post office in possession now.

John Anderson killed a rattle snake, a few days since. This is the first one killed in this neighborhood for years.

Jacob Kellison's funeral was preached last Sunday, at Bruffey Creek school house, in the presence of a large crowd.

WHISKERS.

Mrs M. Hill has been on the sicklist for a few days.

J. H. Brown, of Frankford, is plastering W. B. Hill's house.

We have had higher water this summer than two year. It took the foot logs and tore up the roads very badly.

Most of the young men have gone to Marlinton to attend the Institute. This part of the county can beat the state for school teachers.

The mumps have broken out in this section again. OBSERVER.

We have used Chamberlain's Cough Remedy in our home for many years and bear cheerful testimony to its value as a medicine which should be in every family. In coughs and colds we have found it to be efficacious and in croup and and whooping cough in children we deem it indispensable.—H. P. RITTER, 41½ Fairfax ave., St Louis, Mo. For sale by Amos Barlow, Huntersville; Barlow & Moore, Edray.

Lee Military Academy.

FALL TESM OF 18 WEEKS OPENS SEPT. 6.

Full preparation for college. Excellent Business Course. Well-equipped Military Department. Full corps of good teachers. Nothing advertised that is not done, and done well.

Send for catalogue.

JAS. M. LEE, Principal
Llwisburg, W. Va.

ALLEGANY COLLEGIATE INSTITUTE.

Alderson, W. Va.

SIXTH SESSION OPENS SEPT 15TH.

Full Academic and Collegiate Course. Thorough instructions in Mathematics, English, Latin, and Greek, French, German, Sciences, Etc. Special advantages in Music,—Vocal, Piano, and Guitar,—and in Art. Also Commercial and Stenography.

For Catalogue and full information address

W. S. ANDERSON,
8w Principal.

NOTICE.

SILLING & SLAVEN,

TIN, SHEET-IRON
ROOFING,
GUTTER SPOUTING,
ROOF PAINTING,
FLUES, STOVE PIPE.
GALVANIZED FLUES,
SMOKE STACKS.
FRUIT DRYERS,
GALVANIZED TANKS,
AND CISTERNS.

Shop - Made Tin Ware Always on Hand.

LIGHTNING RODS.

Work Done on Short Notice.

Call or write to

SILLING & SLAVEN,
ACADEMY, W. VA.

Administrator's Sale.

As administrator of the estate of the late J. J. Beard, of Huntersville, I will proceed to sell on the 16th day of August, 1898, on the premises of the late J. J. Beard, at Huntersville, W. Va., the following personal property, to-wit:

Two Mules, both three years old,
Two Cows,
Two Calves,
Two Horses,
One buggy,
One 2-horse Wagon,
1 Mowing Machine,
1 Buggy Rake.
1 double set of Lumber Harness,
1 set of single Buggy Harness,
1 Plow,
1 double Shovel Plow,
8 head of Hogs,
9000 feet of Pine Fencing Plank,
1 Haystack.

Also other little articles around the place too numerous to mention, including all household and kitchen furniture

TERMS: Amounts under five dollars, cash; over five dollars, six months time bond with approved security, with interest from date.

T. S. McNEEL,
Administrator of J. J. Beard

Administrators Notice.

All persons holding claims against the estate of Andrew Dilley deceased, will please present the same to me or to my attorney, H. M. Lockridge, at his office in the town of Huntersville, West Va., on or before the 5th day of September, 1898. MARTHA DILLEY,
4w Administratrix.

No-To-Bac for Fifty Cents.
Guaranteed tobacco habit cure, makes weak men strong, blood pure. 50c, $1. All druggists.

FARMERS!

YOUR WHEAT WILL BE EQUIVALENT TO CASH FOR FERTILIZERS AT THE LEWISBURG ROLLER MILLS.

We handle a number of the best grades of FERTILIZERS on the market, put up in 100 and 200 lb. bags, which we can furnish at the above mills or at Caldwell or Ronceverte.

Our Fertilizers have been used by the best farmers in Greenbrier and adjoining counties, and we will be very glad to furnish you reference if you desire. Hold your orders until you call and examine our grades and get our prices. We are also prepared to furnish you GRASS SEED, SALT, and HARD and SOFT COAL at the lowest possible prices.

Very truly yours,

LEWISBURG ROLLER MILLS CO.

Winchester MEANS PERFECTION WHEN APPLIED TO
REPEATING RIFLES SHOT-GUNS SINGLE-SHOT RIFLES AND ALL KINDS OF AMMUNITION

Pronounced by Experts the Standard of the World.
Ask your dealer for WINCHESTER make of Gun or Ammunition and take no other.
FREE:—Our new Illustrated Catalogue.
WINCHESTER REPEATING ARMS CO., New Haven, Ct.

PREPARE FOR RAIN Why not provide the cheapest, most perfect, and durable protection from storms for all kinds of Hay and Grain Stacks. The most effective stack cover ever produced.

THREE LINKS OF CHAIN.

ACME STACK COVER CHAINS.

Our invention consists of an ingenious system of steel chain, with hooks constructed so as to bind each board to its place without nailing or other mode of fastening. Will last a life time. Have sold thousands of these chains. Send for circular and price list. Agents wanted.

MANUFACTURED BY
ACME HARVESTER CO., - Pekin, Ill.

They banish pain and prolong life.

ONE GIVES RELIEF.

R·I·P·A·N·S

No matter what the matter is, one will do you good, and you can get ten for five cents.

A new style packet containing TEN RIPANS TABULES in a paper carton (without glass) is now for sale at some drug stores—FOR FIVE CENTS. This low-priced sort is intended for the poor and the economical. One dozen of the five-cent cartons (120 tabules) can be had by mail by sending forty-eight cents to the RIPANS CHEMICAL COMPANY, No. 10 Spruce Street, New York—or a single carton (TEN TABULES) will be sent for five cents. Best medicine ever made since the world was created.

REMEMBER THE MAINE!

AMERICAN MADE

But do n't forget that the Golden Store has reduced the prices on CALICO from 6cts to 3 1-2c. This seasons purchase, Standard make, and handsome patterns.

......

Do n't overlook the fact that the Golden Store can do more for you than other stores in giving good quality for the least money

THE GOLDEN STORE.

LEWISBURG FEMALE INSTITUTE.

THE LEADING FEMALE SEMINARY IN WEST VIRGINIA.

Collegiate, Academic, and Preparatory Departments. Classical, Scientific, Music, and Art. Best of Fare. Hot and Cold Baths. Rooms Carpeted. Gives a Thorough Christian Education.

TESTIMONY.

REV E. O. GUERRANT, D. D., of Kentucky:
"A good Female School is a public blessing, and among many noble institutions I do not know a better one than the one presided over by Rev R. L. Telford, at Lewisburg, W. Va. It is Christian, Biblical, thorough, and attractive, making not only finished scholars but lovely Christian characters. It is good enough to educate my own daughter, and I take pleasure in commending it to my friends."

REV M. L. LACY, D. D., of West Virginia:
"I honestly believe it is the very best school of which I have any knowledge."

HON JOHN W. McCREERY, of the State Senate, W. Va.:
"Having had two daughters at the Lewisburg Female Institute, under the management of Rev R. L. Telford, it affords me pleasure to say that I regard the school as one of the best in the country."

DR J. M. POYNTZ, of Richmond, Ky.:
"Rarely indeed does one have the opportunity of placing their daughters in so good an institution of learning as the one presided over by Rev R. L. Telford, at Lewisburg. Anyway, it has been good enough for me. My daughter has been cared for as if she had been a member of the family."

REV D. S. SYDENSTRICKER, D. D., Hillsboro, W. Va.:
"Having been a patron of the Lewisburg Female Institute for two years, I can sincerely commend it to the attention and patronage of all who desire to have their daughters thoroughly trained in mind and heart. The course of instruction is thorough and honest. No half-way work is done. The refining and elevating Christian influences thrown around the pupils are most excellent."

IMPROVEMENTS.

Seventeen Thousand Dollars expended during the last five years in additions and improvements. Send for illustrated catalogue to

Rev R. L. TELFORD, Lewisburg, W. Va.

The Pocahontas Times.

Andrew & Norman Price, Owners. "Montani Semper Liberi!" Andrew Price, Editor.

VOL. 16, NO. 4 MARLINTON, WEST VIRGINIA, AUGUST 19, 1898. $1.00 PER YEAR

From FACTORY to CONSUMER.

$1.39 buys this (exact) Rattan Rocker, the largest size ever made; per dozen, $14.50. Our new 112-page catalogue containing Furniture, Draperies, Crockery, Baby Carriages, Refrigerators, Stoves, Lamps, Pictures, Mirrors, Bedding, etc., is yours for the asking. Special supplements just issued are also free. Write to-day. CARPET CATALOGUE in lithographed colors is also mailed free. Write for it. If you wish samples, send 8c. stamp. Matting samples also mailed for 8c. All Carpets sewed free this month and freight paid on $5 purchases and over.

$7.45 buys a made-to-your-measure All-Wool Cheviot Suit, expressage prepaid to your station. Write for free catalogue and samples. Address (exactly as below),

JULIUS HINES & SON,
Dept. 909. BALTIMORE, MD.

LAW CARDS.

N. C. McNEIL,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

Will practice in the Courts of Pocahontas and adjoining counties and in the Court of Appeals of the State of West Virginia.

L. M. McCLINTIC,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

Will practice in the Courts of Pocahontas and adjoining counties and in the Supreme Court of Appeals.

H. S. RUCKER,
ATT'Y. AT LAW & NOTARY PUBLIC
HUNTERSVILLE, W. VA.

Will practice in the courts of Pocahontas county and in the Supreme Court of Appeals.

J. W. ARBUCKLE,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
LEWISBURG, W. VA.

Will practice in the courts of Greenbrier and Pocahontas counties. Prompt attention given to claims for collection in Pocahontas county.

W. A. BRATTON,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

Prompt and careful attention given to all legal business.

ANDREW PRICE,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

Will be found at Times Office.

SAM. B. SCOTT, JR.
LAWYER,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

All legal business will receive prompt attention.

H. M. LOCKRIDGE,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
HUNTERSVILLE, W. VA.

Prompt and careful attention given all legal work.

JOHN A. PRESTON FRED. WALLACE
PRESTON & WALLACE,
Attorneys at Law,
LEWISBURG, W. VA.

Will practice in the Courts of Greenbrier and adjoining counties, and in the Court of Appeals of the State of West Virginia.

J. W. YEAGER,
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

Prompt attention given to collections

PHYSICIANS' CARDS.

DR. O. J. CAMPBELL,
DENTIST,
MONTEREY, VA.

Will visit Pocahontas County at least twice a year. The exact date of his visit will appear in this paper.

DR. J. H. WEYMOUTH.
RESIDENT DENTIST,
ELKINS, W. VA.

Will visit Pocahontas County every spring and fall. The exact date of each visit will appear in The Times.

J. M. CUNNINGHAM, M. D.,
PHYSICIAN & SURGEON,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

Office next door to C. A. Yeager's Hotel. Residence opposite Hotel. All calls promptly answered.

To Cure a Cold in One Day.

Take Laxative Bromo Quinine Tablets. All Druggists refund the money if it fails to Cure. 25c.

LETTERS FROM Lieut. ROBERT D. KERR, U. S. A.

On Board S. S. Indiana. Four Days from San Francisco, July 1, 1898.

MY DEAR SISTER:

I received your letter after we were out to sea about two days, and I realize fully that it must be pretty hard for you all to have me go away and I hated to go for that reason. But as for myself there is nothing hardly that could please me better. And what young man of my age could look at the situation otherwise? I am getting a voyage around the world free, and paid besides. We are not going to fight over there. There is not half as much danger there as in Cuba.

The first day or two I was a little sea-sick, but since then I am having a capital time. There is a member of my class on board the same ship. Mr Kerth of the 23d Infantry. I am the only one of the Engineers of my class sent out here; one, Mr Brown, was sent to Cuba. The others were still at Willets Point the last I heard of them. You wanted to know why I was selected to go and not the others. The Captain of the company knew me at West Point and had General Merritt apply for me by name. If I had been a little more disagreeable to that Captain he would most likely have not bothered me.

I will tell you just how I have looked at this matter. I was very anxious to get something to do but knew it would worry you all at home, so I just resolved to keep quiet and let things work out their own way. It ought to be some consolation to you to know that I am well satisfied and enjoying myself well every where. I know the happiest moment of my life will be when I get back to my dear old home, and the greatest pleasure I can have is to sit alone in the moonlight and dream of Pocahontas. Still I am just as well satisfied now as I ever was. There is always something to wish for, and it has been truly said that the pleasure of anticipation is greater than that of reality.

We had a rough sea at first for a day or two, but now every thing is smooth. We will arrive at Honolulu in about four days more and stay there a day or two. Then I shall send this letter back. From Honolulu we shall have a long voyage of about 20 days on to Manila. There are about 60 officers and about 960 men on this boat. A Brigadier General is in command, General McArthur. I want you all to go right ahead and write as usual, and then when I get mail I will make up for lost time. I shall write just as often as I can after we land. There is so much sameness about the days on board that it would be useless to write often as I can not send them back till we reach our destination any how. I shall write more and send with this from Honolulu.

We were furnished with a camera and all material for taking pictures, so I expect to get quite a collection by my trip and get them free too. I sent my commission back from Frisco, and would like to have it taken care of as I prize it very much, as well as my diploma from West Point.

Now you must all take special care of yourselves and we shall have a grand old jubilee when I get back from "my tour around the world."

The people of San Francisco were very kind to us all. One girl who lives there used to be at West Point and she did a great many things for me, brought me fruit out to camp and made me a comcom to keep my toilet articles in, and all around she was just like a sister to me—almost. I shall write more before I get to Honolulu. We may meet a ship to-day and send this back by it.

Affectionately your brother,
ROBERT D. KERR.

July 3.—Well, we did n't meet any vessel and I will scribble a little more. Every thing is working fine and we don't have a thing to do but eat and sleep. We are going to have a little celebration tomorrow, reading of the Declaration of Independence, etc. I have looked out at the ocean so long that it is becoming a little monotonous. We will arrive at Honolulu Wednesday morning some time.

July 5.—Well we shall get to Honolulu tomorrow about 8 a. m. That will be about 2 p. m. in West Virginia. As I shall be be Officer of the Day tomorrow and probably wont have much time then, so I shall finish my letter to-day.

For nine days I have n't seen an appearance of land. Water in all directions as far as the eye can reach. No living thing off the vessel except some sea-gulls and flying fish. I have seen whole schools of them. They are usually very small, but some are a foot or more long and fly two hundred yards, sail you know.

I bet we had the most unique celebration of the 4th. We had some rockets last night that were quite pretty. I shall send you the programme just for a novelty.

The sea is smooth now and the weather is getting pretty warm. At San Francisco it was so cold we almost froze, and on the sea there is always a good breeze. I never was so healthy in my life, feel like a fighting cock all the time.

After this letter, which you ought to receive about 15th or 20th of this month, you will probably not hear from me till September. Then probably once a month, but then you will get more than one letter a month. Do n't forget to write often and I shall write very often.

Take the very best care of yourselves and I shall do the same, and I know I can get back before long and such a grand time as we shall have then.

Give my love to all and please remember me to Aunt Polly and every body else whom you see. Take good care of the children and tell Neill and Nell to write to me.

Your sincere brother,
ROBERT D. KERR.

Honolulu, Hawaii,
July 6, 1898.

DEAR FATHER, MOTHER, AND ALL:

We arrived here this morning at daylight and I marched out as officer of the day at 9. Have not seen much yet, but from what I see I like the place very much. There was a vessel touched here on her way from Australia, and I sent a letter by her (to Vesta.) This letter will go day after tomorrow. Probably by this time the Islands form part of the United States. We are anxious for the Newport to come into port, as she will probably bring news of importance. General Merritt will come on board her.

The natives are a pretty ugly set but look like they are capable of vast improvements under the influence of civilization, and no doubt they are. It is funny to throw nickles over in the muddy water and see the kids dive after after them. They always get the nickel and slap it into their mouth

Most of the people of the city are Americans and all give us a most hearty welcome. They give all of the men a fine dinner, and that is no small matter to feed four or five thousand men and repeat it every week or two.

We shall probobly stay here a day or two yet. I send some little souvenirs,—some Hawaian stamps and a badge.

July 7.—We leave this evening at 5, I believe, so I shall have to finish. Take best care of yourselves and write often. Love to all.

Your devoted son.
ROBERT D. KERR.

Freedom from a Terrible Slavery.

At last, I am thankful to say, the opera is dead. No longer shall my soul be corroded by the thought that I ought to be in my stall and am not; no longer when I am in my stall shall I writhe in anger to think of the stupidity of wasting my time so.—Saturday Review.

Vain Trust in a Name.

"How did the horse Indiarubber come out?"

"Distanced."

"Blame it! I thought he would win on the home stretch.—Chicago Tribune.

FLOOD DAY IN MARLINTON

Ever since the town of Marlinton was begun in the year 1892 we have been threatened with a flood that would make driftwood of the whole town, and people down the river have been putting off buying furniture thinking they would find plenty in the rack heaps almost any morning. To show that people verily believed what they said, affidavits were made to a bill of injunction that the spot where the temporary court-house stands had been thirteen feet under water. This spot was not covered this flood, which proves conclusively that the covered bridge across the river must have been submerged in the flood of '77, and to the best of their recollection the semi-aquatic residents say that haystacks passed under the bridge that day with a little squeezing. We have passed through a big flood caused by 4.2 inches of rainfall, and we have talked with people all over the county and each one agrees that had the rain been as heavy generally as it was in his own particular section there would have been nothing left of Marlinton but the town site. Our friends watched the river with compassion for us poor people, but still wanting something to float by like a house. It was human nature.

* *

People who lived upon hills they had not built and which only come in useful occasionally, came down to see us in our trouble and they were very sympathetic and nice, but that they were glad they did not live on the river was sticking out all over them, and we railed at them and called them "dry land terrapins." "Where the carcass is there will the eagles be gathered together."

A man who has lived on the river for years and who has made it the subject of much study ventured the opinion that the river would rise until dark. A man who lives on the mountain looked at him pityingly and said, "No, sir; it 'll rise till plum daylight ter-morrow!" The river had commenced to fall by dark.

* *

There was a festival set for Wednesday evening in the school-house, and the school-house was surrounded by water and there was no disposition to hold a festival that evening. A party of men from the town had arranged to go up the river about ten miles to camp and fish for bass. The ladies who were trying to raise some money for the church objected to their absenting themselves on this occasion, and were inclined to accuse them of running away. It was talked of so much that when the rain began to fall Tuesday, a citizen who was doing all he could to make the festival a success, to-wit, J. H. Patterson, remarked that the rain was a direct dispensation of Providence to raise the water too high for fishing and keep the recreant members at home. The river got too high for fishing and festivals, and the man who made that unfeeling remark moved out of his house.

INTERESTING BIBLE HISTORY.

In Madrid there is an old prison at the locality named the Place of Skulls. It was here that an heir to the Spanish throne was imprisoned for thirty-three years by order of the crown for fear he would cause trouble by his aspirations for the throne. Death finally came and released him, and it was found that he had spent much of the time in searching the Scriptures. He had recorded what he had found out on the rough walls of his cell, using a an old nail for a pencil. By these scribblings on the walls we learn how the learned Prince of Granada was employed much of his time through the sad and weary years of his imprisonment.

In the Bible he found the word "Lord" 1,853 times, and "Jehovah" 6,855 times. The middle verse is Psalm 97, 8th verse; the longest is Esther 8, 9th verse, and the shortest is John 11, 35th

In the whole Bible the word "girl" occurs but once, Joel 3: 3. There are 3,538483 letters; 773,693 words; 31,373 verses; 1,189 chapters and 66 books.

After his 33 years study of the Bible he esteemed the 26th chapter of The Acts as the finest chapter to read, and the most beautiful portion is Psalm twenty-third. He regarded the following as the four most inspiring promises:

In my Fathers house are many mansions; if it were not so I would have told you. I go to prepare a place for you.—John 14: 2.

In the last day, that great day of the feast, Jesus stood and cried, saying, If any man thirst let him [illegible] drink.—John 7: 37.

And when he was come into the house the blind men came unto him; and Jesus saith unto them, Believe ye that I am able to do this? They said unto him, Yea Lord. Then touched he their eyes, saying, According to your faith be it unto you.—Matthew 9:28.

Delight thyself also in the Lord: and he shall give thee the desire of thine heart.—Psalms 37: 4.

It seems that he regarded this as one of the best for the new convert to read: "Who is among you that feareth the Lord, that obeyeth the voice of his servant, that walketh in darkness and hath no light? Let him trust in the name of the Lord and stay upon his God."—Isaiah 50: 10.

The Prince of Granada advised all disposed to flatter themselves with vain boasting to read the sixth chapter of Matthew, and he thought all humanity should learn by heart the sixth chapter of Luke, from the twentieth verse to the last.

What a great thing it would have been for Spain had that hand writing on the wall been duly heeded, and how it will be for us to give due heed to the same in our lives as individuals and as a people.

S. C. R.

THE LIBERTY THAT FREES.

The happiest attainment an individual or a nation is achieved when a true ideal of liberty is clear-apprehended and aimed at. Among ideals national and personal none is more inspiring and worthy of earnest endeavors than that of TRUE FREEDOM. The freedom that is the counterpart of order, a place for everything and everything in its place, and the faithful promoter of every thing that is right. Such freedom is self-reverence, self-knowedge and self control.

> "August obedience by the world denied
> Is God's economy to make us free."

Liberty in its best sense is not the liberty to do wrong unrestrained, nor is it to do as we wish, but as we ought, not to follow the impulses of appetite, but to listen to the dictates of reason. The demoniac was not a free man when he was rending among the tombs of Gadara, the beneficent fetteres of proper restraint, but it was while he was sitting at the feet of our Lord, clothed in his right mind. To be free in the right sense is not to have unhindered facilities for dissipation or cheatery or treacherous diplomacy, but to be free as Milton teaches is the same thing as to be pious, temperate and magnanimous in word thought and deed.

The Biblical description of the state of things when every body was doing that which was right in his own eyes is a description of modern anarchy, not of heroic freedom, and no wonder thoughtful people are so sorry at seeing that just such a description is rapidly becoming our national ideal as Americans.

Man's liberty ends, and it ought to end when that liberty becomes the curse of his fellow citizens. To reflecting people nothing is more truly alarming and more ominously threatening to the future peace and prosperity of our citizenship than what is apparent among all classes, the base, ignorant, devilish notion that a citizen ought to be free to do what he likes. When this rapidly growing idea comes to pervade our politics, our barracks, our schools and universities, then the very spring of all personal or national nobleness must soon be exhausted, and a ruined, sorrowing people may learn too late:

> "He is a freeman whom truth makes free,
> And all are slaves besides."

S. C. R.

JAMES TALLMAN, A PIONEER OF GREEN BANK.

W. T. P.

Among the names identified with our county's history that of Tallman has figured prominently for more than a hundred years, and while there are scores of our citizens with Tallman blood in their veins, yet the name is not borne by but few anymore, as so many have moved away to other counties and western States. The Tallman relationship trace their ancestry to James Tallman, who was a native [illegible] was [illegible] Nancy Crawford of Augusta County, and soon afterwards settled on property west of Green Bank, now held by Joseph Beard, the heirs of the late Adam Arbogast, and Dr Moomau. This must have been before the Revolution, as all the probabilities point to that conclusion. There were in the first family three sons and two daughters. Rachel, Rebecca, Benjamin, William, Boone.

Rachel was married to Peter Hull, of what is Highland County, Virginia, who was a son of Adam Hull.

Rebecca Tallman was married to the late Reuben Slaven, Meadow Dale, Highland County. Special mention of her family appears in the Slaven sketches.

Benjamin Tallman married Elizabeth Warwick, and settled on property now owned by Captain Siple. The names of his family William, James, Robert, John, Cyrus, and Nancy Craig who became Mrs Benjamin Tallman (of Boone) and lives in Illinois.

Benjamin Tallman was a colonel of the 127th Regiment, Virginia Militia, a member of the court, represented the county in the Virginia House of Delegates, and was for many years a ruling elder in the Liberty Presbyterian church. As justice he frequently performed the mariage ceremony.

William Tallman married Jane Bradshaw, daughter of John Bradshaw, the founder of Huntersville, and settled on a section of the Tallman homestead. It was their son James Tallman, who was the successor of Henry Moffett in the clerkship of Pocahontas courts.

Boone Tallman, the third son of the early settler, went to the Levels often enough to win the affections of Mary Poage, daughter of George W. Poage. Their children were George, James Crawford, Benjamin, who met his death by drowning; and Rachel Ann, who became Mrs Enoch Burner.

In reference to the second marriage of James Tallman, Senior, we learn that his second wife was Jemima Gillespie, daughter of Jacob Gillespie, the Green Bank pioneer. The maiden name of Mrs Jacob Gillispie was Rebecca Berry. Rebecca Berry was reared near Winchester, and her first marriage was with Samuel Vance. It was her daughter, Mary Vance, who married Major Jacob Warwick of Clover Lick, and is the ancestor of the Jacob Warwick relationship in Bath and Pocahontas counties. Upon her marriage with Jacob Gillespie, her second husband, her daughter Jemima Gillespie became James Tallman's second wife. Jemima Tallman being the half sister on the mother's side of Mrs Mary Vance Warwick, explains the connexion existing between James Tallman's second family and the Bath branch of the Warwick relationship.

The Vances and the Berrys were well-known settlers of Winchester and the country adjacent, and in the Opequon grave-yard their names are found inscribed among the first to be buried in that historic region. The name Berry is perpetuated in the name Berryville, the county seat of Clarke. The Berrys and the Vances were a part of that living wall the eastern Virginians were so anxious to see stand between them and the Indian marauders from the gloomy wilds of the west.

James and Jemima Tallman's children were Jane, Nancy, Margaret, Sally, Samuel and James.

Jane Tallman became Mrs William Arbogast and settled at Green Bank, on the estate now owned by Dr Moomau. Their children were William Franklin, James Crawford, George Washington, Alcinda Harriet, now Mrs Isaac Moore, of near Dunmore; Margaret Caroline became Mrs David Meekins Maupin, first marriage, and Mrs Thomas Randolph Maupin, second marriage; a much esteemed lady, lately deceased. It was her son Harvey Maupin whose tragic death occurred near Marlinton a few months since.

Nannie J. Arbogast, the youngest, became Mrs Dr J. P. Moomau, [illegible] Green Bank on the [illegible]

Hon William Arbogast was one of the prominent and successful citizens of his time. Farmer, merchant, member of the legislature, and all round business character. He was the son of Adam Arbogast Sr., and his wife Margaret Hull, daughter of Peter Hull, Senior, of Crabbottom.

Nancy Tallman became Mrs Brannon and lived in Lewis county.

Margaret became Mrs Goff and also lived in Lewis county. The writer has nothing in hand to illustrate their home history as to particulars.

Sally Tallman was married to William Gumm and settled on Deer Creek, on the place now in the hands of E. O. Moore. Her children were George, Franklin, Samuel, Milton, Lee, Martha Jane third wife of Hon. William J. Wooddell; Caroline, second wife of Lafayette Burner; Rebecca became Mrs Lee Burner; Ella became Mrs Brown Trainer, near Green Bank; Marietta became Mrs Enos Tallman, Back Alleghany; Nancy died at the age of four years.

Thus from the assistance of such friends as Mrs Major Bird and Mrs Dr Moomau the compiler is able to furnish the foregoing particulars, illustrating but in part the history of the Tallman relationship in our county. A relationship long and conspicuously identified with the development and progress of important communities. The Tallmans were a people who aspired to be among the foremost in every thing that promoted the improvement and elevation of their neighbors and themselves, and their influence has been deeply impressed upon many characters.

With all his hinderances and lack of favorable opportunities, James Tallman, the clerk, developed a character that commanded respect in the parlors of the White Sulphur, and elicted a complimentary remark from Lord Morpeth, a distinguished English nobleman, who was spending the summer of 1838 at that resort.

The late Peter H. Slaven was a Tallman by nature, if not in name, and people will tell you that for all that makes up an elevated character, Peter Slaven aimed to have it. Though the name has well nigh ceased to be heard among us, yet the writer is more than gratified to believe that the spirit of James Tallman, the early settler, is yet moving about among scores of our families.

One Score Weds Five Score.

Barlow Terry, one of the oldest citizens of Hopkinsville, Kentucky being near 100 years old, and Miss Melissa U. Trotter, aged 20 years, were united in marriage at the home of the bride, in Lantrip's Precinct, recently. The groom is a wealthy planter of North Christian, and, notwithstanding his age, he rode a distance of twenty-three miles to obtain his license, and returned home, making forty-six miles in a day and feeling as well as usual. Cincinnati Enquirer.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O.

Sold by druggists, 75c.

Hall's Family Pills are the best.

The Pocahontas Times,

Hear, Land o' Cakes and brither Scots,
Frae Maidenkirk to Johnny Groats,
If there's a hole in a' your coats,
I rede ye tent it;
A chiel's amang you takin' notes,
An' faith he'll prent it —Burns

Local Events.

B. M. Yeager has gone to Grafton.

Miss Otey Snyder, of Lewisburg, is visiting in Marlinton.

Thirty-six prospective teachers are standing the examination this week.

Hon Sam'l B. Woods and James Morgan, of Charlottsville, were in town last Saturday.

J. C. Arbogast and family, of Orange, Texas, and C. O. Arbogast and family, of Green Bank, are visiting Mrs C. A. Yeager.

Services will be held by Rev M. T. Turner as follows: Hillsboro Friday, August 19, 8 P. M.; Clover Lick Sunday, August 21, at 11 A. M.; Huntersville, Sunday, at 4 P. M.

A drove of throro'bred Polled Angus cattle passed through this place Monday. They were driven by John Mann, of Barbour, who had sold them to Kirby McVeigh, of Ronceverte.

There will be singing at Mary's Chapel on Elk, the fourth Sunday of August by Prof Rorke and others, beginning at ten, promptly. All are invited to come out and bring their books with them.

One of the important questions to be answered in the teacher's examination this week was, "Between whom were the Punic wars waged; how many were there; what generals were prominent in them?" Any unfortunate school teacher who cannot answer this question is expected to get off the face of the earth.

It is reported that two U. S. Army volunteers passed thromgh Crabbottom Sunday. They stated that they had deserted, and gave as their reason for doing so the hard work connected with camp life and drill duty. We did not learn their names, their homes nor the camp they had been connected with.—Highland Recorder.

When two men meet, they stop, shake hands and ask each other how they feel. Then the one with an old suit on says to the other who is just from the Golden Store, "Great 'grass hoppers', but that is nice suit. I guess you paid $12.50 for it." "Wrong. Here, let me whisper to you the price—5.75!" By the way, if you need jar rubbers, you can get 6 dozen for 25cts at the Golden Store.

A government engineer named Payson has been in Marlinton for a week or more engaged in setting to stones on the meridian for the benefit of surveyors who can adjust their compasses. One stone was set at the front steps of the Court House, and the other on the mountain behind Bird's hotel. An effort was made to set both stones in the court-house square, but the iron fence so discomposed the compass that it was impossible to do so. Mr Payson was accompanied by his wife.

The all day meeting on Elk last Sunday was a great success in every respect and the crowd of people that assembled was very great. Rev W. A. Sharp preached in the morning and Rev G. P. Moore in the afternoon. The program was varied by the people going out to dinner to the neighboring houses. James Gibson entertained 55 and their horses; William Gibson 40; Bob Gibson 20, and John Gibson 20. The people of that community are gratified that no one made the day an occasion for getting drunk and marring the enjoyment of the day.

The mail contractor who bid on the daily mail route from Lewisburg to Traveler's Repose, a distance of 78 miles, for a daily mail both ways, for $1869.64 was in the county the other day mesmerizing people to take it off his hands as subcontractors. We have not heard whether he sub-let it or not. The strangest thing about his conversation is that now we have changed the schedule to a longer drive we will not have as good a service as we had before. He must take us for what we are not, if he thinks we will permit the carriers to leave mail behind, or come in late or not at all.

There is in the National Museum at Washington a large piece of the sacred red pipe-stone from Pipestone, Minn. The outcropping is one-half mile long, two feet thick, and the best parts about two inches thick. The Sioux go 200 miles to get it, and it has been worked from unknown antiquity. It is the only known quarry of this stone. Implements made of it have been found as far east as New York. It varies in color from deep red to mottled and gray, and takes a high polish. Senator N. C. McNeil when in Washington lately got a piece from the fragment there. Mr Will Young, of Tipton, Iowa, presented us with a fine specimen of this stone several years ago. In former times the Sioux jealously guarded this quarry against other tribes, and as late as 1880 it was extremely hazardous for a white man to be found in the vicinity.

The Telephone.

Marlinton has taken a day or two off to do justice to the phones which have been put in at this place. As is well known Marlinton had given a donaton of $50 to the Beverly and Marlinton Telephone Company if they would stretch a wire to this place by the 13th of August. The company was delayed in its work by the wire being shipped to Beverly, Va., instead of Beverly, West Va., and the morning of the 13th saw them at Edray ray with five miles to complete on a very bushy road. They commenced to drive to get through on time, and about dark they had their wire at the west end of the bridge with a mile yet to go. The wire was stretched over the river by a man walking the bridge, and they arrived at Bird's store, the main office, about ten o'clock at night.

The three owners of the lines of this company are three doctors at Crickard and Huttonsville, Dr C. A. Barlow and Drs John and Perry Bosworth. When they take a vacation they go on a wire stretching expedition, living in tents and enjoying their out of doors jaunt. Their camp out fit consisted of two lafge A tents, one for cooking and eating and one for sleeping. The big affable John Crouch was along managing to have a good time as he always does. Harmon Currence did the wire work and seems to be a natural telephone man. He touched the wire when it was alive and had a burn the size of a dollar made on his shoulder.

The company had the wires open for several days and the public exhausted all its originality in thinking of things to be talked about.

Among the things that the people could not understand is that the sound travels instantaneously. One old man was offended when they told him that they could talk to Huttonsville and back as quickly as though in the same room. He was utterly incredulous. The wire is charged with electricity which annilhates the distance.

Those who had never seen a telephone had no conception of what it was like. One thought that there would be a frame work between the poles, and was surprised to find that a single strand of wire was all there was of it.

"Hello—that Mingo?—well—in bed?—this is MARLINTON.—Would you please step down to the store and give us Crickard—Hello Crickard—That Hardwick—This is Barlow at MARLINTON—juat finished the line—thought we were drunk?—All right—Sulivan's going to be married tomorrow—don't know her name—two days—how do you hear me—I want to talk to Dr John—Good bye!"

This is the substance of the first talk from Marlinton; after that we took up the strain and talked every body to bed between here and Crickard, 48 miles away.

The line will be extended to Huntersville by the 15th of September. Uriah Bird will let the contract for seting the poles next Saturday. Specifications can be obtained from him.

No Stamp Required.

In answer to a number of inquiries whether under the Revenue Act of June 13, 1898, a teacher's contract should have an internal revenue stamp affixed, I will say that inasmuch teachers' contracts are "a part of the regulations adopted by the State in connection with its public schools," they (the contracts) are held to be for public purposes, and therefore it is evident that they are not subject to a stamp tax. D. L. BARLOW,
Superintendent of Schools.

Monument to Lieut. R. D. Kerr.

Editor Times: Dear Sir,—would it not be a fitting tribute for the people of Pocahontas county to pay to the memory of Lieut R. D. Kerr to erect some kind of a statue or monument? As Lieut Kerr is the only one from this county who has given his life for his country in the present war it seems that some action should be taken to perpetuate his memory.

Very respectfully,
J. M. CUNNINGHAM.

A Slip of the Lip.

A good old Baptist brother in Upshur county rose to a great flight of eloquence in contemplating the end of the just and exclaimed: "And when we die we shall mount up as on the wings of a wiggle!" The old man who tells this generally refers to our American bird as "the wiggle."

Tetter, Salt-Rheum and Eczema.

The intense itching and smarting incident to these diseases is instantly allayed by applying Chamberlain's Eye and Skin Ointment. Many very bad cases have been permanently cured by it. It is equally efficient for itching piles and a favorite remedy for sore nipples, chapped hands, chilblains frost bits and chronic sore eyes. 25cts. per box. For sale by

DR CADY'S CONDITION POWDERS are just what a horse needs when in bad condition. Tonic, blood purifier and vermifuge. They are not a food but a medicine and the best in use to put a a horse in prime condition. Price 25 cents per package. For sale by Senator Hoar says: "An aristocracy or monarchy may govern subject states. It never was done and never will by a democracy or a republic.

HUNTERSVILLE.

Dr Harry Beard, of Lewisburg, is here on a business errand.

Mrs Auvergne, of Oregon, is visiting her sister, Mrs H. M. Lockridge.

Miss Nannie Barkley is down with the fever, but is doing fairly well.

Mrs W. H. Grose has been down with typhoid fever for two weeks, but is convalescing.

Mrs Agnes Loury, an aged and respected lady, is quite ill at her son's residence in Huntersville.

Three of David Anderson's children are ill with typhoid fever at their home in Hickory Hollow.

Oats and hay on the Lockridge farm, near Driscol, were badly damaged by the recent rains and freshets.

The corn shucks seem to be unusually thick this season, which is regarded as an omen of a long hard winter.

Parties were in Huntersville Monday to arrange for immediate telephone connexion between this place and Marlinton.

George McCollam and Sam Baxter are busy threshing the crops in the vicinity of Huntersville, with their traction engine.

Mr and Mrs C. L. Moore, on Brown's Creek, are the favored parents of fourteen children, seven sons and seven daughters.

Dr Patterson has been going day and night for several weeks. He has among his patients seven or eight cases of typhoid fever.

Mr Hutchinson, the star route agent, was in Huntersville Saturday; looking for sub-contractors for the new mail arrangements.

Died, At his home in Huntersville, Isaac Thomas, aged about forty years, on Sunday morning. His disease was typhoidal peritonitis. He was a hard working, honest man and will be greatly missed by his family.

LOBELIA ITEMS.

S. A. McCarty will start out this week with his machine.

Jake Townsend is working for H. L. Casebolt at this time.

K. H. Boggs was called home by letter on Wednesday last.

E. A. Hodges was called to Lewisburg by the illness of his aged mother.

G. M. Williams has been building a dike to save mill from further injury.

B. Mc— would like to go up on the mountain, but is afraid of the old man.

Rev Fultz has been holding a protracted meeting at Mt Olivet with good results.

J. E. McMillion, a young school teacher of this vicinity, holds a writing of recommendation from the trustees of the Locust Creek school, stating that he taught a good school during the term of 1897-8. This is something that every teacher should be able to secure.

It raineth and behold the floods cometh and doeth much damage. We are left without roads or foundation to build on. W. B. Hill warned out his whole force of hands and put up footlogs and filled up some of the washouts in the road. R. W. Hill suffered the most from back water. The water was backed up a distance of two miles covering acres of meadow corn and oats. WHISKERS.

PINE GROVE.

We are having some fine weather, but can't tell how long it will last.

Some of our farmer are about to lose all their oats crop and part of their hay.

W. A. Barlow is building a grainery and getting ready for the threshing machine.

Joe McNeel and Will McClure, of the Levels, were around last week on business.

Frank Purdy, of Lynchburg, is spending his vacation at A. N. Taylor's; fishing and eating black berries.

The Festival at Edray was quite a success. They cleared thirty-four dollars, and had a nice time, considering the bad weather.

C. R. Davis and Miss Lucy Beverage, daughter of Uriah Beverage, were united in marriage by Rev. George P. Moore, on July 31.

The following teachers stayed here over Sunday: T. A. Bruffey and J. E. Peck, of Lobelia; Miss Annie Sulivan, Jacox; Miss Daisy Eskridge, Academy; Misses Lucy and Pearl Sharpe, Daiscol; Miss Virgie Gillispie and Robert Sutton, Gillispie; Ami Willfong, of Greenbrier County.

GYPSY.

The Best Remedy for Flux.

Mr John Mathias, a well known stock dealer of Pulaski, Ky., says: "After seffering for over a week with flux, and my physician having failed to relieve me, I was advised to try Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, and have the pleasure of stating that the half of one bottle cured me." For sale b Amos Barlow, Huntersville; Barlow & Moore, Edray.

Educate Your B[illegible] With Cascarets. Candy C[illegible] cure constipation forever. 10c, 25c [illegible] C. C. fail, druggists refund money.

DUNMORE.

C. E. Pritchard lost a fine calf with black leg.

Mr Pritchard and family are visiting at Travellers' Repose.

Several drummers were water bound at Dunmore last week.

Miss Bertha McLaughlin is improving nicely under the treatment of Dr C. L. Austin.

O wont we look neet between two sheets and a trunnel bed built for two! Its a boy!—Wardell Arbogast.

Rev Given preached to a large congregation at Green Bank Sunday last. Also Rev Sloane preached two sermons at Stoney Bottom.

Auctioneer Swecker is attending court in Monterey, making some big land sales. Swecker and Gum attended the sale at Huntersville the 16th.

Owing to the high water the allday sing at Wanless was postponed until the fourth Sunday, the 28th. Come out at 10 a. m., bring your books and dinner and stay all day. All singers come.

Rain and high water—higher than ever known at Dunmore, considerable damage done to grain and hay. A great deal of fencing washed off, roads torn up, bridges washed out. The County Court should make some appropriations at once and have some of the worst roads fixed up.

NIMROD SHIFTLETT.

WANTED—A good girl to do cooking and general housework in small family, $1.25 per week.
D. W. BRATTON, Bolar, Va.
Bath county. 6w.

About one month ago my child, which is fifteen months old, had an attack of diarrhoea accompanied by vomiting. I gave it such remedies as are usually given in such cases, but as nothing gave relief, we sent for a physician and it was under his care for a week. At this time the child had been sick for about ten days and was having about twenty five operations of the bowels every twelve hours, and we were convinced that unless it soon obtained relief it would not live. Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera, and Diarrhoea Remedy was recommended, and I decided to try it. I soon noticed a change for the better; by its continued use a comple cure was brought about and it is now perfectly healthy.—C. L. BOGGS, Gilmer County, W. Va. For sale by Amos Barlow, Huntersville; Barlow & Moore, Edray.

high authority!

DR. S. WEIR MITCHELL is authority for the statement that nervousness is the characteristic malady of the American nation, and statistics show that nerve deaths number one-fourth of all deaths recorded, the mortality being mainly among young people.

Johnston's Sarsaparilla
QUART BOTTLE.

is the grand specific for this great American disease, because it goes straight to the source of the weakness, building up health and strength by supplying rich, abundant food and pure blood to the worn-out tissues, rousing the liver to activity and regulating all the organs of the body.

Williams, Davis, Brooks & Co., Detroit.

Liverettes the famous little liver pills. 25c.

For sale by—Uriah Bird Marlinton; Amos Barlow, Huntersville.

GREEN BANK.

Warwick Gum is at home again.

Andy Sheets went to Beverly last week.

James Stretch was at home from camp for a few days.

Mr and Mrs W. H. Cackley, of Ronceverte, are visiting here.

Born, to Mr and Mrs Warddell Arbogast, a boy, on the 12th inst.

John Arbogast and family, of Texas, is visiting friends and relatives in this part.

People are very backward with their mowing and oats. Some oats spoilt in the swath.

There was a big flood in the creeks last week, and washed some fence, hay, corn and oats.

Dr Campbell, the dentist, was crowded with work while here and did some good work in repairing teeth.

Samuel Harper, the Jew merchant, of Baltimore, is stopping in this part. We expect to have him sell goods to us again.

We are sorry to note the death of Robert Kerr, son of James Kerr, who died a soldier's death and was buried in the briney deep.

Crops are remarkably good this year in this part. Corn is better than it has been for years. We are having a little too much rain, but a wet season is much better than a dry one.

Rev Given delivered a very able sermon on Sunday to a large crowd of people. The people were much impressed with his oratory and the profoundness of his text. He is here for his health which is rapidly improving. He compared himself with Charley Lightner and George Bambrick and he said the three were the nearest in size of any three men he had ever met.

Payne Brothers brought 4,200 pounds of flour to Green Bank last Saturday. Yours truly, KIEFER.

CASH is King!

With that potent force in hand we get Bargains that Credit never sees. We aim to handle the best class of goods. Good value with us means more than a mere

LOW PRICE

It goes on to embrace quality. We do not handle

AUCTION GOODS.

Come and see us and judge for yourself of the business we do. We are constantly receiving new goods, and we guarantee the smallest of our patrons the same courteous attention given the largest.

Yours for Low Prices and Good Goods,

L. D. Sharp,
LINWOOD, W. VA.

The Levels News.

Edited by Payne Bros.

Vol. 1 Academy, W. Va., Aug 19, 1898. No. 31

Market Report, August 16, 1898.
—Eggs 10c per dozen.
—Butter 12½ per pound.
—Lard 8c per lb.
—Corn 75c per bushel.
—Wheat 80 to 90 per bushel.
—Oats 30c per bushel.
—Tallow 6c pound.
—Ginseng $2.50 a pound, dry.
—At PAYNE BROS.

—Miss Jane Bell has returned home

—Choice honey at Payne's 12½c per pound.

—Miss Annette Ligon was visiting her sisters last week.

—Rev D. A. Penic is visiting relatives in this neighborhood.

—Sell your cattle, hogs, sheep to Payne Bros and get top prices.

—Miss Lucy Kincaid was the guest of Miss Anna Wallace a few days.

—G. L. Clark was home a few days, but returned to his well digging near Lewisburg.

—Brick are now ready at S. J. Payne's kiln. Send your orders to him and he will fill them promptly.

—Mrs Mollie McNeel, who has been visiting relatives here the past summer, started for her home in Washington last Monday, accompanied by her father Mr J. G. Beard, who will spend some time in that country.

—Mason Jars and Stoneware at Payne Bros.

—Fresh lemons, and oranges, at Payne Bros.

—Buy Mason's Fruit Jars from Payne Bros.

—Linseed oil and paints very low at Payne Bros.

—High Arm Singer Sewing Machines at Payne Bros.

—Saddles, Harness, Bridles, and Hames very low at Payne Bros.

—S. P. Curry, of Huntersville, was in this neighborhood the first of the week.

—S. J. Payne contracted to carry the mail from Academy to Marlinton on the new schedule.

CASTORIA.
Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher
The Kind You Have Always Bought

Best grades of Roller Flour at

G. L. HANNAH'S,
Yelk, W. Va.
BARLOW & MOORE'S,
Edray, W. Va.
J. H. CURRY'S,
Green Bank, W. Va.
R. L. NOTTINGHAM'S,
Dunmore, W. Va.
J. H. DOYLE,
Huntersville, W. Va.

A STORY.

ABOUT THE NIMBLE SIX-PENCE.

It is Like a Ball of Snow, the Faster You Roll It the More Rapidly It Will Accumulate.

We recognize the fact that to succeed we must undersell.

We recognize that in order to keep our stock complete we must get the pay for our goods promptly.

We also recognize the fact that when we sell our goods on such close prices as to bring them below competition we must collect frequently in order to keep the ball rolling.

We appreciate highly the patronage and kind words of encouragement from our friends and patrons, and request you to encourage us further by coming in and paying up your accounts with cash, so we can replace the goods which you have bought without involving ourselves in dept these scary wartimes.

We hope to be of service to our patrons and can save you money, but do not overlook the main essential point: We need our money often. We are anxious to reduce stock in many lines as much as possible from now till September 1st and will sell at greatly reduced prices.

We have just received a new book of receipts which we would like to up inside of the next thirty days

Call and see us when in town.

Respectfully,
J. D. PULLIN & CO.

W. W. Tyree,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

LEADER IN LOW PRICES.

You may have seen better days, but you have never seen better bargains than we are now offering in General Merchandise.

Good Green COFFEE, 10c 12½ and 15c per pound.	Men's good Every Day Shirts, from 20 to 60 cents each.
SAGAR, ...7c	Good SUSPENDERS 15c
8lb keg good SODA, only 25c	COTTON CLOTH, 6c, 7c, 8c, and 9c per yard.
PEACHES, 2 qt cans.....15c

AND ALL OTHER GOODS AT ROCK BOTTOM PRICES.

Bring us your Spring Chickens. We want 25 dozen every week at 7 and 8 cents per lb. on foot. Bring us your bacon and eggs, and all the loose change you have; and we will give you bargains that cant be beat anywhere.

W. W. TYREE,

Sampson Heard From!

WAR WILL SOON BE OVER,

And You can Invest in Buggies Spring-Wagons, and Carriages.

We have just gotton in a car load of fine Buggies and Carriages which we are selling very low. Call and see us.

We can save you money and give you better work.

VEHICLES MADE TO ORDER.

We also make a specialty of repairing and painting vehicles of all kinds.

When in Town call and see our work.

Yours truly,

Hudgins & Shackelford.
Ronceverte, W. Va.

Plow Repairs

We have at last succeeded in making arrangements to supply points for the RONCEVERTE PLOW. Full stock now on hand. Send in our orders early. . . .

We are Factory Agents for IMPERIAL and SILVER STEEL Plows.

(The Best Hillside Plow on the Market.)

Simms & Co.,
Opp. Passenger Depot, RONCEVERTE, W. Va.

The Pocahontas Times.

Andrew & Norman Price, Owners. "Montani Semper Liberi!" Andrew Price, Editor

VOL. 16, NO. 5 MARLINTON, WEST VIRGINIA, AUGUST 26, 1898. $1.00 PER YEAR

From FACTORY to CONSUMER.

$1.39 buys this (exact) Rattan Rocker, the largest size ever made; per dozen, $14.50. Our new 112-page catalogue containing Furniture, Draperies, Crockery, Baby Carriages, Refrigerators, Stoves, Lamps, Pictures, Mirrors, Bedding, etc., is yours for the asking. Special supplements just issued are also free. Write to-day.

CARPET CATALOGUE in lithographed colors is also mailed free. Write for it. If you wish samples, send 8c. stamp. Matting samples also mailed for 8c. All Carpets sewed free this month and freight paid on $5 purchases and over.

$7.45 buys a made-to-your-measure All-Wool Cheviot Suit, expressage prepaid to your station. Write for free catalogue and samples. Address (exactly as below).

JULIUS HINES & SON,
Dept. 909. BALTIMORE, MD.

LAW CARDS.

N. C. McNEIL,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

Will practice in the Courts of Pocahontas and adjoining counties and in the Court of Appeals of the State of West Virginia.

L. M. McCLINTIC,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

Will practice in the Courts of Pocahontas and adjoining counties and in the Supreme Court of Appeals.

H. S. RUCKER,
ATT'Y. AT LAW & NOTARY PUBLIC
HUNTERSVILLE, W. VA.

Will practice in the courts of Pocahontas county and in the Supreme Court of Appeals.

J. W. ARBUCKLE,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
LEWISBURG, W. VA.

Will practice in the courts of Greenbrier and Pocahontas counties. Prompt attention given to claims for collection in Pocahontas county.

W. A. BRATTON,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

Prompt and careful attention given to all legal business.

ANDREW PRICE,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

Will be found at Times Office.

SAM. B. SCOTT, JR.
LAWYER,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

All legal business will receive prompt attention.

H. M. LOCKRIDGE,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
HUNTERSVILLE, W. VA.

Prompt and careful attention given all legal work.

JOHN A. PRESTON FRED. WALLACE
PRESTON & WALLACE,
Attorneys at Law,
LEWISBURG, W. VA.

Will practice in the Courts of Greenbrier and adjoining counties, and in the Court of Appeals of the State of West Virginia.

J. W. YEAGER,
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

Prompt attention given to collections

PHYSICIANS' CARDS.

DR. O. J. CAMPBELL,
DENTIST,
MONTEREY, VA.

Will visit Pocahontas County at least twice a year. The exact date of his visit will appear in this paper.

DR. J. H. WEYMOUTH,
RESIDENT DENTIST,
ELKINS, W. VA.

Will visit Pocahontas County every spring and fall. The exact date of each visit will appear in The Times.

J. M. CUNNINGHAM, M. D.,
PHYSICIAN & SURGEON,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

Office next door to C. A. Yeager's Hotel. Residence opposite Hotel. All calls promptly answered.

To Cure a Cold in One Day.

Take Laxative Bromo Quinine Tablets. All Druggists refund the money if it fails to Cure. 25c.

A Rural Opinion.

The poets that are singin' of the harvest "rich and and sweet,"
Never worked at fodder pullin, shuckin' corn, or threshin' wheat;
The distance sorter dazzles, but a feller's fancy fails
When he's put to pickin' cotton, haulin hay, or splittin' rails.

In the cities they are singin' of "the music in the dells"—
The everlastin ringin' of the pesky cattle bells:
But they 'd sorter change the meter—with their hands as soft as silk,
If you made 'em drive the cattle home an' give em cows to milk!

They make you tired talkin' 'bout 'the noble sons of toil'—
The 'horny handed heroes' that are tiling of the soil;
But it sets me down to thinkin': If that labor lovin crowd
Had hands one half as horny, would they blow their horns so loud?

It 's distance makes 'em do it; they write by city rule;
They praise a Texas pony, make an angel of a mule!
But I tell you, feller citizens, 't would make 'em change their style
If ever we could run 'em down an' plow 'em all awhile!

—Frank L. Stanton.

County Sketches.

I.

THE SHERIFF.

If we are to consider county dignitaries in the series of sketches we propose to write concerning life in this section, we must take up the Sheriff, who heads the ticket on election day, and who must be allowed his full glut of glory,—or the day will come when we can not get a Sheriff for love nor money. It is the duty of every citizen to glorify this office; for with a man who has accumulated a few encumbrances in the way of farms and is kept busy riding his own particular horse overseeing things, nothing but the glory of his office will induce him to risk all his fine land and personal property to serve his county in the capacity of Sheriff.

The Sheriff in a West Virginia county is a very important personage, for, in addition to keeping the peace, he must collect and account for all the money levied in direct taxes on the people. There is a law providing that he shall not serve two successive terms. This law was provided because when a man had served four years and was not satisfied with his experience as Sheriff, it shows that he is not altogether right and that he had better be retired to private life where he can do no harm.

When election year comes round some substantial farmer who has hitherto kept his accounts in his head or penciled in a memorandum book, suddenly appears on the scene as a candidate for Sheriff. and it will be remembered then that he has probably been preparing for it for years by his astuteness in avoiding all political difficulties and by not letting his left hand know how the right hand voted. This is political finesse greatly in vogue, and makes very lukewarm enemies. A man of the same walk in life opposes him, and the fine riding horses are hard worked canvassing. Many a poor sheriff has had cause to remember those days and wonder why he did not spend the time requesting his friends to elect his adversary.

When he has successfully passed through the ordeals of a party nomination and a general election he begins to realize the bitterness of life when he thinks on his official bond. He sees a neighbor coming in the road and hastens to meet him, but the nighbor has business down a side road and escapes. It is hard to corner a man of property so that he can have a moment's conversation with him. He goes to church and the preacher unfortunately chooses a lesson that plunges him in despair. It is from Proverbs:

> My son, if thou be surety for thy friend; if thou hast stricken thy hand with a stranger, ...
>
> Deliver thyself as a roe from the hand of the hunter, and as a bird from the hand of the fowler.
>
> If thou owest no man, why should he take away thy bed from under thee?

The day of his qualification draws near, and, by dint of much persuasion and by the help of his clan and men who are under obligations to him, he marches a melancholy group of men before the county court and they having duly signed his bond he is inducted into office, together with the several deputies.

When a man is appointed minister to England, or a plenipotentiary to draft a treaty of peace between nations, he may feel that he is of some importance: but he is a mere novice in such thoughts compared to the deputy sheriff when he has sworn in. The sheriff himself has had about all the satisfaction knocked out of him by the time he qualifies, and has realized the bitterness of life, but the deputy feels his keeping for years. He is very affable, and very condescending. He is at peace with himself and the world, and goes out and orders the biggest pair of saddle-pockets in the catalog, and begins to ride Sheriff. The glory that should rest on the Sheriff descends and sits upon the deputies.

As for the poor Sheriff, he is in difficulties learning his business and making both ends meet. His pocket-book bulges out in an alarming manner and has all kinds of important papers in except greenbacks. Whenever he gets a dollar it must go to pay the county orders and school drafts. The rapacious school-teachers surround him on all sides with orders for their salaries, and when he tries to run down a taxpayer he fails and when after many trials he finally corners him he has no money, and the cash comes in slowly. He rides to the top of the mountain to collect a tax ticket for $2.73, and finds no one at home. If he had been successful he would have netted nineteen cents for his half-day's ride; as it was he made nothing. And behind all are the thousands of dollars that the Auditor of the State expects in a lump sum, when the poor sheriff is meeting with difficulty the small claims against the county held by individuals. Do you wonder that he finds all his glory is more like sawdust and ashes. But, as we said before, we must not let all this get out, for presently there would be nobody to serve as sheriff, and the whole machinery of the county would be sadly out of order.

This tax business so over-shadows all other duties of the Sheriff that his other work is light and trivial compared with it. But now and then some of the clans fall out, and there is trouble in mountains and shooting is very free and open, and the Sheriff, who has had all the snap worn off him by the cares of the treasury department, must arm himself and go in as the representative of the law and corral a lot of people in jail. So he coaxes some and bullies others and chases others out of his bailiwick until peace is declared and he can resume his dunning operations. Again the court has to wait until he can ride forty or fifty miles and attach a reluctant witness. He also has the painful duty of selling other people's property for their debts and causing distress generally. But it is doubtful whether anything causes him more trooble than that unhappy class of individuals who are so thoughtless as to die and leave him to administer on their estates.

Years after the careworn man has made a final settlement of the rest of his affairs, like a ghost of his former term of office some big two-fisted man comes up and says that he was a poor, pitiful infant in the days when he was sheriff, and he wants a settlement of a certain estate. He asks that the sheriff be made responsible for not collecting one thousand dollars and that he pay that amount with 25 years' interest; and the court sides with the infant and makes the sheriff, who is by this time an old man, pay up for his neglecting something he knew nothing of.

Until the sheriff gets rid of the effects of his term of office by dying, he is compelled to attend each court and settle up the fag ends of his business. That is if he has been able to fight it through and has not cost his sureties anything. It very frequently happens that the sureties take these duties off sheriff's hands and wind up the affairs to the best advantage. The sheriff goes into very retired private life and is not heard of in public affairs again. One West Virginia sheriff after he had failed deemed it expedient to open the big veins of his neck with a pocket-knife and hold his head over the wash-bowl until he fell down dead.

The latter end of the sheriff is what is to be dreaded. He is covered with liabilities and his profits have disappeared. Not many years ago one of the wealthy men of this county paid over $700 as surety of a sheriff who served a term before the war. When the sheriff gave bond he had no trouble in finding as many wealthy stockmen and farmers as he needed for he was a wealthy man himself. They met in the store in which this particular surety was clerk to sign the bond. When the bond was signed the prospective sheriff courteously asked the young clerk to sign also, and the clerk was very happy to put his name down with so many prominent and influential people.

Time passed and the sheriff and each one of the sureties had been gathered to their forefathers, and the store clerk, now a wealthy man himself, was alone liable of all that set of bondsmen, and when a debt was found against that sheriff 31 years after his bond was signed, the young store clerk had to settle.

But all these things must be kept quiet, for if they were to become generally known and realized what would we do for a sheriff?

A LONG WAY ROUND.

According to a paragraph in the New York Sun, there is a post-office in Minnesota from which it takes a letter eight days—and more than twelve hundred miles of travel—to reach another office only half a mile away.

"The second office is in Canada, on the other shore of Rainy River. The mail used to be carried across in a bark canoe by a half-breed, who made a living by the work. Now it goes one hundred and fifty miles by stage, one hundred miles by rail to Duluth, six hundred miles west and north to Winnipeg, two hundred miles east by rail, and two hundred miles more by steamer and canoe to get to the village that can almost be reached with a shout by a good pair of lungs."

We can furnish a similar tale in Pocahontas. Take Gillispie and Wanless, two towns of the Greenbrier about eight miles apart. Under recent mail regulations a man might start a letter Monday at Gillispie to a man at Wanless. It would go four miles to Travelers' Repose; Tuesday, thirty miles to Huntersville; Wednesday, 6 miles to Marlinton; Thursday, four miles to Edray. Then waiting over a day at Edray, it would go twelve miles to Driftwood on Saturday, and be carried to Wanless the next Tuesday, requiring nine days to make the circuit.

He Knew George A. Jenks.

About twenty years ago an old man of wealth and without family resided at Brookville. Like many others he neglected making a will until he became very sick. Then he divided most of his estate among his relatives, giving each a liberal share, but also bequeathed a handsome sum—about $20,000, if we remember correctly—to churches, schools and charitable objects. A few days after he had made his will his physician informed him that he could not live a week. The law of the State makes void all bequests to churches and charaties where the devisor dies within thirty days of the date of making his will. Then the old man added a codicil to his will revoking his bequest to chuches, schools, etc., and queathed the total sum, $20,000, to George A. Jenks, without reserve. After his death, when the property came into possession of Mr Jenks, the latter turned it over to the institutions named in the will and carried out to the letter the desires of the deceased.

Such incidents show the confidence people have in George A. Jenks, who have have known him long and intimately. He is the kind of man required for Governor of the Pennsylvania.—Philadelphia Record.

A Dreary Home.

An Atchinson woman is not only a poor cook and housekeeper, but she does not laugh at her husband's jokes.—Atchinson Globe.

THE BIBLE RELATIONSHIP.

BY W. T. P.

Jacob Bible, Esq., the progenitor of the Bible relationship in our county, was born and reared on the South Branch of the Potomac, near Franklin, Pendleton County. His father was Jacob Bible, Senior, a native of Pennsylvania, and one of the early settlers of Pendleton County.

Upon his marriage with Sally Lightner, daughter of Adam Lightner, Senior, on Back Creek, Mr Bible located at Hightown, thence he came to Rosin Run, near Green Bank, where he made ample improvements. This was about seventy years ago. Their children were Susan Elizabeth, Mary Margaret, John Adam, William Franklin and Rachel Jane.

John Adam was a Confederate soldier in the Green Bank company, and was wounded in the battle of Port Republic, June 1861. Upon being brought to Adam Lightner's, in Highland County, he died of his wounds, after lingering and painful sufferings.

William F. Bible was also a soldier, attached to Captain W. L. McNeel's command. Upon being taken prisoner near Huntersville, he was taken to Camp Chase, where he died in 1863.

Susan Elizabeth Bible became Mrs William J McLaughlin, near Huntersville. Particulars of her family were given in the McLaughlin Sketches, third group.

Mary Margaret was married to Peter D. Yeager and lives at Traveler's Repose. He was a Confederate soldier and was a prisoner of war at Camp Chase. He is now proprietor of the Yeager House at Traveler's Repose, and post master.

Rachel Jane Bible first married Morgan Bird and lived near Green Hill, Highland County. Walter and James Bird are their sons. Morgan Bird was a Confederate soldier.

Her second marriage was with John B. McCutcheon, near Dunmore. Farther particulars are given in the R. D. McCutcheon article.

Thus far, with the assistance of Mrs Rachel McCutcheon, the writer is able to give the foregoing particulars.

Among the many persons whose life history is identified with the development of our county, and whose names are worthy of grateful remembrance, Jacob Bible is one deserving special mention. He was a person of untiring industry and judicious management. Mrs Bible had for her highest aim to be a faithful home keeper and bring up a model family. It goes with saying that these worthy people succeeded remarkably well.

Mr Bible settled on a place with some patial improvements, but virtually it was a settement in the primeval forest, and the task before him was building up a pioneer home. In their quiet, thoughtful way, he and his wife faithfully counseled their sone and daughters to go in good company or none and to the credit of their children, this advice was dutifully heeded.

In the summer of 1852 the writer had the pleasure of being at the Bible's home. It was in the midst of the busy season and his purpose was to stay but a few minutes. Mr Bible quit his work and came to the house, and without further ceremony sent the horse to the barn, and informed the visitor he had to stay for dinner. He examined the colporteur's stock of books, selected what he thought would suit him. He was not a person apparently of many words, and yet he had a way of keeping the visitor busy talking. Soon after the noon hour the visitor felt he must be on the move and not keep the kind man away from the work that was evidently thronging him. He started to leave and Mr Bible went with him some distance, and he looked so solemn that the visitor began to think there must be some thing on his friend's mind. So he dismounted in the shade of a tree, and there followed one of the most interesting interviews on the subject of personal religion, it has ever been his pleasure to have. It so turned out that instead of spending a few minutes the greater portion of the day was spent. We separated and did not meet for years afterward.

After due consideration of the subject of personal piety and much careful reading of the Holy Scriptures, Mr Bible clearly realized the plan of salvation through faith in the Lord Jesus Christ. Through the faith that comes by hearing and the hearing that comes by the word of God, he was satisfied and convinced that Christ is the end of the law for righteousness to every one that believes. The result was that in mature life he confessed with his mouth the Lord Jesus, and believed that Christ was raised from the dead, and thereby Jacob Bible came into a saving state of grace.

He was chosen a Ruling Elder in the Liberty church and for many years he was one of its staunch supporters. He died in 1888 after a lingering and distressing illness, which he endured with marked resignation and contrite submission to the Divine Will. In thinking of Mr Bible the words often recur, "Mark the perfect man and behold the upright for the end of that man is peace."

Interesting Facts About Potatoes.

The following facts about the ordinary potato are credited by The Pharmaceutical Era to a paper read by M. Balland, a French chemist, before the Paris Academy of Sciences. It says:

"Aside from the skin, which only represents a small fraction of the total weight, the potato consists of three layers, well distinguishable with the naked eye if a small piece is held up against the light. Still more distinctly these three layers become visible if photographed with the Roentgen rays. The strata are of different thicknesses, which decrease toward the interior. The outermost layer contains comparatively the most starch but less nitrogenous substances; with the innermost layer the proportion is just the reverse. The middle layer has a mean composition between the two others. The skin layer is the dryest, while the inside marrow contains considerably more water. On an average, a potato contains three quarters of its weight of water, two tenths of starch, and one fiftieth of nitrogenous matters. Balland has discovered the important fact that the food value of the potato is so much greater the more nitrogenous substances it contains, and so much smaller the richer it is in starch. In the best table potato the proportion between nitrogenous matters and starch attains three times as high a value as with the food potatoes of the lowest quality. Hence the value of a potato can be ascertained by chemical analysis; but it so happens that the food value of different varieties of potatoes can be judged according to their behavior when boiled. We all know that some potatoes swell up in hot water, cracking in certain places and even breaking apart, while others retain their original shape even when well done. It was supposed formerly that the cracking or breaking apart of potatoes was indicative of an especially large percentage of starch, the starch swelling up and breaking the skin. According to the latest investigations this is erroneous, the percentage of albumen being responsible. If a potato is comparatively rich in this substance it will keep its shape on boiling; a cracking and falling apart indicates a deficiency of albumen. The potatoes containing the most albumen being the most nutricious, everybody can determine the worth of a potato by boiling it. The best varieties are those which do not fall apart, but remain whole on cooking."

Chameleon Changes of Negro Babies.

The evidence of a French physician, founded on experience obtained at a Soudanese village exhibited in Paris, was to the effect that the negro baby comes into the world a pale pink color, the second day it is lilac, ten days afterward it is the roor of tanned leather, and at fifteen days it is chocolate-colored.

The Rev W. B. Costley, Stockbridge, Ga., while attending to his pastoral duties at Ellenwood, that State, was attacked by cholera morbus. He says: "By chance I happened to get hold of a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera, and Diarrhoea Remedy, and I think it was the means of saving my life. It relieved me at once."—For sale by Amos Barlow, Huntersville; Barlow and Moore, Edray.

THE WOODCHUCK'S NAME.

Woodchucks are familiar creatures on every farm in New England, and they have extended their settlements beyong the Mississippi One of their most noticable traits is the throwing up of large piles of dirt in front of their burrows. According to the author of "Familiar Life in Field and Forest," it is from this practice that the woodchuck got his name.

"In olden [illegible]—probably in the time of Æsop—the lower animals used to live in one happy country with a judge over them—the dog. One day a rabbit, whose burrow adjoined that of the marmot, complained to the latter that the little rabbits' eyes were continually filled with the dirt which he threw out of his burrow.

"The marmot paid no heed to this remonstrance, and the rabbit was compelled to appeal to the judge. His honor immediately sent word to to the offender that greater care must be taken in the future. But the insolent marmot, notorious for his incivility and indifference, replied to the messenfier that he would chuck his dirt just where he plessed!

"That settled it. The dog has been hunting for the gross offender ever since, and the name 'woodchuck' has stuck to the whole tribe of marmots."

In West Virginia the dog once caught up with this impudent animal and made sausage meat out of him. Hence he has been known in this section by the name of "groundhog."

Regretted Limitations.

A rural Editor, describing a village banquet, probably felt that he had done his full duty in the way of praise when he wrote:

> The banquet that awaited the guests in the supper room was one of the finest ever seen in this place. The table fairly groaned under its load of good things, and some of the guests probably groaned after they left it, although the remark of each guest as he or she left the table was, "I wish I could hold some more," and no one felt his limited capacity more than ye editor.

Epigram's of the War.

"Don't swear, boys; shoot!"—Colonel Wood to the Rough Riders.

"Suspend judgment."—Captain Sigbee's first message to Washington.

"Don't cheer, boys; the poor devils are dying."—Captain Phillip of the Texas.

"Remember the Maine."—Commodore Schley's signal to the flying squadron.

"You can fire when you are ready, Gridly."—Commodore Dewey at Manilla.

"The Maine is avenged."—Lieutenant Wainwright, after the destruction of Cervera's fleet.

"Don't get between my guns and the enemy."—Commodore Dewey to Prince Henry of Germany.

"There must be no more recalls; iron will break at last."—Lieutenant Hobson to Admiral Sampson.

"Who would not gamble for a new star in the flag?"—Captain Buckey O'Neill, of the Rough Riders.

"Take that for the Maine."—Captain Sigsbee, as he fired a shot through the Spanish torpedo boat Terror.

"I've got them now and they will never get home."—Commodore Schley, on guard at Santiago harbor.

"We'll make Spanish the court language of the Hades."—Fighting Bob Evens when war was declared.

"The battle of Manilla killed me but I would do it again."—Captain Gridly, of the Olympia, on his death bed.

"Excuse me, sir; I have to report that the ship has been blown up and is sinking."—Bill Anthony, of the Maine.

"I want to make public acknowledgement that I believe in God the Father Almighty."—Captain Philip, of the Texas.

"Shafter is fighting, not writing."—Adjutant General Corbin to Secretary Alger when the latter asked for news from the front.

"Afraid I'll strain my guns at long range; I'll close in."—Lieutenant Wainwright, of the Gloucester, in the fight with Cervera's squadron.

"Don't hamper me with instructions; I am not afraid of the entire Spanish fleet with my ship."—Captain Clarke, of the Oregon, to the Board of Strategy.

The Pocahontas Times.

ANDREW PRICE, - - - EDITOR.

MARLINTON, FRIDAY, AUG 26, 1898

Entered at the post-office at Marlinton, W. Va., as second class matter.

DEMOCRATIC TICKET.

For Congress,
JUDGE DAVID E. JOHNSTONE,
of Mercer County.

For State Senator,
C. W. OSENTON,
of Fayette County.

For House of Delegates,
I. B. MOORE,
of Sunset.
For County Commissioner,
AMOS BARLOW,
of Huntersville.
For Superintendent Free Schools.
JAMES W. WARWICK,
of Mill Point.

The battle of New Orleans was fought after the signing of the treaty of peace, because the means of communication were lacking in those days. The same thing is true of the late battle of Manila.

Some of the greatest thinkers say that the United States must keep the Phillipines or cause trouble in Europe. The land grabbers of the Continent will fall out if they are abandoned. Should we cast pearls before swine, is the question.

In the Democratic primary of Greenbrier County 1675 votes were cast. T. H. Jarrett and E. F. Raymond were nominated for the House of Delegates; John H. Caraway, for County Court; and L. W. Burns for Superintendent of Free Schools.

The Governor of this State has had a prize fight to come off on the Ohio River on a steamboat. The Ohio people scared them away from Ohio and notified Governor Atkinson that they intended to fight it in West Virginia in Cabell County. He notified Cabell County peace officers that they must not allow it but the steamboat dropped into Wayne County and fought a most brutal mill in which one man had his arm broken. The Wayne County sheriff and state's attorney have been notified to appear in Charleston to answer such questions as may be propounded by his excellency.

Joseph F. Choate addressed the American Bar Association at Saratoga. He touched on the questions confronting the peace commission and reminded his audience that circumstances change during war, and tho we started out to free Cuba there would be no impropriety in accepting it as additional territory. He referred to two instances: One month before the battle of Lexington Franklin observed that not a man in the colonies drunk or sober wanted Independence. When the Civil War started Lincoln declared that the right to hold slaves should be inviolate in the territory in which slavery existed. In other words, when Spain refused to accede to our request and went to war with us she neglected her opportunity and released us from any obligations.

The West Virginia University got too progressive and had a gentleman from the Smithsonian Institution to give a lecture on doctrines savoring of free love, a very good subject for a co-educational college, indeed! When two of the best men there—Dr Brooke of the Law Department, and Dr Hartigan of the Medical School—turned on the cathode rays of common sense and made remarks about it, that young sprig from Chicago who is posing as President asked these gentlemen to resign. Not recognizing Dr Raymond as having authority to make this demand the gentlemen refused to consider it, and now the young man is in trouble. A lot of people, the writer included, only wanted an opportunity to pitch into the young pedagog, who for some occult reasons was imported for the position. If it had been known that the Board of Regents were looking for such a man for President every public school teacher in West Virginia would have applied, and the said Raymond would have not found himself the only wild and untutored stripling among the applicants.

MORE ABOUT MOSES MOORE.

From a lineal descendant of Moses Moore we learn some additional facts about that pioneer's capture by the Indians which took place in this county. He was captured one Sunday morning. He was living in a cave and sat at the mouth of it reading the Bible. He saw three Indians and he grabbed his gun and started to run, and would have got away but he remembered that he had left his shot-pouch and tried to dart back and get it. He had to enter the cave and when he came out to run again there were five Indians in twenty-five steps of him, all leveled on him with their guns. He felt that it would be very little chance of all of them missing him, and he threw up his hands.

He took the Indians in the cave and offered them a turkey that he was roasting. They refused to touch it until he had eaten a part of it and then they ate the whole.

About the lead ore it is said that in melting it it lost just about one-half its weight.

They took him to Ohio and the same day another party came in from the war trail with a white man prisoner. The next day they arranged for both men to run the gauntlet and the stranger was let loose first. He ran like a deer but fell cut and hacked all to pieces. When Moses Moore was loosed he walked very deliberately and the first attack that was made on him was by an old squaw with a frying pan. He wrenched it out of her hand and knocked her down with his fist. He then prepared to defend himself with the frying-pan. but the Indians crowded around calling him a great warrior and brave man and adopted him as a member of the tribe.

He remained with them three years and in that time he never saw a good opportunity to escape. The Indians were lazy and poor shots and made Moore do most of the hunting. They sent him out with two Indians at first but finally let him go by himself, but gave him only one charge of powder. After while he was trusted with two loads and he would kill with one and store the other away. He tried remaining out one night and came back the next morning meeting two Indians on his trail. He finally accumulated a good supply of ammunition and got back to West Virginia.

While he lived the settlers often gathered to the forts on false alarms, but when Moses Moore went into a fort it was certain that the Indians were in this section.

A GRAVE QUESTION.

The Phillipines are now held by the United States by martial law. It is the paramount issue and it will divide the country in Congress assembled. Though only a few months intervene until the election it may be the great feature of the campaign. We believe that it is in accord with the principles of Democracy that we abandon the Phillipines and avoid complications and entangling alliances. Seven million people coming into the Union in one batch, and such people, is enough to stagger it. We can not make voters of them, and under our present system all persons taxed are entitled to vote. We have no experience with subject states, and such institutions are in conflict with our great principles of equality. To make these people captive to our bow and spear means much to the official circle at Washington, which will have an opportunity of farming it out and providing for many of its members, and it will be a long step towards that centralization which we have come to fear.

We hope to see Cuba admitted as a state, in time, for the same reason we oppose the acquiring of the Phillipines—their locality. It does not matter how soon a delegation of dark-skinned gentlemen meet in Havana and cast an electoral vote for President of the United States, but it is simply impossible to imagine a state in the Phillipines, and it will be impracticable for us to garrison 2000 islands and pass laws in Congress making cannibalism a felony.

Senator Elkins will be pleased to send on request to lawyers and others interested, copies of the Bankruptcy Act until his quota is exhausted. Requests should be sent to his Washington address.

Mr Henry McClintic, an uncle of L. M. McClintic, is visiting in Pocahontas. He is a stockman of Texas.

TWO TALES FROM THE HILLS.

There were some men gathered together in a lawyer's office in Marlinton the other day discussing what came to the tip of the tongue. They got to slandering a man who was notoriously fond of liquor and ended by giving the town a black eye.

He's a powerful man to drink, aint he?"

"Oh, I do n't know," rejoined a lawyer, "I believe I have seen him refuse more drinks than any man in this town."

"Well now, (skeptically) how many did you ever see him refuse?"

"One."

Two brothers who lived in Randolph County had started at the same place, but Bill had led an exemplary life as a religious man while John had gone on in a dogged way in depths of sin and misery, according to some people's tonents. He was a good average citizen, and save for the indulgence of condemning some refractory cow beast and failing to pray as loudly in the synagog, he did about as much good as his brother Bill.

They had both got pretty old and John had amassed a choice piece of land. He verily believed that there was no better land in the world. He got sick and the doctor gave him up and he lay in the stupor that so often precedes death.

Bill thought he ought to talk to talk to him of religion, so he commenced:

"John, do you think you are ready for the better land?"

That word raised the sick man's ire. 'Better land?" he queried irritably. "Bill, you know there ain't better land than mine in the State!"

"No, no," said Bill gently. "I don't mean that. I man for you to turn your thoughts higher!"

"Them Alf Hutton hackings aint worth a ——!"

The location of his neighbor's hackings had never pleased him.

We are glad to note that John recovered from this attack and lived for several years after.

LIEUT. ROBERT D. KERR.

His efforts to comfort his mother in his letters for his enforced absence are very pathetic in view of subsequent events. He wrote from Camp Merritt, California:

"Let us hope that we will be together in dear old Pocahontas soon.

"I shall do the best I can and be as good a man as I can, and do my duty, which is all that can be expected. Let us leave our destiny to Him who can control it, and do what seems to be our duty.

"Now let 's be happy. Everybody ought so to adapt themselves to circumstances and so be as well as they can be, for surely worrying will not help them.

"Maybe I ought not to go, but I can't see it that way, and I have pondered over it by the hour."

The family appreciate the following letter of condolence from General Wilson:

Washington, D. C.
August 9, 1898.

Mr James D. Kerr,
Green Bank, Pocahontas Co.
West Virginia.

My Dear Sir: It is with deep sorrow that I am obliged to inform you that a cablegram received this a. m. from General Merritt at Manila, contains the sad intelligence of the death from spinal meningetis of your son, 2d Lieut. Robert D. Kerr, Corps of Engineers.

By his death, my corps has lost the services of a brilliant, noble, manly, splendid, young soldier.

I beg to convey to my deep, earnest, heartfelt sympathy in this your hour of great grief.

Yours very sincerely,
JOHN M. WILSON,
Brig. Gen'l. Chief of Engineers.

Beauty Is Blood Deep.

Clean blood means a clean skin. No beauty without it. Cascarets, Candy Cathartic clean your blood and keep it clean, by stirring up the lazy liver and driving all impurities from the body. Begin to-day to banish pimples, boils, blotches, blackheads, and that sickly bilious complexion by taking Cascarets,—beauty for ten cents. All druggists, satisfaction guaranteed, 10c, 25c, 50c

Lee Military Academy.

FALL TERM OF 18 WEEKS OPENS SEPT. 6.

Full preparation for college. Excellent Business Course. Well-equipped Military Department. Full corps of good teachers. Nothing advertised that is not done, and done well.

Send for catalogue.

JAS. M. LEE, Pr'nc'pal
Liwisburg, W. Va.

JUDGE McLAUGHLIN.

Judge William McLaughlin died at his home in Lexington, August 19th, aged about 76 years. In his death Virginia is bereaved of one of the most worthy and distinguished citizens of his times. He was a member of the Legislature; a brave and faithful Confederate officer; Rector of Washington and Lee University. His fame, however, chiefly rests upon his eminence as a jurist, pious, pure, and upright.

He was the architect of his own fortunes, and his life illustrates the possibilities in reach of the American youth born in humble life who has energy, perseverance, and tireless, plodding industry. His name will will go down the centuries as one of the noblest and most to be esteemed sons of the Virginia Valley. For thirty years he has been Judge of the circuit composed of Rockbridge, Highland, Alleghany, Bath, Rockingham, and Augusta counties, and was judge of the same at the time of his decease. His predecessors in office were among the most eminent of Virginia jurists.

W. T. P.

We have used Chamberlain's Cough Remedy in our home for many years and bear cheerful testimony to its value as a medicine which should be in every family. In coughs and colds we have found it to be efficacious and in croup and and whooping cough in children we deem it indispensable.—H. P. RITTER, 4125 Fairfax ave., St Louis, Mo. For sale by Amos Barlow, Huntersville; Barlow & Moore, Edray.

The colored camp meeting in progress to the north of Basic City is attracting large crowds. On next Saturday afternoon the "Return of the Prodigal Son" will be demonstrated. The sower of wild oats will be seen approaching thro' the woods, clothed in rags and humiliation. His father will run to meet him, fall on his neck, etc. He will then be brought in, a clean robe put on, a ring on his finger, and the fatted calf be killed. The entertainment promises to be interesting.—Herald.

The Best Remedy for Flux.

Mr John Mathias, a well known stock dealer of Pulaski, Ky., says: "After suffering for over a week with flux, and my physician having failed to relieve me, I was advised to try Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, and have the pleasure of stating that the half of one bottle cured me." For sale by Amos Barlow, Huntersville; Barlow & Moore, Edray.

Educate Your Bowels With Cascarets.

Candy Cathartic, cure constipation forever. 10c, 25c. If C. C. C. fail, druggists refund money.

Commissioners Notice.

Office of S. B. Scott, Jr., Commissioner in Chancery, Marlinton, W. Va., August 15, 1898.

Pursuant to a decree of the Circuit Court of Pocahontas County, entered on the 21st day of June, 1898, in a chancery cause therein pending entitled:

N. C. McNeil
vs.
Joseph Simmons and others,

I will proceed at my office in the town of Marlinton, West Virginia, on the 12th day of September, 1898 to take, state, and report to court the following matters of account, to wit:

First: A statement showing the liens upon the lands of the defendant, Joseph Simmons, with their respective legal dignities and priorities.

Second: What land the said Joseph Simmons owns in this county subject to said liens.

Third: Whether or not the said lands will rent in five years for a sum sufficient to discharge the said liens.

Fourth: Any other matter to be specially stated, deemed pertinent by myself or required by any party in interest to be so stated.

At which time and place all parties interested in this matter of controversy may attend.

Respectfully,
S. B. SCOTT, Jr.,
Commissioner in Chancery

NOTICE to LIEN HOLDERS.

To all parties holding liens by judgment or otherwise on the real estate or any part thereof of Joseph Simmons:

In pursuance of a decree of the Circuit Court of Pocahontas county, made in a cause therein pending to subject the real estate of the said Joseph Simmons to the satisfaction of the liens thereon, you are hereby required to present all claims held by you and each of you against the said Joseph Simmons, which are liens on his real estate or any part of it, for adjudication to me at my office in the town of Marlinton Pocahontas county, West Virginia, on or before the 12th day of September, 1898.

Given under my hand this 15th day of August, 1898.

S. B. SCOTT, Jr.
Commissioner in Chancery

NOTICE.

SILLING & SLAVEN,

TIN, SHEET-IRON
ROOFING,
GUTTER SPOUTING,
ROOF PAINTING,
FLUES, STOVE PIPE.
GALVANIZED FLUES,
SMOKE STACKS.
FRUIT DRYERS,
GALVANIZED TANKS,
AND CISTERNS.

Shop - Made Tin Ware
Always on Hand.

LIGHTNING RODS.

Work Done on Short Notice.

Call or write to
SILLING & SLAVEN,
ACADEMY, W. VA.

S. J. Boggs

General

Merchandise.

Huntersville,

West Virginia.

Trustee's Sale.

By virtue of a deed of trust made by D. W. Loudermilk and Susan Jane Loudermilk his wife to L. M. McClintic Trustee, on the 5th day of June, 1894, and recorded in the clerk's office of the County Court of Pocahontas county, in Deed book No. 25, at page 297, to indemnify and secure Withrow McClintic as endorser on a certain Negotiable Note of the said D. W. Loudermilk for $167·46 dated on the 5th day of June, 1894, and payable four months after date at the Bank of Ronceverte at Ronceverte, W. Va., and the said D. W. Loudermilk having made default in the payment of said note, and it having been paid by the said Withrow McClintic as endorser, and afterwards assigned by the said McClintic to M. Myers by written assignment dated on the 5th day of March, 1895, and recorded in the clerk's office of the County Court of Pocahontas county, in Deed book No. 26 at page 8; and the said Myers having requested me to advertise and sell the property conveyed to me as trustee, I will as such trustee, on at the front door of the Court House of Pocahontas County, West Virginia, sell, at public auction to the highest bidder, a certain tract or parcel of land containing 18 acres, situated in Pocahontas county, West Virginia, on Spruce Flat and the head waters of Dry Creek, being the same land conveyed to the said Susan Jane Loudermilk by G. W. Beverage and wife, by deed dated on the 16th day of April, 1891, and recorded in the clerk's office of the County Court of Pocahontas county, in Deed Book No 21 at page 496; part of said land is cleared and has on it a comfortable dwelling house and out-buildings, and the residue of said land is well timbered.

Monday, September 26th, 1898,

Terms of sale—Cash.

L. M. McCLINTIC, Trustee.

I, S. L. Brown, Clerk of the county court of Pocahontas county, certify that bond has been given by the above named trustee as required by law.

S. L. BROWN, Clerk.

THE MERCIFUL MAN.

A man driving a wretched team hauling goods from the railroad one day was asked:

"Tommy, you ought to be arrested for cruelty to animals, working such a team as that."

Tom replied:

"Let me tell you if I did n't work that team I 'd be taken up for cruelty to a wife and six children."

A great many people are cruel to their feet by buying ill-fitting footwear, the fruit of which is corns and bunions.

If you want to get Good, Servicable, Easy, Comfortable, Stylish, Up-to-Date Footwear to suit your purse, call at the GOLDEN STORE and examine his shoes and prices.

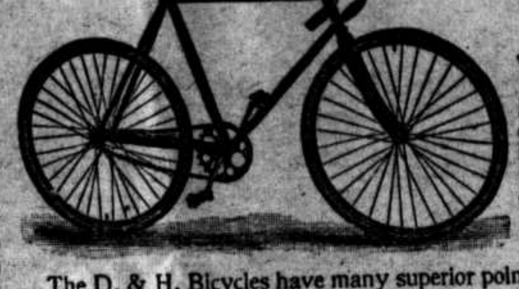
By the way, it will pay you well to hold your Spring Chickens till I close my contracts to sell at good advantage---and you will get the advantage.

Paul Golden.

"the D&H," ROAD RACER

WEIGHT 21 POUNDS.

The Ideal Wheel for the Scorcher.



A WINNER
SURE TO PLEASE

WE are desirous of introducing the D. & H. Bicycles throughout the country and offer special inducements to agents and riders as a matter of introduction. Write for our Special Offer.

The D. & H. Bicycles have many superior points of excellence in advance of any other Bicycle made. Prices from $40.00 to $75.00.

Write for particulars. Address,

ADVT. DEPT. Budd Bros. Mfg. Co., Glens Falls, N. Y.

Special We have an offer. (Our Offer No. 2) for every School Teacher in the United States. Teachers write us quick.

FARMERS!

YOUR WHEAT WILL BE EQUIVALENT TO CASH FOR FERTILIZERS AT THE LEWISBURG ROLLER MILLS.

We handle a number of the best grades of FERTILIZERS on the market, put up in 100 and 200 lb. bags, which we can furnish at the above mills or at Caldwell or Ronceverte.

Our Fertilizers have been used by the best farmers in Greenbrier and adjoining counties, and we will be very glad to furnish you reference if you desire. Hold your orders until you call and examine our grades and get our prices. We are also prepared to furnish you at the lowest possible prices.

GRASS SEED. SALT, and HARD and SOFT COAL

Very truly yours,

LEWISBURG ROLLER MILLS CO.

LEWISBURG FEMALE INSTITUTE.

THE LEADING FEMALE SEMINARY IN WEST VIRGINIA.

Collegiate, Academic, and Preparatory Departments. Classical, Scientific, Music, and Art. Best of Fare. Hot and Cold Baths. Rooms Carpeted. Gives a Thorough Christian Education.

TESTIMONY.

REV E. O. GUERRANT, D. D., of Kentucky:

"A good Female School is a public blessing, and among many noble institutions I do not know a better one than the one presided over by Rev R. L. Telford at Lewisburg. W. Va. It is Christian, Biblical, thorough, and attractive—making not only finished scholars but lovely Christian charaters. It is good enough to educate my own daughter, and I take pleasure in commending it to my friends.'

REV M. L. LACY, D. D, of West Virginia:

"I honestly believe it is the very best school of which I have any knowledge."

HON JOHN W. McCREERY, of the State Senate, W. Va.:

"Having had two daughters at the Lewisburg Female Institute, under the management of Rev R. L. Telford, it affords me pleasure to say that I regard the school as one of the best in the country."

DR J. M. POYNTZ, of Richmond, Ky.:

"Rarely indeed does one have the opportunity of placing their daughters in so good an institution of learning as the one presided over by Rev R. L. Telford, at Lewisburg. Anyway, it has been good enough for me. My daughter has been cared for as if she had been a member of the family."

REV D. S. SYDENSTRICKER, D. D., Hillsboro, W. Va.:

"Having been a patron of the Lewisburg Female Institute for two years, I can sincerely commend it to the attention and patronage of all who desire to have their daughters thoroughly trained in mind and heart. The course of instruction is thorough and honest. No half-way work is done. The refining and elevating Christian influences thrown around the pupils are most excellent."

IMPROVEMENTS.

Seventeen Thousand Dollars expended during the last five years in additions and improvements.

Send for illustrated catalogue to

Rev R. L. TELFORD, Lewisburg, W. Va.

The Pocahontas Times.

Andrew & Norman Price, Owners. "Montani Semper Liberi!" Andrew Price, Editor

VOL. 16, NO. 6 MARLINTON, WEST VIRGINIA, SEPTEMBER 2, 1898. $1.00 PER YEAR

From FACTORY to CONSUMER.

$1.39 buys this (exact) Rattan Rocker, the largest size ever made; per dozen, $14.50. Our new 112-page catalogue containing Furniture, Draperies, Crockery, Baby Carriages, Refrigerators, Stoves, Lamps, Pictures, Mirrors, Bedding, etc., is yours for the asking. Special supplements just issued are also free. Write to-day. CARPET CATALOGUE in lithographed colors is also mailed free. Write for it. If you wish samples, send 8c. stamp. Matting samples also mailed for 8c. All Carpets sewed free this month and freight paid on $9 purchases and over.

$7.45 buys a made-to-your-measure All-Wool Cheviot Suit, expressage prepaid to your station. Write for free catalogue and samples. Address (exactly as below),

JULIUS HINES & SON,
Dept. 909. BALTIMORE, MD.

LAW CARDS.

N. C. McNEIL,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

Will practice in the Courts of Pocahontas and adjoining counties and in the Court of Appeals of the State of West Virginia.

L. M. McCLINTIC,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

Will practice in the Courts of Pocahontas and adjoining counties and in the Supreme Court of Appeals.

H. S. RUCKER,
ATTY. AT LAW & NOTARY PUBLIC
HUNTERSVILLE, W. VA.

Will practice in the courts of Pocahontas county and in the Supreme Court of Appeals.

J. W. ARBUCKLE,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
LEWISBURG, W. VA.

Will practice in the courts of Greenbrier and Pocahontas counties. Prompt attention given to claims for collection in Pocahontas county.

W. A. BRATTON,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

Prompt and careful attention given to all legal business.

ANDREW PRICE,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

Will be found at Times Office.

SAM. B. SCOTT, JR.
LAWYER,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

All legal business will receive prompt attention.

H. M. LOCKRIDGE,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
HUNTERSVILLE, W. VA.

Prompt and careful attention given all legal work.

JOHN A. PRESTON FRED. WALLACE
PRESTON & WALLACE,
Attorneys at Law,
LEWISBURG, W. VA.

Will practice in the Courts of Greenbrier and adjoining counties, and in the Court of Appeals of the State of West Virginia.

J. W. YEAGER,
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

Prompt attention given to collections

PHYSICIANS' CARDS.

DR. O. J. CAMPBELL,
DENTIST,
MONTEREY, VA.

Will visit Pocahontas County at least twice a year. The exact date of his visit will appear in this paper.

DR. J. H. WEYMOUTH,
RESIDENT DENTIST,
ELKINS, W. VA.

Will visit Pocahontas County every spring and fall. The exact date of each visit will appear in The Times.

J. M. CUNNINGHAM, M. D.,
PHYSICIAN & SURGEON,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

Office next door to C. A. Yeager's Hotel. Residence opposite Hotel All calls promptly answered.

To Cure a Cold in One Day.

Take Laxative Bromo Quinine Tablets. All Druggists refund the money if it fails to Cure. 25c.

Satan in de Bombshell.

Oh, wher you gwine ter be w'en bullets is a flyin',
En de bombshell is a-gwine lad' a li'l' chile a-cryin'?
W'en you heah him comin'—comin' ter bust de winder throo;
En axin' frum the keyhole, "Whar is you—whar is you?"

Oh b'lievers,
Keep a-prayin' mo'!
Satan in de bombshell,
Knockin' at de do!

Oh, whar yer gwine ter be w'en de sojers come a-gunnin',
En de flyin' er de bullet beat de fastes' man a-runnin'?
W'en you heah de bumbshell axin', as he bust de winder throo:
"En how is all yo' family, en whar—Oh, whar is you?"

Oh believers,
Keep a-prayin' mo'!
Satan in de bombshell,
Knockin' at de do'!

[FRANK L. STAUNTON.

County Sketches.

THE DOCTOR.

We now turn to that rock in the weary land the country doctor, and being in tolerable fair health we feel the necessary independence to review that functionary whose business it is to alleviate some of the ills of life. By country doctor we mean the practitioner who lives in the country and wears old clothes, in contradistinction to the one who lives in the city and wears good clothes.

The time comes when every man has to put his life into the hands of the doctor, and the fatalist who loudly declares that what will be will be, in time of health, is about the first gentleman to demand his services when sickness comes upon him.

Formerly there were many doctors who took up the profession by instinct, and drifted into the way of tinkering up old bodies very much as a lot of jewelers get to fixing watches and clocks. These were the Thomsonian doctors, followers of Dr Samuel Thomson, who died in Massachusetts in 1843 and were supposed to use vegetable compounds, mainly lobelia and cayenne pepper, but they were apt to be a little too handy with calomel in order that they might retain their patients. Our doctors have become all allopaths, by which proud term the doctor means to tell you that he belongs to the regular school of practitioners, and not to the homeopaths who believe in that the hair of the dog will cure the bite. Homeopaths do not flourish among us. They are used to administering rainwater and such mild tonics, while we call for more heroic treatment and want something to jolt us.

Once upon a time we made our own cloth, and grew our own groceries, and raised our own doctors, but of late years we have been going to the city for all these, and the latter day doctor has his "sheepskin" from some medical college as his credentials. There is a popular fallacy that the young man fresh from his books with a thorough knowledge of the latest scientific discoveries is a better doctor than those old fogies who have not been to college for years, that enables the young man to start on a lucrative practice. He is indeed well fitted for some brilliant exploit to make or mar a man. Besides this valuable aid, if he is only nice and sympathetic, he will find enough old ladies of both sexes to lick up hot drops bringing temporary relief to them and the young doctor's exchequer.

We have marked the tendency of these young gentlemen to be highly scientific. When they have occasion to refer to measles they say rubeola; whooping-cough is pertussis with them; and mumps parotitis. Those who have the scantiest classical knowledge are the most apt to introduce learned terms into their talk, and one graduate of our acquaintance covered himself with mud when in society. He had been especially ornate, and an artless young lady was present. She was one of those young girls who give dense headed young men "the song and dance," by pretending to be so trusting and foolish, and cause the young man to fall over himself in explaining the point of some remark he had thought particularly bright. You all know the kind of girl we mean, and she can not be blamed when she, so bright mentally, gets all the amusement possible out of the society she has to endure.

The doctor told them the pin that he wore showed that he belonged to a Greek letter fraternity, and the ingenuous young girl exclaimed:

"Oh, Doctor, there is something I want to ask you. We were wondering the other day what the Greek letter for Z is? We said then that Dr Blank would know."

The doctor looked blank as his name for a second, but he brightened amazingly:

"I wish our old professor had asked such questions on exam," he said. "Do n't you remember what the Bible says, 'From alpha to omega.' Alpha A, omega Z, you know."

"But, Doctor, I thought Omega stood for some kind of an O."

"Well,-really,-now-by-the-way-ladies, you must excuse me! I have several calls to make this afternoon. Good evening."

But when the young man has faced death a few times in a struggle at the bedside of a stricken man and fought it out, he alone standing between his patient and eternity, the nonsense leaves him, and he becomes a deep, thoughtful man, or abandons his work as being too great for him.

Then he is more concerned about the sheep-skin under his saddle than the one that hangs up in his office. The snow never gets too deep or the nights too wild for him to go. Over the roughest and steepest hills or through the trackless woods he takes his daily way until he and his horse acquire an unnatural knowledge of the wilderness over which he rides. Giving the same attention to the poor who can not pay that he does to his patients who have money, he has an opportunity and daily shows an enviable amount of charity. Who has such a chance to die a benefactor to his race, or who experiences so much of the blackest ingratitude!

The doctor at the bedside is at all times a nobler sight than the doctor at large. The savage who practices the art of healing recognizes the fact that he must make himself mysterious and keep away from the common run of men. Our doctors do not find it convenient to remain in a dark room until needed, but mix with their fellow men and get the same amount of enjoyment out of life. They are active in business, attend to affairs of the church, schools and state. They are affected by faults and failings, and they generally evince a lot of professional jealousy. In strictest confidence they speak of the death dealing ways of a brother doctor, but they never mean any thing by it. This is proven when their testimony is taken. Some unfortunate man has a pain in his in'ards, and the doctor, being considerably puzzled, takes a big knife and cuts him open, and the man, after suffering from innumerable stitches in his side, dies. His representative sues the doctor for mal-practice, and all the other doctors take the witness stand, and, having answered innumerable hypothetical questions propounded in an anxious voice by the plaintiff's attorney, the substance of the testimony is to the effect that the only chance the man had was to be cut open and sewed up again.

The profession is a unit in fighting the medicines which have been patented and which are put up in convenient form, like the cigarette, and taken indiscriminately, proving to be one man's meat and another's poison.

Our doctors have hard work to do, but they prosper as a rule. They are supposed to welcome the coming and speed the departing man, but "until men are built like angels," the country doctor with his saddle-bags will go up and down the land curing the sick, giving relief, and all the time fattening on the ills of life.

BIOGRAPHIC NOTES.

John Harmon Conrad—A Settler on Deer Creek.

For more than a century the name of Conrad has been a familiar one among our pioneer people. Very soon after the Revolution, John Harmon Conrad, a native of Maryland, and his wife Elizabeth, whose family name is not remembered, settled on the North Branch of Deer Creek. They went into the woods on lands bought of John Brown, who lived at that time near Parnassus, Augusta County. This place is now occupied by Oscar Orndorff.

Mr and Mrs Conrad were the parents of three sons, Solomon, John and David, and three daughters, Mary, Nancy and Sally.

Three of these, David, Nancy and Sally died of camp fever during the war of 1812. Solomon Conrad had been in service at Norfolk and came home sick with the fever and from him the others took it, and died in quick succession.

Mary Conrad married Charles Martin, lived awhile on part of the homestead, and then moved to the western part of the State.

John Conrad went to Ohio where he married and reared two children, whose names are not remembered.

Solomon Conrad, the soldier of the war of 1812, marrid Mary Hogsett Brown, daughter of John Brown, mentioned above, from whom the Conrad property was purchased. He claimed so much land that the extent sounds fabulous to our ears. There is every probability that Brown's Mountain and Brown's Creek were named from him. Mr Brown finally moved to Montgomery County, and there Solomon Conrad was married and then settled at the homestead. They were the parents of three children, John, Margaret and Mary Ann.

John Conrad married Huldah Sutton and occupied the eastern section of the homestead. Their children were Charles, Emory, Marietta and Alice.

Charles married Huldah Kerr, of of Jacob, and settled on the homestead.

Emory married Eliza Wooddell and lives near Liberty.

Marietta became Mrs Wilson Pugh, and lives on the homestead.

Alice married Milton Gum and lives on the home place.

Margaret Conrad, of Solomon, became Mrs Addison Nottingham, first wife, and lived near Glade Hill. Her surviving son, Amos Nottingham, lives in Dakota.

Mary Ann Conrad was married to the late William Orndorff and lived at the parental home. Their children were Oscar, Margaret, Esta, Mollie and Laura.

The late William Orndorff was a native of Tennessee. In youth he volunteered for service in the Mexican war and went with a company from the city of M[illegible]phis. Captain W. L. Lacy was [illegible] command of the company, and one of the lieutenants was the Captain Anderson who was killed in December 1861, in the battle on the Top of Alleghany.

Thus with the assistance of Mrs William Orndorff, the compiler has been enabled to present some thing to illustrate the family history of the Conrad relationship in our county.

In his day and generation Solomon Conrad was one of the sterling citizens of his part of the county. Being the eldest of his father's family in their pioneer home, he had to labor hard from childhood in assisting to make a support. In early manhood his services in war were required and he left his home with its pure air, chrystal waters and balmy skies, marched four hundred miles to the front, near Norfolk, to experience the vicissitudes of camp life. He rendered faithfully the service required of him, and when discharged he had to retrace those four hundred miles weak and faint with incipient fever in his veins, and barely able to reach home.

Great was joy that thrilled parents, sisters and brothers when Solomon came came back from the war. Even at this time, so many years after the occurrence, it is hard to repress one's emotions in recalling the sad sequel. The young soldier, becoming prostrated in his delirium, would talk of the camp and pitifully express his longings for home. Then one by one the family came down, and it was difficult to get aid from the neighbors as many seemed panic-stricken and dreaded to expose themselves. There was no medical aid nearer than Staunton or the Warm Springs.

Long as he lived memories of these sorrowful days seemed to have overshadowed his spirit and to have imported a tone of subdued seriousness to his whole demeanor.

In mature life Solomon Conrad made a public profession of his faith in the Lord Jesus, lived a quiet exempliary life, and was held in high esteem for many attractive traits of character. He was conscientiously truthful, honest almost to excess and would stop for nothing in his power to oblige a friend or to help the needy. Even unfriendly persons would find in him a kind and helpful friend in their troubles, and, if they would not let him do them favors, they would find out sooner or later that he never did them any harm, and they would honor his memory by regretting that they ever allowed themselves to have any hard feeling toward their aimiable neighbor.

Mrs Mary Hogsett Conrad was a superior person, and while she lived exerted a good refining influence in all the relations of life. She was an excellent home keeper, a helpful and benevolent neighbor and her lady like manners impressed every one that met her. She was a good specimen of what it was to be a genuine Scotch-Irish matron.

Mr and Mrs Conrad could appreciate the sentiment of these words, Scotch-Irish people love so well to sing:

Thro' many dangers, toils and snares
I have already come;
'Twas grace that brought me safe thus far,
And grace will lead me home.

In Memoriam,

ROBERT D. KERR.

BY MARGARET E. SANGSTER.

I never knew this man whose splendid life
Was not caught hence in hot and bitter strife
Of battle where the bullets whistling sped,
And the wild shells went crashing overhead;
But, blighted by the scorching fever's breath,
Ere yet his sun had risen, he sank in death.

But, brave and faithful, I had marked his way,
Not one to flinch, wherever duty lay,
Honored already for his gifts, and sought
Because of work, his hands and brain had wrought,
Beneath his country's flag no truer son
Has given his life, so that her cause be won.

Asleep, beneath the blue Pacific waves,
Where deep the ocean keeps her many graves,
God's loving eye hath marked and keeps the spot;
The honored name that knew not stain or blot,
Is written high on scroll of deathless fame,
But safer still, our Father keeps his name.

And he shall rise, when dawns that day supreme
Which oft we see in vision and in dream;
When the great angel sounds his trumpet blast,
And all God's saints awaken, time and past,
And death and war and earthly peril and pain,
All of the things that never come again,
Then he shall rise and they who grieve to-day
Shall meet him where the shadows flee away,
And ever more in that dear father-land,
Shall find the loved and hold him by the hand.

Grieve not, oh! tender broken mother-heart,
As one who doth not know the better part,
Father and sister, all the household dear,
Think of him now as safe, and sometimes near;
For Heaven is never very far away
And Christ is evermore our strength and stay
If, trusting Him, we take life's loss and dole,
As sent to make us, by His blessing, whole.

Sleep well beloved! No tears shall break thy rest,
The waves that wrap thee from all earthly quest,
Break softly on the shore where all is balm,
And Heaven sings ever the unending psalm.

SPEECH OF JOHN T. McGRAW.

Accepts the Nomination for Congress in the 2d District.

The following is the speech of John T. McGraw, accepting the Democratic nomination for Congress in the Second District, at Elkins, August 10, 1898:

MR CHAIRMAN AND GENTLEMEN OF THE CONVENTION:

For the conspicuous, the commanding honor you have conferred upon me I thank you with feelings of gratitude which find words inadequate to their proper expression. Thanks, it has been said by the philosophers, is a little word, but it means much when there is a heart behind it. To stand its the invested champion of this district's imperial democracy, to be worthy of such an honor and to receive it in such a manner, is a distinction which no man is big enough to decline and few small enough to fail in its proper appreciation. This sentiment gathers on the way, as it emphasizes the fact that no act of mine has contributed to the result.

"In accepting the result of your action and assuming the responsibility which it entails, I can only promise you the full measure of such abilities as a good God has given me and pledge you that the standard which you today place in my hands shall have inscribed upon it no neutral principle but a fearless and vigorous democracy—a democracy which rejoices in the history of its past as a party and looks with no pessimistic views in the future.

"To be a democrat today—a Jeffersonian democrat—should be the proudest badge of American citizenship, because its designation represents a party which has resisted the empire of decay, and which has given to immortality a record which has added, with each recurring year, new lustre to the American name and contributed so much to the greatness, the grandeur, and the perpetuity of the American Republic. As a party its illustrious founder stood sentinel at the birth of liberty in the western world and breathed the breath of enduring life into the declaration for freedom, while he welded into organic form the great charter of popular government. Its principles and its administration of public affairs gave, by conquest and by treaty, to the American people a domain which extends from the eastern to the western seas and from the tropical base of southern commerce to the frozen waters of the great northwest. It successfully met on land and sea foreign invader and domestic foe, while it extended to every port American commerce under the ægis of the American flag.

"By the action of a Democratic president it promulgated, years before the Republican party wore its swaddling clothes, the democratic doctrine affirmed here today that no kingly power should find a resting place on this continent; and the devastated plains of Porto Rico and deserted battlements of Santiago are today telling the story of the affirmation of that Democratic doctrine.

"Always the champion of the people it has stood as Jackson stood—a stone wall against constitutional encroachments, protecting the rights of individual citizenship against the aggressions of aggregated wealth, while at the same time it shields corporate rights and vested interests against the red-handed drone who would loot the industrial hive.

"From its ranks, as a party, has been drawn, liberally drawn, the blood and treasure which has written the best pages of American history. The halo of glory which now surrounds the American soldier and sailor is the prompting of that patriotism which her teachings inspire. When humanity revolted against Spanish brutality on Cuban soil, it was Democracy's voice which was first heard in demanding belligerent rights for the patriotic sons of the island, and when Spanish treachery caused the widows and mothers of American sailors to wear the weeds of mourning, it was the democratic party that proclaimed that blood alone could wipe out the crime committed in Havana harbor, and that the lives of American citizens were above and beyond the price which mere money could repay. Such are the teachings of this old party, ever ancient and ever new, at whose shrine we today renew our allegiance, and whose principals are as essential today to the perpetuity of our national character as they were at the formation of the government. She has stood at the cradle, and shed the tear of the laureled conqueror over the grave of all the elder parties, and has listened frequently to the prediction of her own death and speedy dissolution, but—

"The snow-white hind,
So often doomed to death,
Is fated not to die,"

She stands today redolent in the memory of her past and proclaiming her principles for the safety of the future. She demands the vigorous enforcement of her ancient democratic doctrine, as promulgated by Monroe, and that the integrity of the American name shall not be weakened by the allurements of foreign conquests or the glittering dross of imperial dynasty. That a war founded on humanity's laws and called into existence for the purposes of benevolence, shall not be converted into a scheme for the perpetuation of an office-holding oligarchy, or a government by the people converted into a military despotism. She demands, in harmony with her great principles, an American policy which will protect American interests on every sea, and enable the American people to have, to keep and maintain an American financial, commercial, and industrial poilcy of their own, that will settle our own questions in our own way without reference to any other power, prince, or potentate on earth. A democratic party which, with the advent of the new century, will make the American name a synonym of integrity, intelligence, and justice; so that when a new China is to be dismembered an American ambassador shall sit at the council board of nations, not for booty or an extension of our imperial domain, but to protect American interests and enforce equal and exact justice among the nations of the earty.

"And now, my friends, thanking you again, not only for the honor you have conferred upon me, but for the patience with which you have heard me as well, I want to add that I am ready for the contest. With your kind cooperation, with the same generosity you have manifested here today, I can and will be elected. But whatever shall come to me personally, so long as I can feel that I have your sympathy, so long as I know I possess your good will, confidence, and esteem, and that I can return to you undimmed by weakness and unsullied by dishonor the proud banner which you entrust to my keeping, whether the result shall bring success or defeat, I will still feel that I have not made the contest in vain. And when I am elected to the exalted position for which I stand by your concerted action today, I promise you here and now that when young Hannibal went to the altar of his Gods and there swore eternal hostility to the enemies of his country, he never kept the oath more faithfully than I shall keep the one which will make me your agent, your representative in the halls of the American Congress."

Comparatively few of the volunteer regiments seem to be willing to be mustered out of service. It looks as if the army may have to be reduced by arbitrary order. After all the brave boys have not had their satisfaction yet.

The financial showing of the United States after the hundred and fourteen days war is something unique in the history of wars. The war closed with an available cash balance of $271,957,512 in the national treasury. Nearly $200,000,000 of this is in gold.

The Pocahontas Times,

Hear, Land o' Cakes and brither Scots,
Frae Maidenkirk to Johnny Groats,
If there's a hole in a' your coats,
I redé ye tent it;
A chiel's amang you takin' notes,
An' faith he 'll prent it. - Burns

Local Events.

Miss Emma Warwick returned from Fayette County last Monday.

The close season for catching trout commences September 1, 1898.

For mathematicians: Write eleven thousand, eleven hundred and eleven.

C. O. Arbogast lost a fine horse last week which he had just given a hundred dollars for.

Dr Ligon has recovered his horse It seems that the horse stole away instead of being stolen.

W. W. Tyree is running a poultry wagon daily, and will call on every body for spring chickens.

Napoleon Perry was moved to Frankford in a bed in a wagon. His spine was greatly injured a short time since.

Purley Noel, formerly of Dunmore and Miss Ada Williams, of Ronceverte, eloped to Ohio and were married.

Gay & Gay, photographers, will remain in Marlinton until September 5 only. They will be in Dunmore after that date.

The County Court meets in special term next Saturday to consider the best means to repair roads damaged by recent rains.

E. T. G. Wilson and Mr Bromley, of London, are visiting the former's brother, J. H. G. Wilson. Mr Wilson is a well known lawyer of London.

There will be a Sunday School celebration next Sunday, September 4. commencing at 1 P. M., at Indian Draft. Every one is invited to be present.

W. B. Johnson secured the contract for putting in the telephone poles for the Beverly and Marlinton Telephone Company, between Marlinton and Huntersville.

We learn from the Greenbrier papers that an elephant belonging to a show trampled to death an employee of the show company, who was sleeping in the elephant's tent.

An extension 356 feet long is being built to the Homestead at the Hot Springs. It will be five stories high and contain over two hundred rooms besides the bath rooms.

Smith & Whiting will construct the telephone line between Ronceverte and Marlinton. They are setting poles 24 feet long and six inches across at the top end. They put a cross bar on the poles for a second wire Old Major, J. H. G. Wilson's body guard, died last Sunday morning of a complication of diseases, superinduced by old age. He was a famous deer hound which had survived the dangers attending dog life for many years, and he was a very well known dog. His owner had had him for over six years.

A good deal of money has been spent on the Elk road the past few years, and the late heavy rains have started ruts and washes which if not promptly checked will cause much damage. It is thought that small appropriation by the Conuty Court at this time would be wise economy.

There will be a convention of the Republican voters of Huntersville District held at Frost on the 17th day of September, 1898, at 2 o'clock, for the purpose of nominating a candidate for the office of president of the Board of Education in said district. Let every voter attend. N. C. McNeil.
Chairman Republican Executive Committee.

The Pocahontas Telephone Company expects to have its line completed to Ronceverte by October 1. The contractors are busy putting in poles now. The different contractors are H. A. Yeager, from Marlinton to top of Swago mountain; Jake Simmons to Academy; Frank Harper to the top of Droop; H. N. Hanna to the top of Spring Creek Mountain; Tyree & White to Frankford; Tom Shields to Lewisburg.

Silas Mason has introduced a new plan of threshing in Greenbrier, which is well liked by the farmers. He purchased a large thresher and engine and sent out a complete crew of men. They thresh the grain, crib it, and stack the straw with out any assistance from the farmer, and charge ten bushels on the hundred. They board and lodge in tents. One day they threshed 1000 bushels of oats and 800 bushels of wheat.

William Colley has been bound over to keep the peace. His being shot has not improved his temper which was always bad. Harvey Petts made complaint of threats. and Justice Bird went down to Mill Point. Colley produced bondsmen, Old man Webster, Frank Thomson. Ed Lange and McComb and kept out of jail. Being bound over made him still worse. and. the bondsmen hearing of some additional big talk of warlike measures on the part of Colley, are now seeking to be released, William Colley in Jail.

William Colley was up before Squire Bird on a peace warrant and was bound over to keep the peace for one year in the sum of $50. He got a set of bondsmen who lasted over Sunday, but who decided to hearken unto Solomon, who says, "A man void of understanding striketh hands and becometh surety in the presence of his friends," and they delivered him to the justice and were released.

Constable Wooddell brought him up Tuesday, and the case was involved in a maze of legal difficulties, the authorities being divided in the opinion as to whether his bondsmen could be released. The sureties complained that Colley threatened to become violent. It was suggested that they get out an injunction against him. The county finally accepted him and if he gets no other bond he will cool his heels in jail for a year.

Harvey Petts, who swore out the peace warrant, has decamped. Colley fell out with the gang and was prepared to indict a dozen or so. He swore that Milam and Petts had killed a sheep for Henry McClure and Squire Curry issued a warrant for Petts and Milam; the latter is now in jail. Petts could not be found.

Colley says that there was a regularly organized band for the purpose of robbery, and is prepared to make a large and healthy lot of indictments.

From the Engineer's Camp.

Editor Times: I have been working on the engineer's corp's since the April 10. We ran from Marlinton to Caldwell, 54 miles, and are now on the way back locating the road. We are now at Bird's Mill, owned by Mr Walkup. We have had a nice trip—no sickness or accidents, with the exception of getting into yellow jackets' and hornets' nests.

I had the liveliest time of my life the other day with a big hornet's nest, and when my friends overtook me there were three still sitting on my back stinging.

Noticing an article in your paper concerning the capture of a big bass at the mouth of Knapp's Creek, by yourself, I write to say that we can top yours. Grant Johnson and myself went fishing with a 25 cent rod and 5 cent line. We had caught four or five, and I was standing some distance from Johnson, when I heard a fuss and Johnson yelled, "For the land's sake, come here, Siple!"

When I reached him the bass had gone under a rock, but by good management he was landed and brought to the tent. It weighed 4 pounds and measured 20 inches. It was the biggest I ever saw out of the water. The fishing is fine down the river.

I think we will reach Marlinton by the middle of October.

Bixbee.

John C. Warwick.

John C. Warwick died at his home at MacDonald, Fayette county, aged about thirty years. At the time of his death he was in the employ of the Turkey Knob Coal Company as its buyer and seller. He leaves surviving him his wife, who was Miss Maybelle Feamster, and a little son named George.

John Craig Warwick was born at Clover Lick, which estate his father owned at that time. A good portion of his life was passed at the farm on Stoney Creek near Marlinton. He was educated at the Fishburn school, at Waynesboro. After leaving school he was engaged for several years in business in Ronceverte, and then moved to Hinton where he had a large clothing store. Afterwards he went into the coal fields of Fayette.

He was a born gentleman, and no one ever came in reach of his strong personality but was won by his geniality and loved and admired him. His life was full of promise and he had an host of friends. His sister Miss Emma Warwick, who was more than a mother to him, was with him at his death. Within the past five years this devoted family has buried five of its members. The father, mother, sister, and two brothers.

Ben Davis.

They used to tell a tale on Ben Davis that was something like this: Before every important engagement General Lee would come galloping along and halting near the regiment would ask, "Is Private Ben Davis in the ranks?"

"He is."

"Then let the fight begin!"

Notice.

I have on my place one sow of the following description, the owner of which may recover proper by identifying and paying costs of keeping and advertising: Color, black; marked. crop off left ear, notch in right—supposed to be intended for half crop; four white feet; small spot in forehead.

John A. Warwick.

Last Notice.

Persons knowing themselves indebted to me must come and make satisfactory arrangements for payment, as after the 15th day of September, 1898, I will put all my paper in hands of my lawyer.

August 30, 1898.

James A. Larue.

DUNMORE.

Sid has gone to Elk for blackberries.

C. O. Arbogast lost a fine horse last week.

Sol Davis' family left Sunday for Baltimore.

Luther Campbell thinks the war is over—its a girl!

The machinery will be in soon for the Dunmore mill.

Big Dick has gone to Monterey to see his Betsy Jane.

Rev Boggs is doing carpenter work at Dunmore at this time.

Rev C. M Caldwell left today for Presbytery at Richlands, W. Va.

P. D. Arbogast leaves this week for Charlottesville to study medicine.

Rev R. M. Caldwell and Miss Ella Pritchard papered the church at Dunmore last week, and they did a fine job.

Another streak of prosperity struck our town, when that man brought in a dozen eggs and a half dozen live chickens.

We believe that Rev J. C. Given preached the ablest sermon last Sunday at Knapp's Creek ever preached in Pocahontas.

Fine weather and the farmers are making good use of it plowing thrashing and finishing making hay, picking blackberries, etc.

The road between Dunmore and Green Bank is in bad shape for night traveling. Highland County has her roads in the best shape we have ever seen them.

Mr Rush is rushing the mail between Huntersville and Dunmore. We will be glad when the mail will go from Marlinton through in one day. The man that carries the mail on that route for less than $1,500 a year will come out at the little end of the horn.

All persons interested in the path across the mountain from Dunmore to Randolph Galford's, will meet Saturday, September 17, at Randolph Galford's with axes, saws, canthooks, and mattocks and clean out the path. It is about impassable since the flood.

The sing at Wanless was largely attended on Sunday last. Good singing and the people well cared for, The people are thinking strongly of building a church at Wanless. There will be an all-day sing at Oak Grove church on Sunday, September 4, 1898. All lovers of music are invited to come bring your books and stay all day. There will be two addresses made during the day on song. The leaders will be Professors Ruckman, Arbogast, Slavin, Cooper, Oliver, Swecker, Moore, Busard and others. Nimrod Shifter.

Notice.

Some times house building is a necessity. It takes money to build house; so all parties indebted to me will please come in settle. Pay part if not all and we will start new accounts. Yours truly,

F. T. McClintic, M. D.
Academy, W. Va.,

Not the Wieest Plan.

It is not always best to wait until it is needed before buying a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera, and Diarrhoea Remedy. Quite frequently the remedy is required in the very busiest season or in the night and much inconvenience and suffering must be borne before it can be obtained. It costs but a trifle as compared to its real worth and every family can well afford to keep it in their hhme. It is everywhere acknowied to be the most successful remedy in the world for bowel complaints. For sale by A. Barlow, Huntersxille; Barlow and Moore, Edray.

Trustee's Sale.

By virtue of a deed of trust made by E. I. Holt and Lucie Holt his wife on the 3d day of February, 1893, to M. J. McNeel Trustee, and recorded in the clerk's office of the County Court of Pocahontas county, in Deed Book No. 23, at page 479, to secure S. H. Clark, A. M. Edgar, and William L. McNeel in the payment of two Negotiable Notes of $2500.00 each, dated on the 3d day of February, 1893, and payable four months after date at the Bank of Lewisburg, and default having been made in the payment of said notes, and the said S. H. Clark, A. M. Edgar, and William L. McNeel having paid said notes, and having requested me to advertise and sell the property conveyed to me as trustee, I will, as such trustee, on Saturday, September 17, 1898,

on the premises (as hereinafter described) sell at public auction to the highest bidder one certain lot of land containing about One Acre situated in Pocahontas County, W. Virginia, in the town of Hillsboro, on Main and Nicholas Streets, the same lot on which E. I. Holt now resides, and purchased by him from Lizzie Lightner. There is upon said lot a fine dwelling house, store house, and all necessary outbuildings.

Terms of Sale.

One-third of the purchase money cash in hand, the residue upon a credit of one and two years respectively, the purchaser giving bond bearing interest from date with approved personal security for the deferred payments, the title to be retained as ultimate security.

M. J. McNEEL, Trustee.

BUCKEYE.

Henry McNeel was in town last week.

T. C. Wooddell, of Greenbrier, is visiting here.

Miss Laura Overholt, of Frankford, is visiting here.

W. McClintic was in Webster last week on business.

Harry Tomson went to Greenbrier on business last week.

D. T. McNeil is a candidate for the legislature and for matrimony.

Miss Minnie Wade, of Academy, is spending the summer in this part.

Lost, strayed or stolen: A young man with a black mustache. When last seen he was at Mr Beverage's.

A. M. McLaughlin, of Greenbrier, and Boud Hannah, of Frost, passed through town last week.

George Overholt passed through here with his gramophone and magic lantern, and had two good shows.

Henry McClintic, of Texas, and George T. McClintic, of Covington, were visiting Mrs Mary McClintic last week.

Colbert Duncan is the champion fisher. Last Saturday he caught 13 bass that weighed 13 pounds. The largest weighed 3 pounds.

We are glad to see the telephone being built. John Wesley.

EDRAY.

Clyde W. Moore spent Saturday and Sunday at Mill Point.

Most of the farmers are done thrashing around here.

Rev W. A. Sharp is attending District Conference in Pendleton county.

Mrs Dr Price has been sick for the past week. Also Miss Emma Jordan is quite ill.

Miss Susie Simmons is visiting in this part. She expects to return to Lewisburg soon.

A number of our young men attended the Odd Fellows meeting at Marlinton las, Saturday night.

Childrens' Day at the Indian Draft next Sunday in the afternoon. All are invited to come.

Mountain Daisy.

indigestion
dyspepsia biliousness

and the hundred and one similar ills caused by impure blood or inactive liver, quickly yield to the purifying and cleansing properties contained in

Johnston's Sarsaparilla

QUART BOTTLE.

It cures permanently by acting naturally on all organs of the body. As a blood-cleanser, flesh-builder, and health-restorer, it has no equal. Put us in Quart Bottles, and sold at $1 each.

WILLIAMS, DAVIS, BROOKS & CO.
Detroit, Mich.

Take Liverettes for Liver Ills. 25c.

For sale by—Uriah Bird Marlinton; Amos Barlow, Huntersville.

Don't Tobacco Spit and Smoke Your Life Away.

To quit tobacco easily and forever, be magnetic, full of life, nerve and vigor, take No-To-Bac, the wonder-worker, that makes weak men strong. All druggists, 50c or $1. Cure guaranteed. Booklet and sample free. Address Sterling Remedy Co., Chicago or New York.

Commissioner's Sale.

Pursuant to a decree of the Circuit Court of Pocahontas county, West Virginia, rendered at the October Term, 1896, in the chancery cause of Amos Barlow vs. H. P. McLaughlin and others, the undersigned Special Commissioner will on

Tuesday, October 4 1898,

at the front noor of the courthouse of Pocahontas county, proceed to sell at public auction to the highest bidder, the following described tracts or parcels of land, to wit:

A tract of fifty acres af land situated on Brown's Creek in Pocahontas county, West Virginia, purchased by the defendant H. P. McGlaughlin of W. P. Hogsett, by deed dated January 18, 1884.

A tract of—acres of land conveyed to the said H. P. McGlaughlin by John Osborne, Special Commissioner, by deed dated October 23, 1883, sold in the chancery suit of William Kelley's Administrator vs William Kelley's Heirs, situated on Brown's Creek, in Pocahontas County, West Virginia.

Said tracts comprise valuable farming and timber lands; and are now occupied by said H. P. McGlaughlin.

Terms of Sale: So much cash in hand as will pay the costs of suit and expenses of sale, and for the residue the purchaser shall execute bonds with good and sufficient security, falling due in six and twelve months from day of sale and a lien shall be reserved as ultimate security.

H. S. RUCKER,
Special Commissioner.

I, J. H. Patterson, clerk of the circuit court of Pocahontas county, do certify that the above named special commissioner has given bond as required by said decree.

J. H. PATTERSON, Clerk.

No-To-Bac for Fifty Cents.
Guaranteed tobacco habit cure, makes weak men strong, blood pure. 50c, $1. All druggists.

Cash is King!

With that potent force in hand we get Bargains that Credit never sees. We aim to handle the best class of goods. Good value with us means more than a mere

LOW PRICE

It goes on to embrace quality. We do not handle

AUCTION GOODS.

Come and see us and judge for yourself of the business we do. We are constantly receiving new goods, and we guarantee the smallest of our patrons the same courteous attention given the largest.

Yours for Low Prices and Good Goods,

L. D. Sharp,
LINWOOD, W. VA.

The Levels News.

Edited by Payne Bros.

Vol. 1 Academy, W. Va., Sept. 2, 1898. No. 33

Market Report, Sept. 2, 1898.
—Eggs 10c per dozen.
—Butter 12½ per pound.
—Lard 7c per lb.
—Flour $2.50 per cwt.
—Oats 30c per bushel.
—Tallow 6c pound.
—Corn 50 to 75c per bushel.
—Wheat 80c per bushel.
—Ginseng dry $3 per lb.
Hams 12½, Sides 10c, Shoulders, 10c per lb.
—At Payne Bros.

—Floor oil cloth at Payne Bros.

—Cvrtain poles, doors and sash at Payne Bros.

—Send your orders to Payne Bros for Simothy seed.

—Mr Adam Post was here one day last week looking after cattle.

—Quite a number of teams started to the railroad for fertilizer this week.

—Patent 3 and 6 gallon oil cans to fill your lamps without spilling any oil, at Payne Bros.

—Miss Otie Cackley and brother came up from Ronceverte Tuesday and stopped with R. W. Hill.

—Mrs S. J. Payne is very much better, and it is hoped will be able to be out again soon.

—Allen Livesay, Esq., and wife from Marlinton, passed through town Monday on their way to Greenbrier county on a visit.

—Mason Jars and Stoneware at Payne Bros.

—Fresh lemons, and oranges, at Payne Bros.

—Buy Mason's Fruit Jars from Payne Bros.

—Linseed oil and paints very low at Payne Bros.

—High Arm Singer Sewing Machines at Payne Bros.

—Bou can buy brick for flue, etc. at Payne Bros.

—Saddles, Harness, Bridles, and Hames very low at Payne Bros.

—You can buy a seven-drawer Sewing Machine at Payne Bros at $18.00. Guaranteed ten years.

—Mr J. W. Hultz and Miss Amanda Bishop were married at the Methodist church Wednesday evening by Rev J. H. Dills. We extend congratulations.

Best grades of Roller Flour at
....
G. L. HANNAH'S,
Yelk, W. Va.
BARLOW & MOORE'S,
Edray, W. Va.
J. H. CURRY'S,
Green Bank, W. Va.
R. L. NOTTINGHAM'S,
Dunmore, W. Va.
J. H. DOYLE,
Huntersville, W. Va.

Poultry Poultry Poultry

Do n't be so merciful as to hold your spring chickens for contracts and take 6 cents per pound for them dressed, when you can get 8 cents for them on foot at

W. W. Tyree's
MARLINTON, W. VA.

LEADER IN LOW PRICES.

By the way, if you want to know what good spring chickens will bring you call on Thos. Auldridge, a good reliable citizen of Edray, W. Va., and he will tell you that he sold W W. Tyree one dozen that brought $3.53 on foot.

A STORY.

ABOUT THE NIMBLE SIX-PENCE.

It is Like a Ball of Snow, the Faster You Roll It the More Rapidly It Will Accumulate.

We recognize the fact that to succeed we must undersell.

We recognize that in order to keep our stock complete we must get the pay for our goods promptly.

We also recognize the fact that when we sell our goods on such close prices as to bring them below competition we must collect frequently in order to keep the ball rolling.

We appreciate highly the patronage and kind words of encouragement from our friends and patrons, and request you to encourage us further by coming in and paying up your accounts with cash, so we can replace the goods which you have bought without involving ourselves in dept these scary wartimes.

We hope to be of service to our patrons and can save you money, but do not overlook the main essential point: We need our money often. We are anxious to reduce stock in many lines as much as possible from now till September 1st and will sell at greatly reduced prices.

We have just received a new book of receipts which we would like to up inside of the next thirty days

Call and see us when in town.

Respectfully,
J. D. PULLIN & CO.

Sampson Heard From!

WAR WILL SOON BE OVER,

And You can Invest in Buggies Spring-Wagons, and Carriages.

We have just gotton in a car load of fine Buggies and Carriages which we are selling very low. Call and see us.

We can save you money and give you better work.

VEHICLES MADE TO ORDER.

We also make a specialty of repairing and painting vehicles of all kinds.

When in Town call and see our work.

Yours truly,

Hudgins & Shackelford.
Ronceverte, W. Va.

Plow Repairs

We have at last succeeded in making arrangements to supply points for the RONCEVERTE PLOW. Full stock now on hand. Send in our orders early. . . .

We are Factory Agents
for IMPERIAL and
SILVER STEEL
Plows.

(The Best Hillside Plow on the Market.)

Simms & Co.,
Opp. Passenger Depot, RONCEVERTE, W. Va.

The Pocahontas Times.

Andrew & Norman Price, Owners. "Montani Semper Liberi!" Andrew Price, Editor

VOL. 16, NO. 7. MARLINTON, WEST VIRGINIA, SEPTEMBER 9, 1898. $1.00 PER YEAR

From FACTORY to CONSUMER.

$1.39 buys this (exact) Rattan Rocker, the largest size ever made; per dozen, $14.50. Our new 112-page catalogue containing Furniture, Draperies, Crockery, Baby Carriages, Refrigerators, Stoves, Lamps, Pictures, Mirrors, Bedding, etc., is yours for the asking. Special supplement just issued are also free. Write to-day. CARPET CATALOGUE in lithographed colors is also mailed free. Write for it. If you wish samples, send 8c. stamp. Matting samples also mailed for 8c. All Carpets sewed free this month and freight paid on $5 purchases and over.

$7.45 buys a made-to-your-measure All-Wool Cheviot Suit, expressage prepaid to your station. Write for free catalogue and samples. Address (exactly as below),

JULIUS HINES & SON,
Dept. 909. BALTIMORE, MD.

LAW CARDS.

N. O. McNEIL,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

Will practice in the Courts of Pocahontas and adjoining counties and in the Court of Appeals of the State of West Virginia.

L. M. McCLINTIC,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

Will practice in the Courts of Pocahontas and adjoining counties and in the Supreme Court of Appeals.

H. S. RUCKER,
ATTY. AT LAW & NOTARY PUBLIC
HUNTERSVILLE, W. VA.

Will practice in the courts of Pocahontas county and in the Supreme Court of Appeals.

J. W. ARBUCKLE,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
LEWISBURG, W. VA.

Will practice in the courts of Greenbrier and Pocahontas counties. Prompt attention given to claims for collection in Pocahontas county.

W. A. BRATTON,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

Prompt and careful attention given to all legal business.

ANDREW PRICE,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

Will be found at Times Office.

SAM. B. SCOTT, JR.
LAWYER,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

All legal business will receive prompt attention.

H. M. LOCKRIDGE,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
HUNTERSVILLE, W. VA.

Prompt and careful attention given all legal work.

JOHN A. PRESTON FRED. WALLACE
PRESTON & WALLACE,
Attorneys at Law,
LEWISBURG, W. VA.

Will practice in the Courts of Greenbrier and adjoining counties, and in the Court of Appeals of the State of West Virginia.

J. W. YEAGER,
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

Prompt attention given to collections

T. S. McNEEL,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,

Will practice in the Courts of Pocahontas and adjoining counties.

PHYSICIANS' CARDS.

DR. O. J. CAMPBELL,
DENTIST,
MONTEREY, VA.

Will visit Pocahontas County at least twice a year. The exact date of his visit will appear in this paper.

DR. J. H. WEYMOUTH,
RESIDENT DENTIST,
ELKINS, W. VA.

Will visit Pocahontas County every spring and fall. The exact date of each visit will appear in The Times.

J. M. CUNNINGHAM, M. D.,
PHYSICIAN & SURGEON,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

Office next door to C. A. Yeager's Hotel. Residence opposite Hotel. All calls promptly answered.

County Sketches.

III.

THE JUSTICE OF THE PEACE.

In the year of our Lord nineteen hundred and one a large and important deliberative body men assembled in the city of Charleston. The occasion was one of international importance and the press of all nations discussed the possible effect of the congress. It was the first annual Conference of the Justices of West Virginia, and the thrones of Europe creaked through the uneasy movements of their occupants, who were anxiously waiting the result.

This new force was brought into play by the suggestion that the justices meet for concerted action, and over five hundred magistrates from the different counties gathered in Charleston. The trains were crowded with them and the hotel people were paralyzed. Never had the city seen such dignity and protentous gravity, and the justices had the liberty of the town. When not in session they gathered in groups to discuss knotty legal questions: Under what circumstances, if any, could corn in the shock be considered legal tender? Could the statute of limitation be pleaded to defeat the operation of an offset? Should the defendant be bound over to keep the peace unless the plaintiff was also so bound? And the argument would grow warm, until an aristocratic city justice from Parkersburg or Wheeling, who, it was whispered, collected a thousand dollars in fees a year, would decide the matter in controversy and all would be silenced if not convinced.

The peace congress was called together in the opera house and an organization effected. Squire Asbury Turner, from the southern part of the State, was called to the chair, and he made an appropriate address in accepting that distinguishing honor. In all the thirty-years, the speaker said, that he had served his country as a justice of the peace had he ever known so distinguishing an honor. He thanked the honorable body that had so exalted him. He considered the office of justice of the peace as the bulwark of the nation. That as old and honorable as the office was, preserved by the common law and the common sense of the Anglo-Saxon nation, he considered that the justice had never reached that stage of ripeness and perfection that he existed in West Virginia to day. That outside of his district and county, he would admit, (as no doubt they all would admit,) that they had committed errors of judgment, but he would ask the assembly if it were not true that it was human to err, and that where in all the courts of justice would they would find so few mistakes or ulterior motives. (Cheers.)

He would in this presence where he could not be misconstrued denounce the Circuit Judge, the natural enemy of the justice. The proudest moment of his life was when he had been reversed by a pampered circuit judge, and the case was carried to the Supreme Court, there to be reversed and the judgment of the justice to be affirmed and restored. The higher courts recognized that the justice was near the soil; that he entered into the hearts of the people. The speaker would beg leave to pronounce a eulogy on that compendium of law pertaining to justices, embraced in chapter 50 of the Code of West Virginia. He would say without fear of successful contradiction that Chapter Fifty was the most perfect and complete compendium of law to be found on the face of the globe, and that to deprive the common people of its reliefs and remedies would be to strike a deadlier blow at their liberty than to wipe of existence every other page of the Code(Cheers). That like the Holy Writ, he never read Chapter Fifty without finding something new and some thought or provision he had never noticed before, and if he should continue in office a hundred years he never could hope to fathom all the mysteries of said chapter.

Then divesting himself of his linen duster and dropping his portmanteau, formed of one side of a pair of leather saddle bags, against the leg of the table, Squire Asbury Turner took the chair on the 6th day of August, 1901, amid loud and continuous cheering.

Messages from the powers were read. Wm. J. Bryan, then in the the White House, wrote to say that he would have liked to have addressed the body if his duties and his friends still permitted him to speak.

His Royal Highness, King Albert of England, sent word that he thought it was a good thing and hoped they would push it along.

Emperor William, of Germany, wrote that he wished them much joy in their work, that he was in sympathy with them, though their ways were the ways of peace, while he had a habit of settling things with the sword.

The Czar of all the Russias gave his brothers greeting, and said he was something of a conservator of the peace himself.

The meeting being open for business a tall, slender, dark bearded man, of a dyspeptic look, arose from the back part of the hall and stated a grievance.

"How could smoking be prevented in the office while court was in session?" he asked. Some of the members seemed pleased to hear this question raised, but others, with long cane stems sticking out of their pockets looked black when the matter was mentioned.

The speaker said he had given this subject much thought. He did not use the pesky stuff himself and some times when his court was in session the attorneys, witnesses and spectators would fill their pipes and puff until the smoke was thick enough to be cut with a knife, and it made him quite sick. He would go home and could not eat any dinner. He had tried punishing the smokers for contempt by fining a man one dollar, but he had had a fine cow pizened a few days after, which he thought was to be attributed to the summary proceedings. He had he had heard of justices themselves smoking on the bench, but he hoped none such were present, and he would like to hear some suggestions to cure this evil.

A substantial looking man, smooth-shaven, with a very obtrusive pipe stem in evidence, got up and said he hoped the good brother would excuse him, but that he thought there might possibly be something said in favor of tobacco as aid to justice. He reminded the assembly that we were mere children in the use of the weed; that the Indians had taught us the use of tobacco; that they never pretended to pass upon a question of importance without the soothing and qualifying effect of a smoke of tobacco. He believed that the day would come when all judges high and low would use tobacco on the bench. As for himself he found that it sustained him and he believed sustained his cases in the circuit conrt. He saw nothing undignified in a pipe. Of course the atmosphere of his court was such that the cigarette did not flourish there; it was distinctly out of place! As for him he hoped that he would be permitted the comfort of a pipe during the tedious hours of a trial.

On motion the question was laid on the table.

A lean, hungry-looking justice got up in the corner of the hall and said there was a matter of vital importance calling for reform He would have the law changed so that the justice could hold both parties liable for his costs. He had had great difficulty, he said, to give costs against an insolvent plaintiff. Justice might demand it, but in justice to a dependent family he could hardly do it. It was referred to the committee on costs.

The sessions of the body lasted for three days. Many resolutions relating to their mutual protection were adopted, and which the legislature as a matter of form transposed into laws:

Fees were increased on a uniform scale of 50 per cent.

No husband or parent was allowed to schedule against a justice's costs.

The jurisdiction of justices embraced all matters concerning real as well as personal property.

Appeal could be had only directly to the Supreme Court.

Justices were given power to grant divorce.

When a justice took a case as attorney for either side he was entitled to 10 per cent on the judgment rendered.

A magistrate had the power to impeach a member of the county court.

And many other innovations too numerous to mention.

The sessions ended with a general banquet, at which the justices all drank until they looked happy or solemn as the case might be. The following is a list of the toasts

"Chapter Fifty."

"Litigation the Hope of the Land."

"Fireside Law, or Nuts for the Justice."

"The Justice's Dream, or Costs."

"Its an Ill Wind that Blows Nobody Good."

HAZLEWOOD, W. VA.

Morgan Shrees is very sick.

Allie Daniels is building a dwelling house.

Uriah White, of Dry Fork, was a guest at the Hazlewood House Sunday.

C. C. Hart, proprietor of Hazlewood House, was in Valley Bend Sunday.

Miss Racer, of Belington, has been with relatives at the Lick for a few days.

Some of our people attended the Old Ironside Baptist Association at Montrose last week.

Several of the rail road employees on the Huttonsville extension are down with the fever.

Eli Moore, Chief of Police of Montrose, has been visiting his aged mother, Mrs Clarissa Wees, at Pleasant View.

Wallace Irvin, a teamster for the contractors on the railroad grade, got his foot severely mashed four days ago.

Rev Eagle preached has preached his farewell sermon at all his appointments. We are sorry to lose such a good from among us.

Leslie Harding and Charles Lewis, privates in Company E, 1st West Virginia, are at home on a furlough, dangerously ill of malarial fever. Sergent Harry O'Brian was detailed to bring them home. He has gone back to join the command, which is still at Chicamauga.

Mrs R. M. Boyers, of Vanderbilt, Pennsylvania is spending a while with her sister-in-law, Mrs L. B. McLaughlin, of Spruce. Mr Boyers is a sergent in Company D Tenth Pennsylvania Volunteers, and is now in the Phillipines, under General Merritt. He took part in the capture of Manilla, at which place his close friend and comrade Corporal Walter Brown was shot dead in his presence.

Mixed Maxims.

Virtue is its only reward.

The wages of sin is debt.

Policy is the best honesty.

Many hands like light work.

Osculation is the thief of time.

Every dogma must have its day.

A bird in the hand lays no eggs.

A man is known by the trumpery he keeps.

Never put a gift cigar in your mouth.

The lack of money is the root of all evil.

Where wisdom is bliss, 'tis folly to be ignorant.

Chain up a child and away he will go.

The course of free love never did run smoothly.

All that a man hath will he give to his wife.

It's a wise child that owes his own father.

The rolling stone catches the worm.

A thirsty man will catch at a straw.

Absinthe makes the heart grow fonder.

Straws show which way the gin goes.

The woman who colaborates is lost.

It is not good for a man to give a loan.

"Heaven lies about us in our infancy," and this world lies about us when we are grown up.

—Exchange.

EXAMINATION FOR TEACHERS,

Held at Marlinton, W. Virginia, August 15, 16, 17, 1898.

General History.

1 What were some of the causes that led to the decline of the Roman Empire?

2 Compare the rank of Spain in wealth and power among the nations of Europe at the time of Columbus, with its condition at the present time.

3 Name five of the fifteen decisive battles of the world and give a short account of one of them.

4 Where and between whom were the Punic Wars? How many? Name the leading generals; what was the result?

5 Name a noted philosopher of Greece, a Grecian historian, a Roman orator, and an English poet.

United States History.

1 When and where was the first permanent settlement made in the United State: By the English; by the Spaniards; by the Dutch?

2 Describe the three forms of colonial government in the New World.

3 Concerning James Monroe, the important fact connected with his second election, the leading political contest of his administration; the title given to his views concerning the acquirement of power on this continent.

5 Arrange the names of the following colonies in the order of their settlement: Massachusetts, Pennsylvania, Virginia, Connecticut, Georgia.

5 In the following States there was a contest over the admission of the State with or without slavery: Kansas, Missouri, California. In each case tell whether the State was admitted with or without slavery.

6 Designate each of the following as inventor, historian, or poet: William H. Prescott, Elias Howe, Eli Whitney.

7 Who was President when the first State seceded in 1860? What view did he take of the powers of government toward the seceding States?

8 Why is public attention turned to the Sandwich Islands at present?

9 How did the United States acquire its present rerritory, or area? In whose administrations was it acquired?

10 What Presidents have been elected because they had become famous in war?

West Virginia History.

1 Give the history of the admission of West Virginia into the Union.

What Governor held office more than four years? Who was the first Governor under the Constitution, and who is the present Governor?

3 State one fact concerning each of the following: William R. White, Allen T. Caperton, John E. Kenna, Alexander Martin.

4 What two counties of what is now West Virginia existed at the beginning of the Revolution?

5 Name the present West Virginia Congressmen.

Geography.

1. What waters are connected by the Strait of Gibralter, the Behring Strait; Strait of Dover?

2 What is the season now at Montevideo? Explain your answer.

3 On what waters would a ship sail going directly from the mouth of the Euphrates to the mouth of the Rhone?

4 In what direction is one traveling when he does not change his latitude; when he does not change his longitude?

5 Compare Spain with the United States in regard to area, population, production, sea-coast, manufactures, natural resources, and exports.

Locate the following and tell what has recently happened to call our attention to each: Hampton Roads, Cape Verde Islands, Madrid, Manila, Santiago.

7 Draw a neat globe, placing thereon the zones with width of each; names the circles that separate the zones.

8 State the cause of the incessant motion which takes place in the atmosphere.

9 Give approximate latitude and longitude of West Virginia. Give number of counties in State; area of State; extreme length and breadth.

10 Name the leading exports from West Virginia; imports.

Arithmetic.

1 Sold a horse for $132, at a loss of 12 per cent. What per cent would I have gained had I sold him for $159? Ans. 6 p. c.

2 A circular flower-bed 15 feet in diameter, is surrounded by a walk 5 feet wide; how many square feet of surface does the walk contain? Ans. 314.16 sq. ft.

3 A and B start from one corner of a farm a mile square. A goes along the sides and B goes straight across to the opposite corner, where they meet; how much farther did A travel than B?

4 A, B, and C together have $1200, of which A has twice and B three times as much as C. What is the interest of each for 5 years at 6 per cent?

5 Calcutta is 88 degrees, 23 minutes, 30 seconds east, and Chicago is 87 degrees, 37 minutes, 30 seconds west. What is the difference of time, and when it is 6 a. m at Calcutta what is the time at Chicago?

6 A can do a piece of work in 12, B in 15, and C in 20 days. In what time can they do it working together?

7 What is the difference between true and bank discount of $360, due 6 months hence at 6 per cent?

8 A merchant instructs his agent in Chicago to buy pork to the amount of $3500. How much must he remit to settle the bill, the charges being $15 and the agent's commission being 1½ per cent? Ans. $3567.50

9 A sold 20 per cent of his land to B, and 25 per cent of the remainder to C, and then had 120 acres. How much had he at first? Ans. 200 acres.

Orthography.

1 Indicate by diacritical marking a key word the various sounds of a.

2 Define elementary sound. How many in all? How are they produced?

3 When is the "final e" dropped? Give three words to illustrate.

4 Define subvocals and aspirates.

5 Classify the elementary sounds according to the organs of speech used in making them.

6 The following words were pronounced by one of the examiners (50):

Quotient, recourse, sanguine, sarsaparilla, stupendous, souvenir, suffice, tabernacle, teutonic, tympanum, suture, unison, virulent, complex, corridor, daunt, delusion, corpuscle, burlesque, chasten, adverse absolve, annihilate, applied, profitable, leisure, capacity, adjourned, humanity, discipline, suspension, decreased, physical, Alaska, bureau climbed, glossy, brilliant, profusion, elegance, expressly, shrewd, radiance, condensed, recited gracious, spacious, Manila, Santiago, continued.

Reading.

What use should be made of the dictionary in connection with reading?

Give the uses of the comma and period.

Name three American authors. Name a production by each one.

Name an American historian; an English historian.

Name in order of importance five objects to be sought in teaching reading.

Physiology.

1 Where is arterial blood changed to venous blood?

2 What name is applied to the nerves of smell; the nerves of hearing; the nerve of sight?

3 What is the effect of respiration upon the blood; the air breathed?

4 By what means are muscles attached to bones? By what means are the bones of movable joints held together?

5 What is the cause and what is the remedy for near-sightedness; for far-sightedness?

6 Of what is bone composed? How does the composition vary with age?

7 Name the organs of circulation. Of what is the blood composed? What is meant by coagulation? What purpose does it serve?

8 Name the organs of speech.

9 Describe the material in the composition of teeth. Name and describe the different kind of teeth in an adult.

Civil Government.

1 A government administered by representatives of the people is called what? When the people themselves directly make the laws what is the government called? When the government is entirely in the hands of a single ruler what name is given the form of government?

2 State upon what the representation in each house is based, and the term of office of the members of each house.

3 To what office under the United States are none but native-born citizens eligible?

4 Compare respectively the United States Senate and the W. Virginia State Senate, as to number in each; term of office.

5 How does the United States Constitution provide for the appointment of foreign ministers?

6 State under what cabinet officer the management of each of the following is placed: Pensions; national banks; post-offices and post-roads; war vessels.

7 According to the Constitution, what determines the number of presidential electors to which each State is entitled.

8 How many representatives in Congress has each Territory; what privilege is accorded Territorial delegates; what privilege is denied them?

9 Can a State derive revenue from goods imported or exported?

English Grammar.

1 Compare three adjectives each in a different way.

2 Give an example of a sentence whose subject is: a clause, an infinitive, a participle.

3 State the difference between a proposition and a preposition, and give illustration.

4 Tell how the progressive and passive forms of the verb differ and give illustration showing the difference.

5 Write the following words in a column, and after each write its plural possessive: Mouse, ox, father-in-law, man-servant, teacher.

Diagram or analyze the following sentence: "The accusing angel flew up to heaven's chancery with the oath and blushed as he gave it in. And the recording angel, as he wrote it down, dropped a tear on the the word and blotted it out forever."

Parse the underscored words in the following sentence:

The hills are dearest which our childish feet
Have climed the earliet; and the streams most sweet
Are those at which our young lips drank
Stoop'd to to their waters o'er the grassy bank.

Theory and Art of Teaching.

1 What qualifications do you deem the most necessary for a good teacher.

1 What is the most effective means of moral training in the school?

3 Mention two considerations that should guide the teacher as to rules; as to seating of pupils.

4 Mention two or more injurious effects of home criticism of the teacher.

5 Have you taught, and, if so, how many terms? What is your age?

The above questions have been worked out with great care, and we think that they are a fair test of a teacher's scholarship in the branches taught in the schools. Those who wish to prepare for an examination will find them a very helpful means of determining in what branches they need brushing up. Occasional reviews by means of such questions as are given here will give the teacher a better knowledge of the branches taught, and he will have no difficulty in learning if he is ready for the examination. A teacher should never enter upon his work unprepared. Scholarship is required of every teacher, and scholarly culture is valuable because it tends to prevent mental poverty. He who expects to be a successful teacher must himself be a student.

Notice.

I have on my place one sow of the following description, the owner of which may recover proper by identifying and paying costs of keeping and advertising: Color, black; marked, crop off left ear, notch in right—supposed to be intended for half crop; four white feet; small spot in forehead.

JOHN A. WARWICK.

Last Notice.

Persons knowing themselves indebted to me must come and make satisfactory arrangements for payment, as after the 15th day of September, 1898, I will put all my paper in hands of my lawyer.

August 30, 1898.

JAMES A. LARUE.

The pain of a burn or scald is almost instantly relieved by applying Chamberlain's Pain Balm. It also heals the injured parts more quickly than any other treatment, and without the burn is very severe does not leave a scar.

The Pocahontas Times.

Andrew & Norman Price, Owners. "Montani Semper Liberi!" Andrew Price, Editor

VOL. 16, NO. 8 MARLINTON, WEST VIRGINIA, SEPTEMBER 15, 1898. $1.00 PER YEAR

From FACTORY to CONSUMER.

$1.39

buys this (exact) Rattan Rocker, the largest size ever made; per dozen, $14.50. Our new 112-page catalogue containing Furniture, Draperies, Crockery, Baby Carriages, Refrigerators, Stoves, Lamps, Pictures, Mirrors, Bedding, etc., is yours for the asking. Special supplements just issued are also free. Write to-day. CARPET CATALOGUE in lithographed colors is also mailed free. Write for it. If you wish samples, send 8c. stamp. Matting samples also mailed for 8c. All Carpets sewed free this month and freight paid on $9 purchases and over.

$7.45

buys a made-to-your-measure All-Wool Cheviot Suit, expressage prepaid to your station. Write for free catalogue and samples. Address (exactly as below),

JULIUS HINES & SON,
Dept. 909. BALTIMORE, MD.

LAW CARDS.

N. C. McNEIL,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

Will practice in the Courts of Pocahontas and adjoining counties and in the Court of Appeals of the State of West Virginia.

L. M. McCLINTIC,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

Will practice in the Courts of Pocahontas and adjoining counties and in the Supreme Court of Appeals.

H. S. RUCKER,
ATTY. AT LAW & NOTARY PUBLIC
HUNTERSVILLE, W. VA.

Will practice in the courts of Pocahontas county and in the Supreme Court of Appeals.

J. W. ARBUCKLE,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
LEWISBURG, W. VA.

Will practice in the courts of Greenbrier and Pocahontas counties. Prompt attention given to claims for collection in Pocahontas county.

W. A. BRATTON,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

Prompt and careful attention given to all legal business.

ANDREW PRICE,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

Will be found at Times Office.

SAM. B. SCOTT, JR.
LAWYER,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

All legal business will receive prompt attention.

H. M. LOCKRIDGE,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
HUNTERSVILLE, W. VA.

Prompt and careful attention given all legal work.

JOHN A. PRESTON FRED. WALLACE
PRESTON & WALLACE,
Attorneys at Law,
LEWISBURG, W. VA.

Will practice in the Courts of Greenbrier and adjoining counties, and in the Court of Appeals of the State of West Virginia.

J. W. YEAGER,
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

Prompt attention given to collections

T. S. McNEEL,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,

Will practice in the Courts of Pocahontas and adjoining counties.

PHYSICIANS' CARDS.

DR. O. J. CAMPBELL,
DENTIST,
MONTEREY, VA.

Will visit Pocahontas County at least twice a year. The exact date of his visit will appear in this paper.

DR. J. H. WEYMOUTH,
RESIDENT DENTIST,
ELKINS, W. VA.

Will visit Pocahontas County every spring and fall. The exact date of each visit will appear in The Times.

J. M. CUNNINGHAM, M. D.,
PHYSICIAN & SURGEON,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

Office next door to C. A. Yeager's Hotel. Residence opposite Hotel. All calls promptly answered.

Pat Magee.

Walkin' wid Pat Magee.
Down by the Tullagh bog,
"Mind where ye're settin' yere stheps," says he,
"Lest yez put yer foot on a frog.
Frogs is the divil," says he
"I 'm thinkin' ", he says, says he,
"Av I carried yez over to yondher wall
The sorry a frog we 'd see."

Sittin' wid Pat Magee
A-top of a loose built wall,
"It's unaisy I am in my mind," says he
"Dhreadin' the stones might fall.
Stones is the divil to slip,
I 'm thinkin'," he says, says he,
"Av I gave yer waist a bit of a clip
The sorry a fear there 'd be."

Talkin' wid Pat Magee,
Wid the arm av him round me waist,
An' the red sun sinkin', "Agrah," says
he,
"Will yez let me spake to the praste?
Delays is the divil's delight.
An' I 'm thinkin'," he says, says he.
"Av the two of us settle this matther to-night.
'Tis married next week we 'd be."

—Lena Gyles, in Temple Bar.

County Sketches.

IV.

THE SCHOOL TRUSTEE.

Miss Isabel Evans had applied for the Hickory Hollow School and had done everything she could do to get it. before she was elected teacher. Whereas the Hickory Hollow School should have had to get down on bended knees to secure her, for teaching that school was a thankless task. while Miss Isabel was a fine girl, fresh and wholesome and good to have near.

She had been born and bred in the city, and for reasons not necessary to be detailed here she was forced to earn her own living, and she naturally took to teaching school. By special acts of Providence do such delightful girls go into the school-room to educate and refine by their presence the youth of the land.

Under the West Virginia laws, the supervision and local government of a school is solely in the hands of three trustees who are appointed for a term, and who aim to exercise as much tyrany as they can squeeze out of the office, if they take any interest in it whatever. Unfortunately the West Virginia trustee, when he takes any steps in office at all, is apt to be like the author of all mischief, active only in evil. Too many good men remain dormant while their more contentious colleagues are making trouble for some unfortunate teacher.

Hickory Hollow had its full quota of three trustees. Ike Adams was the contentious member who always acted from conscientious motives, and he considered it his duty as an official to make the teacher's life miserable. The way he harried the school teacher showed him to be very ingenious in inventing tortures. He represented the worst type of petty tyrant who made use of every atom of his power. He was the owner of a small farm, and at the time of which we write he was struggling with a debt which encumbered his land, and which he was slowly but surely reducing.

The second trustee, Martin J. Frame, was a hard headed old farmer who was naturally a mean man and who if necessary could nerve himself to a desperate deed. Adams was just a gad fly, but Frame was a copperhead. But he flew at higher quarry than a school teacher, and excepting the fact that he turned a cold eye of disapproval on all that the school teacher did, he was not a bad man to have as trustee. He was one of those cranky trustees who are always protesting against a woman teacher. He always made the point that he wanted a man teacher.

The remaining trustee was John Harmon, a good looking young bachelor about thirty years old. He owed his appointment to the fact, probably, that he was the richest and most influential man of the neighborhood. He refrained from taking any active part in the school matters, reminding others of the fact that he had no children to send to school. He paid about seventy dollars tax each year to the schools, and he had a deep-seated prejudice against the whole system, and held his office as trustee only for the reason that it was less trouble to serve than it was to resign.

Pretty Miss Isabel had no business teaching school. She was best suited for some good man to worship as his wife, but she was twenty-one and he had not come along yet, and she thought she could make herself useful teaching school. It was late in the year to apply for a school, but her boy cousin took her to see the trustees of the Hickory Hollow School.

Ike Adams was first interviewed and though he did not reply favorably to her application was inwardly very much pleased, for his mortal enemy, an old field schoolteacher named Anthony Carter, had applied for the school, and it looked like his would be the only application and they would have to accept him. The Hickory Hollow neighborhood was such a great gossipping centre that schoolteachers were a little shy of it. and such a thing as the school hunting the teacher had never been heard of in the county of which we write.

When they interviewed Martin Frame on the subject he took particular pleasure in disappointing them. "See here," he said, "I 've got two strips of boys meaner 'n gar broth. and a little wisp of a woman like you can't manage 'em. I teks a man to flail some sense inter them. I 'll have to vote fer Carter."

Here was one neutral and one antagonistic, with one more trustee to see. They drove to the big farm John Harmon owned and where he lived. They found him in the barn-yard among his cattle, and he came to meet the strangers with the air of a man in his own domain. When he heard their business he looked at the young lady and seemed somewhat doubtful.

"Are you sure you want to teach these heathen over here. I do n't believe you know what you are asking for. I 'd sooner drive balky mules."

"I can't choose, sir. I 've got a certificate and all the other schools are taken. I will do my best," she added bravely.

"Well, I 'll help you all I can, and if you get the school you must n't blame me if you have a time with it. One thing sure, I won't let them worry you. Tom, (to the boy), you drive over to Alex Winston's—my brother-in-law, Miss,—and I 'll ride down and corral the other trustee and make them put you out of your misery. You are sure you want the school are you? Well, do n't be too hard on me if I vote for you."

Miss Isabel and her boy cousin drove to the adjoining farm, and tho the visit was a little informal, they were welcomed by Mrs Winston. The boy went fishing down a little trout stream as soon as possible, and the two women found they would suit each other and spent a pleasant day. Late in the afternoon John had ridden in on his big sorrel horse to tell Isabel she had been elected teacher. He was not surprised to hear his sister say to him as he left: "I like her, John. Her father and mother both died last December. He was a minister in our church and she has n't any money much. If she wants to board with me she shall do it." And Allie Winston took a stand in the way of a woman who owns the farms on which she lives.

In due time the school opened and Miss Isabel found teaching the Hickory Hollow school not as bad as it had been painted. A storm was brewing for her, however, of which she was unconscious. Mrs Winston and she were great friends. Her pupils loved her and she had lots of theories as to teaching to put in practice. Ike Adams had voted for her out of hate to her opponent, and this rendered him dangerous. He had an indictment of numerous counts about prepared, and after the school had gone on two months and Isabel began to feel that she was self reliant and had some work to do the storm was about to break.

During those two months of the most beautiful weather Harmon, the trustee, had at least shown some interest in the teacher, if not in the school. It was remarkable how often he would happen to come along the road just as school was out and speak to the teacher and walk with her to his sister's. He would get down from his horse looking very uncomfortable, and not the nobleman that Isabel had seen him look on his horse when he did not know she was looking at him. One day they stopped on the brow of a hill, and Harmon showed her his lands and cattle, and he seemed to be keeping something back that Isabel would have been a fool not to understand. But what she thought of Mr Harmon in those days is something which the mind of man is not to know.

It was shortly after that, Ike Adams got his mine ready. He would break up that school, and Martin Frame was a good second. One day Mrs Winston had her especial riding horse saddled and went to see her brother.

"That pesky Ike Adams," she said, "is trying to break up Isabel's school, and I want you to make him behave himself. That girl, John, is the only woman I have ever seen I wanted for a sister, and I want you to put a spider in the old fellow's dough. What do you think of Isabel, John?" But John did not say, for if he failed in what was in his mind he did not want anybody to know.

In a short time Adams came to see John. It was to notify him to attend a meeting of the trustees at the school-house Friday evening to make the new teacher walk the chalk. It was the regular three days notice. The new-fangled ways of the teacher did not suit Mr Adams. "Going to buy a flag and put it on the school-house," said the old man. "I never seen one of them dog-gone rags ceptin' when they was shootin' at me, and I 've got a bullet in my hip now that come from the neighborhood of one of 'em. Putting on the black-board when flowers git ripe, and when partridges nest, and they cut corn, wastin' time that erway! Licking my little Abe fer sassing her, and letting them dumb Parson's younguns miss every word in the spellin' lesson and not sayin' beans to 'em! Makin' my boy Tom take his gun outen the school-house, when he had a squirrel-load in it, and them dog gone boys hidin' it till it got rusty! Makin' the boys raise their caps to her like niggers! We 're goin' to meet down there next Friday and tek the school away from her."

John Harmon went away that evening and when the young school teacher, having been notified of the meeting, looked out that Friday afternoon and saw Ike Adams and Martin Frame sitting side by side on a fallen log and the third trustee nowhere in sight, her heart failed her. There they sat waiting for the school to close, like two wild animals ready to rend her. She had builded so much on the hope that John Harmon would appear as her champion. She passed a bad half-hour and then dismissed her school, and the children having reluctantly gone, she waited for her executioners. She was badly frightened as the two trustees came towards her, but her heart gave a great bound as she saw John Harmon coming through the red brush. He was walking, and it was the first time she had ever seen him away from home without his horse. The trustees gathered in the school-house, and Ike Adams said he guessed the meeting had better come to order and was working up sufficient passion to do his dirty work, when Harmon said:

"Ike, before you get down to business I just wanted to tell you I 'd traded for some papers of yours. Old man Middleton wanted the money, and counted it up and I took it up because he gave me a good shave on it. It footed up $698.90. He offered it to me for $698 even, and as I saw a chance to make ninety cents I thought I had better do it. He assigned me the benefit of the deed of trust, too. Now I want to know if you have any objections to the way this school is being conducted this term."

Old Ike gave a gasp and gulped a time or two, and said if it suited John it suited him.

"And, Mart, before we go into business. I just wanted to tell you that the County Court appointed me superintendent of the new road you are making around the end of Callahen Mountain, and I thought I 'd go over in the morning and trustee it for you. Now how do you like Miss Isabel as a teacher?"

Martin had plenty of grim humor and was quick to take a hint. He turned to the young lady and said: "Miss Isabel, I thought I 'd come in and tell you that I have been converted and I think women teachers air the very thing. You 've taught in this here house, and my boys have enough manners ter clerk in a store. Thought I 'd jest dray in and see if you 'd take the school next year."

Adams said nothing more, and he and Frame took their leave immediately. John stepped to the door and saw them ride off. He turned to ask the girl if he could walk home with her, and saw her sitting with her head on her desk crying. He sat down and putting his arm around her told her a story heard only by her ear and which therefore can not be given here, but they must have patched up some sort of a compromise for as they entered the hall, warm-hearted Allie Winston ran to them and kissed them both and said she was so glad.

Shortly Isabel resigned the school to a young man teacher and went home and John went for her at Christmas, and as he brought her home they met old Martin Frame in the road. He stopped them and wanted to know what business John and Ike Adams had in taking away the school from the only woman teacher he ever had any use for.

THE DOMINANT INDUSTRY.

The well-known man-woman writer "Bab" has been stopping at the White Sulphur, and writes about an old Greenbrier County negro who has a wonderful power.

"If there is one dominant industry in the South, one would have to admit—that is, if one wished to be honest—that it is the "infant" one, for the average Southern family has from four to fourteen children. At a wedding given near this place not so very long ago the great desire of the bride was to keep an old darkey, commonly called "Aunt Lizzie" as far from her as possible, since it was believed that she possessed the mystic power known as "the laying on of hands," which insured to the happy couple a handsome, healthy pair of twins before the year was over.

"Girls used to buy Aunt Lizzy Howard to stay away, but she was inclined to be something of a—well, she was inclined to tell what was n't quite true. So she would accept the present and then appear at the wedding and stand, ghoul-like, at the door, ready to put her horrible black fingers, long and mystical looking, upon the white gown or veil of the unfortunate bride. Every Southern girl for miles around knows about her, and every one of them dreads her. Not that they do n't want to have a tribe of children—that seems to be their greatest happiness—but as a young matron put it to me, "If Aunt Lizzie Howard does manage to 'hoodoo' you, it is not so much yourself that you care about, but for some reason the gentlemen seem to be guyed a little bit about twins, and yet why should they?

" 'Just look at the doctor that attended the gallant and religious Stonewall Jackson! Why, he had two or three sets of twins! And then think of poor General Hood with numerous pairs of twins! I do believe they were beautiful. I can't remember, but mamma says that when the Hood babies all came out with their mammy every body used to laugh and say, 'There goes Hood's battalion.' But you know we Southerners like babies mightily, and I never can think that a house is really well furnished unless there are plenty of little folks and two or three well bred dogs."

To Cure a Cold in One Day.

Take Laxative Bromo Quinine Tablets. All Druggists refund the money if it fails to Cure. 25c.

THE COLLINS RELATIONSHIP.

Descended from John Collins—Irish Emigrant, About 1798.

BY W. T. P.

For nearly a hundred years the name Collins has been a familiar one among our people. The progenitor was John Collins, a native of Ireland. He found his way from Pennsylvania to Pendleton County, where he met and married Barbara Full. He first settled on the Dunwoody place near Meadow Dale, in Highland. About the year 1800 he moved to what is now Pocahontas County, and settled on the Greenbrier, on lands at present held by William H. Collins, and built up a home. There had been some improvement begun by former settlers, but so little that to all intents and purposes he settled in the woods.

Mr and Mrs Collins were the parents of four sons and four daughters: John, James, Lewis and Charles; and Barbara, Susannah, Mary and Elizabeth.

Barbara went west; it is believed to Ohio.

Susannah became Mrs George Nottingham and lived in Athens County, Ohio.

Elizabeth became Mrs William Queen and went to Marion County, Ohio.

In reference to the sons of John Collins, Senior, we learn that John Collins, Junior, was a dealer in horses, and upon going to Richmond with a drove he was never heard of afterwards. The probability seems to be that he was killed and robbed in the Blue Ridge.

James Collins went to Lawrence County, Ohio. married Henrietta, daughter of Judge Davidson, and settled seven miles below Ironton, and reared a large family. He was a prominent, prosperous citizen.

Lewis Collins was facetiously called the "Monarch of all he surveyed," being regarded by common consent the strongest, most athletic and largest man in the county. He excelled as a ditcher, fence-builder, and mower. He belied many large tracts of land, and cleared many fields. He was noted for his good temper and jovial disposition. He never was known to provoke any one, and, strange to say, he had more pugilistic knockouts than any one person of his times. He finally went to Nicholas County where he met and married Sally Boles, and then settled in Upshur County. His children were James, Charles, Elizabeth, Margaret and Mary.

James Collins, of Lewis, married Mary Leonard, went to California and engaged in the lumber business.

Elizabeth became Mrs Sampson Jordan.

Charles Collins never married and Margaret remained unmarried and kept house for her brother at the old homestead.

Charles Collins, of John the ancestral emigrant, married Mary McCarty, on Brown's Mountain, and settled on Back Mountain where Jacob Shinneberry lives. They were the parents of six sons and three daughters, concerning whom the following particulars are given:

Martha became Mrs John Conaway and lived in Upshur County.

Susannah lived at home with her brothers William and Benjamin.

Nancy Collins married William Cassell and lived on Back Mountain. Mention of her family in the Cassell Sketches.

John Collins married Martha Moore, of Pennsylvania John, in The Hills, and settled in Upshur County. His second marriage was with Widow Nancy McFarland, at Lumberport, Braxton county.

Benjamin Collins married Margaret Shinneberry and settled on Back Mountain near McLaughlin Chapel. Their children were Peter Charles and Emma, who became John Shinneberry's first wife.

Andrew Collins married Martha Boggs, of Braxton, lived awhile in Pocahontas, and then moved to Upshur. Their children were Mary, who became Mrs Lawrence Fitzgerald; and Alice who became Mrs John Reed.

William Hutcheson Collins first married Sallie Varner and located at the Greenbrier homestead. In reference to the first family these items are given:

Benjamin Collins is a minister in the German Baptist Church. He married Nancy Jane Cassell and lives on the Greenbrier homestead.

James Solomon is at home.

John Riley married Birdie Hoover and lives in Upshur.

William Hunter married [illegible] Hoover and lives on [illegible]

Andrew [illegible] May [illegible] eller's Repose.

Samuel and Susan died in youth.

Mary Elizabeth became Mrs Amos Nottingham lives at Beech Flats on the Greenbrier.

Amanda Catherine first married William Hoover on Back Mountain. Her second marriage was with Lytle Green Jackson and lives at Wetumpka, Alabama. Her last marriage was the result of an advertisement and exchange of photographs.

The second wife of William Collins was Caroline Gragg, daughter of Zebulon Gragg. The children of this marriage are Effie Alice, Joanna Susan, Lewis and Adam Hevener.

W. H. Collins was a Confederate soldier from 1862 to 1865. He first belonged to Company G, 31st Virginia Infantry, and after the seven days fight around Richmond was released from service under the rule of not enlisting over 35 years of age. When this was revoked he joined Captain William L. McNeel's Cavalry.

Sally Joice, of Charles Collins, of John, never married, and was a confirmed invalid.

Charles Collins married Barbara Varner, of Highland County, and lived on Top of Alleghany. He was a Confederate soldier.

Samuel Collins first married Margaret Hayes and lived in Upshur. One son, John William Hayse became charmed with a show, left home and lived a life of adventure. His second marriage was with Celia Weimar, of Lewis County. They had two children, Samuel and Amanda, who became the wife of a Rev Queen, a minister in the M. P. Church, and lives in Pennsylvania. Samuel Collins was a Union soldier in the 10th West Virginia Infantry.

Thus with the patient assistance of the venerable William H. Collins the writer has been able to illustrate in part the domestic history of a family that has done a great deal in subduing our primitive forests, and prepared the way for many families to live in comfort now. The services of good, patient and toiling people should be remembered and duly appreciated by the intelligent and grateful citizenship of Pocahontas, of which we are justly proud.

The desire to see ourselves as others see us is sometimes gratified in an unexpected fashion. This, for example, is the view of Englishmen taken by an intelligent Chinaman who recently visited that country. "They centainly do not know how to amuse themselves. You never see them enjoy themselves by sitting quietly upon their ancestors' graves. They jump around and kick balls as if they were paid to do it. Again, you will find them making long tramps into the country; but that is probably a religious duty, for when they tramp they wave sticks in the air, nobody why. They have no sense of dignity, for they may be found walking with women. They sit down at the same table with women, and the women are served first." In that the Chinamen has not only pictured his host as he saw them. He has with equal fidelity and force pictured himself.—Youth's Companion.

Not the Wisest Plan.

It is not always best to wait until it is needed before buying a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera, and Diarrhoea Remedy. Quite frequently the remedy is required in the very busiest season or in the night and much inconvenience and suffering must be borne before it can be obtained. It costs but a trifle as compared to its real worth and every family can well afford to keep it in their home. It is everywhere acknowled to be the most successful remedy in the world for bowel complaints. For sale by A. Barlow, Huntersville; Barlow and Moore, Edray.

The Pocahontas Times.

ANDREW PRICE, - - - EDITOR.

MARLINTON, THURS. SEPT. 15, 1898.

Entered at the post-office at Marlinton, W. Va., as second class matter.

Fiduciary Notice.

The following fiduciary accounts are before the undersigned commissioner for settlement: J. C. Loury executor of J. C. Loury, Sr., dec'd.

J. H. PATTERSON, Comm'r.

DEMOCRATIC TICKET.

For Congress,
JUDGE DAVID E. JOHNSTONE,
of Mercer County.

For State Senator,
C. W. OSENTON,
of Fayette County.

For House of Delegates,
I. B. MOORE,
of Sunset.

For County Commissioner,
AMOS BARLOW,
of Huntersville.

For Superintendent Free Schools.
JAMES W. WARWICK,
of Mill Point.

PUBLIC SPEAKING.

Judge David E. Johnston will address the citizens of Pocahontas at Marlinton on the first day of Court.

Hon. C. W. Osenton, one of the most entertaining speakers in the State, will speak at the following places in this county:

Academy,	October 3,	.....7.30
Marlinton,	" 4,	Court Day
Green Bank	" 5,	......7.30
Huntersville	" 6,	......7.30

Senator Elkins is doing all he can to attract the business of this county to his town and railroad.

The goods shipped to Cuba and other colonies are subject to tariff. Who pays the tax.

Judging from the newspapers, Randolph County will have a vote on the court-house question this fall to be followed by a civil war.

A. G. Dayton has been nominated in the Second District to succeed himself in Congress. The Democrats consider him the least formidable opponent that could have been chosen.

In Manilla on September 9. Aguinaldo acted in an ugly way. He wished to occupy a portion of the city, and was refused. General Otis has sent him his orders to clear out, or take the consequences. There are indications of a collision very soon.

Sunday evening a Philadelphia grocer went into a cellar that ignited the fumes of gasolene whereupon about forty gallons exploded. The building collapsed and those adjoining also. The buildings were of brick and three stories high. The upper floors were crowded with families in tenement fashion, and the explosion came at the supper hour. The loss of life is tought to be heavy and the list of injured must be very long. The sufferers are natives of Russia.

Last Thursday, September 9th. seems to have been an eventful day. The Empress of Austria was assassinated by an Italian anarchist. She was at Geneva, Switzerland, where she was temporarily sojourning incognito. As she was passing from her hotel to the steamboat landing, Lusgi Laochini, a citizen of Paris and an Italian soldier, approached her stealthily and plunged his stilletto just above the heart. She walked on board of the steamer, but fainted on the deck and died in about two hours in great agony.

September 2d a terrific battle was fought on the upper Nile between General Kitchener in command of English and Egyptian troops and the Dervishes led by the Khalifa and Osman Digna. The fight occurred at Omdurman, but the fall of Khartum was the result. Here the English and Egyptian flags were raised and a solemn memorial service was held in honor of General Gordon, massacred there some years since, and for whom tears were wept all over the world. The Anglo-Egyptian losses are estimated at 46 killed, 333 wounded. The Dervishes lost 10,000 killed, 16,800 wounded, and prisoners too numerous to count as yet, It seems the Maxim guns did most of the killing and wounding.

BUCKHANNON IN 1854.

The town of Buckhannon, the county seat of Upshur County and one of the most prosperous inland towns of this State, was a town of about two hundred people in 1854. The town was about the size of Academy in those days. During the fall of 1854 a sort of a quack doctor came to that section. He was a foreigner, perhaps a German, by birth, and his name is forgotten by the narrator. The stranger was very successful and was very popular with the country people and soon became a favorite doctor, much to the detriment of several doctors living in Buckhannon. The German was evidently a fraud. One of his pretentions was to be able to tell the number and location of scars on the body by feeling the pulse. He may have been misunderstood in this or was trying a figure of speech in a strange language.

One night a mob from Buckhannon, or Buckwheat as it was then known, gathered the strange doctor up and abused him terribly. They rode him on a rail until they were tired of that sport, and then put a rope around his neck and pulled him up to a limb and lowered him several times. They then proceeded to tar and feather him. They daubed tar on him, and, feathers not being convenient, they robbed a carding mill of carded wool and stuck it all over him. They then let him go, and to escape them he crawled into a straw stack and hid until the next morning. Then he came crawling out covered with chaff and wool and tar, making him very strange looking. It was a cold frosty morning in the early fall.

His friends in the country roused and a mob of several hundred bore down on Buckhannon the next day with the avowed purpose of burning the town, and it was all the people of Buckhannon could do to pacify the mob and keep the town from being burned. Some of the fathers of the little burgh went out among the people, and finally succeeded in staving off the summary vengeance by promising to indict all the mob of the night before that could be identified. It is said to have been the most serious time for Buckhannon in the history of that town.

Marlinton's Telephone.

If a telephone line had been run into the wildest African jungle that Stanley saw during his travels in the dark continent, the savages could not have made a greater to do than the Pocahontas people at Marlinton did when the Beverly line was extended to that village, if we take the Pocahontas Times' word for it. The Times has it that one man got fighting mad when he was told that he could carry on a conversation over the wire with a person twenty miles away as easily as if the parties were in the same room. If this and other instances of ignorance related by The Times are true, it is very bad taste in the Times letting it out on its people.—Highland Recorder.

We agree with the Recorder in thinking that The Times should have been more discreet. The Recorder is nothing if not consistent. When the telephone line from Staunton to Monterey was building, an humble citizen of Highland's woods, who had at odd times hauled goods from Staunton for Highland merchants, was heard to complain thus:

"That thar blasted telephone is goin' to bust up the wagonin' business in this country; they will haul goods over the telephone, and we waggoners will have to go at sumthin' else fer a livin'."

The Recorder, jealous of the intellectual stand of its people failed to note the incident.—Bath Enterprise.

The dedication of a monument to Francis Scott Key in his native city was chiefly a tribute to the man who wrote "The Star-Spangled Banner." The memorial likewise honors one who wrote to his friend, John Randolph of Roanoke: "I agree with you that the 'state of society is radically vicious,' and that it is there the remedy is to be applied. Put down party spirit; stop the corruptions of party elections; legislate not for the next election, but for the next century." Few statesmen are poets, and perhaps it is well that prose-writing law-makers are in the majority. Key, however, showed a spirit worthy of high statesmanship when he wrote the sentences quoted, which are almost sufficient to entitle him to be called an early reformer of the republic.

Preaching services at Swago next Sunday afternoon a 3 o'clock, and at Sunset the fourth Sunday at 11 o'clock, by Rev W. T. Price.

MILL POINT.

Joseph Smith has brought his stock in from the mountains.

Misses Maud Smith and Lou Pyles were at Buckeye last Saturday.

Everything is quiet and all the people are attending to their own business generally.

John Hamrick came in from camp to sow his wheat, and will go back in a few days. If he should come in very often the postmaster would not cancel near so many stamps.

The writer had the privilege to visit Elk not long since, and it seems that section has been on a boom. There are eight or ten right new buildings, besides the improvement to that section the telephone line has made. Elk will be in the centre of the world if it is not already there, see!

☞ Saturday, Saturday! Don't forget Saturday—the all-day Sing. combined with the Epworth league Festival, September 17th Come out if you want to hear the Cornet Band and see the Members of the Marlinton League. Bring some books and some money and have a real nice time indeed.

Our friend W. T. Slaven has described to us two curious freaks in the work of nature near Mill Point. One is a small sumac growing fresh and green in the top of a large green oak, probably fifty feet from the ground. The other curiosity is a natural ground-hog hole in a solid limestone boulder near M. Ruckman's. The hole is just the right size, and an old soggy whistle-pig has taken up his abode there, taking advantage of nature as it were. The rock is solid as far as a man's arm and a fork-handle can reach, and no telling the extent of the opening after it gets under the mountain.

MUX.

TRAVELER'S REPOSE.

Will the Editor tell us how long we may lawfully catch bass? *

Fine weather. Harvesting done and the black berries all gathered, and soon the voice of the hound will be heard through out the land.

There was a wedding at Brushy Run last week. The couple was Miss Maud Slaton and Howard Ray. Rev Ben Collins tied the knot.

Singing at Gillispie by Professors Wilmoth and Darnell on the fourth Sunday of September. Singing in the morning and perhaps in the evening.

There are penned up at Mr Lee Burner's an old gobbler, a rooster and several hens, growing desperately fat; and still Mr Kelly makes his almost daily visits.

The daily mail route across Cheat Mountain has been changed to three trips a week. It has been a knockout blow to Durbin, and its people are threatening to revolt against the administration, if it is not rearranged at once.

FRANZ.

* [NOTE: The close season for bass extends from April 15 to June 15.—EDITOR.]

A PROPHECY.

During the Civil War, Colonel Vincent Marmaduke, of Missouri, was sent by Mr Davis with dispatches to Minister Mason. who represented the Confedracy in England. While there, at Mr Mason's suggestion, he heard an address in Parliament by Mr Br Bright, justly esteemed one of the foremost men of his time. In his speech Mr Bright paused and, changing the line of his remarks, said, "Mr Speaker, if our kinsfolk on the other side of the Atlantic settle their war satisfactorily and get to gether in peace again, in 40 years there will not be a gun fired in the world without their consent." At the time nothing could seem more preposterous, and yet it is only 35 years since the remark was made and in the past six monts events have happened that make Mr Bright's assertion sound like a prophecy of the genuine stamp. Col. Marmaduke was asked how he felt when listening to such words about a government he was feeling it his duty to dismember. He confessed that it gave him uneasiness of mind about his own conduct, and for the first time began to realize the influence the united American People might have in shaping the destinies of the world, and with a tremor in his vice, said, "Like all Southern men, I am glad that the Almighty has preserved us for purposes of his own, which will some day be unvailed before the world."

S. C. R.

$25 Reward $25.

Stolen from the undersigned at the Top of Allegbany on the night of September 10, 1898, a dappled gray mare, 5 years old, weighing 1000 pounds. Supposed to have crossed Cheat Mountain the same night. A reward of $20 is offered for the return of the mare and a further reward for the arrest and conviction of the theif.

W. B. FREEMAN.

GREEN BANK.

Henry Rider, of Frost, was in town Saturday.

Professor K. D. Swecker was in town Saturday.

Henry Flenner, of Trav. Repose. was in town Saturday.

Mr Jamison and wife, of Oklahoma Territory, are the guests of J. P. Wooddell at this time.

Mr Porter, of Hightown, was in this neighborhood last week and bought the Oliver Bros.' cattle.

Dr J. P. Moomau is off to the Lewisbrug F. I. with his daughter Miss Ena, who is a pupil at that school.

The community was roused by a fire alarm last Sunday. It was supposed Dr Austin's house was on fire, but it proved to be a large tree on fire and no harm was done. Parties came from a long distance to see what was the matter.

There will be a quarterly meeting held at Trav. Repose on the 24th and 25th of September by Rev J. D. Martin and others. Also there will be a protracted service at Green Bank commencing on the evening of the 25th by Rev Martin, Brown, and others.

NIMROD.

Chronic Diarrhœa Cured.

This is to certify that I have had chronic diarrhoea ever since the war. I got so weak I could hardly walk or do anything. One bottle of Chamberlains Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy cured me sound and well.—J. R. Gibbs, Fincastle, Virginia.

I had chronic diarrhoea for 12 years. Three bottles of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy cured me.

S. L. SHAVER, Fincastle, Va.

Both Mr Gibbs and Mr Shaver are prominent farmers and residents near Fincastle, Va. They procured the remedy from Mr W. E. Casper, a druggist of that place, who is well acquainted with them and will vouch for the truth of their statements. For sale by Barlow & Moore, Edray; Amos Barlow, Huntersville.

Notice.

Sealed bids will be received until September 20 for painting the Edray M. E. Church. Dimensions 20x36x60 feet. Contractor to furnish Lewis' white lead and best oil. Bidders please bid for two coats, also for three. To be completed by November 1, 1898, and subject to approval. Right reserved to accept or reject any bid. Address,

COMMITTEE EDRAY M. E. CHURCH,
Edray, West Virginia.

Notice.

I have on my place one sow of the following description, the owner of which may recover proper- by identifying and paying costs of keeping and advertising: Color, black; marked. crop off left ear, notch in right—supposed to be intended for half crop; four white feet; small spot in forehead.

JOHN A. WARWICK.

Notice.

To the tax-payers of Huntersville and Green Bank Districts owing taxes for the year 1896 and before that year will be prepared to settle when called upon, for no further indulgence will be given. Remember this notice means something.

JOHN WAUGH,
Late Deputy S. P. C.

Teachers' Examination.

The second and last examination for the present school year will be held at Marlinton, W. Va., October 5 and 6, 1898.

D. L. BARLOW,
County Superintendent.

Order of Publication.

STATE OF WEST VIRGINIA,
POCAHONTAS COUNTY, towit:

At rules held in the clerk's office of the circuit court of said county, on Monday, the 5th day of September, 1898.

Andrew M McLaughlin......Plaintiff,
vs.
John T. McGraw, J W. Marshall. The Pocahontas Development Company (a corporation), The Board of Education of the District of Edray in Pocahontas county, J. H. G Wilson, Harriet E. Yeager, Martha J. Crouch George F. Crummett, A. E. Smith, L. M McClintic trustee, W. J. Killingsworth, Walter H. Yeager, Fenton H. Miller, E May McWhorter. O. R. Slaven, Lucy Holt, J. H. Henry, A. M. Nestor. M. L. Shields, Jacob Ligon Marshall, John M. Cunningham, Uriah Bird, S. L. Brown, Mrs Mary M. McGlaughlin, A. R Smith, County Court of Pocahontas county, G. F. Crummett, H. A. Yeager, H. A. Yeager, Uriah Bird, Lloyd Moore, Thos. Courtney and James McCollum, trustees of the Methodist Church South Levi Gay and G. M. Kee, Trustees of the Presbyterian Church......De'fts.

The object of this suit is to enforce the vendors lien retained in the deed from A. M. McLoughlin and wife to John T. McGraw, dated February 13th, 1891, and have the land granted by said deed sold to pay the purchase money due thereon which now amounts to over $12000.00 Said land lies in Pocahontas County, West Virginia, and includes the site of the town of Marlinton.

This day came the plaintiff by his attorneys, and upon their motion, it appearing by affidavit filed that the defendents Walter H. Yeager. O R. Slaven, and Lloyd Moore are non residents of the State of West Virginia, it is ordered that they do appear here within one month after the first publication of this order and do what is necessary to protect their interest in this suit.

Witness: J. H. Patterson, clerk of the said court at the court house thereof, this the 5th day of September, 1898.

J. H PATTERSON, Clerk.

Harris, Gilmer, Arbuckle & Price, p. q.

Ayer's Pills are PERFECT PILLS

so far as perfection can be attained. They mark the highest point in pill progress. To many people, any pill is a fit pill, and so long as it acts they don't consider whether there's any recoil in the action. Dynamite has a very moving effect, and so has an earthquake, but the consequences that follow are apt to be disastrous. There are pills as damaging as dynamite and as dangerous as an earthquake. Dr. Ayer's Pills are Perfect in Preparation, Perfect in Operation, and their use is not followed by violent reaction. A grain of sand stops a watch. You don't use blasting powder to eject the grain and start the mechanism going again. The machinery of the body is more fearfully and wonderfully made than a watch, and needs even greater delicacy in dealing with it. Ayer's Pills give just the necessary stimulus to start the bowels into healthy action. They correct the ill-conditioned liver and give a healthy tone to the stomach. Thus they cure dyspepsia, sick headache, heartburn, constipation, piles, and all diseases that grow out of the disordered condition of the liver, stomach, or bowels.

"Ayer's Pills are the best cathartic I ever used in my practice."
J. T. SPARKS, M. D., Yeddo, Ind.

"I don't know of anything that will so quickly relieve and cure the terrible suffering of dyspepsia as Ayer's Pills." JOHN C. PRITCHARD, Brodie, Warren Co., N. C.

"Ayer's Pills do their work efficiently and do not gripe nor make one sick like so many other pills." JOHN M. SMITH, Atlanta, Ga.

"Although mild in action and less liable to gripe than other purgatives, Ayer's Pills are thorough in operation and can always be relied on to cure diseases of the stomach or bowels." PETER J. DUFFY, Rockport, Tex.

"After twenty years' experience, I know that Ayer's Pills are an absolute cure for tertian ague, bilious fever, sick headache, flux, dyspepsia, constipation and hard colds."
J. O. WILSON, Contractor and Builder, Sulphur Springs, Texas.

"We always used Ayer's Pills in my father's family. I am now fifty-five years old and always have them in the house because I have found no better pill than Ayer's."
MARY JACOBUS, 711 E. Chestnut St., Mt. Vernon, Ohio.

Trustee's Sale.

By virtue of a deed of trust made by D. W. Loudermilk and Susan Jane Loudermilk his wife to L. M. McClintic Trustee, on the 5th day of June, 1894, and recorded in the clerk's office of the County Court of Pocahontas county, in Deed book No. 25, at page 297, to indemnify and secure Withrow McClintic as endorser on a certain Negotiable Note of the said D. W. Loudermilk for $167·46 dated on the 5th day of June, 1894, and payable four months after date at the Bank of Ronceverte at Ronceverte, W. Va., and the said D. W. Loudermilk having made default in the payment of said note, and it having been paid by the said Withrow McClintic as endorser, and afterwards assigned by the said McClintic to M. Myers by written assignment dated on the 5th day of March, 1895, and recorded in the clerk's office of the County Court of Pocahontas county, in Deed book No. 26 at page 8; and the said Myers having requested me to advertise and sell the property conveyed to me as trustee, I will as such trustee, on at the front door of the Court House of Pocahontas County, West Virginia, sell, at public auction to the highest bidder, a certain tract or parcel of land containing 18 acres, situated in Pocahontas county, West Virginia, on Spruce Flat and the head waters of Dry Creek, being the same land conveyed to the said Susan Jane Loudermilk by G. W. Beverage and wife, by deed dated on the 16th day of April, 1891, and recorded in the clerk's office of the County Court of Pocahontas county, in Deed Book No 21 at page 496; part of said land is cleared and has on it a comfortable dwelling house and out-buildings, and the residue of said land is well timbered.

Monday, September 26th, 1898,

Terms of sale—Cash.

L. M. McCLINTIC, Trustee.

I, S. L. Brown, Clerk of the county court of Pocahontas county, certify that bond has been given by the above named trustee as required by law.

S. L. BROWN, Clerk.

WANTED—A good girl to do cooking and general housework in small family, $1.25 per week.
D. W. BRATTON, Bolar, Va.
Bath county. 6w.

A Great Drive!

Ladies'
75c
Corsets
for 49c.

If you want a better Corset, I can furnish you the very best leading makes: R. & G, Armoaile, C. B. and Dr Strong's Corsets—at lowest possible prices.

Printed prices don't tell much about the worth of a corset, but it is the best I can do on paper. If you will come in and look them over you will suit yourself and save nearly half the price.

THE GOLDEN STORE.

NOTICE!

All are invited to attend the picnic on Knapp's Creek near Sunset, in W. L. Harper's Sugar Grove,

September 20, 1898!

A general good time is anticipated.

Platform, Merry-go-Round, Good Music, and good order.

All kidds of Refreshments. Also feed for horses.

If the weather is unfavorable on 20th, come 21st.

HARPER & HAMILTON,
Proprietors.

The Pocahontas Times,

Hear, Land o' Cakes and brither Scots,
Frae Maidenkirk to Johnny Groats,
If there's a hole in a' your coats,
I rede ye tent it;
A chiel's amang you takin' notes,
An' faith he'll prent it.—BURNS

Local Events.

The katydids have been chirping for six weeks and frost is due.

The corn has matured better than in many years. The ear has ripened and the husks died while the stalk is still green.

Austin Hamrick has moved to the village of Mill Point and opened a house of entertainment, known as Hotel Mill Point.

There will be all day singing at Poage's Lane school house next Sunday, September 18. All are invited to come and bring their books.

We have received from Presiding Elder J. D. Martin notice of appointments for third round of quarterly meetings as follows: Green Bank, September 24, 25; Huntersville, October 1, 2; Levelton, October 2, 3.

Services will be held by Rev M F. Turner at the following points: Hillsboro, Friday, September 16th 7.30 p. m; Clover Lick, Sunday, September 18th, 10.45 a. m; Huntersville, Sunday, September 18th, 4.30 p. m.

The next meeting of the Pocahontas Farmer's Institute will meet at Academy October 7 and 8. It will be conducted by C. C. Brown and one of the staff of the experimental station. The farmers of the Levels are preparing to entertain their visiting friends from other parts of the county. We will print the program next week.

Died, September 1, at her home in Fettermon, West Virginia, Mrs Dr James M. Hamilton, aged 65 years. Mrs Hamilton once resided in Huntersville, and is an elder sister of Mrs Col. J. T. Lockridge. The Grafton papers, where she resided for about 40 years, speak very highly of her. In her death a husband and several children are sadly bereaved.

A startling complication has arisen concerning the new mail schedule, which will be apt to put it back on the old schedule when the mails all arrived about the middle of the day. As it is now the main mail arrives at nine o'clock at night, and the ladies of the town say it is being trumped up as an excuse by the men for being out o' nights. If this view of the case is properly presented to the department, no doubt the postmaster general will respect a petition signed by the ladies of the town and we will take a step backward.

Saturday, September 24th, has been fixed on for the 24-mile foot race from Mingo to Marlinton. The start will be made about 1 p. m., and the contestants will be let go on the first trial. S. E. L. Grews and Norman Price will run, and possibly there will be others. The Englishman Grews is a notable long distance runner. Such a race has naturally excited a good deal of interest. A number of the English residents will be in Marlinton Saturday to see the "finish." Barring accidents,—hot boxes, bellows to mend, and the like—the course will be run in four hours or less.

The Hillsboro Male and Female Academy is just opening on what promises to be a very prosperous session. The faculty is composed of Professor Morris, of Parkersburg, an A. B. from Marietta College; J. W. Baxter and Miss Virgie Sydenstricker. Professor Morris handed in his resignation last week on account of his salary not being secured to him, but the trustees having arranged to pay him the salary demanded, his resignation was withdrawn. The patrons of the school are very much pleased with the principal and his assistants.

When the new court-house was built the architect went to the trouble to require a cumberous weather vane to be placed on the tower. It soon became a vain thing for safety. It weighed 250 lbs. and bent over at an alarming angle. The tower is 104 feet high and the last 35 feet is a steeply slated roof. Last year the court advertised for bids to remove the vane, and the lowest received was $100. Last week they contracted with Silling & Slaven, tinners, to take it down and paint the tinwork on the roof and repair a leak for $50. They got it down this week from its dizzy height without accident.

The engineer corps has arrived to a point opposite Academy and are camped on the river opposite James Burnside's. They will be there for a week or so, and then will move to the mouth of Stamping Creek. They are very comfortably fixed in four tents. At the time of the flood of August 10, they were camped at the mouth of Anthony's creek and the water got up and ran through all the tents. Some of the men lay in their cots marking the rise of the water on the frame of their beds. They kept saying when the water would get up to the mark they would wade out, but each time they would move the mark up. Three men stuck to their beds until the water fell.

The Telephone War.

There is a good deal of wire-work going on in Pocahontas now owing to different telephone corporations disputing over territory and connections. There is plenty of feeling and a lot of the interested ones are very techy, and to say any thing about it is to take your life in your hands, but in spite of all this we plunge into the middle of the thing to describe the situation as best we can.

At the present time it seems probable that there will be two sets of telephone poles on the road from Marlinton to Huntersville, and that narrow trial will be so plainly marked that it will be impossible for the way-faring man to lose his way. If these two sets of telephone poles are built it will advertise the fact that the relations of the several companies are some what strained.

The Beverly and Marlinton Company were the pioneeers of the work, antedating the Ronceverte and Marlinton Company by several weeks. They built a line from Beverly to Marlinton, and, while the town was thankful for it, they wished very hard for a line to Ronceverte, and got it. The Beverly Company got a good bonus from Marlinton and secured a subscription of about $40 to extend their line to Huntersville. They have set the poles and expect to stretch the wire this week.

The Ronceverte and Marlinton line expect to stretch their wire this month, beginning on the 20th and reaching Marlinton in five days. The company will not be organized until September 28, but Smith & Whiting, lumber jobbers, are promoters of the company and what they say goes.

The first sign of coming trouble was when the Ronceverte company staked their line to another office in Marlinton; to Crummett's Harness shop, while the Beverly telephone office was in Bird's store. This put the other company on its mettle and the members took it as a sign that they were not to co-operate and the trouble began.

Then the Dunmore company, promoted by two progressive men of the Upper End, B. F. McElwee and Samuel Sheets, was organized and the two other companies began to woo this new company. Beverly proposed that they unite with them at Huntersville or Driscol, and the Ronceverte company that they would unite with them. The Ronceverte company charge that the poles of its rival are only 4in. at the top, while their poles are 6in. The Beverly company says that is true, but a little pole will last longer in the ground than a big one. The Ronceverte company says their wire is welded, while the Beverly company interrupts the flow of conversation by splicing their wire. The Ronceverte company reminds Dunmore that its natural out let is down the Greenbrier Valley, and the Beverly people suggest that Beverly or Huttonsville is to be the depot of the Upper End until Pocahontas has a railroad.

The three companies met at the telephone office last week, the Dunmore and Ronceverte present in person and the Beverly company present at Huttonsville and Crickard by telephone, and the report is that it was a warm meeting. At this time it seems probable that the Dunmore line will be constructed by the firm of Smith & Whiting and meet the Ronceverte line at Marlinton, and that they will not associate with the Beverly company. While these arrangements were being made Edray had the receiver down and directly that town boiled over, and sent word down for a day or two, naming all the men of money in that secton, saying that if the Ronceverte company cut them off in this way they would never deposit another cent in Ronceverte banks, or touch the town in any way with a forty foot pole.

A propo ition to the Beverly company to abandon their Huntersville branch was rejected.

We know it is to the interest of the county to be connected and we still hope that there will be a central office in Marlinton for the three lines so that every part of the county can be reached by paying for one message.

Death of Dr Snyder.

Dr W. F. Snyder, of Huttonsville died last Tuesday night of heart failure. He had attended the nominating convention at Parsons the same day and arrived at home about midnight. He had received the nomination for House of Delegates. The nomination is virtually an election, and the excitement of the day probably had something to do with bringing on the attack. Mrs Snyder was aroused by the heavy breathing of her husband, and before she could call for help he was dead.

Dr Snyder was a native of Kanawha County. He was 38 years old. He was considered a most competent physician. He will be buried by the Odd Fellows, probably at Charleston.

The Counties of Tucker and Randolph form a delegate district sending two delegates. J. W. Waggoner, an attorney of Tucker County, received the other nomination.

To Cure a Cold in One Day.

Take Laxative Bromo Quinine Tablets. All Druggists refund the money if it fails to Cure. 25c.

DUNMORE.

S. R. Kerr is out to Staunton.

Mr Morgan Grimes was in town Sunday.

S. C. Pritchard is off on a visit to Virginia.

Old Jack got in two nights and nipped things a little.

Joe McLaughlin was badly kicked by his team last week.

We think the next Singing Association will be at Frost.

E. H. Smith and the Yeager boys passed through town Sunday.

John McCutchan has a full-blooded Spaniard—and he works well.

Dr Hunter Moomau was called last week to see Alf Moore who is on the sick-list.

Ac Orndoff and John Hollen have thrashed nearly all the people up this way.

Paris Johnson was out Sunday and took his betsy Miss Grace Beuson back to Monterey.

H. M. Lockridge has fixed up the road from Huntersville to Browns Mountain in good shape.

C. P. Ke r and his mother are going to keep hotel at the Snelson House in Randolph county.

If Colonel Fisher had had his gun with him last week we bet that deer would have been scared to death.

George Jamieson and lady, of Oklahoma, and Mrs Mac Riley, of Fairmont, are visiting in our section.

Corn-cutting, seeding, bean-whackings, snitings, hops steps and jumps seems to be all the go nowadays and nights.

John R. Warwick wants to get his hay made by Christmas if he can get sugar enough in the Green Bank district to sweeten his apple-dumplings with.

Several ladies visited Mrs S. B. Hannah last week and had a peach pealing. Mrs Hannah is not so well at this time, being confined to bed with rheumatism.

The Cheat mountain road ought to be worked before cold weather and if not worked by spring it will cost lots of money to repair it. There is a great deal of travel on this road.

We hear the overseers between Marlinton and Traveller's Repose threatened that they may get the dobben strapped to them at the grand jury court if the roads and bridges are not fixed up a little better.

There is more corn in the upper end of the county than ever known before. If people would spend one half, for fertilizers and for clearing up new land that they spend for flour they would have grain to sell and some to keep.

We understand that Sheets and McElwee have about the necessary amount of money to build the telephone line from Marlinton to Green Bank. Ths route will be sold out this week. We hope the line will be extended to Traveler's Repose.

FATTER.

Good Enough to Take.

The finest quality of loaf sugar is used in the manufacture of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and the roots used in its preparation give it a flavor similar to that of maple syrup, making it very pleasant to take. As a medicine for the cure of coughs, colds, la grippe, croup, and whoopi g cough it is unequaled by any other. It always cures, and cures quickly. For sale by A. Barlow, Huntersville; Barlow & Moore, Edray.

To Cure Constipation Forever.
Take Cascarets Candy Cathartic. 10c or 25c.
If C. C. C. fail to cure, druggists refund money.

Trustee's Sale.

By virtue of a d ed of trust made by E. I. Holt and Lucie Holt his wife on the 3d day of February, 1893, to M. J. McNeel Trustee, and recorded in the clerk's office of the County Court of Pocahontas county, in Deed Book No. 23, at page 479, to secure S. H. Clark, A. M. Edgar, and William L. McNeel in the payment of two Negotiable Notes of $2500.00 each, dated on the 3d day of February, 1893, and payable four months after date at the Bank of Lewisburg, and default having been made in the payment of said notes, and the said S. H. Clark, A. M. Edgar, and William L. McNeel having paid said notes, and having requested me to advertise and sell the property conveyed to me as trustee, I will, as such trustee, on Saturday, September 17, 1898,

on the premises (as hereinafter described) sell at public auction to the highest bidder one certain lot of land containing about One Acre situated in Pocahontas County, W. Virginia, in the town of Hillsboro, on Main and Nicholas Streets, the same lot on which E. I. Holt now resides, and purchased by him from Lizzie Lightner. There is upon said lot a fine dwelling hou e, store house, and all necessary outbuildings.

Terms of Sale.

One-third of the purchase money cash in hand, the residue upon a credit of one and two years respectively, the purchaser giving bond bearing interest from date with approved personal security for the deferred payments, the title to be retained as ultimate security.

M. J. McNEEL, Trustee.

PERSONAL.

Charles Harouff has moved to Laurel Creek.

Wellington Ratliff is back from the lumber camps at Davis.

Douglas McNeill is organizing a writing class in Marlinton.

Miss Trudie Bird received a large 50lb watermelon as a birthday present.

E. T. G. Wilson has returned to London. His visit to America will have been accomplished in a little more than a month.

Otho Gumm and C. A. Gumm, of Highland County, passed Marlinton last Thursday on their return from visiting friends and relatives in Greenbrier County.

Andrew Adkisson, formerly of this county but now a prosperous citizen of Redmon, Oklahoma, is visiting relatives and friends on Swago. He is a son of the late Isaac Adkisson and has been absent about 30 years.

We learn from the Wheeling Register that Mrs George H. Moffet and daughter, Miss Lilian Moffet, of Parkersburg, are on an extended visit to friends in the eastern part of the State; Greenbrier and Pocahontas Counties.

W. H. Peyatt, of Kansas, arrived here last Saturday to visit his father, Dr Marshall Peyett, who has been in poor health for some time. He has been gone from Pocahontas for thirty-five years, and is a big cattle dealer of his State.

John Sydenstricker left for Hampden Sidney College last Monday. Summers Kinnison will attend the theological seminary at Richmond this year. Misses Willie Rucker and Anna Price, of this county, are attending the Lewisburg Female Institute. Ligon Marshall is at the Baltimore Medical College. Lew Yeager has returned to Morgantown; he captains the football team this year.

The pain of a burn or scald is almost instantly relieved by applying Chamberlain's Pain Balm. It also heals the injured parts more quickly than any other treatment, and without the burn is very severe dces not leave a scar.

indigestion dyspepsia biliousness

and the hundred and one similar ills caused by impure blood or inactive liver, quickly yield to the purifying and cleansing properties contained in

Johnston's Sarsaparilla

QUART BOTTLE.

It cures permanently by acting naturally on all organs of the body. As a blood-cleanser, flesh-builder, and health-restorer, it has no equal. Put us in Quart Bottles, and sold at $1 each.

WILLIAMS, DAVIS, BROOKS & CO.
Detroit, Mich.

Take Liverettes for Liver Ills. 25c.

For sale by—Uriah Bird Marlinton; Amos Barlow, Huntersville.

Don't Tobacco Spit and Smoke Your Life Away.

To quit tobacco easily and forever, be magnetic, full of life, nerve and vigor, take No-To-Bac, the wonder-worker, that makes weak men strong. All druggists, 50c or $1. Cure guaranteed. Booklet and sample free. Address Sterling Remedy Co., Chicago or New York.

Commissioner's Sale.

Pursuant to a decree of the Circuit Court of Pocahontas county, West Virginia, rendered at the October Term, 1896, in the chancery cause of Amos Barlow vs. H. P. McLaughlin and others, the undersigned Special Commissioners will on at the front noor of the courthouse of Pocahontas county, proceed to sell at public auction to the highest bidder, the following described tracts or parcels of land, to wit:

Tuesday, October 4 1898,

A tract of fifty acres af land situated on Brown's Creek in Pocahontas county, West Virginia, purchased by the defendant H. P. McGlaughlin of W. P. Hogsett, by deed dated January 18, 1884.

A tract of——acres of land conveyed to the said H. P. McGlaughlin by John Osborne, Special Commissioner, by deed dated October 23, 1883, sold in the chancery suit of William Kelley's Administrator vs William Kelley's Heirs, situated on Brown's Creek, in Pocahontas County, West Virginia.

Said tracts comprise valuable farming and timber lands; and are now occupied by said H. P. McGlaughlin.

Terms of Sale: So much cash in hand as will pay the costs of suit and expenses of sale, and for the residue the purchaser shall execute bonds with good and sufficient security, falling due in six and twelve months from day of sale and a lien shall be reserved as ultimate security.

H. S. RUCKER,
L. M. McCLINTIC,
Special Commissioners.

I, J. H. Patterson, clerk of the circuit court of Pocahontas county, do certify that the above named special commissioner has given bond as required by said decree.

J. H. PATTERSON, Clerk.

CASH is King!

With that potent force in hand we get Bargains that Credit never sees. We aim to handle the best class of goods. Good value with us means more than a mere

LOW PRICE

It goes on to embrace quality. We do not handle

AUCTION GOODS.

Come and see us and judge for yourself of the business we do. We are constantly receiving new goods, and we guarantee the smallest of our patrons the same courteous attention given the largest.

Yours for Low Prices and Good Goods,

L. D. Sharp,
LINWOOD, W. VA.

The Levels News.

Edited by Payne Bros.

Vol. 1 Academy, W. Va., Sept. 15, 1898. No. 35

Market Report, Sept. 2, 1898.

—Eggs 12c per dozen.

—Butter 12½ per pound.

—Oats 30c per bushel.

—Wheat 80c per bushel.

—Ginseng dry $3 per lb.

Hams 12½, Sides 10c, Shoulders, 10c per lb.

—Wool 18c lb.

—AT PAYNE BROS.

—Floor oil cloth at Payne Bros.

—Harrow teeth at Payne Bros.

—Oliver Chilled Plows and repairs at Payne Bros.

—Stoves and piping at Payne Bros.

—Mr C. P. Baily was in town Monday.

—Send your orders to Payne Bros. for clean seed wheat.

—Fresh and clean Timothy seed at Payne Bros.

—New clothing at lowest prices at Payne Bros.

—Imperial Plows and repairs at Payne Bros.

—Silver Steel Plows and repairs at Payne Bros.

—Malta Hillside Plows and repairs at Payne Bros.

—Mr Frank Hill left Wednesday for Charlottesville and will attend the University of Virginia.

—Hon T. S. McNeel and Senator N. C. McNeil were in town on business one day last week.

—S. J. Payne started to Ronceverte Tuesday with a single deck of fine stock ewes which he bought of C. P. Dunlap, which he will ship to Maryland.

—Dr F. T. McClintic will move into his new dwelling which was completed one day last week. He has a very fine house, and is quite an improvement to Nicholas Street.

On the evening of September 8th the seventeen year old son of General Joe Wheeler and Lieut. R. D. Kirkpatrick were bathing in the surf near General Wheeler's tent. The undertow swept them out to sea and they were drowned. The day following their bodies were cast upon the shore. Lieut Kirkpatrick was a native of Rockbridge County, and is a near relative of James Kirkpatrick, a well known Marlinton citizen, at this time with the Greenbrier engineer corps.

Best grades of Roller Flour at

G. L. HANNAH'S,
Yelk, W. Va.
BARLOW & MOORE'S,
Edray, W. Va.
J. H. CURRY'S,
Green Bank, W. Va.
R. L. NOTTINGHAM'S,
Dunmore, W. Va.
J. H. DOYLE,
Huntersville, W. Va.

Hello! Sambo.

"Wharefore you got dat rooster?"

"Oh! I jis pick him up in de fence corner out dar."

"Sambo, what 's he been eatin'? He 's poor as a rat and wont fetch you nothin'."

"Oh yes, boss, but you see Ise gwine to sot har and stuff him wuf gravels while Ise waitin' fer Tyree's wagon to come along. You see he pays 8 cents a pound, feathers, gravels, and all, and I'll make this har rooster grow about two pounds a minute."

A STORY.

ABOUT THE NIMBLE SIX-PENCE.

It is Like a Ball of Snow, the Faster You Roll It the More Rapidly It Will Accumulate.

We recognize the fact that to succeed we must undersell.

We recognize that in order to keep our stock complete we must get the pay for our goods promptly.

We also recognize the fact that when we sell our goods on such close prices as to bring them below competition we must collect frequently in order to keep the ball rolling.

We appreciate highly the patronage and kind words of encouragement from our friends and patrons, and request you to encourage us further by coming in and paying up your accounts with cash, so we can replace the goods which you have bought without involving ourselves in dept these scary wartimes.

We hope to be of service to our patrons and can save you money, but do not overlook the main essential point: We need our money often. We are anxious to reduce stock in many lines as much as possible from now till September 1st and will sell at greatly reduced prices.

We have just received a new book of receipts which we would like to up inside of the next thirty days.

Call and see us when in town.

Respectfully,
J. D. PULLIN & CO.

NOTICE.

SILLING & SLAVEN,

TIN, SHEET-IRON
ROOFING,
GUTTER SPOUTING,
ROOF PAINTING,
FLUES, STOVE PIPE.
GALVANIZED FLUES,
SMOKE STACKS.
FRUIT DRYERS,
GALVANIZED TANKS,
AND CISTERNS.

Shop-Made Tin Ware Always on Hand.

LIGHTNING RODS.

Work Done on Short Notice.

Call or write to

SILLING & SLAVEN,
ACADEMY, W. VA.

Notice to Tax-Payers.

I will meet you in person or by my Deputies at the following places for the purpose of receiving your taxes:

Travellers Repose	Oct. 12, 1898
Green Bank,	Oct. 13,
Dunmore	Oct. 14,
Frost	Oct. 15,
Huntersville	Oct. 17,
Linwood	Oct. 19,
Edray	Oct. 21,
Marlinton	Oct. 22,
Lobelia,	Oct. 24,
Academy	Oct. 25.

A discount of 2½ per cent will be given to all persons who pay all their tax in cash on the days aforesaid. No discount given when paid with drafts.

September 12, 1898.

R. W. HILL, S. P. C.

C. B. SWECKER,
General Auctioneer and Real Estate Agent.

I sell Coal, Mineral and Timber Lands. Farms and Town Lots a specialty. 21 years in the business. Correspondence solicited. Reference furnished.

Postoffice Dunmore, W. Va., or Alexander, W. Va.

Fiduciary Notice.

The following fiduciary account of A. N. Barlow, Admr. of Jacob W. Sharp, is before me for final settlement. L. M. McCLINTIC,
Commissioner of Accounts Pocahontas County.

Also the accounts of Andrew Price, Administrator of Peter Beverage, dec'd.

L. M. McCLINTIC,
Commissioner of Accounts of Pocahontas County.

NOTICE.

TO THE PUBLIC:

I have turned over a NEW LEAF and determined to sell goods cheaper than ever Sell Strictly for CASH and good TRADE. Bring on your trade and cash, and I will treat you right—with or without contract!

NEW GOODS.

I am getting in new DRY GOODS—good goods bought at close prices, and will sell close. I can sell cheaply as anyone else for my expenses are light, and handling all sorts of produce people can pay me what they owe.

PLEASE EXAMINE my new stock of goods before buying elsewhere. I am EASY TO PAY, EASY TO PLEASE!

COFFEE 10c
SUGAR 6c.
All other goods likewise.

Yours for Business,

S. J. Boggs
HUNTERSVILLE, W. V.

Committee Meeting.

The Executive Committee of the Pocahontas County Musical Association will meet at Marlinton at the Court House in the County Court room, Tuesday, October 4, 1898, at 1 P. M., to select a place to hold the fall meeting. Any one wishing the convention to visit their neighborhood this fall can let it be known through The Times or write direct to me.

JOHN WAUGH,
President.

The Pocahontas Times.

Andrew & Norman Price, Owners. "Montani Semper Liberi!" Andrew Price, Editor

VOL. 16, NO. 9 MARLINTON, WEST VIRGINIA, SEPTEMBER 22, 1898. $1.00 PER YEAR

From FACTORY to CONSUMER.

$1.39

buys this (exact) Rattan Rocker, the largest size ever made; per dozen, $14.50. Our new 112-page catalogue containing Furniture, Draperies, Crockery, Baby Carriages, Refrigerators, Stoves, Lamps, Pictures, Mirrors, Bedding, etc., is yours for the asking. Special supplements just issued are also free. Write to-day. CARPET CATALOGUE in lithographed colors is also mailed free. Write for it. If you wish samples, send 8c. stamp. Matting samples also mailed for 8c. All Carpets sewed free this month and freight paid on $9 purchases and over.

$7.45

buys a made-to-your-measure All-Wool Cheviot Suit, expressage prepaid to your station. Write for free catalogue and samples. Address (exactly as below),

JULIUS HINES & SON,
Dept. 909. BALTIMORE, MD.

LAW CARDS.

N. C. McNEIL,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

Will practice in the Courts of Pocahontas and adjoining counties and in the Court of Appeals of the State of West Virginia.

L. M. McCLINTIC,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

Will practice in the Courts of Pocahontas and adjoining counties and in the Supreme Court of Appeals.

H. S. RUCKER,
ATTY. AT LAW & NOTARY PUBLIC
HUNTERSVILLE, W. VA.

Will practice in the courts of Pocahontas county and in the Supreme Court of Appeals.

J. W. ARBUCKLE,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
LEWISBURG, W. VA.

Will practice in the courts of Greenbrier and Pocahontas counties. Prompt attention given to claims for collection in Pocahontas county.

W. A. BRATTON,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

Prompt and careful attention given to all legal business.

ANDREW PRICE,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

Will be found at Times Office.

SAM. B. SCOTT, JR.
LAWYER,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

All legal business will receive prompt attention.

H. M. LOCKRIDGE,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
HUNTERSVILLE, W. VA.

Prompt and careful attention given all legal work.

JOHN A. PRESTON FRED. WALLACE
PRESTON & WALLACE,
Attorneys at Law,
LEWISBURG, W. VA.

Will practice in the Courts of Greenbrier and adjoining counties, and in the Court of Appeals of the State of West Virginia.

J. W. YEAGER,
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

Prompt attention given to collections

T. S. McNEEL,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

Will practice in the Courts of Pocahontas and adjoining counties.

PHYSICIANS' CARDS.

DR. O. J. CAMPBELL,
DENTIST,
MONTEREY, VA.

Will visit Pocahontas County at least twice a year. The exact date of his visit will appear in this paper.

DR. J. H. WEYMOUTH,
RESIDENT DENTIST,
ELKINS, W. VA.

Will visit Pocahontas County every spring and fall. The exact date of each visit will appear in The Times.

J. M. CUNNINGHAM, M. D.,
PHYSICIAN & SURGEON,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

Office next door to C. A. Yeager's Hotel. Residence opposite Hotel. All calls promptly answered.

THE RECESSIONAL.

BY RUDYARD KIPLING.

God of our fathers known of old —
Lord of our far-flung battle line,
Beneath whose awful hand we hold,
Dominion over palm and pine —
Lord, God of hosts be with us yet,
Lest we forget, lest we forget!

The tumult and the shouting dies,
The captains and the kings depart;
Still stands thine ancient sacrifice
An humble and contrite heart!
God of our fathers be with us yet,
Lest we forget, lest we forget!

Far-called our navies melt away,
On dune and headland sinks the fire;
Lo! all our pomp of yesterday
Is one with Nineveh and Tyre!
Judge of the nations spare us yet,
Lest we forget, lest we forget!

If drunk with sight of power we loose
Wild tonguns that have not thee in awe
Such boasting as the Gentiles use,
Or lesser breeds without the law —
Lord, God of hosts be with us yet,
Lest we forget, lest we forget!

For heathen heart that puts its trust
In reeking tube and iron shard,
The valiant dust that builds on dust
And guarding calls not thee to guard.
For idle theat and foolish word
Thy mercy on thy people, Lord!

WHAT CHEAP INTEREST MEANS.

An item is going the rounds of some of the leading journals to the effect that gold for coinage in 1898 will be about twice the supply of both metals, silver and gold, available for coidage in 1883. Hence the congestion of the gold supply and the decrease in the rates of interest. From this it is reasoned that when the best money can be borrowed with good security at 2½ per cent, money is cheap enough, and it is not reasonable, therefore, to have anything else for a substitute as a debt-payer in itself, as remonetized silver would be. This looks plausible, but at the same time it is open to suspicion and needs examination. Cheap interest awakens the suspicion that but little or no ordinary property is good security. Such interest is a sign that property values are so uncertain and liable to injurious fluctuation, that financiers and shrewd business persons do not feel it safe to make investments in property, nor improve ordinary property. What the ordinary business people need is not cheap interest on money so mucn as for the financial theories of legislation to be on such a line as to put the finances in a shape to enable our industrious people to engage in their pursuits with a prospect of being sure of realizing some profit upon their undertakings. They would to be sure or have good reason for feeling assured that if they purchase property this year it will be worth as much or something more a year hence.

Cautious people can not help feeling that there must be danger in cheap interest. The increasing gold means more than a mere glut at the money centres. It means that those whose who have it are under the influence of some spell that prevents the people who have the gold from using it in the ordinary channels of business, and thus spellbound, use their gold to made loans upon or invest it only in that form of securities which give them a lien upon the industry and property of a county, city, state, or even the whole nation.

The congestion of gold in the bank vaults is a certain sign that the people at large are distressingly scarce of gold, and so cheap interest means hard times for them whatever the times may be with those who have the vault keys and control at will the circulating medium.

S. C. R.

SOMETHING ABOUT CHURCH-GOERS AND OTHER ITEMS.

A huge volume just published by the government is regarded in its way one of the most remarkable works ever compiled and issued It is called a Statistical Atlas.

In reference to persons attending public worship it is stated that nearly one-third of the church-goers of the United States are Roman Catholics; considerably more than one-fifth are Methodists, more than one-sixth are Baptist; one church-goer in sixteen is a Presbyterian, and one in seventeen is a Lutheran; one in thirty-nine is an Episcopalian, and in thirty-nine one is a congregationalist. The balance of the church-going people are split up into minor sects.

New Mexico is almost entirely Roman Catholic; Arizona is three-quarters Catholic; Massachusetts. Wyoming, and Nevada are two-thirds Catholic; Connecticut, Colorado, and California are half Catholic. Methodists are strongest in Delaware, South Carolina, and Florida, numbering fifty per cent of the church goers. Baptisfs are most numerous in Mississippi, Georgia, and Virginia, claiming more than fifty per cent of the church attendants in those States. Twelve in every thirteen religious people in Utah prefer the Mormon faith; two in three are Mormons in Idaho, one in eleven in Nevada.

From the Statistical Atlas it appears that New Mexico is the most religious of the States, with 68 per cent of its population church communicants. Utah stands next with 62 per cent. The Mormons are first class church-goers for they think they know the best road to Heaven. Rhode Island, Massachusetts, and Connecticut stand high with over forty per cent of the population in the church. Vermont falls much lower; New Hampshire has a record of 27 per cent; Maine records 25 per cent. The States showing the lowest rates are in the West, where the percentage of church attendants grades off to a lamentably small fraction.

The present centre of population at this time is near Westport, Indiana, and the centre of area of the United States is in Northern Kansas, so the centre of population is three-fourths of a degree south, and more than seventeen degrees east of the centre of area, leaving room for the centre of population to move yet farther westward. As to the number of inhabitants to a square mile Rhode Island stands highest with 320, and Kentucky ranks lowest with 48 to square mile.

A Big Haul.

A professional burglar has perfect confidence in his lawyer, and does not hesitate to tell him his adventures which are often odd. Two pals in crime told their lawyer the other day how they once robbed an old woman who had a little grocery store far down town. It was rumored that this woman kept a good deal of cash by her, and to test the rumor's truth one of the wicked pals went to her shop to get a $50 note changed, and she changed it. Afterward he went to her with a $100 note, and she changed that, too. So one night they broke in on her—she lived all alone and was in bed—and while one pal held her by her withered, shrunken throat and at the same time kept a cocked revolver within an inch or two of her face, the other gallant pal ransacked the bureau drawers. After a while he spoke gleefully and held up a pocketbook and a canvas bag full of coin. The other then advised the old woman not to stir till they were safe out, and they departed swiftly. The next thing to do was to count the plunder, and they hurried to their secret lair for this purpose. The pocket book contaied 13 cents, and in the canvas bag were a lot of mutilated coins, and some handfuls of huge copper cents. The burglars laughed in telling their lawyer of this incident, but they assured him that they were in no mood for laughing at the time.—Philadelphia Record.

The Moral of the Maine Election.

The moral of the Maine election re-enforcing as it thus does that in Vermont, is plain. It shows that the "tidal wave" which rose in the Congressional elections of 1894 and swept everything before it in the national contest of 1896 has lost its force, and that the current already sets the other way. It demonstrates that the war as a piece of political strategy was was worse than a failure. Not only has the McKinley Administration failed to gain anything by the victories in Manila Bay and at Santiago, but it now suffers discredit for the war by the aftermath of Algerism in its train. Not long before yesterday's election a Maine regiment returned home from a few weeks in a Southern camp, suffering terribly from disease, and telling shocking stories of their sufferings from their bad rations, the same experience which a Vermont regiment had endured. Popular disgust with the evidence, thus brought home to hundreds of families, that the war was fruitful in the grossest abuses obscures temporarily the glory of the victories, and leaves the Administration worse off to-day than if there had been no war.—New York Evening Post.

County Sketches.

V.

THE SPEAK EASY MAN.

The word speak-easy is recognized by the Standard Dictionary, which defines it as a saloon where liquor is sold without a license. It is a slang word, originated one day by a man with an American mind which recognized the fact that a name was lacking for this particular trade It fell in fertile soil, and when millions of people had adopted it, it became a word, and the dignified college professor who did the S's in the Standard Dictionary found he could not ignore a pet word of the people and he gave it rank by embodying it in the dictionary, and now it can hold up its head with the best of them.

The speak-easy man is the natural product of a local option county. If the county is wealthy and populous there will be prosperous drug stores where liquor is sold as a medicine, but in sparsely settled communities the speak-easy man springs up and he has but one trouble—that of keeping liquor in stock. People that can not buy bread find money to buy liquor, coffee, and tobacco. The supply is soon exhausted, and therein lies the illicit seller's greatest danger. A customer comes along and is told that the liquor is out. A dark suspicion is originated at once that he is not considered a trusty man, and wreaks his vengeance by indicting him in several cases before the next grand jury. But most of the customers throw their mind out of gear when they are called to testify.

An erratic genius once established a memory clearing house. Anybody who knew any thing which he wished to forget would submit to the process and it was remembered no more by him. It would seem that a good many had weeded out all recollection of buying anything to drink whatever. In vain the foreman of the grand-jury endeavors to draw the desired information. The witness refuses to indict anybody, and that is the end or it.

For those who use at one of these places, tracking up and down the shady hollows at night or having important business in the neighborhood of the speak-easy in the day time, it is considered a great calamity to be called before the grand jury, but nine out of ten of them go through the ordeal—and tho liquor has been sold—few indictments are found, owing either to the reticence of the witness or the leniency of the grand jury.

There is a tale of a lawyer once bluffing the foreman of the grand-jury and being let go without answering. This particular foreman was a little nervous as the spokesman, and when he asked the usual question "Bought any liquor within a year?" the lawyer looked very grave and professional and asked the foreman to please put his question in legal form. The foreman protested feebly, for he was afraid of showing his ignorance and never being foreman again, but the lawyer was very firm and insisted that he be a little more specific, and not having a very good idea what that word meant, the grand-jury proceeded to call the next witness.

It is a wonder that more indictments are not found. The speak-easy man arms himself with a United States license costing $12, and this means he will have to sell about 240 drinks to get profit enough to pay back that expenditure, but the direct testimony is lacking and the defiant witness boldly tells the grand-jury that they can not get blood out of a turnip. The legislature ought to pass a law, if they really object to persons retailing spiritous liquors without a State license therefor, making the possession of a United States license prima facie evidence of the violation of the State laws against such retailing. Then the authorities could prepare an indictment stating that the liquor had been sold to Richard Roe and John Doe, two delightful fictitious characters in law, and in support of the indictment offer in evidence the fact that he had paid $12, or whatever considerable sum it costs, for a United States license, and then require the defendant to show that he had bought the little square license for wall paper or some other harmless purpose.

The President of Berea College wrote a magazine article about us as mountain whites, by which he means white people living in the mountains, we suppose, so we must accept the term. He said these mountain whites were fond of whiskey and other strong drinks, and that the use thereof [illegible] confined to any particular class and that church people did a good deal of drinking in a decent way, and the rowdy class a good deal in a less decent way. We were about to object to this, until we had thought for a moment and remembered that a good many of our temperate persons did not object to drink in private on special occasions. Some of our sober citizens who had never been seen drunk kept jugs in their corncribs, and went to get feed for their horses in the morning and consolation for themselves. And it is not marvelous. The people of this section came down from a Scotch ancestry who drank whiskey on all solemn occasions, and it made them grand, gloomy, and peculiarly well fitted for the work they had to do. Sir Walter Scott speaks of mountain dew in the Waverly Novels, and we keep the same term alive.

It is not wonderful then that the speak-easy man finds friends at court. When he comes up for trial if he can see a man on his jury who has bought liquor of him he feels reasonably safe, tho that particular juror must know how likely the charge against him is to be true.

A whiskey case was being tried in this county a good many years ago and the State witness who had been seduced to make the indictment was about to flicker. The prosecuting attorney to support his indictment picked a man out of the crowd in the court-room at random. He was one of the most prominent men of the county and at the time was sitting with the presiding judge as an intimate friend. He came to the witness-box very reluctantly and his testimony was to the effect that the prisoner, a short time before, had sent him a two-gallon jug of apple brandy, but whether he was to pay for it or not he could not say, but would be glad if they would put that question to the prisoner at that stage of the proceedings.

A typical license case was tried in this court some time since. The jury having been empaneled, the prisoner brightened perceptibly, prosecuting attorney settled down to his work to get a hung jury, and the spectators looked at the personnel of the jury and pitied the State. There were four or five men on the jury who, it was agreed, could not convict a man for violating Chapter 32, no matter how hard they tried. The result was as expected. The jury hung and was discharged, and it leaked out how they stood. As one of the jury came by, a visiting attorney of hunting proclivities shouted to him: "I do n't blame you a bit, ———, for not wanting to spoil the lick!" The juror got mad and wanted to argue the case, but the lawyer persisted that he saw where he was right in not wanting "to spoil the lick."

Suicide in Court-room.

The dignity of the Supreme Court of Tennessee was recently disturbed in a very unusual fashion. A. R. Reynolds, an employee of the Louisville and Nashville Railroad, who had been sentenced to six years in the penitentiary for defrauding his employers, was before the court on an appeal. The judgment was affirmed, and thereupon the prisoner stepped before the bench, drew a revolver from his pocket and calmly blew out his brains.

Judge Joshua Jump is running for a judgeship on the Indiana Superior Court. He is flippantly alluded to as "the running Jump."

THE HUDSONS.

Interesting Biographies of this Pocahontas Family.

W. T. P.

The Hudson family trace their ancestry to Richard Hudson, whose wife was Elizabeth Redden. They came from Augusta County early in the century, and virtually settled in the woods on the head waters of Sitlington's Creek on lands now held by their grand-sons, Warwick B. and John L. Hudson. This land was purchased from a Mr Armstrong. A small opening had been made by one Posten previously. Mr and Mrs Hudson were the parents of seven daughters and three sons.

Sally and Polly Hudson went to Ohio, and married and settled in that State.

Keziah Hudson, of whom the writer has no definite information more than that she was named after one of Job's daughters.

Rachel Hudson became Mrs William Dysard and lived in Barbour County.

Matilda married Thomas Humphries and lived in Barbour County.

Naomi became Mrs Samuel Matthews and lived in Randolph county. M. G. Matthews, late Superintendent of Pocahontas schools, Charles Matthews and Captain J. W. Matthews, of Alvon, West Virginia, are her sons.

Nancy first married John Seybert, of Highland County. Her second marriage was with Andrew Lockridge, of Bath County.

Thomas Hudson went to Missouri, and married and settled there.

Madison Hudson went to Maryland in his youth, and married and reared a large family. He prospered in business and was a citizen of prominence in neighborhood and county affairs.

Elijah Hudson married Margaret Deaver, daughter of James and Sally Deaver, who are believed to have been the first settlers on Back Alleghany. Mr and Mrs Hudson went to home keeping on the home place, and were the parents of five daughters and eight sons: Jackson, Thomas, William, Warwick Bird, Davis, Dallas, Paul McNeel, John Letcher, Sarah, Harriet, Laura, Nancy Jane and Susan. In reference to the daughters we learn the following particulars:

Sarah died in early youth.

Harriet became Mrs John E. Gumm, and lives near Green Bank. Her children are Dolly Bell, now Mrs Robert Ralston, in Highland; Nebraska, is Mrs Oscar Orndorff; Margaret is at home; Charles went to Wisconsin; William located in Colorado, and was with a party of engineers when he lost his life; Warwick operates a lumber train in Upshur County.

Laura married Madison Humphries and lives near Philippi.

Nancy Jane became Mrs Levi Beverage and lives on Clover Creek, and is the mother of five sons and six daughters.

Susan is now Mrs Uriah Bird and lives at Marlinton, and is the mother of seven daughters and a son.

In reference to Elijah Hudson's sons the following particulars are in hand:

William Hudson was a Union soldier, and settled in Missouri, where he married Maggie Palmer. They were the parents of four sons and one daughter. Their son Frank is in business in Oklahoma. William Hudson is an eminent physician and banker. He has prospered greatly in business and lives at Union Star, De Kalb Co., Missouri.

Paul McNeel Hudson also went to Missouri and married Eliza Livingstone. They are both dead, and are survived by their daughter Mary.

Davis Hudson, a Union soldier, settled in the West.

Dallas Hudson, a gallant Confederate soldier, 31st Virginia Infantry, died in battle at Port Republic.

Warwick Bird Hudson married Nancy Galford, daughter of Thomas H. Galford, and lives on a part of the homestead. Their children are William Frank, Mary Rozanna, Jessie Arden and Rachel Cornelia Margaret. W. B. Hudson was a Confederate Lieutenant, 31st Virginia Infantry, and served in the war from start to finish.

John Letcher Hudson married Margaret Virginia Gillespie, a daughter of the late John Gillespie, and resides at the old homestead on Sitlington's Creek. They are the parents of six sons and six daughters: Marion Conner, Henry Harper, David Warden, Edward Arbuckle, Luther Gilbert, William McNeel, Ethel Gracie, Hattie Jane Laura Mattie, Clara Margie, Lucy Elizabeth and Minnie Ruth.

Kindly assisted by Mrs [illegible] Hudson the writer has thus been enabled to illustrate in a measure the history of one of the oldest of Pocahontas families. It will be noticed that Elijah Hudson's descendants are the main representatives of the relationship now in our county. For this reason and others special mention is due his memory.

Elijah Hudson, Esqr., represented Pocahontas in the Virginia Legislature, was a member of the Pocahontas Court, and transacted a great deal of neighborhood business, writing wills, deeds of conveyance, and articles of agreement. He was endowed with natural abilities of a high order, and he persistently made the most of his limited opportunities for mental improvement. During his life he taught many terms in the Old Field school house for the benefit of his neighbors and his own family.

He was a speaker of more than ordinary fluency. The writer heard him on but one occasion, in 1844. His manner was instructive and logical. The tones of his voice were soft as the notes of a flute, and his enunciation was so perfect that not a word need be misunderstood. His aim seemed to be to convince and instruct rather than to be amusing. It is the impression of some that he never cracked a joke in his life while making a political address. He seemed to take it for granted that every body was sensible like himself and liked to hear sensible speaking when the welfare of the country was in question. He had a large pair of saddle bags about full of books, political pamphlets and clippings from the news papers, to which he would frequently refer to illustrate and enforce the points he made. Taken altogether the effort was statesmanlike, and much above the political harangue so much in vogue at the time. He was a Jacksonian Democrat and an appreciative reader of the Richmond Enquirer.

He died after much intense suffering March 4, 1881, aged about 80 years. Mrs Hudson survived her husband until December 31st, 1889, when she too passed away, aged about 83 years.

Late in life Mr Hudson became a member of the Liberty Church. He witnessed a very satisfactory, intelligent profession of his faith in the atoning blood of Jesus. The older people tell us that one of the most solemn scenes they ever saw at Liberty Church was when Elijah Hudson arose in the presence of the congregation, and with a contrite spirit and broken voice assumed his Christian vows before taking his place at the communion table, to take the cup of salvation and call upon his Lord and Redeemer.

A Valuable Dog.

As a variation from the snake stories, &c., now current in the Kentucky press, this item from the Richmond Register is worthy of perusal: "Mr J. S. Schooler, a farmer living near Cottonburg, this county, is the possessor of a small rat dog which he has trained to worm tobacco. The dog goes to the field with the hands and seems to take special delight in killing the pests, which he noses around on the plants for, and when discovered bites their heads off. If a worm endeavors to escape by dropping on the ground, the dog hunts for it and seldom lets it get away. Mr Schooler says the dog has been as valuable to him in his tobacco crop this year as one of his hired hands."

—A successful pugilist makes money hand over fist.

The Pocahontas Times.

Hear, Land o' Cakes and brither Scots,
Frae Maidenkirk to Johnny Groats,
If there's a hole in a' your coats,
I rede ye tent it;
A chiel's amang you takin' notes,
An' faith he'll prent it.—BURNS

Local Events.

Rev Anderson has commenced his protracted meeting at this place.

L. A. Hefner has two fine calves for which he gets 21½ dollarsa piece in October.

The engineers will move their camp to the mouth of Stamping Creek this week.

W. McClintic is working 45 men. He is located at the middle camp. It keeps men busy packing grub both ways to feed his crew.

Attention is called to the program of the Farmer's Institute, printed in this paper, arranged by its secretary, T. A. Sydenstricker.

The postmaster at Bolar, Highland county, has been arrested for not settling up his money order indebtedness. Mrs D. W. Bratton has been appointed in his stead.

B. M. Yeager returned from Grafton Saturday, accompanied by a gentleman named Brooke, who is said to be a lumber expert of Detroit sent here by the Greenbrier Valley Lumber Company.

A. C. Nickel, of Monroe county, died at Knoxville of typhoid fever. He was a member of Company L, 1st West Virginia Regiment. Last April he spent several weeks in Marlinton as agent for the Monarch Bicycle Co.

Lieut. Newton Kirkpatrick, who was drowned while bathing with a son of General Joseph Wheeler, was buried at Lexington, Va. Rev D. A. Penick conducted the services The unfortunate young man was a first cousin of James Kirkpatrick.

George Simmons and Miss Vinnie Johnson were driving down Drennan Ridge in George's new buggy. The king bolt broke and threw the occupants out. The lady was unhurt, but George cut his upper lip nearly off by striking a stone. It was sewed up by Dr Cunningham.

The Monongalia stock buyer paid for his stock with negotiable notes. Cattle are not bought that way ik Pocahontas. Formerly the stockbuyer came in with thousands of dollars in currency. Of late years farmers have been accepting checks to a great extent. Some of the dealers bring certified checks.

Charles Crickard, a constable of Valley Bend district, Randolph county, was robbed last Tuesday night near Beverly. He had been at the convention and was set upon by two men who knocked him on the head and took all his money, about $21.00 There is no clue as to who the assailants were.

H. H. McClintic left Monday with 400 lambs for the Philadelphai market. 232 of them were raised by himself. He had 232 and only 6 were unfit for market. They averaged over 70 pounds. The lot is pronounced by W. McClintic, who has bought more lambs than almost any one else in the county, to be the finest lot he ever saw together.

Lias P. Harmon, the great hunter, who used to live on Spruce Knob, has returned to Pocahontas. He has been living in Clifton Forge. There his house was robbed of all his portable property. He was taken sick with flux and being unable to bear camping, he and his wife and son are domiciled temporarily in the toll house. He says he hopes to spend the rest of his life in Pocahontas.

Dr Price has received enough alinit fertilizer for one acre of wheat which he will use for an experiment. It is a new discovery, the object being to enable the plant to extract the nitrogen needed for its growth. Forty grains is all that is required for an acre. It is a white powder. The wheat is dampened and the powder mixed with it. When placed in the ground the alinit works after the manner of yeast. If this proves a success the question of hauling fertilizers will be settled.

A change has been suggested in the mail route from here to Mingo. The mail from Ronceverte waits over here from evening to the next day at 2-30. The mail should leave at six when the other mails go out. The Mingo post master is opposed to the change as his mails leave at the middle of the day. It has been suggested that when the trains run to Huttonsville, as they will in a month or so, that the change will be effected then of a necessity, as the mail will come to Mingo at night.

M. G. Mathews was tending the telephone last week at Bird's store. Judge Bird was at Edray. He called him up and said he was Grafton: John T. McGraw at the phone. Just then he heard Mr Mathews speak to the children, "Don't make so much noise, I'm talking to McGraw." He then received the message, "Twenty miles of railroad let to contract, and Marlinton will boom next week." The report started and is still spreading. Every now and then somebody turns up and asks if there be any truth in the report.

PERSONAL.

Born to G. F. Crummett and wife a daughter.

John Sydenstricker will teach the Marlinton school.

Miss Anna Wallace is teaching the Locust Creek school.

John A. McLaughlin will teach the Droop Mountain school.

Miss Bertie Baxter opened the West Marlinton school last week.

Frank Hill has gone to the University of Virginia to study law.

See Pullin & Co.'s advertisement They turn over a new leaf this week.

Aaron Kee attended the Clarksburg fair, and visited relatives in Harrison County.

John Hunter McClintic got a fish-bone in his throat last Sunday morning and the doctor had to be called in.

George Auldridge, of Iowa, and sister Mrs Newcomer, of Ronceverte, are visiting in the neighborhood of Edray.

L. M. McClintic and W. A. Bratton were taking depositions in the Dixon-O'Connel case in Ronceverte Friday and Saturday.

H. H. McClintic will finish his house this week. He has now on his place on the head of William's River one of the largest houses and the largest barn in the county. The house contains 14 rooms, ten of which are furnished. The other four are to be fitted up when he needs them.

Daniel Kellison.

Died, September 6th, 1898, at his home on Dry Branch Swago, Daniel Kellison in the 87th year of his age. He was born January 23, 1812. October 23, 1833, he was married to Elizabeth McNeill, daughter of the late Squire John McNeill, and settled on the Dry Branch, where he built up a nice and comfortable home. Mrs Kellison died July 18, 1886, aged 72 years. These worthy persons were the parents of ten children, but four of whom are now living.

Mr Kellison was a devout member of the Methodist church, a highly esteemed citizen, and one of the kindest of neighbors. He suffered intensely in the latter years of his long life, and so death comes as a sweet relief after his toils and sufferings, and we devoutly hope he has been made glad according to the years and days wherein he has seen trouble and been afflicted.

W. T. P.

Runaway Accident.

WELCOME HOME,
Sept. 19, 1898.

A funny runaway accident ocourred here September 14. Six young ladies from a nearby village were spending the day at Capt. S's. In the afternoon they joined the Captain and wife and some Western ladies who were boiling apple-butter. There were 12 around the apple-butter kettle. One fair maiden suggested they take a ride in a buggy standing near. Two girls got in the buggy, two took hold of the shafts, and a fifth took her place at the back. The buggy, ran violently down a steep hill and into a plank fence. The girls were unhurt but their pleasure was spoiled for awhile. This as seen from the Green Bank.

BIG SLED.

Murder and Suicide.

Henry Robinson, of Lewisburg, a colored man, had been separated from his wife, who was working as a domestic in Dr Rucker's family. On hearing that she intended to apply for a divorce, he armed himself and went to Dr Rucker's and shot and killed her. He returned to the town of Lewisburg and there killed himself.

James A. Whiting came up from Ronceverte Monday. He reports great progress in the telephone. The wires belonging to other companies between Lewisburg and Ronceverte have been placed on cross-bars. He wants to start to stretching wire next Monday. The poles in Greenbrier are nearly all in. On top of Droop solid rock was struck in nearly every hole.

Saturday a party composed of two men a woman came over from Elk. They had two horses, and the woman was riding one without a saddle. They stayed all night at Pete Carr's on Greenbrier River, four or five miles above Marlinton. Monday a party of four men arrived here from Clay in pursuit of them. They are accused of stealing the horses.

If any students go from this countey to the West Virginia University this year they may be glad to know that The Acme Book Store, of Morgantown, W. Va., is prepared to furnish them with University Text-Books, second hand, and shelf-worn. You can save a great deal by buying all your school supplies of them.

The Acme Book Store, Morgantown, W. Va., has arranged to furnish students of the University with Text-Books, second hand and shelf-worn, at about one-half what they would pay for the new books. They also deal in all kinds of supplies for students.

W. W. Tyree has shipped over 1600 chickens lately without losing one in transit.

DUNMORE.

Hot and dry.

Sam Hall and Miss Grace Jones are out on a visit.

Jacob Carey and John Walker are in from Horton.

The planing mill will be run at Dunmore next week.

Otis Warwick and lady spent several days visiting.

The machinery for Col Pritchard's mill will be on this week.

Colonel Gay has moved his photograph gallery to Green Bank.

Jeard hustles the mail on time. Blows his horn like a steamship whistle.

Reese and Charley Pritchard are off to Beverly. J. K. Taylor is off to Ronceverte.

Brown Yeager was in town last week and says the railroad will be all right when it comes.

The people of Green Bank have commenced a good thing if they will keep it up. That is hauling the rock out of the lane below the town.

If all the beer had been in the North Fork above Hevener's mill that was drunk at the Stony Bottom picnic it would have run the mill till the next wet spell comes.

Singing at Liberty Church Sunday. Addresses by Wallace Sutton, Dr J. P. Moomau, and K. D. Swecker on the influence of music &c. All are invited to come out at 1 p. m.

Swecker caught the largest bass of the season; 17 in. long, 10 in. wide, 3lb 9 oz. It took more ground to land the bass on than it took for Dewey to land when he took Santiago.

The singing was largely attended at Green Bank Sunday. The District was organized for the purpose of carrying on singing hereafter; C. B. Swecker, Chairman; Andrew Oliver, Secretary.

A gang of horse thieves passed through town this morning, two men and a woman with two stolen horses. Later in the day five men went after them. We understand they were from Wirt County.

JOHN SLICKHAMMER.

The League Festival.

The Epworth League festival held at Marvin Chapel last Saturday resulted in a grand and glorious success. Sixty-one dollars was taken in, which will be sufficient sum to paint the church.

Thanks, thanks to the good people from different parts of the county who were present. Their liberality has shown how much they appreciate the efforts of the Epworth League. The day was favorable indeed and the behavior was of the very best. Take it all in all, the League festival was the nicest and best that has ever been held at Marvin Chapel.

The all-day sing did not last quite all day as was at first expected; there was too much business going on outside the church to hold a crowd inside. The president the of the Association was present. He introduced a new book and sang some choice selections, assisted by Miss Lula Waugh at the organ.

The time is drawing near for the fall session of the Musical Association, which we believe will be held at Mary's Chapel on Elk, judging from the expression of the leading singers,

At that Association there will be an election of officers. I want to say right here that Mr Waugh is the right man in the right place. He stands head and shoulders above any one else in the county as President of the Association, he has its interests at heart, and should be re-elected President.

Before we close we wish to state that the Hillsboro Cornet Band deserves special praise on account of their prompt attendance and faithful service rendered, which was a great addition to the festival in the way of entertainment.

W. H. S.

Gifted Boys You Read About.

Bring to me my large revolver, and my keen Damascus blade, and and the rubber boots I 'm used to when in gore I freely wade. Hither bring my trusty sandbag, bring the snickersnee, I say; for my day has come for murder, and I 'm going forth to slay. I shall go forth to the slaughter, like a bridegroom to his joys, and I 'll fill the nearest graveyard with a string of gifted boys. I shall brain the boy attorney, with a spasm of delight; and the boy who preaches Sundays he shall fall before my might. On the trail of boy physicians gayly, gladly will I camp; let the boy pianists tremble when they hear my roaring tramp. When I strike the boyish statesman he must say his prayers and die; when the boy reporter meets me, mark ye how the fur shall fly. For I 'm weary and disgusted, and my mind has lost its poise, I have read such beastly twaddle treating of the gifted boys—"The Vow of a Boy Nemesis," by J. P. Brown.

Feed Stable.

I am going to run the feed stable near the Court-House during October Court. Harry McDowell will have charge of the horses. Good hay and grain. 25 cents per feed.

J. A. SHARP.

To Cure Constipation Forever.
Take Cascarets Candy Cathartic. 10c or 25c. If C. C. C. fail to cure, druggists refund money.

Organization of the Pocahontas Telephone Company.

Pursuant to a call previously issued, the stockholders of the Pocahontas Telephone Company met at the office of H. S. Rucker in the town of Huntersville on Friday, September 16, at 10 o'clock.

The stockholders present when the meeting was called to order were Amos Barlow, Stewart Boggs, Dennis Dever, Samuel Sheets, Jas. Harper, J. A. Sharp, H. A. Yeager B. F. McElwee, H. S. Rucker, and S. B. Scott. B. F. McElwee produced produced proxies to vote the stock of I. B. Moore, James Wanles, H. M. Moore, and E. N. Moore; and James Harper produced a proxy to vote the stock of J. B. Lockridge, and they were accordingly allowed to vote the stock of said parties in the meeting.

On motion of E. A. Smith, J. P. Moomau was elected Chairman of the meeting. On motion of H. S. Rucker, S. B. Scott was elected Secretary of the meeting.

Motions being in order, H. S. Rucker moved that the present stockholders, viz: H. M. Moore, Sam Sheets, James Wanless, B. F. McElwee, W. H. Hull, J. P. Moomau, E. N. Moore, J. A. and Price Moore, I. B. Moore, D. W. Dever, J. B. Lockridge, H. S. Rucker, L. M. McClintic, J. A. Sharp, H. A Yeager, S. B. Scott, J. W. Yeager, Smith and Whiting, N. C. McNeil S. J. Boggs, Amos Barlow, D. B. McElwee, Hannah and Harper, C. A. Lightner, S. C. Pritchard, and C. L. Austin, organize a company under the name of the Pocahontas Telephone Company, for the purpose of erecting a telephone line from Marlinton to Green Bank by way of Huntersville, Driscol, Frost, and Dunmore, and to other places, which motion was duly carried.

On motion the meeting adjourned for dinner,

New stockholders present after dinner were D. B. McElwee and Price Moore.

On motion of H. A. Yeager, A. Barlow was elected President of the Pocahontas Telephone Co.

On motion of E. Smith, Samuel Sheets was elected Secretary of the company.

On motion of H. A. Yeager, B. F. McElwee was elected General Manager of the company.

The following gentlemen were duly elected to act as a board of directors for the company: D. W. Dever, D. B. McElwee, James Harper, J. P. Moomau, and H. A. Yeager.

The following resolutions were offered and adopted.

Resolved, that the stockholders of the Pocahontas Telephone Co. believe it to be to the interest of all companies having telephone lines or parts of lines operating in Pocahontas County, and to the citizens of the county, to enter into an association with arrangements fair to all, whereby messages started at any point in the county may be forwarded without extra charge over all or any part of said lines to their destination, and to this end we invite both the Greenbrier and Pocahontas and the Beverly and Marlinton lines to co-operate with us to bring about such an arrangement.

Resolved further, that it is the sense of this meeting that all three companies should connect at Marlinton, the county seat of Pocahontas, and we agree to pay the Beverly and Marlinton telephone company for their work already done from Marlinton to Huntersville, and the Secretary is authored to forward to each of said companies a copy of this resolution.

BUCKEYE.

Rev Price preached a good sermon to the people Sunday.

Walter Cleek was up to see his girl and get seed wheat.

W. McClintic spent a few days at home from his camp.

Malvin Overholt, of Frankford, has been visiting in this part.

Robert Hall sings "Jennie my own true love" for a livelihood.

A. W. McNeil is in the sheep business, We know of his buying two last week.

George Dean, of Williamsburg, is in this part. Robison & Dean, of White Sulphur are in this part looking after sheep.

SLICK HAMMER.

DRISCOL.

Miss Emma Warwick is no better

Howard McElwee has returned to the Horton lumber camp after a short visit at home.

Joe Buzzard writes to the paper—It's a boy!

Miss Kate McElwee has been sick for several days, but is better now.

Rodney Bussard is off to Horton hunting work.

Preaching at New Hope next Sunday at 10-30 o'clock.

George Robison and Ed Jackson made a flying trip to the Hot Springs, and stopped to see their interest as they came back.

Mrs Laura Herald is getting along finely with her school.

FRANZ.

The pain of a burn or scald is almost instantly relieved by applying Chamberlain's Pain Balm. It also heals the injured parts more quickly than any other treatment, and without the burn is very severe does not leave a scar.

CASH is King!

With that potent force in hand we get Bargains that Credit never sees. We aim to handle the best class of goods. Good value with us means more than a mere

LOW PRICE

It goes on to embrace quality. We do not handle

AUCTION GOODS.

Come and see us and judge for yourself of the business we do. We are constantly receiving new goods, and we guarantee the smallest of our patrons the same courteous attention given the largest.

Yours for Low Prices and Good Goods,

L. D. Sharp,
LINWOOD, W. VA.

The Levels News.

Edited by Payne Bros.

Vol. 1 Academy, W. Va., Sept. 22, 1898. No. 36

Market Report, Sept. 22, 1898.
—Eggs 12c per dozen.
—Butter 12½ per pound.
—Oats 30c per bushel.
—Wheat 80c per bushel.
—Ginseng dry $3 per lb.
Hams 12½, Sides 10c, Shoulders, 10c per lb.
—Wool 18c lb.

—AT PAYNE BROS.

—Floor oil cloth at Payne Bros.

—Barrow teeth at Payne Bros.

—Oliver Chilled Plows and repairs at Payne Bros.

—Linseed oil and paints very low at Payne Bros.

—Stoves and piping at Payne Bros.

—Send your orders to Payne Bros. for clean seed wheat.

—Fresh and clean Timothy seed at Payne Bros.

—New clothing at lowest prices at Payne Bros.

—Imperial Plows and repairs at Payne Bros.

—Silver Steel Plows and repairs at Payne Bros.

—Malta Hillside Plows and repairs at Payne Bros.

The West Virginia Herald, of Charleston, issued its first copy last Sunday. It has solid financial backing and proposes to become the leading paper of the State. It is possible that it may become such.

Committee Meeting.

The Executive Committee of the Pocahontas County Musical Association will meet at Marlinton at the Court House in the County Court room, Tuesday, October 4, 1898, at 1 P. M., to select a place to hold the fall meeting. Any one wishing the convention to visit their neighborhood this fall can let it be known through The Times or write direct to me.

JOHN WAUGH,
President.

One of the leading book houses in the State is the Acme Book Store of Morgantown, W. Va. They buy and sell second-hand University Text Books, and in this way save students many dollars in the course of a year. If you go to the University this year give the Acme people a call.

Best grades of Roller Flour at

G. L. HANNAH'S,
Yelk, W. Va.
BARLOW & MOORE'S,
Edray, W. Va.
J. H. CURRY'S,
Green Bank, W. Va.
B. L. NOTTINGHAM'S,
Dunmore, W. Va.
J. H. DOYLE,
Huntersville, W. Va.

FARMER'S INSTITUTE.

Academy, October 7, and 8.

PROGRAM.

Friday, October 7.

9 A. M.

MUSIC.

Prayer	Rev. D. S. Sydenstricker D. D.
Talk by the President of the Board	Isaac McNeel
How shall we interest our Farmers in Institute work,	G. H. McGlaughlin
Commercial Fertilizers and do they pay in our County,	F. A. Renick
Horses	M. A. Dunlap

Announcements and Appointment of Committees.
Music followed by Recess.

2 P. M.

MUSIC.

Public Highways—how made—why made—where made —when made—Sign Boards	Geo. P. Moore
Educated Farmers	D. L. Barlow
Educate your Boys	Dennis Williams
How to make farming pay	H. M. Moore
Sheep for Wool and Mutton	S. H. Clark

Music followed by Adjournment.

Saturday, October 8.

9 A. M.

MUSIC.

Prayer	Rev J. H. Dills
Best and most Practical way to apply stable Manure	Geo. R. Curry
Are Dogs profitable Property	T. D. Moore
Polled Angus Cattle	Maj A. C. L. Gatewood
Some Mistakes we Farmers make	George H. Lewis

Talks by Members of the Board.

2 P. M.

Report of Committee and Election of Officers.

MUSIC.

Are the Aims of the Public School System properly carried out	J. W. Baxter Professor Morris
The Young Peoples' Associates	Rev Sydenstricker Rev J. H. Dills
The best Way to Handle and Care for Cattle in the Winter Season	M. J. McNeel R. W. Hill

Remarks by Members of the State Board.
MUSIC

NOTICE.

SILLING & SLAVEN,

TIN, SHEET-IRON
ROOFING,
GUTTER SPOUTING,
ROOF PAINTING,
FLUES, STOVE PIPE.
GALVANIZED FLUES,
SMOKE STACKS.
FRUIT DRYERS,
GALVANIZED TANKS,
AND CISTERNS.

Shop-Made Tin Ware Always on Hand.

LIGHTNING RODS.

Work Done on Short Notice.

Call or write to

SILLING & SLAVEN,
ACADEMY, W. VA.

Notice to Tax-Payers.

I will meet you in person or by my Deputies at the following places for the purpose of receiving your taxes:

Travellers Repose	Oct. 12, 1898
Green Bank,	Oct. 13,
Dunmore	Oct. 14.
Frost	Oct. 15,
Huntersville	Oct. 17,
Linwood	Oct. 19,
Edray	Oct. 21,
Marlinton	Oct. 22,
Lobelia,	Oct. 24,
Academy	Oct. 25.

A discount of 2½ per cent will be given to all persons who pay all their tax in cash on the days aforesaid. No discount given when paid with drafts.

September 12, 1898.

R. W. HILL, S. P. C.

C.B. SWECKER,
General Auctioneer
and Real Estate Agent.

I sell Coal, Mineral and Timber Lands. Farms and Town Lots a specialty. 21 years in the business. Correspondence solicited Reference furnished.

Postoffice—Dunmore, W. Va., or Alexander, W. Va.

Chronic Diarrhoea Cured.

This is to certify that I have had chronic diarrhoea ever since the war. I got so weak I could hardly walk or do anything. One bottle of Chamberlains Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy cured me sound and well.—J. R. Gibbs, Fincastle, Virginia.

I had chronic diarrhoea for 12 years. Three bottles of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy cured me.

S. L. SHAVER, Fincastle, Va.

Both Mr Gibbs and Mr Shaver are prominent farmers and reside near Fincastle, Va. They procured the remedy from Mr W E. Casper, a druggist of that place, who is well acquainted with them and will vouch for the truth of their statements. For sale by Barlow & Moore, Edray; Amos Barlow, Huntersville.

No-To-Bac for Fifty Cents.
Guaranteed tobacco habit cure, makes weak men strong, blood pure. 50c, $1. All druggists.

Fiduciary Notice.

The following fiduciary account of A. N. Barlow, Admr. of Jacob W. Sharp, is before me for final settlement. L. M. McCLINTIC,
Commissioner of Accounts Pocahontas County.

Also the accounts of Andrew Price, Administrator of Peter Beverage, dec'd.

L. M. McCLINTIC,
Commissioner of Accounts of Pocahontas County.

NOTICE.

TO THE PUBLIC:

I have turned over a NEW LEAF and determined to sell goods cheaper than ever Sell Strictly for CASH and good TRADE. Bring on your trade and cash, and I will treat you right—with or without contract!

NEW GOODS.

I am getting in new DRY GOODS—good goods bought at close prices, and will sell close. I can sell cheaply as anyone else for my expenses are light, and handling all sorts of produce people can pay me what they owe.

PLEASE EXAMINE
my new stock of goods before buying elsewhere. I am
EASY TO PAY,
EASY TO PLEASE!

COFFEE 10c
SUGAR 6c.
All other goods likewise.
Yours for Business,

S. J. Boggs
HUNTERSVILLE, W.V.

$8 to $15 Saved on Mens Suit

BY BUYING DIRECT FROM
E. ROSENBURGER & CO.,
202-204 E. 102d St., NEW YORK CITY.
The Largest Clothing Manufacturers in America.

OUR GREAT BARGAIN OFFER!

$5 BOYS' ADONIS SUITS FOR 2.76
with Extra Pants and we Pay Expressage.

These suits are guaranteed to be made from imported Wool Cheviot, in Black, Blue, Grey and Brown, in sizes from 3 to 9 years of age. Made up double-breasted, with Sailor Collar—Collar fancy embroidered—lined with fast Black Albert Twill Sateen and Patent Waist Bands. Trimming and Workmanship the very best. Sizes for 10 to 15 years, without Sailor Collar. Mention age and if large or small.

Men's & Youths' Suits in same proportionate low prices.
This Style Sizes 3 to 9 with Extra Pair Pants
$2.76
This style 10 to 15 years.
$2.76

When ordering send Post Office, Express Money Order or Registered Letters, also age at last birthday, and if large or small for his age. Money cheerfully refunded if not satisfactory. Send 2c. stamps for samples, tape measure, measuring blanks, etc.

The Pocahontas Times.

Andrew & Norman Price, Owners. "Montani Semper Liberi!" Andrew Price, Editor

VOL. 16, NO. 10 MARLINTON, WEST VIRGINIA, SEPTEMBER 29, 1898. $1.00 PER YEAR

From FACTORY to CONSUMER.

$1.39 buys this (exact) Rattan Rocker, the largest size ever made; per dozen, $14.50. Our new 112-page catalogue containing Furniture, Draperies, Crockery, Baby Carriages, Refrigerators, Stoves, Lamps, Pictures, Mirrors, Bedding, etc., is yours for the asking. Special supplements just issued are also free. Write to-day. CARPET CATALOGUE in lithographed colors is also mailed free. Write for it. If you wish samples, send 8c. stamp. Matting samples also mailed for 8c. All Carpets sewed free this month and freight paid on $9 purchases and over.

$7.45 buys a made-to-your-measure All-Wool Cheviot Suit, expressage prepaid to your station. Write for free catalogue and samples. Address (exactly as below),

JULIUS HINES & SON,
Dept. 909. BALTIMORE, MD.

LAW CARDS.

N. C. McNEIL,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

Will practice in the Courts of Pocahontas and adjoining counties and in the Court of Appeals of the State of West Virginia.

L. M. McCLINTIC,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

Will practice in the Courts of Pocahontas and adjoining counties and in the Supreme Court of Appeals.

H. S. RUCKER,
ATT'Y. AT LAW & NOTARY PUBLIC
HUNTERSVILLE, W. VA.

Will practice in the courts of Pocahontas county and in the Supreme Court of Appeals.

J. W. ARBUCKLE,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
LEWISBURG, W. VA.

Will practice in the courts of Greenbrier and Pocahontas counties. Prompt attention given to claims for collection in Pocahontas county.

W. A. BRATTON,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

Prompt and careful attention given to all legal business.

ANDREW PRICE,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

Will be found at Times Office.

SAM. B. SCOTT, JR.
LAWYER,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

All legal business will receive prompt attention.

H. M. LOCKRIDGE,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
HUNTERSVILLE, W. VA.

Prompt and careful attention given all legal work.

JOHN A. PRESTON FRED. WALLACE
PRESTON & WALLACE,
Attorneys at Law,
LEWISBURG, W. VA.

Will practice in the Courts of Greenbrier and adjoining counties, and in the Court of Appeals of the State of West Virginia.

J. W. YEAGER,
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

Prompt attention given to collections

T. S. McNEEL,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

Will practice in the Courts of Pocahontas and adjoining counties.

PHYSICIANS' CARDS.

DR. O. J. CAMPBELL,
DENTIST,
MONTEREY, VA.

Will visit Pocahontas County at least twice a year. The exact date of his visit will appear in this paper.

DR. J. H. WEYMOUTH,
RESIDENT DENTIST,
ELKINS, W. VA.

Will visit Pocahontas County every spring and fall. The exact date of each visit will appear in The Times.

J. M. CUNNINGHAM, M. D.,
PHYSICIAN & SURGEON,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

Office next door to C. A. Yeager's Hotel. Residence opposite Hotel. All calls promptly answered.

I LOVED HER.

I loved her. Why? I never knew; perhaps Because her face was fair. Perhaps because Her eyes were blue and wore a weary air.
Perhaps! Perhaps because her limpid face
Was eddied with a restless tide, wherein,
The dimples found no place to anchor and Abide. Perhaps because her tresses beat
A froth of gold about her throat, and poured
In splendor to the feet that ever seemed Afloat. Perhaps because of that wild way
Her sudden laughter o'erleapt propriety;
Or—who will say—perhaps the way she wept.

—James Whitcomb Riley.

County Sketches.

VI.

THE SANG-DIGGER.

Two men and two women squatted on the ground underneath a big birch tree on the bank of a mountain stream. It was in the heart of the wilderness. The stream poured over the rocks and filled the air with the sound of rushing waters; the sun glinted through the tops of the trees, grown too tall in their crowded condition to afford a perfect shade. It was in the afternoon of a summer day, and the camp-fire smouldered against the trunk of the birch, sending out spiteful puffs of smoke in the faces of the men when the summer breeze varied, causing them to curse the wind and the fire savagely. A few of the articles necessary in camp-life lay piled at the foot of a tree. The bag of meal, on which they depended for the little bread they ate, hung from the branch of a sapling near by, as did their precious bags of sang. The men's guns and a fishing pole completed the list of portable property visible.

This was a gang of sangers. They depend upon finding that strange herb which the Chinese prize so highly that it has become an article of commerce. Derived from the Chinese jintsan, it is "ginseng" in the price lists sent by commission merchants to country store-keepers, and "sang" to us who live among the mountains where it abounds. It is worth several dollars a pound, but it has become so rare that none but the sangers, a distinct class, find any profit in looking for it. They find it as the wild animals find their food; and the efforts of owners of large mountain tracts of land to keep them off in order to let the plant increase, or to save their sheep from being slaughtered, are as unavailing as if they had written the deer not to cross their line and feed upon their land. The sanger who digs the root is farther from the light than the "heathen Chinee" who considers it the greatest medicine in the world. When in the mood the sanger will search the woods for days, and then remain idling about his camp until he feels the impulse to work again. They are amenable to no law; they know nothing of jury duty or paying taxes, and they market their votes to best advantage.

The members of the party were distinguished by their given name. The sanger may have had a family name to descend to him as his only heritage, but it would have probably sounded strange to his ears had it been used in addressing him. The men were Big Elick and Sam. They were men between forty and fifty years of age, and their faces bore the same lines of life that men's in the usual occupations wear. Out in the world men of their age were buying and selling and governing, but it was hard to imagine either of these men clothed in decent clothes and performing the duties of the leading citizen. Tall, swarthy men they were, with straggling whiskers over their faces. The clothes they wore had the look of never having been removed from their bodies since they were put on. The pallor of their faces, caused by life in the shaded woods, showed through the dirt which had accumulated on the skin. As one of them once said, they "hardly ever washed."

The women were distinguished by the names of Liz and Bet. Liz was was a middle-aged woman and Bet was younger, not out of her teens. Early that year the men had found the two women in their camp, where they were located on a summer sanging expedition, and they had married them after the fashion of the woods, which makes it a good marriage as long as it lasts, but its continuance depends greatly on the wishes of the contracting parties. There were no legal formalities; no blessings by the church; yet while it lasted the union was respected, and the people were as much married as is customary in the woods.

Sam had courted and won the girl, while Big Elick was the husband of the older woman, Liz. Their fate was settled by the two men. Big Elick proposed on the first opportunity that he would toss up with Sam as to who was to court the girl, for he said that if they both "went fer the young gal the old gall 'd be a hellcat on wheels and break up the picnic." This was his way of saying: "Hell hath no fury like a woman scorned."

They settled the matter in a satisfactory manner by taking a deck of cards and agreeing on the choice going to him who got the first jack. Sam must have had a touch of poetry in him for he proposed that the queen of hearts decide it. It was rejected by Big Elick, who cursed his luck when that card came to him. He lost, but his policy no doubt won them both a wife.

At the time of which we write the two couples were settled down to a matrimonial life. It should be noted that the two women had been widowed by the interference of the law, and the year before the portals of the penitentiary had opened to receive their husbands, who had been convicted of shooting a yearling stear when game was scarce. The officers had found beef in the camp, and the sangers had been tried and convicted.

That day in the camp at the foot of the big birch a game of cards had been going on. Big Elick was winning everything and the sweat stood on Sam's forehead as he played as if for his life. The men had gambled all summer, but until that day the loser had not been so badly off but that he had been able to settle by the transfer of some of his sang to his neighbor's collection. But now the constellation of Big Elick was in the ascendant, and Sam, who had been lucky in love, was suffering in property. From early morning he had been facing disaster. Do what he would Big Elick had been winning two games to his one. When the score stood six to six and Big Elick had the deal, he would turn a jack. The cards that fell to Sam were enough to provoke a saint. In vain he tried all the hoodoos he knew of to turn his luck. The sang had all gone. His share of the camp equipments had been lost, and with a dry throat he put up his rifle against all he had lost, three games out of five, and lost again. He was at the end of his resources. He proposed to stake his shirt against a handful of sang for one game. Big Elick refused.

"Got a shirt, Sam. How many do you think a feller needs? Tell you what though—say, you wimen git on down the crick and ketch a mess of fish!" Having waited for them to leave he continued: "Sposing we swop women? You natchcherly wa'med me up on the deal in the fust place. I 'll put up all yer truck and Liz fer bes' three outen five and you put Bet on the game."

The proposition was not unusual, and it was Hobson's choice with Sam and he took it. They played again and the series of games stood two to two and the last game five points to Sam, six to Big Elick. Big Elick dealt, Sam got little clubs and the jack of diamonds. Big Elick turned the queen of spades. Sam played a deep game. He regarded his hand thoughtfully for a full minute, as if he was weighing a doubtful hand instead of the worst one that ever was dealt in the woods. He finally begged, and Big Elick gave him a point instead, dealing again. Sam threw down his hand with an oath, and Big Elick then disclosed the fact that he had but one trump the eight of spades, but it was high and low in this game of seven-up. He had judged rightly that Sam had not a trump.

Sam got up and straightened out. "Ef I hed a drink of liquor I 'd be all hunkydory. Got ter cut corn this fall, I reckon. Hain't done no farm work fer twenty years."

In the meantime the women had gone down stream.

"Them hellions," said Liz, "air gwine to play fer us."

"Well, I do n't keer," replied Bet, "there aint any chice betwixt em."

"I knows that," said Liz, "but I never knowed whether it was right ter swop a woman like a horse outen in the settlement."

But they both agreed that they would have to let the men settle it themselves.

This was destined to be an eventful day. At the forks of the creek the women came upon their former husbands back to the woods again, and dressed in the good clothes furnished by the State to discharged convicts. They were looking for their wives and heard with great concern that they had "tuk up" with Big Elick and Sam. The more so that their rifles had gone to pay the lawyer who defended them, while the other sangers were fully armed.

The women told them they must settle the matter among themselves and thus they parted. Liz and Bet agreed they wanted their first husbands back, but that they would have to keep their contract. and going back to camp they decided to let matters drift. The women reached camp and got supper and were informed that there had been an exchange of wives. The sangers heaped wood on their fire, and all the camp was soon asleep.

When the night was well spent Bet was awakened cautiously by the older woman, who pointed at the fire and then looked significantly at the sleeping men. The fire had been maintained for several days at the foot of the birch, and this night it had taken fire and was burning fiercely. The heat that it gave out only added to the comfort of the exhausted gamblers and caused them to sleep the sounder. For a long while, it seemed to them, the women watched the fire eat into the trunk of the tree, stolidly waiting for what might happen. Suddenly the tree broke, and far over the forest creshing, it came down. The sleepers awoke and perhaps experienced a moment of terror as the immense body of the tree crushed them to death.

Then out of the forest came two men and hastily gathering together the camp outfit, the four sangers slunk away into the darkness.

Beecher's Quick Retort.

Henry Ward Beecher was once approached by a young man who considered himself very clever, says the San Francisco Argonaut.

"Do yo know Mr Beecher," he said, "I've been thinking that I would settle down, behave myself, and join your church. Now I like your preaching, but when I go to your church and see such men as old S—— and others grasping skinflints and hypocrites to the core, sitting there in full membership, why the thing is a little too much for me, and really I cannot join."

"Well, you're right," said Mr Beecher, "every church has such men and I fancy Plymouth is not free from them. And until you spoke I always wondered why the good Lord permitted it. Now I understand."

"Ah," gurgled the young fellow, "I am glad I have thrown light on the question. What strikes you as reason, Mr Beecher?"

Well, replied the great preacher, "it is permitted in order to keep just such fools out of the churches."

The man who would make a figure must get over all false modesty.

THE GALFORD CONNEXION.

Descendants of Thomas Galford, from the Middle Valley, 1770.

W. T. P.

So far as now known, Thomas Galford, Senior, was the original ancestor of the Pocahontas Galfords. It is believed he came from the Middle Valley, and was of Scotch descent. Thomas Galford lived on the place now held by F. Patterson and Charles Nottingham on Glade Hill, and it is the opinion of most that he came there just previous to the Revolution.

Thomas Galford had a brother John, of whom but little is now known. There was a sister Jennie who became Mrs Otho Gum, and lived at the head of Crab Bottom, Highland County. There was another sister, whose name can not now be recalled, who became Mrs John Chestnut, on Little Back Creek, where she has numerous descendants.

Thomas Galford, Senior, married Naomi Slaven, an aunt of Newlen Slaven, late of Meadow Dale, and they were the parents of two sons, John and Thomas, Jr.; and a daughter, Elizabeth.

John Galford married Jennie McLaughlin; lived on the home place, finally went to Lewis County and and settled near Walkersville. There were five sons and one daughter: Allen, John, William, James, Thomas, and Naomi.

Naomi Galford died a young woman in Lewis County.

John Galford, Junior, married Frederika Hillery and lived at Huntersville, where he conducted a flourishing tannery. Two sons and one daughter, Harrison, Geo., and Mary, who is now Mary V. Rodgers, near Buckeye.

John Galford's second marriage was with Mary Simmons, daughter of the late Nicholas Simmons, Hampton and Lydia, now Mrs Lee Overholt, her children.

Thomas Galford married Margaret Curry, on Back Mountain. Their children John, Brown, Naomi, Abigal, now Mrs L. A. Hefner on Swago. Lanty A. Hefner was a Confederate soldier from '61-'65, attached to Colonel G. M. Edgar's Battalion. They are the parents of nine sons and two daughters.

James Galford married Margaret Anderson, in Lewis County. They are the parenta of seven children. Everett is a teacher of high schools. Homer lives at Walkersville. Jas. Galford is in fine circumstances financially and a highly esteemed, influential citizen of Lewis County.

Allan Galford married Nancy Cassell, and lived on the Greenbrier near the mouth of Deer Creek. They were the parents of four daughters and three sons. Full particulars are given of his family in the Cassell sketches.

Allan Galford was a well-known citizen and prospered financially. He died not long since aged 82 years. Several years since he sought the forgiveness of his sins and united with the church at the age of 77 years. He left in manuscript a very sincere confession of his faith in the merits of his Savior's atoning blood.

Thomas Galford, Junior, one of the ancestal brothers, was first married to Naomi Slaven, a relative, and settled on a part of the Glade Hill homestead, and thence moved and located on property now held by the late Harvey Curry's family, near Dunmore. By this marriage there was one daughter, Jane who married her cousin William Galford, son of John Galford, Sr., and first settled on the head of Sitlington's Creek. on the farm now owned by her son William Wellington Galford, and finally moved near Dunmore. The following particulars are hand about her children:

John Galford, a Confederate soldier in the 31st Virginia Infantry, was wounded at Gettysburg and died at Richmound soon after, in Chimborazo hospital.

Thomas Galford married Lizzie Vint, and lived and died near Dunmore.

James Galford died while on a visit to relatives in Highland. His memory is cherished as an earnest Christian man, and a person of promise for good citizenship.

William W. Galford married Ada Mayse, daughter of the late Jubal Mayse, and lives at the head of Sitlington Creek.

Elizabeth Galford, a young woman. died at the home place near Dunmore.

Nancy Galford lives on a part of the homestead.

Naomi Galford died soon after reaching womanhood.

Marietta Galford died when nearly grown of pulmonary affection.

In his second marriage Thomas Galford, Junior, was married to Henrietta Sutton, and there were no children.

Thomas Galford, Jr., was a very pronounced Confederate sympathizer, and as such he was regarded a dangerous citizen to be at large in wartimes. In discharging what they deemed their duty, he was arrested by a detatchment of Union soldiers, under the command of the late Captain Nelson Pray, and sent to Camp Chase, where he died during the war.

In reference to the pioneer's daughter Elizabeth Galford, the tradition is that when she was 14 years of age she was sent on an errand to the mill, a quarter of a mile east of the residence. The child was never seen afterwards. While parties were carefully seaching the creek, Indian signs were discovered and it was at once concluded that she had been taken captive. Vain pursuit was made, and the neighbors hastened to the fort, where P. H. Warwick lives. Indians, believed to be the same party, attacked the fort and killed a Mr Sloan, and a warrior was wounded. The Indian was taken to a glade, near Arborvale, and secreted until able to leave for the Ohio towns, hence the name "Hospital" run.

Some months subsequently Thomas Galford, Senior, and Samuel Gregory went to the Indian towns, but could hear nothing of the captive child. The two men lingered about the town inquiring for furs and tried to trade with the Indians, hoping thus to get the desired information about the missing child. Hearing nothing they gave up all hopes, and turned their attention to a pair of fine horses. They slipped them, hitched them some distance from the town, and then went back and waited in ambush for the warriors that might come in pursuit. Two were shot down and their ornaments taken, and these were kept for years. The bracelets were burned when Thomas Galford, Jr., lost his house. The captured horses were fine stallions. The bay was called "Buck Rabbit" and the other "Irish Grey." "Buck Rabbit" was sold to John Bird, the ancestor of the Bird relationship on Upper Back Creek. The other was bought by John Harnee, a trader from Staunton.

Thomas Galford, the pioneer, and Jacob Warwick, on returning from a scout, thought they would have some sport at the expense of William Higgins and Peter Ingram, whom they found digging potatoes near the fort at the mouth of Deer Creek. Higgins always claimed there was no Indian that could ever make him run. While the two were busy at their digging Galford and Warwick slipped up to the fence and fired simultaneously, hitting the ground close to Higgins and scattering the dust all over him. He and Ingram ran with all speed to the stockade and reported that Indians had fired on them. The panic was soon relieved, however, when hilarious laughter instead of war whoops were heard in the direction of the potato patch.

Not the Wisest Plan.

It is not always best to wait until it is needed before buying a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera, and Diarrhoea Remedy. Quite frequently the remedy is required in the very busiest season or in the night and much inconvenience and suffering must be borne before it can be obtained. It costs but a trifle as compared to its real worth and every family can well afford to keep it in their home. It is everywhere acknowled to be the most successful remedy in the world for bowel complaints. For sale by A. Barlow, Huntersville; Barlow and Moore, Edray.

A Big Catfish.

The morning was well advanced when we tied up to the levee at Alexandria, La. Col. B. directed me to the best hotel in the place and departed in his carriage. After dinner I strolled down to the deserted levee and and found an aged colored man sitting idly on the stones and gazing in the water. "Uncle," said I, for that is the common Southern salutation to men of his age and complexion, "are there many fish in the river?" I knew that many kinds of fish literally swarmed there, but it was an introduction.

"Yes sah, dey's a plenty o' fish big an' little; some times I likes de little ones and some times de big ones. I'se tryin' to cotch a big one dis ebenin' but I dunno if he come. I'se been fishin' all de mawnin', but don' get no bite today.

There was no rod or line in sight and I wondered how he could be fishing, but asked no question. The only thing in sight was the "heaving line" of a steamer, which was fast to a snubbing post, with the other end in the water, a hempen line of half-inch diameter, used to heave ashore to draw out a cable. The old man yawned and lay back on the stones as much as to say, "the interviewed has ended" and I walked off to where some boys where some boys were catching perch, crappies, and other small fish which were biting lively. I asked the boys what the old man was fishing with, and one said: He 's a-fishin' fo' big cats wid a pound o' po'k, but he's mean an' hunts us off de levee w'en he's fishin', but we don' 'sturb him. I 'spec' he didn' talk to yo', but if yo' wan' him to talk jes give him a fip fo' some gin an' he talk yo' ears off.

On this hint I returned to the lone fisherman and said: "Uncle, it's dry work waiting all day for a bite, hear's a dime, go up to the grocery and treat yourself. I'll look after your fishing if you will show me where your line is."

"Thank you, sah," touching what had once been his hat, "I knowed you was a ge'man w'en I see yo' comin' along de levee. Yes sah, I'll drink yo', dattah's my fishline," pointing to the heaving line, "but I 'spec's I'll be back befo' a big catty come along." And he limped off to the grocery. Then I began to fear I had been too liberal, and that a dime, which he called a "levvy," might purchase more juniper juice than he could assimilate without producing vertigo, and rejoiced that my first impulse to give him a quarter, or "two bits" as he would call it, was restrained. A half-hour passed and "Time which strengthens friendship, but weakens love," began to be a burden. I was about to desert my post when my new friend appeared above the levee none the worse for his indulgence, but rather improved so far as the limp was concerned. He hurried down exclaiming: "I dun 'spec I got one," and made for the line. I had not noticed the strain on it and the weaving motion until he spoke, for I had been watching a dab-chick dive and then guessing where he would come up.

The old man tugged on the line with all his might, and I sprang to help him, for I was stronger than he, and that we had a big fish was certain, the vibrations could only be caused by a living animal and the resistance was assurance of its size. We piled up yard after yard of line, and at last had the fish on the slope of the levee with its head out of water. The old man produced a hatchet from somewhere and killed it with a single stroke.

I had read of the great catfishes of the southern Mississippi that weighed 150lbs., and believed that we had a record one, I had not counted, however, on a great stone sinker that must have weighed 40 lbs., which was necessary to keep the hook and bait out in the channel, that was credited to the fish when hauling it in.

I ran up and got a wagon and help and we brought out our fish. It was 3ft. 4in. long., and weighed 63½lbs. It was a record catfish for me, for a 10-pounder taken Potosi, Wis., in 1855, was my largest. No one seemed enthusiastic about the fish; it was a big one but they had seen as big. Uncle Sam, as they called my lone fisherman, sold the fish for $2.50, about 4 cents per pound.—Fred Mather in the Forest and Srream.

The barbed wire fences surrounding Santiago, which proved a nuisance to our hard worked soldiers, had after all, their advantages. One of the wires of such a fence was sufficiently insulated to allow of telegraphic messages to be sent from one army corps to another, a distance of five miles. Thus the Spaniards unwittingly saved their enemies the trouble of laying a wire through a rugged country.—Electricity.

The Pocahontas Times.

ANDREW PRICE, - - - EDITOR.

MARLINTON, THURS. SEPT. 29, 1898.

Entered at the post-office at Marlinton, W. Va., as second class matter.

DEMOCRATIC TICKET.

For Congress,
JUDGE DAVID E. JOHNSTONE,
of Mercer County.

For State Senator,
C. W. OSENTON,
of Fayette County.

For House of Delegates,
I. B. MOORE,
of Sunset.
For County Commissioner,
AMOS BARLOW,
of Huntersville.
For Superintendent Free Schools.
JAMES W. WARWICK,
of Mill Point.

PUBLIC SPEAKING.

Judge David E. Johnston will address the citizens of Pocahontas at Marlinton on the first day of Court.

Hon. C. W. Osenton, one of the most entertaining speakers in the State, will speak at the following places in this county:

Academy,	October 3,	.....7.30
Marlinton,	" 4,	Court Day
Green Bank	" 5.	.....7.30
Huntersville	" 6.	.....7.30

Mrs. Margaret E. Sangster favors our county paper with a poem. Everything she writes is beautiful and true.

It seems the B. & O. is about to pass into the hands of Chicago parties, and will be made a part of a new transcontinental system from Seattle to Baltimore.

W. A. Bratton, member of the Democratic Congressional Committee of this county, has mailed to a good many of the citizens of this county Congressman Sibley's famous speech on the money question.

A very able peace commission nas been appointed by the Spanish Government to meet our commissioners in Paris. Senors Rios, Abarzuza, Garinga, Villaurrutia, and General Cerero. The decrees permitting the cession of territory to the United States was signed by the Spanish Queen September 16.

Col. Roosevelt has experienced a decided set-back in his political affairs. His opponents produce an affidavit made by the Colonel to escape taxes, declaring that he was no longer a citizen of New York but of Washington. He sold his birthright for a mess of pottage. The constitution of the State declares that a candidate to be eligible for the office of governor, must have been for five years a citizen of the state.

From the most plausible guesswork that we have noticed as to the plans of the Administration, one hundred thousand troops will be sent to garrison our insular interests. Twenty - four thousand troops were enough ten months since to keep and to preserve pretty good order in the United States But since the colonies have been handed over to us, the peace keeping business promises at least four fould expansion. This looks as if four times as many generals, colonels, captains, and lieutenants, and so on, as we had will be needed hereafter.

The Connecticut Indemnity Association has gone into the hands of a receiver, and it pronounces the doom of this life insurance company. There were many policy holders in this county. A few years ago the late Dr Wallace had a policy of $5000 to mature, and this gave the company a good recommendation with the people of this county, and an agent appeared and wrote a lot of policies. Those who had studied life insurance cried down all assessment companies and thereby got into trouble with the policy holders. The company seems to have voted its officers immense salaries and salted down the proceeds. The last year it paid its officers $150,-231.99, and its members $116,908 50. Before insuring, every one should be careful to discover from a disinterested source something of the stability of the company.

THE HEART OF A MAN.

BY MARGARET E. SANGSTER.

You fancy you 've tethered it fast and strong,
 You dream you have fathomed it, deep on deep,
And lo! there 's a bit of an old love-song
 And the heart you had thought was your own to keep
Is neither to hold nor to bind to-day
On another track, it is far and away.

And the gay girl singing that simple strain
 Reminds the man of another life,
Ere ever he saw this grass-grown plain,
 Ere ever he cherished child or wife;
There 's a wee bit door, and the key is lost
But over that sill you have never crossed.

Nay, never be sad, for the heart of a man
 Is a palace wide with chambers fair,
But only the builder who made the plan
 Knows all the windings and corners there.
Enough, if for many a passing year,
The heart of your true love hold you dear.

The sudden waft of a spice-sweet air,
 The random snatch of an old-time tune,
The sound of a baby's bedtime prayer,
 The wind in the pines with its solemn rune,
May each have magic to thrill and start
Some sleeping ghost in a human heart.

So far as can be gleaned from the more reliable papers, diplomatic matters are progressing hopefully with Spain and peace may be proclaimed before Christmas. The only danger now apparent of a hitch is in connexion with the disposal of the Philippines. That however need not hinder the ratification of a peace treaty, if the terms of the protocol are strictly observed by our commissioners.

We must try to educate ourselves for hearing strange expressions and learn to see reasons for them, in making up our minds what policy to favor with our votes. For illustration, a reason earnestly urged to withhold Statehood from the Hawaiians sounds queerly to West Virginian ears. It is urged that if Hawaii should become a State nothing could prevent the citizens of the Islands from getting control of their own government.

Congressman Dayton writes to his postmasters that their appointments being the cause of his losing some good Republican votes, he is compelled to issue a requisition on them for from 4 to 5 Democratic votes, which they are to secure by such methods as they may deem best. His letter is being printed by Democratic papers in his district, and all the Democrats have nightmares every night, dreaming they have been carried off in their shirt-tails and forced to yote the Republican ticket.

Miss Grace Davis, daughter of Henry G. Davis and Arthur Lee, of Richmond, were married from the Davis Memorial Church in Elkins, September 19. Dr Moses D. Hoge, for fifty years pastor of the 2d Presbyterian Church at Richmond, officiated aided by the Rev Lingamfelter. Three Governors and their ladies and two Congressmen, and many others of the elite, were present. They departed at once for Vancouver, B. C.; whence they will sail for Japan, not expected to return before January.

General Toral, who surrendered Santiago to General Shafter, has been in danger of his life since his return to Spain. September 16 a crowd went to his residence and demanded that the troops just arrived from the seat of war on the Leon be landed at once. When the people saw the soldiers were barefooted and almost naked they became furious, and surrounded the General's residence, hooting and hissing and stoning the building. He succeeded in escaping the mob and went on board the ship. The excited people then stoned the steamer, breaking the cabin windows, and the ship was obliged to change her mooring-place beyond their reach.

A colored trooper just back from Porto Rico seems to have caught on the annexation idea to a practical purpose. He had been robbed of a gold watch in New York, and was asked by the magistrate how he came in possession of an article so valuable. In reply to the query he said: "I just saw a Spaniard having the watch, and I said to him, 'I like that watch.' I pointed my gun at him, and he saw that I liked the watch and he gave it to me." Here is a case of annexation on a small scale, but annexation seems to work much the same way on a larger scale. Just tell people we like what they have. their sugar, tobacco, and mineral ore, then point a dynamite tube, and they will quickly see that we like such things, and the diplomacy or trick is accomplished and humanity is vindicated.

We have read in the lore of long ago,
That a symbol of the life below,
Was a boat with palsied men to row
And a blind man at the rudder.
—Selected.

The long distance running records are: 25 miles, 2 hrs. 33:44, G. A. Dunning, London; 10 miles, 51 minutes, 6 seconds. W. Cummings, England. This was track running and there fore cannot be compared to a cross country run over mountains and on a rough road.

STONEY CREEK.

Sowing wheat in full blast. A large acreage is being sown.

J. W. G. Smith will return to Parkersburg next week.

Henry Moore, of Iowa, is visiting relatives and friends in this neighborhood.

The closing of the Hamlin Chapel Sunday School on Sunday had a very good attendance. Besides several recitations by members of the school, Rev G. P. Moore and Mr Henry Barlow gave talks which were very complimentary.

The Pine Grove Literary society will meet at Pine Grove school house Friday, September 30, at 7 P. M., for the reorganization of the society. Every one interested is cordially invited to attend and help make the society a success.

TOM THUMB.

Mrs Ellen Cameron.

Died at her home in Lexington, Virginia, September 18, 1898, Mrs Ellen Cameron, in the 86th year of her age. She was the relict of the late Colonel A. Warwick Cameron, whom she survived for 37 years. Colonel Cameron was one of the wealthiest citizens of Rockbridge. Dr Cameron of our county is her grandson.

For nearly seventy years Mrs Cameron has been a devout christian lady, in the pale of the Presbyterian Church. She was widely known and greatly esteemed for her kindness of heart and impartial treatment of all who came near her. Towards her numerous servants she was kind and indulgent almost too much for their own good. She survived her large family of sons and daughters to whom she was one of the most devoted of mothers. The close of her life was serene and tranquil, and her name is embalmed with the praise and tears of all knew her. W. T. P.

Good Enough to Take.

The finest quality of loaf sugar is used in the manufacture of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and the roots used in its preparation give it a flavor similar to that of maple syrup, mrking it very pleasant to take As a medicine for the cure of coughs, colds, la grippe, croup, and whoopi g cough it is unequaled by any other. It always cures, and cures quickly. For sale by A. Barlow, Huntersville; Barlow & Moore, Edray.

Notice.

I hereby give notice that I have assigned all of my bonds to my son Pearly D. Moore. All parties knowing themselves to be indebted to me will please settle the same soon and by so doing you will save costs.

Respectfully,
JOSEPH F. MOORE.
Frost, W. Va.

Notice.

Notice is hereby given that the undersigned will either rent or sell the land and mill property formerly belong to my deceased brother, J. W. Smith. For further information call on JOSEPH S. SMINH, Mill Point, W. Va.

Feed Stable.

I am going to run the feed stable near the Court-House during October Court. Harry McDowell will have charge of the horses. Good hay and grain. 25 cents per feed.

J. A. SHARP.

Teachers' Examination.

The second and last examination for the present school year will be held at Marlinton, W. Va., October 7 and 8, 1898.

D. L. BARLOW,

JOHN CRAIG WARWICK.

Died—Of enteric fever, at McDonald, Fayette County, West Virginia, John C. Warwick, in the 32d year of his age.

He was the eldest son of John W Warwick and Caroline Craig his wife, late of Edray, Pocahontas County. He was born May 12th, 1867, at Glen Mary, Nelson county, Virginia.

He was educated at the Fishburne Military School, Waynesboro. He stood high in the school, and the last year he was there he was commandant of the corps of cadets. Upon leaving school he was in business a number of years at Ronceverte and Hinton. For the past two or three years he was book keeper and purchasing agent for the Turkey Knob Coal & Coke Company. This position he filled with such conspicuous fidelity and efficiedcy that his place will be hard to fill, as officers of the company remarked at the time of his sickness and decease.

His wife was Miss Mabel Feamster, a grand-daughter of Hon James Withrow, of Lewisburg. She and her little son George survive him, along with three sisters: Mrs Woodsey Moore, near Dunmore; Mrs Maggie Lockridge, at Driscol; and Miss Emma Warwick, near Edray.

About twelve years ago, while a cadet at the military school, he made a profession of his faith in Christ, and united with the Wayns boro church, under the pastoral charge of Rev A. R. Cocke. Two or three days before his death his sister Emma asked him concerning his Christian hope. A pleasing expression illumined his features as he replied: "Sister, I am so glad that you have mentioned this subject to me. My trust is in the blood of Jesus Christ, and I am sure that I am redeemed and that all is well with me. I wanted you all to know this, and I am truly glad you have asked me about my hopes."

A young gentleman, a devoted Christian friend, who was with him a good deal during his illness, says that Mr Warwick talked very freely with him, and while he sorely regretted that he had not lived as near to Christ as he ought to have done, and as he now realized he should have lived, still in his recent prayers Christ had given him such a comforting and assuring sense of sins forgiven that were it not for leaving his wife and little son, to live longer would have no special inducements for him.

His remains were borne to Lewisburg by the Masonic fraternity, and buried in the cemetery near the Old Stone Church, according to their solemn and impressive ritual. Thus it has come to pass in the brief period of two or three years an affectionate family of eight persons has been called to mourn in rapid succession the deaths of five of their home circle. W. T. P.

A Sensible Northerner's View.

Half a dozen counties in northern Texas are driving out their negroes by attacks of white caps. The offense of the negroes is that they have been brought in by large planters to pick cotton, and bands of white caps ride in on the fields where they are at work and open fire on them with shot guns. Then notices are put up that they must leave or die. It is said that in some parts of Titus County formerly thickly populated by negroes not one is to be found; all have fled. Now, if white men had been so attacked or threatened they would have resisted. We believe the negro has the same rights as a white man. Negroes will never get their rights except as they assert and defend them. They should not follow the bad example of the low-down whites and make counter attacks, but they should stand their ground and defend themselves under the divine law which bids him that hath no sword to sell his garment and buy one. The word sword is to be interpreted under the conditions of the present day. Titus County does not belong to its white inhabitants any more than to its black, and the defense of homes is a primary right that is worth fighting for. Nothing else will so discourage the whitecap business.—New York Independent.

To Cure a Cold in One Day.

Take Laxative Bromo Quinine Tablets. All Druggists refund the money if it fails to Cure. 25c.

indigestion
dyspepsia biliousness

and the hundred and one similar ills caused by impure blood or inactive liver, quickly yield to the purifying and cleansing properties contained in

Johnston's Sarsaparilla

QUART BOTTLE.

It cures permanently by acting naturally on all organs of the body. As a blood-cleanser, flesh-builder, and health-restorer, it has no equal. Put us in Quart Bottles, and sold at $1 each.

WILLIAMS, DAVIS, BROOKS & CO.
Detroit, Mich.

Take Liverettes for Liver Ills. 25c.

For sale by Uriah Bird Marlinton; Amos Barlow, Huntersville.

ROAD TO WEALTH!

TO OUR FRIENDS AND PATRONS.

We wish to say that hereafter our business will be conducted on a cash basis.

Many of our friends and patrons may be surprised at this; we hope none will be offended.

Here are a few of the reasons;

The memory of a great portion of our credit customers is too brief.

People cannot pay for goods in time for us to pay for them.

Notes and accounts, we have found to be of no value when in need of money.

95 per cent of men doing credit business fail.

95 per cent of men doing cash business succeed.

We cannot discriminate between those who will pay when they say they will and those who will not.

Had we had sufficient money to loan out we would have started a bank instead of a store.

We did not know the facts connected with the credit business when we started our little business or we would never have sold a 3c box of matches on time; we would have let the customer have it for a penny for cash down.

Our business will be run on this plan in future: Sell for cash at reduced prices.

These terms take effect the day this advertisement appears.

All persons owing us by acct or bond are expected to come in and settle same with cash within 15 days of the date of this ad. and all such accts. not so settled will be placed for collection.

We wish to sell our stock out as much as possible before going to market and will certainly make it to your interest to call on us if you want to buy for cash.

Remember about the accounts and bonds (15 days); we have not told a lie in this whole advertisement.

We sugeest about the accounts and bonds that we were compelled to raise some money a short time since to meet an obligation and we borrowed it; you can do likewise as we must have it.

"The credit business must go" is the fiat of the enterprising commercial world.

We will make the cash business a benefit to you.

If you do not specially need anything at present call in anyway; we have some desireable odds and ends that you can buy at one half of first cost

Our new stock will be complete and made up with special reference to the season.

We are going to do business on the lowest per cent of profit ever tried in this country.

Terms cash when the goods pass over the counter.

Very Truly,
J. D. PULLIN & CO.

Notice to Tax-Payers.

I will meet you in person or by my Deputies at the following places for the purpose of receiving your taxes:

Travellers Repose	Oct. 12, 1898
Green Bank,	Oct. 13,
Dunmore	Oct. 14,
Frost	Oct. 15,
Huntersville	Oct. 17,
Linwood	Oct. 19,
Edray	Oct. 21,
Marlinton	Oct. 22,
Lobelia, ...	Oct. 24,
Academy	Oct. 25.

A discount of 2½ per cent will be given to all persons who pay all their tax in cash on the days aforesaid. No discount given when paid with drafts.

September 12, 1898.
R. W. HILL, S. P. C.

Order of Publication.

STATE OF WEST VIRGINIA,
POCAHONTAS COUNTY, to wit:

At rules held in the clerk's office of the circuit court of said county, on Monday, the 5th day of September, 1898.

Andrew M. McLaughlin......Plaintiff,
vs.
John T. McGraw, J. W. Marshall, The Pocahontas Development Company (a corporation), The Board of Education of the District of Edray in Pocahontas county, J. H. G. Wilson, Harriet E. Yeager, Martha J. Crouch George F. Crummett, A. E. Smith, L. M. McClintic trustee, W. J. Killingsworth, Walter H. Yeager, Fenton H. Miller, E. May McWhorter, O. R. Slaven, Lucy Holt, J. H. Henry, A. M. Nestor, M. L. Shields, Jacob Ligon Marshall, John M. Cunningham, Uriah Bird, S. L. Brown, Mrs Mary M. McGlaughlin, A. R. Smith, County Court of Pocahontas county, G. F. Crummett, H. A. Yeager, H. A. Yeager, Uriah Bird, Lloyd Moore, Thos. Courtney and James McCollum, trustees of the Methodist Church South Levi Gay and G. M. Kee, Trustees of the Presbyterian Church......De'fts.

The object of this suit is to enforce the vendors lien retained in the deed from A. M. McLoughlin and wife to John T. McGraw, dated February 13th, 1891, and have the land granted by said deed sold to pay the purchase money due thereon which now amounts to over $12000.00 Said land lies in Pocahontas County, West Virginia, and includes the site of the town of Marlinton.

This day came the plaintiff by his attorneys, and upon their motion, it appearing by affidavit filed that the defendents Walter H. Yeager, O. R. Slaven, and Lloyd Moore are non-residents of the State of West Virginia, it is ordered that they do appear here within one month after the first publication of this order and do what is necessary to protect their interest in this suit.

Witness: J. H. Patterson, clerk of the said court at the court house thereof, this the 5th day of September, 1898.

J. H. PATTERSON, Clerk.

Harris, Gilmer, Arbuckle & Price, p. q.

C. B. SWECKER,
General Auctioneer and Real Estate Agent.

I sell Coal, Mineral and Timber Lands. Farms and Town Lots a specialty. 21 years in the business. Correspondence solicited Reference furnished.

Postoffice—Dunmore, W. Va., or Alexander, W. Va.

No-To-Bac for Fifty Cents.
Guaranteed tobacco habit cure, makes weak men strong, blood pure. 50c, $1. All druggists

A Great Drive!

Ladies'
75c
Corsets
for 49c.

If you want a better Corset, I can furnish you the very best leading makes: R. & G., Armoite, C. B. and Dr Strong's Corsets—at lowest possible prices. Printed prices don't tell much about the worth of a corset, but it is the best I can do on paper. If you will come in and look them over you will suit yourself and save nearly half the price.

THE GOLDEN STORE.

Trustee's Sale.

By virtue of a deed of trust made by D. W. Londermilk and Susan Jane Londermilk his wife to L. M. McClintic Trustee, on the 5th day of June, 1894, and recorded in the clerk's office of the County Court of Pocahontas county, in Deed book No. 25, at page 297, to indemnify and secure Withrow McClintic as endorser on a certain Negotiable Note of the said D. W. Londermilk for $167.46 dated on the 5th day of June, 1894, and payable four months after date at the Bank of Ronceverte at Ronceverte, W. Va., and the said D. W. Londermilk having made default in the payment of said note, and it having been paid by the said Withrow McClintic as endorser, and afterwards assigned by the said McClintic to M. Myers by written assignment dated on the 5th day of March, 1895, and recorded in the clerk's office of the County Court of Pocahontas county, in Deed book No. 26 at page 8; and the said Myers having requested me to advertise and sell the property conveyed to me as trustee, I will as such trustee, on at the front door of the Court House of Pocahontas County, West Virginia, sell, at public auction to the highest bidder, a certain tract or parcel of land containing 18 acres, situated in Pocahontas county, West Virginia, on Spruce Flat and the head waters of Dry Creek, being the same land conveyed to the said Susan Jane Londermilk by G. W. Beverage and wife, by deed dated on the 16th day of April, 1891, and recorded in the clerk's office of the County Court of Pocahontas county, in Deed Book No 21 at page 496; part of said land is cleared and has on it a comfortable dwelling house and out-buildings, and the residue of said land is well timbered.

Monday, September 26th, 1898,

Terms of sale—Cash.
L. M. McCLINTIC, Trustee.

I, S. L. Brown, Clerk of the county court of Pocahontas county, certify that bond has been given by the above named trustee as required by law.

S. L. BROWN, Clerk.

Postponed.

The above sale is postponed until October 29, 1898.

L. M. McClintic, Trustee.

CASTORIA.
Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher. The Kind You Have Always Bought

NOTICE.

SILLING & SLAVEN,

TIN, SHEET-IRON
 ROOFING,
  GUTTER SPOUTING,
   ROOF PAINTING,
    FLUES, STOVE PIPE.
GALVANIZED FLUES,
 SMOKE STACKS.
  FRUIT DRYERS,
   GALVANIZED TANKS,
    AND CISTERNS.

Shop - Made Tin Ware Always on Hand.

LIGHTNING RODS.

Work Done on Short Notice.

Call or write to
SILLING & SLAVEN,
ACADEMY, W. VA.

Fiduciary Notice.

The following fiduciary account of A. N. Barlow, Admr. of Jacob W. Sharp, is before me for final settlement. L. M. McCLINTIC,
Commissioner of Accounts Pocahontas County.

Also the accounts of Andrew Price, Administrator of Peter Beverage, dec'd.

L. M. McCLINTIC,
Commissioner of Accounts of Pocahontas County.

NOTICE.

TO THE PUBLIC:
I have turned over a NEW LEAF and determined to sell goods cheaper than ever Sell Strictly for CASH and good TRADE. Bring on your trade and cash, and I will treat you right—with or without contract!

NEW GOODS.
I am getting in new DRY GOODS—good goods bought at close prices, and will sell close. I can sell cheaply as anyone else for my expenses are light, and handling all sorts of produce people can pay me what they owe.

PLEASE EXAMINE
my new stock of goods before buying elsewhere. I am
EASY TO PAY,
EASY TO PLEASE!

COFFEE 10c
SUGAR 6c.
All other goods likewise.
Yours for Business,

S. J. Boggs
HUNTERSVILLE, W. V.

Fiduciary Notice.

The following fiduciary accounts are before the undersigned commissioner for settlement: J. C. Loury executor of J. C. Loury, Sr., dec'd.

J. H. PATTERSON, Comm'r.

$8 to $15 Saved on Mens Suit

BY BUYING DIRECT FROM
E. ROSENBURGER & CO.,
202-204 E. 102d St., NEW YORK CITY.
The Largest Clothing Manufacturers in America.

OUR GREAT BARGAIN OFFER!

$5. BOYS' ADONIS SUITS FOR 2.76 with Extra Pants and we Pay Expressage.

These suits are guaranteed to be made from Imported Wool Cheviot, in Black, Blue, Grey and Brown, in sizes from 3 to 9 years of age Made up double-breasted, with Sailor Collar—Collar fancy embroidered—lined with fast Black Albert Twill Sateen and Patent Waist Bands. Trimming and Workmanship the very best. Sizes for 10 to 15 years, without Sailor Collar. Mention age and if large or small.

Men's & Youths' Suits in same proportionate low prices.
This Style Sizes 3 to 9 with Extra Pair Pants
$2.76
This style 10 to 15 years.
$2.76

When ordering send Post Office, Express Money Order or Registered Letters, also age at last birthday, and if large or small for his age. Money cheerfully refunded if not satisfactory. Send 2c. stamps for samples, tape measure, measuring blanks, etc.

To Cure Constipation Forever.
Take Cascarets Candy Cathartic. 10c or 25c. If C. C. C. fail to cure, druggists refund money.

The Pocahontas Times,

> Hear, Land o' Cakes and brither Scots,
> Frae Maidenkirk to Johnny Groats,
> If there's a hole in a' your coats,
> I rede ye tent it;
> A chiel's amang you takin' notes,
> An' faith he'll prent it. —Burns.

Local Events.

W. W. Tyree is enlarging his store house.

Mrs John Lange lost her only horse last Saturday. It was found dead in the pasture, Peter McCarty had a yield of 26½ bushels of first-class wheat to the acre. This wheat was put out with shovel plow and hoe.

The funeral service of Daniel Kellison, deceased, will be preached at the Swago M. E. Church the 2d Sunday in October by Rev W. A. Sharp at 11 o'clock.

A remarkable cure is reported from the use of the waters of the Hot Springs. A German who had been unable to talk for 7 years has had the use of his tongue restored.

A very substantial and commodious bridge has just been constructed over Brown's Creek near Huntersville, largely by private subscription and labor, supervised by H. M. Lockridge.

The Beverly & Marlinton Telephone Company's force will arrive in Marlinton Thursday morning to stretch the wire to Huntersville. The Pocahontas and Greenbrier Company started from Ronceverte last Tuesday.

Died, Roy Johnson, aged two years, son of Mr and Mrs W. B. Johnson, of complications arising from whooping cough. He was the youngest child, very bright and a great favorite. The sympathy of the community is with the bereaved family.

Good clean cloths, razors keen,
Finest barber ever seen.
Easy chair, tidy room,
Pleasant lather, sweet perfume,
Gilded mirrors, good, fresh towels;
All of these at Mart McDowell's
Barber Shop. Here, you sport!
Come and get a shave at Court.

Teachers will notice the change in the time of holding the next examination. Examination will be held October 7th and 8th instead of October 5th and 6th. This change is made in order to accommodate a number of teachers who are now teaching, and wish to enter the next examination.

Times have been pretty lively on Brown's mountain in the peach industry. So much of the fruit began to come up missing that owners put out guards by day and night. Since then certain contracts to furnish the peach market have not been filled, owing to the goods not being delivered on time.

In order to meet the obligations of the Marlinton Saddle and Harness Company in full, I as manager will have to ask all who are indebted to the firm or myself by note or account to be prepared to pay same by October 4th, the first day of our Circuit Court. Respectfully, G. F. Crummett.

If any students go from this countey to the West Virginia University this year they may be glad to know that The Acme Book Store, of Morgantown, W. Va., is prepared to furnish them with University Text-Books, second hand, and shelf-worn. You can save a great deal by buying all your school supplies of them.

Great interest is evinced in the protracted meeting going on at this place, held under the auspices of the M. E. Church South. Great crowds attend nightly. Rev H. L. Hout, of Ronceverte, has favored the people with a number of sermons. He has recently returned from Europe. He is a preacher of remarkable earnestness. Rev J. I. Crickenberger, of Lewisburg, has also assisted the pastor, Rev J. M. Anderson.

George P. Gilmer was again judged insane last week and confined in jail until he can be sent to the hospital. This is the third time in two years that he has been committed. The hospital authorities discharge him as cured and in a short time the whole legal proceedings have to be gone thro' with again. This has happened in several similar cases in this county.

Look and Believe! We can save you money on wood heating stoves and anything else you may need in our line. The same stove that the agents traveling through the country sell at $3.50 we can sell for $1.75. If you do n't believe it, come in and give us a call before you buy, and see for yourself. We keep the largest and best line of hardware in this part of the country. Opposite Passenger Depot, Ronceverte. Yours respectfully, Simms & Co.

John T. McGraw has sold the Holly River lumber plant, which he purchased some time ago at forced sale, to the Crosby & Beckley Company, of New Haven, Connecticut. The plant consists of a large band sawmill, planing mills, dry kilns, &c., together with a very large tract of timber land in Webster and Braxton counties. The mill has a capacity of 50,000 feet of hardwood lumber per day. The lumber will be marketed as rapidly as possible, and the new company will employ over one hundred men. The cash consideration is $100,000.

Yancy Ligon was in town this week.

Mrs C. A. Yeager has been very ill lately.

Forest Kincaid has a slight attack of fever.

Miss Anna King has returned from Fairmont.

J. W. Warwick has returned from a visit to Bath.

Preaching services at Hamlin Chapel next Sunday, October 2, at 3 P. M.

Cam Herold, a printer of Covington, is visiting friends in this county.

Note the change in the date of the Teacher's Examination. It is held on October 7 and 8.

Dr William P. Rucker, of Lewisburg, suffered a stroke of paralysis last week and is in a precarious condition.

Dr Cunningham has had a severe attack of pneumonia. Dr Cameron of Linnwood, came over to see him last Saturday.

J. W. G. Smith is taking a course in shorthand, &c., at the Mountain State Business College, at Parkersburg.

Married: Wellington Ratliff and Miss Meta Courtney were married last Monday, at Edray, by Rev George P. Moore.

Andy Moore, of this place, raised a potato that lacked an ounce of weighing 2½ lbs. In the patch where this grew ten hills averaged a bushel of potatoes.

A jolly crowd of Marlintonians, W. A. Bratton, L. M. McClintic, and Colonel Eli Gay, were in Ronceverte this week on legal business.—West Virginia News.

Miss Constance Forster, who has been with her sister Mrs James Hebden for a year and a half, leaves our shores this week for her home in Darlington, England.

Thomas Courtney started with his team last Monday, along with others to Rockingham County to bring in machinery for a stove factory to be started at Huttonsville soon.

The Acme Book Store, Morgantown, W. Va., has arranged to furnish students of the University with Text-Books, second hand and shelf-worn, at about one-half what they would pay for the new books. They also deal in all kinds of supplies for students.

We learn from the Highland Recorder that Dr Gwin, of Frost, has recently discovered that he owns a lot in Sisterville in the heart of the oil fields. He had forgotten about being the owner of this lot. The title is clear, and he has been offered $8,000 for it. He is holding for $10,000.

Henry M. Moore, a citizen of Iowa, is visiting relatives in our county. He is a son of the late Joseph Moore, once prominent in our county affairs. His wife was Martha Young, daughter of Captain William Young, late of Stoney Creek. He has been away from his native county 36 years.

George Auldridge, Tipton, Iowa, has returned to his home. He is the owner of a fine farm and makes a specialty of raising hogs. He has had nearly two hundred on his place this year. Just before coming to West Virginia he sold a drove of 13 yearlings (9 heifers. 4 steers) for the lump sum of $400 cash.

The wife of a certain bookseller presented him with eleven sons, one after another. The good man carriad his professional spirit into family life; so he named them Primus, Secundus, Tertius, and so on to Decimus. He concluded it was time to stop at the eleventh, so he named him Finis; but it was not finis. There was yet another to come, daughter this time; so he called her Errata.—Tid-bits.

The Webster Echo gives an account of the shooting of a 15 year old boy by his uncle, Grant Chapman. There were some peach trees on land leased by Grant Chapman to his brother Currence and both claimed the fruit. A son of Currence attempted to pick some about dusk one evening and uncle shot him in the foot, while up the tree, with a 38 calibre Winchester. In extenuation he pleads that he thought it was a sanger.

County Court.

John A. McLaughlin is engineering the Alternate Road Law. He appeared at the County Court with a petition of 28 voters and asked to have it submitted in Edray district. This old movement had about died out in the county having been defeated in every district in the last two elections. The other districts are not to be bothered with it this year, but Edray will have the fight on as usual. More about this next week.

Justice P. D. Arbogast and Constable William Cochran tendered their resignations, which were accepted.

Festival Near Marvin Chapel,

October 8th, 1898, a festival will be given in the grove by the church to raise money to help pay on parsonage. There will be refreshments of all kinds, such as lemonade, oranges, candies, &c., &c., and dinner; music by Hillsboro Band. The public invited.

Committee.

The Long Distance Race.

S. E. L. Grews, an Englishman, the owner of a fine stock farm in Randolph County, loped into Marlinton from Mingo last Saturday, having made the run of 24 miles, over two mountains, in 2 hours 59 minutes. His competitor, Norman R. Price, contested the race for 12 miles and then cried "capevi." It was during the first twelve miles that the time was the fastest, the two runners being abreast and making that distance in 1 hr 15 m. The Marlinton representative gave down at Bob Gibson's and walked into Edray, making the 20 miles in 3 hours. In justice to the Marlinton runner it should be stated that he had not undergone the thorough training of his opponent, and that one foot was rubbed raw with his shoe. He wishes it understood, however, that he is first in admitting that with Grews he is outclassed. Grews should be classed with the deer or greyhound. But it must be remembered that our Marlinton representative stayed for 12 miles, which distance is enough for practical purposes.

The start was from the residence of James Hebden. Grews set the pace that kills which was maintained by both to Bob Gibson's, and there they separated. Grews came into Marlinton where a large crowd was waiting to see him. He was breathing naturally and did not seem at all overcome. He rode back over the course after having a bath and supper. Dr Cameron, who ran a 70-mile race one day, attempted to keep up with the runners with a double team. He succeeded half of the way by galloping his horses on good road.

It was hoped when the race was first proposed several months ago that of all the athletes of Mingo and Marlinton a large number would start. The distance appalled them and they all with one accord began to make excuse. One had bought a piece of land, and would run on it; another had purchased a yoke of oxen, and was training to a slow gait; another had married a wife, and he too was unable to run. So it narrowed down to the two who finally started. Neither runner was at all hurt by his exertions.

They called it a Marathon race. It was modeled on the long distance races of the Olympic games. Marathon is 22 miles from Athens. 490 B. C. the Greeks met the Persians on the plains of Marathon and drove them back into their ships. The Persians were signaled that Athens was undefended and they set sail to enter the capital, their primary object. The Greeks saw their intention and the whole army ran the 22 miles and confronted the Persians when they came to land and prevented the city from being taken. For many centuries the Greeks encouraged athletics, especially the long distance runs that would fit soldiers for warfare. One courier carried a message 150 miles in 48 hours.

TOP OF ALLEGHANY.

John Hollen moved his steam thresher to this neighborhood this week.

Revs J. A. Miller and Josiah Beverage, of Virginia, are conducting a series of meetings at this place.

W. B. Freeman made a flying trip to Beverly this week, but failed to learn anything in regard to his stolen horse.

P. M. Yeager and G. W. Beverage have moved the cattle, which they have been summering for Virginia stockmen, from the range.

Oliver Gum, of Hightown, Va., banght three calves from W. L. Wilmoth for $50: one steer and two heifers. Under the present administration, Mr Gum says he can afford to pay better prices for stock.

Sandy Burner, who has been learning the tinner trade with Cam Arbogast, of Monterey, came home Sunday to attend the Quarterly meeting.

A. M.

VALLEY HEAD.

The health of our community is generally good.

Our old friend Clark Sharp, of Dry Branch, was in town today.

People are done cutting corn, and are busily engaged in threshing their wheat.

Dr Cameron, of Dry Branch, passed through here today enroute to Monterville to see G. C. Swecker, who is dangerously ill with fever.

Married, At the residence of the bride's parents, on Wednesday at 2 P. M., Jacob C. Swecker and Miss Malinda Tacy. May a long and happy life be their's.

Old Valley Head will be aroused from its dormant condition tomorrow by a lawsuit between two women for 10lbs. of butter at four cents a pound. We suppose the Justice will tender his resignation tomorrow evening.

Cam Hart, of Hazlewood, is spending a few days with W. T. Logan. He represents himself to be a good mill wright. He owns a half interest in the mill here, and is talking of putting in a good roller process. We wish him success in his undertaking, as nothing is needed worse in this place than a good mill and more religion.

The merry-go-round will operate at Mingo tomorrow. Come out boys, and take a ride on the hobby horse.

Bad Boy.

LOBELIA.

Rev C. M. Anderson is teaching the Lobelia school.

Mrs Hodges has been on the sick list for several days.

Keep your eye on the gobbler for he will be eaten soon.

S. J. Payne was around buying cattle for market, recently.

E. A. Hodges and son are building a house for Joe Snedegar.

Ben McMillion and Cal Clutter were visitors at Rev Dean's Sunday.

Some rain which stopped seeding, but most of people are nearly done.

W. B. Hill is a hustler from the backwoods, and he is selling lots of goods.

Dr McClintic bought several sheep and lambs in this section. He paid a fair price.

E. B. Hill, of Jacox, has about gotten well of the mumps, and expects to start to Alderson soon to attend school.

Rev C. M. Fultz preached at Mt Lebanon Sunday, and a large crowd came out, but most of the people were disappointed as they expected a baptising. Rev Fultz will commence a series of meetings at Sugar Grove soon.

FROST.

Farmers are busy sowing wheat.

W. B. Sharp is on the sick list.

C. S. Curry and Mrs Anson Curry have fever.

G. W. Sharp is making good use of his new bicycle.

Lots of weddings in sight, and still the good work goes on.

Upton Shorp has returned from the railroad.

Summers Sharp is off to Staunton on business.

James Turner, of Driftwood, passed through town Saturday.

A. J. Hook and Amos Wooddell are off to Baltimore with cattle and sheep.

Captain C. C. Sharp has returned from Driftwood and reports things very lively.

The Frost football team is in opperation again and is ready to accommodate any team in the county.

Big Aaron has returned from Brown's Mountain where he has been looking after his interests.

Old Ned.

GREEN BANK.

We had a fine rain last week but not enough to start the mills.

Zack Nottingham is stepping high these days—It's a boy!

C. F. Gay has his picture gallery here.

Deputy Sheets was in town last Friday.

James Stretch is at home from Horton, and is repairing his house.

Ed Jackson went to Huttonsville Monday to meet Mrs G. H. Moffett.

McElwee & Sheets finished setting stakes for the telephone poles to this place last Monday.

Our people were disappointed by the protracted meeting not being held here on account of the measles. There was only one case here and that is almost well.

Mrs Manta Files and family of Texas, are visiting in this neighborhood.

Neboth.

25 CTS. PISO'S CURE FOR CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS. Best Cough Syrup. Tastes Good. Use in time. Sold by druggists. CONSUMPTION 25 CTS.

DUNMORE.

Fine weather.

Keep your eye on the gobbler.

Judge Moore and family are home on a visit.

Auctioneer Swecker will attend court next week.

Quince Poage, the cattle king, was in town Saturday.

Dr Whitlaw and daughter were out on a visit last week.

Silome Davis starts Sunday for Baltimore for his fall goods.

Revs Martin and Brown are holding a meeting at this place.

There is quite a lot of measles in the Green Bank neighborhood.

Singing at Stoney Bottom Sunday October 2d at 2 p. m. All come out.

There will be a big festival at Edray Friday night for the benefit of Howard Tibbs.

Laurence McElwee, who joined the army in April, is home from Jacksonville, Fla., on a furlough, and is sick.

On the 12th of this month William Mullins, of Clay Court-House had two horses stolen, and on the 20th the horse thieves were caught at Green Bank—two men and one woman. From the best information the men's names may be Charles and Frank McCray and the woman's name may be Annis Shiplett. They stayed all night at Hugh McLaughlin's, and stole Miss Alice's watch. On searching the woman nothing was found but a Kentucky rifle. Deyuty Sheriff Sheets searched her.

Bunkum.

The pain of a burn or scald is almost instantly relieved by applying Chamberlain's Pain Balm. It also heals the injured parts more quickly than any other treatment, and without the burn is very severe does not leave a scar.

CASH is King!

With that potent force in hand we get Bargains that Credit never sees. We aim to handle the best class of goods. Good value with us means more than a mere

LOW PRICE

It goes on to embrace quality. We do not handle

AUCTION GOODS.

Come and see us and judge for yourself of the business we do. We are constantly receiving new goods, and we guarantee the smallest of our patrons the same courteous attention given the largest.

Yours for Low Prices and Good Goods,

L. D. Sharp,
LINWOOD, W. VA.

The Levels News.

Edited by Payne Bros.

Vol. 1 Academy, W. Va., Sept. 29, 1898. No. 37

Market Report, Sept. 22, 1898.
—Eggs 12c per dozen.
—Butter 12½ per pound.
—Oats 30c per bushel.
—Wheat 80c per bushel.
—Ginseng dry $3 per lb.
Hams 12½, Sides 10c, Shoulders, 10c per lb.
—Wool 18c lb.
—At Payne Bros.

—Floor oil cloth at Payne Bros.

—Harrow teeth at Payne Bros.

—Oliver Chilled Plows and repairs at Payne Bros.

—Linseed oil and paints very low at Payne Bros.

—Stoves and piping at Payne Bros.

—Send your orders to Payne Bros. for clean seed wheat.

—Fresh and clean Timothy seed at Payne Bros.

—New clothing at lowest prices at Payne Bros.

CASTORIA. Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher. The Kind You Have Always Bought

One of the leading book houses in the State is the Acme Book Store of Morgantown, W. Va. They buy and sell second-hand University Text Books, and in this way save students many dollars in the course of a year. If you go to the University this year give the Acme people a call.

ACADEMY.

Corn cutting is over and seed time is at hand.

S. H. Clark has thrashed fifteen hundred bushels of wheat this year. He is the largest farmer in the county.

The school at this place is moving along nicely with an enrollment of about 60. Prof Morris is proving himself to be a capable and efficient instructor.

The cattle buyers are in this section, and no doubt they will leave much money to gladden the hearts of our countrymen.

Skooner.

—Imperial Plows and repairs at Payne Bros.

—Silver Steel Plows and repairs at Payne Bros.

—Malta Hillside Plows and repairs at Payne Bros.

Best grades of Roller Flour at

G. L. HANNAH'S,
Yelk, W. Va.
BARLOW & MOORE'S,
Edray, W. Va.
J. H. CURRY'S,
Green Bank, W. Va.
R. L. NOTTINGHAM'S,
Dunmore, W. Va.
J. H. DOYLE,
Huntersville, W. Va.

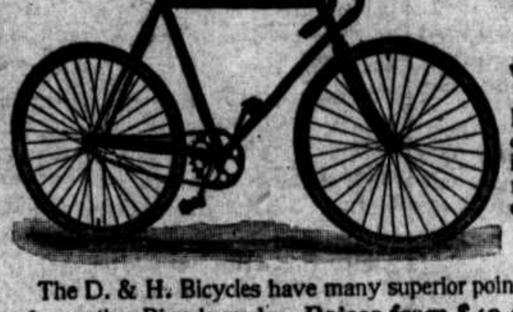
PUBLIC SPEAKING!

Judge D. E. Johnston,

Democratic Nominee for Congress, 3rd Dist., will address the citizens of Pocahontas County, Tuesday, October 4, 1898, at 1:30 p. m., at the Court-house, and at 7:30 of the same day

Hon. C. W. Osenton,

Democratic Nominee for State Senate w speak on the issues of the campaign.



"The D. & H." ROAD RACER
WEIGHT 21 POUNDS.
The Ideal Wheel for the Scorcher.

A WINNER SURE TO PLEASE

WE are desirous of introducing the D. & H. Bicycles throughout the country and offer special inducements to agents and riders as a matter of introduction. Write for our Special Offer.

The D. & H. Bicycles have many superior points of excellence in advance of any other Bicycle made. Prices from $40.00 to $75.00. Write for particulars. Address,

ADVT. DEPT. Budd Bros. Mfg. Co., Glens Falls, N. Y.

Special We have an offer. (Our Offer No. 2) for every School Teacher in the United States. Teachers write us quick.

FARMER'S INSTITUTE.

Academy, October 7, and 8.

PROGRAM.

Friday, October 7.

9 A. M.

MUSIC.

Prayer .... Rev. D. S. Sydenstricker D. D.
Talk by the President of the Board .... Isaac McNeel
How shall we interest our Farmers in Institute work, G. H. McGlaughlin
Commercial Fertilizers and do they pay in our County, F. A. Renick
Horses .... M. A. Dunlap

Announcements and Appointment of Committees.
Music followed by Recess.

2 P. M.

MUSIC.

Public Highways—how made—why made—where made —when made—Sign Boards .... Geo. P. Moore
Educated Farmers .... D. L. Barlow
Educate your Boys .... Dennis Williams
How to make farming pay .... H. M. Moore
Sheep for Wool and Mutton .... S. H. Clark

Music followed by Adjournment.

Saturday, October 8.

9 A. M.

MUSIC.

Prayer .... Rev J. H. Dills
Best and most Practical way to apply stable Manure Geo. R. Curry
Are Dogs profitable Property .... T. D. Moore
Polled Angus Cattle .... Maj A. C. L. Gatewood
Some Mistakes we Farmers make .... George H. Lewis

Talks by Members of the Board.

2 P. M.

Report of Committee and Election of Officers.

MUSIC.

Are the Aims of the Public School System properly carried out .... J. W. Baxter, Professor Morris
The Young Peoples' Associates .... Rev Sydenstricker, Rev J. H. Dills
The best Way to Handle and Care for Cattle in the Winter Season .... M. J. McNeel, R. W. Hill

Remarks by Members of the State Board.

MUSIC

You Can't Make a White Plume from a Crow's Tail, nor a good Bicycle from Castings. The MONARCH is good all through.

Send for Catalogue.

Every Inch a Bicycle!

We want bright business men to represent us everywhere.

MONARCH CYCLE MFG. CO.
Chicago New York London.

Send nine two-cent stamps for Monarch Playing Cards. Regular 50c cards.

The Pocahontas Times.

Andrw & Norman Price, Owners. "Montani Semper Liberi!" Andrew Price, Editor

VOL. 14, NO. 30 MARLINTON, WEST VIRGINIA, FEBRUARY 19, 1897. $1.00 PER YEAR

$3,400.00 CASH AND PRIZES GIVEN FREE EACH MONTH FOR Sunlight SOAP WRAPPERS

As follows:

4 First Prizes, each of $100 Cash - - - $ 400.00
20 Second " " " $100 PIERCE SPECIAL Bicycles* 2,000.00
40 Third " " " $ 25 Gold Watches - 1,000.00
Cash and Prizes given each month - - $3,400.00
12

Total given during 12 mos. 1897, $40,800.00

HOW TO OBTAIN THEM.

Competitors to save as many SUNLIGHT SOAP Wrappers as they can collect. Cut off the top portion of each wrapper, that portion containing the heading "SUNLIGHT SOAP." These (called "Coupons") are to be sent, postage fully paid, enclosed with a sheet of paper stating Competitor's full name and address and the number of Coupons sent in, to Lever Bros., Ltd., New York, marked on outside Wrapper (top left hand corner) with NUMBER of the DISTRICT Competitor lives in.

No. of District	NAME OF DISTRICT.
1	New York City, Brooklyn, Long and Staten Islands, New Jersey.
2	New York State (outside of N.Y. City, Brooklyn, Long and Staten Islands).
3	Pennsylvania, Delaware, Maryland, West Virginia and District of Columbia.
4	The New England States.

*The Bicycles are the celebrated Pierce Special, 1897 Pattern, m'f'd by Geo. N. Pierce & Co., of Buffalo, Boston and New York. Fitted with Hartford Tires, First Class Nickle Lamp, New Departure Bell, Standard Cyclometer, and Hunt Lace Saddle.

SEND THIS TOP PORTION "SUNLIGHT" SOAP WHY DOES A WOMAN LOOK OLD

RULES.

1. Every month during 1897 in each of the 4 districts prizes will be awarded as follows:

The 1 Competitor who sends in the Largest Number of coupons from the district in which he or she resides will receive $100 Cash.

The 5 Competitors who send in the Next Largest Numbers of coupons from the district in which they reside will Each receive at winner's option a lady's or gentleman's Pierce Special bicycle, price $100.00.

The 10 Competitors who send in the Next Largest Numbers of coupons from the district in which they reside will Each receive at winner's option a lady's or gentleman's Gold Watch, price $25.

2. The Competitions will Close the Last Day of Each Month during 1897. Coupons received too late for one month's competition will be put into the next.

3. Competitors who obtain wrappers from unsold soap in dealer's stock will be disqualified. Employees of Lever Brothers, Ltd., and their families, are debarred from competing.

4. A printed list of Winners in Competitor's district will be forwarded to Competitors in about 21 days after each competition closes.

5. Lever Brothers, Ltd., will endeavor to award the prizes fairly to the best of their ability and judgment, but it is understood that all who compete agree to accept the award of Lever Brothers, Ltd., as final.

LEVER BROS., Ltd., New York.

No Use Talking ABOUT HARD TIMES,

When One Dollar will Buy as much at Sol Davis' Big Store, as Two Dollars will Buy at other Stores.

I have literally plungsd the knife into my former low prices to quicken sales and the result is seen in the increased number of customers at my store. Do you want to share in the Bargains new offered in Clothing, Boots, and Shoes, Ladiee' and Gentlemen's Furnishing Goods, Dry Goods, Underwear, etc.,—if so call at

SOL DAVIS' Big Store.

AND GET YOUR BARGAINS.

We quote prices on a few things:
Working pants well made and durable 75c worth 1.50
Cassimere Pants from 1.25 up worth double.
Suits for men from 4.00 up worth 8.50
Boys' Suits 75c worth 1.75
Men's Overcoats 4.50 were sold for 8.50
A good pair of Ladies Shoes for 1.00
Ladies' Cloaks and Capes, this year's styles, at correspondingly low prices as every thing else.

We especially invite those who have not dealt with us. Come one, come all! Our motto: Quick sales and short profits. Thanking you for past patronage we remain

Yours Truly,
SOL DAVIS, Proprietor.
Green Bank, W, Va. Jan 29

The Pocahontas Times,

All Home Print,

Affords the People of Pocahontas County one of thebest papers for the price in the State.

$1.00 per Year

GIVES YOU YOUR COUNTY PAPER.

SUBSCRIBE!

Advertise your Wares and Wants
Our rates are always low enough to warrant your patronage.

• • • •

Our Job Department has been renewed, and we guarantee satisfaction. Wedding invitations and all kinds of work done on short notice

WE HAVE THE BEST PRINTING PLANT OUT SIDE A LARGE TOWN IN THE STATE.

Now is the time to Subscribe!

We have a plan by which Farmers can get TOOL CHESTS FREE

Containing of first-class quality (guaranteed) every tool—Axes, Saws and Planes included—necessary to repair vehicles, machines or build a house. Three two-cent stamps and the name of this paper required for particulars. Powell Fertilizer & Chemical Co., Baltimore, Md.

WANTED—AN IDEA Who can think of some simple thing to patent? Protect your ideas; they may bring you wealth. Write JOHN WEDDERBURN & CO., Patent Attorneys, Washington, D. C., for their $1,800 prize offer.

No boy ever gets quite worthless enough to admit that his father has to support him.—Washington Democrat.

Biographic Gleanings.

Forty or fifty years ago, one of the most generally known citizens of our county was Peter Lightner, on Knapp's Creek. He was tall in person, active in his movements, always in a good humor, and one of the most expert horsemen of his times, and perhaps realized as much ready change swapping horses as any other of his citizen contemporaries. He could come so near making a new and young horse of an old dilapidated framework of an animal as was possible for anyone to do who has ever made a business of dealing in horse-flesh.

Near the close of the last century, he settled on Knapp's Creek, on land purchased from James Poage, who emigrated to Kentucky. Mr Poage had built a mill which Mr Lightner improved upon, and for years accommodated a wide circle of customers, who had gotten tired of hominy and hominy meal pounded in a goblet-shaped block. The pestle by which the trituration was done was usually a piece of wood like a hand-spike, with an iron wedge inserted in one end, and fastened by an iron band to keep it from splitting. This mill was a precious and valuable convenience, and brought comfort to many homes, and some of the most toothsome bread ever eaten in our county was made of meal from Lightner's Mill. Some families had hand-mills, but they were about as hard to operate as the hominy block, or mortar with the iron-bound pestle.

It is believed Mr Lightner came from the neighborhood of Crab Bottom, near the headwaters of the South Branch of the Potomac. His wife was Alcinda Harper, a sister of Henry Harper, the ancestor of the Harper connexion in our county. She, therefore, brought that pretty name to Pocahontas, and there have been many Alcindas in her worthy descendants and relatives.

The property owned by Peter Lightner is now in the possession of Hugh Dever and the family of the late Francis Dever, Esq., a few miles from Frost.

Mr Lightner's family consisted of one son and four daughters.

Jacob Lightner, their only son, married Miss Elizabeth Moore, who was reared on the farm now occupied by Andrew Herold, Esq., near Frost. Her father was John Moore, a son of Moses Moore, the noted pioneer, and her mother was a McClung, of the Greenbrier branch of that noted connexion. Jacob Lightner's children were Peter Lightner, who died at home; John M. Lightner, once a member of the Huntersville bar, and moved to Abilene, Texas, where he died a few years since; Samuel M. Lightner was a student of Union Theological Seminary, and had about completed his studies for the Presbyterian ministry when he entered the army. He married Miss Sally Mildred Poage, in Rockbridge County, and died a few months after his marriage at Batesville, Virginia, and was buried at Falling Spring Church near, the Natural Bridge. His widow married Rev Edward Lane, D. D., a distinguished missionary to Brazil, where he died much lamented. For some years Mrs Lane has resided in Staunton, Virginia, to be near her daughters, who were pupils of Miss Baldwin's Seminary.

Alcinda, one of Jacob Lightners daughters, was a noted beauty, and very popular. She became the wife of the late James B. Campbell of Highland County, Virginia.

Mary, another daughter, married Rev John W. Hedges, of Berkeley County, a widely-known Methodist minister of the M. E. Baltimore Conference.

Alice, the youngest daughter, never married.

The eldest daughter of Peter and Alcinda Lightner was named Elizabeth. She was married to Joseph Sharp, at Frost. Mr and Mrs Sharp were the parents of Abraham and Peter Sharp, at Frost, and Henry Sharp, on Douthard's Creek. Polly Sharp married John Hannah, on Elk, and was the mother of the late Bryson Hannah of Frost, and Mrs George Gibson, near Marlinton.

Phebe Sharp first married the late Henry Harper, Jr., who died of an accidental wound inflicted while fixing a gate-latch near Sunset School-house. She afterwards married Mr Abe Rankin. Susan Sharp became the wife of the late William Burr, on Brown's Mountain, near Huntersville. Mr Burr died suddenly in F. J. Snyder's law office, whither he had gone to look after some business affairs.

Rachel Sharp lives near Frost on the old home place.

Susan Lightner, another daughter of our worthy pioneer, Peter Lightner was was maried to George Gay, a brother of the late John Gay, Esq., near Marlinton. For many years Mr and Mrs Gay lived on the farm now in the possession of F. A. Renick, Esq., near Hillsboro, until their removal to the State of Iowa.

Polly Lightner and the late Sheldon, Clark, Esq., were married and settled in the Little Levels, where their son, Sherman, now lives (1897.) Mr Clark came from the State of Connecticut, and made an immense fortune by merchandising and farming. He was a highly esteemed citizen, and by strict attention to his own business he prospered much. His influence was ever on the side of good morals and intelligence. Mr and Mrs Clark are survived by four sons, Sherman, Henry, Alvin, and Preston.

Sherman H. Clark, the eldest, married Mary Frances, daughter of the late Joel Hill, near Hillsboro, and lives on the old Clark homestead.

Alvin Clark married Mary Agnes, daughter of the late Josiah Beard, of Locust, rnd resides on the Moses Poage property east of Hillsboro.

Henry Clark lives near the head of Spring Creek.

Preston Clark married Miss Josie Levisay, near Frankford, West Virginia, and lives on the George Poage property, west of Hillsboro.

There was another worthy brother, Peter Clark, whose wife was Miss Martha Blair. He died several years since on a farm south of Hillsboro.

The history of Sheldon Clark illustrates the Pocahontas possibilities in reach of those who are moral in habits, diligent in business, honest and strictly upright in their business relations. The advancement of such may be slow, but it will be sure and endnring, and the results bring comfort and influence to those who inherit them, a rich heritage to children's children.

Phebe Ann Lightner was married to the late John Cleek, on Knapp's Creek, near Driscol, on the place now occupied by the homes of their sons, Peter L. and William H. Cleek, and their daughter, Mrs B. F. Fleshman.

In the sketch published in The Times, January 15, 1897, mention was made of her sons and daughters whose names besides those just given were Mary Ann Herold, afterwards Mrs William C. Hull; Caroline Elizabeth, wife of Lanty Lockridge; Alcinda Susan, now Mrs Hugh Dever; Margaret Eveline, now Mrs Renick Ward; and Eliza Martha, now Mrs B. F. Fleshman.

The annals just recorded of these persons, Mr and Mrs Peter Lightner may be brief and simple, but yet how very suggestive as one reflects upon them. From these biographical gleanings material may be gathered illustrating pioneer sufferings and privations, thrilling romance, tragic incidents in peace and war. W. T. P.

They send no glittering statements out,
When a bank goes to smash in China,
To show 'tis solvent beyond a doubt.
When a bank goes to smash in China.
No pitying tears you see them shed,
But they take a big cheese knife instead
And amputate the president's head,
And banks never break in China.
—Ex

"WHAT a small mind Mrs Venlynne has." "Naturally. She has given her husband so many pieces of it."—Tid-Bits.

STILL WELL FIXED.—"One of your wife's lungs is gone, my dear sir." "That doesn't do me any good, doctor; the one she has left is a star."—Truth,

"The Iron Ring."

Nearly fifty years ago there appeared in Littel's Living Age a remarkable story founded on legend. To this story,—"The Iron Ring,"—many a young person has listened from my lips, but my pen has never recorded it till now.

The Harz, or Hartz, Mountains form an important barrier boundary to Northern Germany: being the first obstacle that the cold, moist winds from the North Sea meet, the mountain summits are treeless and dismally bare. But the slopes and deep valleys abound in pines and firs; the dense, almost impenetrable forests are equally gloomy in their way, and what with the strange phenomena of nature often presented, form a store of legendary wealth not to be exceeded in weird interest. Among the Harz Mountains we find the "Spectre of the Brocken," and the great Goethe went thither with his dark fancies to build uncouth structures for the minds of men. A simpler legend of the Harz is the following:

From a town on the outskirts of the piny forests pilgrim travelers who knew nothing of fear and were not always needy, found it necessary to plunge into the dark tree-wilderness and make their way across the mountains; but, stout as their German hearts were, they would have hesitated a little had there not been a kind of wayfaring house in the recesses where a night's lodging might be procured. The keepers of the caravansary were known to be very poor, and at long intervals were seen creeping in the dusk about the town;—thickly muffled and aided by the twilight, their dark, forbidding countenances attracted little attention.

As time wore on it began to be noised whisperingly around that of all the pilgrims who had penetrated the forest depths, not one had ever yet been seen again; and, full of danger as the journey was, natural causes could not answer for the lives of all. Rumor settled on the half-way house, and whispers of "foul-play" went around the circle,—yet was nothing done until the deep thoughts of one mild-featured youth named Franz came to the surface and formed themselves into speech: "Fritz, go thou with me and we 'll ferret the den." Fritz nodded assent, and their preparations were made apace. To be ready for everything and apparently *un*ready was their aim,—the most forlorn and weakest of pilgrims, the stoutest of heart, and anything but unsuspecting wanderers.

Great fears were aroused. The friends of Franz and Fritz saw them depart, and wept as over their burial. With no light word or trifling manner, but calm and resolute, the young men went forth to unravel the mystery of the Harz recess, or to die in the attempt.

The shades of evening were falling fast upon them when they caught glimpse of the stone battlements they were, in a sense, to storm. Leaving Fritz to conceal himself in the woods, Franz advanced to beg shelter and food. "Keep on the alert for my whistle," said Franz, "come then most speedily,—and Fritz, if you hear nothing, care for this." 'T was a lock of girlish, golden hair,—Gretchen's hair, and Gretchen was Fritz's sister. The young men embraced each other and parted.

The house presented a singular blank appearance to Franz, and might have passed for uninhabited. Presently a decrepit old man shuffled out of the windowless building and stood silent before Franz. "Food and shelter, holy father,"— "Nay," returned the hooded one, "ask not crumbs of the starving,—see these guant limbs," thrusting his bony arms towards Franz. "Then I die at your gate," and in what may be termed a feint the young man fell.

"The saints preserve us!" gasped the janitor, and hobbling away soon returned and poured down the beggar's throat some drops of richest wine. "Canst crawl in now? Save me all are avaunt." With difficulty and feebly aided by the skeleton arms, Franz crawled into the dungeon-like abode. Night had deepened.

Once inside Frantz' great aim was to explore, so still feigning weakness, "Pray, father, lead me to rest and disturb me not till morn, when I will rid you of my company, and any coin in my wallet shall be yours." The old man, who seemed to Franz a pliable servant of shrewder men, conducted our pilgiim thro various narrow stone passages, up long, winding stone stairways to a spacious apartment, and there leaving him, bolted the door on the outside. Franz did not care, however, seeing open grated windows toward the forest hiding-place of Fritz, who now idle in the dark and sleepless, felt more uneasiness. To reconnoiter was the first step that Franz took in his strange quarters, and the second was to divest himself of the pilgrim garb and appear, every inch of him, a man ready for conflict which he fully expected.

He observed that straw pallets were arranged in the middle of the room around an immense column whose top was encircled by a heavy iron ring Drawing a portion of the bedding to a distant corner of the room, he lay down in truth to rest, for Franz was really tired.

Silence reigned and the midnight hour approached. A rumbling sound, a creaking, and such a tremendous crash as shook the stone building, strong as it was. The iron ring had fallen, and thus had many an unsuspecting traveler been killed and their effects stolen: their bodies—where?

A stealthy step neared the door, unbarred it, and Franz stood ready. As the same old man peered in he was rudely seized and pinioned: no other person came. Franz blew a shrill whistle for his companion, and the two together commanded and compelled this janitor and kind keeper of weary pilgrims to disclose everything concerning the nefarious business. The ghostly bones and relics of human beings had been concealed in the stone cavities of the walls; but of treasures the old man knew nothing. A stinted living all that was his, and heavily, sinfully paid for. He was conveyed to the town, and thro him the main actors in the tragic drama of The Iron Ring were discovered, brought to civil trial for their man-slaughter, and capitally executed. The weak old servant and accomplice was recommended to mercy, and his penalty commuted to imprisonment. The stone-house, arena of the diabolical deeds, was razed to the ground, and a suitable, safe resting-place for pilgrims established. Franz received the thanks of the town with Fritz; but they refused the offered emolument, feeling that they had only done their duty.

In long years after, Gretchen's maidens were wont to lay a golden tress beside their own for comparison, and then at father Franz's suggestion to put the "frau's gold lock" carefully away, for had it not once been in danger far out upon the dreadful Hartz Mountains?

A. L. P.

EDWARD EVERETT HALE said in a recent address on the coming century that the world is growing better. In the classification the century of Columbus was marked by discovery, the eighteenth by analysis, and the nineteenth by invention. The victories of the twentieth century, in his opinion, will be moral and spiritual. His prediction is that it "will be filled with not only physical comfort, but spiritual, and physical forces will be transmitted into moral and spiritual." Education will be general and greatly elevated, and nations will be brought into closer intercourse. No one has ventured to prophesy what the next century will bring forth in invention, for scarcely a year passes now without some wonderful advance. —St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

JESSE JONES, Esq., one of the best known citizens of Monroe Co., died at his home in Wolf Creek district at 3:30 o'clock, on Sunday afternoon, Jan. 17, 1897, after a very prolonged illness, at the advanced age of 84 years. His remains were interred in the Baptist cemetary at Alderson on Tuesday. He leaves a widow and several sons and daughters. The Man, in an extended notice of Mr. Jones, relates the following:

During the war he had $1,500 in state bank notes and $150 in gold and silver. Fearing that it might be taken from him, he hid it in a hollow tree in the woods by his house. Soon after the 45th Virginia Regiment encamped in this woodland, and, as the soldiers were cutting down timber promiscuously, Mr Jones began to entertain some appehensions about his tree. So he made for the camp and was very much frightened to find five or six men seated under his identical tree, playing cards for money, and within arm's reach of his bank deposit. Hewever, they had not discovered the treasure, but it took very skillful management to get that money out of the hole in the tree without being detected, which he nevertheless succeeded in doing.

SHE—I don't think you were anxious to hear me sing. HE (earnestly)—Indeed I was. I had never heard you before.—Puck.

SOME one asked Max Nordau to define the difference between insanity and genius. "Well," said the author of "Degeneration," "the lunatic is, at least, sure of his board and clothes."

Sam Jones in Boston.

BOSTON has been wonderfully shocked by Sam Jones. Listen to a few of Sam's scandalous upper cuts:

"There is a big difference between Boston and hell. You have a bay here. They haven't got any bay there. There are two kinds of engines in the church—big locomotives, running a mile a minute, and little stationary engines that don't go anywhere; just stay right here, puffing and blowing. Some little preachers here are just like these stationary engines. They blow their whistle at 12 o'clock, and that's all. The big locomotive not only moves along, but takes something along with it. We ought to trade off some of our stationary engines for some big locomotives."

"You cover a sin in Boston with a $5 bill. Money hides the whole business. The more I see of a good dog the less I think of the average man. The former will obey every command of its master. But does man? If a fellow believes in himself, and believes in God, he makes a team then. But if he does not believe he can't do a thing. He thinks so, and then he can't.

"All this talk about liquor must sound strange in Boston, and I presume there are many in this audience who think I am a crank. I call that a compliment, because it is fashionable to be a crank. I don't want to wear long hair. I don't believe in long haired men and short haired women."

"I wish some of you old bums would get up and tell what the devil has paid you up to date for doing his dirty work? You bring down an angel and give it a bottle of whiskey and a pistol, and that angel would be in a Boston lockup before morning."

"There isn't a mean thing on earth that some people in Boston are not doing."

A POINT OF ORDER WELL TAKEN.—Congressman Dolliver, of the Tenth Iowa district, has a big tent which he purchased from a stranded circus company and now utilizes in his campaigns. Last October, while making the rounds of his district, Mr Dolliver reached a town where it was too cold for an audience in the tent, and an adjournment was had to a great grocery store-house, which was able to accommodate numbers of political truth seekers. In one corner there was a big barrel of sauerkraut, and near this a great old fashioned stove of the kind that will roar like an elephant when the draft slide is pulled clear back.

With a great fire the crowd began to feel comfortable, and quickly enthused under the eloquence of the Fort Dodge orator. Everybody seemed to be unmindful of the sauerkraut barrel, and lost in the beautiful pictures of returning prosperity with the election of McKinley and the assurance of honest dollars and chances galore to earn them. But in the midst of one of Mr Dolliver's eloquent flights his attention was distracted by an Irishman who said he rose to a point of order.

"The gentleman may state it," quoth Mr Dolliver.

"Oi move you, sor," said he, "that a committee be appointed to place a horse blanket over the barrel of sauerkraut."

The barrel had warmed up with the growth of the fire, and an odor that was any thing but agreeable in a political atmosphere was forcing itself up the nostrils of the faithful. The horse blanket was secured from a neighboring stable and applied to the use designated, after which Mr Dolliver proceeded to the end of his speech uninterrupted.—Washington Post.

WHAT WOMEN HAVE TO STAND.—"I am not particularly vain," said a belle, "but when I leave my dressmaker I am a mere abject smudge of myself. I know many a woman will lift up her voice with me over the way we are treated by the average dressmaker. We protest faintly about a wrinkle around the shoulder. 'Well, you see, madam, your left shoulder is so much higher than your right it is almost impos—' We flush and say, 'Never mind.' 'Then, of course, that style of sleeve needs a full arm. I should not have chosen that sleeve for you myself,' and, 'A person with round shoulders can't expect her back to set real straight,' or 'The present style is trying to a person of a long neck like yours.' She admits that the general effect of the gown is 'dumpy,' but then yon incline to that build, and of course it can't be blamed on the dressmaker. If your chest were fuller your dress would button more evenly. If your hips were regular the skirt woldn't sag. You walk home wondering how you get along without crutches, and thinking what a bad job nature made of you anyhow."—Exchange.

The Pocahontas Times.

Andrew & Norman Price, Owners. "Montani Semper Liberi!" Andrew Price, Editor

VOL. 16, NO. 11 MARLINTON, WEST VIRGINIA, OCTOBER 6, 1898. $1.00 PER YEAR

From FACTORY to CONSUMER.

$1.39 buys this (exact) Rattan Rocker, the largest size ever made; per dozen, $14.50. Our new 112-page catalogue containing Furniture, Draperies, Crockery, Baby Carriages, Refrigerators, Stoves, Lamps, Pictures, Mirrors, Bedding, etc., is yours for the asking. Special supplements just issued are also free. Write to-day. CARPET CATALOGUE in lithographed colors is also mailed free. Write for it. If you wish samples, send 8c. stamp. Matting samples also mailed for 8c. All Carpets sewed free this month and freight paid on $9 purchases and over.

$7.45 buys a made-to-your-measure All-Wool Cheviot Suit, expressage prepaid to your station. Write for free catalogue and samples. Address (exactly as below),

JULIUS HINES & SON,
Dept. 909. BALTIMORE, MD.

LAW CARDS.

N. C. McNEIL,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

Will practice in the Courts of Pocahontas and adjoining counties and in the Court of Appeals of the State of West Virginia.

L. M. McCLINTIC,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

Will practice in the Courts of Pocahontas and adjoining counties and in the Supreme Court of Appeals.

H. S. RUCKER,
ATTY. AT LAW & NOTARY PUBLIC
HUNTERSVILLE, W. VA.

Will practice in the courts of Pocahontas county and in the Supreme Court of Appeals.

J. W. ARBUCKLE,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
LEWISBURG, W. VA.

Will practice in the courts of Greenbrier and Pocahontas counties. Prompt attention given to claims for collection in Pocahontas county.

W. A. BRATTON,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

Prompt and careful attention given to all legal business.

ANDREW PRICE,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

Will be found at Times Office.

SAM. B. SCOTT, JR.
LAWYER,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

All legal business will receive prompt attention.

H. M. LOCKRIDGE,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
HUNTERSVILLE, W. VA.

Prompt and careful attention given all legal work.

JOHN A. PRESTON FRED. WALLACE
PRESTON & WALLACE,
Attorneys at Law,
LEWISBURG, W. VA.

Will practice in the Courts of Greenbrier and adjoining counties, and in the Court of Appeals of the State of West Virginia.

J. W. YEAGER,
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

Prompt attention given to collections

T. S. McNEEL,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

Will practice in the Courts of Pocahontas and adjoining counties.

PHYSICIANS' CARDS.

DR. O. J. CAMPBELL,
DENTIST,
MONTEREY, VA.

Will visit Pocahontas County at least twice a year. The exact date of his visit will appear in this paper.

DR. J. H. WEYMOUTH,
RESIDENT DENTIST,
ELKINS, W. VA.

Will visit Pocahontas County every spring and fall. The exact date of each visit will appear in The Times.

J. M. CUNNINGHAM, M. D.,
PHYSICIAN & SURGEON,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

Office next door to C. A. Yeager's Hotel. Residence opposite Hotel. All calls promptly answered.

THE COUNTERSIGN.

Black is the night; the wind among the pines
Maketh lament like one in home less plight,
Toward the hills where you bright camp-fire shines
I make my way alone, along the night,
Shelter is there, and rest, companionship and light.

But wo is me! I hear the sentries' tread!
The armed sentries round that heavenly camp.
I may not pierce their charmed lines ahead.
From out the shadows and the creeping damp
I near with eager eyes, as moths
the evening lamp.

The challenge comes, sharp, stern:
"Halt! Who goes there?"
"A friend." In vain! The guard stands unenticed.
"Advance, and give the countersign!" I dare
All on one word and whisper softly, "Christ."
O joy! O weal! One word—but lo! it hath sufficed!

[—Emma Herrick Weed, in New York Independent.

County Sketches.

VII.

THE SCHEDULE.

All day Jonathan Pinchbeck had been journeying towards the county-seat on the back of his faithful gray mule. He was in trouble and was going to consult a lawyer. The sun was high when he rode into the village and hitched his mule in a fence-corner and prepared him a feast of the ears of corn spread out on the ground. Slipping the bit out of the mouth of the animal, he sat near and ate the snack he had prepared for his own refreshment. After securing his mule he went in search of his lawyer's office.

A month before he had considered himself highly independent of law and lawyers. He was a big strong man about thirty-five, unmarried. After several false starts he had finally managed to accumulate a goodly quantity of goods and chattels. He occupied forty acres of ground which he had cleared for the privilege of owning it for ten years and then returning it in its improved state to the owner. This is what we know as a lease. and the term is rarely used for any other kind of renting with us. He had cleared the land and built a good substantial house. He had his beloved mule, three cows, ten sheep, his household plunder, and "other things too numerous to mention," as the orthodox sale bill has it. He had money in his pocket, and he valued his possessions as only that man values them who has earned them by hard and continuous manual labor.

His lease was about to expire, but he was well fixed now and had dreamed of investing in land of his own.

He had had a shock a short time before. The constable had approached him and delivered a small piece of paper summoning him as surety on a note he had forgotton that he had signed. Nearly ten years before at a sale of a dead man's goods he had been the purchaser of a small bill of goods. He had given his note for six months and had offered Rube Mullins as security. Rube was a cattle buyer and he had bought some stock, and as he was considered very solvent the sheriff had accepted Jonathan as security for Rube as a mere matter of form.

Jonathan had lifted his note when it was due and had about forgotton the circumstance, but the note that Rube Mullins had given had been lying unpaid until Rube struck a succession of bad markets and became insolvent, and the amount due was $258.83, interest and all, and all coming with crushing force on poor Jonathan, who regarded that amount as an independent fortune.

There could be no defence to the suit on the plain bond, and the magistrate very sympathetically entered the judgment, and, having no orders, told Jonathan that he would have twenty days breathing spell to raise the money, before an execution was issued. The accumulations of twenty years would not pay the debt. Jonathan had paid every man he owed, and a debt of this kind was enough to make him a desperate or despairing man.

Then a friend who had been down the dark valley of debt came and whispered in his ear to "take what the law allowed him"; when they came to levy, to "schedule" and save his property.

He referred to the humane law of West Virginia, where in the interests of good government it is deemed expedient to allow a man to retain two hundred dollars' worth of personal property, which can not be sold from him for simple debt, no matter how much he has jeopardized or pledged it. He can not be deprived of it, no matter how often he has "waived" it in writing. The lawyers call it the personal property exemption, but it is more generally known as "scheduling" and "taking what the law allows." Some chance times the debtor does not take the benefit of it, but as a rule the poor man who has to so shield himself believes that the legislature knew best when they provided a safeguard against his being made desperate by abject poverty and falling from good citizenship.

Jonathan had thought of that, and while he did not like to do it for it was not a proceeding that tended to the good fame of the debtor, he finally decided it was his only chance to escape the iniquitous debt. Why had n't the sheriff sued Rube Mullins for it while he was good? indignantly asked the surety again and again, and so he justified himself.

He found his legal adviser, who was a young lawyer waiting for the age and ripeness the attorney requires before he becomes the legal adviser of a sufficient number of people to make life interesting. J. K. Burnett, attorney-at-law, was sitting in his office, his headquarters, for the weary life he led. For four years he had been trying to get enough money to pay his landlady the board bill he owed her, so that he could change boarding places. But as he accumulated enough to wipe out some of the indebtednes, time rolled on, keeping the bill about the same size. He was behind a full year of his living, and his landlady treated him like a dog and gave him any old thing to eat, and he was filled with indignation and afraid to say a word. When Jonathan entered his office and said he wanted him to tend to a little matter of business for him, he thought it might be a chancery suit, for it was about the time of the year to plant bills in chancery, but he was disappointed.

"I want you to he'p me schedule," said Jonathan.

"The devil you do! Now let me tell you something: there was a man in here this morning that wanted to plead the statute of limitations on a bill for his child's coffin, and I let him hire me. A fellow employed me the first of this week to defend him for beating his wife, and I took his case. This evening I am going to put a widow woman and four small chilchildren out in the big road; but I 'll be hanged if I do n't draw the line somewhere. I know I ain't the Nestor of this bar, but I 'll be eternally jumped up if I intend to be the nest-egg. Two years ago a man came in here and I fixed up his schedule, and he swore to it before me, as I am a notary public. The lawyer who had sued him was the prosecuting attorney. The fellow that scheduled had forgotton to put in a claim he had against a man, and after he had sworn the list contained all his assets he sued the man and got a judgment. Then the prosecuting attorney jumped on him and indicted him for swearing to a lie. They convicted him and he went to jail for six months, and he norated around all over the country that I got him into his trouble and he has never paid me one cent for the whole thing. Did you bring a five-dollar along with you to kinder make it easy for a fellow to do some dirty work?"

"Well, now, I ain't got that much with me, but I did manage to git two dollars for you, and if you would jest fix the papers a couple of dollars' worth I could get the balance this fall."

"Well, give me the money, and do n't you fool me about the other three dollaas, and if you have got a case a white man can handle why I 'll do what I can for you. What kind of a thieving arrangement have you got?"

"Taint that, mister; 'taint that," said Jonathan. "It 's a security debt and all I want is time to pay it in."

"If that 's the case," said the lawyer, remarkably mollified by the weight of the two silver dollars in his pocket, "I 'd help any man in the world to evade a security debt. Quo warranto habeas corpus mandamus certiorari, Mr Pinchbeck, which means the Law that saddles it on you may afford you an avenue for escape.

"You are a married man, I suppose?"

"No sir, never was married," replied Jonathan, cheerfully.

"Well, sir, do you know that only married men or parents can take the benefit of this law? You aint a parent, either, then?"

"The jury said I war n't. I paid my lawyer ten dollars in money and we winned case."

"Then, my friend, the sooner you get out of here the better."

"But how about my two dollars?"

"Oh, that!" said the lawyer carelessly, "the law says sic transit gloria mundi, meaning that which is paid to a lawyer through mistake in retaining him is actually his. It is settled in Scott v. Burns in 20 West Virginia, you know."

"Now see here, you do n't work no sich tricks on me—you either do something fer that two dollars, or I 'll take it outen yer hide," and the happy-go-lucky lawyer was brought up short and had more respect for his client accordingly.

After walking the floor and talking over the whole case and finding no loop-hole for escape from the consequences of debt, the lawyer had an idea.

"If there was a little more time,' he said, "you might get married before they got the execution out. Men ought to get married anyway,"—and the lawyer's truant thoughts turned to his own true love, who seemed to be unable to determine whether Lawyer Burnett was the best she could do or not.

"How much time have I got?" asked Jonathan.

"Twenty days or less."

"I know a gal that I would like powerful to git, but I never said much to her about hit. 'Bout two year ago I jumped on a rattlesnake what was coiled fer to strike her, and after that she kinder looked up at me sometimes like she might keer fer me. I am the only single man in the neighborhood what never courted her none, and I guess I aint got much of a show, Taint been a month sence I ast her what chance I had, and she said she jest knowed she could n't marry me,—not ef I came with the papers and the preacher,—no matter how she tried she could n't bring herself to say the words. I ast her ef she would try, and she said she jest knowed she could n't try, and I went down the mountain the worst beat man you ever seen. I kinder thought I stood in on the mountain."

"So you think you were rejected do you?"

"Them 's her very words."

"Well, see here old man, let me tell you I 've proposed to six girls in my time and been accepted by five of them, and I never had one of them to come as near saying she loved me as did your girl on the mountain. You are a great big good looking animal working all the time, and are as ignorant of the ways of women as a horse. If you have told me the truth about what you said, you get the 'papers and the preacher,' and go marry your little mountain girl and come back and we will schedule. Never heard of such a case in my life. You were accepted man, and never knew it."

A light broke in the face of the mountaineer, and it seemed that many things were explained to him that had been mysteries before. After a little argument, the lawyer induced the county clerk to trust him with a blank marriage-license, which he in turn filled out for Jonathan and his girl and gave to him. In case their scheme miscarried the secret would be safe.

Three days after that Jonathan once more rode into town on his gray mule. He found his lawyer, produced a ten-dollar bill, handed to him and said:

"That aint a sarcumstance to what I owe you."

"Married or unmarried?" asked the lawyer.

"I 'm a married man, and my wife says you 've got more gumption than any lawyer in the county, and that I aint got any more sense than the law allows me, but that I'll do for her. Now do n't you tell a livin' soul about it, and I'll tell you what happened. I stopped at Brushtown and told the circuit rider to come up on the mountain fer supper, fer he was wanted bad. He kinder grinned, but never said a word. I rode in a little 'fore sundown, and I seen Ellen in the big house by herself. She set me a cheer and ast me why I had n't been to see 'em fer so long. Said her pa blamed her fer drivin' me off. I says to her, 'Ellen, I have come to marry you and ef you send me down the mountain agin I 'll go West, and you wont see me no more. The preacher 'll be here to supper,' and I tuk the papers out. 'Will you send me away agin?'

"Ellen kinder held down her head and abused her pa fer bein' sa hard on her and blamin' her with drivin' me off, and said that I was a crazy old loon fer thinking anybody wanted to marry me, but the upshot of the whole thing was that the preacher he come and said the words; and I come down to schedule the property."

We are pleased to be able to relate that while the schedule was made and the execution defeated, that the lawyer was able to compound the debt almost immediately for fifty dollars, which Rube Mullins paid when drunk and conscience-stricken, and Jonathan became a free man again, and has never had any further experiences as surety or as an insolvent debtor, nor been compelled to shelter behind the exemption statute and take what the law allows him.

The Curse of Familiarity.

In their strife for mental equality with men woman have unintentially broken down a fine reserve of manner which previously lent them an air of mystery, of superiority, in the best sense, than which no element is more successful in holding a man's interest, love and respect. The young woman who greets a man friend with "Hello, old man!" or its equivolent in modern slang, might in return be called a "peach," but she would be a peach with the bloom rubbed off.

Every day I become more convinced that at the root of the increasing evidences of widespread marital unhappiness would be found the familiarity that breeds contempt. When a boy climbs a tree for green apples or cherries, whichever he prefers, he constantly sees a better one higher up beyond his reach, until he nearly breaks his neck to get the one out of his reach, partly hidden by foliage. And so man's ideal woman hangs at the tip-top of the tree of knowledge. If the ideal drops into his hands he throws it to the ground as worthless and begins to climb again. Would it be reasonable to think, after working so hard for cherries that he would value them long if he ate a surfeit of them?—Frances Evans, in the October Ladies' Home Journal.

Teachers' Examination.

The second and last examination for the present school year will be held at Marlinton, W. Va., October 7 and 8, 1898.

D. L. BARLOW,

To Cure a Cold in One Day.

Take Laxative Bromo Quinine Tablets. All Druggists refund the money if it fails to Cure. 25c.

BIOGRAPHIC NOTES.

The Gumm Relationship in Pocahontas.—The Descendants of William A. Gum.

BY W. T. P.

The Gumm relationship in Pocahontas consists of two groups, descendants of Jacob Gumm and William A. Gumm respectively. The group considered in this paper trace their ancestry to William A. Gumm, who left Highland county, then Pendleton, in 1832, and located on the Redden place near Green Bank, now occupied by John Grogg. In 1841 Mr Gumm moved to Back Alleghany and settled in the woods, and opened up lands now occupied by his sons James and McBride.

Mrs Gumm was Elizabeth, daughter of James Higgins, of Pendleton, now Highland. Mr and Mrs Gumm were the parents of one daughter and two sons: Margaret Elsie, James Henry and Francis McBryde.

Margaret was first married to James A. Logan, and first settled on a section of the homestead. Her children were John Commodore, who died in 1861 while quite young and Elizabeth, who became Mrs E. O. Moore and lives on Deer Creek, near Green Bank.

By her second marriage Mrs Logan became Mrs Gragg and lives on Back Mountain near the homestead. It is her mother-in-law, Mrs Zebulon Gragg, who is believed to be the oldest person now living in our county.

James H. Gumm first married Sally Ann, daughter of Zebulon Gragg, and settled on a part of the homestead.

His second marriage was with Milda Hoover, daughter of Abel Hoover, near Gillespie. James H. Gumm was a Confederate soldier attached to the 62nd Regiment of Mounted Infantry that formed a part of General Imboden's command.

Francis McBryde Gumm first married Elizabeth Peck, from Lewis county, and settled on the homestead. There were two children by this marriage, James Floyd and Virginia Elizabeth, who are living near Montgomery City, Montgomery County, Missouri.

His second marriage was with Caroline Amanda, daughter of Ellis Houchin, whose wife was Comfort Slavin Higgins. The Houchin family was from East Virginia.

McBryde Gum was a Confederate soldier and went out with the Green Bank company, known as Company G, 31st Virginia Infantry. He volunteered in May 1861 and served throughout the war, and as he was wounded three times he is to be remembered as a battle scarred veteran of that mysterious and strange war between the States.

Those who are familiar with the history of the 31st Virginia Infantry need not be reminded that no regiment in the service of the Confederacy has a more interesting and honorable record, or more frequently posted in the "deadly iminent breach" or more relied on in dire emergencies.

Fortunately Mr Gumm's wounds were slight and did not disable him for any length of time. The first wound was received in the bloody affair at Spottsylvania Court House. The second wound was inflicted at Liberty, Bedford county, when General Hunter was repulsed at Lynchburg. The third wound was received at the battle of Winchester. Instead of a wound he had his mustache neatly and closely trimmed off by a minnie ball at the battle of Cold Harbor. Clippers may have done the trimming a little more in style, but not near so quickly.

He was twice a prisoner of war. He was captured the first time at Uriah Hevener's in 1861, and paroled. The second time he was taken he was at his home on Back Mountain in October 1864. This time instead of being released on parole, he was taken to Clarksburg where he suffered many privations, and had a "plague of a time of it." He blames the cook, however, for the most of the hardships attending his imprisonment. It seems that the cook was infected with the spirit of speculation that was so much in the air during war times and saw a chance to realize some pocket money from the rations he drew at the commissary. While the cook would draw very liberal rations he was excessively economical in feeding them out.

There were but two meals aday, breakfast and supper. For breakfast the bill of fare consisted of a slice of very light bread, about four fingers broad, half tin cup of water and a slice of bacon two fingers broad and not much longer. Supper was served at 4 P. M., consisting uniformily of a tin cup of coffee and another small slice of bread, but no meat. It is but just to remark that all this was without the knowledge of the Federal officer in charge. An individual, who had been in the Southern service, was the cook and took advantage of this opportunity to make a little something for himself. He had found out that Confederates were in the habit of living on little or nothing, and to feed such was just to his advantage. He would make a nice thing of it and they would not know the difference, and would think they had gotten all that would be allowed.

Thus with the cheerful assistance of McBride Gumm, the compiler of these sketches has had it in his power to illustrate the family history of William A. Gumm, a worthy citizen of our county in his day. All who remember William A. Gumm have a good word for him as a neighbor, friend and substantial, prosperous citizen. The way he came to have a middle name is a little out of the usual order. When Dunkum & Co. had a store at Dunmore William Gumm was a liberal dealer. There was another William Gumm from the vicinity of Green Bank, and the merchant to note the differance and not get their accounts mixed called the one from Back Mountain William Alleghany on his books. In settling he had Mr Gumm to sign his name William A. Gumm.

From that circumstance he always thus signed his name in business affairs and in correspondence and so got his middle name Alleghany long after he became a grown person. In studying the origin of names it is interesting to find that a large number of names have originated from where persons happened to live.

Forty-six years last August the writer spent an hour or two at his newly made home in the woods, and ever since there has been a beautiful picture in his mind of a truly contented man with his home and surroundings, endowed with the power of making himself and all around him pleasant and cheerful.

Notice.

Notice is hereby given that the undersigned will either rent or sell the land and mill property formerly belong to my deceased brother, J. W. Smith. For further information call on JOSEPH S. SMINE, Mill Point, W. Va.

The pain of a burn or scald is almost instantly relieved by applying Chamberlain's Pain Balm. It also heals the injured parts more quickly than any other treatment, and without the burn is very severe does not leave a scar.

The Acme Book Store, Morgantown, W. Va., has arranged to furnish students of the University with Text-Books, second hand and shelf-worn, at about one-half what they would pay for the new books. They also deal in all kinds of supplies for students.

One of the leading book houses in the State is the Acme Book Store of Morgantown, W. Va. They buy and sell second-hand University Text Books, and in this way save students many dollars in the course of a year. If you go to the University this year give the Acme people a call.

If any students go from this countey to the West Virginia University this year they may be glad to know that The Acme Book Store, of Morgantown, W. Va., is prepared to furnish them with University Text-Books, second hand, and shelf-worn. You can save a great deal by buying all your school supplies of them.

The Pocahontas Times.

Andrew & Norman Price, Owners. "Montani Semper Liberi!" Andrew Price, Editor

VOL. 16, NO. 12 MARLINTON, WEST VIRGINIA, OCTOBER 13, 1898. $1.00 PER YEAR

From FACTORY to CONSUMER. $1.39 buys this (exact) Rattan Rocker, the largest size ever made; per dozen, $14.50. Our new 112-page catalogue containing Furniture, Draperies, Crockery, Baby Carriages, Refrigerators, Stoves, Lamps, Pictures, Mirrors, Bedding, etc., is yours for the asking. Special supplements just issued are also free. Write to-day. CARPET CATALOGUE in lithographed colors is also mailed free. Write for it. If you wish samples, send 8c. stamp. Matting samples also mailed for 8c. All Carpets sewed free this month and freight paid on $5 purchases and over.

$7.45 buys a made-to-your-measure All-Wool Cheviot Suit, expressage prepaid to your station. Write for free catalogue and samples. Address (exactly as below),

JULIUS HINES & SON,
Dept. 909. BALTIMORE, MD.

LAW CARDS.

N. C. McNEIL,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

Will practice in the Courts of Pocahontas and adjoining counties and in the Court of Appeals of the State of West Virginia.

L. M. McCLINTIC,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

Will practice in the Courts of Pocahontas and adjoining counties and in the Supreme Court of Appeals.

H. S. RUCKER,
ATT'Y. AT LAW & NOTARY PUBLIC
HUNTERSVILLE, W. VA.

Will practice in the courts of Pocahontas county and in the Supreme Court of Appeals.

J. W. ARBUCKLE,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
LEWISBURG, W. VA.

Will practice in the courts of Greenbrier and Pocahontas counties. Prompt attention given to claims for collection in Pocahontas county.

W. A. BRATTON,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

Prompt and careful attention given to all legal business.

ANDREW PRICE,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

Will be found at Times Office.

SAM. B. SCOTT, JR.
LAWYER,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

All legal business will receive prompt attention.

H. M. LOCKRIDGE,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
HUNTERSVILLE, W. VA.

Prompt and careful attention given all legal work.

JOHN A. PRESTON FRED. WALLACE
PRESTON & WALLACE,
Attorneys at Law,
LEWISBURG, W. VA.

Will practice in the Courts of Greenbrier and adjoining counties, and in the Court of Appeals of the State of West Virginia.

J. W. YEAGER,
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

Prompt attention given to collections

T. S. McNEEL,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

Will practice in the Courts of Pocahontas and adjoining counties.

PHYSICIANS' CARDS.

DR. O. J. CAMPBELL,
DENTIST,
MONTEREY, VA.

Will visit Pocahontas County at least twice a year. The exact date of his visit will appear in this paper.

DR. J. H. WEYMOUTH,
RESIDENT DENTIST,
ELKINS, W. VA.

Will visit Pocahontas County every spring and fall. The exact date of each visit will appear in The Times.

J. M. CUNNINGHAM, M. D.,
PHYSICIAN & SURGEON,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

Office next door to C. A. Yeager's Hotel. Residence opposite Hotel. All calls promptly answered.

McKINLEY TO MILES.

Sez McKinley to Miles, sez he,
Here 's a job, sure, that 's cut out for you.
There 's a cross-grained ould don
In the town of San Juan
That I want y' to go an' t' do,
Sez he,
Sez McKinley, sez he, to Miles.

Sez McKinley to Miles, sez he,
I 'll ax you to do th' thing quick
An' ye 'll not a bit vex us
Ef you push in his plexus,
Shure, y' know how to do thot same trick,
Sez he,
Sez McKinley, sez he, to Miles.

Sez McKinley to Miles, sez he,
Give him wan on his joog-u-lar vein
An' a couple o' swats
In the thin o' the slats
B' th' way o' remimberin the Maine,
Sez he,
Sez McKinley, sez he, to Miles.

Sez McKinley to Miles, sez he,
Do n't fool wid the son-of-a-gun,
But keep at him, sez he,
Till he 's half fricassee;
That 's the kind of a job I want done,
Sez he,
Sez McKinley, sez he, to Miles.
—Philadelphia Call.

County Sketches.

VIII.

THE HORSE THIEF.

Up the winding grade of Indian Mountain a man riding a fine bay horse rode on a bright summer day. He passed the near cut used by all who traveled the road on foot or horseback, keeping the main road which was the longer and less precipitous way to the top of the mountain. He was evidently a stranger in the county.

Not long after he had passed this near cut he became aware that he was being overtaken by a man riding a horse that had a swifter walk than his own. According to the custom of the road he allowed his horse to take a slower pace in order that he might be joined by the man behind, a proceeding that the horse seemed to understand perfectly. The riders thereafter jogged along together. After the usual introductory remarks concerning the weather without which the common run of humanity would lack a stepping stone to a wider acquaintance, the young man who had come up cast a critical eye on the other's horse for subject for further conversation.

"Do you want to trade that hoss?" he asked.

"No, I can't say that I do. I am but a poor trader."

"How long you had him?"

A close observer might have noted a curious and somewhat sinister gleam in the other's eye, but the questioner seemed to take no heed.

"I bought him three days ago near Caterville."

"You do n't know who raised him, do you? I live near Caterville myself."

"No, I do n't. I bought him of a young fellow I met in the road. I am a doctor, and I was taking a walk through your beautiful mountain country. I found out that I could not walk as well as I thought I could and bought the first horse I found for sale which suited me. Are we nearing the top of the mountain?"

"Yes, it is right here. You see that gang of men up there?"

"Yes."

"Well, that 's a posse comitatus, and I will have to tell you that I am the deputy sheriff of Adams County in search for this hoss and I will have to ask you to come back with us and prove that you came by this property honestly."

Then followed a scene in which the motions of the men were too quick to make an impression on the eye. Two pistol shots rang out and the stranger dropped from his horse like a wounded squirrel from the limb of a tree, and the deputy sheriff quieted his frightened steed and felt his head to see if it was still whole. The squad of men in waiting charged down upon the two with pistols drawn, and found the deputy unhurt and the stranger lying in the side-ditch with his eyes fixed on the group. He was the first to speak.

"Well, my kind Christian friends I hope you are satisfied with your handiwork. You will find very little of value upon my person to reward you for wounding an inoffending man. Before you proceed with your work, however, I would thank you to place me in a better position. I seem numb and just for curiosity I should like to know what damage I have sustained tn this scrimmage. I should naturally like to know whether it is worth while to make an effort to get over this. I am somewhat alarmed about myself, for I feel very much like lying here—I feel very comfortable. That 's right now, please find out where I am wounded."

"You are shot in the stomach," said an elderly man, "and whether you are a horse-thief or not, I trust you are not seriously hurt. That 's my horse. I know him from a colt, and we are only after our own property. For all we know you may be perfectly innocent of this theft."

"Do n't tell me I have shot the wrong man," groaned the young deputy, and the stranger looked at him intently.

"Just guide my hand to the wound, my dear sir. Well it is as I supposed, shot through the bowels. The ball, I havn't a doubt, is lodged against my spine, and it may please fate to spare me pain in dying My young friend, I congratulate you on your dexterity. I trust that you are unhurt."

"Do n't talk tnat way," pleaded the deputy sheriff. "Tell me who I have shot anyway."

"All in good time," said the wounded man. "While I may not have time to tell you all I wish to say, I am feeling too good to be hurried. No, no whiskey, thank you my good friends. The spot that the whiskey reaches has been destroyed. I beg of you that you will all take some of the stimulant, especially our deputy-sheriff, who looks wretchedly."

The excited group had recourse to the bottle of whiskey which they were but too glad to gulp down at the command of the stranger, who lying on a grassy mound directed their movements so calmly.

"I have studied medicine and have some remedies with me. Just look for a case in my breast pocket. Bring some water. Yes, that in the puddle will do as well as any. Put that syringe together, pump it full of water, and eject it. Yes it is a squirt-gun. Now dissolve one of the pellets in about a spoonful of water. Fill it up and insert the needle under the skin of my arm. Just so. Did it all enter? Ah, that was well done. I had you do that to show you how and if pains do come my way, just give me repetitions of that treatment until I tell you that I am easier. Promise me that and I will tell you how I came to have that miserable horse in my possession. Do you promise?"

"What is the medicine in the pellets?"

"Oh, that is an alkaloid."

"Well, we will squirt it into you and send for a doctor too."

"No, no doctor for me, I can doctor myself."

"Well, let 's hear about yourself."

"That can be told in a few words. I am going to die, and all for a trifling thing too. My name is Roger Wickline, at least it used to be. I have gone under different names since. I was what the world calls well born. My father was a New York speculator and my mother a society woman. That was a bad cross and I come by my disposition honestly, but it 's not an honest disposition. I believe that I am what is called an artist in crime. From my earliest recollection I would do things that were forbid to which a penalty was attached.

"As a child my nurse recognized I was never satisfied until I had broken every command in such a way that while evil consequences were risked they were averted. As I grew older to steal and annoy and lay myself liable to punishment seemed inherent in me, and I always escaped detection. I seemed to be possessed of an evil genius that invented mischief. I had no partners in crime. I was never suspected when property was destroyed, and I had particular delight in carrying out my schemes of malicious mischief.

"I went to the best schools and to college. I stole a twenty-dollar gold piece from a poor student and dropped it in the coat-pochet of an old darkey. He found it, blessed the Lord, spent it, and went to the penitentiary.

"I broke into the house of a rich man and cut a fine painting to pieces. I had no spite against him. I stole pieces from vehicles and caused runaways and breakdowns. I blew up a county bridge. I was never even suspected of any part in these crimes.

"When I had completed my medical educatiod I practiced among poor people, and whenever safe I poisoned a patient and he died.

"Shortly my father became a bankrupt and soon I was pressed for means. Then it occurred to me that I might turn my talent to advantage and steal enough for my needs. Now understand me—the ill-gotten gains was not the end for which I worked, any more than it is with the painter who glories in the execution of his work of art, and takes the money it brings him as an incident of his profession.

"Thereafter I lived by neatly-planned robberies. I murdered an inoffensive woman, and her husband was hung for it. The children of men call that killing two birds with one stone. And all this time I had escaped detection and I grew to consider myself as being more than a match for the law. I lived at ease, and for some time I had been hankering for some particularly difficult task for the excitement it would afford me.

"In an evil hour I picked up a copy of a West Virginia county newspaper which made the statement, that while horse-stealing seemed to be hereditary and that the number of horse thieves was on the increase, yet it could be safely asserted that a horse had never been so successfully spirited away but that the owner recovered it in a short sime, and that the thief rarely if ever escaped detection.

"Here was an opportunity. I had plenty of money. I came to West Virginia and took a horse, and when it was too late I realized that I had a white elephant on my hands. The lubberly brute could not be hid. His tracks led from my presence to the stable of his owner. He could not be concealed in the woods for he would require food. Every man I met showed an impertinent interest in the horse, and no sooner would a countryman see him than he had every knob and mark fixed indelibly in his mind. They would cast a glance at him and know his sire and grandsire. Cross between a Patrick Henry and a Flyaway they told me time and again, and that brute out there left a trail behind him as broad and distinct as a comet. My desire in the beginning was to keep the horse as a trophy, but I realized that the sooner I took the horse to some out of the way place and killed him, the better. I was looking for a suitable place to turn into the woods when you rode up, and at this accursed hour I am lying here a victim to an inordinate desire to accomplish an impossibility. I can not recover, but I die wishing that accursed brute, which has jolted me for days, was to accompany me in the journey that may be before me.

"My friends, I am done. For the past few minutes my pain has been coming upon me. Dissolve ten of those pellets in water, and do not stop until you have injected the solution into my arm. I thank you in advance."

And the posse comitatus went to work, and having mixed enough morphine to kill a horse, merrily pumped it into the stranger's blood and helped him to a speedy and easy end.

BIOGRAPHIC NOTES.

The Second Branch of the Gumm Family Tree.—The Descendants of Jacob Gumm.

W. T. P.

The second group of the Gumm relationship are the descendants of Jacob Gumm, who came from what is now Crabbottom, in Highland county, soon after the war of 1812. Upon his marriage with Martha Houchin, he settled near Green Bank, on land now owned by C. A. Lightner. A part of his wife's patrimony were two colored girls, Delph and Daphne, and in their time colored people were curiosities. Upon moving he settled on the place now held by Joseph Beard.

Mr and Mrs Gumm were the parents of seven sons and four daughters. The girls were Mary, Margaret, Nancy and Nellie.

Mary married Randolph Powhattan Bouldin, a journeyman shoemaker.

Nancy married William Sutton and lived on property lately occupied by Craig Ashford. Her children were Robert, George Gatewood, Sherman, Eldridge, Anna, now Mrs Craig Ashford; Magnolia and Mary.

Margaret married Charles Mace and went to Missouri.

Nellie was a life long invalid.

William M. Gumm married Sally Tallman, of James Tallman, the early settler, and lived on Deer Creek. His children were George, Franklin, Samuel, Milton, Lee, Martha Jane, now Mrs W. J. Wooddell and lives at Addison; Caroline, who became Mrs Lafayette Burner; Ella, now Mrs Brown Trainer; Rebecca, now Mrs Lee Burner; Marietta, now Mrs Enos Tallman; and Nancy, who died at the age of four years. Further particulars given in the Tallman sketches.

McBride Jackson Gumm married Eliza Thomas, of Harrisonburg, and spent much of his married life on Clover Creek. His family consisted of four sons and two daughters: Brown, William, Fillmore, Woods, Agnes and Caroline. McBride J. Gumm was a gallant Confederate soldier and served most of his time in Captain J. W. Marshall's Cavalry.

Jacob Gumm, Junior, married Virginia Burke and migrated to Ohio. No particulars are in hand concerning his family.

Charles Gumm married Jane Hartman and migrated to Ohio. He was a blacksmith by occupation.

Gatewood Gumm went to Ohio when a young single man and settled there.

Robert N. Gumm married Anna Riley and resides on the old Cooper farm, two miles east of Green Bank. His sons are William, John and Joseph. The daughters are Elizabeth, who became Mrs Harry Burner and went to Wyoming; Anna who married Snowden Cooper; and Blanche.

Robert N. Gumm was a brave Confederate soldier in the 31st Virginia Infantry, a member of the Green Bank Company. On account of his coolness and self-possession under fire he was frequently selected for ambulance service on the field in caring for the wounded. To be efficient for such a service requires more than ordinary nerve, and he was found to be well qualified for it. In times of peace he has become well and widely known as a miller, and is now managing the Hevener Mill on the North Branch of Deer Creek.

John E. Gumm married Harriet Hudson, daughter of Hon Elijah Hudson, and lives on a section of the Bible place, two miles from Green Bank. Mention of his family was made in the Hudson Sketches. John E. Gumm was a Confederate soldier in the 18th Virginia Cavalry, under Col W. L. Jackson, and acted well his part in the sufferings and privations that soldiers had to endure on the outposts during the sad war between the states.

From J. E. Gumm the writer derived valuable aid for this sketch as we sat on our horses one warm July morning of the late summer, after a casual meeting in the public road.

The Pocahontas groups of the Gumm relationship trace their ancestry to the Highland families of that name. These Highland families have for their progenitors pioneers who are believed to have been from western Maryland, and among the earlier settlers of Pendleton, possibly antedating the Revolution.

Thus in the manner indicated. the writer has been furnished with the facilities to illustrate the home and personal history of a family relationship long known in our county. From these groups our citizenship has been furnished with many useful persons who have done a good part in the development of our county. Some have beeen useful as blacksmiths, carpenters and farmers; others endured hardships as good soldiers in struggling for what they believed to be right. Many humble homes have been rendered nice and pleasant by the skiliful home-keepers so frequently met with in this connexion.

As the writer proceeds in the prosecution of this pleasant duty of illustrating the family history of our Pocahontas people, he becomes more and more impressed with the thought that we have in our citizenship many of the most improvable people to be found anywhere. Under right influences results might be achieved that would astonish the world, as to the possibilities of our people. The writer believes that one of the best things that all of us could do for self-improvement and the attainment of high and grand possibilities would be to bear always in mind, "As a man thinks so is he." It was with this in mind that one of the most eminent persons that ever lived and who has done more for human improvement than any other mortal man, gave this advice to some people he was greatly interested in and with whom he seemed to have been especially pleased. It was this, "Finally, brethren, whatsoever things are true, whatsoever things are honest, whatsoever things are just, whatsoever things are pure, whatsover things are lovely, whatsoever things are of good report; if there be any virtue, and if there be any praise, THINK ON THESE THINGS."

THE ROD OF CORRECTION.

A sermon worthy of more than passing notice was recently delivered at Marlinton by Presiding Elder Martin. This sermon may be spoken of as a "word in season.' The thoughts presented were suggested by the mournful history of Eli's family, given in 1st Samuel, chapters one to four. The text was 1 Samuel iii, 11–14.

> And the Lord said to Samuel: Behold I will do a thing in Israel at which both the ears of every one that heareth it shall tingle.
>
> In that day I will perform against Eli all things which I have spoken concerning his house: when I begin I will also make an end.
>
> For I have told him that I will judge his house forever for the iniquity which he knoweth, because his sons made themselves vile, and he restrained them not.
>
> And therefore I have sworn unto the house of Eli, that the iniquity of Eli's house shall not be purged with sacrifice nor offerings forever.

The sad results of parental indulgence were vividly presented, and most of the prevailing and threatened evils that now make the future so ominous for families and the nations are to he traced to mistaken kindness on the part of parents in not "restraining their sons and daughters" at the proper time, when under parental authority. One of the telling points made was in reference to indulging in things that parents regard as wrong, and the children think to be harmless, and will indulge in spite of parental wishes to the contrary. By so doing they fail to honor fathers and mothers, and by doing thus, what otherwise might be a harmless indulgence becomes a violation of the commandments, and dishonor to parents is prohibited along with murder and other crime. The speaker emphasized the importance of parents asserting their authority: restrain their children and drive from their thresholds the morally impure, with something of the same aversion and horror that they would bruise the heads of vipers and copperheads when found crawling too near their homes.

S. C. R.

A BISHOP ON THE ROAD.

A recent issue of the New York World has an interesting article concerning the adventures of Bishop Coleman, of Delaware, who figured as a tramp a few weeks since in northern West Virginia. Unknown, in coarse clothing, he walked 235 miles in ten days. Beginning at Martinsburg he footed it to Romney over the Alleghanies, thence to Grafton, and then went down the Cumberland Valley on his return to Wilmington, Delaware, where his fine home is situated. On his tramp he would stop where night came on, and frequently did hard work for food and lodging. Mending clocks, tinkering umbrellas, sawing wood, or milking cows. He slept in a barn, a school-house, or under the trees. The Bishop is 61 years of age, of fine physique. He carried but little money on his journey, for which he found no special need.

The place where he had the most enjoyable incident was at the home of a mountaineer where he found a number of families assembled for a cottage prayer-meeting one evening. His spirit was so stirred by their devotions that he could not be silent, so he led in prayer and then preached, and left an impression on his hearers that will not be soon forgotton by them. He ranks as one of the eminent pulpit orators in the Episcopal church.

When asked by an interviewer as to what impression he got from these poor folks of the woods and mountains, what of them and their life, the Bishop is reported to have made this reply: "Ox-like patience A wonderful contentment with hard conditions. No soft beds, no tempting food, no carpets, no love or comprehension of the beautiful, no comfort, and yet with it all a kind of happiness."

The Bishop was asked to what he attributed his rugged health, and his explanation was to this effect: "To my lifelong habit of walking—the best of all exercise; and to the fact that I have never tasted tea, coffee, or other stimulants."

He spent ten days on the excursion in actual walking, and covered 235 miles. The next time he takes a walk let him come to Pocahontas and find out what a nice place it is for "entertaining angels unawares."

S. C. R.

HON THOMAS F. BAYARD.

This eminent man died the 28th of September at the home of his daughter, Dedham, Massachusetts. For nearly two months he had been unwell, owing chiefly to a breaking down incident to old age, being in his 70th year.

The Bayard family has been eminent in our country's history for two hundred years, and the late Senator was one of the most distinguished of the name. In 1685 Nicholas Bayard was mayor of New York; John Bayard was a leader in the Revolution, and four members of the family have been United States Senators from Delaware. The subject of this sketch was born in 1828. He became a distinguished lawyer, and was conspicuously prominent in his opposition to the civil war as the wrong way to settle the troubles complained of. He became United States Senator in 1868, and served three terms. In 1884, when Mr Cleveland was nominated for President, the next largest vote was cast for Mr Bayard, and he was Secretary of State in the first Cleveland Administration, and was Ambassador to England during the second Cleveland administration. Queen Victoria sent Mrs Bayard a telegram of sympathy.

His character was an honor to his country, as all cheerfully admit who may have differed widely with him as to political views. It was no doubt largely due to his influence that the present state of good feeling exists between England and America, and the American people may never fully realize how much they owe him for his good offices in this respect.

The Pocahontas Times.

Andrew & Norman Price, Owners. "Montani Semper Liberi!" Andrew Price, Editor

VOL. 16, NO. 13 MARLINTON, WEST VIRGINIA, OCTOBER 20, 1898. $1.00 PER YEAR

WE PAY THE FREIGHT AND $15.95 IS ALL IT COSTS.

This 5-piece parlor suit, rocker, divan, and sofa, and two parlor chairs, highly polished frame, finished mahogany, and upholstered in velour or tapestry, large size, and suitable for any parlor in the land, $15.95 and freight paid anywhere on earth. Such a bargain as this you have never seen before, no matter how old you are, and never will again, probably, if you reach the century mark, which we hope you will. Further comment is unnecessary, except that if you want to know of thousands of such bargains, send for our 160-page furniture catalogue, and if you want carpet at such prices as most dealers can't buy for, send for our ten-color lithographed carpet catalogue, and what you'll find in these two books will teach you something that you'll want to remember for many a day. Remember Christmas is coming, and sensible people give sensible gifts which sensible people most appreciate. Something for the home is the best of all presents, and our catalogues will suggest to you what is best. Address (exactly as below)

JULIUS HINES & SON,
Dept. 909. BALTIMORE, MD.

LAW ARDS.

N. C. McNEIL,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

Will practice in the Courts of Pocahontas and adjoining counties and in the Court of Appeals of the State of West Virginia.

L. M. McCLINTIC,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

Will practice in the Courts of Pocahontas and adjoining counties and in the Supreme Court of Appeals.

H. S. RUCKER,
ATT'Y. AT LAW & NOTARY PUBLIC
HUNTERSVILLE, W. VA.

Will practice in the courts of Pocahontas county and in the Supreme Court of Appeals.

J. W. ARBUCKLE,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
LEWISBURG, W. VA.

Will practice in the courts of Greenbrier and Pocahontas counties. Prompt attention given to claims for collection in Pocahontas county.

W. A. BRATTON,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

Prompt and careful attention given to all legal business.

ANDREW PRICE,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

Will be found at Times Office.

SAM. B. SCOTT, JR.
LAWYER,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

All legal business will receive prompt attention.

H. M. LOCKRIDGE,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
HUNTERSVILLE, W. VA.

Prompt and careful attention given all legal work.

JOHN A. PRESTON FRED. WALLACE
PRESTON & WALLACE,
Attorneys at Law,
LEWISBURG, W. VA.

Will practice in the Courts of Greenbrier and adjoining counties, and in the Court of Appeals of the State of West Virginia.

J. W. YEAGER,
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

Prompt attention given to collections

T. S. McNEEL,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

Will practice in the Courts of Pocahontas and adjoining counties.

PHYSICIANS' ARDS.

DR. O. J. CAMPBELL,
DENTIST,
MONTEREY, VA.

Will visit Pocahontas County at least twice a year. The exact date of his visit will appear in this paper.

DR. J. H. WEYMOUTH,
RESIDENT DENTIST,
ELKINS, W. VA.

Will visit Pocahontas County every spring and fall. The exact date of each visit will appear in The Times.

J. M. CUNNINGHAM, M. D.,
PHYSICIAN & SURGEON,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

Office next door to C. A. Yeager's Hotel. Residence opposite Hotel. All calls promptly answered.

THE PAST.

The debt is paid,
The verdict said,
The Furies laid,
The plague is stayed,
All fortunes made.
Turn the key and bolt the door,
Sweet is Death forevermore.
Nor haughty Hope, nor swart
Chagrin,
Nor murdering Hate can enter in.
All is now secure and fast,
Not the gods can shake the past,
Flies-to the adamantine door,
Bolted down forevermore.
None can enter there;
No thief so politic,
No Satan with his royal trick,
Steal in by window, chink, or hole,
To bind or unbind, add what lacked,
Insert a leaf or forge a name,
New-face or finish what is packed,
Alter or mend eternal Fact.

—Ralph Waldo Emerson.

County Sketches.

IX.

THE CANDIDATE.

The county was on the eve of a general election, and the campaign was proving to be one of the most momentous which had ever taken place in the county. It was before the days of the present voting system, which hampers the manipulator of elections with its many cumberous requirements. Then if a vote was purchased the voter could be marched up to the polls and made to deliver the goods in the presence of his customer, or the ballot box could be sweetened with a handful of ballots specially prepared.

When the disability was removed from those who had given aid and comfort to the Rebellion, the old Confederates immediately took the local government in their own hands, and, without evincing the slightest gratitude to the party which had given them back their votes, voted uniformly their own way. They were so largely in the majority that they did not take the trouble to nominate by party elections their county officials, but settled it all at the general election.

The interest centered this year in the election of a representative in the House of Delegates. For years the county had been agitated over the question of dividing the territory and forming two counties, and many were the disputes that grew out of it. The differences occasioned by the civil war were hardly greater. While his locality did not always influence the voter, the strength of the element for division was to be found in the two extremities of the long, narrow county, and that of the people who were for union in the central settlements clustering around the court-house. Whether the matter would be agitated in the next House depended upon the election of Colonel Wood, who was for disruption first, last, and forever His opponent was a young lawyer from the county-seat named Senhouse, who would see that the county was preserved in its integrity, and combat any movement that might be originated.

There were a number of voters in all sections of the county who were neutral on the division question,—fully enough to control the election,—and both parties were making strenuous efforts to secure this vote.

The fall term of the Circuit Court had just ended, and both candidates had been very active for the harvest time was approaching. Senhouse had made a speech from the judge's stand in the court-room, and Colonel Wood had tried to answer him, but had had a bad fit of stage fright and had only uttered a few disjointed sentences, so it might be said that the honors of the joint debate lay with the lawyer.

The Colonel had just come in from the county-seat and had pulled off his boots and was rubbing his shins before the big wood fire which blazed on the hearth. A visitor was ushered into the room, a big, breezy, good natured colonel himself, who was always ready to vote for the last man who had asked him. He generally promised every candidate, but the way he voted had been classed as one of the great mysteries of the world, and he was no more to be relied on than a woman's whim.

"How 's your chances, Tom?" he asked.

"It 's a walk-over, Mike. The best men in the county—men I can rely on—have solemnly promised that they are not going to go back on an old comrade for a East Virginia lawyer. Some of his friends are making their brags, but the ground 's shaking beneath their feet, and they know it. The Bensons, and Hartfords, and Pools and McKeggars, and Dikes, and Braytons have all told them they are going to vote for me, and they know they are beat. They are threatening to spring a mine on me, but I have my friends posted. You did me a dirty trick to make me get up there and try to make a speech You knew I never could even pray in public. If you do n't pull Lyman's Cross Roads up for fifty majority for me you and me dissolves partnership. I am going in to the county-seat with five hundred majority, and if that cowardly set do n't stuff a ballot-box or two on me I am elected."

For more than an hour the Colonel lay down to his friend reasons for his belief in his election that could not be disputed, and then the constituent took his leave.

The politician then turned to a man who had remained quiet during the discussion. He was a country doctor, deeply interested in local politics, and the confidential adviser of Colonel Wood in the fight on hand. This was Dr Graham, a son-in-law of the Colonel. who made his home with him.

"Do you think Mike Irwin 's for me, Dock?"

"It would be safer not to count on him. He has been thick with Senhouse this whole court."

"Well, what do you think of the outlook?"

"It 's bad. There is n't a sign now in our favor."

"But what about the report that Senhouse is stingy with his liquor?"

"The people forget that now that he 's letting it run like water. Besides, they think more of a drink from a stingy man."

"But what about that report that he sends money to East Virginia every month to that woman?"

"As far as I can judge, Colonel, the sentiment of the county seems to be that if he provides for the child that is all that can be expected of him."

"But, Dock, what about his shaving a claim when he had the money in his pocket?"

"They come back at you, Colonel, and say you voted against the school levy."

"They do, do they! By ganny, they can't prove it!"

"They say, too, that you said the Baptists havn't any more religion than the Catholics."

"Well they aint, Dock, but I never said it."

"They say you stole a horse during the war, and that you drive off people's sheep when you move your stock."

"All dog-gone lies, Dock! Say, I never run for office before and I never will agin, and it aint worth fighting for, but, by ganny, I 'd give my Rock Creek place to down that fellow, if it would do any good. Say, Dock?"

"Well."

"I believe he 's going to beat the hind sights off of me!"

"I would n't be a bit surprised."

"Now see here, do n't you get to talking that way or I will throw up the sponge. Can't you suggest something?"

"Yes."

"Well man alive spit it out! The election is only a week off."

"Give me $25 for campaign purposes."

"What do you want with it?"

"I had better not tell you. No, I am not going to buy votes. That can't be done out here among these mountaineers, or anywhere with $25, but I have got a scheme that may work. You are gone up without it, and it may elect you."

The campaign continued for several days along the same lines as before. The good old Colonel lost his temper now and then as he heard of the many reports that were being circulated concerning him. Little transactions and small sins, which he had long forgotton, came up to find him out, and it was getting to be a serious time. He left for the other end of the county. Senhouse hired a horse and came into his enemy's territory to end up the campaign. He was billed to speak one evening after dark at the Willow Run schoolhouse. It had rained all day and the river was high. The people gathered and dispersed without his turning up.

The next day his horse was discovered near the school-house with a stirrup flung over the saddle. A hat was found a mile down stream and recognized as belonging to Senhouse. The poor man was evidently drowned. The people knew the signs to well. Numerous incidents were recalled where the lone rider was swept down the stream to his death, while the horse struggled out alone. Searching parties were organized, but the body was not found.

The news spread the length and breadth of the county in one day. It went from mouth to mouth. The Colonel made a record ride to the court-house and declared that he could not continue in the race. His friends swarmed around him, and most of the other side as well, and would not hear to his sacrificing himself. They all declared they must have a candidate or the Republican party would send a Representative. A few refused to vote for the Colonel, but with everything he had about two-thirds of the vote.

Just about sunset on the day of election Senhouse came galloping into the county-seat, covered with mud and crying fraud, and threatening eternal woe to the Colonel and all his cohorts. The tale he had to tell was terrible, but the worst of it was that he could get no one to listen without smiling.

Old Dave Jenkins, the man whom Colonel wood had delivered from the hands of the Swamp Dragons during the war, and his two boys, had set on him the evening he disappeared, and pulled him off his horse, and forced him to go into the heart of Bear Mountains, and had there put him in a bear-pen and had kept him for two nights. They had given him plenty to eat and abundance of white moonshine whiskey to drink which he had taken in considerable quantities to keep out the damp.

He would have them suffer the extreme penalty of the law. The oldest lawyer of the town made him mad by asking him whether it was grand or petit larceny to steal a candidate for the legislature. The crowd thought it was petit larceny.

Senhouse was loud in his denunciation of Colonel Wood, and was open in accusing him of being at the bottom of the whole thing. He was puzzling his brain as to how to classify the offense which had been committed, and had decided he had action for false imprisonment against a man who was not worth a cent, when a friend came in to tell him that the Colonel was in town with pistols for two and coffin for one, and that Senhouse would do well to either retract any charges of complicity he had made against the Colonel, or establish a State line between him and his danger.

Senhouse decided to make a long visit to his old home, and did not return until he had written and asked the Colonel's permission. No proceedings were ever had in court over the matter, for the whole affair suited the temper of the people. Even the men who searched the river bank for the body were glad to see a tragedy turned into comedy, and the ripple of laughter that ran through the county, no doubt did more to bring it together than anything else. Colonel Wood emphatically swore that he represented both elements, and that they should forever drop the question of separating, and the matter has rested to this day.

THE MILK-WHITE HIND.

Col John T. McGraw's speech of acceptance delivered at the convention that nominated him has been pronounced of high literary merit, something that can be said of very few political addresses. In that speech in speaking of the Democratic party, he burst into song, quoting, "The snow-white hind so often doomed to death is fated not to die."

This the ubiquitous country newspaper rendered "The snow-white hand," and so destroyed its usefulness.

Col. McGraw took his thought from Dryden's poem, the "Hind and the Panther"; the hind represents the church. The reader will see in this selection that the speaker took the thought rather than the words:

"A milk-white Hind immortal and unchanged,
Fed on the lawns, and in the forest ranged;
Without unspotted, innocent within,
She feared no danger; for she knew no sin.
Yet she had oft been chased with horns and hounds,
And Scythian shafts and many winged wounds
Aimed at her heart; was often forced to fly,
And doomed to death, tho' fated not to die."

BIOGRAPHIC NOTES.

Mrs Diana Saunders, a Pioneer on Dry Creek.

Soon after the war of 1812 there came to our county one of the most interesting and eccentric personalities that our older people remember anything about, Mrs Diana Saunders, late of Rocky Point, on Dry Branch of Swago. She was the widowed mother of four children, Anna, Eleanor, Cyrus, and Isaac. Her cabin home was built near the head springs of Dry Branch, almost in speaking distance of the Rocky Point school house, and just below.

Cyrus Saunders lived in Madison County, Virginia, and was a merchant and a citizen of prominence.

Isaac Saunders, upon attaining his majority, went to Fayette County, married, and settled on the banks of New River not far from Hawk's Nest. His sister Anna made her home with him for a time, and then became Mrs Ewing of Fayette County.

Eleanor Saunders was married to the late Barnett Adkisson, from Madison County, and lived on Spruce Flat at the head of Swago, on the place now occupied by James Adkisson where he has just built a nice new house. In reference to her children we have in hand the following particulars, communicated by John Adkisson.

Catherine first became Mrs William Tyler, from Madison County, and then Mrs Jacob Weiford, near Mill Point.

William Adkisson, whose wife was Martha Jones, from Madison county, lived on Spruce Flat.

Abel Adkisson, whose first wife was Susannah, daughter of the late Daniel Adkisson, and whose second wife was Frances Hughes, lived on the head of Swago, where his son Oliver Blake now lives.

Daniel Adkisson married Mary Holmes, of Madison County, and settled on Spruce Flats.

Isaac Adkisson married Martha Young and lived at the "Young Place" on Rich Mountain.

Frances Adkisson first became Mrs James W. Silvey, and lived at the head of Swago. She was afterwards married to the late Joseph Rodgers and lives near Mill Point.

Nancy married Benjamin Taylor, of Orange County, and settled on New River. He was a hatter by occupation.

Martha Jane Adkisson married James Arthur, of Webster County, and went to the western part of our State.

Lucinda Adkisson, the youngest of Eleanor's daughers, was married to Rev Joshua Buckley and lived at Buckeye. Some reference to her family is made in other sketches.

But few persons have left their impress upon the writer's memory more vividly than Mrs Dianna Saunders. As to her personality she had been formed in "nature's choicest mould," and in her youth must have been the peer of Edgar Allen Poe's "rare and radiant maiden." The compiler recalls one or more of her granddaughters as among the most perfect models of feminine form and feature that he has ever observed anywhere.

From the way Granny Saunders used to speak of Jim Madison, Jim Monroe and Tom Jefferson, and wonder how such finicky, limber-jointed, red headed, fiddling and dancing customers had ever been made Presidents of our United States, it is inferred that her blooming youth must have been passed in Orange and Albermarle atmosphere.

The writer was frequently told by his lamented mother that when he was an infant about six weeks old, he had the whooping cough so severely that he was given up to die. As a last resort Granny Saunders was sent for in all haste, and when she arrived the baby was to all appearances cold and dead. The doctress ordered a tub of hot water plouted the baby in, soaked him awhile and gave him a good rubbing. She then called for a razor and a goose quill, scarified the little body between the shoulders, inserted the quill and gave him a blowing up until the infant began to blow for himself. He came to and recovered and has been blowing nearly seventy years on his own hook, figuratively speaking.

There have been times in his life when the writer has felt rather regretfully that Granny Saunders managed her case so well as to keep him from dying at that safe time. Now, however, he feels thankful to God for what she was enabled to do. He deems it a most wonderful privilege to have lived the life the Supreme Being has alotted him. Though this life has been humble and obscure, full of mistakes and blunders, still blessed be His Holy Name for life and its wonderful hopes for the hereafter, when the Lord comes.

It would be hard to exaggerate the useful, services Mrs Saunders performed for a half-century or more when there was no resident physician nearer than the Warm Springs or Lewisburg. For years and years her time was virtually spent in the homes of the suffering. Stormy nights, swollen, raging mountain streams and torrents were braved with heroic fortitude to be with the sick in their distress.

While it is true the most of her services were rendered in scenes over which the thickest vail of privacy should be ever drawn, yet it may not be out of good form to say that she never lost her self-possession. The patient might be to all appearance in extremis, with less than a step between her and death in the throes of maternity. All present convulsed with grief and apprehension except Granny Saunders. She would dip her pipe in the ashes, ejaculate prayers along with the puffs of smoke, and sit down by the patient: "Hold on, old girl, we can't spare you yet. Pick your flint and try it again. I have been praying for you, and the good Lord Almighty never goes back on his word to old Granny Saunders."

In the course of an hour or so. Granny Saunders looks up the "old man." When she finds him she opens her arms as if to embrace him. He draws back, exclaiming, "O Granny, don't do that!" "Well, you, ugly beast, if you won't let me kiss you, come in and see what a pretty thing the good Lord has sent your old woman. How it could be so pretty no one could tell without seeing the mother!"

One of the most praise worthy traits in the character of this grand woman was her abhorence of "doggity doings," as she would tersely put it. She was greatly worried by the way a young man seemed to be treating a girl in whom she felt a motherly interest. Appearances seemed to indicate that the "young rascal of a puppy" had plucked the rose, but left the thorn with her heart-broken young friend or in plain terms had fooled her upon a promise of marriage.

One day, it seems, the young man met her in the road, and he said, "Granny Saunders, if you do n't quit talking about me as I hear of you doing, I shall have to sue you for slander."

The old lady cleared her decks for action, rolled up her sleeves and shook her fist under his nose: "I am ready for you here, at the court house, or anywhere else outside the bottomless pit. There is where pups like you are bound to go, so I will not promise to have anything to do with you there. I cannot blame a Beaver Dam evening wolf for coming over here and stealing a lamb for it is built that way and can't know any better, but when I see a customer like you, with good looks, good natural sense and belonging to a decent family, guilty of things the Old Boy himself would be above doing, I must tell you, I do say I must tell you, the dirtiest, yellow, egg-sucking dog in all Pocahontas is an angel to what you are. If the Old Boy knows you as I do, and thinks of you as I do, he will put you on one of his hottest gridirons all by yourself as not fit company for any other lost soul."

Granny's words seemed to have been "winged ones." The suit was never brought for slander, he mended his ways, looked through his Bible and found a verse in Paul's writings that convinced him that the easiest way out of the tangle would be to marry as he had promised.

If there could have been kept a faithful record of all her doings and sayings it would have made a book by itself, nothing like it in extant literature. She had an entertaining story of the time the troops were on the march to Yorktown and about Washington stopping at the yard fence and calling for water. Her mother sent her out with bucket and gourd, fresh from the well, and watered the thirsty General and his staff attendants. "They took their water and I tell you they all drank a few, and then the grandees rode away with high heads and stiff upper lips, looking at me as if they thought that it was about all that I was fit for was to handle the water-gourd for their pleasure."

She had many stories that thrilled the little folks. One was about about a child being born in 1775 that only lived a few minutes. Before it died it said just as plainly as could be spoken by a grown person:

"A warm winter and a cold spring,
A bloody summer and a new king."

One of her most popular lullabys had this refrain:

"Sleep all day and cry all night,
Whippoorwill, whippoorwill."

Persons yet living remember the reply she once made to the salutation, "Well, Granny, how are you today?"

"Poorly enough, to tell you the truth. O dear me, I am just here and that is all. I have pains in the top of my head, pains in my face, pains in my ears, at the back of my neck, between my shoulders, in my arms in my breast, in my body, in my knees, in my ankles, in both of my big toes." Then pausing a moment, as if trying to think of more places for pains, she would raise her eyes toward heaven and devoutly exclaim, 'But praise the Lord, bless His Holy Name, I have good appetite."

Late in the fifties or early in the sixties she went to make her home with Isaac and Anna, on New River, where she died fifteen or twenty years ago, aged about a hundred and three years as most of her acquintances believe. Dear old friend the Creator has not sent many like her to our part of the world as yet.

W. T. P.

Some one on listening to the melancholy notes of the caliope that wailed so plaintively while the whirls were going on with such dizzy celerity, a mile in five minutes, observed that he never had an idea of the kind of tunes the proverbial cow died on until that time.

The Washington Post says Colonel John T. McGraw will in all probability defeat Dayton in the 2d District.

The Pocahontas Times.

Andrew & Norman Price, Owners. "Montani Semper Liberi!" Andrew Price, Editor

VOL. 16, NO. 14 MARLINTON, WEST VIRGINIA, OCTOBER 27, 1898. $1.00 PER YEAR

WE PAY THE FREIGHT AND $15.95 IS ALL IT COSTS.

This 5-piece parlor suit, rocker, divan, and sofa, and two parlor chairs, highly polished frame, finished mahogany, and upholstered in velour or tapestry, largest size, and suitable for any parlor in the land, $15.95 and freight paid anywhere on earth. Such a bargain as this you have never seen before, no matter how old you are, and never will again, probably, if you reach the century mark, which we hope you will. Further comment is unnecessary, except that if you want to know of thousands of such bargains, send for our 160-page furniture catalogue, and if you want carpet at such prices as most dealers can't buy for, send for our ten-color lithographed carpet catalogue, and what you'll find in these two books will teach you something that you'll want to remember for many a day. Remember Christmas is coming, and sensible people give sensible gifts which sensible people most appreciate. Something for the home is the best of all presents, and our catalogues will suggest to you what is best. Address (exactly as below)

JULIUS HINES & SON,
Dept. 909. BALTIMORE, MD.

LAW ARDS.

N. C. McNEIL,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

Will practice in the Courts of Pocahontas and adjoining counties and in the Court of Appeals of the State of West Virginia.

L. M. McCLINTIC,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

Will practice in the Courts of Pocahontas and adjoining counties and in the Supreme Court of Appeals.

H. S. RUCKER,
ATTY. AT LAW & NOTARY PUBLIC
HUNTERSVILLE, W. VA.

Will practice in the courts of Pocahontas county and in the Supreme Court of Appeals.

J. W. ARBUCKLE,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
LEWISBURG, W. VA.

Will practice in the courts of Greenbrier and Pocahontas counties. Prompt attention given to claims for collection in Pocahontas county.

W. A. BRATTON,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

Prompt and careful attention given to all legal business.

ANDREW PRICE,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

Will be found at Times Office.

SAM. B. SCOTT, JR.
LAWYER,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

All legal business will receive prompt attention.

H. M. LOCKRIDGE,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
HUNTERSVILLE, W. VA.

Prompt and careful attention given all legal work.

JOHN A. PRESTON FRED. WALLACE
PRESTON & WALLACE,
Attorneys at Law,
LEWISBURG, W. VA.

Will practice in the Courts of Greenbrier and adjoining counties, and in the Court of Appeals of the State of West Virginia.

J. W. YEAGER,
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

Prompt attention given to collections

T. S. McNEEL,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

Will practice in the Courts of Pocahontas and adjoining counties.

PHYSICIANS' ARDS.

DR. O. J. CAMPBELL,
DENTIST,
MONTEREY, VA.

Will visit Pocahontas County at least twice a year. The exact date of his visit will appear in this paper.

DR. J. H. WEYMOUTH,
RESIDENT DENTIST,
ELKINS, W. VA.

Will visit Pocahontas County every spring and fall. The exact date of each visit will appear in The Times.

J. M. CUNNINGHAM, M. D.,
PHYSICIAN & SURGEON,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

Office next door to C. A. Yeager's Hotel. Residence opposite Hotel All calls promptly answered.

This Sure Uncertainty.

'Tis weary waiting in this world of tears
For some divine condolence of our pain;
Some heavenly cleansing of all earthly stain;
Celestial balm for hearts that sorrow sears;
Some golden consumation of the years
To gleam far off thro' gray and cloudy time;
One constant sun to shed a light sublime
On human hope, and calm of human fears,
That, wending here our slow, uncertain way,
We might have glimpses of a glorious goal,
Through momentary night, eternal day;
A tranquil heaven past the turbid shoal,
But blindly still we wander in the gloom,
Vain guessers of unalterable doom.
—London Sun.

County Sketches.

X.

THE TENANT.

A boy stood in the corn-field with one shoe in his hand, looking at a young girl in a stylish riding habit go swiftly by on a fine horse. He had been working corn, and an old gray, flea-bitten mare with dilapidated harness stood by resting intently. For a half an hour or more he had been aware that a gravel had worked its way into his shoe, and he had put off removing the discomforting bit of foreign matter until he was forced to take that trouble or become lame.

When he reached the end of the row near the unfrequented road he had stopped, and just as he had got his shoe off he saw Estella Bensley riding by and he had started up with one foot bare as nature made it and his old brogan in his hand, the picture of confusion. The girl did not even glance his way. She was worse than unconscious of his presence! She made him feel that she regarded him as little as the dirt in the road in her hatefulness.

The boy looked at the radiant young beauty and considered his own appearance and groaned, "Was n't I a fool!"

Jared Burton was troubled in spirit at the sight of the girl. He was the son of a tenant of Squire Bensley. He had grown up on the farm in the tenant house at the end of the bottom land, and had played with Estella when they both were children. Then Estella had gone away to boarding school, and when she came back she knew the tenant boy no more. After her education was finished she was at home, but never spoke to her old playmate.

But the boy presumed and set his heart upon the daughter of his landlord, the only child of a wealthy farmer.

He was one of two children. His mother was a woman of refinement, who had taught him and his younger sister all that a mother might. His father was a hard-working farmer, perfectly content to spend his life as the farmer of another's land. The elder Burton had accumulated enough capital to own such personal property as would stock a farm, and was a man who paid his debts, but he was made to be a tenant. The spring before this story opens he had been caught by a falling tree and instantly killed, and it fell on Jared, who had just come of age, to take care of his mother and sister and to carry out his father's work, and he succeeded so well that the Squire was anxious to keep him upon the same terms that his father had rented year after year.

In the meantime he was cultivating in secret a deep and hopeless love for the Squire's pretty daughter, which in a clumsy, unsophisticated youth like Jared is apt to be productive of freaks. It was madding to remain inactive, and he had put all his hopes on one cast on a Sunday night.

He was at church riding a fine young horse and dressed like the majority of youths of his neighborhood. When the service was over and the people were slowly dispersing he brought up the horse Estella was riding, and as she accepted this favor as a matter of course from her father's tenant, he became rash enough to put the words that the country swain utters with so much difficulty and which come so awkwardly, in spite of the fact that they have been conned a thousand times, "Will you accept of my company home?"

And the girl, well bred, answered carelessly and cruelly as she could: "No sir! Certainly not! What do you mean!"

A drunken galoot leaning against a tree near took in the scene and broke out, "No go, Jared, o' boy! Better let 'er poun', o' boy! Better let 'er poun'—der while!"

Jared's disgrace was complete.

The next day when Jared had put on his old clothes and gone to work in the corn-field, and the girl came by and showed her utter contempt for him, and when he thought of having had the audacity to ask her to "accept his company home" he groaned, "Was n't I a fool."

Then back and forth across the corn-field he worked his way, doing his work mechanically, while he drank the dregs of defeat. The result of his experience was that he regarded life longer on the farm as intolerable, but he carried himself bravely until the end of his year, and Estella had no reason to complain of any attentions on his part. His mother seemed to understand, for when he proposed to look for another place she consented, and encouraged him even in a wild dream he had of going to the city and trying his luck. The necessary work of turning the property into cash was performed in a short time, and the family started in life in one of the small cities of our State. To Jared's credit it must be said that he never for a moment thought of abandoning his mother or sister.

When he set up life in the city he had something over a thousand dollars capital, and an ability and willingness to work. What made his fortune, however, was the faculty which enabled him to to estimate the cost of a proposed piece of work and to contract for it at a price that left him a fair margin of profit. As we have seen in the example of his boldness with his highborn sweetheart on that summer night, he did not lack audacity. He began by contracting for and building a chicken coop, and in ten years he had finished a public building which was one of the show places of the State.

In all these years he had never been able to forget the love which he had so resolutely set aside, and when he compared his condition with that which was his when he left off farming, he gave the credit of getting out of the farmer's rut, in which there could have been no such success for him, all to his unhappy and misplaced passion. Had it not been the immediate cause of his leaving off farming?

Another might have informed him that setting his love so high was but in conformity with a nature that was capable of rising as he had risen. That high placed love was but the effect and not the cause of his progressiveness. It was but a part of his ambition.

There are many gray-headed men to-day whom the world gives the credit of working out their honorable positions by their own industry and ingenuity, who are convinced in their own minds that their development was due to their having had a tremendous love affair in early life which unsettled them. They may rest assured that they would have made themselves just as foolish over some other young woman, and that particular conjunction of circumstances has very little to do with their successes or failures in business or the professions.

At the end of ten years Jared had not married. He had avoided hearing about the county in which he had been raised, and he did not know whether his old sweetheart was married or not. About the time he had finished the magnificent building which was the masterpiece of his life, he had been startled by meeting Estella in one of the corridors. She was there as a sightseer with one of the young ladies of the city, and when he saw her Jared knew he was not well yet.

He bowed instinctively, and the young lady of the city, who knew him by sight as a prominent business man, appropriated the bow and introduced her country cousin. She thought she was in luck. He was a man hard for society girls to meet because he did not go into society at all, but Jared Burton, who owned the best house in the city, was not therefore a less desirable acquaintance. When he heard that his old sweetheart was still Miss Bensley he knew that his love affair was not finished, and at the moment of their meeting she seemed more attractive to him, the city man, than she was years before, when as a young girl in her teens she had set him, the farm hand, half crazy.

Estella very graciously remembered Jared, and he showed the ladies over the building. Estella left the city that same afternoon, and Jared was very uncertain indeed as to what he should do. If there was someone else, or if it was still hopeless, he did not intend to expose himself again to the fever, but he had to admit to himself that the sweetest dream of his life would fail if he had to surrender her, and the cure that he had thought so successful was a delusion and a snare.

Shortly after this event he was electrified to see an advertisement of Squire Bensley's lands which were being offered for sale. The once wealthy and independent farmer had been caught in the booms which devastated the two Virginias some years ago, and his farm, the most desirable in the county, was offered for sale under a deed of trust on account of the default in the payment of a note for nearly five thousand dollars. At this sign of distress on the part of his dear one's father, his heart gave a great throb of unselfish joy. If he only knew how to help her!

By the merest chance he made a visit to his old county at once, and by the merest chance he went to the court-house on the first day of court, and by the merest chance, of course, he had five thousand dollars in money in his pocket and this is what happened.

He saw the old squire come from the village hotel with his daughter. The old man was broken in health and walked feebly, and it was apparent that he depended on his daughter to bear him up in the ordeal which he knew was before him. She watched over him with the greatest solicitude and care, and Jared, hid in the crowd, thought he had never seen so sweet a woman. The father and daughter were accompanied by a lawyer, and all looked anxious. An auctioneer stood upon the steps and read the advertisement to the crowd of people, and asked for a bid. The trustee stood by looking very unhappy and near him was a hard featured man who seemed to be driving him on to a very disagreeable task. The auctioneer began:

"Now what am I offered for this val-u-a-ble tract of land—"

The old Squire standing in front of him said, "Wait a minute, Strayer!" and then turning to the trustee and people generally continued: "By the advice of my lawyer I forbid this sale. I want to explain here in a public way the circumstances surrounding this sale, so that all concerned in it may not plead ignorance of what they are doing. When I marshalled my debts two years ago I borrowed this money from Clarence Brandon, who told me at that time that as far as he knew he would not need it for ten years. I secured him with a deed of trust and in it agreed that after sixty days the land might be sold for the debt, for cash, according to the regulations provided by law. Without saying a word to me about it, he advertised my land a month ago. The debt is less than $5000. Every man here knows that my land is worth $20,000; that I was offered $20,000 not six months ago by William Carter, as good a man as there is in the county. I thought I had no occasion to sell it. I went to Francis Hazelton, and he, without a word, promised me the money. I got a letter from him a week ago saying he could not have it before tomorrow, but would then to a certainty. My daughter drove me to see Clarence Brandon and I showed him the letter and asked him to postpone the sale. He took me into his sitting-room and when no one was by, promised to do it. To-day he is not here, but Judge Chester, who represents him, says he has instructions to force the sale. I believe that it is a conspiracy between Brandon and Hazelton to rob me of my farm. If I had two days to reach a bank I could raise twice that amount, but I am afraid that there is not that amount in currency in the whole town today."

A murmuring rose in the crowd of upturned faces, but the sum was too large to raise by the farmers present. Should the land be knocked down to anyone not having the currency to make the cash payment, it would immediately be sold again, the auctioneer announced. Here was Jared's opportunity, and in as off-hand way as he could assume he approached the Squire and spoke to him and told him that he had, fortunately, enough money in his pocket to redeem the land, and gave him a roll of bills, the sight of which made a deep and lasting dent in the brain of every downtrodden farmer present.

The Squire's head was half turned by the sight of the money, and all interested parties withdrawing to the lawyer's office soon redeemed the land, and drew the necessary papers releasing the old loan and arranging for the new one. In vain did Estella try to make her father understand that this city man was Jared Burton, who had been raised on his farm and had worked for him. He recognized him as a friend of his named Burton, who had been in the Legislature with him some years before.

But Burton must come home with them. The Squire never thought he had shown any friendliness until he had made his friend his guest. And in this case he found a man who was quite ready to visit him. The arrangement was soon made. A neighbor there could drive the Squire home, and Jared was to go in the buggy with Estella. By some chance these two were left in the lawyer's office alone, and Estella said, impulsively: "Jared, I do not believe you had all that money to-day by accident. I believe it would have killed father to have lost his farm. How can we ever thank you!"

"We wont discuss that. The question is whether I am to go home with you or not. I believe when we used to be boy and girl it was considered necessary for the boy to say, 'will you accept of my company home,' and so I ask you."

The scene in the moonlight came to her, and she faltered, "What do you mean?"

"All, Estella, that I meant that night ten years ago, and you have the same power to make me just as wretched or just as happy."

"But you promised papa to go."

"You must say."

"Well, then, if I must say it, you may."

There was a perfect understanding between them from that time. Jared revisited his old home and saw the present tenant's bare footed boy and recognized the likeness to his old self. That fall he took the girl he had loved all his life, for better or worse, and she, remembering, was good to him forever afterwards.

Public Speaking.

K. D. Swecker will address the people at Stoney Bottom, Thursday night, October 27; Green Bank, October 28; Dunmore, October 29, at night. Every body is invited to come out to hear the young American on the issues of the day.

XXX

Take Laxative Bromo Quinine Tablets. All Druggists refund the money if it fails to Cure. 25c.

BIOGRAPHIC NOTES.

David James, Senior, of Droop Mountain,—Died Aged 104.

W. T. P.

David James, Senior, was one of the first settlers of the Droop neighborhood, in lower Pocahontas. He was from Norfolk, Virginia. It is believed he came here soon after the Revolution and located for a while near the head of Trump Run, on property now owned by Richard Callison. He then lived some years at the Rocky Turn, now known as the Irvine place, wherehe built a mill. One of the stones is yet to be seen just below the road near where the mill stood.

From the Irvine place he moved on lands now occupied by George Cochran. The house is still standing and furnishes a correct idea of of the kind of houses the pioneers lived in. It was here he passed the latter years of his life and passed away at the age of 104 years. The name and parentage of his his wife are not remembered.

His family consisted of three daughters and two sons: Nellie, Martha, Sally, David and John.

Nellie James was married to Thomas Cochran, second wife, and lived near Marvin. Her children were William, Samuel, Isaac, David, Solomon, James, Jesse, Rebecca and Nellie. Special mention of these children found in the Cochran Sketches.

Martha was married to John Salisbury and lived on Trump Run and finally went west. This John Salisbury was a son of William Salisbury, a native of England who opened the Salisbury settlement on Trump Run. William Salisbury's wife Mary was a native of Scotland. He lived to the age of 104 years; and he is to be remembered as one of the pioneers of Lower Pocahontas.

Sally became Mrs John Cutlip who opened up an improvement on Droop Mountain, now in possession of the Renick family. Her children were David, Abram, John, George, Martha and Elizabeth. The latter married David Kennison and went to the West.

David James, Junior, married Catherine Parks and settled on Droop Mountain. They were the parents of these childen: Mordecai, Jennie, Samuel, Elizabeth, John, Rebecca, Martha and Mary.

Mordecai married Martha Tharp and went West. The Tharps lived on the Joshua Kee place, near Marlinton.

Jennie became Mrs Jesse Cochran. Her marriage was attended by very romantic incidents, illustrating the fact that all may be well that ends well.

Samuel married Elizabeth Ewing, daughter of William Ewing, who lived on the Greenbrier, where Joseph Perkins now resides, and went West. William Ewing excelled as a maker of wooden mould boards for plows, and had all he could do to meet the demand.

John married Nellie Cochran.

Rebecca became Mrs Emanuel Barrett.

John James married Nellie, daughter of Thomas Cochran, the pioneer, and settled on Droop, where Lincoln Cochran now lives, but finally moved West. Their family consisted of three daughters and two sons: Jane, Eliza, Kate, David, William and John.

Thus with the assistance of the venerable John Cochran, probably the oldest man now living on the Pocahontas and Greenbrier border, and George Cochran, his relative and neighbor, the writer has been able to give something in illustrating the James' family history.

This paper will be concluded by recalling the fact that David James, Junior, lived to the age of 106 years. The greatest age attained by any one of our Pocahontas citizen, concerning whom we have any authentic information. The cottage home still stands whence he departed for the unseen world, and his grave will be an object of interest in our local annals and should be carefully marked so as not to be forgotten.

David Cochran, a son of Thomas Cochran, the pioneer, by his second marriage with Nellie, daughter of David James, Sr., deserves mention from the fact that he was a veteran of the war of 1812. As has been noted elsewhere David Cochran's first wife was Sally Salisbury, daughter of William Salisbury, the Englishman, and lived on the Salisbury Place. He had for his mess-mates in the army William Salisbury, Jr., John McNeil, (known as Little John) and John R. Flemmens. He was in the affair at Crainey Island, near Norfolk. While it is not certain, yet it is believed he served a tour under General Harrison in the west, as he frequently spoke of him. It is probable that he was in the battle of Tippecanoe. John Cochran, near the Greenbrier line is the only surviving member of the old soldier's family. He will be 92 years of age November 2, 1898.

David Cochran, the veteran, suffered grievously the last three or four years of his life. He was treated by Mrs Diddle, of Monroe County for three years. She undertook to cure the case for forty dollars. Several visits were made; she was at his bedside when he died of homorrhage, superinduced by the cancer, in October, 1881.

John Cochran has a vivid recollection of the Regimental Muster at Huntersville, in May, 1834. On returning from muster rather late in the evening, persons were racing their horses in a furious charge against imaginary British on the Cummings Creek road, two miles from Huntersville. While not in the charge, Isaac Jordon's horse seemed to smell something of the make-believe battle, became unmanageable, reared and plunged, throwing his rider and severely fracturing his thigh. William Gibson, merchant and hotel-keeper at Huntersville, was sent for. After considerable delay, means were contrived to carry the injured and suffering man back to Huntersville in the dark. Squire Gibson, though not a physician, took charge of the case, reduced the fracture and kept the patient at his house for three months. John Cochran was employed to nurse him, and staid by him all the while, until he could be brought home.

John Cochran in his prime was a person of uncommon agility and muscular power. He was jovial in disposition and had a good word for every body, and yet it was his misfortune to be in one of the fiercest personal combats that ever occurred in his neighborhood. With remarkable magnamity his opponent confessed himself in the fault and ever after there was no more fighting for John Cochran. Trouble quit looking for him after that.

George Cochran lives in the old James house. He was a faithful Confederate soldier and stands up for the Lost Cause with a fluent vim that is refreshing.

In perusing recent eulogies over successful jurists, statesmen, and divines, that in reference to their education but little importance seems to be attached to what was acquired at college, university, or seminary. It is intimated that the schools merely convert the mind into a store-house of dry facts, when scholastic methods are sedulously pursued and relied upon. The education that explained their success, by broadening, elevating, and adorning their intellectual character, seemed tracable to their careful and wide reading of the best up-to-date books, close and accurate study of nature and living men, and thoughtful investigation of the problems of life from the Bible point of view. If this continues to be the way of explaining success in life, there will have to be a great reform in scholastic methods, or our educational institutions will come to be regarded as places where youth, at vast expense of time and pecuniary means are brilliantly taught how not to make a success of life under existing conditions.

The Republic of Liberia is about to call on us for protection; and it would put a strain on our consistency to refuse such a request from our own step-infant, when we are forcibly adopting so many bantling republics.—Philadelphia Record.

The Pocahontas Times.

ANDREW PRICE, - - - EDITOR.

MARLINTON, THURS. OCT. 27, 1898.

Entered at the post-office at Marlinton, W. Va., as second class matter.

DEMOCRATIC TICKET.

For Congress,
JUDGE DAVID E. JOHNSTONE,
of Mercer County.

For State Senator,
C. W. OSENTON,
of Fayette County.

For House of Delegates,
I. B. MOORE,
of Sunset.
For County Commissioner,
AMOS BARLOW,
of Huntersville.
For Superintendent Free School.
JAMES W. WARWICK,
of Mill Point.

THE FORKS OF CRANBERRY.

The county of Nicholas has secured an injunction against the county line commission to prevent their fixing the line as agreed upon by the commissioners. Last summer the writer was camping in that wilderness that lies where the counties of Pocahontas, Webster, Greenbrier, and Nicholas join, and a very wet, tired, and hungry party of men came straggling up the river, scaring all the trout under the rocks and making themselves tired to no avail. They were looking for the three forks of Cranberry and were very unsuccessful in finding them. They had just run a 22-mile line from the 16-mile tree on a bearing that called for the three forks of Cranberry.

With the faith that our mountain surveyors have they worked until they came to the river and then they cast about for their landmark and did not find even two forks. They were near the mouth of Dogway a tributary, but which does not divide the water sufficiently to be termed a fork, in local parlance. They then measured to the Forks of Cranberry, about seven miles where the river divides into the North Fork and Glady Fork, each having about the same volume of water. This did not satisfy them, tho the stream there has the appearance of dividing into three branches owing to an island in the mouth of Glady.

The survey lay by a big logheap that night and went by to the point where the survey had struck the river and decided that place would do as well for a line as any, and so agreed.

This cut Nicholas out of fifteen families of people and about 30,000 acres of land, and an injunction was taken out. Now it turns out that the bearing never called for three forks but simply for the Forks of Cranberry, and it is likely that Nicholas will succeed in establishing the corner at that place, which is about ten miles from the last improvement in Pocahontas.

PAST FINDING OUT.

The Calhoun Chronicle prints the following:

> Three men from Calhoun county passed through this place one day last week, on the hunt of a hound, which they claim was stolen by a man by the name of Poole, who resides near Ellenboro. It strikes us as being a small business for three men to spend two or three days hoofing it 70 or more miles to hunt a stolen hound; and it is smaller business when a man stoops so low as to steal a hound.—Review.

Lives there a man with soul so dead who does not appreciate the feelings of a man who has had a valuable hound stolen. Maybe he wouldn't have taken fifty dollars for that dog. If he is that kind of a man he would follow for even more than seventy miles, and when he caught up with the man he would scotch him, and that man would steal no more dogs. The man who penned the above lines will never know what some hunters think of a favorite hound. It is a sealed book to them. Let them go and read Sir Walter Scott's "Talisman," and find out what a dog can be to a man.

Notice.

My books are ready for settlement, and all parties indebted to me by bond or account must come and settle at once. You had better give this your attention and save trouble and costs.

Respectfully yours,
R. L. NOTTINGHAM.

COL. JOHN T. McGRAW.

Among the several questions that the blatant Republican newspapers of Col. John T. McGraw's district have asked concerning him, with an air that every one was a shaft aimed to kill, is the one, "What has Col. McGraw done that the people should elect him to Congress?" We are not much concerned to the hair's breadth what views the Colonel holds as to great economic questions of the day, believing that in Congress he would be true to the people, and a credit to the State. But when they do him the injustice to attempt to convey a false impression by such a query, we, who know something of his tireless activity in the development of the State, cannot keep quiet under the aspersion conveyed in the question "What has he done?"

He has been successful, and the object of his life has been to rise and help others rise. He came up from among the people and in him has centered interests affecting thousands. He knew the resources of the State and its people and his capability and personality made him friends with those who have money to develop such wealth as ours, and he has been instrumental in attracting them to this State.

He has done more than any man to give the wild lands of this State a commercial value and to place a large acreage in the hands of capitalists, and to insure a future for the lands that the citizens still hold, and to give them a present market value. He has made the wilderness produce bread for the multitude.

Take the Greenbrier Valley as an instance. He brought hundreds of thousands of dollars to be expended for lands which were but a burden to the original owners. Time and again he saw his well laid schemes for a railroad fall through and it was only after years of work he induced northern capital to invest near a million dollars here and to cause the building of the road to be a necessity, and therefore a certainty. He has handled more wild land than any man or set of men in the State, and every acre of it with a view to future development.

In politics he was the leader of the opposition to the ring whose corruption brought disgrace and defeat to our party in this State and it is a manifestation of justice that he is now the head of Democracy, while that particular ring is heard of no more in State politics. This is what he has done in politics.

His personal friends are devoted to him. The circle of men who are under obligations to him as an able and generous friend, is as wide as the State.

The people of the Second District have an opportunity to elect a man to Congress who has done more for the State in a business way than any man we can now name. Laying all questions of his worth as a Democrat and personal friend aside, his business interests are such that they have been and are destined to be of the greatest public benefit.

ELECTION DAY.

Are teachers required to teach on Election Day, or is it a legal holiday? X.

Teachers are required to teach or make up the day. The Attorney general says: "The day of election is not a national or State festival or thanksgiving day, and does not come under the provisions of Section 31 of Chapter 45 of the Code, and therefore teachers are not entitled to credit for this day." D. L. BARLOW;

Semmes Read, of Elkins, has passed the examination for entrance to the Naval Academy successfully. He is a nephew of the late Admiral Semmes of the Alabama. The newspapers say he is a prominent attorney, and only eighteen years old. Well, hardly! Somewhere between the "kivers of the Code" is a statute providing that no one under twenty-one shall practice law in this State.

A good election story is told of the late Senator Hereford of this State. Once when he was canvassing for Congress on the headwaters of the Gauley he met a gigantic mountaineer. Meaning to be agreeable, he said to him: "If I was as big as you I would just slam common men around anyway." "No you would n't, Mr Hereford. If you was as big as me you 'd have sense accordin'."

OBSERVING THE GAME LAW.

We rise to make a few remarks on the measures necessary for the preservation and increase of game in Pocahontas. The laws enacted by the legislature from time to time as regards hounding and killing in close season have been practically a dead letter, the slaughter has gone on until game and fish have been greatly depleted.

While the clearing of lands in the more populous sections has tended to drive game—deer especially—into the mountain wilderness to the west, it could not have had this effect save for the pernicious practice of hounding, in season and out of season.

The foreign sport who hunts in this county is under no restraint, and he is fully aided and abetted by the native. I do not hesitate to say that nine-tenths of the men who are accustomed to hunt at all in Pocahontas are poachers on occasion. If questioned as to the right of their action they refer with great complacency to some leading legal functionary whose duty it is to see the law enforced, who probably leads in offenses of this kind. At the same time they are grieved that others are not made to respect the laws. The several poachers enumerated comfort themselves with the thought that they need not suffer in public estimation or in docket if they are not found out.

I understand there will be an effort made in the legislature this winter to repeal or amend the prohibitive law now in force, because it throws unusual difficulties in the way of a privileged class from the cities. A wayfaring fool even is led to make remarks about the impropriety of outfitting with dogs and guns for a week's hunt in the fall in close season. The game laws are designed to preserve the animals in increasing numbers, and the recent laws of this State deserve the support of every citizen, in spirit and in letter, not because it is law—but sense.

The man who poaches on the game preserves of the State is taking insufferable advantage of his law-abiding neighbor, and indulges rank selfishness as well. This sort of man is an example to the weak, who are made weaker, and the result is a tacit understanding among all classes to be very careful not to display unlawful game outside the family, and every requirement of decency and order is complied with.

A few game wardens, such as the State of Maine maintains, with an unpleasant habit—to the poachers,—of appearing in unexpected places, would have a wonderful effect in brightening the public mind as to the right of this question.

With a proper enforcement of the laws now in effect, it might be possible, in the present state of our county and at the end of five years, to find deer, turkey, pheasants, &c., in comparative abundance in any section of the county, and the average citizen who likes to hunt need not make a trip of some weeks to the inaccessible mountains of Cranberry, Williams River, or Gauley. N. R. PRICE.

TOP OF ALLEGHANY.

Plenty of rain just now and fall pasture and wheat looking fine.

Miss Rhoda Tracy is at home from the Repose on a short visit.

Buffalo Mountain school opened Monday with Miss Sallie McLaughlin in charge.

Early has purchased a wheelbarry.

Died, on October 13, an infant son of Mr and Mrs James Phillip.

J. E. Lunsford and Lewis Simmons are off to Horton in seach of a job.

Mrs M. J. Houchin, of Travelers Repose, was visiting relatives here this week.

The chestnut crop up here is immense, and the swine fat will be plentiful.

J. B. Bradshaw has returned from Randolph where he has been buying and shipping sheep.

W. B. Freeman and David Hiner have been at Huttonsville for some time arranging a livery stable. Money makes the mare go.

The man who has been sanging for Col. John T. McGraw and camping on Fork mountain broke up camp and left for market Monday.

SASSAFRAS JIM.

Lost: Black shepherd dog about one year old, medium sized, a little white on his two hind toes. Seen last at Buckeye, Tuesday, October 5, 1898. Information leading to his recovery will be paid for liberally. H. S. GALFORD.
Marlinton, W. Va.

No-To-Bac for Fifty Cents.
Guaranteed tobacco habit cure, makes weak men strong, blood pure. 50c, $1. All druggists.

The Musical Association.

The recent session of the Pocahontas Musical Association at Mary's Chapel, on Elk, is regarded as one of the most pleasant of its kind. The session continued from Thursday evening to Saturday evening. John Waugh, Esq., presided with his usual ability, and Harlow Waugh performed the duties of secretary acceptably. Profs. Waugh, Rorke, Kinnison and many others led the singing. One of the good things was the absence of the organ, which has become a baneful hinderance to the development of vocal culture.

The hospitality of the people is spoken of in an enthusiastic way by all who were present. The attendance was good despite heavy rains. S. B. Moore was elected president for the ensuing year.

Commissioner's Notice.

Commissioner's Office, Marlinton West Virginia, October 27, 1898.

Pursuant to a decree of the Circuit Court of Pocahontas county, West Virginia, entered on the 8th day of October, 1898, in a chancery cause therein pending entitled:

Henry T. Gum, Assignee,
vs.
Laura H. Wanless and others,

I will proceed at my office in the town of Marlinton, in said county and State, on the 10th day of December, 1898, to take, state, and report to court the following matters of account, to wit:

First: A statement of the debts due from R. W. Wanless, deceased, with their dates, dignities, and priorities, and to this end he shall convene the lienors and cause the creditors of R. W. Wanless to be convened in the mode prescribed by law.

Second: He shall settle the administration accounts of R. W. Hill S. P. C., and as such administrator of R. W. Wanless, deceased, if any fund came into his hands.

Third: He shall state what land may be subjected to the payment of the debts of the said R. W. Wanless, with the local description of said land.

Fourth: Any other matter to be specially stated, deemed pertinent by himself or required by any party in interest to be so stated.

All parties interested in the taking of this account will please be present at the above mentioned time and place.

Respectfully,
S. B. SCOTT, Jr.
Commissioner in Chancery.

NOTICE TO LIEN HOLDERS.

To all persons holding liens, by judgment or otherwise, on the real estate or any part thereof of R. W. Wanless:

In pursuance of a decree of the circuit court of Pocahontas county, West Virginia, made in a cause therein pending to subject the real estate of the said R. W. Wanless to the satisfaction of the liens thereon you are hereby required to present all claims held by you and each of you against tee said R. W. Wanless which are liens on his real estate or any part of it, for adjudication to me, at my office in the town of Marlinton in said Pocahontas county, on or before the 10th day of December, 1898.

Given under my hand this the 27th day of October, 1898.

S. B. SCOTT, Jr.
Commissioner in Chancery.

NOTICE TO CREDITORS.

To the creditors of R. W. Wanless, deceased:

In pursuance of a decree of the circuit court of the county of Pocahontas, made in a cause therein pending, to subject the real estate of the said R. W. Wanless to the payment of his debts, you are required to present your claims against the estate of the said R. W Wanless for adjudication to S. B. Scott, Jr., Commissioner, at his office in said county, on or before the 10th day of December, 1898.

Witness, J. H. Patterson, Clerk of the said court, this the 21st day of October, 1898.

J. H. PATTERSON, Clerk.

CASTORIA.
Bears the Signature of Chas H. Fletcher
The Kind You Have Always Bought

An imperfect skin is always caused by bad blood. Remove the cause! Improve your blood. How? By taking the blood purifier that has stood the test for thirty years
Johnston's Sarsaparilla
QUART BOTTLE.
It has thousands of happy friends. Quart Bottles sell everywhere at $1.
WILLIAMS, DAVIS, BROOKS & CO.
Detroit, Mich.
Liverettes for Liver Ills.
The Famous Little Liver Pills.
For sale by Uriah Bird, Marlinton
Amos Barlow, Huntersville.

WEST VIRGINIA. The Democratic Ticket.	WEST VIRGINIA Peoples Party Ticket.	WEST VIRGINIA The Republican Ticket
CONGRESSIONAL.	CONGRESSIONAL.	CONGRESSIONAL.
For Representative in the Congress of the United States for the Third District.	For Representative in the Congress of the United States for the Third District.	For Representative in the Congress of the United States for the Third District
DAVID E. JOHNSON, of Bluefield, Mercer County.	JAMES W. DAVIS, of Coffman, Greenbrier County.	WILLIAM S. EDWARDS, of Charleston, Kanawha County
Senatorial.	Senatorial.	Senatorial.
For State Senate for the Eighth District.	For State Senate for the Eighth District.	For State Senate for the Eighth District.
CHARLES W. OSENTON, of Montgomery, Fayette County.	A. B. ERWIN, of Organ Cave, Greenbrier County.	H. H. ANDREW, of Union, Monroe County.
Pocahontas County Ticket.	Pocahontas County Ticket.	Pocahontas County Ticket.
For House of Delegates	For House of Delegates:	For House of Delegates:
I. B. MOORE, of Sunset, in said County.		D. T. McNEIL, of Buckeye, in said County.
For Commissioner of the County Court:	For Commissioner of the County Court:	For Commissioner of the County Court:
AMOS BARLOW, of Huntersville, in said County.		GEORGE P. MOORE, of Edray, in said County.
For County Superintendent of Free Schools:	For County Superintendent of Free Schools:	For County Superintendent of Free Schools:
JAMES W. WARWICK, Jr., of Mill Point, in said County.		C. B. GRIMES, of Mill Point, in said County.

STATE OF WEST VIRGINIA,
POCAHONTAS COUNTY, to-wit:

I, J. H. Patterson, Clerk of the Circuit Court for said County, do certify that the foregoing is a true list of all the nominations made by the respective political parties filed in my said office, and required by law to be published, and I further certify that said nominations will be arranged upon the ballots in the order and form as they are here published.

Given under my hand this 25th day of October, 1898.

J. H. PATTERSON, Clerk.

ROAD TO WEALTH !

TO OUR FRIENDS AND PATRONS.

We wish to say that hereafter our business will be conducted on a cash basis.

Many of our friends and patrons may be surprised at this; we hope none will be offended.

Here are a few of the reasons;

The memory of a great portion of our credit customers is too brief.

People cannot pay for goods in time for us to pay for them.

Notes and accounts, we have found to be of no value when in need of money.

95 per cent of men doing credit business fail.

95 per cent of men doing cash business succeed.

We cannot discriminate between those who will pay when they say they will and those who will not.

Had we had sufficient money to loan out we would have started a bank instead of a store.

We did not know the facts connected with the credit business when we started our little business or we would never have sold a 3c box of matches on time; we would have let the customer have it for a penny for cash down.

Our business will be run on this plan in future: Sell for cash at reduced prices.

These terms take effect the day this advertisement appears.

All persons owing us by acct or bond are expected to come in and settle same with cash within 15 days of the date of this ad. and all such accts. not so settled will be placed for collection.

We wish to sell our stock out as much as possible before going to market and will certainly make it to your interest to call on us if you want to buy for cash.

Remember about the accounts and bonds (15 days); we have not told a lie in this whole advertisement.

We suggest about the accounts and bonds that we were compelled to raise some money a short time since to meet an obligation and we borrowed it; you can do likewise as we must have it.

"The credit business must go" is the fiat of the enterprising commercial world.

We will make the cash business a benefit to you.

If you do not specially need anything at present call in anyway; we have some desireable odds and ends that you can buy at one half of first cost.

Our new stock will be complete and made up with special reference to the season.

We are going to do business on the lowest per cent of profit ever tried in this country.

Terms cash when the goods pass over the counter.

Very Truly,
J. D. PULLIN & CO.

Notice to Tax-Payers.

I will meet you in person or by my Deputies at the following places for the purpose of receiving your taxes:

Travellers Repose	Oct. 12, 1898
Green Bank,	Oct. 13,
Dunmore	Oct. 14,
Frost	Oct. 15,
Huntersville	Oct. 17,
Linwood	Oct. 19,
Edray	Oct. 21,
Marlinton	Oct. 22,
Lobelia,	Oct. 24,
Academy	Oct. 25.

A discount of 2½ per cent will be given to all persons who pay all their tax in cash on the days aforesaid. No discount given when paid with drafts.

September 12, 1898.

R. W. HILL, S. P. C.

NEW - GOODS.

THE GOLDEN STORE.
MARILNTON,

NEW - GOODS.

GREEN BANK.

C. F. Gay and Miss Beard attended the Singing Association.

Dr L. H. Moomua attended the Musical Association on Elk last week.

Rev J. M. Eavey will preach at Green Bank on the second Sunday of November, at 11 A. M.

Sol Davis and family have returned from Baltimore, where he purchased a fine stock of goods.

The measles have all died at this place. There are still a few cases some distance from town.

Rev Ruff, of Monterey, will hold Sacramental services at Liberty church next Sunday, October 30. Preaching Saturday nigh and Sunday morning.

NEBOTH.

Our little boy was afflicted with rheumatism in his knee; and at times unable to put his foot to the floor. We tried in vain everything we could hear of that we thought would help him. We almost gave up in despair, when some one advised us to try Chamberlain's Pain Balm. We did so, and the first bottle gave so much relief that we got a second one, and, to our surprise, it cured him sound and well. —J. T. Bays, Pastor the Christian Church, Neodesha, Kans. For sale by Barlow & Moore, Edray; Amos Barlow, Huntersville; D. T. McNeil, Buckeye; E. I. Holt, Academy.

CASTORIA.
Bears the Signature of Chas H. Fletcher
The Kind You Have Always Bought

$8 to $15 Saved on Mens Suit
BY BUYING DIRECT FROM
E. ROSENBURGER & CO.,
202-204 E. 102d St., NEW YORK CITY.
The Largest Clothing Manufacturers in America.
OUR GREAT BARGAIN OFFER!
$5. BOYS' ADONIS SUITS FOR 2.76
with Extra Pants and we Pay Expressage.

These suits are guaranteed to be made from Imported Wool Cheviot, in Black, Blue, Grey and Brown, in sizes from 3 to 9 years of age. Made up double-breasted, with Sailor Collar—Collar fancy embroidered—lined with fast Black Albert Twill Sateen and Patent Waist Bands. Trimming and Workmanship the very best. Sizes for 10 to 15 years, without Sailor Collar. Mention age and if large or small.

Men's & Youths' Suits in same proportionate low prices.
This Style Sizes 3 to 9 with Extra Pair Pants
$2.76
This style 10 to 15 years.
$2.76

When ordering send Post Office, Express Money Order or Registered Letters, also age at last birthday, and if large or small for his age. Money cheerfully refunded if not satisfactory. Send 2c. stamps for samples, tape measure, measuring blanks, etc.

Educate Your Bowels With Cascarets.
Candy Cathartic, cure constipation forever.
10c, 25c. If C. C. C. fail, druggists refund money.

The Pocahontas Times.

Andrew & Norman Price, Owners. "Montani Semper Liberi!" Andrew Price, Editor

VOL. 16, NO. 16 MARLINTON, WEST VIRGINIA, NOVEMBER 10, 1898. $1.00 PER YEAR

WE PAY THE FREIGHT AND $15.95 IS ALL IT COSTS.

This 5-piece parlor suit, rocker, divan, and sofa, and two parlor chairs, highly polished frame, finished mahogany, and upholstered in velour or tapestry, largest size, and suitable for any parlor in the land, $15.95 and freight paid anywhere on earth. Such a bargain as this you have never seen before, no matter how old you are, and never will again, probably, if you reach the century mark, which we hope you will. Further comment is unnecessary, except that if you want to know of thousands of such bargains, send for our 160-page furniture catalogue, and if you want carpet at such prices as most dealers can't buy for, send for our ten-color lithographed carpet catalogue, and what you'll find in these two books will teach you something that you'll want to remember for many a day. Remember Christmas is coming, and sensible people give sensible gifts which sensible people most appreciate. Something for the home is the best of all presents, and our catalogues will suggest to you what is best. Address (exactly as below)

JULIUS HINES & SON,
Dept. 909. BALTIMORE, MD.

LAW CARDS.

N. C. McNEIL,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

Will practice in the Courts of Pocahontas and adjoining counties and in the Court of Appeals of the State of West Virginia.

L. M. McCLINTIC,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

Will practice in the Courts of Pocahontas and adjoining counties and in the Supreme Court of Appeals.

H. S. RUCKER,
ATT'Y. AT LAW & NOTARY PUBLIC
HUNTERSVILLE, W. VA.

Will practice in the courts of Pocahontas county and in the Supreme Court of Appeals.

J. W. ARBUCKLE,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
LEWISBURG, W. VA.

Will practice in the courts of Greenbrier and Pocahontas counties. Prompt attention given to claims for collection in Pocahontas county.

W. A. BRATTON,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

Prompt and careful attention given to all legal business.

ANDREW PRICE,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

Will be found at Times Office.

SAM. B. SCOTT, JR.
LAWYER,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

All legal business will receive prompt attention.

H. M. LOCKRIDGE,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
HUNTERSVILLE, W. VA.

Prompt and careful attention given all legal work.

JOHN A. PRESTON FRED. WALLACE
PRESTON & WALLACE,
Attorneys at Law,
LEWISBURG, W. VA.

Will practice in the Courts of Greenbrier and adjoining counties, and in the Court of Appeals of the State of West Virginia.

J. W. YEAGER,
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

Prompt attention given to collections

T. S. McNEEL,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

Will practice in the Courts of Pocahontas and adjoining counties.

PHYSICIANS' ARDS.

DR. O. J. CAMPBELL,
DENTIST,
MONTEREY, VA.

Will visit Pocahontas County at least twice a year. The exact date of his visit will appear in this paper.

DR. J. H. WEYMOUTH,
RESIDENT DENTIST,
ELKINS, W. VA.

Will visit Pocahontas County every spring and fall. The exact date of each visit will appear in The Times.

J. M. CUNNINGHAM, M. D.,
PHYSICIAN & SURGEON,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

Office next door to C. A. Yeager's Hotel. Residence opposite Hotel. All calls promptly answered.

Though American moralists love peace, and look very sad when they hear talk of war, and grieve over the necessity for warlike preparations, yet they have to be something more than average persons if they do not feel a smile rippling over their elongated features when they notice the advance wheat is making at Liverpool, the wheat centre of the wheat universe. Consider the matter as we may, there is no closing our eyes to the fact that war talk puts dollars into American pockets. When Americans have seven hundred millions of wheat, millions of hogs, vast amounts of corn, oats, beef, and cotton on hands, it is hard for them to feel very sorry about prospects of war when it is remembered that war-talk and warlike preparations are scratching the dollars into the depleted pocket-books. It may be possible however that there are Americans who can not see that war talk has anything to do with it, and that it is the Dingley Tariff that causes the English markets to be higher than they have yet been on the present crop, that is making provisions advance, exports enormous beyond precedent, and getting the cotton crop ready for being marketed.

One of the most statesmanlike and judicious speeches made during the campaign just closed was that delivered by Hon H. G. Davis at Piedmont, October 11th. It deserves to become historical and and adopted as a model of public addresses. It concludes with these sentiments, worthy of permanent remembrance by our young men.

"Our Republic is based upon self-government. It is a principle which the founders charged us to guard well. As long as the Government remains of the people it is safe. When it drifts into the hands of the few it has lost its anchorage and is in danger. Rome, the greatest republic the world has ever seen, prospered and grew as long as local self-government was practiced. When the control of her affairs passed into the hands of selfish and ambitious men her strength was weakened. They sought to enlarge their power by conquering and governing other countries, but the citizen was no longer independent and free. His rights and liberties were usurped and the principle of self-government was gone. The nation tottered and fell, destroyed by the want of vigilence of the people in preserving their liberties as free and independent citizens. Remember to keep well within your control the right of representation and taxation, to hold your representatives accountable to you for their stewardship, and to preserve inviolate the principles of free government."

Alcoholism Among Animals.

"The taste for alcohol," says the Revue Scientifique, "is not the privilege of man alone. It is well known that the horse will eagerly drink a quart of red wine, and that dogs love beer. The exploits of Gideon in Zola's 'La Terre' attest from the stand point of literature the bacchic tastes of the animal. Now Medecine Moderne tells us of a demonstration, made by Mr Tutt of London, that even butterflies may go on a spree. In a public lecture, Mr Tutt shut up in a case male and female butterflies with flowers of divers species. Now, while the female butterflies quenched their thirst modestly by sipping a few drops of dew in the calyx of a rose, the males indulged in characteristic intemperance. They went straight to the flowers whose distillation produced the most alcohol, and indulged in their juices till they fell senseless where they stood. The butterflies were dead drunk. To further convince his auditors, Mr Tutt introduced into the case a glass of water and several glasses of brandy. The male butterflies, without hesitation, chose the brandy. The fact does not admit of doubt. Male butterflies in a state of freedom are often attracted by the emanations of a glass of gin that has been left on a garden table, and, having drunk it to excess, sleep the heavy sleep of drunkenness."—Literary Digest.

The Exception.

She—A burned child dreads the fire, it is said.

He—Oh, I don't know; the majority of widowers marry again.—Chicago Record.

To Cure a Cold in One Day.

Take Laxative Bromo Quinine Tablets. All Druggists refund the money if it fails to cure. 25c.

CHORUS OF WOMEN.

They 're always abusing the Women as a terrible plague to men:
They say we're the root of all evil, and repeat it again and again;
Of war and quarrels and bloodshed, all mischief, be what it may,—
And, pray then, why do you marry us, if we 're all the plagues you say?
And why do you take such care of us, and keep us so safe at home;
And are never easy a moment, if ever we chance to roam?
When you ought to be thanking heaven that your plague is out of the way,
You all keep fussing and fretting —'Where is my Plague to-day?'
If a Plague peeps out of the window, up go the eyes of the men;
If she hides, then they all keep staring until she looks out again.
—Translation Aristophanes.

County Sketches.

XI.

THE CIRCUIT RIDER.

In the city of Baltimore a young minister waited upon one of the older ministers of the Conference, a man of great influence in the church. The younger gentleman was the Rev Walter Buchannon, who had just completed his examinations and who was to be assigned a charge by the Bishop at the Conference then in session. The other was the Reverend Doctor Bushnell, who had more than a fraternal interest in his young brother in the Lord, knowing that he was well prepared for the work before him. The young preacher was, naturally, anxious to know where his lot would be cast, as were all the ministers who were to be sent to new fields.

"Do you know, Doctor, where my work will lie?"

"Brother Buchannon, we have tried to have you assigned to an as important a charge as the circumstances would permit. We believe you have powers above the ordinary, and that you should not be discouraged by having to sow your seed in stony ground. We would have liked to have seen you stationed where the most people could have the benefit of your work, and I believe if you had been a married man you could have had the Pine Vale circuit, but whenever I advanced your claims I was met by the irrefutable argument that our ministers with families must be supported, and that our young men must serve their apprenticeship on the frontier. Why have you not married?"

"Doctor, I have always set my face against such a marriage. I do not believe that it would be right for me to marry just for the sake of being assigned a desirable field of work. While I would be glad to be the pastor of a large church, if my being married is to be a condition precedent, I will work among the mission churches all my life. I will do no woman the injustice of marrying her to advance my own prospects."

"Not so fast, my young brother. It is possible that you may be talking of a subject upon which you are not informed. I know of your high ideals; youth stands trembling on the brink of matrimony, 'hoping all things, and fearing all things.' But I tell you there is an element of business connected with choosing a partner for life which is inseparable from it, and I believe there is a Providence that brings young people to marry. Through all the winding ways of life they approach each other, and then their destinies are united. I mean that marriages are made in Heaven. You try to marry this year. If you succeed it will be purely and solely by the Lord's help."

"You are not joking with me?"

"No. I never was more sincere and in earnest in my life. Your puny efforts to bind another's soul to your own in marrying a God-fearing woman will not amount to anything without His help. I give you a year to get married in. Have you any attachment at the present time that seems likely to result in marriage?"

"No sir."

"Well, forget any wild dreams you may have had and go marry, but in the meantime I have selected the Sinking Spring charge for you, and the Bishop will send you there. I have a sister who lives in that circuit. There is work for you to do. Our people there are apathetic in church matters. The country dances and other worldly amusements have distracted the attention of the young people in religious matters, and while the people are well to do they do not give enough to support their pastor. A new church is badly needed at Willowdale, and if you can infuse a little life into those Christians you will do a noble work and one that will redown to your honor and glory."

"Who was there last year?"

"Brother Le Breton. He married a Miss Vincey of his congregation."

"Who was there the year before?"

"Brother Roland, who was not sent back because of his marriage to a Miss Thompson, one of his members."

"And the year before?"

"That was Brother Herbert who married a Miss Hazeltine, from Sinking Spring."

"Who did the one marry who was there the year before?"

"A Miss Sunderland. That was Brother Ranor whom you know. But you will find out when you get there as to the record of your predecessors. When I told the Bishop to send you to Sinking Spring he accused me of matchmaking at once. So to Sinking Spring you go."

A few days later Walter Buchannon met a young ministerial brother on the train, who laughed and asked him if he could come to his wedding.

Sinking Spring was on the qui vive when they heard of the new minister, and the young ladies were all anxious and willing to meet him. It was not a question of whether he would be married in a year, but who he would marry.

They were counting on the wrong man, however, and Buchannon was perfectly furious when he saw by the actions of the people that they did not take him seriously, but rather considered him an eligible marrying man who would pick a wife of the many nice girls in and around Sinking Spring and go away to settle down to real work.

Buchannon communed with himself and never a devoted Catholic priest determined more completely to remain a single man than did this earnest young Christian minister. He consecrated himself to his work and he succeeded in making himself respected and loved. He brought his people to a sense of their duty, and he made it easy for the heart restless and unhappy for its want of belief to find its peace with the Author of its promptings. Great was the reputation gained by him, and the revival of religion at Sinking Spring was one of the greatest events of the conference year. He built his church in six months and his work was most abundantly blessed.

While his predecessors were, no doubt, sincere Christian workers, they were not endowed with his ability to guide and control, and none of them was destined to be the blessing to the Christian religion that the gifted young Buchannon is proving himself to be. The unfortunate circumstance of five or six ministers marrying in his circuit in as many years caused Buchannon to so conduct himself that gossip should not detract from his priestly character. He succeeded in doing this, and when his work among the sick and poor, and his self denying life made itself manifest, it lifted him out of the class of frivolous courting men.

But as Dr Bushnell had suggested, it may turn out that a higher power shapes our destiny at mating time. There arrived at Sinking Spring a city visitor, and it was Miss Mary Bushnell. Buchannon had made his home with Mrs Devereaux, the sister of Dr Bushnell, and was of course interested in meeting Miss Bushnell, the daughter of the famous preacher whom Buchannon considered almost his patron saint.

Mary Bushnell was a very attractive young lady and her association with the handsome young preacher who was wedded to his work was not calculated to add to his peace of mind. Mary was accustomed to have the men she met bow the knee without protest, but after a few meetings Buchannon woke to the fact that as he was a prudent man he had better go away. There was a charm about the lovely girl that was dangerous to him, a celibate. So he packed up his saddle-bags and rode to the most distant corner of his moral vineyard, where the people were all wholly unconnected with church and religion, and he taught the people that what they had deemed so hard was to be accomplished by taking on the trustfulness and simplicity of a child, and he established the church of Mount Zion, which is an important part of the Conference to-day, and his great success brought his friends to his meetings, and with them came Mary Bushnell.

It can not be recorded that he struggled more against himself, but rather took every opportunity to see the girl and by some occult means the bond between them grew by imperceptible degrees until it became so strong that broken or unbroken their natures could never be the same again.

Then there came a day when Mary went to drive behind a team of big, strong, high spirited horses and her escort was a young man child whose ability to manage wild horses was not equal to his confidence which was born of ignorance. This particular young gentleman had come down from the city to see Mary, and he was a thorn in the side of Buchannon. The young preacher saw them driving towards him and when coming down a steep bank the team break away and come galloping up the hill opposite, totally unmanageable. He threw himself from his horse, grabbed a fence-rail, and by dint of barring the way with it and shouting with a terrible voice he stopped the team just as it had reached the top of the hill, and in time to save the occupants of the buggy from being dashed to pieces in the long descent about to be attempted by the runaways.

Then the dapper young city gentleman gladly acceded to the proposition of Buchannon that he ride his horse home and that he, the preacher, drive Mary in the buggy. The horses recognized the master-mind, and behaved beautifully, and Mary, recovering from her terror, gracefully surrendered when Buchannon asked her to be his wife. Both were afraid to think what the good Doctor would say to the match, and they devised this scheme.

Buchannon wrote and reminded the Doctor of his advice, and told him that he had found the only girl whom he could ever mary, but that she was so far above him that he feared to ask her father for his consent.

Dr Bushnell replied that probably all that he needed was confidence and that he should not despair tho his sweetheart's father was the first citizen of the commonwealth, and that to give him more confidence he would add that any father who refused to give him his daughter because he was poor would be guilty of selfishness that could not be excused. He advised Buchannon to try to gain the consent of his sweetheart's parents.

Then Buchannon wrote and confessed the whole, explaining his resolution not to marry, and his God-given love, and his surrender, and Doctor Bushnell very gracefully made the best of it and told his children to come to him. Very shortly afterwards they were married.

In speaking of the ministers of Sinking Spring Circuit afterwards the people would say:

"—And Dr Buchannon he married a Miss Bushnell, and came back and made this one of the strongest churches in the Conference and since then we have had a married minister and a parsonage."

BIOGRAPHIC NOTES.

John Burgess, the Irish Immigrant.—John Burgess, Jr. the Ancestor of the Pocahontas Burgesses.

W. T. P.

Concurrently with the passing century, the name Burgess has been a familiar one in lower and middle Pocahontas. The progenitor of this relationship was John Burgess, Senior, a native of Ireland. He was a weaver by occupation and settled near Albany, N. Y., where he diligently plied his vocation, some years previous to the Revolution. The name of his wife or her family is not remembered. There were two sons and four daughters.

Elizabeth Burgess became Mrs William Young.

Two of the daughters, names not remembered, married two brothers by the name of Kelly and lived in New York State.

James Burgess became a preacher in the pale of the Congregational Church, and settled in Kentuckey, among the pioneer ministers of that region.

John Burgess, Junior, married a Miss Kelly, of New York, and soon after the Revolution removed to Harrisonburg, Virginia. In his family were three sons and eight daughters, concerning whom we have the following details, furnished by David Burgess:

Mary (Polly) married her cousin in James Young and settled in Augusta County. Their son William Young was a soldier in the war of 1812, and died in sevice at Norfolk Virginia.

Nancy was married to William Mayse and settled at Mill Point, now Pocahontas County. He was among the first blacksmiths that struck sparks from the anvil in that vicinity. William Mayse, a grandson, was a captain in the civil war and afterwards a government clerk in Washington, D. C.

Jane became Mrs Thomas Armstrong and lived near Churchville, Virginia.

Hampton Burgess went to Ohio in early manhood, married a Miss Smith and settled in that State.

Nathan Burgess married Martha Kinnison, of Charles Kinnison, the pioneer, and settled on lands now in the possession of the Payne family. He was a skillful gunsmith. Late in the previous century and for a number of the earlier years of the current century, many of the older hunters were supplied by him with rifles. Some of his rifles were used by riflemen in military service. One of the best specimens of his workmanship was made for the late William McNeil, of Buckeye. When last heard of it was the property of James Moore. It was reputed to be one of the most accurate in aim and far reaching of mountain rifles ever in the county. It would be well if it could be gotten and deposited in the Museum of the West Virginia Historical Society at Charleston.

John Burgess was born near Albany in 1778. He was a mere youth when his father came to Harrisonburg. From Rockingham he came to the Levels, about 1798. His first marriage was with Sarah Casebolt, and lived near Mill Point. The children of the first marriage were John, James, Archibald, Paul, Hannah and Mary. Hannah became Mrs David McNair and lived in Augusta. The first Mrs Burgess died about 1813. Soon after her death John Burgess moved to the mountain farm, west of the head of Swago.

His second marriage was with Hannah McNair, daughter of Daniel McNair, in the vicinity of Churchville. The McNairs were pioneers along with the Boones, Millers, Moffetts and McDowells, notable families in the Valley of Virginia, in the pioneer era. The McNairs were from Pennsylvania. The children of the second marriage were David, Martha and Elizabeth.

John Burgess was a carpenter by occupation. He did the carpenter work on the dwelling occupied for many years by the late George W. Poage, the ruins of which are still to be seen near Preston Clark's beautiful home. The Jordan barn near Hillsboro was one of his many jobs, and still stands in a good state of preservation. For a long series of years he made most of the coffins needed in lower Pocahontas He was drafted into military service during the war of 1812, but owing to the critical state of his wife's health, he was permitted to put in a substitute, and remain with his family. He thus escaped the suffering and privation that caused the death ot many of our mountain people during the notable defense of Norfolk vicinity that was planned to shield Richmond from British invasion and depredation.

John Burgess, Jr., of John, the immigrant, the immediate ancestor of the Pocahontas familes, whose history is illustated in part by this sketch, claimed to have been a Revolutionary soldier and served in the artillery, and was one of the first to enlist and the last to be disbanded of the New York Continental Troops. While we have in hand no positive information to this effect, yet there is much reason for believing that John Burgess, Jr., was at the surrender of General Burgoyne.

As the reader will readily remember very memorable events occurred not very far from where John Burgess, the immigrant, lived and reared his family. It is more that probable that his loom wove the blanket his son used in the service and some of the neighbor soldiers were clothed in material prepared by his industrious hands.

Thus close one more brief chapter in the suggestive history of our Pocahontas People. Let it be our aim not only to emulate, but surpass what our ancestry accomplished and ever strive not only to keep but improve upon what has come to us from their self-sacrificing toils and good names.

She Had Her Way.

"I shall have to ask you for a ticket for that boy, ma'am."

"I guess not."

"He's too old to travel free. He occupies a whole seat, and the car is crowded. There are people standing up."

"That's all right."

"I haven't time to argue the matter ma'am. You'll have to pay for that boy."

"I've never paid for him yet and I'm not going to begin now."

"You've got to begin sometime. If you haven't had to put up fare for him you're mighty lucky, or else you don't do much traveling."

"That's all right."

"You'll pay for that boy, ma'am, or I'll stop the train and put him off."

"That's all right. You put him off if you think that's the way to get anything out of me."

"You ought to know what the rules of this road are ma'am. How old is that boy?"

"I don't know. I never saw him before. If you want a ticket for him you'd better ask that old gentleman down the aisle. He got on with him.—Philadelphia Press.

African Courtship.

The other evening I saw among the natives the carrying off of a girl from a location. This carrying off is called by them ukutwala, and the girl, tho not indisposed to accept the man, causes obstacles to be placed in his way. He eventually watches his opportunity (after first placing so many head of cattle in the kraal of the girl's father) and carries her off by main force. The heart-rending cries of the bride as she is carried away are something pitiful—a cry that pierces the heart of a Christian, but is a cry of her own, which, being interpreted, means: "Do n't take me, but I want to go, for I like it."—Johannesburg Standard.

"The first wire-wound gun ordered by the United States is expected to be delivered at the proving ground at Sandy Hook, New York harbor, soon," says Cassier's Magazine. "This gun will be of 10 inches bore, 46 calibres in length, and will weigh 30 tons. The contract specifies a normal initial velocity of 2,600 feet per second, or 300 feet per second more than that required for any hooped gun in the United States service. J. H. Brown the inventor of this type of gun is confident that it will stand a charge sufficient to raise the muzzle velocity to 3,000 feet per second without material injury to its structure. From official experiments already made at Sandy Hook proving-ground with an experimental 5inch Brown gun, this initial velocity appears not only possible, but probable."

The Pocahontas Tim

Andrew & Norman Price, Owners.

"Montani Semper Liberi!"

VOL. 16, NO. 17 MARLINTON, WEST VIRGINIA, NOVEMBER 17, 1898.

WE PAY THE FREIGHT AND $15.95 IS ALL IT COSTS.

This 5-piece parlor suit, rocker, divan, and sofa, and two parlor chairs, highly polished frame, finished mahogany, and upholstered in velour or tapestry, large in size, and suitable for any parlor in the land, $15.95 and freight paid anywhere on earth. Such a bargain as this you have never seen before, no matter how old you are, and never will again, probably, if you reach the century mark, which we hope you will. Further comment is unnecessary, except that if you want to know of thousands of such bargains, send for our 100-page furniture catalogue, and if you want carpet at such prices as most dealers can't buy for, send for our ten-color lithographed carpet catalogue, and what you'll find in these two books will teach you something that you'll want to remember for many a day. Remember Christmas is coming, and sensible people give sensible gifts which sensible people most appreciate. Something for the home is the best of all presents, and our catalogues will suggest to you what is best. Address (exactly as below)

JULIUS HINES & SON,
Dept. 900. BALTIMORE, MD.

LAW CARDS.

N. C. McNEIL,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

Will practice in the Courts of Pocahontas and adjoining counties and in the Court of Appeals of the State of West Virginia.

L. M. McCLINTIC,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

Will practice in the Courts of Pocahontas and adjoining counties and in the Supreme Court of Appeals.

H. S. RUCKER,
ATT'Y. AT LAW & NOTARY PUBLIC
HUNTERSVILLE, W. VA.

Will practice in the courts of Pocahontas county and in the Supreme Court of Appeals.

J. W. ARBUCKLE,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
LEWISBURG, W. VA.

Will practice in the courts of Greenbrier and Pocahontas counties. Prompt attention given to claims for collection in Pocahontas county.

W. A. BRATTON,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

Prompt and careful attention given to all legal business.

ANDREW PRICE,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

Will be found at Times Office.

SAM. B. SCOTT, JR.
LAWYER,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

All legal business will receive prompt attention.

H. M. LOCKRIDGE,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
HUNTERSVILLE, W. VA.

Prompt and careful attention given all legal work.

JOHN A. PRESTON FRED. WALLACE
PRESTON & WALLACE,
Attorneys at Law,
LEWISBURG, W. VA.

Will practice in the Courts of Greenbrier and adjoining counties, and in the Court of Appeals of the State of West Virginia.

J. W. YEAGER,
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

Prompt attention given to collections

T. S. McNEEL,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

Will practice in the Courts of Pocahontas and adjoining counties.

PHYSICIANS' CARDS.

DR. O. J. CAMPBELL,
DENTIST,
MONTEREY, VA.

Will visit Pocahontas County at least twice a year. The exact date of his visit will appear in this paper.

DR. J. H. WEYMOUTH,
RESIDENT DENTIST,
ELKINS, W. VA.

Will visit Pocahontas County every spring and fall. The exact date of each visit will appear in The Times.

J. M. CUNNINGHAM, M. D.,
PHYSICIAN & SURGEON,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

Office next door to C. A. Yeager's Hotel. Residence opposite Hotel. All calls promptly answered.

THE BELLS BENEATH THE SEA.

BY LUCY RANDOLPH FLEMING.

From Harper's Bazaar.

The sea is calm, the wind is fair,
Nor ever a cloud doth lower—
The good ship speeds with the blessed bells
She bears to Boltreaux tower.
The pilot crossed his breast, and cried:
"Thank God! the harbor 's near,
For vesper bells at Tintagel
Ring out their music clear.

"Ay, thank the Lord for our good speed Across the doubtful sea!"
"Fool!" sneered the captain, thank thyself;
God holds no helm for thee."
The pilot crossed his breast, and cried,
"God pardon thee once more,
And grant that we may safely come
Unto the Cornish shore."

The captain's oath was on his lips,
Or ever the sun went down,
And while the people thronged the cliffs
Above the harbor town.
Almighty wave swept o'er the sea
With dull and sullen roar;
The good ship trembled all her length
As she sank to rise no more.

Then o'er the whelming waters pealed
(As tolling funeral knells
For those lost souls) the soft sweet chimes
Of the Forrabury bells.

‡ ‡ ‡ ‡ ‡

The moss creeps over Boltreaux church,
Where rings no vesper lay;
Still waits the tower its blessed bells,
And silent stands to-day.
For low beneath the Cornish wave,
Where tangled wrecks lie deep,
The Forrabury bells are hid
And their sweet echoes keep.
But ever 'gainst the billows toss,
And storm Winds shriek in glee;
Their muffled chimes the blessed bells
Still ring beneath the sea.

County Sketches.

XII.

THE HUNTER.

In a lawyer's office in the city of Richmond the young proprietor and the court stenographer were mightily interested in an advertisement in a paper devoted to sports connected with field, forest, and stream. It read:

ALLEGHANY MOUNTAINS.—Hunting parties of five or more entertained at the Senna Spring Club House during the months of October and November. Deer, wild-turkey, grouse, and partridge hunting. A fine pack of deer hounds kept for chasing. A shot at a deer guaranteed. Write for terms and dates. BEN PRATT, Proprietor.
Backwoods, Va.

Hamilton, the lawyer, remarked that the guarantee looked like business, and Sands, the stenographer, said that they had better correspond with the man, and that if they could get a date at the opening of the season they might as well go to Pratt's and get the cream of the hunting. "Anyway," he said, "it can't be worse than last year when we froze for a week on the deer stand without seeing a single deer. Now, Hamilton, give us your professional opinion as to that guarantee. Would this fellow Pratt's revenue depend on some of us shooting at a deer?"

"I should think so. 'Shot guaranteed' certainly means that if we make the necessary outlay and take the trouble of going to this town of the highly suggestive name of Backwoods, for the express purpose of killing a deer and eating the venison, and this said Pratt for the consideration of charging us with board money and for sundries, uses this guarantee as an inducement, and we being influenced thereby, if the said Pratt, overestimating his power over the feræ naturæ, (that 's wild beasts, you know), fails to afford us this shot or opportunity to kill a deer, he will be liable to us for damages to be wiped out by the panacea for all legal ills, videlicit,—money. And we, having a fund in our hands belonging to said Pratt, could retain the same and secure thereby the position of defendant."

"Well, that sounds a good deal like old Judge Hokey-pokey, and I reckon its sound, so I 'll write to him and see what he says. Ben Pratt sounds like an honest name. I can almost have faith in him as a worthy scion of an old-time family of honest Pratts who has a simple faith in his ability to drive a deer. Think of old Jim Skinner making us such a proposition. Guess old Jim will have to do without us this year if honest Ben Pratt's reply is satisfactory."

"I would like to amend my opinion in the case," said Hamilton, "by adding that if the said Pratt by his efforts succeeds in jumping a deer and runs it in to a stander, and the stander, being taken with the buck fever, forgets that he has a gun and throws rocks at it, or pumps his cartridges out on the ground without discharging the same, or sits paralyzed, why then the court would have to construe that Honest Ben had delivered the goods."

Then Sands wrote to Pratt and made arrangements for a party of five to hunt for a week at Senna Spring. They were met at the depot by Pratt with his team and big wagon, and after a drive of ten miles over roads getting ever rougher and rougher, they arrived at the Senna Spring Club House.

Pratt was a short, cubby, little man, with an inexhaustible fund of hunting stories. He could relate the circumstances surrounding the death of a deer in a way that made him very entertaining to those with hunting instincts. He had a morbid fear of showing ignorance of anything under the sun, and he prided himself on his ability as a singer, and he carried himself as one has a right to who starts the tune in meeting. There had descended to him several hundred acres of mountain land lying around the mouth of Clear Creek, which for years had been of no material benefit to him, and of which he rarely had occasion to think, unless it was when he paid the few cents tax assessed on it each year.

There was a medicinal spring on it, and one time when he was feeling poorly he camped there and thought that he had been greatly benefitted by the use of the waters. An eccentric man of some wealth heard of it, and he came there and had Pratt to build him a substantial log cabin with a real stone chimney, and he had occupied it one summer and gone back to his city home and died, and Pratt had the fine dwelling on his hands.

Then he conceived the scheme of taking care of hunting and fishing parties, and found that it not only paid him pretty well but that the work was very congenial. He enjoyed the sport as well as any of his guests, and was well paid beside.

The spot where the cabin was located was an ideal sylvan retreat. The mountains clad in dark pines towered above and two crystal streams mingled their waters. It was such a place as a man chained to business longs for in the sweltering heat of a summer day.

Pratt wished to enlarge his clientele, and so he had advertised in a way which showed that he meant business. His own house, not so imposing a building as his hotel property, lay in a bend in the valley about a mile away.

The party found Pratt's boy in possession of the Club-House, and four or five likely looking hounds lounging around the place. The visitors were delighted with the prospect. A few rough benches and some bunks formed the furniture, but everything was clean, and a big fire was blazing on the hearth, for the evening was frosty. The bunks were filled with sweet-smelling, feathery pine boughs freshly picked, and a large supply of newly washed blankets. The carcass of a newly butchered sheep hung on the shady side of the house. From what Pratt had been able to gather on the ride from the depot, he concluded that this sheep could be thereafter known as a spiked buck, and he picked out a suitable instance in his hunting career and fitted it to the occasion and told his guests how it had come to die so opportunely for their visit.

Sands produced a copy of the advertisement and said to Pratt:

"Do you still vote that ticket?"

"Say, I was a-hoping you fellers had n't seen that there thing. Now if the pesky deer git to running wild, you must n't be too onreasonable."

Hamilton told him firmly that deer was what they came for, and deer they would have. They would keep their contract and he must his. The next morning by daybreak the party were stationed at various points on the stream where the contour of the country would cause the deer to cross when pursued by hounds. The sportsmen endured the cold of the morning, watching for a deer to come bounding out of the woods and take to the water to confuse the trail. There is an excitement about this that bears the hunter up for a while, but after four our five hours waiting without seeing any live thing except, perhaps, an inquisitive squirrel or a noisy blue jay, he is very glad to leave his stand and stretch his cramped limbs by a walk to camp.

Hamilton had been placed on the stand known as the Big Rock, down near where Pratt lived, and he sat on a fallen log by the pathway which ran up and down the valley. The sun rose above the top of the opposite mountain and melted the frost, and Hamilton was enjoying the grateful warmth and beginning to feel comfortable. Presently he saw a bright-looking little three year old girl coming up the pathway, and when she saw Hamilton she stopped and made a very reasonable demand:

"I want my papa."

"Who is your papa?"

"My papa 's a g'eat big man."

"What 's your name, little miss?

"My name 's Sally Pratt. What 's your name?"

"My name 's Stout"

"I fink dat 's a mighty funny name. Oh, dere 's ol' Nan!"

Hamilton looked around and saw a doe in the water above him, and he turned suddenly and, much to his surprise, found he was cool enough to shoot and did shoot and the deer dropped on the bank but a few yards from him. Then the little girl began to cry and say, "You hurted Nan," and commenced to caress and cry over the dead deer. "Go 'way. Nan 's 'f'aid to det up. Ol' bad man!" Then the full significance of his act dawned on the man. He had killed somebody's pet deer, the playmate of the distressed little girl who was crying over the body. Presently the woods rang with melody and the pack of hounds came mouthing down the mountain-side, and finding the dead deer attacked it, and Hamilton had to rescue the child before he could undertake to quiet the dogs.

Then he looked up to find a solemn-faced mountaineer leaning on his staff while he rested with a bushel of meal on his back. He heard him say:

"Now you 've gone and done it, Mister. You 'll have Ben Pratt to lick, I c'n tell ye."

"Done what?"

"Killed Ben's pet deer. Durn my skin, mister, city men hev been shootin' at that deer for three year, an' you 're the fust one to tech a hair on her. Ben warrants a shot at deer, and he runs his old pet doe through a stand. He teks her up to the head of that there hollow and the ol' doe goes lickyty split through this stand and runs inter Ben's house and jumps up on the bed. Ben tol' me that eleven standers hed fired on her, and four got too skeered to fire."

"Well, he 's played us for suckers and we will settle with him accordingly. Here he comes now."

"Guess I hev to be gittin' along—this here load 's powerful heavy. Good day to ye."

Pratt came picking his way down the stream and soon arrived. His first business was to send his little girl home, and then he regarded the deer with a puzzled expression.

"Killed en old nannie, I see. Started way back to'de's the head of Martin Creek. She tuk a circle and I ses to myself, 'She 'll come in at the Big Rock,' and I hoofed it in. Shot right plumb through the shoulder. Ever keep account of your deer?"

"No," said Hamilton, and he had n't for the best of reasons.

"I tried it onct, way back yander close ther war. I cut a notch on the stock of my old mountain-rifle for every deer. I spiled the stock a-doin' it, and I quit all sich foolishness."

The two hunters partially dressed the deer and carried it to the house. The other men's eyes were big with wonder and surprise, for this party had banded together some years before to kill a deer, and this was the first one they had been able to do. Pratt proposed that they send this deer home, for the one hanging up would be all they could probably eat. Hamilton lacked the satisfaction of knowing that he had killed a wild deer. He could not bear the idea of telling the rest of the gang at this stage, that he had killed a pet doe—the most gentle of wild animals man has ever subjugated. They would guy him until his life would be miserable. He could imagine Sands holding forth on the man who went around destroying pets, or Hutchinson proving that he had tied the deer to a tree and shot it at leisure. He was a lawyer and he had a faint hope there were two sides to the tale, and it was all a hideous mistake about the deer being a pet.

After dinner a hunt for small game was agreed upon, but Hamilton did not go out. He produced a bottle of whiskey and administering it to Pratt judiciously had his patient soon in a condition to tell the truth.

"I see, Ben, you do n't insure a shot at a wild deer."

"Wild 'nough I 'spect."

"Was that a wild deer I killed to-day?"

"Wild 'nough."

"It was a pet deer."

"Tha's allright."

"Well now, you tell me all about it and I 'll not give you away. I am as anxious te keep it from the other fellows as you are."

"Hones'?"

"Yes."

"Well, thas ol' Nan. Comin' in. Could n't start. Ol' Nan feedin' on hill-side 'bove stand, dogs shoved her in, hear a shot, laugh 'self, killed deer, by ganny, took like man, welcome, had her threee year—shot at 'leven time!"

Pratt not being used to whiskey had been easily affected and was in a communicative mood and unfolded the whole plan how the old pet, when other schemes failed had been hustled through a stand to take her chances.

The worst was realized, and the next day Hamilton deliberately went to sleep at his post while his companions watched zealously.

Pratt ranged the woods with the dogs and came back with a tale of a buck run into another river. He went down to his house that evening and when he came back he took an early opportunity of taking Hamilton aside.

"What you reckon I seen down't home?"

"Do n't know."

"Ol' Nan. Little Sally come a-trottin' out to meet me and thar come ol' Nan as big as life. You killed en out and out wild deer."

"You confounded old nuisance! Your thieving arrangement has destroyed all the pleasure there was for me in killing a deer. I 'll never feel like I killed a real deer the other day, and it 's all so mixed up that it will never be any satisfaction to me. I feel like I had been cheated out of the best sport of my life, and wild and tame deer are so mixed up I 'll never get any good out of it, confound it!"

And his discontent with the whole proceeding was very natural. He recovered his spirits however to a sufficient extent to combine and confederate with Pratt in a scheme of running old Nan over Sands at the Big Rock, and heard the lively popping of Sands' repeater and marked the crestfallen appearance of his friend, who declared he had just shot at a buck with a head of horns as big as a bushel basket.

BIOGRAPHIC NOTES.

Memoir of Joseph Moore, Esqr., late of Anthonys Creek.

W. T. P.

Joseph Moore, Esq., late of Anthony's Creek was one of the most widely known citizens of our county in his day. His parents were William Moore and Margaret, his wife. It is believed they came from Rockbridge county about 1780. No known relationship is claimed with other branches of the Moores. They opened up a home on the knoll just south of Preston Harper's, where a rivulet crosses the road. Their house was just below the present road at that point. It was here they lived and died. Their remains were buried on the east side of the creek, on the terrace south of the tenant house now standing there. Samuel Harper has seen their graves.

These pioneers were the parents of two sons and two daughters: Joseph, John, Mary (Polly) and a daughter whose name seems to be lost to memory.

John Moore went to Kentucky.

Mary was the wife of Col John Baxter, who was the first Colonel of the 127th Regiment, and a member of the Virginia Legislature, and was very prominent in the organization of the county.

Joseph Moore was a soldier in the war of 1812. During his absence he met and married Hannah Cady in East Virginia. She was a native of Connecticut, and was a school teacher, and is spoken of by the older people as a sprightly person. Soon after his return, Joseph Moore settled on the homestead. building his house between Goelet's residence and the barn. He finally moved to Anthonys Creek.

Their family consisted of five daughters and three sons: Hannah, Sarah, Matilda, Margaret, Abigail, Daniel, Joseph, Jr., and Henry Harrison.

Sarah was married to Jackson Bussard, on Anthonys Creek. He was a Confederate soldier, and died in the battle of Dry Creek, near the White Sulphur. Joseph H. Bussard, Assessor for Pocahontas, is her son.

Matilda became Mrs Elijah May on Anthonys Creek. Her sons John and Calvin married Lizzie and Lillie, daughters of Mr and Mrs Register Moore, near Marlinton.

Margaret was married to Jacob Blizzard, of Greenbrier County, and went West.

Abigail became Mrs John Wade on Anthonys Creek, and lived there.

Daniel was deputy sheriff under his father. He finally went to Missouri, and became a prominent citizen. He raised and commanded a company of volunteers for service in the Mexican War, and was with Col Coniphan in his famous expedition to New Mexico.

Joseph Moore, Jr., went to Braxton County.

Henry Moore married Martha Young, daughter of Captain William Young, of Stoney Creek, and is now living in Iowa.

Joseph Moore, Esqr., was a very prominent citizen in county affairs. He was high sheriff, justice of the peace, a popular school teacher, and was very much sought after for drawing up deeds, article of agreement, and writing wills. His judgement in matters of controversy seems to have been very correct as but few suits brought contrary to his advice ever succeeded in the courts.

One of my earliest recollections of Squire Moore was when I was a half grown lad, attending school at Huntersville from home in Marlinton. My first lessons in grammer were conned during those morning and evening rides. One playtime I was at "Governor" Haynes' Hotel, on the corner now occupied by the McClintic property. Squire Moore, who had spent the forenoon in the clerk's office with the late Henry M. Moffett, was seen coming up the street very slowly. It was a hot day in summer, and he was in his shirt sleeves, with his vest unbuttoned and thrown open, and full saddle bags over his shoulder. Mr Haynes calls out, "Squire and [illegible]

ness o[illegible]

In s[illegible] e
Squire ob[illegible] udied the m[illegible] fully,
"Well, Gover[illegible] ve been around you long[illegible] gh to find out there is no use in being in a hurry about anything except catching fleas."

The Governor got red in the face and there would have been a one-sided quarrel had not the Squire pointed significantly towards the refreshment counter. The Governor took the hint, and in the clinking of glasses the flea trouble was quieted without farther notice, so gratifying to the irate Governor were the Squire's movements now with thumb, fingers and elbow.

It would require more time and space than is alotted to these memoirs to write out all that might come to mind about this interesting man, so we will only give one more reminiscence. In April 1848 I spent a rainy afternoon with Squire Moore in a school he was teaching near Sunset, in the old Daugherty building. He showed me a question in arithmetic that puzzled him. He could find the answer called for, but it would not "prove out," and he could not be satisfied with any thing that would not "prove out."

We put our heads together and found a result that would "prove out." So we both felt that we knew more than the man who wrote the book, that much of it, at least. We lingered after school was out till it was so near night that when I returned to William Harper's, the evening candle was already lighted and placed on the supper table.

After proving out things in our ciphering consultation, we had a talk about the Bible and Christian religion. I was a Bible distributor at that time, as some of the older people may remember. The habit the Squire had of "proving out" things came into evidence again:

"William, you must excuse me if I talk a little plain to you for you may think strangely of the way I sometimes talk. There are people who think I am an infidel because I sometimes make remarks they do n't agree with. I have studied a good deal about religion, and if you have as much sense as I think you have, you will some day see these things as I do. I always keep a Bible or Testament handy to me when I am at home and most always carry a Testament in my saddle pockets when away on business.

"Now you must excuse me, William, when I say to you that in my private opinion there can't be much in the Christian religion if it puts its most earnest and zealous professors to wearing out the knees of their pants in religious services in the fall and winter, and then lets them turn over and wear out the rest of their breeches backsliding during the spring and summer. Somehow, William, it does not prove out to suit my notion what religion should be, provided there is such a thing as religion anyhow."

I felt that Squire Moore was not disposed to discuss personal piety seriously, and the subject was changed. We never met again to compare opinions about any matter. I learn from his friends, however that during the closing years of his life he gave close attention to his Bible. He has been seen sitting for hours in the shade of an apple tree with the open Bible on his knee.

For when we were without strength in due time Christ died for the ungodly.

Much more then, being now justified by his blood, we shall be saved from wrath through Him.

It is my fervent hope that my aged friend was able to 'prove out' that it is a "faithful saying, worthy of all acceptation that Christ Jesus came into the world to save sinners, even the chief; and that he was willing to take the sinner's place and receive the sinner's salvation, at the same time praying, "cast me not off in the time of old age, forsake me not when my strength fails."

The Pocahontas Times.

ANDREW PRICE, - - - EDITOR.

MARLINTON, THURS. NOV. 17, 1898

Entered at the post-office at Marlinton, W. Va., as second class matter.

THOUGHTS ON THE ELECTION.

One of the quietest elections ever held in Marlinton came off Tuesday. The voters, for the most part, came, voted, and returned home quickly as possible. So far as indications went, boodle and the bottle were conspicuously absent, and the sentiments of the voters were correctly represented by the ballots put into the election-box. The electoral commission was composed of very competent and impartial citizens, and the atmosphere of the polls breathed of true patriotic intentions. While in the silent booth the impressive thought came to mind, here was a privilege to be enjoyed at the cost of millions of lives, and centuries of fierce and bloody conflict, and should be prized as a most precious gift and conscientiously exercised. The reckless and the unprincipled will have it all their own way should the choice of the ballot fall on the unworthy. The great mass of the people wish to know and do what is best for their country, and we would like to hope that all may be well for the "land of the free and the home of the brave," equal rights to all and special privileges to none. So it must be or our fathers have suffered and died in vain. S. C. R.

A LESSON IN POLITICS.

The defeat of Hon. W. S. Edwards, for Congress, in this district, and Col. H. H. Andrew, for State Senate, points a moral to those enterprising politicians who at times are inclined to believe that a nomination at the hands of the stronger party is tatamount to an election.

So as not to be misunderstood, we wish to state that we do not believe that either gentleman used one cent of money in the campaign beyond what was expended in a perfectly legitimate manner. But the campaign has cost them considerable in time and money.

In the first place, it is very well known that they both lacked that marked ability necessary to impress their fitness, for the positions they wished to occupy, on the minds of the people at large, and so they sought the nomination, and by hard work secured it. Then they expected their party to carry them, and the party, after a noble effort, failed to do it.

The Democrats win in two of the most hopeless districts of the State. This success is due to the pesonality of the two tickets. Both Democratic candidates were eminently fitted for the position, and they received their nominations for this reason.

In the next campaign we predict that the Republican party will nominate abler men, and the politicioan of both parties will be a little shy of expending any thing on the nomination. In other words, the candidate will have his buttons made after he he gets the nomination and not before.

THE RACE WAR.

The 11th of November was an awful day for Wilmington, North Carolina. The race troubles occasioned by the wholesale induction of negroes in office had resulted in a triumph of the white people's ticket at the polls. Then the whites, before they disbanded their semi-military organization, decided that The Record, a negro daily, should be removed from the city. They made a demand to that effect and, no reply having been received they marched to the printing office, destroyed the machinery, and burned the building. A little later a negro wounded a guard, and then followed general rioting, in which six negroes were killed, twenty wounded, and three white men wounded.

The negro city government resigned and a white man's succeeded it, and restored order.

The negroes voting the one ticket, and making their vote effective is a great menace to our country. They cannot cast an undivided vote without holding the balance of power in many sections, and yet the temper of the country does not permit them to take the reins of government.

To Cure a Cold in One Day.

Take Laxative Bromo Quinine Tablets. All druggists refund the money if it fails to cure. 25c. The genuine has L. B. Q. on each tablet.

THE RESULT IN THIS COUNTY.

The student of politics may have discovered that it is not true to say that the Democratic majority has been materially reduced in Pocahontas County from 1896. In 1896 the county gave the head of the ticket a majority of 347, besides 4 People's Party votes, making Bryan's majority 351. The recent election gave Judge Johnston 212, and the West Virginia News and other partisans claim that this shows great Republican gains in this county. We wish to submit the following calculation made by an expert mathematician to show that the Democrats cast their due proportion of the vote; that there was no bolting; and that the number of Republicans who stayed at home was proportionately the same as the Democrats.

In 1896 the Democratic party cast 983 out of 1625 votes; in 1898, 674 out of 1136 votes. Without reducing these fractions to a common denominator, it is almost impossible to tell which is the larger:

$$\frac{983}{1625} \text{ minus } \frac{674}{1136} \text{ equals } \frac{1}{92} \text{ nearly}$$

Counting the loss of the Populistic vote it very nearly accounts for the slight loss of 1-92 to the Democratic party in this county this year, a per cent. so small that it leaves the county in statu quo.

In this county wherever a personal effort was made to account for every Democratic voter, and they were sent for and asked to drop their work long enough to come to the polls to give the party a lift, as was done at Marlinton, Huntersville and other precincts, the party gained over 1896. Where the platitudes of recent party papers or party orators were relied upon to waken up voters who have no personal interest in politics, the party lost out of all proportion.

An effort was made to defeat one of the county nominees, and one feature of that fight was to induce some Democrats to stay at home on the grounds that there was nothing in the election whatever. How effective this was we do not know, only that in the district where this scheme was reported to have been used, the Democratic party suffered heavy losses.

THE LEGISLATURE.

Both sides claim a majority in the legislature on a joint ballot, and a very interesting time is expected. The Democrats submit figures, while the Wheeling Intelligencer claims a majority and prints Chairman Dawson's warning that the Democrats are preparing to steal the legislature. That is an ugly word, and we may say that hostilities have opened already. Until the contests are finally settled no one knows whether a Democrat or Republican will be elected United States Senator.

The Baltimore Sun, an independent newspaper, says it is certainly Democratic.

Governor Atkinson admits that the Democrats have a majority of one in the House.

We are willing to wait the final adjustment of the matter, and this paper certainly does not claim a majority beyond all doubt, as do all the Republican papers, which in doing so have an air of desperation. We would remind the reader of a marked change in the condition of affairs since last May. Then prominent Republicans, in all their plenitude and consciousness of power, were discussing the time to hold a State primary to nominate a United State senator. If they only had it would have been the greatest political fiasco in the history of the state.

He Bit.

"Hello! Times!"

"Hello!"

"Hear about that terrible accident up here last night?"

"Yes, sad thing wasn't it?"

"Bad for his business."

"Did he have an accident policy?"

"No!"

The click of seven receivers of disinterested offices had been heard. One listener unable to contain himself any longer, breaks in: "Hello, Times, who was that?"

"Mr So and So."

"How'd he git hurt?"

"He busted his ear listentng to messages over the line."

AGENTS WANTED.

To sell to the consumers our Teas, Coffees, Baking Powders, Spices, Extracts, Soaps, Starches, Chocolates, etc. Address Grand Union Tea Company, 88 Baltimore St., Cumberland, Md.

A CLOSE SHAVE.

The Board of Canvassers met last Monday and certified James W. Warwick's election to the office gf Superintendent of Free Schools by 28 votes, the smallest majority a regular Democratic nominee for a county office has received in this county for many years. The party organization had made an effort to discover whether there was any organized effort to defeat this nominee, having been put on their guard by certain signs of opposition developed at the teachers' Institute held at this place in August. They had decided from the information received that while he might be scratched to a certain extent by some of the teachers, there was no regular combination against him and that he was as safe as if he had already been elected.

When the returns began to come in from over the county his friends became alarmed, and the candidate himself conceded the election of his opponent, C. B. Grimes.

It was suggested after the primary that not a single school teacher could be named who voted for Warwick, and in light of subsequent events very few of the teachers of the county voted for him in the general election when he was the party nominee.

The whole occurrence settles two things: The first is that Warwick will be the next Superintendent, and the second that he will be succeeded by Barnett Grimes, of Lobelia. Grimes made the race in the primary against Warwick and supported him faithfully ever since, in spite of the fact that his support could easily have elected his brother, the Republican nominee. His cinch on the nomination in 1902 will only be equaled to that of Joe Buzzard's, in 1896, for the Assessorship. In 1902 so many school teachers will groan and say: "Oh, if I had only not slipped my trolley in 1898 I could be elected Superintendent and make a speech in every schoolhouse in the county." Four years seems a long time, but it will roll around, and then vengeance saith the party.

The result shows the weak place in primary elections. Where there are two leading candidates the primary is the safe way to make party nominations. Where there are more than two leading candidates, the choice of the minority is apt to be nominated and then there is trouble.

We have been told that in certain parts his opponents said that Warwick belonged to that whooptydoo known as the "Court-house ring." This is a meaningless election cry which is raised with more or less effect in every rural district in the United States, and many there be that are deceived thereby. If there is such a thing in Pocahontas, it is a very honest and upright ring which commends itself to the people of the county. How they could ever identify with it a quiet country gentleman like Jim Warwick, who has not been in politics for twenty-five years, is more than we can see. He does not live at the court-house. He certainly has had nothing to do with the rich contracts the County Court lets, nor has he become immensely wealthy teaching school out of the public fund at $25 per month. In the printed record in the case of Herold vs. Barlow is his affidavit to the effect that he is as "poor as a church mouse." Now why should he be classed with the oppulent court-house ring?

An imperfect skin is always caused by bad blood. Remove the cause! Improve your blood. How? By taking the blood purifier that has stood the test for thirty years

Johnston's Sarsaparilla

QUART BOTTLE.

It has thousands of happy friends. Quart Bottles sell everywhere at $1.

WILLIAMS, DAVIS, BROOKS & CO. Detroit, Mich.

Livercaps for Liver Ills, The Famous Little Liver Pills.

For sale by Uriah Bird, Marlinton; Amos Barlow, Huntersville.

No-To-Bac for Fifty Cents. Guaranteed tobacco habit cure, makes weak men strong, blood pure. 50c, $1. All druggists.

CALLED TO ACCOUNT.

The Pocahontas Times in its issue of last week failed to remind the people that there would be an election last Tuesday and urge the voters to come out as it usually does. What 's the matter, brother Price?—Greenbrier Independent.

The above from the Hillsboro correspondent to the Greenbrier Independent gives us a much wished for opportunity to explain why this paper was not red hot on the last issues before the election and thus cheaply obtain a princely share of the credit for the great Democratic victories which once more reestablish our party and make it the prime favorite in the election of 1900.

The simple truth is that the editor of the political department was away from home in the woods in Virginia taking a much needed rest, and did not arrive at home until the forms were made up and the paper ready to be issued. Otherwise, we must admit, we would not have had the strength of character necessary to refrain from saying things that would have brought our esteemed Republican friends from their death beds to vote, and which would have been to the men of our party as water on the duck's back. A newspaper situated as ours is can not be too discreet if it would be effective. County newspapers, like many local politicians, too often cause their political heroes to cry, "Save us from our fool friends."

The Preacher says: "There is a * * * time to keep silence and a time to speak." And he puts silence first If there was any watchword for the party in this district this year it was, "Be careful what you say," and if any cue was given this was it. And if there is any health or cleanliness in politics it is a campaign conducted on this principle. Men who expend so much breath in behalf of their party so often die unrewarded and what is worse disappointed. There are depths in politics they have never sounded.

Nothing succeeds like success, and no Pocahontas Democrat has a right to complain. Every man he voted for was elected. As for us we are not so mortally anxious to vindicate ourselves, for we see no future for us as an individual in politics. We are too great ever to be postmaster.

Apropos to this subject is the conversation we had with a prominent member of that world renowned bugaboo "the court-house ring." The remarkable stillness of the Pocahontas Times, above referred to, was under discussion. He said: "I helped work something by saying nothing. I had three Republicans shucking corn for me and I was a little surprised to see them come down election-day. I went to the boys and told them that maybe they did not know it was election day, and for them not to mention it at all but to slip away towards evening and vote. They did it, and the next day the Republicans came back laughing and said they had forgot all about the election, and that they would n't have missed voting for anything. If I had tried to make them vote the Democratic ticket it would have sent them to the polls to vote against it." Permit us to add that the citizens under discussion are valued readers of The Times.

So then, Hillsboro, perhaps there are things which have never been dreamed of in your philosophy.

District Officers.

PRESIDENT BOARD OF EDUCATION.
Green Bank.—Dr J. P. Moomau.
Edray.—Jacob S. Moore.
Huntersville.—O. B. Sharp (R.)
Levels.—Isaac McNeel.

MEMBER BOARD OF EDUCATION.
Green Bank.—R. J. Brown.
Edray.—Joseph B. McNeel.
Huntersville.—S. P. Curry.
Levels.—George W. Callison.

JUSTICE. (Short Term.)
Green Bank.—S. W. Phares and A. S. Gillespie.
Levels.—T. A. Bruffey.

CONSTABLE. (Short Term.)
Green Bank.—F. P. Patterson
Edray.—B. M. Yeager.
Huntersville.—E. H. Moore (R)
Levels.—R. K. Burns and Preston Schisler

For School Levy, 642; against 128.

All officers elected for a short term are required by law to qualify within ten days of the day on which they are returned elected by the Board of Canvassers. The County Court has fixed next Monday, November 21, as the day on which those elected Justice and Constable may qualify.

The Best Plaster.

A piece of flannel dampened with Chamberlain's Pain Balm and bound on the affected parts is superior to any plaster. When troubled with a pain in the chest or side, or a lame back, give it a trial. You are certain to be more than pleased with the prompt relief it affords. Pain Balm is a certain cure for rheumatism.

For sale by Barlow & Moore, Edray; Amos Barlow, Huntersville; D. T. McNeil, Buckeye; E. I. Holt, Academy.

Notice.

All parties indebted to me as administrator of S. P. Moore, will please settle up said indebtedness at once, or I will be compelled to institute legal proceedings against them, as I am going to settle up said estate immediately.

JOHN A. MOORE. Admr.

FOREST AND STREAM TRIAL TRIP

AT SPECIAL TRIP RATE.

This large illustrated sportsman's weekly is just the paper for you if you are a shooter or angler or amateur sailor or camper or observer of nature. FOREST AND STREAM is called the "sportsman's home journal," because all in the home read it. To know it is to like it. The price is 10 cents per copy (of all newsdealers); but that you may get acquainted with FOREST AND STREAM, send 25 cents (silver or stamps), and we will send the paper for four weeks as a special trial trip. Our catalogue of best books on outdoor sports will come to you free. Address

FOREST AND STREAM PUBLISHING CO.
346 Broadway, New York.

Commissioner's Notice.

Office of S. B. Scott, Jr., Commissioner, Marlinton, West Virginia, October 20st., 1898.

Pursuant to a decree of the circuit court of Pocahontas county, West Virginia, entered on the day of October 1898, in a chancery cause therein pending entitled:

William T. Moore et al.
vs.
Samuel Moore's Admr and others.

I will proceed at my office in the town of Marlinton, in said county and State on the 23rd day November, 1898, to take state and report to court the following matters of account, to-wit:

First: An account settling the administration accounts of J. C. Arbogast, Late Sheriff of Pocahontas county and as such administrator of Samuel Moore, deceased, and ascertaining the amount due the estate of Samuel Moore.

Second: A statement showing to whom the amount due from J. C. Arbogast, late sheriff of Pocahontas county, and as such administrator of Samuel Moore, is due and payable.

Any other matter deemed pertinent by the Commissioner or required by any party in interest, to be specially stated.

All parties interested in the taking of the above account are requested to be present at the above mentioned time and place.

Respectfully.
S. B. SCOTT, JR.
Commissioner in Chancery.

Auction Sale!

OF

HOTEL FURNITURE!

At MARLINTON,

Saturday, November 19, 1898

On the above-named date I will sell at public auction the furniture of the Marlinton House, consisting of 20 Beds, Mattresses and Springs, 60 Chairs, Stoves, Carpets, Dining Room and Kitchen Furniture, Bureaus, Washstands, &c.

Terms: All sums under $5 Cash; over $5, on a credit of six months, the purchaser giving bond with good security.

C. B. SWECKER, Auctioneer.

Commissioner's Notice.

George P. Moore, et als.
vs.
Marcellus Dorman, et als.

Pursuant to a decree of the Circuit Court of Pocahontas County, rendered in a cause therein pending, as styled above, on the 4th day of October, 1898, the undersigned Commissioner will proceed at his office in the town of Marlinton, W. Virginia, on the 2d day of January, 1899, to take, state, and report to court the following matters of account, towit:

First: An account showing all of the liens on the land of the said Marcellus Dorman, with their respective legal dignities and priorities.

Second: An account showing all of the lands belonging to the defendant, Marcellus Dorman, and the fee simple and annual rental value of the same.

Third: Any other matter deemed pertinent by the Commissioner or required by any party in interest to be specially stated.

Fourth: The Commissioner is required to convene the lien creditors of the said Marcellus Dorman in the manner prescribed by law.

At which time and place all parties in interest may attend.

W. A. BRATTON,
Commissioner.

NOTICE TO LIEN HOLDERS.

To all parties holding liens by judgment or otherwise on the real estate or any part thereof of Marcellus Dorman:

In pursuance of a decree of the Circuit Court of Pocahontas County, made in a cause therein pending, to subject the real estate of the said Marcellus Dorman to the satisfaction of the liens thereon, you are hereby required to present all claims held by you and each of you against the said Marcellus Dorman, which are liens on his real estate or any part of it, for adjudication to me, at my office in the town of Marlinton, West Virginia, on or before the 2d day of January, 1899.

Given under my hand this 2d day of November, 1898.

W. A. BRATTON,
Commissioner.

Commissioner's Notice.

Commissioner's Office, Marlinton West Virginia, October 27, 1898.

Pursuant to a decree of the Circuit Court of Pocahontas county, West Virginia, entered on the 8th day of October, 1898, in a chancery cause therein pending entitled:

Henry T. Gum, Assignee,
vs.
Laura H. Wanless and others,

I will proceed at my office in the town of Marlinton, in said county and State, on the 10th day of December, 1898, to take, state, and report to court the following matters of account, to wit:

First: A statement of the debts due from R. W. Wanless, deceased, with their dates, dignities, and priorities, and to this end he shall convene the lienors and cause the creditors of R. W. Wanless to be convened in the mode prescribed by law.

Second: He shall settle the administration accounts of R. W. Hill S. P. C., and as such administrator of R. W. Wanless, deceased, if any fund came into his hands.

Third: He shall state what land may be subjected to the payment of the debts of the said R. W. Wanless, with the local description of said land.

Fourth: Any other matter to be specially stated, deemed pertinent by himself or required by any party in interest to be so stated.

All parties interested in the taking of this account will please be present at the above mentioned time and place.

Respectfully,
S. B. SCOTT, Jr.
Commissioner in Chancery.

NOTICE TO LIEN HOLDERS.

To all persons holding liens, by judgment or otherwise, on the real estate or any part thereof of R. W. Wanless:

In pursuance of a decree of the circuit court of Pocahontas county, West Virginia, made in a cause therein pending to subject the real estate of the said R. W. Wanless to the satisfaction of the liens thereon you are hereby required to present all claims held by you and each of you against tee said R. W. Wanless which are liens on his real estate or any part of it, for adjudication to me, at my office in the town of Marlinton in said Pocahontas county, on or before the 10th day of December, 1898.

Given under my hand this the 27th day of October, 1898.

S. B. SCOTT, Jr.
Commissioner in Chancery.

NOTICE TO CREDITORS.

To the creditors of R. W. Wanless, deceased:

In pursuance of a decree of the circuit court of the county of Pocahontas, made in a cause therein pending, to subject the real estate of the said R. W. Wanless to the payment of his debts, you are required to present your claims against the estate of the said R. W. Wanless for adjudication to S. B. Scott, Jr., Commissioner, at his office in said county, on or before the 10th day of December, 1898.

Witness, J. H. Patterson, Clerk of the said court, this the 21st day of October, 1898.

J. H. PATTERSON, Clerk.

Commissioner's Notice.

William T. Hogsett's Adm'r.
vs. —In Chancery.
Josiah T. Hogsett, et als.

Pursuant to a decree of the Circuit Court of Pocahontas county, rendered in the above styled cause on the 7th day of October, 1898, the undersigned Commissioner will proceed at his office in the town of Marlinton, West Virginia, on the 2d day of January, 1899, to take, state, and report the following matters of account, to wit:

First: A settlement of the administration accounts of R. W. Hill Administrator of William T. Hogsett.

Second: An account showing all of the debts against the estate of the said William T. Hogsett, with their dates, dignities, and priorities.

Third: An account showing what lands William T. Hogsett died seized and possessed of, with their location and quantity.

Fourth: Any other matter deemed pertinent by the Commissioner, or required to be specially stated by any party in interest.

At which time and place all parties in interest may attend.

W. A. BRATTON,
Commissioner.

NOTICE TO CREDITFRS.

To the creditors of William T. Hogsett, deceased:

In pursuance of a decree of the Circuit Court of the County of Pocahontas, made in a cause therein pending to subject the real estate of the said William T. Hogsett to the payment of his debts, you are required to present your claims against the said William T. Hogsett for adjudication to W. A. Bratton, Commissioner, at his office in the said county on or before the 2d day of January, 1899.

Witness J. H. Prtterson, Clerk of the Circuit Court, this 2d day of November, 1898.

J. H. PATTERSON, Clerk.

Commissioner's Notice.

Office of S. B. Scott, Jr., Comm'r.
Marlinton, West Virginia,
October 20th, 1898.

Pursuant to a decree of the Circuit Court of Pocahontas County, West Virginia, entered on the —— day of October, 1898 in a chancery cause therein pending, entitled:

Sallie Jane Clendennin,
vs.
Wm. Clendennin's Adm'r. et als.

I will proceed at my office in the town of Marlinton, in the said county and State, on the 29th day of November, 1898, to take, state and report to court the following matters of account, to wit:

First.—A settlement of the accounts of R. W. Hill, S. P. C., and as such administrator of William Clendennin, deceased, and to this end he shall cause the creditors of William Clendennin to be convened in the mode prescribed by law.

Second: He shall state the debts due from William Clendennin, deceased, with their dates, dignities, and priorities.

Third: He shall state the amount due Sallie Jane Clendennin, principal and interest on the bond due her from William Clendennin's estate.

Fourth: He shall state the amount due Sallie Jane Clendennin on account of having taken care of her father and mother as in the bill charged, and for taxes paid by her on the land in the bill mentioned.

Fifth: Any other matter to be specially stated, deemed pertinent by himself or required by any party in interest to be so stated.

All interested in the taking of the above account are requested to be present at the above mentioned time and place.

Respectfully,
S. B. SCOTT, Jr.,
Commissioner in Chancery.

NOTICE TO CREDITORS.

To the Creditors of William Clendennin, deceased:

In pursuance of a decree of the circuit court of the county of Pocahontas, made in a cause therein pending to subject the real estate of the said William Clendennin to the payment of his debts, you are required to present your claims against the estate of the said William Clendennin, for adjudication to S. B. Scott, Jr., commissioner, at his office in the said county on or before the 29th day of November, 1898.

Witness, J. H. Patterson, clerk of the said court, this the 20th day of October, 1898.

J. H. PATTERSON, Clerk.

How's This?

We offer One Hundred Dollars Reward for any case of Catarrh that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure.
F. J. CHENEY & Co., Props., Toledo, O.

We, the undersigned, have known F. J. Cheney for the last fifteen years and believe him perfectly honest in all business transactions and financially able to carry out any obligations made by their firm.

WEST & TRUAX, Wholesale Druggists, Toledo, Ohio.
WALDING, KINNAN & MARVIN wholesale Druggists, Toledo, Ohio.

Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting internally on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. Price 75c per bottle. Sold by all druggists. Testimonials free.

Hall's Family Pills are the best.

To Cure Constipation Forever.
Take Cascarets Candy Cathartic. 10c or 25c. If C. C. C. fail to cure, druggists refund money.

The Pocahontas Times,

Hear, Land o' Cakes and brither Scots,
Frae Maidenkirk to Johnny Groats,
If there's a hole in a' your coats,
I rede ye tent it;
A chiel's amang you takin' notes,
An' faith he'll prent it.—BURNS.

Local Events.

Jim Gibson, Jr., and Randolph Hamrick started to Gauley Tuesday for bear.

A fine son was born to Mr and Mrs John Doyle, of Clover Creek, a few days since.

A. C. Young has bought a farm at Jacox, and will move to it this week.

Marlinton and Frost will probably play football at Frost, Saturday, November 26th.

W. M. Siple's sale of personal effects was well attended and the various articles brought good prices.

Dr J. M. Cunningham is in Wheeling as a delegate to Grand Lodge from the Marlinton Lodge I. O. O. F.

Sacramental services at Marlinton next Sunday at 11 A. M. Preparatory exercises Saturday night before.

A bear came prowling around Gray's camp on Williams River last week and was killed by the lumbermen.

Married, in Parkersburg, Miss Elizabeth Hanson Peterkin daughter of Bishop Peterkin, and Rev Cary Gamble, of Virginia.

Married—on Elk, at the residence of Clark Rider, November 9, by Rev W. A. Sharp, W. H. Shelton and Miss Allie V. Slanker.

☞The sale of hotel furniture here next Saturday is the biggest sale of furniture ever arranged in this county. The greater part of the furniture is as good as new.

Geo. H. Overholt's entertainment consisting of a gramophone magic lantern, and a lecture on Cuba at the school-house Tuesday, was very interesting and amusing.

There will be services at Clover Lick, Sunday morning, November 20, at 11 o'clock; Huntersville, Sunday night, at 7-30; Hillsboro, Monday night at 7-30, by Rev M. T. Turner.

Ed Sites, a young citizen of west Pendleton, was shot and killed from ambush on election day near the mouth of Seneca. A near relative is suspected for the treacherous and fatal deed.

Dr Charles Harmon died by suicide at the Upper Tract, in Pendleton, a few days since. He was despondent over his failure to pass a medical examination for licensure before the State Board at its late meeting in Martinsburg.

Died—at Linwood, last Sunday, the infant child of Mr and Mrs B. F. Hamilton, aged about eighteen months, of fever. The interment took place on Monday. Our sympathies go forth to the bereaved parents.

Married—at Marlinton, November 10, 1898, by Rev W. T. Price, Mr George H. Jackson and Miss Delilah Harford Kellison, all of Pocahontas. The bride is a daughter of Mr and Mrs Clark Kellison. Misses Hall and Beverage accompanied the bride as special friends.

"We are all well placed," said the cat when she was seated on the bacon. If you are not well placed or have any reason to be dissatisfied with the store you are dealing give the Golden Store a trial and you will be well pleased. A young lady with $1.38 in cash can buy a good, serviceable, stylish, braid trimmed cape.

A letter has been received by Captain Smith from his son E. H. Smith, who received an appointment in Porto Rico. He was to have sailed on the steamship Panama on the memorable voyage when she was given up as lost. He was transferred to the Berlin, on which he made a safe voyage. He wrote from San Juan. From thence he will go by the steamer to Ponce and report at Miguez, a city of about 12,000 inhabitants. He has a travelling companion by the name of Ingalls.

The December number of The Delineator is called the Christmas Number, and is a marvel of completeness in all its departments. The winter fashions in dress and millinery are elaborately illustrated and described. The literary features are of an unusually high order of merit, and the household specialties are of the most seasonable and original character. The Delineator is issued by the Butterick Publishing Co. at 7 to 17 West Thirteenth Street, New York, at $1.00 for a year's subscription, or 15 cents a copy.

Howard Bird is drilling a well for Mr Hannah at Frankford. He drilled a hole 150 feet in solid limestone without sign of water. His employer became convinced there was a better chance on the other side of the house. For a consideration the drill was started in a new place, and has reached a depth about equal to the first boring. Frankford is poorly supplied with water, and there is poor comfort in the statement that the limestone strata thereabouts is 1,100 feet thick. He will continue until a depth of 200 feet is reached.

PERSONAL.

W. B. Sharp, of Frost, was in town Monday.

J. W. Riley, of Green Bank, was in town Friday.

Do n't forget the big auction sale in Marlinton next Saturday.

Mr and Mrs W. A. Eskridge, of Hillsboro, were in Marlinton last Friday.

Miss Sally Yeager has gone to make her home with her brothers in Cheyenne, Wyoming.

O. H. Kee, of the Weston Asylum, was here this week to convey some patients to the hospital.

J. N. Hutchinson, travelling salesman for the Payne Shoe Company was in the county this week.

Mr and Mrs W. C. Mann, of Indian Draft, were in Marlinton to attend the obsequies of T. J. Criser last Friday afternoon.

Rev and Mrs Sarver and Mrs Bruffey were in town Tuesday, returning to Petersburg, W. Va. Mrs Sarver has made an extended visit to her mother's, on Bruffey's creek

A Letter From a Colored Soldier.

Bedford Stewart, a colored boy, who went from this county recently, enlisted in the United States Army, and is a private in Co. M., 8th Regiment, and is stationed at Ft. Thomas, Ky. He writes to his mother that he had just been in Cincinnatti where his regiment had been taken to celebrate the return of the 6th Regiment from Cuba. He says:

"The soldiers we went to celebrate left here May 17 and went to Cuba. There were 800 of them when they left, but 300 were killed over there. The 8th and 10th Cavelry was colored, and the white soldiers told us today that the colored boys saved their lives. They give the colored troops all the praise.

"Our first Lieutenant was wounded at the battle of Santiago, but is well now.

"I send you one of the records of Company M. All of our company is on the list but one man and he was so mean the Captain would not put his name on the list. He is the meanest man I ever saw. He has been in the guard house seven times since he joined the army. He is in the guard house now for 10 days and has a $10 fine to pay."

Death of Thomas Jefferson Criser.

Died, at Marlinton, November 11, 1898, Thomas Jefferson Criser, aged 68 years and 8 months. He was born in Rockbridge County, near Panther Gap, March 10, 1830.

During the war he belonged to the Bath Squadron and was a faithful soldier. He lived many years on Morris Hill in Alleghany county. Two years ago last May he moved to Marlinton and with his son established a shop for making and repairing wagons. During the last summer he was seized by an insidious disease that baffled medical skill and slowly wore his useful life away. He is survived by one son, William Criser, and a sister-in-law, Miss Jennie Kincaid, who, since the death of Mrs Crizer 6 years ago, has devoted herself to the care of the family.

About fourteen years ago Mr Criser professed a change of heart, but never united with any church. There is encouraging reason to believe however that he was "spared to recover strength before he went hence to be no more." His remains were buried in the Marlinton Cemetery on Powell Hill, with every token of respect and affection due a faithful patriot and a true hearted friend and neighbor.

W. T. P.

Sudden Death.

Miss Ann Moore, aged about 30 years, who made her home with Hanson Auldridge, near Edray, died Sunday morning at 1 A. M., from bursting a blood vessel.

About 5 o'clock Saturday evening she had occasion to climb a fence, and jumped to the ground on the other side. As she struck the ground she felt an intense pain in the head which grew more and more severe until she died. She was conscious until about an hour before her death. About 10 o'clock her friends became alarmed and sent for a doctor, but she was dead before he could be brought.

The deceased was a daughter of the late Wm. D. Moore, on Elk, and was a half sister of Jacob S. Moore, the President of the Board of Education.

The interment took place at the Sharp burying ground, last Sunday; the services being conducted by the Rev George P. Moore.

The Last Hope.

"Well, old man, did your son pass the Civil Service examination?"

"No, suh, dey turned him down.'

"What was the trouble?"

"Short on 'ritmetic, suh."

"Anything else?"

"An' geography."

"Yes?"

"An' spellin'."

"Nothing more?"

"Nothin' more, suh, 'ceptin' his-t'ry, an' grammar, an' a few other things."

"Well, what will he do now?"

"Well, suh, he's des 'bout decided ter teach school."—Atlanta Constitution.

HUNTERSVILLE ITEMS.

Mrs J. C. Loury is in Baltimore visiting friends.

Mrs Agnes Loury is still an invalid, but is comparatively free from painful suffering.

H. S. Rucker and family are on a visit to Lewisburg, where the Greenbrier Circuit Court is now in session.

Mrs J. J. Beard's granddaughter Hallie Moore is with her father, Judge Moore, in Piedmont, for the winter, where she will attend school.

Mrs E. B. Vaughn has recovered from her attack of fever and is in very comfortable health. Mr Vaughn teaches the McLaughlin school on Back Mountain.

Mrs Carter, with her son Dennis, was on a visit to her mother, Mrs Rebecca Auldridge, at Ronceverte, who was severely hurt by a fall. She is a very aged person, not far from being 90 pears old.

The wire is being stretched from Driscol to Frost. Several private 'phones will be placed between the two points along Knapp's Creek. It is believed that by spring communication will be extended between Frost and Monterey and between Driscol and the Warm Springs.

Dr Moses Hoge, of Richmond, one of the most eminent ministers in the United States, was struck by a trolley car while driving a few days ago, and severely hurt on his right side, a rib broken, his face cut and his right ankle severely sprained. Much anxiety is felt for him all over the country. He is attended by Dr Hunter McGuire.

Quite a congregation gathered at Beaver Creek last Sabbath to hear a young preacher make his maiden effort at sermonizing. He is a son of William Sharp, who has lately moved from Clover Creek to Hacker's Creek, in Webster county, and a grandson of the late Alexander Barlow, near Edray. The text was Romans 14: 7–8.

A youth born in Huntersville, but now living elsewhere promises to be an honour to the place of his nativity and to West Virginia generally. He has been heard to say that what he desired more than anything else was to be helpful to his father, and to be able to make money enough to support the family so the father would not be obliged to work in his old age. He has about realized his hopes, and the story of that boys efforts to be more than self-supporting would read like a romance were it written up.

A Sure Sign of Croup.

Hoarseness in a child that is subject to croup is a sure indication of the approach of the disease. If Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is given as soon as the child becomes hoarse, or even after the croupy cough has appeared, it will prevent the attack. Many mothers who have croupy children always keep this remedy at hand and find that it saves them much trouble and worry. It can always be depended upon and is pleasant to take. For sale by—

Barlow & Moore, Edray; Amos Barlow, Huntersville; D. T. McNeil, Buckeye; E. I. Holt, Academy.

An Editor Sasses Back.

The low down contemptible lies that are being circulated about the editor of this paper have about as much effect on his social and business standing as the gnats that buzz around the Bunker hill monument have on that magnificent piece of architecture. We did not tramp into this town, but came here of honest and revered parents and no number of hobos can take from us that good principle that early training inculcated into our nature.—Calhoun Chronicle.

Wanted.

A good agent for Pocahontas County to sell the celebrated Powell Fertilizers, and prepared chemicals for making fertilizers at home. The Powell Fertilizers are recommended by the leading farm journals. For full particulars address, J. CALVIN SPARKS, General Agent. Persinger, Nicholas Co., W. Va.

CASTORIA.
Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher. The Kind You Have Always Bought

"ILLINOIS"
* BICYCLES
Are THE BEST Bicycles.

"ILLINOIS" MODEL NO. 12.

GRACEFUL OUTLINES
LIGHT RUNNING
SUPERB FINISH.

We can furnish any equipment desired.
SEND FOR CATALOGUE.
ILLINOIS CUTLERY CO.,
Decatur, Ill., U. S. A.

THE GY[illegible]

Last Monday a [illegible] Gypsies passed th[illegible] on their way south [illegible] They camped fo[illegible] Swago Creek. The[illegible] hundred of them, [illegible] enty horses, and a [illegible] wagons. They we[illegible] ped. Their usual [illegible] north in the spring [illegible] the fall, and so they [illegible] ful weather the who[illegible] This band was co[illegible] Gypsies, and repre[illegible] on wheels. The chi[illegible] man with gray side-w[illegible] they addressed as gr[illegible]

They did not stop long [illegible] linton. One young [illegible] ed to have his fortune [illegible] cents. He was asked to [illegible] silver in his palm for good luck. He held out a dollar and the woman muttered a few words and swiped the dollar.

The gypsy life has always been surrounded with mystery and romance. Since prehistoric times they have been wandering, the Ishmaelites of the Christian era. They have preserved the same characteristics and language. They are found in every European country and in America. We know them as Gypsies, i. e., Egyptians; French, Bohemiens; Italian, Zimgani; Danish, Tatars; Dutch, Heathens. On the whole, the Dutch have the most appropriate name for them.

The origin of this strange, wild race has been a matter of speculation from earliest ages, but within the last century it has been proved beyond all question of doubt that they sprang from India. This was proved by identifying their language as a daughter of the Sanscrit. For ages it was believed they had come from Egypt, and hence their name. The legend was that they were doomed to wander as a punishment for their inhospitable treatment of Joseph and Mary on their flight into Egypt.

In 1122 a German writer said of them: "Ishmaelites and brasiers, who go through the land cheating people with their tricks but not openly." Until the 18th century the kings of Europe tried to exterminate them by executing them whenever they could be apprehended.

Their principal characteristics may be briefly described. Physically, they are uniformly tawny-skinned, have prominent cheek-bones, black hair. They are cowardly, revengeful, and treacherous. The women are beautiful while young, but age fast in their squalid life. They are fond of bright colored rags and trinkets. They have no religion, and no word for God, immortality, or soul. They are fatalists. They have a sort of fetishism, the rites in observance of which a civilized man has never been allowed to see. They believe that after death they pass into the bodies of animals, and they refrain from eating certain animals. They are dirty, lazy, fond of dancing, drinking, and smoking. They have a talent for music. Some of the greatest musicians of the world were born in a gypsy camp.

Their rule of life is, briefly stated: "Be true to your people—be faithful to your husband—never pay debts except those owing to your kindred."

They can not bear continuous labor, and their constant dread is separation from "their free mountains, their plains and woods, the sun, the stars, and the winds."

The following is given as an example of their language.

Poraquel lucsipenabajo
Abillela un ba lichero
Abillela a goli goli
Ustilame Caloro.

(Translation.)

There runs a swine down yonder hill,
As fast as ever he can,
And as he runs he crieth still,
Come steal me, Gypsy-man.

From New Zealand.

REEFTON, New Zealand, Nov 23, 1896.

I am very pleased to state that since I took the agency of Chamberlain's medicines the sale has been very large, more especially of the Cough Remedy. In two years I have sold more of this particular remedy than of all other makes for the previous five years. As to its efficacy, I have been informed by scores of persons of the good results they have received from it and known its value from the use of it in my own household. It is so pleasant to take that we have to place the bottle beyond the reach of the children. E. J. SCANTLEBURY.

For sale by Barlow & Moore, Edray; Amos Barlow, Huntersville; D. T. McNeil, Buckeye; E. I. Holt Academy.

[illegible] POINT.

[illegible] preached an able sermon [illegible] Chapel last Sunday.

[illegible] to be the order of [illegible] Rose has moved [illegible] Creek, and W. T. [illegible] moved in with Thomas [illegible]

[illegible] boy in our vicinity [illegible] to take up his winter [illegible] natural ground-[illegible] from his con-[illegible]

[illegible] Smith, who had some [illegible] growth coming upon her [illegible] to say in praise of Dr [illegible] that through his [illegible] attention the growth has [illegible] completely removed, root and [illegible] and that the surface of the [illegible] is as smooth and natural as [illegible]

A singing society has been organized at Marvin, with M. F. [illegible] as president and Lee Moore vice-president, K. E. Hogsett is secretary. Upwards twenty persons have already joined. The society expects to hand in a good report at the next meeting of the County Association.

Some school teachers seem to be very much dissatisfied in this end of the county. The complaint is that so many teachers are allowed certificates and schools, when no certificate of Institute attendance is presented. Look out! The law of West Virginia gives sickness, death of a near relative, and attendance at court under summons as the only legal excuses for not attending institutes. Frivolous and petty excuses should not be accepted.

MUD.

3 Sheep Strayed.

I have on my place, near Mill Point, 3 sheep, marked on [illegible] and have had them several months. Owner will please call, prove property and pay costs.

Mill Point, W. Va.

F. C. MOORE,

Don't Watch This SPACE, but go to
L. D. Sharp's for Bargains!

Pocahontas County Returns

CANDIDATES AND PRECINCTS.	Marlinton	Academy	Split Rock	Mill Point	Huntersville	Edray	Frost	Dunmore	Green Bank	Trav. Repose	Lobelia
Johnston	70	106	42	76	63	55	27	41	116	44	34	674
Edwards	57	39	31	36	54	74	60	12	34	10	55	462
Osenton	70	106	42	76	64	55	27	40	116	44	34	674
Andrew	57	39	61	36	53	74	60	13	34	10	55	463
COUNTY TICKET.
I. B. Moore	66	107	43	75	64	51	32	41	113	45	36	673
D. T. McNeil	61	39	30	38	53	72	54	12	37	9	54	458
Amos Barlow	64	107	36	76	79	52	26	35	115	49	34	673
Geo P. Moore	57	39	33	37	36	74	60	17	34	6	55	448
Jas. W. Warwick	59	95	40	67	69	44	29	129	59	28	56	569
C B. Grimes	63	49	31	46	47	82	29	23	61	25	57	543

Pocahontas Cash Store.
November 17, 1898.

Ladies' Capes with Fur Collars, 70c to $3.00.
34 in. Trunks, $1.40; 36 in., $1.45; 38 in., $1.65.

Biggest Bargains in Underwear.
44c per Suit.
Ladies' Union "Oneita" 48c.
Storm Overcoats at $4.25

We hope those why were unable to get into the Store last Saturday on account of the rush will return again; we will be better able in the future to accommodate you. We call special attention to our line of Standard Fast Color Prints. 34 to 44 for SIMPSON'S. Very best made at 5c.

Yours for Bargains for Cash,

J. D. Pullin & Co.
Marlinton, W. Va.

WINTER OPENING

I have n't done much talking lately. I have been too busy. This is the busiest year in my history. I am in the field with my new line of fall and winter goods. My prices are hard to match: you cant buy honester goods anywhere. Do n't take my word for it, but come and be convinced. Here are a few pointers:

A GREAT BIG WOOLY BLANKET, 85c Cash
A GOOD HEAVY COMFORT, ... 69c Cash.
A Heavy Ribbed Ladies Vest, fleece lined, . . 23c.

PAUL GOLDEN.

The Levels News.

Edited by Payne Bros.

Vol. 1 Academy, W. Va., Nov 1,7 1898. No. 44

Market Report,
—Eggs 15c per dozen.
—Butter 12½ per pound.
—Oats 30c per bushel.
—Ginseng dry $3 per lb.
—Apples 25c per bushel.
—Corn 40 cents per bushel.
Hams 12½, Sides 10c, Shoulders, 10c per lb.
—At PAYNE BROS.

—Salt, $2 per sack, at Paynes'.

—G. L. Clark has been at home on a visit.

—Take your turkeys and chickens to Payne Bros.

—Poultry Day, Saturday, November 19, at Payne Bros.

—The telephone is a great improvement to our town.

—Colonel Miller started for a visit to his sister in Indiana this week.

—Miss Fannie Hayes has returned from a visit to friends and relatives in Greenbrier.

—William Curry, of Huntersville spent a part of last week visiting friends in the Levels.

—Miss Bertie Snapp, who has been visiting at A. B. Smith's for several weeks, has returned to her home in Virginia.

—Dry goods of all kinds—broad cloth, henriettas, cashmeres, outings, ginghams, calicoes etc.—just received by Payne Bros. Call and examine their stock before going elsewhere.

—Shoes, both ladies' and gents' at Payne Bros.

—S. H. Clark is quite ill yet but is improving slowly.

—Miss Cleek, of Bath, was visiting relatives here last week.

—The R. & G. corset of the best quality, kept and sold by Payne Bros.

—Ladies' winter wraps, capes and jackets at Paynes' call and see for yourself.

—S. J. Payne is in Baltimore, accompanied by his wife and little daughter.

—New ribbons, laces, velvets, feathers, etc., etc., of the latest styles at Payne Bros.

—J. C. Beard has returned from an extended visit to his daughters in the State of Washington. He reports a pleasant trip, and of having visited the battle field where General Custer was killed.

Best grades of Roller Flour at

G. L. HANNAH'S, Yelk, W. Va.
BARLOW & MOORE'S, Edray, W. Va.
J. H. CURRY'S, Green Bank, W. Va.
R. L. NOTTINGHAM'S, Dunmore, W. Va.
J. H. DOYLE, Huntersville, W. Va.

NOTICE.

SILLING & SLAVEN,

TIN, SHEET-IRON ROOFING,
GUTTER SPOUTING,
ROOF PAINTING,
FLUES, STOVE PIPE.
GALVANIZED FLUES,
SMOKE STACKS,
FRUIT DRYERS,
GALVANIZED TANKS,
AND CISTERNS.

Shop-Made Tin Ware Always on Hand.

LIGHTNING RODS.

Work Done on Short Notice.

Call or write to
SILLING & SLAVEN,
ACADEMY, W. VA.

In 1897 Mr Thomas McIntosh of Allentown, Tenn., had an attack of dysentery which became chronic. "I was treated by the best physicians in East Tennessee without any cure," he says. "Finally I tried Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. After using about twelve bottles I was cured and well."

Educate Your Bowels With Cascarets. Candy Cathartic, cure constipation forever. 10c, 25c. If C C C fail, druggists refund money.

The Pocahontas Times.

Andrew & Norman Price, Owners. "Montani Semper Liberi!" Andrew Price, Editor

VOL. 16, NO. 19 MARLINTON, WEST VIRGINIA, DECEMBER 1, 1898. $1.00 PER YEAR

WE PAY THE FREIGHT AND $15.95 IS ALL IT COSTS.

This 5-piece parlor suit, rocker, divan, and sofa, and two parlor chairs, highly polished frame, finished mahogany, and upholstered in velour or tapestry, large size, and suitable for any parlor in the land, $15.95 and freight paid anywhere on earth. Such a bargain as this you have never seen before, no matter how old you are, and never will again, probably, if you reach the century mark, which we hope you will. Further comment is unnecessary, except that if you want to know of thousands of such bargains, send for our 160-page furniture catalogue, and if you want carpet at such prices as most dealers can't buy for, send for our ten-color lithographed carpet catalogue, and what you'll find in these two books will teach you something that you'll want to remember for many a day. Remember Christmas is coming, and sensible people give sensible gifts which sensible people most appreciate. Something for the home is the best of all presents, and our catalogues will suggest to you what is best. Address (exactly as below)

JULIUS HINES & SON,
Dept. 99. BALTIMORE, MD.

LAW CARDS.

N. C. McNEIL,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

Will practice in the Courts of Pocahontas and adjoining counties and in the Court of Appeals of the State of West Virginia.

L. M. McCLINTIC,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

Will practice in the Courts of Pocahontas and adjoining counties and in the Supreme Court of Appeals.

H. S. RUCKER,
ATTY. AT LAW & NOTARY PUBLIC
HUNTERSVILLE, W. VA.

Will practice in the courts of Pocahontas county and in the Supreme Court of Appeals.

J. W. ARBUCKLE,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
LEWISBURG, W. VA.

Will practice in the courts of Greenbrier and Pocahontas counties. Prompt attention given to claims for collection in Pocahontas county.

W. A. BRATTON,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

Prompt and careful attention given to all legal business.

ANDREW PRICE,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

Will be found at Times Office.

SAM. B. SCOTT, JR.
LAWYER,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

All legal business will receive prompt attention.

H. M. LOCKRIDGE,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
HUNTERSVILLE, W. VA.

Prompt and careful attention given all legal work.

JOHN A. PRESTON FRED. WALLACE
PRESTON & WALLACE,
Attorneys at Law,
LEWISBURG, W. VA.

Will practice in the Courts of Greenbrier and adjoining counties, and in the Court of Appeals of the State of West Virginia.

J. W. YEAGER,
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

Prompt attention given to collections

T. S. McNEEL,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

Will practice in the Courts of Pocahontas and adjoining counties.

PHYSICIANS' CARDS.

DR. O. J. CAMPBELL,
DENTIST,
MONTEREY, VA.

Will visit Pocahontas County at least twice a year. The exact date of his visit will appear in this paper.

DR. J. H. WEYMOUTH,
RESIDENT DENTIST,
ELKINS, W. VA.

Will visit Pocahontas County every spring and fall. The exact date of each visit will appear in The Times.

J. M. CUNNINGHAM, M. D.,
PHYSICIAN & SURGEON,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

Office next door to C. A. Yeager's Hotel. Residence opposite Hotel. All calls promptly answered.

HISTORICAL OUTLINE.

Memoriabilia of Huntersville and Organization of the County.

PART II.

During the war Huntersville was burned by Federal troops sent in from the Union garrison at Beverly so as to prevent its being a Confederate depot for military supplies. When peace was restored between the States, Huntersville recuperated rapidly. Flourishing stores were carried on by Amos Barlow and J. C. Loury & Son, the farms reinclosed, improved methods of agriculture adopted, and at this time presents a more attractive appearance than at any time in all its previous history.

The more notable days in the history of Huntersville and of the county citizenship were the trainings and the general muster that would follow. For several years after the organization of the 127th Regiment the Brigade Inspector was Major John Alexander of Lexington. He would bring his drummer and fifer with him, two likely colored men uniformed in scarlet, like British soldiers, and were the admiration and envy of all the colored people. Some of the colored boys would say that they could desire no better heaven than be musicians and wear such red clothes.

When the militia regulations were modified the Colonel of the Regiment would train the officers for about three consecutive days before the Regimental Muster. These were usually seasons of much social hilarity, and the saloons reaped lucrative returns. The Musters came off in May, just after corn planting. More animated scenes were never witnessed in our county as the throngs passed into Huntersville from all sections. The song, the laugh, the jest enlivened the hotels. The street was thronged with crowds, passing and repassing.

About 11 o'clock the long-roll of the drum was heard, the Colonel and his staff appeared at the head of the street, and paraded the street preceded by drum and fife. On their return, the Colonel instructed the Adjutant to have the Regiment formed. The Colonel and staff would then disappear, and retire to headquarters. In the meantime the loud orders of the Captains were heard, for their men to fall into ranks, and, when formed, the Adjutant placed them in position, and then reported to the Colonel that all was in readiness. The Colonel and staff reappeared at the head of the Regiment. Three beautiful silken flags were put in charge of the color guard. The rear rank of the Regiment fell back a few paces in open order. A procession, formed of the Colonel's staff and color-guard, preceded by the band, reviewed the Regiment, stationed by the flags, and returned to the head of the Regiment. In stentorian tones, the order was given to close ranks and form a column of twos, and soon the whole Regiment would be on the march for a neighboring field, selected for the evolutions. The field just west of the town was frequently selected, and the one back of the courthouse was sometimes used. Two or three hours would be passed in the evolutions. The bugle would sound the retreat, the drum and fife take up "Bonaparte's Retreat from Moscow," and the whole column would prepare to leave the field and fall back on Huntersville in slow and regular order. Having formed in open order on the street the Colonel and staff, preceded by the music, had another procession to collect the flags. The color-guard was led to the head of the column, the Colonel dismounted, received the flags one by one, and each was saluted by the roll of the drum, and placed away for safe keeping.

After this the Regiment was disbanded, and then came the funny scenes that would require a very graphic pen to describe with due justice. Cakes, beer and something stronger were now in profuse requisition. The sun would sometimes go down, leaving a large crowd enjoying the hilarity of the occasion, seemingly sorry that muster day did not last a week, at least. "Tomorrow is Sunday and there is no use in being in a hurry to get home. Let us go it while we are here and have a chance," were some of the communications that were quite a strain to good morals.

Among the distinguished citizens of the county who were Colonels of this Regiment appear the names of John Baxter, Benjamin Tallman, John Hill, Paul McNeel, D. W. Kerr, James Tallman, W. T. Gammon, James T. Lockridge. David W. Kerr yet lives (1898,) and is the only surviver.

The next notable days were the Superior Court terms, when lawyers and Judges from abroad would be present and hold the courts with marked dignity, being out of reach of the voters and asked nobody any favors. Their decisions were above suspicion, and but few cases were ever appealed. Such as were appealed never amounted to any thing very encouraging.

The Circuit Judges in the order named were Judge Taylor, of Lexinton; J. J. Allen, of Fincastle; Judge Johnson, also of Fincastle, who died while attending court in Huntersville; Judge Harrison, Union; Judges Holt and McWhorter, Lewisburg, and Judge Campbell, of Union.

The Clerks of Pocahontas have been John Baxter, pro tem., Josiah Beard, H. M. Moffett, James Tallman, General William Skeene, William Curry, Robert Gay, and John J. Beard. The foregoing held both of the offices at the same time. A few years since the offices were divided and J. H. Pattorson became Circuit Clerk and S. L. Brown County Clerk. During war times William Curry was clerk and his adventures and success in preserving the records will be remembered as long as the county lasts as one of the most notable instances of official fidelity in the history of the State.

The important and responsible office of Commonwealth's Attorney has been held by Johnston Reynolds, of Lewisburg; W. H. Terrell, Warm Springs; D. A. Stofer, R. S. Turk, and L. M. McClintic.

The attorneys who have plead at the Huntersville Bar include such names as the following, besides those already mentioned: J. Howe Peyton, General Samuel C. Blackburne, George Mayse, Andrew Dameron, Captain R. F. Dennis, J. C. Woodson, Judge Matthew Edminson, F. J. Snyder, Judge Seig, C. P. Jones, L. H. and J. W. Stephenson, William McAllister, Judge Bailey, Governor Samuel Price, Dr Rucker, J. W. Arbuckle, T. H. Dennis, J. T. McAllister. The resident attorneys have been Captain T. A. Bradford, Captain D. A. Stofer, General William Skeen, H. S. Rucker, R. S. Turk, C. Osburne, C. F. Moore, N. C. McNeil, W. A. Bratton, L. M. McClintic.

The physicians who have been located Huntersville were Dr Sexton, Dr McClelland, Dr Porterfield Wallace, from Rockbridge, and Dr John Payne, of Waynesboro. Dr Payne claimed to be sufficiently proficient in fifteen trades and occupations to make a living by any one if required to do so. So far as known Dr George B. Moffett was the first graduate in medicine to locate in Huntersville. He came in 1843. Since then the Scott brothers, Howard & Archie, Dr Matt Wallace, Dr H. M. Patterson, Dr J. M. Hamilton and Dr S. P. Patterson have been resident physicians. The last named is the present resident physician and surgeon.

For many years a thriving business was carried on in the Harness and saddlery business. First by John Haines, Esq., who employed three or four hands. After him William Fertig, who employed as many, and handsome returns were realized by both. William Fertig finally went into merchandising. The business is now in the hands of Messrs Grose, father and son.

Before the peripatetic children of Israel brought ready made clothing in our county, tailoring was a good business at Huntersville. Messrs Campbell and John and James Holden, turned out a great deal of work. Three and four hands would be busy much of the time, especially in the fall and early winter, or when there were weddings in prospect. The shop was about where Judge Moore built his office. Weddings also gave the saddlers a goodly share of business. It was considered in good form for the bride to have a new outfit, horse, saddle and bridle. The groom would not think he had much of a chance for success, if he did not do his courting and visiting on a new saddle, all made at Huntersville.

The Haines' shop was on the corner where A. B. McComb merchandises; Fertig's, where G. W. Wagner's Hotel stands, nearly opposite the shop now conducted by the Messrs Henry Grose & Son W. H. Grose. For a long while, Blacksmithing was an excellent business, as there was so much horse-shoeing and wagon repairing to be done for the teamsters, and so few shops of any pretension anywhere near. Finley's shop stood at the intersection of the Cummings Creek and Marlinton roads. Three or four hands seemed to have all they could do. No traces of it now remains. Jack Tidd, a man of Herculean strength and physical proportions, and whose features are strikingly reproduced in the newspaper portraits of Senator Elkins, carried on the work in a large shop, that stood on the corner now occupied by H. S. Rucker's law office.

Jack Tidd was succeeded by William Dilley, whose skill as an artisan was thought to be rather remarkable.

The business is now in the hands of G. W. Ginger, and in all of its appointments, the present concern is a marked advance on anything previously established in Huntersville. For a long series of years however nothing seemed more flourishing than the Hostelry business in conjunction with salooning. One of the principal Hotels, and where the colonels usually had their head-quarters was located about where the Loury store house stands. It was conducted by Williams, John Bussard, John Holden, Porterfield Wallace, I. C. Carpenter and E. Campbell in succession, but was burned in the great fire of the fifties; The other hotel was located on the corner now occupied by the McClintic residence. It was on extensive and commodious building, and was flanked by a row of cottages, that were much sought after by the judges and visiting lawyers. This establishment was managed by William Gibson. John Haines and Davis Hamilion in succeesion, but was burned during the war, by the federal troops.

About the year 1848, license for salooning was refused by the court, and Huntersville thereupon become a place of national reputation in temperance circles for the stand taken against the saloon.

A saloonist gave a colored man a treat of newly imported spirits, under its influence he behaved rather insolently towards his widowed mistress Mrs. Matilda Craig a lady held in highest estimation by every one. She repeated the story of her troubles to a member of the court Col. Paul McNeel and he repeated it to his associates on the bench, and to their everlasting honor they refused to legalize the sale of intoxicating drinks, and so for fifty years with a brief exception public sentiments has so for opposed the saloon interests by approving the action of the courts.

W. T. P.

Against Delay.

Gather the rose-buds while you may,
Old Time is still a-flying,
And this same flower that smiles to-day
To-morrow will be dying.

Then be not coy, but use your time,
And while you may, go marry:
For, having once but lost your prime,
You may forever tarry.—Herrick.

Quay, without specially desiring to revive plum-tree memories, might well exclaim: "Shake!" when he meets a friend these days. The Times, Philadelphia.

By carefully examing the returns, Mr. McKinley will see that Destiny got her wires crossed in a few places.—The Tribune, Detroit.

County Sketches.

XIV.

THE HONEST MILLER.

The following is a posthumous fragment from the papers of John Potts, deceased:

"I, John Potts, write this in my seventy-first year, to recount some of the experiences of a life of temptation as a miller, my final victory over the flesh, and redemption from an evil habit.

"My father was a miller before me, and from my earliest recollection the mill has been a familiar place to me. The clean, white dust; the big water-wheel; the heavy wooden machinery of the mill have been with me all my life. My father taught me the business and we worked together. I remember noticing that more and more of the white dust blended in his hair until it was the same color night and morning. When I was twenty-three, he departed this life, his being the honest miller's end, and the mill and business descended to me.

"Now I know that it pleases the world to say that all honest millers have hairy palms, and I have been made the subject of this jest more times than I have hairs on my head. I taught myself to look when it was told me as if I had never heard it before, and to look at my palm as tho I did it involuntarily. I trust that the little harmless amusement I have thus afforded heavy jokers will be laid up to my credit in the great account hereafter.

"In a certain sense I was honest. Honest is but a comparative term at best. The poet Pope made a safe assertion, or as the boys say now, a safe hit, when he said, 'An honest man 's the noblest work of God,' for nobody has ever been brave enough to gainsay it. I have been honest,—for a miller; honester than people gave me credit for being, honester than people expected me to be, and therefore I can claim to be an honest milller. But that did not satisfy me. I wanted to be an honest man, and after a time I found it was easy if set about right.

"I have pondered on the law anent millers' tolls. The statute says he lays himself liable for damages if he exacts more toll than one gallon in the bushel. How much do they suppose the miller wants? When the bag of grain is left to be ground what does the customer care for a handful more or less. Why, if the miller would ask him he would not begrudge it. Neither would the miller hesitate to give his customer a couple of handfuls if he but mentioned it.

"They told me that millers and lawyers never served on juries. I was never anxious to serve on but one jury in my life. It was before a justice and I was anxious to have a crack at one of the parties, but he knew me and objected to me by excusing me on the grounds that I was a miller, but the jury that did get at him gave it to him worse than ever I would have dared to have done, and he was no better off by my exemption.

"After my father's death there was no one left to live with me in the old log-house on the green sod by the mill-dam, and I determined to get married. I have been told since and have come to believe that I was never a handsome man. My frame was too loosely thrown together, and my face seemed to have been slighted in the making. It looked like a face built to be sold at a popular price. At the time I was thrust into business I was in blissful ignorance that my rugged features were not calculated to attract the gentle sex, and I met with severe reverses when I tried to ruffle it in society.

"At that time It had never occurred to me that there were higher walks of life than the miller's, or that any of the girls of my acquaintance would have any objections to becoming a miller's bride. Then it was, it seemed to me, that I but lacked an opportunity to have my pick for the asking. It was not long before I began to have some sense knocked into me, and I trust that having been thoroughly humbled, my face suits an older man, 'full of dealings with the world,' better than a would be society man.

"I soon had my fling and settled down to business. The last time I made an effort to shine in society I remember perfectly. At that time I was one of Miss Mary Beaufort's many admirers, and Tom Payson, the son of the man who owned the mill just below mine on Muskrat creek was another. Tom was a good looking boy, and in time he would have a mill, and so I considered him a very dangerous rival. But Miss Mary did not marry a milller; she chose a lawyer, a profession that has much in common with us millers.

"The occasion to which I refer was a strolling company's performance given in the village school-house, and everyone was there, the young courting couples sitting together, and the house just packed and jammed. I had gone by myself. Of late, girls had shown signs of great deafness when I had asked them for the pleasure of their company. There was hope in my heart. One of the features of the entertainment was the prizes to be given to the prettiest girl, the handsomest man, and the ugliest man. I knew that Mary Beaufort would get one prize and I fully believed that I would get the other. I was quite happy in my chance to submit my claims to my friends and neighbors. I was a little afraid of Tom Payson, but still I did not consider that he was in the same class with me. As for the poor wretch who would have to accept the booby prize, I had never given him a moment's consideration. How nice it would be to have the people class Mary and me together; would it not prove to her that we were made for each other! I took very little interest in the performance until the time to cast the votes for the prizes. Then the showman said: 'Now, ladies and gentlemen, we will afford you an opportunity to settle a vexed question. You will decide who is the beauty of the evening. You will name her, and we will present her this elegant lace handkerchief. You will decide who is the handsomest man, and we will present him this valuable cane. You will decide who is the ugliest man among you and we will present him, by way of consolation, with a prize suitable to his condition. We generally offer a prize for the homliest girl, but our advance agent informed us that there were no ugly girls in this town. You will now nominate your candidates.'

"As I had foreseen, Mary Beaufort got the prize as the beauty. Several young men were nominated for the second prize, and I was astonished to find that no one offered my name. Tom Payson won it, and then the thought passed through my mind that I was very foolish to be sitting in a dark corner. and that it was very fortunate for Payson that I had not been put up against him.

"Then a man who had had a horse trade with me, put me in nomination for the booby prize, and nobody else being mentioned I was awarded the prize by acclamation. That was a rude awakening for me. The showman then produced the prize, which was a big goose-egg, The crowd roared with laughter, but I had the fortitude to walk up and accept it.

"I took that goose-egg home, and withdrew from society, attending strictly to business, and I kept the goose-egg to be used in my business. I removed the contents and used the shell as a measure to take that much from every grist brought to my mill, over and above my lawful tolls. I could fill a garner in a short time with it, and often when I filled it to the brim I would say to myself, 'Here 's to the good people of Milton who presented me with this little token to be used against themselves.'

"I kept the goose-egg for years, and a very valuable gift it proved to be. It was eventually broken, and then I had to use my hands. I was resting under no greater suspicion than otheer millers, but there was a time when I was accused in court of stealing, not bread, but water. It is possible that I have stolen in my forty-odd years of milling some 12,000 bushels of grain. I wish to confess this. The thefts were small and are out of date in the courts of this world, but time, which bars our sins here, brings them on post-haste to the day of judgment. I was never disturbed by the law. I think I was regarded as a good citizen and a useful man. I made money, and I think I might have married well, but I did not marry. I once ran for office and got thirty votes in the county, but I can explain that. Not that they liked me less but my opponent more. If they had not voted for Wilkins they would have voted for me. Dozens of them told me this and asked me to run again. I intended to do so but was too busy. I told my friends that I had run once and if they neglected to vote for me they could not blame me for not putting myself up again.

"I will explain how I got into court for stealing water. Tom Payson finally inherited the mill below me, and he told lies on me. I would have been delighted to have divided the patronage of the neighborhood with him peaceably, but he must try and steal my custom. We were not very friendly except when we met.

"In 1857 there was a big flood caused by a water-spout, and Muskrat Creek gutted both our mills. The stream was small and the mills were built near it. Payson said he would refit on a smaller scale and arrange so that his mill could be run on a low tide in the water. I heard about it and determined to build for a big tide, and I put in bigger machinery and a very large mill-dam. Payson had no dam at all and depended on the natural tide in the creek. The next summer came and we both were eager to make all the money we could to pay for our outlay for repairs.

"Then I shut off the water from Payson's mill. I would gather ahead and run my big mill at a great rate and Payson could only grind when I ground, and not one-third as fast. The word got out in the county that Payson could only grind when Potts would let him.

"One morning I went to the mill and started the machinery. There came a crashing sound and my big overshot water-wheel fell down. Someone had sawed it so that the weight of the water crushed it. I thought Payson had done it. I started to repair, and in the meantime I would let the water fill my dam and then opening all the gates cause a four-foot flood in the little valley below. Payson could not grind at all.

"Mothers would not let their boys play on the stream for fear of a Potts flood, and I drowned a venerable preacher who was crossing the stream at the wrong time.

"Payson went to law about it and I came to find out a lot of Yankees in New England had been trying the same game for years and years, at different times and the law had decided that they had no right to interrupt the flow of the stream in this way, and I had the pleasure of paying the cost and being restrained from interfering with Payson's grinding.

"As time went on I grew anxious about my many small sins, and four years ago I sold my mill and became an honest man. I hope I have not repented too late.

"There is an old comrade of mine a wealthy farmer, whose grinding I did for forty years. He never took as much as a grist to another mill. His loyalty will be rewarded. I calculate I must have stolen 1600 bushels of grain from him, by a rough estimate. I am leaving him $2,000 in my will as part payment of this debt. None of my customers missed the grain; may they not miss me in the throng."

The Pocahontas Times,

> Hear, Land o' Cakes and brither Scots,
> Frae Maidenkirk to Johnny Groats,
> If there's a hole in a' your coats,
> I rede ye tent it;
> A chiel's amang you takin' notes,
> An' faith he'll prent it.—Burns

Local Events.

S. B. Scott, Jr., is at Lynchburg

Miss Lucy Poage, of Poage's Lane, was in Marlinton Thanksgiving day.

Preston Clark with wife and daughter were in Marlinton last Wednesday.

A. M. McLaughlin and son Lee McLaughlin came up Tuesday to move their cattle.

John Adkisson and David Barnes were in Marlinton Thursday, looking for something to be thankful for.

The funeral of L. Gillilan was solemnized Monday at Frankford. He was a volunteer of the Second West Virgininia Regiment, and died of fever at Knoxville.

Don't wait for the rush for satisfactory poultry trade. Better come at the earliest date possible, and pick your goods while the stock is fresh, so you can get better selections and more careful attention.

P. G.

A. V. Barnesgrove, of Lewis County, West Virginia, was at the Times office Friday. He travels in the interest of Floyd & Bohr, Saddle and Harness Manufacturers, of Louisville, Kentucky. He expects to make regular trips through here.

Bernie Bosworth, of Beverly, was hunting last Tuesday, and accidentally shot himself in the elbow. The bone is badly shattered and he has gone to the Johns Hopkins, accompanied by Dr L. W. Talbot, who hopes the arm may be preserved if promptly attended to.

A lot of Christmas bric-a-brac at Pullins & Company's. You can obtain a present there to please the most fastidious. The goods are elegant, and as pretty a line as you would see in a city store. Don't go to the trouble of ordering something nice for the loved one until you have inspected this stock.

It will be of interest to know that the learned sages who read the goose-bone and tell of the signs that mark the kind of winter, fixed the first big snow storm of the winter for November 26, last Saturday. It says that the severest weather of the weather will be about January 10.

John Gibson had a narrow escape from death last week. A valuable mare was taken sick and got down with her feet against the manger. In turning her so she could get up, she lashed out with her hind foot and struck her owner in the face, breaking his nose. He was able to come to Marlinton Saturday.

Last Friday, as Lee Burner was coming to Marlinton with a two horse team, he saw a deer at Mrs Susan Carter's, one mile from Huntersville. It was a large doe and was badly crippled by a shot in the hind quarter. It ran right by the window of Mrs Carter's residence and kept the road in front of the wagon for over a mile. Mr Burner thinks he could have killed it with a rock.

The King's Daughters of the Green Bank Church will give an entertainment on December 26, for the benefit of the society. Admission 10 cents; small children free. In connexion with the entertainment there will be a Box Supper. A fine silk quilt will be sold at 25 cents a share. Any one desiring to purchase it may do so by sending $25 to the Secretary of King's Daughters, Green Bank, West Virginia.

Napoleon Perry, who formerly resided on Douthards Creek, beyond Driscol, died at Frankford, November 20, aged 53 years. He will be remembered as the person who was disabled by a runaway team more than a year since, and among his injuries was the dislocation of the spinal column. His vital powers were surprising, and the self-sacraficing devotion of his wife won the admiration of all. He was a devout adherent of the Romish Church.

At Hinton, on November 21, Russell F. Wickline was found to be dying from excess of opium. He held a profitable and resonsible position in the manager's office of the C. & O. Railway Co. He had the confidence of his employers and was a general favorite with the railroad people of all classes. He was 25 years old. Great indignation is aroused against the keeper of the opium joint, and it is hoped he will have to move on upon a brief notification.

A drummer came over Cheat last week from Randolph County. When approaching a log cabin on the road on the Randolph side his attention was attracted by the family looking at some object in the road near the house. The old man had a rifle, which he promptly carried back into the house when he saw the drummer. Presently a doe jumped out of the road and ran up the hill by the cabin. He drove on about a mile farther and his horse shied. He looked up and saw a large buck with a fine head of horns standing in the road in front of him.

Mr and Mrs A. S. Bratton, of Millboro, are visiting W. A. Bratton of this place.

Mrs Pullin, accompanied by her daughter, of Mill Gap, Virginia, visited her son, J. D. Pullin, last week.

The Gypsies left Marvin last Monday, with the exception of those occupying the tent in which the sick woman was sheltered.

Peter Warwick passed through Marlinton last Thursday on his way to Sawyers, on Williams Riv. River, to bring home the remains of his son, who died while working in the lumber camp in 1897. He was in a two horse wagon and he had a difficult journey before him. He decided to go by W. McClintic's camp and to return that way if he found in practicable. If not, the return journey would have to be made by Addison.

The Baltimore Sun, in speaking of the magnificent display made by the city markets in the matter of Thanksgiving turkeys, has this to say of West Virginia turkeys: "There is said to be no doubt that the finest turkeys come from West Virginia. They are corn fed turkeys and never stray into the tobacco fields, like the Virginia turkeys, or get scraps like the Tennessee turkeys. It is worth knowing that at Thanksgiving the hen turkey is far preferable to the gobbler, but at Christmas the thing reverses itself and the gobbler is the favorite. Why this is so no dealer or raiser of turkeys seems able to tell. It is simply turkey nature and that is all there is about it."

Football Game at Frost.

Tom, Tom, the preacher's son,
Stole a pig(skin) and away did run.
Frost was beat,
The pig was eat, [street.
And Tom sent flying down the

About hog-killing time every year the Marlinton football team has a try at the noble game with some neighboring aggregation of players. This year a game was set for November 26 at Frost, altho the goose-bone prognosticators and the United States Weather Bureau announced a storm advancing from the east, which really did centre at Philadelphia two days previously, where two teams played a "brutal football game,"—not on account of ferocious team work, for the men could not play hard enough to keep up circulation, but because of the cold and wet and slippery ground.

At Frost there was about 3 in. of light snow, and the teams got to work at 2 o'clock. The ground had a decided slope, but a constant wind was blowing up the slope and the Marlinton team chose to play with the wind at their backs. It was very noticable that the players kept their feet with difficulty, and the larger the man the less secure was his pride. It was risky to attempt anything brilliant, and the smallest and weakest members of the visiting team carried most of the honors for their side.

After 19 minutes play, during which time Douglas McNeill scored one goal for Marlinton, the wind and snow came on to blow great guns, and it was impossible for a man to distinguish his neighbor at ten paces. The ball was lost and the game adjourned sine die. The hurricane lasted fifteen minutes, when the players, spectators returned to the field and finished the remaining 71 minutes of play, during which time Slaven made another goal in the first half, and after the teams changed ends Yeager, by long runs of more than half the length of the field, scored two successive goals for Marlinton.

During the second half Frost played all about the Marlinton goal, and it was only the admirable work of the goal-keeper, Calvin Price, that saved the day. The ball was kicked out no less than twenty times, but was finally pushed through, and another goal was added by Aaron Sharp, just three minutes before time was called. The teams broke up with mutual cheers, to which were added three by the spectators for both teams.

The Frost team is as fine, athletic body of men as one could wish to see. There are eight kinsmen by the name of Sharp on it. Their total weight aggregate 1927 lbs. Their opponents netted 1596½lbs. in their boots. After the game the men relaxed training, and a most convivial evening was spent at Mrs Williams' excellent hotel.

Charles K. Moore achieved an enviable reputation as the efficient and impartial umpire, and will no doubt be nominated as one of the official referees of the Randolph-Pocahontas Football League.

It has been arranged for the Frost team to spread their wings and descend on Marlinton Saturday, December 10, if the day is favorable, when they will be given the freedom of the town. They are game, and given a footing on a fair field will fight to a finish.

Frost.—Chris. Dilley, W. B. Sharp, Aaron Sharp, Upton Sharp C. C. Sharp (Captain) (forwards.) Holmes Sharp, G. W. Sharp, Bert Reed,—Shinneberry, (half backs.) Grant Dilley, Butler Sharp, (full backs.) S. H. Sharp (goal.)

Marlinton.—Douglas McNeill, Walker Yeager, J. H. Bird, Carl Slaven, Clarence McLaughlin (forwards.) Harper Adkison, Frank King, N. R. Price (Captain) (half backs.) W. B. King, Lete Young (full backs.) Calvin Price (goal.)

"CHEAT MOUNTAIN SNOW-BALLS."

"Hog-killing" in progress, and qualified "pig-stickers" much in demand!

William Painter has a heart as big as himself. He is a typical woodsman,—true as steel.

Taylor Painter has been to New York. He will shortly publish a book of his adventures,—"away down East"!

Jake McAtee is going to Davis to the lumber camp. He says a workman, like himself, can earn a dollar a minute there.

All come out to 'Mingo Concert' on Friday evening, December 2nd at 7 p. m. Mingo String Band can not be beaten for melody!

Several succulent turkeys ceased their "gobble" last Thursday, and were "gobbled up" by hungry mouths on "Thanksgiving Day."

Ernest Hebden is one of the "right sort." He can put his hand to anything, and is not afraid to catch hold. He'll make a mark for himself,—just see if he don't!

We thought "Old Santy" had got to Mingo last Saturday; but, on closer inspection, it turned out to be a grizzly mountaineer of Cheat, who had got caught driving in the blizzard.

An Elk "pioneer" was told at Davis he could chop wood for his board. He fired up, and quit, returning to his mountain fastness, as quick as his legs could carry him!

Weather at present is cold enough to 'freeze a brass monkey!' The seductive nigger (conspicuous by his absence in these mountains) would turn white from cold, if he was located here!

Joe Miller can snore louder and farther than three men and a boy can see! He once snored clear through a partition, which keeled over, and smothered a man in bed in the next room.

Noah Ayers has "done gone got married." The boys gave him a "serenade." He says, "This 'ere batching ain't what it's cracked up to be!" No doubt he is right; but we have no experience!

"Squire" Coff is a capital "engineer." He just takes one good look, sizes up his job, and then pitches into it, in thorough workmanlike fashion. "Do n't blab, but work!" is his motto.

Edwin Hall was not long in embracing the "snowy opportunity," and has been for a spin with his fine span of bob-tail horses. He says "sleighing" is "boss"! And he ought to know! Sure!

The "mud-pies" have turned into "Snow-balls" this week,—and they are warmly welcomed by the proud possessors of sleighs, so it is a case of "jingle bells" and "best girls" for some time to come!

Mr Beaty is a Champion Blacksmith. He always turns out excellent work, and can make anything from s horse-shoe to a steam-engine. He invariably gives entire satisfaction to his patrons.

The Mingo Football Club has some "crack-a-jack players," who would have been more than useful to Roosevelt and his gallant Rough Riders, in the late Cuban War. Wait and see them run and kick in the great Marlinton match, fixed for Saturday, January 7th, 1899, at Marlinton.

Brothers Kyde and Guy Marshall are "good boys." They do their best to accommodate travellers, visitors, and their beasts, whilst Mrs Marshall "stirs her stumps" to refresh the 'inner man' at Mingo hotel, and "Aunt Charlotte" puts on the "jackpot" and cooks ideal "johnny-cakes!"

Anyone wishing to experience the glorious (?) sensations of a "switchback railway" is recommended to drive fast, in a road-cart, down the big hill into Mingo. The bumps and thumps will stir the most sluggish liver. Jim Baker (the "general utility man" of this district) and his gang have prepared a series of man-holes and booby-traps, so that it is quite an exciting pastime to dodge them, and you can thank your stars if your horse gets to Mingo without a broken leg!

People are enquiring: "Why did not Grews give warning when he felt tired and distressed, before his death?" "Confound these English. They never know when they are beaten!" was the heart-rending exclamation of Napoleon Bonaparte, when frustrated in his battles by England's "Iron Duke" (Wellington.) May they never "know when they are beaten," for the sake of Old England and her sons! Such was the case with Grews! He died like a true "Saxon,"—pure "grit"!

Liveryman Wilson, that 'Prince of Good Fellows,"—lately went to Beverly, with a wagon, to haul back a "billy-goat," but returned with "old man Prinze" (the Beverly "lobbyist") seated alongside him! Folk are wondering if that was the "goat" or not! At any rate, "Arthur" P. (who owns a noble farm down the Dry Branch) will know which side to range himself on the "Last Day," when the "sheep" are separated from the "goats!"

"Snow-Man."

To Cure a Cold in One Day.

Take Laxative Bromo Quinine Tablets. All druggists refund the money if it fails to cure. 25c. The genuine has L. B. Q. on each tablet.

MINGO.

The health of the community is good at this time.

The wind has blown down several haystacks in this neighborhood.

Miss Minnie Cramer, of Clover Creek, is visiting friends at this place.

Jim Baker killed a hog that weighed 535 pounds and has another that will weigh as much.

Miss Allie Salisbury entertained quite a number of young ladies at Mr Beaty's, last Tuesday.

H. B. Marshall and daughter are off to Baltimore and New York, buying a winter stock of goods.

Two young gentlemen were out late Sunday night, and on their way home were treed by a wild cat which kept them up the tree for four hours. Their shouts were heard by Edwin Hall, who went to their rescue and killed the wild beast with his two little dogs.

Bloomers.

DUNMORE.

Professor Wash Oliver was in town Monday.

W. K. Jackson is off to Greenbrier County.

Miss Lucy Kincaid spent Sunday in Huntersville.

A. K. Dysard has returned from the Valley of Virginia.

Mrs Harry Nottingham fell down stairs and broke her arm.

S. R. Kerr will go to Staunton with the wagon next week.

Mr and Mrs J. F. Patterson are visiting in Highland County.

The sick list: Mrs Mag Sutton, Mrs Ammi Kerr, Mrs Agnes Galford, Benjamin Lacy.

Last Saturday we had a Jim Heracani, or a North Western Billey that was very severe for this country.

The singing was well attended Sunday. There will be singing at Liberty church next Sunday, December 4, at P. M. Let all attend. Bring your books.

Loyd Williams is tearing off a big strip on Huckleberry Avenue. He is buying rabbits by the dozen, selling 16 oz. for a pound, and 36 inches to a yard.

The telephone line is completed to Green Bank, and the rates are very satisfactory: 10 cents for a message in the county and 14 cents out of the county; private phones $5 a year. B. F. McElwee deserves a great deal of credit for pushing the business to completion. The next thing we want is to connect with Highland at Mill Gap and and Travelers Repose.

Sallie Slipper.

DURBIN.

Dr Moomau was in town one day last week.

John Cassell killed a hog that weighed 500lbs.

Charles Middleton, the great hunter and gun trader, went and killed a rabbit.

Mr Gaul passed through town yesterday with 250 cattle for the new railroad.

A Literary Society will be organized at Sunny Side school house next Friday night.

R. B. Kerr is shipping from two to three thousand pounds of dressed poultry every week.

Miss Virgie Gillespie, who is teaching the Pine Grove school, was at home for Thanksgiving.

S. W. Kelly, the efficient clerk of R. B. Kerr, is away from here on a business trip to Green Bank.

William Ledbetter, formerly of Durbin, was married to Miss Maria Flint, of Randolph County last week.

William Hill and John Beverage are out to Beverly for goods for R. B. Kerr's store. He is doing a big business.

William Greathouse is erecting a new blacksmith shop at this place. He intends to employ two or three men before long.

R. B. Kerr fell and broke a rib while crossing the foot log with a trunk on his shoulder. The hurt is causing him a great deal of suffering.

A. J. Varner, who has been helping build the railroad from Beverly to Huttonsville, has come home to butcher some beef for the railroad hands.

Misses Pearl and Lucy Yeager and Miss Minnie Burner, accompanied by C. L. Burner, are visiting P. D. Arbogast, in Charlottsville, Virginia.

Good Luck.

YELK.

It rains and blows and snows and the boys go bear hunting.

Rev Sharp closed his protracted meeting at this place Sunday.

Ellis Hannah has returned from the Levels with his wagon.

Hogs are dying of cholera a few miles below here.

The farmers have finished husking corn and butchering is the order of the day.

The Pleasant Valley school is progressing quitely, for which the writer has reasons to be thankful.

William Gibson grew a pumpkin this year that measured 5 feet 6 inches one way and 4 feet 10 inches the other.

Teddy.

Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy can always be depended upon and is pleasant and safe to take.

MILL POINT.

Miss Etta Smith is visiting at J. B. Pyles'.

Miss Grace Wade has been visiting at I. B. Smith's.

Miss Maud Smith has been visiting her sister, Mrs Bessie Shafer.

Frank Moore went to Marlinton on Monday, and W. H. Shafea on Tuesday.

The protracted meeting at Marvin, conducted by Rev Dills, seems to be doing much good.

The Gypsy camp is near the church, and the Gypsies seem to enjoy the music and motions of Christians very much.

There is no doubt that men are created for the accomplishment of some good in the world, but the calling cannot be read from the heart of the hand. There is a science called astrology that will show to a man the exact calling or occupation for him, and no man can have genuine success unless he follows the pursuit he is made for. Mill Point now has a Professor in Astrology.

The camp of Gypsies now at Marvin is without a doubt the largest ever in the county. They are now preparing to leave, but for the last two weeks things have been kept stirring on their account such as horse trading, horse racing and fortune telling. The Gypsy mode of fortune telling is nothing more nor less than a sort of mind reading, accompanied by an acquaintance with human nature. By continual practice the Gypsy can with some accuracy tell with some accuracy their passions and desires, by simply glancing at the open countenance.

Home for Sale:—9 acres of land; good new house and other necessary buildings. Situated on public road, one mile from post office. Apply to

Mrs Bessie Shafer,
Mill Point, W. Va.

The Proportions.

It is a rule, somewhat severe,
But true as Deuteronomy;
There 's just one month of Christmas cheer,
And eleven of economy.
—Washington Star.

Quarterly Meetings.

Pendleton, Judy Church, December 3, 4; Highland, Fair View, Dec. 10, 11; Edray, Dec. 17, 18; Ronceverte, Mt Sidney, Dec. 31, January 1; Monroe, Central, January 7, 8; Greenbrier, McMillion, 21, 22; Paint Bank, Maple Grove, 28, 29; Rich Patch, Alleghany Station, Feb. 4, 5; Augusta, Sherando, Feb. 11, 12; Blue Sulphur, Hills Chapel, February 25, 26; Forest Hill, Petertown, March 11, 12.

D. C. Hedrick. P. E.

Two Pointed Questions Answered.

What is the use of making a better article than your competitor if you can not get a better price for it?

Ans.—As there is no difference in the price the public will buy only the better, so that while our profits may be smaller on a single sale they will be much greater in the aggregate.

How can you get the public to know your make is the best?

If both articles are brought prominently before the public both are certain to be tried and the public will very quickly pass judgment on them and use only the better one.

For sale by Barlow & Moore, Edray; Amos Barlow, Huntersville; D. T. McNeil, Buckeye; E. I. Holt

POULTRY DAY AT GOLDEN'S

Dec. 5 & 6.

I have been asked very often how to dress poultry. Some people prefer cutting the heads off. I will take them with heads and feet on, dry picked, or with heads and feet off gently scalded. In all events take care not to break the skin. Keep poultry up 24 hours without feeding before killing.

Paul Golden.

Concert at Mingo.

"All is Fair in Love and War, but Music is Fairer!"

Come to Mingo Concert on Friday, December 2, at 7 p. m. A good time guaranteed. Funds to be applied in roofing the Church.

Admission 10 Cents.

Have you Heard
About us
And our Bargains?

Ask our customers: They are your next door neighbors.

We are making prices that can't be matched by any "sweat-book" regular who expects you to help him out on losses sustained on goods that have been swallowed up by the ledger.

We call special attention to our 19oz. underwear at 27c. We control the sale of this grade in this county; we carry a large reserve in it and have a contract for what you want. Sweat-book regulars have to have 45 and 50c for it trust or trade.

Nothing but bargains pass over our counters.

You do not have to pay for some one else.

Respectfully,
J. D. PULLIN & CO.

The Levels News.

Edited by Payne Bros.

Vol. 1 Academy, W. Va., Nov 24, 1898. No. 45

Market Report,
—Eggs 15c per dozen.
—Butter 12½ per pound.
—Oats 30c per bushel.
—Ginseng dry $3 per lb.
—Apples 25c per bushel.
—Corn 40 cents per bushel.
Hams 12½, Sides 10c, Shoulders, 10c per lb.

—At Payne Bros.

—Salt, $2 per sack, at Paynes'.

—G. L. Clark has been at home on a visit.

—Take your turkeys and chickens to Payne Bros.

—A new line of men's hats just received at Payne Bros.

—Linseed oil and paints very low at Payne Bros.

—New dress goods at Payne Bros., very cheap. Call and see.

—Ladies and gents gloves of latest styles and best quality at Payne Bros.

—Ladies' winter wraps, capes and jackets at Paynes' call and see for yourself.

—Call at Paynes' and buy your new winter hat. They have just received a large line of millinery and are selling cheap.

—Dry goods of all kinds—broad cloth, henriettas, cashmeres, outings, ginghams, calicoes etc., just received by Payne Bros. Call and examine their stock before going elsewhere.

—Shoes, both ladies' and gents' at Payne Bros.

—The R. & G. corset, of the best quality, kept and sold by Payne Bros.

DO YOU TRAVEL

Are you going to take a trip! Do you suffer from Severe Headaches, Nervousness, Seasickness or Exhaustion? Why not prevent it all by using CUSHMAN'S MENTHOL INHALER. Help that headache, cure that nervousness and seasickness by the use of this Inhaler, the greatest stimulant and preventative known. Wonderful relief in Hay Fever and Asthma. BUY CUSHMAN'S INHALER and you will always use it. If you can't get it at Druggists send for it. By mail, 50 cents. Send for Book on Menthol, free. CUSHMAN DRUG CO., VINCENNES, IND., U. S. A.

CASTORIA.

Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher. The Kind You Have Always Bought

AGENTS WANTED.

To sell to the consumers our Teas, Coffees, Baking Powders, Spices, Extracts, Soaps, Starches, Chocolates, etc Address Grand Union Tea Company, 38 Baltimore St., Cumberland, Md.

Best grades of Roller Flour at

G. L. HANNAH'S,
Yelk, W. Va.
BARLOW & MOORE'S,
Edray, W. Va.
J. H. CURRY'S,
Green Bank, W. Va.
R. L. NOTTINGHAM'S,
Dunmore, W. Va.
J. H. DOYLE,
Huntersville, W. Va.

..THE GIPSY..
COMBINATION ANVIL, VISE
..AND DRILLING MACHINE..

Combines Four Different Tools, ANVIL, STRAIGHT VISE, PIPE VISE and DRILL PRESS. Weighs 55 pounds. It is put up for service, and with proper care

WILL LAST A LIFETIME.

The Anvil is 7 inches high, 12 inches long and 4-inch face. Vise Jaw 5½ inches wide and opens out 8 inches. The Drill Spindle is made for square shank drills. The Spindle can be slipped out of its bearings and laid by when not using the drill. This machine is INTENDED FOR FARMERS.

In fact every family should have one to do repairing about the place. Will not cost more than a single tool if bought separate.

Send for circulars and price.

BONNEY VISE AND TOOL WORKS,
3015 Chestnut St., PHILADELPHIA, PA.

Don't Tobacco Spit and Smoke Your Life Away.

To quit tobacco easily and forever, be magnetic, full of life, nerve and vigor, take No-To-Bac, the wonder-worker, that makes weak men strong. All druggists, 50c or $1. Cure guaranteed. Booklet and sample free. Address Sterling Remedy Co., Chicago or New York.

$18. IMPROVED SINGER. FREIGHT PREPAID.

For this style new high arm sewing machine with all attachments warranted 10 years. If machine is not satisfactory in 30 days money will be refunded. Send cash with order. Descriptive circulars sent on application.

[illegible] MFG CO., [illegible] LOUISVILLE, KY

The Pocahontas Times.

Andrew & Norman Price, Owners. "Montani Semper Liberi!" Andrew Price, Editor

VOL. 16, NO. 20 MARLINTON, WEST VIRGINIA, DECEMBER 8, 1898. $1.00 PER YEAR

WE PAY THE FREIGHT AND $15.95 IS ALL IT COSTS.

This 5-piece parlor suit, rocker, divan, and sofa, and two parlor chairs, highly polished frame, finished mahogany, and upholstered in velour or tapestry, largest size, and suitable for any parlor in the land, $15 95 and freight paid anywhere on earth. Such a bargain as this you have never seen before, no matter how old you are, and never will again, probably, if you reach the century mark, which we hope you will. Further comment is unnecessary, except that if you want to know of thousands of such bargains, send for our 160-page furniture catalogue, and if you want carpet at such prices as most dealers can't buy for, send for our ten-color lithographed carpet catalogue, and what you'll find in these two books will teach you something that you'll want to remember for many a day. Remember Christmas is coming, and sensible people give sensible gifts which sensible people most appreciate. Something for the home is the best of all presents, and our catalogues will suggest to you what is best. Address (exactly as below)

JULIUS HINES & SON,
Dept. 909. BALTIMORE, MD.

LAW CARDS.

N. C. McNEIL,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

Will practice in the Courts of Pocahontas and adjoining counties and in the Court of Appeals of the State of West Virginia.

L. M. McCLINTIC,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

Will practice in the Courts of Pocahontas and adjoining counties and in the Supreme Court of Appeals.

H. S. RUCKER,
ATTY. AT LAW & NOTARY PUBLIC
HUNTERSVILLE, W. VA.

Will practice in the courts of Pocahontas county and in the Supreme Court of Appeals.

J. W. ARBUCKLE,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
LEWISBURG, W. VA.

Will practice in the courts of Greenbrier and Pocahontas counties. Prompt attention given to claims for collection in Pocahontas county.

W. A. BRATTON,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

Prompt and careful attention given to all legal business.

ANDREW PRICE,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

Will be found at Times Office.

SAM. B. SCOTT, JR.
LAWYER,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

All legal business will receive prompt attention.

H. M. LOCKRIDGE,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
HUNTERSVILLE, W. VA.

Prompt and careful attention given all legal work.

JOHN A. PRESTON FRED. WALLACE
PRESTON & WALLACE,
Attorneys at Law,
LEWISBURG, W. VA.

Will practice in the Courts of Greenbrier and adjoining counties, and in the Court of Appeals of the State of West Virginia.

J. W. YEAGER,
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

Prompt attention given to collections

T. S. McNEEL,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

Will practice in the Courts of Pocahontas and adjoining counties.

PHYSICIANS' CARDS.

DR. O. J. CAMPBELL,
DENTIST,
MONTEREY, VA.

Will visit Pocahontas County at least twice a year. The exact date of his visit will appear in this paper.

DR. J. H. WEYMOUTH,
RESIDENT DENTIST,
ELKINS, W. VA.

Will visit Pocahontas County every spring and fall. The exact date of each visit will appear in The Times.

J. M. CUNNINGHAM, M. D.,
PHYSICIAN & SURGEON,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

Office next door to C. A. Yeager's Hotel. Residence opposite Hotel. All calls promptly answered.

Belief.

When boughs are shaken of bloom
and leaves drifting, too,
I would recall their first perfume and the sunlight sifting through;
When fields lie barren without,
and bitter frosts are come,
Bid me not hear the winds of doubt that with the derkness roam.

When hours grow dim and gray, and the song of the years is sung
Leave me the thrill of the dawning day in a heart that is young, is young!
Tho hope be a blossom whirled,
and time doth pillage and win,
Let me hearken the pulse of the world, and learn of the truth therein.

Ay, tho my dreams shall pale while night but an ember lures,
Let me believe, tho its light shall fail, that love, that love endures!
—The Bookman.

HISTORICAL OUTLINE.

Memorialbilia of Huntersville and Organization of the County.

PART III.

In regard to educational interests Huntersville has had some good schools. About the year 1841 a chartered Academy was built near the place now occupied by Dr S. P. Patterson's elegant residence. The names of the teachers, as now remembered, were J. C. Humphries, from Greenville, Augusta; A. Crawford, from Brownsburg, Virginia; Reverend T. P. W. Magruder, from Maryland; J. W. Price, and a Professor Miller, from Pennsylvania.

To Huntersville is due the distinction of being the first place in Pocahontas where a Sunday-school was held throughout the year,—an "evergreen Sunday-school." Late in the year of 1839, Reverend J. M. Harris, a young minister in broken health, was advised to come to the mountains as a relief for malignant bronchial troubles. He was a native of Pennsylvania, and in his preparation for the ministry he was a student of such brilliant promise that he was called to do his first preaching by a church in New Orleans. His charge has since become the foremost Presbyterian church in the city and achieved a national reputation under the ministry of Reverend Doctor Palmer.

For a time it looked as if Mr Harris were destined to be a pulpit star of the first magnitude. Nervous prostration and bronchial affection disabled him, and he resorted to the Virginia mountains as his forlorn hope for health. In a few weeks after reaching Huntersville he opened school and also gathered a Sabbath - school. His school-room was in a building near where the Methodist church now stands, and was in after years used by Dr Matt Wallace as a physician's office. After a sojourn at Huntersville for a year or two, his health improved a good deal. It was in his room at Holden's Hotel, referred to as the military head quarters, W. T. P. saw for the first time what a Greek Testament and Hebrew Bible looked like, and came to the conclusion that it would require something more than human to be able to make any sense out of books printed with something that looked more like grammatical bug tracks and systematic fly specks than printed words.

When Mr Harris left Huntersville he went to Hampshire County. There he married a lady of considerable wealth, and lived for thirty years in an isolated mountain home, where it was high and dry. He had a fine library, the leading newspapers, reviews and magazines, and kept well informed as to what was going on in the world. He tried to do good when opportunities permitted, though expecting any year might be the last. Mr Harris was in early life considered the peer of Summerfield and both entered the ministry about the same time. Summerfield's career was brief, but brilliant and famous. Harris by coming to the mountains had a career that was long, but useful, obscure and happy.

The first published notice of preaching services at Huntersville occurs in the diary of the Rev S. B. Witt, a Baptist minister. He spent a year or two in pioneer preaching in Pocahontas, Bath and Greenbrier Counties, about 1823-24. During the time of his first visit to Huntersville there was a dancing school on hands. The dancing master very politely suspended when time for preaching came, and took his scholars to hear the sermon. Soon as the preaching was over the class reassembled and finished the lesson at a later hour. Here is an extract from Dr Witt's diary:

"September 18, 1824.—Preached to day at Huntersville to a considerable congregation. At this place there is a dancing school just commencing, and as soon as the meeting was over a greater part of the congregation returned to the ball room and commenced dancing. Oh, that I may be the honored instrument in the hands of the Almighty of bringing them to the knowledge of the Truth."

Dr Witt became a noted minister in Prince Edward County, and gathered a church of seven or eight hundred members on Sandy River. The writer, while a student at the Seminary, heard Dr Witt preach the memorial sermon of a wealthy citizen who committed suicide on his wife's grave, a short time after her death. The writer led the singing of the hymns. After the services he was invited to dine with Dr Witt by a mutual friend, and was thus able to make his acquintance. The venerable man had not forgotten about the dance and mentioned the Poages and the Callisons as persons he well remembered. Dr Witt was quite independent, even wealthy, and spent his old age in a charming country home in the limits of the grand congregation he had gathered in a pastorate of nearly thirty years duration. S. B. Witt, Jr., the eminent Richmond lawyer, is his son.

For many years religious services were held in the Court - House. Then when the Academy was built in 1842, it was used as a place of worship by Methodists, of all branches, Episcopalian and Presbyterian. The Presbyterian church afterwards became the place where all denominations generally worshipped. This building was erected about the year 1855. It was used for barracks during the war and was much defaced. There seems to have been a soldier who had a genius for vulgar doggerel, and the rhymes he wrote upon the walls would have made a genteel dog blush if he could have made them out. This genius evidently had no good feeling for a character he called "Mudwall Jackson," and it is a complimennt to that officer to have had the ill will of such a rhymster.

In the early summer of 1865 the Rev M. D. Dunlap and W. T. Price were engaged in the first sacramental meeting held after the war. A detachment of Federal troops from Buckhannon passed through the town, rode around the church, looked in at the broken windows, examined the horses with critical eyes, and religious services were going on all the while without even pausing. Sermon and sacramental services over, Mr Dunlap, who had rode in from the country that morning and hitched his horse near the church, went to get his horse and found it had been taken away as a "branded horse." In some previous raid this had been left to die. Somehow it had come into Mr Dunlap's possession, and put in excellent condition by kind and careful treatment. The venerable preacher had to return to his home at Hillsboro on a borrowed horse.

Ten or eleven years since the Methodist church was built on its present site, and so for the present the town is well provided with facilities for public worship.

Three or four years ago the Masonic Fraternity of Pocahontas County, represented by the Huntersville Lodge, having in its pale many of the foremost citizens of the county, needed a lodge room. Arrangements mutually satisfactory were made with the trusteeship of the Presbyterian church, and the building was enlarged and renovated in a very attractive style. The upper rooms assigned for the Lodge, and the lower for preaching services.

These memorabilia of Huntersville will now be brought to a conclusion. These papers must be regarded as tentative efforts to awaken interest in local history, call out additional items and elicit corrections where errors may appear in what has been written.

Nature seems to have maye marked Huntersville and vicinity as designed for something of more than ordinary importance. The locality is approachable from the four quarters of the earth by valleys converging here. The beauty of the scenery everywhere displayed is something phenomenal in the view of all who have eyes to appreciate whatever is picturesque in mountains, forests and streams. The air is pure and exhilerating. Mineral waters abound in profussion, chalybeate, alum and sulphur. The most remarkable however are the arsenious-lithia fountains that bubble up in the Curry Meadow, in volume sufficient to meet the needs of a world of health seeking people requiring the benefits of lithia remedies.

Governor Flemming, in an address made by special invitation at Pittsburg six or seven years ago, said that one of the most remarkable iron regions yet discovered in the known world lies north east and south west of Huntersville, with Huntersville near the heart of it. Should this be so, the future of Huntersville is simply wonderful as to possibilities, unless something be found out to supercede the use of iron in the future industries of the earth.

Persons who have made themselves familiar with both vales, think that the poet who immortalized the Vale of Avoca would have changed his tune if he had ever looked over Huntersville and surroundings from Punkin Hill. It would have been this way:

"In all the wide world there's no place so sweet,
As the vales of Huntersville where the bright waters meet."

Losing Faith in Pa.

I used to think my pa was jist as as good as he could be,
And I s'posed that he was smarter, too, than most folks you see;
When I was littler than I am I used to tell my ma
When I growed up to be a man I
'd like to be like pa.

I used to think abody's ma
When she got settled down
Was always s'posed to think his pa
Was the finest man in town;
But guess my ma do n't think that way,
Not very hard, becuz
She seems to have so much to say
Aginst the things he does.

One day I got some boards and nails and tried to build a sled,
And purty soon I banged my thumb and Moses! how it bled!
I hopped around there on one foot,
but it did n't stop a bit,
And then I thought I 'd swear and see if that 'd make it quit.

Of course, ma heard me lettin' go,
And then she come and cried,
And told me I had grieved her so
And hugged me to her side,
And said she wished that she was dead
And in her grave before
She heard me say what I had said
When I had up and swore.

"Well, pa he swears that way some times," I answered ma, and then She cried some more, and said she hoped I never would again!
'Not when I git to be a man as big as pa?' says I,
And she says: 'No, becuz Old Nick
'll git him by and by."

And once I tried to chew, and gee!
But did n't I feel bad,
And ma she cried more worse than me,
And both of us was sad.
And then, when I was laid out flat,
She knelt there on the floor,
And ast me if I 'd promise that
I 'd never chew no more.

'Well, pa he chews,' I says to ma,
'and so, when I 'm a man,
Growed up as big as he is, then I
'll bet you that I can!
And ma she said she hopes I won't chew, even when I 'm big,.
'Becuz,' she says, 'a man that does is nothing but a pig.'

It 's always that way when I say
That I would like to grow
To be a man like pa, some day—
She hopes I won't you know—
And I wonder if they 're all that way?
I wonder if your ma
Would rather have you always stay
So different from your pa?
—Cleveland Leader.

County Sketches.

XIV.

THE POSTMASTER.

With that class of fortunate mortals who are favored with the sinecure of a government office, and who handle our mails for a compensation, and are continually on their good behavior to save their official heads and retain their office with its emoluments, this article has nothing to do. He is familiar to most of us. His natural worth, and his labors for his party, together with circumstance, has elevated him to a desirable situation, and he is forever balancing accounts, studying the Postal Laws and Regulations, taking care to keep down the percent of mistakes; selling stamps; post-marking letters by beating a tattoo; and locking himself up in his little postmaster's castle to "change the mail," and then handing forth the letters with their messages of love, hate, or business, and all of them mysterious. That is the typical village post-officer.

The post-office Lastchance was not so elaborate an affair. It had its home and official existence in Hugh Bradley's sitting-room, and all the mail received and the paraphranalia of the office was to be found on a shelf nailed against the wall. The office had been established to accommodate the farmers living in a fertile valley and on the adjacent mountains. The mail arrived three times a week. Then the contents of the mail-bag were emptied on the floor before the fire-place, and old Hugh, who had been postmaster since the memory of man ran not to the contrary, (if that abstruse statement is permissable), would scrutinize each piece and pile it all together again on the shelf, and place what mail there was in the bag for the return journey.

The neighborhood was not given to letters. They received some papers, but to the majority of them a letter was not a thing to be lightly or frequently written, and the annual receipts amounted to very few dollars. Therefore the worthy postmaster could afford to be independent, and to be fully conscious of the fact that he was accommodating the neighborhood by giving bond and maintaining the post-office. Another thing which affected the revenue was the popularity af postal cards. They were very convenient, and while their use diminished the postmaster's salary, he had the satisfaction of knowing that he kept in touch with the events of the neighborhood. Letters usually contained the nonsense of youth, and were of no interest to a business man anyway. On several occasions he had judged that the message on the post-card was of sufficient importance to be forwarded at once, and he had done the neighborly act of putting a boy on a horse and sending it along. And his kindness was highly appreciated too.

An inspector had a memorable visit to old Hugh on one occasion. An over-confident young man, employed in the noble capacity of hired man on one of the farms had written to ask his heart's desire to correspond with him, and she, as many prudent girls do, had chosen the middle course of not answering the letter. Then the sick fancies of a deferred hope made the young man think that his letter had been lost in transitu and he made complaint to the Department and an Inspector swooped down on that section of country, bringing dismay and trouble to many postmasters. Old Hugh Bradley was in no wise overcome, however. The Inspector, used to seeing country postmasters quail and get as nervous as an old hen with a hawk in sight, was amused to see how calmly he received the news.

"My name is Powell, and I have been sent here to inspect your office and investigate a complaint."

"Well, you are an inspector then There aint been one of you here since the postoffice was established. I felt kinder slighted."

"I suppose you open and distribute the mail in a private room.'

"No; I just spread it out down here before the fire, and if anybody sees anything that belongs to 'em they just reach and help themselves," said the old man placidly.

"That 'll never do," said the inspector. "You keep the mail belonging to the patrons in a safe place, I suppose?"

"Well, yes, but I can't always be here you know, and I lays it out on yon shelf and the folks come in and sort out theirn."

"That is very irregular. I am afraid I will have to report very unfavorably, and you may lose your place as postmaster."

"Allright, mister, go ahead. The danged old office is lots of trouble anyway, and I 'm gitting up in years right smart, and it do n't come handy to me anymore, and my children 's scatterin' off to theirselves. I do n't take the interest readin' the postal keerds I used to neither. It 'd be the greatest accommodation to me if you could kinder induce one of my neighbors to take keer of it a-while."

When the inspector saw that he had no terrors for the old man he he took another tack and went to different farm-houses to find out the sentiment concerning Bradley's administration, and found that everyone was exceedingly grateful to and pleased with him as postmaster. He came back and spent the night with the postmaster, and reported that the office was in trustworthy hands and that it was giving universal satisfaction adding that it was one of those cases in which the postmaster was a public benefactor.

The citizens claiming Lastchance as their postoffice were all stock - raisers, and Hugh Bradly was one of the big cattle men of the valley. He had a magnificent grazing farm and had in his time handled a great number of cattle as a buyer, but at the time of which we speak he had in a great measnre retired from the field and made a deal only when an exceptionally good opportunity presented itself.

One fall the cattle market showed signs of very little stability. The price of cattle ranged from three and a half cents to four and a half cents per pound, and the price of droves sold to different people at different times varied considerably. There was a stock-raiser named Jenkins living about six miles from Lastchance, who had a drove of sixty fine three-year old cattle, and who had been holding them for a better price than he had been offered. It was a very desirable herd and old Hugh had made a pass or two at them. One September day he had ridden up to Jenkins' and looked at the herd of big, fat bullocks, all of a uniform size. He had become so enamored with them that he had bid as high as 3.90 for them, with Jenkids offering to sell at 4.15. This was the highest price he had ventured to offer for any cattle, and when he was out of sight of the tempting herd he felt very glad that Jenkins had not taken him up.

That very evening when looking over the mail that had come that day he found a postal card to Jenkins from Hiram McAfee, a wealthy cattle man from the other end of the county. He had been to look at Jenkins' cattle a few days before but had not bought them. Since then he had been to Baltimore and he wrote to Jenkins: "If you hold them cattle till I come up Saturday I will give you 4.35 for them."

This was not one of the postals that old Hugh thought necessary to forward. On the contrary the more he meditated on the matter the more certain he became that he had accepted Jenkin's offer to sell at 4.15. In a manner that is to be often noticed in men who have their consciences under good control, he became firmly convinced that he had bought that drove that day, and that he was in great luck and would sell to McAfee and weigh up to him at Jenkins' place, and make a couple hundred dollars without having to turn over his hand.

The next day he took care to meet Jenkins at a sale and there remarked to him that he guessed he might as well pay him something on the cattle to bind the bargain at 4.15 Both parties were very willing to sign a written memorandum of the sale.

Saturday came and McAfee did not appear at Lastchance. Old Hugh thought this a little strange and went to see McAfee, who would only offer him 3.90. After trying to sell the cattle for a month he finally was compelled to weigh them up to a northwestern buyer at Jenkins' place for 3.94. It was the saddest day of the old man's life. He counted up the loss on a blank page of his patent-medicine memorandum book and found it to be just $186.48.

It had dawned on him sometime previously that he had been the victim of a low-down, dirty trick but he and the two conspirators kept very quiet about. The construction that his friends put on it was that he was aging, and his sons were anxious that he let them do the buying thereafter. He repudiated their solicitude, told them they did n't know it all, and kept his own counsel.

A year passed and the time came to sell cattle again. Old Hugh had been educated, had paid for it, and wished to realize something on the investment. He laid a scheme along similar lines. He owned a grazing farm on the waters of Jumping Creek, and in that neighborhood was a postoffice like his own, kept by James Roseberry, with whom he had had many a trade in live stock. His magnificent drove of cattle had fattened on the Jumping Creek place, and he had been dickering with Roseberry for sometime, and there was, as usual, about a quarter of a cent between them.

Then Old Hugh went to see McAfee and laid his plans before him. Without referring to the game at which he had been victimized, he proposed that the same kind of a trap be set for Roseberry. Now McAfee had been feeling very good for a year over the hundred dollars that he had made the same way. He understood at once, and admired old Hugh's astuteness in trying to recover by the same game. The agreement was entered into. Old Hugh was to go on a certain day to his Jumping Creek place and remain there a week or ten days superintending some brush cutting. McAfee wrote a postal-card offering him 4.30 for his cattle.

Roseberry had been offering 3.85 and had been asked 4.10. Strange to say the scheme worked perfectly for the second time. Roseberry came up and in the presence of several men offered to close the bargain at 4.10. Old Hugh asked a day to consider, and sent to the office for his mail, telling Roseberry that he expected an offer from Hiram McAfee.

He received the postal card, deposited it in his big leather pocket book, and told Roseberry the cattle were sold.

McAfee was horrified to receive a letter worded as follows:

"I accept your offer of four dollars and thirty cents a hundred for my cattle. Your postal card just ariv in time as I was a considering a offer of 4.10 from Mr Jeems Roseberry at the time which I have refuse as the cattle is sold to you. As you say we will way the steers Oct 15 off of gras. You offer more than anybody else but I would have like to have got 4.35 for them."

The cattle were weighed to McAfee in due time, and for several years he worked mentally at the following calculation: "Made on Jenkins cattle $111; lost on Bradley cattle $304.20; total loss to me, $193.20. Jenkins made $111.00; Old Hugh, that (execrably bad) old scoundrel, made $82.20.

A tutor who tooted the flute,
Tried to teach two young tooters toot;
Said the two to the tutor,
"Is it harder to toot, or
To tutor two tooters to toot?"
—Exchange.

The Pocahontas Times.

Andrew & Norman Price, Owners. "Montani Semper Liberi!" Andrew Price, Editor

VOL. 14, NO. 31 MARLINTON, WEST VIRGINIA, FEBRUARY 26, 1897. $1.00 PER YEAR

IT TICKLES YOU
THE INSTANT RELIEF YOU GET FROM
LIGHTNING HOT DROPS.

CURES Colic, Cramps, Diarrhœa, Flux, Cholera Morbus, Nausea, Changes of Water, etc.
HEALS Cuts, Burns, Bruises, Scratches, Bites of Animals, Serpents, Bugs, etc.
BREAKS UP Bad Colds, La Grippe, Influenza, Croup, Sore Throat, etc.
SMELLS GOOD, TASTES GOOD.
SOLD EVERYWHERE AT 25C AND 50C PER BOTTLE. NO RELIEF, NO PAY.
HERB MEDICINE CO. [Formerly of Weston, W. Va.] SPRINGFIELD, O.

No Use Talking ABOUT HARD TIMES,

When One Dollar will Buy as much at Sol Davis' Big Store, as Two Dollars will Buy at other Stores.

I have literally plungsd the knife into my former low prices to quicken sales and the result is seen in the increased number of customers at my store. Do you want to share in the Bargains now offered in Clothing, Boots, and Shoes, Ladiee' and Gentlemen's Furnishing Goods, Dry Goods, Underwear, etc.,—if so call at

SOL DAVIS' Big Store.

AND GET YOUR BARGAINS.

We quote prices on a few things:
Working pants well made and durable 75c worth 1.50
Cassimere Pants from 1.25 up worth double.
Suits for men from 4.00 up worth 8.50
Boys' Suits 75c worth 1.75
Men's Overcoats 4.50 were sold for 8.50
A good pair of Ladies Shoes for 1.00
Ladies' Cloaks and Capes, this year's styles, at correspondingly low prices as every thing else.

We especially invite those who have not dealt with us. Come one, come all! Our motto: Quick sales and short profits. Thanking you for past patronage we remain

Yours Truly,
SOL DAVIS, Proprietor.
Green Bank, W, Va. Jan 29

The Pocahontas Times,

All Home Print,

Affords the People of Pocahontas County one of thebest papers for the price in the State.

$1.00 per Year

GIVES YOU YOUR COUNTY PAPER.

SUBSCRIBE!

Advertise your Wares and Wants
Our rates are always low enough to warrant your patronage.

• • • •

Our Job Department has been renewed, and we guarantee satisfaction. Wedding invitations and all kinds of work done on short notice

WE HAVE THE BEST PRINTING PLANT OUT SIDE A LARGE TOWN IN THE STATE.

Now is the time to Subscribe!

A NEW BOOK, "KNITTING AND CROCHETING," of 64 pages, over 50 original designs illustrated, beautiful lace patterns, shawls, hoods, jackets, etc. has been published by The Home, 141 Milk St., Boston, Mass., and will be sent with a subscription to that paper. The Home is a 20-page monthly filled with original stories, literary and domestic topics and fashions. Its department of Fancy Work is a special feature new and original designs each issue. The price of subscription is 50 cents per year and will include one of these books As a special inducement to trial subscribers, a copy of this book will be given with a 6 months' subscription. The price of the book is 25 cents, but a 6 months' subscription and the book combined will be sent for only 25 cents. Their annual premium list for 1897 will be sent free on application.

Polk Miller says that the only slave on his father's plantation before the war was his honored mother. We have no doubt she was the worker. The world will never know the weight of responsibility which rested on the Southern matron.—Farmville Herald.

But good wives and good mothers are always slaves, under all circumstances, and no emancipation laws or proclamations can free them. They are voluntary slaves; and their fetters are made and their burdens imposed by an ineffable love. God bless 'em all forever!—Norfolk Pilot.

BIOGRAPHIC SKETCHES.

The compiler of these pioneer memorabilia of John McNeel and his family feels happy in this opportunity to express his grateful appreciation of the assistance rendered by Captain William L. McNeel and Dr Matt Wallace.

John McNeel, the ancestor of the McNeel relationship in our county, appears to have been the first to occupy the Little Levels by permanent settlement. He was a native of Frederick County, Virginia, but passed much of his early life in or near Cumberland, Maryland. He seems to have been fond of athletics, and in a pugilistic contest his antagonist was so badly knocked out as to be regarded fatally injured. To avoid arrest and trial for murder he refugeed. He followed the trend of the Alleghanies. A long while was spent in their gloomy solitudes, and his sufferings of mind and body cannot be even imagined by any of us. Finally, going deeper and deeper into the wilderness, he at last came in view of the Levels, about 1765.

As he overlooked this section from some neighboring eminence he saw much to remind him of his native region. An extensive, wooded plain, bordered by mountain ranges of unsurpassed beauty, and very fertile. He decided, as every thing looked so muck like the old home scenery, to settle here; and chose a site for his cabin near the present home occupied by Hon M. J. McNeel. Traces of this cabin have been seen by persons yet living, between M. J. McNeel's gate on the public road and his residence. If the spot could be identified, it would be well to mark it with a piece of the marble recently found in such fabulous quantities close by.

Here the solitary man brooded over his supposed guilt, prayed with his broken heart for pardon, and hunted for his food,—subsisting almost entirely upon venison and trout. One day while hunting he met Charles and Edward Kinnison from, his old home; who had come out here prospecting for a situation. He learned from them that the person he boxed with was not dead, nor even seriously hurt. This was indeed good news, and then and there he felt free from all bloody stain, and he could return without fear of molestation.

Mr McNeel insisted upon his friends to share his cabin with him. He assisted them in making a selection for a home adjoining his tract. The three then set out on their return to the lower Valley of Virginia.

While on this visit home, Mr McNeel married Miss Martha Davis, who was born in Wales, in 1740; and soon after their marriage they came out to the Levels. A few acres were soon cleared off, plenty to subsist upon was raised.

Mr McNeel seemed deeply impressed with a sense of gratitude to God for his providential care,—after all his wanderings and fears to permit the lines to fall to him in such a pleasant, wealthy place,—that he built a house for worship—the White Pole Church.

In a few years the Dunmore war opened up. The three friends,—McNeel and the two Kinnisons,—went into camp at Lewisburg, and joined the expedition to Point Pleasant, October 10, 1774. They survived that eventful and important contest, came back, but not to remain very long. They went across the eastern mountains and enlisted in some company that went from Frederick County, served during the war, and then took up the peaceful tenor of their lives where they had left off. There is a pathetic tradition to the effect that while Mr McNeel was absent to Point Pleasant a child was born and died before his return. The mother with her own hands prepared the coffin and the grave, and buried it. So far as now known this is the first white child buried west of the Blue Mountains, and the first white funeral at the McNeel grave-yard. They reared five children two sons and three daughters.

Miriam married John Jordan and lived near Locust on what is now known as the "Jordan Place," owned by Isaac McNeel. They reared three daughters and five sons. The sons were Jonathan, Isaac, John M., Abram, and Franklin.

Their daughter, Nancy Jordan, first married —Callison, of James. Upon his decease she became the wife of George Edmiston.

Jane Jordan married Major William Blair, who lived west of Hillsboro, on the farm now occupied by J. G. Beard.

Martha Jordan married the late Joseph Beard. She is living now (1897) with Joseph McNeel, near Hillsboro. Lieut J. J. Beard, of Huntersville, and Mrs Isaac McNeel, and Mrs William L. McNeel deceased, are her children.

Nancy McNeel, second daughter of the pioneer, married Richard Hill, who settled on Hill's Creek; and is remembered as the person who escaped at Drennan's, near the mouth of Stony Creek, when James Baker, school teacher, was slain by an Indian, about 1780. Their daughter, Elizabeth Hill, married the late John Bruffey, of Hill's Creek, where some of her descendants yet reside. Among them is T. A. Bruffey, Esq.

George Gillilan married a daughter of Mr and Mrs Hill, but her name could not be recalled.

The sons of Richard Hill were Colonel John Hill, from whom Hillsboro is named; Thomas Hill Joel Hill, Abram Hill, Isaac Hill, and George Hill.

Martha McNeel the pioneer's third daughter, married Griffin Evans, moved West, and settled on the Miami River.

Our venerable pioneer reared two sons, Abram and Isaac.

Abram first married a Miss Lamb. Her brother, William Lamb, was greatly esteemed by Abram McNeel, and he named his son for him.—William Lamb was an expert artisan. Capt McNeel has a clock made by this person that is one of the most elegant specimens of its kind to be found anywhere.

Abraham settled on the land now held by Captain Edgar, and by Captain W. L. McNeel and sons, Henry and Joseph. There was one daughtea, Elizabeth, who was married to William Hanna, of Greenbrier County.

Abram McNeel's second wife was Miss Bridger. relative of the slain Bridger Brothers. By this marriage there were three sons,—Washington, who died in youth; John; and Abram, who went west.

The daughters of this second marriage were Margaret (Peggy), who married the late William Beard, of Renick's Valley, and she has been dead but a short while.

Martha (Patsey) married Bayliss Butcher, and went west. One of her sons practiced medicine in our county some years since,—Dr F. Butcher.

Miriam, another daughter, married Christopher Beard, and her son, Dr Beard is a prominent physician in Lewisburg.

Nancy McNeel married James Rankin, and lived on the Greenbrier near the mouth of Locust.

Mary (Polly) was a life-long invalid, and never married.

Abram McNeel's third wife was Magdalen Kelly of Monroe County. At the time of their marriage she was the widow Haynes. Rev. James Haynes is a grandson of her first husband. The children of this third marriage are Henry Washington and William Lamb.

Henry Washington has lived mostly in the West, and led a busy life for many years, and is there now. Captain William L. McNeel lives on the old homestead along with two of his sons. He has held many positions of trust, and has met the expectations of his most admiring friends in the camp, in the legislature, and in business affairs.

Isaac McNeel, the other son of the pioneer, John McNeel, settled upon lands now held by the family of the late Jacob McNeel, Hon M. J. McNeel, Hon W. T. Beard, and C. E. Beard, Esq. His first wife was Rachel McKeever. By this marriage there were four sons,—Paul, John, Richard, and Isaac. The daughters were Hannah, Martha, Nancy, and Rachel.

Hannah married Benjamin Wallace, of Bath County, Virginia. Her son is Dr Matt Wallace, an eminent physician at Mill Point. Her daughter, Rachel Wallace, became Mrs William Hefner, a prominent citizen of Braxton Connty, West Virginia. Her other daughter, Elizabeth, married Christopher Jordan.

Martha McNeel married David McCue, of Nicholas County.

Nancy, the third daughter, married William C. Price, late of Huttonsville, Randolph County.

Rachel McNeel married Jacob Crouch, of Randolph County.

In reference to the sons of the first marriage it will be remembered that Colonel Paul McNeel was one of the most widely-known citizens of his day.

John McNeel's sons are Isaac McNeel, of Mill Point, and Mathew John McNeel, near Hillsboro,—now member of the West Virginia House of Delegates.

Richard McNeel's daughter, Mary. is the wife of Hon W. T. Beard whose sons, Edgar and Lee, are well known.

Isaac McNeel served as Sheriff a number of years. and went west.

By his second marriage, Isaac McNeel, son of John the pioneer, to Miss Ann Seybert, daughter of Jacob Seybert, mouth of Stamping Creek. there were two sons,—Jacob and Samuel Ellis. Samuel Ellis died a soldier in the war.

The daughters of the second marriage were Catherine, who became the wife of Charles Wade, of Green Hill, Virginia; Elizabeth married Jacob Sharp, Esq., near Edray; Miriam married Joseph McClung, of Nicholas County; Magdalen married Dr Robert Williams, of Bath, Virginia.

This brings the chronicles of the venerable pioneer's family down within the memory and observation of the living. His life was of no ordinary interest. His righteous memory should be in everlasting remembrance. He was the first to "wail with judicious care" amid these mountains the hymns sung by his ancestry amid the moors of Scotland,—the Men of the Moss-Hags.

But very little, if any, of the lands he pre-empted has passed out of the possession of the relationship, now in the third and fourth generation,—a very remarkable circumstance in the history of American families. W. T. P.

The Sin of Profanity.

The Wise Man said: "There is nothing new under the sun," and sc we find it. Certainly the use of profane language is not new, tho there are times and places that seem to be terribly prolific of this wide-spreading evil. And people who speak profanely (if they use the pen at all) are apt to write profanely,—even printed books, good in other respects, are not unfrequently marred by the irreverent use of God's holy name.

It is a long time ago that our Mighty Maker drew up by the hand of His servant Moses ten safe rules for man's obedience. Among these ten there is one specially devoted to the keeping of God's holy name, with severe warnings to breakers. Would that the 3d Commandment were written in letters of fire before the eyes of all who speak God's name lightly! Under the old Jewish dispensation this sin was punished with death; and in the 24th chapter of Leviticus we read of an instance of this kind.

A thought has sometimes presented itself to me, that if it is indeed true of spoken words going on forever before us, the sound really never ceasing, as the ripple on the water made by a pebble; and these spoken words, every single one, to meet us at the end of mortal career, in presence of the Great Judge at His bar,—what will the swearer do then when all his wicked oaths come up to him?

Some persons under great excitement of feeling or to render their speech more emphatic (as they imagine) will utter God's name lightly, persons who cannot be called swearers, in the common acceptation of the term, yet they are wrong, all wrong in this, and commit sin in this for the name of God is holy.

God's goodness is great to us,—each single breath we draw a separate mercy,—and shall we use that very breath in insulting him, our Maker and our best friend?

A few men were once in company, and all swore save one; said he at last, "I notice you use peculiar language in turns, but I 've not had my turn—you 'll allow me that." Agreed, and, as he seemed in no hurry to utter an oath, they bantered him for delay; to which he solemnly replied: "My friends, when I can see the wisdom or use of flying in the face of the great and mighty God,—and till then I beg you leave off so foolish and so wicked a thing." And unwonted silence fell upon the company.

A. L. P.

The Union Soldiers.

In a recent number of THE POCAHONTAS TIMES, over the nom de plume of "A. B. C." an article appeared relative to the Union soldiers, or the men who enlisted in the Union Army from this county as regular volunteers, to serve for three years, or during the war of the Rebellion;—their names and rank.

Twenty Pocahontas men enlisted in Company I, 3d West Virginia Volunteer Cavalry, viz:

John Kelly, Sargent.
Perry Buzzard, "
W. H. Sims, "
C. O. W. Sharp, "
Peter H. Grimes, "
Frank Grimes, Corporal
Abraham Sharp, "
C. N. Kelly, "
J. B. Hannah, "
Beverly Waugh, 1st Lieutenant.

Privates in said Company.

D. K. Sims,
Zane B. Grimes,
Calvin Kelly,
J. H. Duncan,
Wesley Barlow,
Alfred D. Gay,
George W. McCarty,
Clark Grimes,
W. A. Kelly,
John W. Tyler.

Then there were soldiers from this county in other regiments, viz:

Andrew Wanless
Nelson Wanless
John Curry
Thomas Akers
William Cutlip
Jeremiah Sharp
Armenius Buzzard
Clark Kellison
Andrew Kellison
James Kee
William Duffield
William Duncan
Jasper Moore
David Moore
Milton C. Sharp
Brown Arbogast
George Arbogast
James E. Johnson.

It would be well for soldiers of both armies, now fellow citizens of our county would endeavor to collect the names of all in the war between the States.

Many of our people had great-grandfathers in the Revolution and in the War of 1812, yet we are not satisfactorily aware of it because pains were not taken to remember their names and deeds by their friends.

Let us try to let our descendants know our history,—they will be more than pleased to have it,—and they will keep us from being forgotten in years to come. Thirty years or more have elapsed since the war. The war being over, and no need of us anymore as soldiers, we came home and resumed our different callings in life. Many of those that wore the blue are now voting with those who wore the grey, and vice versa. B. W.

"THE word Jingo seems to have established its place in the language, and has taken on a certain character of legitimacy which may give it permanence. 'By Jingo' is a common Basque oath an means 'By God,' the dislectic formr of the word Being Jingo, Jinco, Jainco, Gincoa, Yinco, and Yainco. The 'Jingoes' (in a strict etymological sense) are therefore the swearers, those without moderation or restraint, prone to premature explosions, boastfol, vain, overconfident."—New York Tribune.

MAYBE it is Mr Hanna that is to bring prosperity after he gets into the Senate.—Atlanta Constitution.

The West Virginia University.

Mr Waitman Barbe, the Field Agent of our State University, has requested some members of the Law Class of '96, including the writer, to furnish articles to the several County papers setting forth as best they may the work and scope of this now eminent school.

It is difficult to state succinctly and clearly the various phases of University life and growth. They are as manifold and many complexioned as the various types of human nature, whose after lives are fashioned under their influence. A school is not to be classed or designated by endowment or architecture, but by the lives and deeds of men. Thus, the history of any institution of eminence is, in a measure, the index to to the advancement, secular and otherwise, of that section of country where its influence is most directly exercised. And as the people are advaned socially and intellectually by such institution, so it will reap the uniform increase of patronage.

Such, in brief, is the experience of the University of West Virginia. A child of the war, like the State, whose name it bears, its progress has been co-equal with the progress of our Commonwealth; and if West Virginia occupies to day an important place in the coterie of States, likewise its chief school holds an enviable position among the colleges of the country. The University however cannot lay claim to the title of venerable. Its first alumni are yet comparatively young men. And its critics, of whom there are not a few, especially in this section, that a just comparison of schools cannot be accomplished without reference to their past history, and the varying fortunes thro which they have passed. An institution is not to be condemed for its youth, nor too freely praised for its age. As an instance of the latter, we may mention the venerable William and Mary, which leans too heavily upon its staff of distinguished founders and advertises its age rather more than merit.

The endowment and equipment of our University are ample, and the statute laws, upon the question of its maintenance, make it practicably certain that it will never stand in need of pecuniary assistance. It has now six large and modern buildings, equiped and furnished with all the necessary apparatus for philosophic and scientific study. Its student capacity in most departments is taxed to the utmost; but its friends have recent assurance from the Legislature, now in session, that those departments will be enlarged.

Its faculty can lay claim to some distinguished and eminent men in their respective spheres. Professors Reynolds, of the chair of Metaphysics, Aldrich, of the chair of Applied Mathematics, and Brooke, of the chair of Common Law, are masters in their respective branches and have few equals. That its faculty is held in high esteem by contemporary schools is shown by the fact that they have had several calls from the leading colleges of the country.

Its location is ideally beautiful, healthy. Morgantown is a flouring town of some 4000 inhabitants, situated upon the sloping east bank of the Monongahela river, and from a scientific standpoint it cannot be excelled in the State. It has all the modern improvements and combines many of the advantages of a large city with the freedom and health of the country. A society that is rapidly becoming highly intellectual and refined is one of the most important attributes of the town and the student who is the least inclined socially may reap a lasting benefit in this direction from his stay there.

We bespeak a brilliant future for it. A school whose quota of students has increased with such unprecedented rapidity must have lasting merit. Its growth has not been spasmodic, but steadily progressive; and we are convinced that the young alumni, who reach old age, will have every reason to be proud of the Alma Mater of their youth.

The record of Pocahontas there is well known and does not need repetition. In athletics, as well as in the class room, she has established an enviable record. And her young men, who hope to be college-bred, will do well to cast their influence and patronage with a school so worthy and capable of fostering their noblest ambitions

W. S. W.

STILL DISSATISFIED.—"Well, remarked the wife of the man who has changed his mind about coming to Congress, "you have a clear conscience, anyhow."

"I know that," was the comfortless reply. "But a clear conscience was n't what I was running for."—Washington Star.

The Pocahontas Times.

FEBRUARY 26, 1897.

Local Events.

When writing to advertisers mention The Times.

Died: Hubert, only son of Dr James A. Larue, of Hillsboro, Pocahontas County, on Friday, February 19th.

Married: At the residence of the bride's mother, in Hillsboro, by Rev W. T. Price, Mr William Mann, of Edray, to Miss Verdie B. Clark.

The Marlinton school closed its regular session of five months on Wednesday. Miss Shearer will continue to teach a subscription school. She is a good teacher and should have the patronage of the people.

A penny in the pocket is a good companion—sure thing!—but to have a half-dollar in that same pocket is better. To get it buy six pounds of coffee for one dollar at the Golden Store, and see how easy it is to save the half-dollar.

Forest Beard of Academy was near being fatally injured last week On the ice his wagon slipped over a high bank. He jumped in the opposite direction, and escaped injury. The wagon performed two somersaults, but neither horses or wagon were materially damaged.

There was a terrific thunderstorm about the head of Swago last Sunday afternoon, between 3 and 4 o'clock. moving from South to North. Houses shook and the windows rattled, but the rain was not very heavy. The scene was truly sublime and interesting, viewed as it was from a safe distance.

The Ronceverte News speaks an an assignment made by Merrick A. Burr, on February 13, for the benefit of his creditors. J. M. Price is the trustee, assetts $4,200, liabilities 2,100. Mr Burr has been doing a general merchandise business in the Hurxthal house, near the County bridge over the Greenbrier.

The successful man always sticks to one thing until he gets there—So does the postage-stamp. From February 22d to 27 we will give absolutely free to every one buying as much as one dollar's worth of goods 1 pound best green coffee. This is our loss and your gain. Remember this is a cash sale. L. D. Sharp.

Andrew Young Adkisson, only surviving brother of the late Joseph Adkisson, of Swago, has been just heard from after an interval of nine years. He is in Oklahoma and has been blown out of house and home by a cyclone. He gathered up the fragments and rebuilt, and is getting along nicely. His wife was a daughter of the late John Auldridge, on Laurel Creek.

We learn that Captain Peters has finished sliding and is about ready for water. The landing is at the Burr place, in Burr's Valley, about six miles from the Greenbrier by way of Laurel Creek. The creek is about as crooked as a laurel-root, and the driving may be slow and hazardous. It will be something uncommon if the Captain fails to be on time.

When we sent those statements to subscribers outside the county, we expected responses to most of them. Quite a number responded with the cash, and many paid up a year in advance; but the majority have not been heard from yet. Hurry up, gentlemen, we will appreciate settlements made at this time. Our home subscribers are urgently requested to pay up. Do not wait for the bills we shall send out soon.

Rodes & Co. and The Rodes-Morton Co. and Col. John Driscol assigned in favor of their creditors, last week. The firm did a general merchandise and furnishing business and was one of the largest in this part of the State. They had a large Pocahontas trade and were well liked by all of their customers to whom they were very obliging and considerate. Col John Driscol was intimately connected with the lumber business in this county, first as a jobber and then as President of the St. Laurence Boom & Lumber Co. He is very much respected and liked by all who have ever had business with him and was fairly idolized by the men who have worked under him. The special cause of the assignment is not known, but the hard times brought it about.

The Staunton and Lewisburg papers speak feelingly admiringly of the decease of Dr J. E. Arbuckle, at New Hope, in Augusta county, aged 42 years. He was greatly esteemed as a gentleman and physician. He was reared near Lewisburg, and is survived by his wife and one daughter, about ten years old. Messrs John D. and Alexander Arbuckle are his brothers. Dr Arbuckle began his medical career at Green Bank and after a year or two went to Wanesbcro, Augusta county, where he married Miss Nannie Patrick, daughter of the late Maj. Wm. Patrick, He seems to have been a worthy member af one of the oldest families in Greenbrier, whose history seems interwoven with that of the county, from the earliest period down to the present.

PERSONEL.

Miss Annie King is teaching a private school in Col Levi Gay's family.

John Gibson, of Elk, was in Marlinton Saturday, and his visit to The Times office is much appreciated. He reports everything lovely and prosperous in his neighborhood.

O. E. McKeever is arranging to move to Huntersville in a few weeks and become a resident of that place.

J. W. Kinnison, near Hillsboro, was a welcome visitor at The Times office last Thursday.

The venerable Daniel Kellison, of Dry Branch, past his 85th year, has in a measure rallied from his late spell of prostration from la grippe, and is passing his old age serenely and comfortably. He is highly esteemed by all his acquaintances as a worthy man in all the relations of life.

Captain Jim McNeil's numerous friends will be pleased to hear that in the main he has passed a comfortable winter. He loves his country with all the ardor of his patriotic heart, but is sorry to say that he can see nothing good in the golden fancies entertained by our fellow citizens in power. He does not think the confidence is anywhere, outside of the better world, to be found to run a hundred billion business on a billion basis. Such a policy may answer when the millennium comes, but not before.

Mrs Clark Kellison, a devoted reader of The Times, has been an invalid all winter, but is at present much better, and hopes to be well when the weather settles.

The Brush school (colored) taught by J. W. Renick, closed on Friday last. Renick, by perseverence and industry, has advanced himself to the forefront of the intelligent negro population of this county. He takes charge of the colored school in the Levels soon,

Mr W. S. Wysong leaves this week for Addison, Webster County where he will locate for the practice of his profession.

Mr and Mrs Andrew Price have returxed from their bridal tour. While absent they visited Washington and Richmond and tntermediate points.

High Water.

The people of Marlinton were put to considerable trouble and inconvenience by the rise of the waters occasioned by the sudden thaw and the unusual atmospheric conditions the first part of the week.

The early settlers, who have passed unscathed through several "floods," were not much scared; but the later population were more or less alarmed,—some moving to higher ground Monday night.

The waters continued at flood for an unprecedented length of time, owing to melting snow. Razed fencing, washed roads, and a few outbuildings carried away, with flooded cellars and mud over everything comprises the extent of the damage here.

These floods appear to materialize at periods of about ten years, and the residents of Marlinton bear the loss of their property with what philosophy they may; and by the pleasure they took in looking at the spectacle of the rushing waters seemed to recompense themselves for the inconvenience and loss of sleep they were put to.

The logs of Smith & Whiting's drive are pretty widely scattered over fields adjoining Marlinton.

DESCRIBED BY "S. A. P."

Some years ago, when Marlinton was only talked about, before it had become the real thing it is now; somebody, I forget who, predicted that the town would be washed away, down the river somewhere,—color, starch, and everything be taken out at one washing.

Rememberin the prediction, we begin to get uneasy when it looks like rain. The river looked very ugly Monday evening, Residents of Marlinton thinking, perhaps, they had gotton into a bad bargain—a town that wont wash,—sat up with themselves all night Monday night, thinking fearfully of the water in the river.

The morning disclosed a good deal of water spread over the bottoms, but nobody washed away.

Sticklers for good measure may complain of a little shrinkage in the town; several wood-piles missing, some sheds and fences and pieces of walk gone, while in one place the road seems to be washed around to one side; and as for starch, nobody complains,—we are as stiff as ever.

On Tuesday the youth and beauty of Marlinton, quick to take advantage of the rise in the river, enjoyed the rare sport of boating in their neighbors' corn-fields and gardens. Many a boat-load of young ladies and gentlemen, embarking at the hotel steps, sailed joyously over the former site of Dr Cunningham's wood-pile, down thro C. A. Yeager's corn-field and back, their glad voices making gay what would have otherwise been only a desolate scene of copper-colored water, drearily swishing about through the fields.

Low Rates to Washington.

Round trip tickets—Millboro to Washington and return—$5,75 on sale 1st, 2d, and 3d of March, For Presidential Inauguration.

NO MONEY REQUIRED.

All the Editor Needs is Thanks, and He Will Get Out the Paper.

It takes money to run a newspaper.—St. John (Kansas) News.

What an exageration, what a whopper. It has been disproved a thousand times; it is a clean case of airy fancy. It does n't take money to run a newspaper. It can be run without money. It is a charitable institution, a begging concern, a highway robber. B'Godfrey a newspaper is a child of the air, a creature of a dream. It can go on and on and on, when any other concern would be in the hands of a receiver and wound up with cob-webs in the windows.

It takes wind to run a newspaper, it takes gall to run a newspaper. It takes a scintillating, acrobatic imagination, and a half-dozen white shirts, and a railroad pass to run a newspaper. But money—heavens to Betsy and six hands round, who ever needed money in conducting a newspaper! Kind words are the medium of exchange that do business for the editor,—kind words and church social tickets. When you see an editor with money watch him. He 'll be paying his bills and disgracing his profession. Never give an editor any money. Make him trade it out. He likes to swap.

Then when you die, after having stood around for years and sneered at the editor and his little jimcrow paper, please send your wife in for three extra copies for your weeping children, and when they read the generous and touching notice about you, forewarn her not to send 15 cents to the editor. It would overwhelm him. Money is a corrupt thing,—the editor knows it,—and what he wants is your heartfelt thanks. Then he can thank the printers and they can thank their grocers.

Take your job work to the job office and then come and ask for half rates for the church notices. Get your lodge letter heads and stationary printed out of town and then flood the editor with beautiful thoughts in resolutions of respect and cards of thanks. They make such spicy reading and when you pick it up filled with these mortuary articles, you are so proud of your little local paper!

But money—scorn the filthy thing. Do n't iet the pure, innocent editor know anything about it. Keep that for the sorded trades people who charge for their wares. The editor gives his bounty away. The Lord loves a cheerful giver. He 'll take care of the editor. Do n't worry about the editor. He has a charter from the state to act as a door mat for the community. He will get the paper out some how: and stand up for the town and whoop it up for you when you run for office and lie about your pigeon-toed daughter's tacky wedding and blow about your big footed sons, when they get a $4 a week job, and weep over the remains of your deceased wife when death releases your family obligations, and smile over your joy at your second marriage. Dont worry about the editor; he 'll get on. The Lord knows how—but some how.—The Emporia Gazette.

Notice.

All parties knowing themselves indebted to me will please come forward and settle up by the 15th of March, 1897, as I intend to make some change in my business.

George W. Ginger.

Huntersville, W. Va. 4t

Notice.

We hereby notify all persons not to trespass on our land, by hunting, laying down fences, or in any other way.

Nathan, Shearer & Co.

Notice.

All parties endebted to the late Pocahontas Herald on subscription, will settle before the 25th of Feb. 1897, and save costs.

Orin W. Slavin.

Marlinton, W. Va.

LOCAL.

CLOVER CREEK.

The sick in this vicinity are improving.

Feed is plentiful and stock looking very well.

It is hard to please the young ladies, tho some of them were over their valentines.

Mrs Sallie Ligon is improving and is able to walk about the house.

James Meeks has returned from Driftwood, where he has finished hewing sills for the new church, which is being built slowly.

Miss Mary Brown's school closed last Friday, at Driftwood.

Dr Ligon has been kept very busy for the past few weeks, visiting the sick of this neighborhood, and doing his own feeding.

Sam Higgin's hounds ran a fox thro Andy McCalpin's yard, the other day.

Dr Ligon crossed Elk Mountain in sleigh last week. He is the first man to cross with a team this winter. He upset and turned over several times, but he came out on top every time.

Died: Gracie Meeks, child of James Meeks, on Friday night February 5, aged 7 months and 27 days. "The Lord gave and the Lord hath taken away, blessed be the name of the Lord." A friend.

KNAPP'S CREEK.

There are more cattle-buyers than cattle, in this neighborhood.

Harry Wade, of Valley, was visiting in this section last week.

John Waugh passed down the Creek on Monday.

Sheriff Hill is in this section on business.

Messrs. Hannah, Hevner, Peterson and Johns were on the Creek buying cattle.

Miss Lillie Curry, of Huntersville, is visiting I. B. Moore.

Price Moore was at Marlinton.

I. B. Moore went to Dunmore on business last week.

Miss Lucy Sharp, of Driscol, is attending school at Frost.

D. B. McElwee and con went down the Creek last week.

There is plenty of feed here.

The people are beginning to make sugar.

Ham Moore has moved to Covington, Virginia.

There will be singing at Mt. Vernon next Sunday, every one is invited to attend.

Boys, do n't stay out late at night. The rabbits will catch you before you can get home.

Sherman and Will Gibson have rented Dennis Dever's farm. Mr Dever is talking about going West for his health, in the spring.

Prof. Lantz's school will be out in about five weeks. Bill.

DRY BRANCH.

We have had lots of snow and plenty of weather in the past two weeks.

Jack Miller is on the sick list.

Died: An infant child of Mr and Mrs Mac Wood.

Some of our friends attended the closing of Professor Simmons' school, on last Friday.

French Beal has gone to Webster to see his best girl.

Anyone wanting sleds on short notice is invited to call on Cameron Beal and Joe Miller, they can make one in three weeks.

Dave Lindsay is still at work.

W. H. McCloud and B. B. Earnhave been trading horses.

Floyd Ware will move to J. B. Wamsleys place soon.

Mr Arthur Lawson, of Mingo, has gone to his home in Engand.

The Elk Ironclads and the Mingo Red Shirts will play a game of football soon.

Clark Sharp has returned from Beverly. He reports the roads to be in a very bad condition.

There will be some weddings on the Branch, soon.

F. P. Marshall was here on business, last Saturday.

Meck Moore, of Elkins, is moving to his former home on Dry Branch. Whistle Cat.

YELK.

News is scarce at this waiting.

Pleanty of snow and cold weather. Feed plenty and stock wintering well.

The schools have all closed. T. M. McCarty's school closed on Friday. After partaking of a sumptuous dinner, prepared by the mothers, they played a game of foot ball, and then had a spelling bee.

S. M. Gibson is clearing for L. D. Sharp.

J. N. Hite made a flying trip to Beverly for L. D. Sharp our cheap merchant. He purchases the best of coffee at 17, 18 and 19 cents. Of him buy your coffee and fine tea. Here is your chance to buy a good pair of pants for $1.

G. L. Hannah is attending court in Webster. John.

Order of Publication.

State of West Vivginia, Pocahontas County, } ss.

At rules held in the clerk's office of the Circuit Court of Pocahontas County, on Monday, the 1st day of February, 1897.

Wm. M. McAllister.......Plaintiff

vs.

Mary Florence Adams, Thomas Adams, her husband, and C. R. McDannald, Executor of Mary C. Bias, deceased,.... Defendants.

The object of this suit is to obtain a decree against the defendant, Mary Florence Adams, for the sum of $626.16, with interest from the 1st day of January, 1885, on $497.26 part thereof, and the cost of this proceeding; to require C. R. McDannald, Executor of Mary C. Bias deceased, to sell the remainder of the lands devised to him for that purpose and apply the interest of said Mary Florence Adams to the discharge pro tanto of said debt, and to attach said proceeds and said interests in his hands; and to attach the undivided interest of said Mary Florence Adams as an heir of Margaret Gatewood, deceased, in the lands in Pocahontas County, whereof the said Margaret Gatewood died seized and possessed, to wit: The undivided one-half interest in 1.000 acres, lying on Big Spring Run, in Pocahontas County, and to have a sale made of said undivided interest, and the proceeds applied to the discharge of said debt.

This day came the plaintiff, by his attorneys; and on their motion, and it appearing by affidavit filed, that the said defendants, Mary Elorence Adams, Thomas Adams, her husband, and C. R. McDannald, Executor of Mary C. Bias, deceased, are non-residents of the State of West Virginia, it is ordered that they do appear here within one month after the first publication of this order, and do what is necessary to protect their interests in this suit.

Teste:

J. H. Patterson, Clerk.

Wm. M. & J. T. McAllister, p. q.

In France, wagon tires vary from three to ten inches in width, usually from four to six, depending upon the weight of the load. Were such tires compulsory in America, the present good road movement would receive a tremendous impetus.—Scientific American.

Oil News.—Messrs Haler and Stargardter, of Washington, representing the Ronceverte Oil Co., who have been in this section examining the geological formation, have returned to Washington. Mr Haler, who is an oil expert, says that there has been a tremendous upheaval in this section in ages past, and that it is impossible to determine except by actual test wheter oil exists in paying quantities. The company, however, is willing to spend at least $5,000 in the test of a body of land, say two miles wide, extending from Muddy Mountain east to Grassy Knobs in Irish Corner district, can be leased. The company wishes to begin operations by March 1, and we would suggest that those land owners, who have not given leases (within the area mentiened) should do so within the next ten days, so that the operations may begin at the date mentioned, or the enterprise may be delyed or perhaps wholly abandoned.—The Ronceverte News.

Mr Ward L. Smith, of Fredrictown, Mo., was troubled with chronic diarrhoea for over thirty years. He had become fully satisfied that it was only a question of a short time until he would have to give up. He had been treated by some of the best physcians of Europe and America but got no permanent relief. One day he picked up a paper and chanced to see an advertisement of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. He got a bottle of it, the first dose helped him and its continued use cured him. For sale by druggists.

$25 Reward.

I will pay the above sum for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the person or persons who wilfully and maliciously shot the saw at my mill on Laurel Creek.

Hamp. Galford.

Valuable Land for Rent

A valuable grazing farm of more than 300 acres for rent,—well watered and under good fence. Will rent or take in cattle by the month.

For further information call on or address

Allie B. McLaughlin,

f5tf Edray, W. Va.

CLOSING OVT SALE!

Intending to remove from Marlinton as soon as I can get my business closed out, I will sell my present stock of goods at a lower rate than goods have ever been sold here before, Come in and get bargains.

All persons owing me will call and settle, or their accounts will be placed in the hands of an officer.

S. W. HOLT

MARLINTON, W. VA.

800 Bushels of Good Seed Oats are for Sale at—

GOLDEN'S.

A $5.00 LOOK MOTHERS A RARE TREAT FOR YOU ALL. Boys Sampson Suit, with Extra Pair of Pants, for $2.76 AND WE PAY EXPRESS CHARGES TO YOUR DOOR.

REMEMBER, you buy direct from one of the largest Wholesale Clothing Manufacturers in America, and by so doing you save three Profits.

In Jet Black Dark Blue Oxford Grey & Olive Brown

OUR SAMPSON SUITS with Extra Pants Ages 10 to 15.

2.76

The above mentioned $2.76 Boys Sampson Suit with Extra Pants is guaranteed to be made from an imported Wool Cheviot, in Jet Black, Dark Blue, Oxford Grey and Olive Brown, in sizes from 3 to 9 years of age. They are made up as per cut below in double breasted with Sailor Collar, braided with wide surtasch Braid, lined with a fast Black Albert Twill Sateen Lining, Trimming and Workmanship throughout the best money can procure. Coat has 2 Side Pockets, a Top and Cash Pocket, Patent Waist Bands used on all Pants, also Pistol Pockets on all Pants.

In Sizes from 10 to 15 years of age made up as per opposite cut, Double Breasted with extra Pants at same Price $2.76. Expressage paid to your door.

In remitting send either Post Office or Express Money Order or Registered Letter and for measure send age of Boy at last Birthday and if large or small for his age.

This Style with Extra Pants

Ages from 3 to 9 years

In Jet Black Dark Blue Oxford Grey and Olive Brown

Our Price $2.76 Retail Price $5

FREE TO EVERYBODY our Illustrated Priced Catalogue in which you will find Boys Suits from 98c. up. Youths Long Pants Suits from $2.00 up and Mens Suits from $2.50 up.

OUR FACTORIES.

E. ROSENBURGER & CO., 204 E. 102d St., New York C

I have given Chamberlain's Cough Remedy a fair test and consider it one of the very best remedies for croup that I have ever found. One dose has always been sufficient, altho I use it freely. Any cold my children contract yields very readily to this medicine. I can conscientiously recommend it for croup and colds in children—Geo. E. Wolff, Clerk of the Circuit Court Ferdinanda, Fla. Sold by druggists.

She—What would this world be without love? He (remembering the opera and the supper of the night before)—It would be a blamed sight cheaper, for one thing.—Cleveland Leader.

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria,
When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria,
When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria,
When she had Children, she gave them Castoria,

Harvesting Machines.

I will furnish the JOHNSTON HARVESTERS and MOWERS this year from $40.00 to $45.00, according to the length of cut.

Yours respectfully,

C. J. HILL, Agent.

LOBELIA, W. VA. [f12 6m

ORDER OF PUBLICATION.

State of West Virginia, Pocahontas County, } ss.

At rules held in the clerk's office of the Circuit Court of Pocahontas County, on Monday, February 1st, 1897.

Clifton Forge Grocery Company, a corporation under the laws of Virginia ....Plaintiff,

vs.

C. C. Arbogast, W. B. Ellis & Ellis partners trading as W. B. Ellis & Co., A. Elhart, C. G. Joyner and M. H. Witz, partners trading as Elhart, Joyner, & Co.; E. M. Brown, George Blome and George J. Blome, partners trading as George Blome & Son; S. R. Sutton, H. S. Rucker, Charles P. Jones, J. H. Shears, J. W. Lukins, P. D. Arbogast, C. O. Tracy, Emma A. Tracy, J. Wesley Hevener, Old Dominion Building and Loan Association; and J. Taylor Ellyson and W. A. Bratton, Trustees..........Defendants

The object of this suit is to subject the land of the defendant C. C. Arbogast, lying near Green Bank, in Pocahontas County, W. Va., being 181 acres, more or less, to the payment of the liens thereon, and for general relief. This day came the plaintiff by its attorney, and on his motion, and it appearing by affidavit filed that the defendants, the Old Dominion Building and Loan Association. J. Taylor Ellyson, Trustee, and C. P. Jones, are nonresidents of the State of West Virginia, it is ordered that they do appear here within one mouth after the date of the first publication of this order and do what is necessary to protect their interest in this suit.

Teste:

J. H. PATTERSON, Clerk.

H. S. Rucker, p. q. f5

Lost! Lost! Lost!

Money Lost

by not trading with us. We mean business, as you will find if you give us a trial.

'The proof of the pudding is in the eating.'

Buy one bill of us for your own special benefit.

THE MONEY WE DO NOT SPEND PAYING TRAVELLING MENS' BILLS IS SHARED WITH OUR CUSTOMERS. WE SEEK NO TRADE THAT IS NOT OURS BY VIRTUE OF LOW PRICES AND HONEST GOODS. OUR REPUTATION AS Spot Cash Buyers bring us bargains that credit never saw. We give bargains; the prices tell the people, and the people tell the prices.

We will sell wire-nails, from 4 to 20 penny @ $3.50 per keg.

Best Granulated Sugar @ 6½.

Fancy Green Coffee @ 18c

Corn Starch 5c a box.

Elegant good Tobacco 25c to 35c per pound.

We will buy beef-hides.

We will buy beeswax and fur throughout the winter. Friends, do n't forget to give us your trade.

Yours respectfully,

L. D. Sharp,

LINWOOD, W. VA.

The Pocahontas Times.

ANDREW PRICE, EDITOR

Marlinton, Friday, Feb. 26, 1897.

Subscription ONE DOLLAR in advance. If not paid within the year $1.50 will be charged.

Entered at the post-office at Marlinton, W. Va., as second class matter.

County Directory

Judge............J. M. McWhorter
Pros. Attorney....L. M. McClintic
Sheriff................R. W. Hill
Clerk Conty Court...S. L. Brown
Clerk Circuit Court, J. H. Patterson
Assessor..............J. H. Buzzard
Com'rs. Co. Ct. { Amos Barlow
C. E. Beard
J R Warwick }
Surveyor..........George Baxter
Coroner.........George P. Moore

BOARD OF HEALTH—Dr J. W Price, L. M. McClintic, M. J. McNeel, R. W. Hill.

JUSTICES—Uriah Bird, Marlinton; A. C. L. Gatewood, Linwood; P. D. Arbogast, Green Bank; W. H. Grose, Huntersville; G R. Curry, Academy; T. A. Bruffey, Lobelia.

THE COURTS.

CIRCUIT COURT convenes on the first Tuesday in April, third Tuesday in June, and third Tuesday in October.

COUNTY COURT convenes on the first Tuesday in January, March, October, and second Tuesday in July,—July is levy term.

Business Rules.

When a subscriber orders his poper discontinued he is, of course, expected at the same time to pay up all arrearages.

No attention will be paid to anonymous communications. You need not sign your real name, but it must always accompany your communication.

On all job work our terms are cash, except in cases of merchants and others with whom we have running accounts.

LAW CARDS.

N. C. McNEIL,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

Will practice in the Courts of Pocahontas and adjoining counties and in the Court of Appeals of the State of West Virginia.

L. M. McCLINTIC,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

Will practice in the Courts of Pocahontas and adjoining counties and in the Supreme Court of Appeals.

H. S. RUCKER,
ATTY. AT LAW & NOTARY PUBLIC
HUNTERSVILLE, W. VA.

Will practice in the courts of Pocahontas county and in the Supreme Court of Appeals.

J. W. ARBUCKLE,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
LEWISBURG, W. VA.

Will practice in the courts of Greenbrier and Pocahontas counties. Prompt attention given to claims for collection in Pocahontas county.

W. A. BRATTON,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

Prompt and careful attention given to all legal business.

ANDREW PRICE,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

Will be found at Times Office.

SAM. B. SCOTT, JR.
LAWYER,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

All legal business will receive prompt attention.

H. M. LOCKRIDGE,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
HUNTERSVILLE, W. VA.

Prompt and careful attention given all legal work.

PHYSICIANS' CARDS.

DR. O. J. CAMPBELL,
DENTIST,
MONTEREY, VA.

Will visit Pocahontas County at least twice a year. The exact date of his visit will appear in this paper.

DR. J. H. WEYMOUTH,
RESIDENT DENTIST,
ELKINS, W. VA.

Will visit Pocahontas County every spring and fall. The exact date of each visit will appear in The Times.

J. M. CUNNINGHAM, M. D.,
PHYSICIAN & SURGEON,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

Office next door to C. A. Yeager's Hotel. Residence opposite Hotel. All calls promptly answered.

25 CTS PISO'S CURE FOR 25 CTS
CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS.
Best Cough Syrup. Tastes Good. Use in time. Sold by druggists.
CONSUMPTION

Poetry.

Help that Comes too Late.

'T IS a wearisome world, this world of ours,
With its tangles small and great,
Its weeds that smother the springing flowers,
And its hapless strifes with fate;
And the darkest day of its desolate days
Sees the help that comes too late.

Ah! wo for the word that is never said
Till the ear is too deaf to hear,
And wo for the lack to the fainting head
Of the ringing shout of cheer;
Ah! wo for the laggard feet that tread
In the mournful wake of the bier.

What booteth help when the heart is numb?
What booteth a broken spar
Of love thrown out when the lips are dumb
And life's bark drifteth far,
Oh, far and fast from the alien past,
Over the moaning bar?

A pitiful thing the gift to-day
That is dross and nothing worth,
Tho it had come but yesterday,
It had brimmed with sweet the earth;
A fading rose in a death-cold hand,
That perished in want and dearth.

Who fain would help in this world of ours,
Where sorrowful steps must fall,
Bring help in time to the waning pow
Ere the bier is spread with the pall,
Nor send reserves when the flags are furled,
And the dead beyond recall.

For baffling most in this weary world,
With its tangles small and great,
Its lonesome nights and its weary days
And its struggles forlorn with fate,
Is that bitterest grief too deep for tears
Of the help that comes to late.

—[Margaret E. Sangster.

DISEASE DOES NOT STAND STILL.

Every one is either growing better or worse.

How is it with you?

You are suffering from

KIDNEY, LIVER OR URINARY TROUBLES.

Have tried doctors and medicine without avail, and have become disgusted.

DON'T GIVE UP!

Warner's Safe Cure

WILL CURE YOU.

Thousands now well, but once like you, say so. Give an honest medicine an honest chance.

Large bottle or new style smaller one at your druggist's. Write for free treatment blank to-day. Warner's Safe Cure Co., Rochester, N. Y.

BEWARE OF OINTMENTS FOR CATARRH THAT CONTAIN MERCURY, as mercury will surely destroy the sense of smell and completely derange the whole system when entering it through the mucous surfaces. Such articles should never be used except on perscriptions from reputable physicians, as the damage they will do is ten fold to they good you can possively derive from them. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O., contains no mercury, and is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. In buying Hall's Catarrh Cure besure you get tee genuine. It is taken internally, and made in Toledo, Ohio, by F. J. Cheney & Co. Testimonials free.

Sold by druggists, price 75c per bottle.

Hall's Family Pills are the best

Gloom

Of ill health, despondency and despair, gives way to the sunshine of hope, happiness and health, upon taking Hood's Sarsaparilla, because it gives renewed life and vitality to the blood, and through that imparts nerve strength, vigor and energy to the whole body. Read this letter: "Hood's Sarsaparilla helped me wonderfully, changed sickness to health, gloom to sunshine. No pen can describe what I suffered. I was deathly sick, had sick headaches every few days and those terrible tired, despondent feelings, with heart troubles so that I could not go up and down stairs without clasping my hand over my heart and resting. In fact, it would almost take my breath away. I suffered so I did not care to live, yet I had much to live for. There is no pleasure in life if deprived of health, for life becomes a burden. Hood's Sarsaparilla does far more than advertised. After taking one bottle, it is sufficient to recommend itself." MRS. J. E. SMITH, Beloit, Iowa.

to

Sunshine

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Is the One True Blood Purifier. All druggists. $1. Prepared only by C. I. Hood & Co., Lowell, Mass.

Hood's Pills cure all liver ills, biliousness, headache. 25 cents.

WANTED—AN IDEA Who can think of some simple thing to patent? Protect your ideas; they may bring you wealth. Write JOHN WEDDERBURN & CO., Patent Attorneys, Washington D. C., for their $1,800 prize offer.

A Fortune in Prospect.

(Clifton Forge Review.)

This letter was addressed to Geo T. McClintic, of Covington, Va., by his relatives, A. J. and R. E. Daggs, lawyers at Phoenix, Arizona, October 7, 1896. Mr McClintic is a near relative of the Daggs family, and his many friends will be glad to hear of his getting a proportionate share of this hundred million of dollars:

To Mr Geo. T. McClintic, late post master at Covington, Va:

We take the privilage to address you upon a subject in which your interests are identical with ours. There lies in the heart of Baltimore, Md., a tract of land estimated one hundred million of dollars, that belongs to the decendants of Reuben Daggs and his wife, whose maiden name was Lydia Rodney.

This property was leased for the term of ninety-nine years which lease has now expired and we have almost completed our chain of evidence, but for lack of funds we have been greatly delayed in this matter.

Now, what we desire is co-operation of each of the heirs to this estate in giving us any information traditional or otherwise, about Ruben Daggs or his wife, (who was a daughter of Caesar Rodney, a signer of the Declaration of Independence.)

Send us any information you may have on the subject, also your pedigree showing your relationship to the Daggs family (however remote), which will show your right to inherit this estate; also send us two dollars or any sum you see fit, as a donation to assist us financially while we are devoting our time to the case. Upon receipt of the same we will register you as one of the heirs-at-law in this case, and as soon as we receive pedegrees of all the heirs we will have them printed in book form and your remittance will be credited as a payment on the book of pedagrees, and you will then be entitled to a copy, so you will at least know how many and who are your relatives.

Also send each of your relatives a copy of this letter or send us their names that we may be able to do so.

You can readily feel the importance of this matter, and will want the book of pedagrees. We estimate that the heirs will not exceed one thousand. We desire the cooperation of every relative, either by blood or by marriage. Help us if you can. Yours truly,

DAGGS AND DAGGS.

Footwear Nevers.

Dr Samuel Appleton, in Health Culture, gives fourteen of them, which every person will derive comfort in heeding:

1. Never wear a shoe that will not allow the great toe to lie in a straight line.
2. Never wear a shoe with a sole narrower than the outline of the foot traced with a pencil close under the rounding edge.
3. Never wear a shoe that pinches the heel.
4. Never wear a shoe or boot so large in the heel that the foot is not kept in place.
5. Never wear a shoe or boot tight anywhere.
6. Never wear a shoe or boot that has depressions in any part of the sole to drop any joint or bearing below the level plane.
7. Never wear a shoe with a sole turning up at the toes, as this causes the the cords of the upper part of the foot to contract.
8. Never wear a shoe that presses up into the hollow of the foot.
9. Never have the top of the boots tight, as it interferes with the action of the calf muscles, makes one walk badly, and spoils the shape of the ankle.
10. Never come from high heels to low heels at one jump.
11. Never wear one pair of shoes all the time, unless obliged to do so. Two pairs of boots worn a day at a time alternately give more service and are much more healthful.
12. Never wear leather sole linings to stand upon. White cotton drilling or linen is much better and healthful.
13. Never wear a short stocking, or one which after being washed is not, at least, one-half inch longer than the foot. Bear in mind that stockings shrink. Be sure that they will allow your toes to spread out at the extreme ends, as this keeps the joints in place and makes a very strong and attractive foot. As to the shape of stockings, the single digital, or "one-toed-stocking" is the best.
14. Never think that feet will grow large from wearing proper shoes. Pinching and distorting makes them grow not only large but unsightly. A proper, natural use of all the muscles make them compact and attractive.

WEYLER is getting things so systemized in Cuba that he can put down the rebellion, on an average, twice a week.—Philadelphia Ledger.

THERE are a few fanatics who will not be satisfied unless Congress appropriates money to build a fence around the Capitol grounds so that Major McKinley can tie his horse to it when he is inaugurated, just as Thomas Jefferson is said to have done.—Washington Star.

Old Grumbler to New Girl.

Bike! Bike! Bike!
O'er the hard street stones, O She!
And I would that my tongue could utter
The thoughts that arise in me!

O well for the newspaper boy
That he scoots on his cycle away!
O well for the butcher lad
That pedals—perchance it may pay!

But when stately girls get on
All a-crouch, with the prospect of spill,
It is oh for the touch of a wee soft hand,
And the sound of a voice of that could thrill!

Bike! Bike! Bike!
With thy foot on the pedal, Oh She!
But the girlish grace that the wheel struck dead
Will never come back to thee.

—[Punch.

"A WILD passion for castor oil," says the Pittsburg Dispatch, "would, if introduced into one of Mr W. S. Gilbert's libretti, rank as one of his most topsy-turvy conceits; but such a thing is an actual fact, a case being known in which a man contracted the same sort of craving for the stuff that others do for intoxicating liquors. A well-known physician mentions several other cases of extraordinary forms of inebriety. For instance, the wife of a Baptist minister was in the habit of dosing herself with Epsom salts' and at last to such an extent that she frequently took a pound and a half a day. Another curious case is that of a student who became inordinately fond of spirits of lavender, which he took in large quantities. A recent celebrated case revealed the fact that arsenic was immoderately indulged in as a pick-me-up by some miguided persons; and there is a case on record in which a boatman plying for hire on a Scottish lake was in the habit of refreshing himself with a quantity sufficent to kill four ordinary men. Nothing is too nauseous for some depraved tastes. Paraffin, iodin, and cod-liver oil are known to exercise sway over certain unhapmortals; while others are equally slaves to capsicum or ginger essence."

The Cost of It.

War will come high if we must have it, for the House Committee on Military Affairs reports to Congress that it costs for powder and projectile alone $164 to fire one round from an eight-inch rifle, $322 to fire one round from a ten-inch rifle, $561 to fire one round from a twelve-inch rifle, and $650 to fire one round from the fifteen-inch pneumatic gun. The cost of one round from a twelve inch mortar is $219. Here is another argument in favor of arbitration.—Boston Evening Transcript.

Twenty Years....

For more than twenty years we have been telling how Scott's Emulsion overcomes the excessive waste of the system, puts on flesh, nourishes and builds up the body, making it the remedy for all wasting diseases of adults and children, but it isn't possible for us to tell the story in a mere stickful of newspaper type.

We have had prepared for us by a physician a little book, telling in easy words how and why Scott's Emulsion benefits, and a postal card request will be enough to have it sent to you free. To-day would be a good time to send for it.

SCOTT & BOWNE, New York.

MONEY MAKES MONEY!

So do we but we make it for you. How? By saving you the middle man's profit. We practically charge you a small commission for attending to your purchases, and as we have advantages for buying that an ordinary purchaser does not enjoy, we can save money for you.

Cash must always accompany the order, and any excess will be promptly remitted.

Quotations furnished and correspondence solicited. Groceries in original pakages a specialty.

Charleston Purchasing Agency.

Bradford Noyes, Manager,
Charleston, W. Va.

MEDICAL WISDOM.

THE DREADED CONSUMPTION CAN BE CURED.

T. A. Slocum, M. C., the great Chemist and Scientist, Offers to Send Free, to Afflicted, Three Bottles of His Newly-Discovered Remedies to Cure Consumption and All Lung Troubles.

Nothing could be fairer, more philanthopic or carry more joy in its wake than the offer of T. A. Slocum, M. C., of 183 Pearl street New York City.

Confident that he has discovered an absolute cure for consumption and all pulminary complaints, and to make its great merits known, he will send, free, three bottles, to any reader of the POCAHONTAS TIMES, who is suffering from chest, bronchial, throat and lung troubles or consumption.

Already this "new scientific course of medicine" has permanently cured thousands of apparently hopeless cases.

The Doctor considers it his religous duty—a duty which he owes to humanity—to donate his infalible cure.

Offerered freely, apart from its inherent strength, is enough to commend it, and more so is the perfect confidence of the great chemist making the proposition.

He has proved consumption to be a curable disease beyond any doubt.

There will be no mistake in sending—the mistake will be in overlooking the generous invitation. He has on file in his American and European laboratories testimonials of experience from those cured, in all parts of the world.

Delays are dangerods. Address T. A. Slocum, M. C., 183, Pearl street New York, and when writing to the Doctor, please give express and postoffice address, and mention reading this article in THE POCAHONTAS TIMES.

MARLINTON HOUSE.

Located East End of Bridge.

Terms.
per day - 1,00 & 1.50
per meal - - - 25

Good accommodations for horses at 25 cents per feed.

Special rates made by the week or month.

C. A. YEAGER, Proprieto

Lee Military Academy.

Spring term of 18 weeks begins February 1st. Pupils can enter any time.

A first-class school for boys. Prepares for college or business Thorough academic, preparatory and business courses.

Located in a fine grove. Best Christian influences, no saloons, no distractions.

Tuition, $50 and $35. Board from $10 to $15 per month.

JAMES M. LEE, Principal.
Lewisbuig, W. Va.

Old Dominion Building & Loan Association.
—OF—
Richmond, Virginia.

J. TAYLOR ELLYSON, President.
E. A. BARBER, Treasurer.

DIRECTORS.

J. Taylor Ellyson, Normon V. Ranpolph, John B. Purcell, John S. Ellet, Frank T, Sutton.

Authorized Capital.....	$20,000,000.
Subscribed Capital.........	5,000,000.
Paid Up Cash Capital......	1,500,000.
Assets..........................	2,000,000.

Depository—State Bank of Virginia. Investment stocks cost $1.00 per share membership fee, and 60 cents per month afterwards—withdrawable after twelve monthly payments, and sooner in event of the death of the stockholder. H. A. YEAGER, Agent.

MARLINTON, W. VA.

ONE DOLLAR A YEAR
FOR THE WHEELING
Weekly Intelligencer,
West Virgicia's Leading Newspaper.

The coming year promises to be one of great moment to every American citizen. An important change is at hand in tne administration of public affairs. There will probably be a special session of Congress immediately following the inauguration of the new President. The tariff, efpecially in the matter of wool and coal, will be at once under discussion, and legislation looking to the restoration of the national finances to a sound basis will be introduced. There will also be a new administration in West Virginia, and there is every indication that enterprises of great importance to the public wellfare will be set on foot in the state. The proposed river improvements will be begun. New railroads will be built, and new material resources of every kind developed. The year 1897 promises to be one of the golden years of the State and Natton. Business will everywhere revive, and the columns of the INTELLIGENCER will teem with the evidence of great opportunities for business.

Every family should have a live newspaper of this character in its midst, so that the old and young of the household may know all of the particulars of the great awakening that is at hand.

TERMS AND PREMIUMS.

The WEEKLY INTELLIGENCER, one year in advance..........	$1 00
The WEEKLY INTELLIGENCER, six months in advance............	60
6 copies one year and extra copy to person getting up club...........	5 00
12 copies one year and three extra copies to person gettsng up club	10 00
20 copies one year and a copy of the DAILY INTELLIGENCER to person getting up club..........	20 00

The premium copies will be sent to any address desired. It is equivolent to a cash commission, as the can readily be sold and the money retained by the getter up of the club. It is not neccessary for all the names in the club to come from one office, nor is it necessary to send all the subscriptions at one time. Subscriptions may be sent as fast as received, one or more at a time, and a record of them will be kept at this office. The premium copies will be sent at the request of the agent as soon as he has sent sufficient subscribers to entitle him to them.

Specimen copies of either edition of the Intelligences sent free to any address. Send in your subscriptions at once.

We want an Agent at every postoffice in west Virginia, Eastern Ohio, and western Pennsylvania.

INTELLIGENCER PUBLISHING CO.,
WHEELING, W. VA.

What is

CASTORIA

Castoria is Dr. Samuel Pitcher's prescription for Infants and Children. It contains neither Opium, Morphine nor other Narcotic substance. It is a harmless substitute for Paregoric, Drops, Soothing Syrups, and Castor Oil. It is Pleasant. Its guarantee is thirty years' use by Millions of Mothers. Castoria destroys Worms and allays feverishness. Castoria prevents vomiting Sour Curd, cures Diarrhœa and Wind Colic. Castoria relieves teething troubles, cures constipation and flatulency. Castoria assimilates the food, regulates the stomach and bowels, giving healthy and natural sleep. Castoria is the Children's Panacea—the Mother's Friend.

Castoria.

"Castoria is an excellent medicine for children. Mothers have repeatedly told me of its good effect upon their children."

DR. G. C. OSGOOD,
Lowell, Mass.

"Castoria is the best remedy for children of which I am acquainted. I hope the day is not far distant when mothers will consider the real interest of their children, and use Castoria instead of the various quack nostrums which are destroying their loved ones, by forcing opium, morphine, soothing syrup and other hurtful agents down their throats, thereby sending them to premature graves."

DR. J. F. KINCHELOE,
Conway, Ark.

Castoria.

"Castoria is so well adapted to children that I recommend it as superior to any prescription known to me."

H. A. ARCHER, M. D.,
111 So. Oxford St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

"Our physicians in the children's department have spoken highly of their experience in their outside practice with Castoria, and although we only have among our medical supplies what is known as regular products, yet we are free to confess that the merits of Castoria has won us to look with favor upon it."

UNITED HOSPITAL AND DISPENSARY,
Boston, Mass.

ALLEN C. SMITH, Pres.,

The Centaur Company, 77 Murray Street, New York City.

Simms & Co.,

RONCEVERTE, W. VA.

Silver Steel Plow, Syracuse Chilled Plows, Imperial Chilled Plows.

PLOW REPARS OF ALL KNDS AT LOWEST PRICES EVER OFFERED HERC

RED WARRIOR POLL AXES 65C
GREENBRIER " " 60c
CHAMPION " " 50c

4 No. 2 Horse-shoes for 15c | 4 No. 3 Horse-shoes 18c
4 No. 4 " " 23c | 4 No. 5 " 16c

COOK-STOVES OF ALL KINDS

1 doz. 8x10 Window Glass 35c | Berea Grindstone 1 1-4c lb
Paints, Oils, Varnishes, etc.

Our goods are all first class, no shoddy or job-lots, or damaged goods. Stiike us for prices before you buy.

Simms & Co.,
Opposite Passenger Depot. Ronceverte, W. Va.

Notice to Contractors.

SEALED BIDS will be received by the undersigned at his office in the town of Marlinton, . Va., until 12 o'clock m., March 2, 1897. for putting up and keeping in tollable order 9 miles of the Huntersville and Warm Springs Turnpike road, commencing at the residence of Mrs Carter and extending to the State line on top of Alleghany Mountain, for the period of 5 years.

All bids to be accompanied with a bond in the penalty of $500.00, conditioned for the faithful keeping up of said road, and the return of said road, at the end of 5 years, to this Court in good tollable order.

The Court reserves the right to reject any or all bids.

S. L. BROWN, Clerk County Court

FEED, LIVERY
—AND—
SALE STABLES.

First-Rate Teams and Saddle-Horses Provided.

☞ Horses for Sale and Hire. ☜

SPECIAL ACCOMODATIONS FOR STALLIONS.

A limited number of Horses boarde.

All persons having horses to trade are invited to call. Young horses brokec to ride or work.

J. H. G. WILSON,
Marlinton w. Va.

Farmers' Home Fire Insurance Co., of West Virginia.

J. M. SYDENSTRICKER - - - President.
R. P. RITTENHOUSE - Sec'y & Treas.

INCORPORATED,

By the People and for the People.

For Isolated Property only. No Salaried Officers to Support. No capitalists to Enrich. No Loss, no Expense. Fair and Honorable Adjustment of all Losses. Cost less than one-fifth of what is paid stock companies, and is five times as secure. In most successful operation in all of the adjoining States. Thousands saved to farmers.

T. L. REYNOLDS & SONS, agents
Lewisburg, W VA.

MR McKINLEY will endeavor to make the next Cabinet not only better, but larger than usual.—Washington Star.

JAIL PHYSICIAN,

Sealed bids will be received by the County Court, of Pocahontas County, on 2d day of March, 1897, for a Jail Physician in accordance with Section 3 of Chapter 161 of the Code.

Bids must itemize as to how much is requir3d for persons chargeded with misdemeanors, same as to felonies, and same as to cases of lunacy. Cases of felony and lunacy are to be paid by the State, when certified by the County Court. AMOS BARLOW, President of the County Court of Pocahontas County.

SPECIAL POTATO FERTILIZER

and High Grade General Phosphates made from

VEGETABLE and ANIMAL MATTER,

Every farmer should write for prices, terms, and circulars.

AMERICAN REDUCTION CO.,
Pittsburg, Pa.

Raw Fur Skins

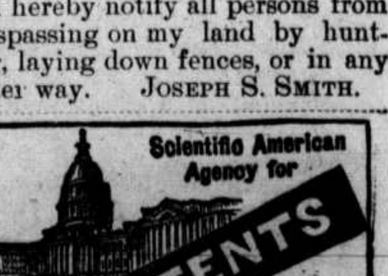
WANTED. Highest market prices paid. Honest assortment guaranteed. Send for Price Current.

THE A. E. BURKHARDT FUR & HAT CO.,
6 West 4th Street, Cincinnati, O.

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria.
When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria.
When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria.
When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.

Notice.

I hereby notify all persons from trespassing on my land by hunting, laying down fences, or in any other way. JOSEPH S. SMITH.



Scientific American Agency for

CAVEATS, TRADE MARKS, DESIGN PATENTS, COPYRIGHTS, etc.

For information and free Handbook write to MUNN & CO., 361 BROADWAY, NEW YORK. Oldest bureau for securing patents in America. Every patent taken out by us is brought before the public by a notice given free of charge in the

Scientific American

Largest circulation of any scientific paper in the world. Splendidly illustrated. No intelligent man should be without it. Weekly, $3.00 a year; $1.50 six months. Address, MUNN & CO., PUBLISHERS, 361 Broadway, New York City.

D. L. Ruckm

1

The Pocahontas Times.

Andrew & Norman Price, Owners. "Montani Semper Liberi!" Andrew Price, Editor

VOL. 14, NO. 33 MARLINTON, WEST VIRGINIA, MARCH 12, 1897. $1.00 PER YEAR

$3,400.00 CASH AND PRIZES GIVEN FREE EACH MONTH FOR Sunlight SOAP WRAPPERS

As follows:
4 First Prizes, each of $100 Cash - - -$ 400.00
20 Second " " " $100 PIERCE SPECIAL Bicycles 2,000.00
40 Third " " " $ 25 Gold Watches - 1,000.00
Cash and Prizes given each month - - $3,400.00
12
Total given during 12 mos. 1897, $40,800.00

HOW TO OBTAIN THEM. Competitors to save as many SUNLIGHT SOAP Wrappers as they can collect. Cut off the top portion of each wrapper, that portion containing the heading "SUNLIGHT SOAP." These (called "Coupons") are to be sent, postage fully paid, enclosed with a sheet of paper stating Competitor's full name and address and the number of Coupons sent in, to Lever Bros., Ltd., New York, marked on outside Wrapper (top left hand corner) with NUMBER of the DISTRICT Competitor lives in.

SEND THIS TOP PORTION

No. of District	NAME OF DISTRICT.
1	New York City, Brooklyn, Long and Staten Islands, New Jersey.
2	New York State (outside of N. Y. City, Brooklyn, Long and Staten Islands).
3	Pennsylvania, Delaware, Maryland, West Virginia and District of Columbia.
4	The New England States.

*The Bicycles are the celebrated Pierce Special, 1897 Pattern, m'f'd by Geo. N. Pierce & Co., of Buffalo, Boston and New York. Fitted with Hartford Tires, First Class Nickle Lamp, New Departure Bell, Standard Cyclometer, and Hunt Lace Saddle.

RULES.
1. Every month during 1897 in each of the 4 districts prizes will be awarded as follows: The 4 Competitors who sends in the Largest Number of coupons from the district in which he or she resides will receive $100 Cash. The 5 Competitors who send in the Next Largest Numbers of coupons from the district in which they reside will Each receive at winner's option a lady's or gentleman's Pierce Special bicycle, price $100.00. The 10 Competitors who send in the Next Largest Numbers of coupons from the district in which they reside will Each receive at winner's option a lady's or gentleman's Gold Watch, price $25.
2. The Competitions will Close the Last Day of Each Month during 1897. Coupons received too late for one month's competition will be put into the next.
3. Competitors who obtain wrappers from unsold soap in dealer's stock will be disqualified. Employees of Lever Brothers, Ltd., and their families, are debarred from competing.
4. A printed list of Winners in Competitor's district will be forwarded to Competitors in about 21 days after each competition closes.
5. Lever Brothers, Ltd., will endeavor to award the prizes fairly to the best of their ability and judgment, but it is understood that all who compete agree to accept the award of Lever Brothers, Ltd., as final.

LEVER BROS., Ltd., New York.

No Use Talking
ABOUT HARD TIMES,
When One Dollar will Buy as much at Sol Davis' Big Store, as Two Dollars will Buy at other Stores.

I have literally plungsd the knife into my former low prices to quicken sales and the result is seen in the increased number of customers at my store. Do you want to share in the Bargains now offered in Clothing, Boots, and Shoes, Ladiee' and Gentlemen's Furnishing Goods, Dry Goods, Underwear, etc.,—if so call at

SOL DAVIS' Big Store.

AND GET YOUR BARGAINS.

We quote prices on a few things:
Working pants well made and durable 75c worth 1.50
Cassimere Pants from 1.25 up worth double.
Suits for men from 4.00 up worth 8.50
Boys' Suits 75c worth 1.75
Men's Overcoats 4 50 were sold for 8.50
A good pair of Ladies Shoes for 1.00
Ladies' Cloaks and Capes, this year's styles, at correspondingly low prices as every thing else.

We especially invite those who have not dealt with us. Come one, come all! Our motto: Quick sales and short profits. Thanking you for past patronage we remain

Yours Truly,
SOL DAVIS, Proprietor.
Green Bank, W, Va. Jan 29

The Pocahontas Times,
A Home Print,
Affords the People of Pocahontas County one of the best papers for the price in the State.
$1.00 per Year
GIVES YOU YOUR COUNTY PAPER.
SUBSCRIBE!
Advertise your Wares and Wants Our rates are always low enough to warrant your patronage.
• • • •
Our Job Department has been renewed, and we guarantee satisfaction. Wedding invitations and all kinds of work done on short notice
WE HAVE THE BEST PRINTING PLANT OUTSIDE A LARGE TOWN IN THE STATE.
Now is the time to Subscribe!

We have a plan by which Farmers can get TOOL CHESTS FREE
Containing of first-class quality (guaranteed) every tool—Axes, Saws and Planes included—necessary to repair vehicles, machines or build a house. Three two-cent stamps and the name of this paper required for particulars. Powell Fertilizer & Chemical Co., Baltimore, Md.

THE WEEKLY LETTER.

Leaving Washington from the Union Depot, where Garfield was shot, the place where he fell being marked by a gold star let, into the floor, the tourist takes a cross-country railroad to Richmond by way of Fredericksburg. The train eases itself across about a mile of water called the Potoman, and directly arrives in Alexandria, and runs through a dismal street. From what can be seen from the steam-car windows, Alexandria is a fall-en down, decayed town. It is said that portions of the city are very beautiful, but it is certain that there must be a great deal of misery in the midst.

The main point of interest on the route from Washington and Richmond is Fredericksburg where so much fighting was had; where the "Song of the Rappahannock" was sung by the minie-balls and shells. One line of that song was continually being repeated by the shells as they came buzzing over the river, saying, "Which-un, which-un, which-un—you!"

Let us draw a veil over the memory of the barren moorland and dank morass which lies between our two objective points and is called for politeness sake the country. A native assured me that crows did fly across it often, but none were to be noticed the day I passed over. A blind man in the smoking-car seemed to enjoy himself, while the rest of the passengers only brightened up at the stations.

Richmond was reached at last. I say "at last," for no matter if a man is more used to driving about a mountainous country at the paltray rate of four or five miles an hour, a train seems often to fairly creep with him. This is hard to understand, but it is nevertheless true with almost everyone. Richmond, the fairest city in the two Girginias; around which so many memories cluster, the Capitol of the Confederacy, the centre of civilization, is truly an 'historic spot,' as the young man called the square of carpet upon which his fate stood when he was first introduced to her. It is a beautiful city with an immense business, and, is one of the first tobacco markets in the world. About 100,000 people live at that postoffice, and they frequently have a wedding and a funeral on the same day.

The city is built on hills—that is a comfort. Hills out here are very much of a bore, but the eyes ache for something against which they may rest in East Virginia.

The noble James River flows at the foot of the streets. Richmond is at the head of navigation. The river is so still that the moon affects it and draws up its waters and forms the tide. The thriving city right opposite across the river is Manchester. The oldest portion of the city is what is called, at a safe distance, "Rocketts," and to the faces of the inhabitants Fulton, and is situated on the banks of the river.

The capitol building in which so much has been done for the weal or woe of the Southern people, is certainly an insignificant-looking state building, Beside it is situated the city hall,, erected at an expense of a million and a half dollars. The new library building is very beautiful, with a lot of pictures of the great men of Virginia.

Nobody is in the city long before he hears a lot of a man who is never tired of spending money on improvements, and who has done more for Richmond, in a material sense, than any man living there. Yet the middle-aged people of the town can remember when this millionaire sold tobacco and cigars from a little stand, and when he was worth very little in money. The man referred to is Major Ginter, of cigarrette fame. For years the little sallow-faced children, puffing away at the vile cigarettes, have enriched Ginter, and Ginter has enriched the city by at least three notable improvements. His residence is a marvel of elegance and completeness; the Jefferson Hotel is one of the best hotels in the United States, and it is maintained in such style that Richmond cannot afford to make it a paying concern, and the result is that it is the pride and ornament of the city, and not much more. Last, but greatest, is Ginter's improved grounds outside the city, with its nine miles of the finest road in the country, and other things in proportion. The prettiest hedges and lawns border these roads, and a visit to Richmond is not complete without a drive over this wonderful estate.

The Soldiers' Home is of interest to Pocahontas people, as in that retreat Josephus F. Snyder, one of the most brilliant attorneys who have ever practiced at this bar, spent the last year of his life.

Major N. V. Randolph, President of the Board of Trustees, the man who has done most to bring this home into existence, and who works now as hard as ever to maintain it, was one of the famous eighteen men of Mosby's men who swore they would never surrender.

The object in view in establishing this retreat was to save from the alms-houses and the disgrace of pauperism those Confederate veterans who had done good service for the cause. Over two hundred men are fed, lodged, and clothed each year. The camp is conducted in semi-military order. We are sorry to say that the battle-scared veterans seem very ungrateful for the benefits bestowed upon them. To care for such a cantankerous set of old men makes the charity seem all the more beautiful.

A word concerning the street-cars may be in place. Richmond has electric cars from "way-back." There are yet a few mule-cars in the city, and we were glad to see that the stock lookod sleek and fat. While in the city we had a practical illustration of the utility of the "cow-catcher" on the front of the "deadly trolley-car." Riding down Broad Street the car was brought to a sudden stop by striking a horse which was hitched to a cart. The horse was deposited, legs up, before the platform and no injury was done him, tho the shafts of the cart were broken and the harness stripped off.

Unconsciously we have broug our tale to a sufficient length, a we will will have to close this tempted sketch of the city of Ric mond in its state of incomple ness.

TOM WATSON sums up Brya "first battle" with the words "F ed, fought, and fizzled," and te the whole story.—The Inter-Ocea Chicago.

THE Jonah story is too good be discredited. The Democrat Party has gotten rid of the bigge Jonah it has had since its found tion.—The Constitution, Atlant

THE African Methodist Episc pal Church will provide the Bib upon which President McKinl will be sworn into office; but di pointed office a few months hen will need no Bible to swear on. The Age (Afro-American), Ne York.

THERE is a popular notion th money can save a man from t penalty of his crime. But there was a man hanged in Missouri the other day for murder and he was a millionaire. His money could not save him. All honor to Misuouri. —The Republican Springfield.

HUMAN happiness has no perfect security but freedom; freedom none but virtue; virtue none but knowledge; and neither freedom, virtue, nor knowledge has any vigor or immortal hope except in the principles of the christain faith and in the sanctions of the christian religion.—Josiah Quincy

My Daily Life.

What is the meaning of my daily life.
Its drudgery, its endless petty strife,
Oh, deadly certainty of common things
Oh, hours with heavy, lagging wings!

Do Thou, oh Carpenter of Gallilee,
Teach me Thy secret; let me learn of Thee;
Send visions of those days when Thou didst share
The lot of workingman, his trials bear.

Help me to feel that Thou dost work with me,
In earthly tasks, in heavenly I with Thee;
And yet, dear Lord, with thee is always heaven—
I see my common lot hath blessed leaven.—Interior.

BIOGRAPHIC NOTES.

Fifty years ago one of the most active public men in lower Pocahontas was David Little Ruckman, Constable of the Levels District.

He was tall and wiry in person, quick and nervous in his movements, and usually rode in a rapid trot. He always meant business, and when he went to collect a debt the money or property had to be in evidence. Were an arrest to be made, he nearly always found the person that was wanted. His home was in the cove near Marvin to the right of the road passing to Mill Point, and is now occupied by Col John W. Ruckman and son, Mathews. His ancestry is traceable, according to Colonel John W. Ruckman's recollection, to David Ruckman, an Englishman, who settled in New Jersey. His son, David, born in New Jersey, and married to a Miss Little, came to Bath County, and was one of the first settlers in the Back Valley of Back Creek, on a farm now in the possession of William P. Campbell.

David Ruckman, the settler, began in the unbroken forest and built up a home. He died there, and was buried near the public road on a beautiful knoll.

It was here that David L. Ruckman was born and reared. He had three brothers who lived to be grown. Samuel Ruckman, of Mill Gap, Highland County, whose son Colonel David V. Ruckman is widely known in our county. John Ruckman went to Ohio. James Ruckman, another brother, settled in Illinois.

D. L. Ruckman also had these sisters: Fannie married John Gum. She was the mother of Mrs Samuel Harper, on Knapp's creek, and Mrs Martha Ginger, whose son, George W. Ginger, now resides in Huntersville. Mr Ginger, her husband, was killed during the war. Mary Ann Ruckman went with her brother John to Ohio.

David L. Ruckman came to Pocahontas in 1832, and located at the place already pointed ont. He married Priscilla Wade, daugher of Otho Wade, of now Highland. She was a very superior person in avoided. Among the tens of thousands who have used this remedy for the grip, we have yet to learn of a single case having resulted in pneumonia, which shows conclusively that this remedy is a certain preventive for that dread disease. It will effect a permanent cure in less time than any other treatment. The 25 and 50 cent sizes for sale by all druggists.

MR WARD L. SMITH, of Fredrictown, Mo., was troubled with chronic diarrhoea for over thirty years. He had become fully satisfied that it was only a question of a short time until he would have to give up. He had been treated by some of the best physcians of Europe and America but got no permanent relief. One day he picked up a paper and chanced to see an advertisement of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. He got a bottle of it, the first dose he ped him and its continued use cured him. For sale by druggists.

now living on the old homestead near Marvin. He was born in Highland, 1824, and was eight years old when the family moved to this county. He married Miss Margaret Ann Moore, daughter of William and Christina (Dodds) Moore, near Edray. Mr Moore was a son of the distinguished pioneer hunter and scout Moses Moore.

Colonel J. W. Ruckman's son, Mathews, married Miss Margaret Hogsett, only daughter of Josiah T. Hogsett, Esq., and father and son dwell under the same prosperous and happy roof.

Many years since Colonel Ruckman lost his hearing. Lately one of his eyes was seriously affected. Before he was overtaken by these afflictions none seemed to have better prospects for wealth and advancement and social prominence.

James Watts Ruckman, was another member of David L. Ruckman's family. He first married Miss Caroline Bruffey, daughter of Patrick Bruffey, Esq., near Green Bank. By this marriage there was one son, William Wallace Ruckman, who now resides near Mill Point; his wife was Miss Lizzie Patton. James W. Ruckman's second wife was Miss Caroline Arbogast, from near Green Bank. Her sons were Renick and Otho Ruckman. Otho lives near Buffalo Mountain, beyond Green Bank, and is well known as an industrious citizen and a good singer.

Her daughter, Nancy Priscilla Ruckman, is now Mrs Winfield Slaven, near Mill Point. Her son Orin is a skillful printer.

In the war between the States James W. Ruckman espoused the Confederate cause, and belonged to Captain William L. McNeel's company. While on a scout near Edray, early in 1864, he was captured and sent to Fort Delaware. Thence he was sent to Richmond for exchange, and died before leaving the city.

Otho Wade Ruckman, another son of David L. Ruckman, first married a Miss McClung, of Nicholas County. Her daughter became the second wife of Levi Waugh, near Edray, and she is survived by three children, two daughters and a son, Grover Waugh.

Otho W. Ruckman's second wife was Miss Mary Erances Twyman, near Edray, whose father perished in the "Twyman Flood." She is a descendant of Alexander Waddell. the pioneer, a great-granddaughter by her mother's side, the late widow of Thomas Nicholas, on the Indian Draft.

Clarissa Ruckman, eldest daughter of David L. Ruckman, married Peter Overholt, and is now dead.

Mary Ruckman, another daughter, married Jacob, Cackley, whom she survives, and she resides on Stamping Creek, with ner nephew Wallace.

Catherine Ruckman married Peter McNeel. She is dead, but is survived by her daughter, Mrs J. S. Moore, near Marvin.

David Ruckman, Jr., the youngest of D. L. Ruckman's sons, was a faithful Confederate soldier. He first belonged to Captain Smith's command, in Greenbrier County. For a good while his company was assigned to General Loring's body-guard. Finally it was attached to a cavalry battallion and ordered to Tennessee. He was mortally wounded near Morristown, Tennessee, and died in a few days thereafter.

Thus closes the narrative for the present. Characters have passed under our notice that illustrate what may be achieved by persons who diligently make nse of their opportunities. These people were patriotic, industrious, and endowed with good minds, and have left their impress upon their community that makes for good morals, conservative citizenship, and intellectual improvement. We believe the few that survive will see to it that the Ruckman reputation will lose nothing by them. W. T. P.

Pearls of Thought.

To live always as in the presence of God is to have the highest blessing and the greatest power possible to the believer.

He who believes nothing achieves nothing.

He who serves willingly serves gracefully.

Nothing pays smaller dividends in spiritual results than making a specialty of discovering the shortcomings of others.

Experience alone is unconquerable conviction.

Social or public prayer is like dwelling in the outer court; secret prayer like entering the inner temple. None enters the inner temple who is not found in the outer court. Every want, every grief, every anxiety, every temptation, every friend, and every foe should be objects of prayer. But prayer for spiritual blessings for ourselves and others is the essence of prayer. And spiritual blessings consist chiefly in the gift of the Holy Ghost. Nothing is given us but by the Holy Spirit. He is the messenger. He takes of the things of Christ and gives them to us.—Mary Lyon.

GEOGRAPHIC.

"WILLIAM," said the teacher, "can you tell me anything about the shape of the earth?"

"Only what my father found out in the newspaper."

"What is that?"

"He says it's in a mighty bad shape at present.—The Star, Washington.

Willingness to Serve.

"A simple willingneess to serve the Master." It was a petition in a good and wise man's prayer, which falling on the ear of the writer, has long dwelt in her memory.

In this busy, hurrying age when so many are working at fever-heat in the Church, as well as out of it, when our books and papers, the sermons we hear, even intercourse with friends, all seem to stimulate to yet greater activity, that prayer for simple willingness falls like a balm upon the overwrought. There are some of us—not a few—whose hands are not idle, but who chafe and fret against the bounds of our appointed place, and look longingly towards what we deem nobler, larger work. Do not the words "mission," "a higher sphere of activity" so much in everyone's mouth nowadays, too often steal between us and a simple willingness? We are too prone—

"The daily task forgetting," to look too eagerly beyond to some great work we should love to do for the Master, while we count as "common and unclean" what He himself has laid before our hands. We pant to serve Him amidst the throng, He calls us to the desert place.

"Do not pray for strength to bear the tortures of the Inquisition," said Spurgeon, "when what you need may be strength to darn the family hose."

We may fondly think, (and deceive ourselves), how grandly we might serve the Master in such and such a place. "If I were free from care," sighs one; "If I had only my health," moans another; "If the Lord would but lift this cross," wails a third. Yet how we forget that what we need for service anywhere is simple willingness to "do the next thing," whatever or whenever it may be.

A simple willingness to serve the Lord Christ in the bypaths as well as upon the highway! How would the Church, aye the world, grow in grace if the servants of the Lord more frequently and sincerely lifted and practised this beautiful petition,

"More careful not to serve Thee much,
But to please Thee perfectly."

—Lucy Randolph Fleming, in The Central Presbyterian.

A Lesson for America.

The present condition of Spain, which unable to surpress the insurrection in Cuba in spite of the most heroic sacrifices, chiefly because the nation has reached the end of its material resources, should be an admonition to the United States in one important respect. Among the many causes that have operated to to bring about the decline of Spain's power and wealth, one of the chief causes is the wanton destruction of forests.

Elisee Reclus, an accepted authority on the changes which are going on upon the earth's surface, shows that the Castiles, as well as nearly the whole of plateau region of Spain, once supported a dense population. On the Tagus and Guadiana were, not many generations ago, large towns which have shrunk into small villages. The Tagus was once navigable to Toledo, but is so no longer; indeed, its bed is often bare, while its floods are terribly destructive.

Whole cities in Estremadura have disappeared, and their sites are covered with furze and broom, if not with drifting sand. A great part of New Castile is a desert, and vast tracts of shifting sand extend along the northern foot of the Sierra de Guadarrama.

"The decrease of population," says Reclus, "was unfortunately attended by a return toward barbarism. In the province of Salamanca, once famous for its industry and its culture, are now to be found the "barbarious Batuecas," who are charged with not being able to distinguish the seasons. Their women till the arid and rocky soil, which yields but a wretched harvest.

Decline is characteristic to the whole country except the province of Catalonia, whose people are of a different race. Catalonia practically supports the rest of Spain. Here the population increases, with industry and weath, largely thro the care of the earth and forests, which the Castilians have contemptuously neglected.

Spain, by allowing its soil to lapse into a desert, has wasted the resources which might to day, if they had deen cherished, be supporting with success the great and final test which the nation is undergoing. The Hon. Elizur Wright did not spreak without historical justification when he said "The nation which neglects its forests is surely destined to ruin. If the trees go, men must decay."—The Youth's Companion.

IF the Greeks bearing gifts were to be feared, as the old adage said they were, what is to be said when they bear the latest improved repeating rifles.—The Chronicle,

The Pocahontas Times.

MARCH 12, 1897.

Local Events.

HUTTONSVILLE is said to have a fine brass band.

So far as heard from and observed, wheat promises surprisingly well in Pocahontas county.

Mr G. W. Roberts left Marlinton Tuesday to run the arks on Greenbrier River for Capt. John Peters.

OUR friends Messrs Tyler & Son of Edray have reopened their chair factory, and are now turning out good, cheap, and substantial work in their line.

THE neighborhood of Valley Head is much excited concerning the burning of its two stores, one night last week. It is believed to be the work of some incendiary. Neither of the buildings nor any of the stock was covered by insurance.

THE auction sale, managed by C. B. Swecker, at Marlinton, during court, was crowded and a great deal of merchandise disposed of. There was free and unlimited coinage of silver tones for the time being.

THE floating camp, consisting of three flats slipped cable at Marlinton Sunday morning and floated to the mouth of Beaver Creek. The departure elicited more show interest than that of an Ocean steamer from a New York pier on the way to Cuba.

WILD-GEESE were seen flying over Edray last week. One of the flocks was pronounced by competent observers to be the largest ever seen hovering in that vicinity Another flock seemed bewildered by the fog, and was on a wild-goose chase for some hours, but it finally found its desired bearings and sped away to the north.

THE report is that Rev. R. M. Caldwell came near being drowned when crossing Deer Creek at night, quite recently, near the residence of S. B. Hannah. It is also stated that his mother died, a week or so since, at her home in Kentucky. He is heartily congratulated upon his escape from the deep, icy waters, and most cencerely sympathized with in the bereavement that has come upon himself and relations.

THE writer's attention was called the other day to a very gorgeous peacock, which spends a great deal of his time before a looking-glass. He flies to the porch-roof, and taking his position in front of a window, looks at himself for hours at a time. He is a very beautiful bird, and the pride he shows in himself is pardonable. Some time since a strange darkey was hired on the place, and was taken sick on his arrival. He lay in the room and when the bird looked so long and earnestly in at his window he came to the conclusion that he was going to die, and was much troubled in spirit. He says that if the peacock had "hollered" he thinks he would have died.

"CAPTAINS COURAGEOUS," (it took me months to see that the first word was plural), is the name of Rudyard Kipling's American novel. The idea of an Englishman writing a novel in the dialect of a part of America was regarded by some as presumptuous, but it is well done and no one can describe the keen delight with which it is read by those fortunate enought to secure it. I can only say that those who have not read it have something yet to look forward to in this life. The plot can be given in a few words. The pampered son of an American multi-millionaire, aged about fifteen, and an only child, accepts a Wheeling stogie from a German who hates his conceited ways, smokes it on the American liner, gets sick, goes to the side to be sick, and falls overboard into the sea. The steamer was passing over the fishing grounds and he is picked up by a boat fishing for cod. The boy immediately demands to be taken back to Boston, more [illegible] skipper thinking [illegible] could pay for a seasons work lost, knocks him down when he becomes uppish, and puts him to work. The boy finding that he is in this predicament goes to work in earnest and during the season learns to be manly and not to rely an his father's money. He likes everybody on the schooner and has a good time, and is shrewd enough to be a good boy. He has become very much disgusted with his old self and is landed at Glouchester. His father had lost interest in business and the whole country felt it, while the mother was almost insane. A telegram is received at San Diego, that the lost boy is in Glouchester. Then Kipling, who revels in steam engines and such things, gives a most thrilling account of how the boy's father and mother raced across the continent in a special train. The tale has one more installment, which will tell of the boy and his parents and the end is near. We will know the worst by the first of April, when Mr McClure sends out his magazine. I forgot to say that the description of the cod-fisheries is so fine that it would make the average boy give everything he has to go thro the same experience of that boy who fell overboard.

HON. E. I. HOLT, of Academy, attended the inauguration ceremonies at Charleston.

THE farmers, of the Levels, have made great progress in the plowing of sod land.

A LETTER from Rev Chris Sydenstricker, at Moorefield, brings the information that the measles are raging at that place.

THE exciting trial of John Roake against Wm. Irvine over a horse trade was continued until Thursday of this week.

MARRIED: At the residence of Isaac Smith, the bride's father, by Rev D. S Sydenstricker, Mr W. H. Shaffer and Miss Smith.

No man is born into the world, whose work is not born with him; there is always work, and tools to work withal, for those who will.

TOWELL.

H. P. McGLAUGHLIN is making improvements about his dwelling which will add very much to the comfort and convenience of his residence on Brown's Creek.

DAN MUNDAY will move to Williams River to Mr Alvin Clark's place. Wm. Fay, who has been living on that place will move to Alvin's Burr's old camp, where he has leased a tract of land.

CAPT. SMITH has had his teams at work in the bottoms below the mouth of Knapp's Creek and has placed in the bed of the river all the logs which had been thrown out on the fields. One shoal of logs is said to have contained a million and a half feet of lumber.

MRS HENRY RIDER, an aged and very estimable lady, near Vernon Church on Knapp's Creek, aged 83 years, started to bring in some clothes from the line a few mornings since. Slipping she fell upon her face and bruised it in a shocking manner; but she was able to rise and bring her burden into the house. She is rapidly recovering from what might have been a serious injury.

MR ANDREW HEROLD, now in the 75th year of his life, lives near Frost. He is justly esteemed by all his friends as one of our substantial, patriotic citizens. He feels rather despondent over the prospects for better times, and is much afraid that the country is too far gone to be benefitted much by a change of administration—like an invalid too sick to be helped by a change of doctors.

KING GEORGE takes a perfectly natural and excusable view of the requirements of his occupation when he says he would rather die in battle at the head of his troops than to be run into exile by enraged subjects whose feelings and aspirations he had failed to represent. His position is not very different from that of a manager who feels that he must satisfy the stock holders to keep his job.—The Republican, Springfield.

SIXTY years ago, in passing over the country one would often hear young beginners talk as if this would be a true ideal of earthly comfort and substantial prosperity: "A little wife well willed, a little farm well tilled, and a little house well filled." Observation now confirms the fact that the most prosperous element of our society at the present time consists of those whose lives seem to have been regulated by that ideal. Doubtless the same may be true sixty years hence, whoever may live to see it.

DIED: At her home at Mill Point, Mrs Frances Pennell, aged about 69 years. Mrs Pennell suffered a paralytic stroke about six weeks ago and was prostrated until her death. She is survived by her husband and three children, Joseph Pennell, of Buckeye, Mrs Wm. H. Auldrige, of Mill Point, and Mrs. Cackley, of Anthonys Creek. Mrs Pennell was a native of Greenbrier, her maiden name being Lipps. The family moved to this county about twenty-five years ago. She was much beloved and respected by all who knew her.

MR A. W. MOORE, near Frost, now in the eighties, is passing a serene and tranquil old age, and [illegible] endeavors even yet to improve each shining hour. He was never known to be in a push. He always kept things before him, and yet few have more to show in the way of useful results. It seemed to be his idea if one wishes to work a long while not to undertake too much at once. A little well done is of more satisfaction than a great deal imperfectly done, and not near so much worry, wear, and tear that shortens life.

MR SAMUEL HARPER and Mrs Margaret J. Harper, at Harper's Mill, are an interesting aged couple. He is in his 85th year and she in her 81st. Mr Harper has worked very industriously all his life; farming, milling, and blacksmithing, having all three of these occupations carried on at the same time and giving them his personal attention. Mrs Harper is a granddaughter of David Ruckman, one of the pioneers of Highland County. In her youth she went on a visit to an aunt in Piketon, Ohio, where she attended school eighteen months. On her return to Virginia she visited an aunt in Kanawha County, where she was persuaded to remain and teach school, which she did for several years. She has lived a long and useful life.

PERSONAL.

Withrow McClintic started with a nice drove cattle to market, last week.

Prof. J. A. McLaughlin has finished his school duties at Green Bank and at Thomas Creek, and is now at his home in Marlinton.

Prof. M. G. Mathews, a veteran teacher of public schools, once county superintendant, and one of the successful of the profession, is now at Hotel McLaughlin, under medical attention.

Miss Alice McLaughlin, of Dunmore, has closed her school at the Dice school house, east of Linwood, and recently spent a few days visiting her Marlinton friends. She is enthusiastic in her calling and merits complimentary mention for her faithful services.

Miss Allie Baxter is teaching an interesting school in her father's family, near Edray, and is getting along very successfully.

Prof Barlow closed the Edray school on Tuesday, with his accustomed success.

Miss Birdie Baxter finished her school on Clover Creek, at Price's school house, on Thursday, and is at home enjoying a well deserved vacation.

Mrs James Hebden, of Mingo, is expecting her sister, Miss Forster, to arrive from England on a visit.

The engagement of Mr Lanty Tuke and Miss Washburn has been announced. Miss Washburn visited Mrs Jas. Hebden last fall and is now in Florida.

* * *

THE firm of Jelenko Bros. & Loeb of Charleston has failed; E. W. Knight is receiver.

MR E. B. FERGUSON, formerly of Chattanooga, Tennessee, was married to Miss Allie B. McLaughlin, March 3d, at the residence of the bride's mother, near Green Bank, by the Rev C. C. Arbogast. Only a few friends of the contracting parties were present to witness the ceremony. Mr and Mrs E. B. Ferguson are at home to their friends near Green Bank.

MR ARTHUR LAWSON, of Mingo, left suddenly for England a short time ago. Astonishing his agent, Mr D'Acres, by telling him to "shear the sheep," he was gone, taking with him his red fox. His friends suppose that he was moved to immediate action by reading of some meeting of fox-hounds in his country, and that he had no time to lose if he wished to be there. He disposed of his own kennel of hounds by giving some away and killing the rest to keep them quiet. He interred their bodies, with those of a number of dead sheep, in a compost heap for fertilizer. He also killed his rabbits. His mule Bob is now enjoying a well-deserved rest, which will be indefinitely prolonged. We hope to see Mr Lawson back soon, for he is always up to something which relieves the monotony of our times

AMONG the venerable and worthy citizens of our county deserving of special mention is Morgan Grimes, Esq., near Frost. He settled in the woods and built up a nice and attractive home. He has also made the best of his limited opportunities to improve his mind and heart, so as to have a good influence in his neighborhood, and be useful to his neighbors as a friend and counselor when wills are to be made or controversies to be considered. Years ago there lived an aged man near Glade Hill who settled like Mr Grimes on "thin land" in the woods, built up a nice home, and reared his family. Old Father Arbogast used to remark that he thanked the Lord every day for his poor land, for if it had not been so thin it would never have been his to work with. Pocahontas citizens should be proud of such useful persons, and no doubt will be.

IT seems from the general opinion that very grave suspicion [illegible] directed against Trout Shue as being the murderer of his wife. He was arrested for the crime and placed in jail at Lewisburg. The circumstances leading to his arrest are about as follows: The woman, who was Shue's third wife, died suddenly at their home, at Levisay's Mill, where Shue operated a blacksmith shop. Certain unnatural expressions uttered by Shue on the day of his wifes death caused suspicion. It is said that he superintended the laying out of the dead body, and that whenever the head was to be moved he moved it. Some other words let fall by him at the burying decided some citizens to have the body disinterred and a post-mortem examination held. The result was the discovery was made that the neck was broken and the windpipe mashed. On the throat were the marks of fingers indicating that she had been choked. When it was known that the woman had come to her death by violence, Shue was arrested. Shue was born and raised in this county on Droop. He was sentenced to the penitentiary for horse - stealing. He has always declared he would have seven wives, and his third wife being dead and he only thirty-five would indicate that he was getting along fairly well. Shue was visited one time while he lived here by a vigilance committee and roughly handled for abusing his wife.

Correspondence.

TWO MILES NORTH OF TRAVELERS REPOSE

Jack Flenner is still on the mend—thanks to a providential dispensation.

I learn that Dr J. P. Moomau is out again, and is on the road day and night.

Mrs Martha Keller is still on the mend, at the place called Pine Hollow, east of Grassy Ridge.

The weather at this time is very rough, but feed is plenty.

There is a gentleman at P. D. Yeager's on the hunt for mice and rats, and more than rats. He has with him forty traps.

G. A. Kellar is absent from home at this time to see his mother.

C. M. Kellar has moved to a place purchased by him on Brush Run.

Miss Sula Burner is at home. Her school at the Big Fill closed the 20th ultimo.

Our school, taught by Miss May Maxwell, is one of the best ever taught at this place.

The foot-bridge at Travelers Redose is unsafe, as the abutments were washed away by the recent rains.

THE TIMES is read with great interest by our people.

A FRIEND.

DILLEY'S MILL.

The Mt Zion School, taught by Miss Lena M. Kinnison, closed March 4. The school was opened under rather inauspicious circumstances, yet we are pleased to note that a more successful school has not been taught there for years. The closing exercises were beautiful and impressive, consisting of declamations, essays, spelling, etc. G. S. Weiford made a speech on "Education." Mr Weiford was one of our very best teacherr. It has been a good while since he taught school, but he had not forgotten how to express his ideas on the school question. Over 100 persons were present.

Miss Enola Shrader closed her school March 5th.

George E. Moore, who is teaching the Sulphur Spring School, will close the 12th instant.

We congratulate The Times on its improvement. The Pocahontas Times should be welcomed in every home in the county.

Truly yours, PEAFFI.

YELK.—DELAYED.

Elk is on a boom—we are going to have a blacksmith shop at L. D. Sharp's in the near future.

H. B. Sharp is on the sick-list at this writing.

G. L. Hannah is attending school on Dry Branch.

H. C. Sharp has purchased a fine horse. He is going to hunt a girl that takes his eye.

J. N. Hite has purchased a farm in Randolph County, and will move to it soon.

S. H. Higgins has returned from Gauley, he reports the snow deep in that section.

Sheldon Hannah has been sick but is improving.

Miss Allie McLaughlin's school will close next week.

John Slanker is working for Hugh Sharp.

Dr M. B. Griffin is getting lots of practice.

You can buy at the Slaty Fork store men's good coarse shoes for $1; men's overalls, 45c; children's shoes 30 to 50 cts; white linen table-cloth, 35c per yard; dress ginghams, 5½c per yard. Other goods very low.

J. A. Sharp is off to Beverly with the wagon for a load of merchandise.

We learn that the two stores owned by Bing & Sherman and Hamilton & Conrad, at Valley Head, were burned one day last week.

JOHN.

* * *

To the Editor of THE TIMES:

I desire to thank my friends and neighbors through the medium of your paper for their kind attentions to my wife during her long illness.

REUBEN PENNELL.

Your Cough, like a dog's bark, is a sign that there is something foreign around which shouldn't be there. You can quiet the noise, but the danger may be there just the same. SCOTT'S EMULSION of Cod-liver Oil is not a cough specific; it does not merely allay the symptoms but it does give such strength to the body that it is able to throw off the disease.

You know the old proverb of "the ounce of prevention?" Don't neglect your cough. A book which will tell you more on the subject sent free on request.

Your druggist keeps Scott's Emulsion of Cod-liver Oil. Put up in 50 cts. and $1.00 sizes.

SCOTT & BOWNE, New York.

The County Court.

Loring Kerr appointed road surveyor insted of Chas. Wooddell in precinct no. 24 in Green Bank district.

Jasper E. Friel appointed surveyor of road on Greenbrier river.

Ashby H. Sharp appointed constable in Huntersville district.

Sealed bids to be advertised for a foot bridge across the Greenbrier at the mouth of Leather Bark Creek.

Dr J. W. Price allowed license to keep drugstore at Marlinton.

A. R. Kinnison qualified as surety of R. W. Hill.

W. H. Grose and S. B. Scott Jr. appointed committee to examine books of Clerk's office.

R. L. Crummett contractor for toll from Huntersville to Top of Alleghany Mountain.

The Travelers Repose foot-bridge ordered to be repaired; P. D. Yeager commissioner.

$100.00 dollars appropriated for road leading from Stony Creek road to Waugh's mill.

C. E. Beard authorized to close the old road down Stamping Creek it being replaced by the new one.

Sealed bids to be received by the Clerk for the copying of the land books of the County.

$100 to be expended on the road near Major J. C. Arbogast's, at Green Bank; J. R. Warwick, commissioner.

Geo. M. Kee, Wm. M. Sharp, and Aaron Kee appointed to assess tolls on roads under G. W. Mann and W. C. Mann and on the Greenbrier bridge.

Ordered, that a desk be purchased for the use of the County surveyor.

Salaries of County officers: Clerk of Circuit Court, $200; Clerk of County Court, $200; Prosecuting Attorney, $400; Assesser, $375; Jailor, $75.

John R. Hevener and Wm. J. Yeager appointed commissioners to let 270¾ poles of new road on Phillips Hill, between Dunmore and Green Bank.

The above orders include all orders made by the Court, with the exception of the changing of a few road surveyors and hands which are not of general interest

DENTISTRY.—Dr J. H. Weymouth, of Elkins, W. Va., will be at Edray Mar. 19th, and remain 3 days; Buckeye (Clark Kellison's) March 23d, 3 days; Mill Point, 26th, 3 days; Huntersville, 30th, 2 days; Green Bank, April 1st, 3 days; Marlinton April 5th, 4 days. On account of a press of business since locating at Elkins, he has been unable to make his visits to this county on time, but in the future he will make them regularly every spring and fall.

* * *

DANGERS FROM THE GRIP.

The greatest danger from La Grippe is of its resulting in pneumonia. If reasonable care be used, however, and Chamberlain's Cough Remedy taken, all danger will be avoided. Among the tens of thousands who have used this remedy for the grip, we have yet to learn of a single case having resulted in pneumonia, which shows conclusively that this remedy is a certain preventive for that dread disease. It will effect a permanent cure in less time than any other treatment. The 25 and 50 cent sizes for sale by all druggists.

* * *

MR WARD L. SMITH, of Fredrictown, Mo., was troubled with chronic diarrhoea for over thirty years. He had become fully satisfied that it was only a question of a short time until he would have to give up. He had been treated by some of the best physcians of Europe and America but got no permanent relief. One day he picked up a paper and chanced to see an advertisement of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. He got a bottle of it, the first dose he ped him and its continued use cured him. For sale by druggists.

800 Bushels of Good Seed Oats are for Sale at GOLDEN'S.

D. W. DEVER

Sale of

Personal PROPERTY

On the 23rd day of March, 1897, I will offer for sale at my residence on Knapps creek all the personal property belonging to me, viz:

10 Cows, & other stock.
3 good Work-Horses.
1 Set of Harness
2 Wagons
1 Mowing Machine and Rake
1 Buggy and Harness

A lot of Hay, Wheat, Corn, and Oats. A lot of Bacon, and other things, too numerous to mention.

Terms made known on day of sale.

D. W. DEVER.
March 5, 1897.

Swecker Auctioneer.

$25 Reward.

I will pay the above sum for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the person or persons who wilfully and maliciously shot the saw at my mill on Laurel Creek.

HAMP. GALFORD.

Valuable Land for Rent

A valuable grazing farm of more than 300 acres for rent,—well watered and under good fence. Will rent or take in cattle by the month.

For further information call on or address

ALLIE B. McLAUGHLIN,
f5tf Edray, W. Va.

Notice.

All parties knowing themselves indebted to me will please come forward and settle up by the 15th of March, 1897, as I intend to make some change in my business.

GEORGE W. GINGER.
Huntersville, W. Va. 4t

Notice.

We hereby notify all persons not to trespass on our land, by hunting, laying down fences, or in any other way.

NATHAN, SHEARER & Co.

Notice to Horse-Traders.

ON April 6th, 1897, first day of Court, in front of the Court-house. at Marlinton, W. Va., I will offer for sale my thoroughbred Hamiltonian stallion, on 30 days time, purchaser giving bond and good security. This horse is well-known in Pocahontas and Greenbrier Counties, and will be in good trim for the season of 1897.

Respectfully,
W. W. TYREE.
Marlinton, W. Va.

WANTED!

MEN TO TAKE CONTRACTS for skidding logs to tramway by the thousand. I have from 6 to 8 million feet which I wish to let out in contracts of five hundred thousand to 2 million feet each to reliable jobbers who own good teams and are willing to push the work. Parties interested are requested to come and see me and look at the work.

Respectfully,
PETER DOW.
Jack, W. Va., Feb. 27, 1897.

WASHINGTON hand-PRESS. THE POCAHONTAS TIMES has for sale a most convenient, easiest-running, Washington Hand-Press, at a price about one-third of its real worth. This press would form the nucleus of a profitable country newspaper business. Its capacity is a six-column folio, and for years did the work of THE TIMES office. The concensus of opinion of all the printers who have ever operated this press is that more impressions can be made with greater ease than on any other press ever operated by them. This press is of no value to THE TIMES, owing to being supplanted by a power press.

Also the proprietors will sell for a fair price the good-will, machinery, and material of the business known as THE POCAHONTAS TIMES printing plant—consisting of the most complete printing outfit outside of a town or city in the State.

Harvesting Machines.

I will furnish the JOHNSTON HARVESTING MACHINERY & MOWERS this year from $40.00 to $45.00, according to the length of cut.

Yours respectfully,

C. J. HILL,
Agent.
LOBELIA, W. VA. [f12 6m

ORDER OF PUBLICATION.

STATE OF WEST VIRGINIA, } ss.
POCAHONTAS COUNTY, }

At rules held in the clerk's office of the Circuit Court of Pocahontas County, on Monday, February 1st, 1897.

Clifton Forge Grocery Company, a corporation under the laws of Virginia ....Plaintiff,

vs.

C. C. Arbogast, W. B. Ellis & Ellis partners trading as W. B. Ellis & Co., A. Elhart, C. G. Joyner and M. H. Witz, partners trading as Elhart, Joyner, & Co.; E. M. Brown, George Blome and George J. Blome, partners trading as George Blome & Son; S. R. Sutton, H. S. Rucker, Charles P. Jones, J. H. Shears, J. W. Lukins, P. D. Arbogast, C. O. Tracy, Emma A. Tracy, J. Wesley Hevener, Old Dominion Building and Loan Association; and J. Taylor Ellyson and W. A. Bratton, Trustees ....Defendants

The object of this suit is to subject the land of the defendant C. C. Arbogast, lying near Green Bank, in Pocahontas County, W. Va., being 181 acres, more or less, to the payment of the liens thereon, and for general relief. This day came the plaintiff by its attorney, and on his motion, and it appearing by affidavit filed that the defendants, the Old Dominion Building and Loan Association. J. Taylor Ellyson, Trustee, and C. P. Jones, are non-residents of the State of West Virginia, it is ordered that they do appear here within one month after the date of the first publication of this order and do what is necessary to protect their interest in this suit.

Teste:
J. H. PATTERSON, Clerk.
H. S. Rucker, p. q. f5

Lost! Lost! Lost!

Money Lost

by not trading with us. We mean business, as you will find if you give us a trial.

'The proof of the pudding is in the eating.'

Buy one bill of us for your own special benefit.

THE MONEY WE DO NOT SPEND PAYING TRAVELLING MENS' BILLS IS SHARED WITH OUR CUSTOMERS. WE SEEK NO TRADE THAT IS NOT OURS BY VIRTUE OF LOW PRICES AND HONEST GOODS. OUR REPUTATION AS Spot Cash Buyers bring us bargains that credit never saw. We give bargains; the prices tell the people, and the people tell the prices.

We will sell wire-nails, from 4 to 20 penny @ $3.50 per keg.

Best Granulated Sugar @ 6¼.

Fancy Green Coffee @ 18c

Corn Starch 5c a box.

Elegant good Tobacco 25c to 35c per pound.

We will buy beef-hides.

We will buy beeswax and fur throughout the winter. Friends, do n't forget to give us your trade.

Yours respectfully,

L. D. Sharp,
LINWOOD, W. VA.

Entered

The Pocahontas Times.

Andrew & Norman Price, Owners. "Montani Semper Liberi" Andrew Price, Editor

VOL. 14, NO. 34 MARLINTON, WEST VIRGINIA, MARCH 19, 1897. $1.00 PER YEAR

IT TICKLES YOU
THE INSTANT RELIEF YOU GET FROM
LIGHTNING HOT DROPS.

CURES Colic, Cramps, Diarrhœa, Flux, Cholera Morbus, Nausea, Changes of Water, etc.
HEALS Cuts, Burns, Bruises, Scratches, Bites of Animals, Serpents, Bugs, etc.
BREAKS UP Bad Colds, La Grippe, Influenza, Croup, Sore Throat, etc.
SMELLS GOOD, TASTES GOOD.
SOLD EVERYWHERE AT 25C AND 50C PER BOTTLE. NO RELIEF, NO PAY.
HERB MEDICINE CO. [Formerly of Weston, W. Va.] SPRINGFIELD, O.

No Use Talking
ABOUT HARD TIMES,
When One Dollar will Buy as much at Sol Davis' Big Store, as Two Dollars will Buy at other Stores.

I have literally plungsd the knife into my former low prices to quicken sales and the result is seen in the increased number of customers at my store. Do you want to share in the Bargains now offered in Clothing, Boots, and Shoes, Ladiee' and Gentlemen's Furnishing Goods, Dry Goods, Underwear, etc.,—if so call at

SOL DAVIS'
Big Store.

AND GET YOUR BARGAINS.

We quote prices on a few things:
Working pants well made and durable 75c worth 1.50
Cassimere Pants from 1.25 up worth double.
Suits for men from 4.00 up worth 8.50
Boys' Suits 75c worth 1.75
Men's Overcoats 4.50 were sold for 8.50
A good pair of Ladies Shoes for 1.00
Ladies' Cloaks and Capes, this year's styles, at correspondingly low prices as every thing else.

We especially invite those who have not dealt with us. Come one, come all! Our motto: Quick sales and short profits. Thanking you for past patronage we remain

Yours Truly,
SOL DAVIS, Proprietor.
Green Bank, W, Va. Jan 29

The Pocahontas Times,
All Home Print,

Affords the People of Pocahontas County one of the best papers for the price in the State.

$1.00 per Year

GIVES YOU YOUR COUNTY PAPER.
SUBSCRIBE!

Advertise your Wares and Wants
Our rates are always low enough to warrant your patronage.

• • • •

Our Job Department has been renewed, and we guarantee satisfaction. Wedding invitations and all kinds of work done on short notice

WE HAVE THE BEST PRINTING PLANT OUT SIDE A LARGE TOWN IN THE STATE.

Now is the time to Subscribe!

We have a plan by which Farmers can get TOOL CHESTS FREE
Containing of first-class quality (guaranteed) every tool—Axes, Saws and Planes included—necessary to repair vehicles, machines or build a house. Three two-cent stamps and the name of this paper required for particulars. Powell Fertilizer & Chemical Co., Baltimore, Md.

THE WEEKLY LETTER.

"As a man soweth, so also shall he reap," or words to that effect, are found in the Bible. With us farmers, however, in a farming sense, we go back of sowing to the plowing, and on that depends what we shall reap; and now, as the county papers inform the gentle reader, is the time to do your plowing. Probably the most pleasant work of the year is the first plowing done in the spring. After a winter of discontent, the first warm days come as a boon, and then the tiller of the soil instinctively gets down his horses harness, greases them, rigs up a double-tree, and has a long hunt for that missing-link—the clevis. In a day or two the leading-mind on the farm pronounces the ground in fit condition to be plowed, and with a good team of horses, the plowman follows the plow with feelings akin to pleasure.

So strong is the instinct to plow upon the farmer in the spring that no matter if he has been engaged in other pursuits so long that he has forgotton how to farm, if he has ever had to put in every pretty day in early spring plowing, he is very apt to feel at this time of year that he is neglecting something, and he will rouse up from a fit of abstraction thinking that he should be out plowing.

Retrospection brings before me the days when I followed the furrow in the smooth sod-land that was so nice to plow, and, with the soil encrusted in my shoes, dreamed of days maybe when I might triumph over the drudgery of plowing. Then there were other days passed amidst roots and stumps, when the plowman thought of nothing but how to keep from cussing too much when the horses became restive and the plow-handles, or "stiva," as the Romans called it would punch your insides out when meeting a stump.

Then again in my mind's eye I see a yoke of white Tuckahoe cattle, yoked to a pole and the pole connected by links to the plow. How everything went well until the oxen having plowed one or two rounds considered the matter and refused to work. A thorn-brush did not effect them. When a pitch-fork was brought and they were prodded until their sides were flecked with gore, they responded by "turning the yoke" with a dexterity that would have earned them great applause in a circus. Then the meek-eyed oxen patiently waited for whatever other torture the dismayed plowboy and his helper might devise for them. The yoke being righted, their tails were lashed together, so that tho the vertebræ cracked the cattle could not turn the yoke.

Then a second pitch-fork being brought the contest was continued. The field was right "ferninst" a patch of woods. The oxen finding themselves at the wrong end of the forks suddenly started and heading for the woods went one on either side of a scrub-oak, broke their yoke in two, abandoned the plow, and took each his share of the yoke. Under such circumstances the plowman homeward plods his weary way, or else lies down and dies in his impotent wrath.

It makes me feel so sad when I think how much profanity oxen are responsible for. How those words never cease to vibrate in the air but go echoing down the ages. Those who have never worked oxen think of the placid life the ox-driver leads and do not know that perverseness is bound up in the heart of an ox.

The long, long thoughts of plowmen have done much to shape the ends of nations, for it is not from amid the distractions of the city that the greater number of intellectual giants have come, tho they had the easier task to become famous. It is the farm that produces the leaders of men, and many of the first citizens of the commonwealth have seen the day when they too walked in the furrow all day with the dirt encrusted in their shoes.

This article on plowing leads the writer to look up something about the antiquity of plowing, and there is,a lot to interest one in the writings of the old Grecian and Roman authors about the plowing done in those days. One of Hesoid's immortal passages advises the farmer to have two plows, so that if one broke he might not be delayed in getting out a crop. Hesoid was, no doubt, well-fitted for his position as editor of the Olympia Stocker and Farmman. He prospered exceedingly until he advised the farmers to put out a bigger crop than ever one spring, which was considered a [illegible] in those days. The Virgilance Committee called on him and committed his body to the leafy branches of a plow-tree. In those days a plow was made from the branches of a tree, and young trees were trained to grow into the proper shapes. Virgil speaks about the plow frequently.

The Greeks and Romans ploughed either three or four times for each crop. The first plowing or proscindere threw the soil up in long furrows; the second or affringere crossed these furrows, and in these the seed was sown; and the third plowing, called lirare, covered the seed and left deep furrows for the water to run off. They employed oxen to plow with, generally; but Ulysses, who did not want to go on the Trojan War for fear of getting one of his pneumatic tubes punctured with a spear, staid at home and plowed with a horse and ox yoked together. This circumstance is carefully preserved as a choice bit of history. By doing so he disobeyed the spirit of the Mosaic law, which prohibits yoking of such a heterogeneous, east Virginia team. That law reads: "Thou shalt not plow with an ox and an ass together." The reason of this law is supposed to be that the Jewish farmers wished to be good, and no man could work such a team and remain pious.

This seasonable article owes its existence, dear friends, to the fact that there was nothing better suggesting itself to the writer's mind at that moment. While he has not plowed for several years, the plowing fever comes to him each spring and remains for an appreciable length of time, and he thinks "it would n't be so worse" to shake off the wear and tear of the newspaper business and go in again for plowing and things.

Young Criminals.

Recent French statistics show that while the number of adult criminals increased eleven per cent during the last dozen years, the number between the ages of sixteen and twenty increased twenty-five per cent. In Paris, more than half of the criminals arrested are under twenty-one.

Similar tendencies are manifest in England and Germany and this country. American criminologists have repeatedly called attention to the increase of juvenile crime.

Probably a variety of causes operate to produce this result; but in all the countries mentioned, and in ours not least, one of the chief causes is the publication of sensation details of crime. The president of the New York Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children, in his last report, declared that the chief agency in training the young in vice is vicious journalism. The papers which print lurid stories of crime, vividly illus trated, and give elaborate sketches of criminals, lead young readers to imagine that there is something heroic or romantic in a criminal career.

All criminologists agree that indirect suggestion is one of the surest ways of inciting to crime: and an eminent French writer has published a volume on the "Contagion of Murder," in which he traces cases of homicidal mania induced by pictures of assassination.

The regular reader of many modern newspapers might imagine that the world is much worse than it used to be. This would be a mistake. The difference is not only that the newspapers exaggerrate, and sometimes invent details of crime, but that the facilities for collecting news are so much better than formerly that every thing is reported. The is no part of newspapere of tne day which can be more profitably skipped than the detailed narratives of crime; and newspapers which make a speciality of the evil there is in the world should not be taken into any home.—The Youth's Companion.

BIOGRAPHIC NOTES.

REV WILLIAM T. PRICE, Marlinton, West Virginia. My Dear Sir: "The Pocahontas Times" of last week has been received, and as a great-grandson and namesake of John McNeel, Sr., I take this method of sincerely thanking you for the biographical sketch that you have prepared and published of a man whose character and life I have ever been taught to hold in the highest esteem.

The knowledge I have of my great-grandfather is purely traditional, but with one link of tradition, and that one my father, the late Paul McNeel, of Pocahontas County. John McNeel, Sr., was born in the year 1745, and was 80 years old when he died,—his death occurring in the year 1825. Paul McNeel was born within sight of his grandfather John's house, in the year 1803. He was consequently 22 years of age at his grandfather's death. There was an intimacy between th se two people, as I have often learned from my father, that was only ended by the death of the older McNeel.

Paul McNeel was taken at an early age to live with his grandparents. I have heard him relate an incident, to fix his very earliest recollections of his grand-parents, which was this: His grandmother had given him a piece of wheat-bread and butter, (quite a luxury then), and set the little boy down to eat it. When left alone a large tom-cat came up to divide the boys meal. A fight followed, and the boy threw the cat in the fire where there happened to be a bed of coals. The coals stuck to the cat's fur—the cat ran and screamed until the boy was scared out of his wits. He too ran home as fast as he could. This occurred when Paul McNeel was 6 years old, in the old house in the rear of the Hon M. J. McNeel's present residence.

As I say, Paul McNeel, at a tender age, became an inmate of his grandparents home, and to a great degree received his early training from them. The death of his mother, Mrs Rachel McNeel, that occurred in 1818, when he was only 15 years old, rendered his dependence on his grand-parents the more necessary. There is a field belonging to the estate of the late Jacob McNeel that my father has frequently, in passing, pointed out to to me which he and his grandfather planted in corn, (they doing the dropping), in May, 1825; and in connexion he told how active of body and sound of mind his grand-father was at eighty, and soon after this the old gentleman was seized with pneumonia and died.

I have related these two incidents—the beginning and ending of the acquaintance of these two people,—to show you how thoroughly I have been taught, both by "legend and lay," to know and revere the character of the venerable pioneer. The exact spots where the "White Pole Church" and the "First Camp" were built have been pointed out to me; and, as you suggest, both should be marked by a slab of the marble which is found in such abundance close by.

Martha Davis, the wife of this gentleman, was a Welch girl,—a Calvinistic Methodist,—born in the year 1742, being therefore three years older than her husband. She survived him five years, being 88 years old at the time of her death. You speak of the death of her child during the absence of her husband to Point Pleasant. Of this I have frequently heard, and that she with her own hands prepared the body of her child and performed the first burial rites ever performed at the McNeel graveyard.

There was another matter this lady was the first to do, and for which her name deserves to be kept in dear remembrance, and by this latter act to the living generation she has set an example of the highest Christian character: and that was to bring with her to her new mountain home as a part of her dowry, a Bible printed in the Welsh dialect. A noble exemplar! This is the first Bible that there is any record of having ever been brought to the waters of the Greenbrier; and with all the solemnity attached to this dear old Bible, there have been many amusing anecdotes connected therewith. If Captain McNeel and Dr Matt. Wallace have each sufficiently recovered form their recent sickness, I should like you to call on the Captain and get him to relate to you about the Doctor undertaking to read this Bible to one of his patients, an elderly lady whose afflictions were more imaginary than real.

Isaac Jordan, a one-armed man, was the first Jordan to marry in the McNeel family.

The date fixed by you as the time when John McNeil, Sr., arrived in the Levels, 1765, is correct. He was then in his 20th year, and now when we now reflect that this was the year succeeding when the Indians had made the most fearful massacre of the white people in most all the Valley counties, and that the country between the Valley of Virginia and the Ohio River was an unbroken wilderness, we wonder at the adventurous spirit of this remarkable man.

Of the traditional history that I have heard of him, the thing that impressed me most of all was his wonderful sincerity of character and strength of purpose in his daily life. This feature of his character had a powerful influence on his grandson, Paul McNeel, contributing in no small degree to his success in after life.

And in conclusion will say that during the twenty-seven years it was my pleasure to know my father, I never heard him mention the name of John McNeel, Sr., but with the words of praise upon his lips. And the deep hold that Methodism has held in the Little Levels of Pocahontas for the last hundred years can be explained when I say that the man and woman who built the "White Pole Church" laid the foundation of the Methodist Church; and let us trust that the influence of this humble Christian man and woman will descend from generation to generation, and like the mantle of Elijah prove a blessing on whomsoever it shall fall.

Very truly your friend,
JOHN A. MCNEEL.
Kerrs Creek, Va., March 1, 1897.

Nil Desperandum.

Do n't despair: Hope on, however dark and forbidding the clouds above you, if need be, hope against hope, for hopefulness is helping and despair is crushing,—killing. Nil desperandum! let this be thy motto.

There was a large amount of good sense and fine philosophy, yea of Christian practice, in the manner, tone of voice, and action of a clergyman on a disabled vessel, amid a crowd of panic-stricken passengers who had given up all hope of outriding the storm in their ship's shattered condition. Despair was on every face, and all effort for life had ceased. At this supreme moment one man, calm, hopeful, nerved to greater action by the necessities of the case, arose and spoke words of cheer. I am not relating the shipwreck in which the great and blessed Apostle Paul stood forth and helped that crew by his good will and Christian hope. My incident is of modern times.

The clergyman aforesaid continuing his hopeful words to the frightened and endangered people all gathered on the deck and ready to leap into the sea, calmly took his watch out and began to wind it: "he thinks we may be saved; let us work for it!" was the general feeling that like an electric current ran through the circle, and dull despair, flapping his leaden wings, left the space for the buoyant, white-winged dove of hope. And all those people and the ship itself outrode the storm and lived beyond it. "Nil desperandum" had nearly been forgotton. It was the wise, good clergyman who remembered and whispered hope unto his fellows.

On terra firma the instances are numerous wherein a hopeful spirit imparts itself to despairing souls and fills them with new enargy for the battle of life. In cases of sudden illness or distressing accidents how blessed it is to find a calm and hopeful friend who can speak cheerily and kindle the fire of hope in the cold, black chamber of despair. Not the least help of a good physician in times of sickness and trouble is the cheerful, hopeful look upon his face and in his voice and manner as he goes to work for the benefit of the suffering. Surely God will reward the faithful, hard-working doctor for the constant hopefulness he brings into chambers of pain and its frequent accompaniment of more or less despair.

Hope is of God and it belongs to heaven. Thanks be to God that in this sin-troubled and storm-ridden world it is possible for hope to live and grow and flourifh.

A. L. P.

25 CTS PISO'S CURE FOR CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS. Best Cough Syrup. Tastes Good. Use in time. Sold by druggists. CONSUMPTION 25 CTS

Physical Endurance.

Physical endurance is a quality which varies remarkably with different individuals. The performance of feats of great physical strength depends for the most part on the condition to which the muscles have been brought by previous exercise. The power of endurance, on the other hand, is largely a question of inheriled constitution. Persons subjected to the same strain, such as a long walk or a boat race, "play out" at greatly different stages, tho the course of training and manner of living may have been identical.

In every-day life the same thing is observed. Men following the same occupation, and living in practically the same manner, perform the same work with decidedly differing degrees of ease. It is a matter of common observation that as a woodsman, a huntsman, or an every-day toiler, he who has quality of physical enduıance in greatest measure will excel. The same is true in professional life. Ordinarily it is found that the man who outstrips his fellows has the ability to labor long hours together without exhaustion.

Most men who have been distinguished for great physical endurance have inherited or acquired a state of mind which is doubtless one secret of their ability, namely, freedom from worry. Worry distracts the mind, so that its energies, instead of being concentrated, are divided between two or more trains of thoughts. To the extent of avoiding worry—needless dwelling upon matters that cannot be helped—the power of endurance may be acquired.

Every man's strength has a definite limit, a limit not determined by that of others. His physical endurance may be above the average; it may be below it. He should not go beyond it, whatever it is. Before his physical powers are exhausted, not afterward, he should rest and recuperate. Each individual must of necessity learn his own limits.

The best work is perhaps accomplished by long continued application, but not the point of exhaustion.

Exhaustion may often avoided by changing one work for another, just as difficult, perhaps, but involving another set of faculties.

Mental labor consumes the vital properties of the blood just as muscular labor does, and hence it is as important to avoid exhaustion in mental as in physical employment.

Wonderful as the power of endurance appears to be in certain men, it must be remembered that every one is fettered by the law that rules all organized beings. Life moves in a series of circles, and apart of each circle must be devoted to recuperation. Great powers of endurance are, for the most part, the gifts of a vigorous ancestry, to be used in reason and not abused.—The Youth's Companion.

SUBSTITUTE FOR RUBBER.—The discovery of a substitute for rubber, which is said, can be produced in large quantities at less than a quarter of the cost of genuine rubber, is announced by a Sonomia county, (Cal.), journal.

The substitute is the product of a tree which grows abundantly in the central part of the state and was discovered by accident. The tree is tapped near the base, and the sap, which is quite a dark color, is caught in a vessel. After being exposed for a day or two a layer of tough elastic material, closely resembling rubber, is formed. If this is taken off another layer will form.

This substance will vulcanize like rubber and, when properly treated, is a perfect substitute for the genuine article. It has been tested by several scientific men who say it will take the place of rubber for almost any purpose.

A company is being formed to put this new material, which has not been named, on the market. The method of treatment is secret. The discoverer says the supply is nexhaustable.

A CABINET OF "J's."—It will hardly do to call the new cabinet a set of jays, under any construction of that phrase. But it will be a J body as well as notable for its Mc's. There are in the list:—

J. Sherman.
L. J. Gage.
J. Long.
J. J. McKenna.
J. A. Gary.
J. J. McCook.

General Alger's name contains no J, but it has the 'J' sound sure enough.—The Record, Boston.

THE State of Virginia last year peansioned 1,845 ex-Confederate soldiers in sums ranging from $15 to $100.

Now is the time to subscribe!!

The Pocahontas Times.

MARCH 19, 1897.

Local Events.

A MAD-DOG scare has troubled the people of the Red Sulphur district in Monroe.

J. R. MOORE has purchased the John Gay property, on the mountain near this place.

MARVIN CARTER has arranged to keep several large droves of cattle in the next few weeks, both comming out and going in.

I DID want to see the Inauguration, but I was too busy hunting for bargains in Baltimore. So I hustled, and my reward will come when you see the goods. You will find them up to date. P. G.

THE stilt fever has struck the boys of the town and for a week or two the boys and not a few of the girls have been walking on stilts. Some of the older citizens tried to walk the other day with a good deal of success.

IT seems to be stated on reliable authority that unless for cause, there will be few or no changes made in the fourth post masterships and some other officials until the expiration of the terms for which the office holders are now serving.

WASHINGTON threw a dollar across the Potomac—we will make yours go still further. We are undersold by none. You can buy from us best standard granulated sugar @ 5¾ cts per lb; Arbuckle Coffee @ 17cts; Green Coffee 15ct. Other goods very low. Yours respectfully, L. D. SHARP.

THE Peabody Insurance company has paid to S. A. Gilmore the amount of the judgement rendered against them at the June term of Court last year. The judgement and interest was $2634.64, and the entire cost of the suit $745.48, divided as follows: Plaintiff's costs 382.62 and defendant's costs $362.80. The amount paid under the execution only included the plaintiff's costs.

GEORGE A. BURNER, ESQ., is richly entitled to our grateful acknowledgments for a copy of a publication named "Minneapolis through a Camera," 1857–1896. To be appreciated this beautiful affair (issued by the Minneapolis Board of Trade) has to be seen and read. It is in advance of anything yet coming under our notice in point of artistic beauty and unique mechanical finish, an exquisite blending of the useful and the decorative.

MANY of our readers will be more than gratified to learn that the Hon William Curry, of Huntersville, has about recovered from his recent attack of influenza, and he is enjoying comparatively comfortable health and bodily vigor. He is deservedly held in highest esteem by our people all over the county for his long and faithful services in official life, untarnished even by the slightest breath of suspicion. The honor and approbation due a good and faithful man are most cheerfully accorded him.

A LETTER has been received from Mr George A. Burner, now resident in Minneapolis, Minnesota. He seems to be hungry for The Pocahontas Times, having but lately found out that there was such a thing on earth. He wants to buy up all the back numbers of the present volume and as many more volumes as may be in sight at fancy rates. In conclusion he writes: "It has been eighteen years since I left West Virginia to make my home in this State of beautiful lakes, (there being over 10,000 of them, by actual count, in the State), and the land of hard wheat, from which is made the best wheat-flour in the world, and some of it is sent to every civilized country in the world, 'Pillsbury's Best' is found for sale even in the faroff 'Land of the midnight Sun.'"

CHARLES W. SLAVIN has returned from the State prison, having been pardoned, and is now at his home at Gillespie, in the northern part of the County. He was well treated at the penitentiary, and he speaks in highest terms of the officials who were so kind to him. Fortunately for him the Superintendent had known Ham Collins, for the killing of whom he was sentenced to a term of eleven years, and was not disposed to regard his slayer harshly. When Slavin first arrived he was placed with the idle gang and this sort of confinement was very trying to him. He was finally placed at work in the fly-net shop, and then in the department where buggy washers are made. While working here he had a severe attack of pulmonary trouble and was carried out for dead. While he was recovering he assisted in the work of the hospital and was placed there permanently. He thus had an easy task. He left the best of records for good conduct in the prison. He was given a suit of clothes and a railway ticket to Beverly. One of the ways in which he was favored by the officials was in letting his mustache grow again and he has not that close cropped and shaven appearance, common to inmates of a State prison. He seems very grateful for the effort made by his friends which resulted in his release.

I WILL tan a few choice beef-hides—one half for the other. E. L. SMITH, Mill Point, W. Va.

NEXT week we will print the game-law passed by the recent legislature.

A GENTLEMAN in Washington wishes to secure a dressed rattlesnake hide for which he will pay a reasonable price. Address THE TIMES.

ELKINS was nearly wiped out by fire Sunday. Loss over $100,000. The office of The Inrermountain was burned. No insurance.

THE Baltimore Conference of the M. E. Church South will convene in Staunton, on Wednesday, March 24, with Bishop Charles B. Galloway, of Georgia, presiding.

ONE or two years ago there were six newspapers in Staunton, now there are but three. Newspapers feel the stringency of the times more than most callings, unless it be preaching.

MR TAZEWELL M. MCCORKLE, representing T. A. Davis, Tobacconists, Baltimore, was in Marlinton Monday night. In passing from Franklin to Monterey during the recent freshets he lost his samples at the Colaw fording of the South Branch.

THERE was an interesting sacred concert at Huntersville last Sabbath afternoon. It is proposed to have another on the afternoon of the 4th Sabbath at the same place, with a view to developing interest in congregational sacred music.

IT looks as if people owning cattle in Virginia and keeping them in West Virginia may be required to pay taxes twice on such property. They are assessed in January in Virginia, and then, if found in West Virginia, may be assessed again in April, as the law now stands.

SPECIAL FOR THIS TWO WEEKS.—One sixteen ounce bag of smoking tobacco, regular price 25 cents, will be sold at 15 cents per lb., chewing tobacco 5c per lb., and Navy tobacco 25c per lb. Never you mind how I am doing it. If you do n't believe it, just call for the goods and be convinced. P. GOLDEN.

THE Virginia Conference of the M. E. Church held its 29th session at Roanoke, Va., March 11–15,—Bishop W. F. Mallalue presiding. Appointments for Greenbrier district: D. C. Hedric P. E. Augusta, J. D. Mays and J. Adamson; Edray, W. A. Sharp; Forest Hill, R. R. Little; Greenbrier, S. C. Morgan; Highland, R. T. Hartness; Blue Sulphur, M. W. Atkinson; Ronceverte, J. E. Allender; Paint Bank, C. M Neff; Rich Patch, G. P Hannah; Pocahontas, to be supplied; Pendleton, C. M. Fultz and L. B. Bowers. The next session will be held at Falls Church, Virginia.

IT is our unfeigned pleasure to note the fact that for several months past a literary mutual improvement association has been conducted by Mrs Holt and Mrs Dr Cunningham as President and Secretary, accomplished and energetic ladies. The object in view is to provide useful and pleasant entertainment for their youthful friends. The exercises comprise essays, recitations, readings, and criticisms. The meeting last Friday night was very entertaining, and gave indications that a taste for literary and intellectual recreation is rapidly developing among many of our younger people. The next assembly will be on Friday night, March 26th. Longfellow and his writings will be the leading topic for consideration. The public school building is the usual place of meeting.

I HAVE given Chamberlain's Cough Remedy a fair test and consider it one of the very best remedies for croup that I have ever found. One dose has always been sufficient, altho I use it freely. Any cold my children contract yields very readily to this medicine. I can conscientiously recommend it for croup and colds in children—GEO. E. WOLFF, Clerk of the Circuit Court Ferdinanda, Fla. Sold by druggists.

Growing Children

One-third of all the children die before they are five years old. Most of them die of some wasting disease. They grow very slowly; keep thin in flesh; are fretful; food does not do them much good. You can't say they have any disease, yet they never prosper. A slight cold, or some stomach and bowel trouble takes them away easily.

SCOTT'S EMULSION of Cod-liver Oil with Hypophosphites is just the remedy for growing children. It makes hard flesh; sound flesh; not soft, flabby fat. It makes strong bones, healthy nerves. It changes poor children to children rich in prosperity.

Book about it free for the asking.

☞ No substitute for Scott's Emulsion will do for the children what we know Scott's Emulsion will do. Get the genuine.

For sale by all druggists at 50c. and $1.00.

SCOTT & BOWNE, New York.

Correspondence.

DUNMORE.—DELAYED.

Fine weather for March, and the little birds sing their do-dle-do and hop from branch to branch. Soon the snakes will be out, and they will have to take to the woods for the roads are so bad they can't travel them. All persons who want to keep up the roads by work, and not by taxation, will have a good chance to work all they want this spring.

Peter Dow and H. Nathan, of William's River, were in town Sunday and Monday. They bought Earl Arbogast's fine gray team.

Billy Sheets and Reece Pritchard are off to Beverly for goods for J. B. White and George Oliver.

Miss Emma Taylor and Mrs L. E. Campbell were up to Green Bank this week trading at the store.

Harry Patterson was in town Monday, and says he was up to see his best girl.

Rev J. T. Maxwell and daughter Laura were at Dunmore Sunday.

Rev R. M. Caldwell preached an able sermon Sunday evening. He will preach again on the evening of the 21st instant.

Messrs Ewin McLaughlin and Brown and Asbury Hiner, Highland County, were out last week on a visit.

Governor Hughes is in town again.

Billy Pritchard, of Virginia, was at Dunmore last week for a load of white-pine lumber.

Sol. Davis, the Green Bank Jew is off to Baltimore for his spring goods. Sol. says if you do not keep goods you cannot sell them. I see where he is right.

Jim Moomau is off to McDowell to see his betsy.

It is strange indeed to see kerns this time o' year, but there is one at Isaac Keirns—its a boy.

We understand a Miss Greathouse died, last week, above Green Bank, of diphtheria.

John A. Noel has been appointed postmaster at Dunmore. Turn the rascals out—we have been there Eli!

It begins to look like Bryan and free-silver was the cause of floods, failures, and assignments as predicted before the election. Bimettalism is what is needed. The single gold standard is destroying the business of the whole country. Selah.

The Green Bank, Oak Grove, Dunmore, Frost, and Driscol football teams will play at Dennis Dever's on the 23d day of March at 1 p. m.

The Frost team got left Saturday by the Oak Grove team. The same teams will play a match game at Frost, Saturday the 20th.

Mr C. O. Arbogast presented to Mr Hill and the Court an eighteen thousand dollar bond, for Deputy-Sheriff, and could have had it double that amount if necessary. Mr Arbogast was assessor for 20 years or more, and gave entire satisfaction.

Giles Sharp was in town Saturday.

J. B. White spent Sunday at his old home.

Confidence is a good thing, but something else is needed.

LOBELIA.

Mud, rain, wind, and sleet.

Some snakes killed.

William Shafer and bride are on the Creek visiting.

Rev Woolridge is holding a series of meetings on Bruffeys Creek, with some good results we hope.

Rev S. C. Morgan was not able to attend Conference at Roakoke, Va.

Rev C. M. Anderson is building a new house on Hardscrabble St.

Some sugar made in this section. W. B. Hill made over 200 pounds.

A man named Lindsay, from Indiana, is boarding in this section, and follows hunting all the time. A forty-dollar Winchester is his pet.

John Conley, of Kanawha county, is visiting his uncle at this place.

The late freshet damaged our roads badly.

There is some talk of a Boom & Manufacturing Company at Lobelia. We have the matrial and the gas—all we need is the money.

Your correspondent visited the coal-mines of Locust Creek a few days ago, just to see what might be there. Accompanied by Mr Thomas Callison, to my surprise I found a fine coal-mine of splendid quality. If anyone wishes to see for himself, he is free to do so. The vein is four feet thick, and my opinion is old Droop is underlaid by the same coal, worth thousands of dollars to our county. Messrs Thomas and Richard Callison tell me it is unsurpassed for its burning qualities. As they have used it for one year, they should know. Some one gave this coal a boom through The Times some time since. I wonder if he ever smelt burning coal on the railroad about the ground?

More coming. OBSERVER.

MR ELLIS MOORE, of Brown's Cree,k has just returned from school at Hillsboro. In a joking way he claims to have had the highest standing of any of the students. So much for being 6 feet and 6 inches high.

DEER CREEK.

The warm days of the past week seem to say that spring is coming and with it the bright sunshine and beautiful flowers.

Sugar making is the order of the day. Messrs. Warwick and Oliver treated some young ladies to warm sugar on the 14th, inst., which was very much enjoyed by all present.

C. H. Cleek, of Cleeks Mill, Va., spent several days in this neighborhood last week.

J. W. Oliver, while working on his farm, on Back Alleghany, came near being killed by the reaction of a canthoook.

We hear that Miss Grace Hull is teaching a select school at Green Bank.

Miss Dora Brownlee, who recently closed her school at Dunmore, is now visiting her aunt, Mrs C. L. Lightner.

Miss Susie Simmons, of Marlinton, was visiting friends in this vicinity during the past week.

We are glad to hear that Forest Warwick is speedily recovering from a severe attack of muscular rheumatism. PEGGOTY BARKIS.

FROST.

The weather is so changeable that farmers do n't make much speed making sugar. Not much plowing done yet.

Young men should not have have their gum shoes so large that they pull off in the mud late at night.

The debating society at this place is in a flourishing condition. The subject on last Wednesday night was: "Resolved, that West Virginia should have a compulsory school law." Affirmative.—J. A. Friel. W. B. Sharp, O. B. Sharp, Dr Guin, S. Curry. Negative—H. S. Guin, T. H. Lantz, C. Harper, W. A. G. Sharp. O. Williams, president; J. A. Hannah, J. L. Herold, M. F. Herold, Judges. Decision given in favor of the negative.

Prof Lantz's school will close Friday. An entertainment will be given by the pupils on the evening of that day.

A. V. Bond will return to his home in Pendleton next week.

We wonder if the man who is doing so much stealing in this neighborhood will go to work after he has got a supply of tools.

Mr John A. Cleek is found at the P. O. duty every Sunday.

Zane Moore expects to rent the Dever farm another year. Mr Dever does not expect to return for a year.

If you want to buy the best and cheapest harrow, call on or address J. A. Moore, Sunset, W. Va. He sells the ACME.

Mrs Isabella Moore, who is in her 71st year, has been sick some time past, but is able to be up again.

Mrs E. M. Hannah is making ready for the spring stock of goods which she has purchased.

J. L. Herold is visiting friends and relatives in Highland.

We congratulate The Times on its enlargement.

We remain, H. & M.

BUCKEYE.

Lots of rain and mud, and a few people are making sugar.

H. S. Rucker and Assessor Joe Buzzard were in this part a few days ago on business.

Winters Sutton and wife, of Green Bank, are visiting in this section.

W. McClintic was at home from camp on business, a few days ago.

Morgan Grose, of Virginia, has been at Buckeye this week.

Miss Laura Overholt has gone to the Hot Springs to visit friends and relatives.

Oliver McKeever has moved to Huntersville.

H. Nathan and James McAllister, Jews from Laurel Creek, were in this vicinity last week.

Frank Thomson has gone to Webster, where he will do some lumbering for Peter Dow at Hardwood.

Douglas McNeil's writing school is a success. He has thirty-two scholars enrolled. CROCKETT.

H. S. Galford has returned from Falling Springs, where he had taken a lot of fat cattle.

Otis Morrison has returned from the lumber camp.

Malvin Overholt has gone to Bath County, to visit friends and relatives.

Frank Thomson will move to Hardwood, where he will do some lumbering.

For Sale.

I wish to sell my property in Huntersville, which I bought of C. F. Moore. I will sell the house, now occupied by R. Mason, and the wood land known as "Hickory Hollow."

I also offer about one thousand acres of land on Alleghany mountain, adjoining the lands of H. G. Davis and J. H. Patterson, near Glade Hill and about three miles from Dunmore. Known as the 'Sheep Pens.' Upon which there has been as many as one thousand sheep summered in one season. Well timbered and well watered.

I offer for sale another tract of land of 89 acres, adjoining Harvy Nottingham's land and others. Upon which there is a hundred thousand feet of pine and the same amount of oak. E. N. MOORE,

Dunmore, W. Va

DILLEYS MILL.

We are having a very mild March, every thing tends to an early spring. Feed seems plentiful and stock has wintered remarkable well.

Mr. W. H. Dilley went to Covington with a load of apples.

J. L. Carpenter's little girl is threatened with a severe attact of pneumonia.

George Bambrick Esq., is off to Huntersville and other points on business.

Mr. George Fertig and wife are visiting at Mr. Samuel Harpers.

Those who addressed our public schools at their closing, should not overlook one of the most essential elements,—that of educatiing the heart, and should be very careful to live exemplary lives, and be actuated by pure and patriotic impulses so that they may wield an influence, and not drop into ruts from which they can not easily extricate themselves, for it should well be remembered "A bird with a broken wing, can never soar so high again."

Miss Florence Hively is contemplating a visit to Pendleton co. We hope she will not conclude to absent herself from our county, for by so doing we lose one of our best teachers, one who is purely self made, and has reached the topmost round in the proffessional ladden as a teacher.

Prof. G. E. Moore made a trip to Hillsboro the 12th.

The whooping-cough in this part has about expired.

Rev. W. T. Price was a pleasant caller in this part a short time since.

DRY BRANCH.

Sugar-making is the order of the day.

John Sharp and wife are on a visit to Point Mountain

Floyd Ware will move to Elk.

Martin Crummett has built fence all winter and spring and expects to build fence the balance of his days. He calls his only son Joshua Jonah Solomon Saul.

Mack Woods' wife is on the sick list.

Clark Sharp has gone to the railroad after some baggage for Miss Hebden.

TOM THUMB.

DRISCOL.

R. L. Crummett, the road-contractor, is getting along fine and doing good work. He had some excitement on Saturday. While getting rock from the hillside below the splash-dam he discovered a rattlesnake under a large rock near by. After capturing this one he began looking for others, which resulted in a find of four of the finest you ever saw. This is the first snake story of the new administration.

Miss Lillie M. Friel will close one of the most successful terms of school ever taught in this section on Friday, the 19th instant.

R. D. Rimel is off to Staunton this week.

SALLY WHITECOTTON.

FOOTBALL.

Oak Grove 2; Frost 1.

On March 6th a game of football was played at Mr Clark Dilley's between the above teams. Altho the day was unfavorable, there was quite a crowd out to witness the—among them several ladies—who kept up a lively cheering for both teams.

The game was called at 1:20 p. m., and was hotly contested from the start. The ball was carried down to Oak Grove's goal-line and a skirmish ensued which resulted in a first goal for Frost by being kicked through by one of the opposite side. The ball was soon in play, and was carried into Frost's territory, and a goal was scored for Oak Grove,—being knocked thro by one of Frost's full-back. The ball being again put in play, from a free-kick the ball was passed to King who scored goal number 2. Half-time was called, the score standing 2–1 in Oak Grove's favor. No scoring was done in the last half, tho the playing was hard and fast.

Oak Grove.—B. King, Captain; S. Sutton, C. Dilley, F. Arbogast, J. Hudson (forwards.) W. Arbogust, J. Sutton, H. Sheets (half-backs.) E. Wooddell, W. Hudson (full-backs.) E. Hudson (goal.) Frost.—C. Sharp, Captain, U. Sharp, A. Sharp, O. Williams, W. B. Sharp (forwards.) H. Reed, S. Curry, H. Sharp (half-backs.) G. Dilley, B. Sharp (full-backs.) S. Gibson (goal.)

Referee, Walker Yeager; linesmen, O. Slavin and J. Reed.

D. W. DEVER

Sale of

Personal PROPERTY

On the 23rd day of March, 1897, I will offer for sale at my residence on Knapps creek all the personal property belonging to me, viz:

10 Cows, & other stock.
3 good Work-Horses.
1 Set of Harness
2 Wagons
1 Mowing Machine and Rake
1 Buggy and Harness

A lot of Hay, Wheat, Corn, and Oats. A lot of Bacon, and other things, too numerous to mention.

Terms made known on day of sale.

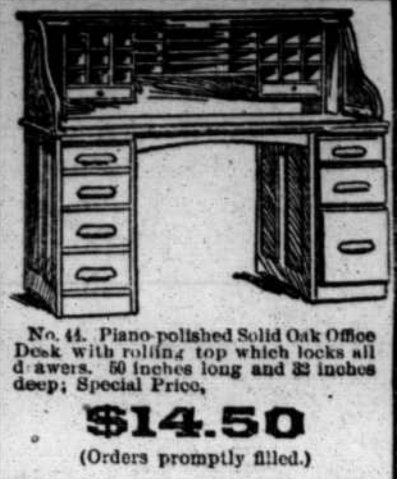
D. W. DEVER.

March 5, 1897.

Swecker Auctioneer.

Watch Out for S. W. HOLT'
New Advertisement.

800 Bushels of Good Seed Oats are for Sale at GOLDEN'S.



No. 44. Piano-polished Solid Oak Office Desk with rolling top which locks all drawers. 50 inches long and 32 inches deep; Special Price,

$14.50

(Orders promptly filled.)

You will find over 1000 bargains in our new catalogue. It contains all kinds of Furniture, Carpet, Baby Carriages, Refrigerators, Bedding, Stoves, Fancy Lamps, Lace Curtains, etc. You are paying local dealers double our prices. Drop a postal now for our money-saving catalogue which we mail free of all charges. Deal with the manufacturers and your dollar doubles its buying power.

Julius Hines & Son,

BALTIMORE, MD.

DENTISTRY.—Dr J. H. Weymouth, of Elkins, W. Va., will be at Edray Mar. 19th, and remain 3 days; Buckeye (Clark Kellison's) March 23d, 3 days; Mill Point, 26th, 3 days; Huntersville, 30th, 2 days; Green Bank, April 1st, 3 days; Marlinton April 5th, 4 days. On account of a press of business since locating at Elkins, he has been unable to make his visits to this county on time, but in the future he will make them regularly every spring and fall.

DANGERS FROM THE GRIP.

The greatest danger from La Grippe is of its resulting in pneumonia. If reasonable care be used, however, and Chamberlain's Cough Remedy taken, all danger will be avoided. Among the tens of thousands who have used this remedy for the grip, we have yet to learn of a single case having resulted in pneumonia, which shows conclusively that this remedy is a certain preventive for that dread disease. It will effect a permanent cure in less time than any other treatment. The 25 and 50 cent sizes for sale by all druggists.

Valuable Land for Rent

A valuable grazing farm of more than 300 acres for rent,—well watered and under good fence. Will rent or take in cattle by the month. For further information call on or address

ALLIE B. MCLAUGHLIN,
f5tf Edray, W. Va.

Notice to Horse-Traders.

ON April 6th, 1897, first day of Court, in front of the Court-house, at Marlinton, W. Va., I will offer for sale my thoroughbred Hamiltonian stallion, on 30 days time, purchaser giving bond and good security. This horse is well-known in Pocahontas and Greenbrier Counties, and will be in good trim for the season of 1897.

Respectfully,
W. W. TYREE.
Marlinton, W. Va.

Harvesting Machines.

I will furnish the JOHNSTON HARVESTING MACHINERY & MOWERS this year from $40.00 to $45.00, according to the length of cut.

Yours respectfully,
C. J. HILL,
Agent.
LOBELIA, W. VA. [f12 6m

Reward! Reward! Reward!

You are REWARDED by trading with us. Where we saved you a dollar in previous years, we can save you two this year. We do n't beg for trade—we get it through our low prices.

NEW CUSTOMERS flock to us as soon as they hear of our bargains. If it pays others so well to buy from us, why should n't it pay you?

We make our money not by BEING CLOSE, but by SELLING CLOSE. Whatever you buy from us you will find our prices right.

We Don't Want the Earth!

Only just enough Profit to live on.

How MUCH? WILL YOU SAVE IN A YEAR BY BUYING FROM 15 TO 35 PER CENT CHEAPER than ELSEWHERE?

WE have our Store Chock full of Bargains. Come one and all, and we will do the best we can to please you.

Yours for Business,
L. D. SHARP
Linwood, W Va.

A fallen soldiers letter
20 pt McLaughl

The Pocahontas Times.

Andrew & Norman Price, Owners. "Montani Semper Liberi!" Andrew Price, Editor

VOL. 14, NO. 35 MARLINTON, WEST VIRGINIA, MARCH 26, 1897. $1.00 PER YEAR

$3,400.00 CASH AND PRIZES GIVEN FREE EACH MONTH FOR Sunlight SOAP WRAPPERS

As follows:
4 First Prizes, each of $100 Cash - - - $ 400.00
20 Second " " " $100 PIERCE SPECIAL Bicycles* 2,000.00
40 Third " " " $ 25 Gold Watches - 1,000.00
Cash and Prizes given each month - - $3,400.00
12
Total given during 12 mos. 1897, $40,800.00

HOW TO OBTAIN THEM. Competitors to save as many SUNLIGHT SOAP Wrappers as they can collect. Cut off the top portion of each wrapper, that portion containing the heading "SUNLIGHT SOAP." These (called "Coupons") are to be sent, postage fully paid, enclosed with a sheet of paper stating Competitor's full name and address and the number of Coupons sent in, to Lever Bros., Ltd., New York, marked on outside Wrapper (top left hand corner) with NUMBER of the DISTRICT Competitor lives in.

No. of District	NAME OF DISTRICT.
1	New York City, Brooklyn, Long and Staten Islands, New Jersey.
2	New York State (outside of N.Y. City, Brooklyn, Long and Staten Islands).
3	Pennsylvania, Delaware, Maryland, West Virginia and District of Columbia.
4	The New England States.

*The Bicycles are the celebrated Pierce Special, 1897 Pattern, m'f'd by Geo. N. Pierce & Co., of Buffalo, Boston and New York. Fitted with Hartford Tires, First Class Nickle Lamp, New Departure Bell, Standard Cyclometer, and Hunt Lace Saddle.

SEND THIS TOP PORTION

RULES.

1. Every month during 1897 in each of the 4 districts prizes will be awarded as follows: The 1 Competitor who sends in the Largest Number of coupons from the district in which he or she resides will receive $100 Cash. The 5 Competitors who send in the Next Largest Numbers of coupons from the district in which they reside will Each receive at winner's option a lady's or gentleman's Pierce Special bicycle, price $100.00. The 10 Competitors who send in the Next Largest Numbers of coupons from the district in which they reside will Each receive at winner's option a lady's or gentleman's Gold Watch, price $25.

2. The Competitions will Close the Last Day of Each Month during 1897. Coupons received too late for one month's competition will be put into the next.

3. Competitors who obtain wrappers from unsold soap in dealer's stock will be disqualified. Employees of Lever Brothers, Ltd., and their families, are debarred from competing.

4. A printed list of Winners in Competitor's district will be forwarded to Competitors in about 21 days after each competition closes.

5. Lever Brothers, Ltd., will endeavor to award the prizes fairly to the best of their ability and judgment, but it is understood that all who compete agree to accept the award of Lever Brothers, Ltd., as final.

LEVER BROS., Ltd., New York.

J. H. CLARK

House and Sign Painter, Hillsboro, W. Va., does his work well. Uses the new discovery for binding White Lead. No Chalking or Scaling.—Give him a trial.

m19 6m

R·I·P·A·N·S

Packed Without Glass.
TEN FOR FIVE CENTS.

This special form of Ripans Tabules is prepared from the original prescription, but more economically put up for the purpose of meeting the universal modern demand for a low price.

DIRECTIONS.—Take one at meal or bed time or whenever you feel poorly. Swallow it whole, with or without a mouthful of water. They cure all stomach troubles; banish pain; induce sleep; prolong life. An invaluable tonic. Best Spring Medicine. No matter what's the matter, one will do you good. One gives relief—a cure will result if directions are followed.

The five-cent packages are not yet to be had of all dealers, although it is probable that almost any druggist will obtain a supply when requested by a customer to do so; but in any case a single carton, containing ten tabules, will be sent, postage paid, to any address for five cents in stamps, forwarded to the Ripans Chemical Co., No. 10 Spruce St., New York. Until the goods are thoroughly introduced to the trade, agents and peddlers will be supplied at a price which will allow them a fair margin of profit, viz.: 1 dozen cartons for 40 cents—by mail 45 cents. 12 dozen (144 cartons) for $4.32—by mail for $4.82. 5 gross (720 cartons) for $20.52. 25 gross (3,600 cartons) for $100. Cash with the order in every case, and freight or express charges at the buyer's cost.

Scientific American Agency for PATENTS

CAVEATS, TRADE MARKS, DESIGN PATENTS, COPYRIGHTS, etc.

For information and free Handbook write to MUNN & CO., 361 BROADWAY, NEW YORK. Oldest bureau for securing patents in America. Every patent taken out by us is brought before the public by a notice given free of charge in the

Scientific American

Largest circulation of any scientific paper in the world. Splendidly illustrated. No intelligent man should be without it. Weekly, $3.00 a year; $1.50 six months. Address, MUNN & CO., PUBLISHERS, 361 Broadway, New York City.

SPECIAL POTATO FERTILIZER

and High Grade General Phosphates made from

VEGETABLE and ANIMAL MATTER.

Every farmer should write for prices, terms, and circulars.

AMERICAN REDUCTION CO., Pittsburg, Pa.

Old Dominion Building & Loan Association.
—OF—
Richmond, - - Virginia.

J. TAYLOR ELLYSON, President.
E. A. BARBER, Treasurer.
DIRECTORS.
J. Taylor Ellyson, Normon V. Ranpolph, John B. Purcell, John S. Ellet, Frank T. Sutton.

Authorized Capital	$20,000,000.
Subscribed Capital	5,000,000.
Paid Up Cash Capital	1,500,000.
Assets	2,000,000.

Depository—State Bank of Virginia. Investment stocks cost $1.00 per share membership fee, and 60 cents per month afterwards—withdrawable after twelve monthly payments, and sooner in event of the death of the stockholder.
H. A. YEAGER, Agent.
MARLINTON, W. VA.

Farmers' Home Fire Insurance Co., of West Virginia.

J. M. SYDENSTRICKER - - - President.
R. P. RITTENHOUSE - Sec'y & Treas.
INCORPORATED.

By the People and for the People.
For Isolated Property only. No Salaried Officers to Support. No capitalists to Enrich. No Loss, no Expense. Fair and Honorable Adjustment of all Losses. Cost less than one-fifth of what is paid stock companies, and is five times as secure. In most successful operation in all of the adjoining States. Thousands saved to farmers.

T. L. REYNOLDS & SONS, agents
Lewisburg, W VA

Lightning Hot Drops—
What a Funny Name!
Very True, but it Kills All Pain.
Sold Everywhere, Every Day—
Without Relief, There is No Pay!

1897. THE SUN. 1897

BALTIMORE, MD.

THE PAPER OF THE PEOPLE,
FOR THE PEOPLE AND WITH THE PEOPLE.

HONEST IN MOTIVE.
FEARLESS IN EXPRESSION.
SOUND IN PRINCIPLE.
UNSWERVING IN ITS ALLEGIANCE TO RIGHT THEORIES AND RIGHT PRACTICES.

The Sun publishes all the news all the time, but it does not allow its columns to be degraded by unclean, immoral, or purely sensational matter.

Editorially, The Sun is the consistent and unchanging champion and defender of popular rights and interests against political machines and monopolies of every character. Independent in all things, extreme in none. It is for good laws, good government and good order.

By mail Fifty Cents a month, Six Dollars a year.

The Baltimore Weekly Sun.

The Weekly Sun publishes all the news of each week, giving complete accounts of all events of interest throut the the world. As an AGRICULTURAL paper The Weekly Sun is unsurpassed. It is edited by writers of practical experience, who know what farming means, and what farmers want in an agricultural journal. It contains regular reports of the work of the AGRICULTURAL experiment stations throughout the country, of the proceedings of farmer's clubs and institutes, and the discussion of new methods and ideas in agriculture. Its Markets Reports, Poultry Department, and Veterinary column are particularly valuable to country readers. Every issue contains Stories, Poems, Household and Puzzle Columns, a variety of interesting and instructive selected matter, and other features, which make it a welcome visitor in city and country homes alike.

One dollar a year. Inducements to gettersup of clubs for the Weekly Sun. Both the Daily and Weekly Sun mailed free of postage in the United States, Canada, and Mexico. Payments invariably in advance. Address,

A. S. ABELL COMPANY,
Publishers and Proprietors,
Baltimore, Md.

The Inventor of Shorthand.—Sir Isaac Pitman, the inventor of the Pitman system of shorthand, died last month, in London, at the age of eighty-four. Altho living to see his system adopted throughout the world, and being acknowledged the 'father of phonography,' he died a disappointed man; for his plan to reform the orthography of the English language gained little or no headway under the strong conservatism of the English people. If they had only consented to spell it "fonography," his life-work would not have been in vain. The concluding paragraph of a letter written by him to the London Times, in 1879, presents a fair example of his theory:

> 'I hav riten mei leter fonet'kali, az iz mei kustom, and shall feel obleigd if it be aloud thus to apear in "he Times."

Sir Isaac Pitman was a tremendous worker, and did a great deal of editing and publishing in fonetic literature, among other things, issuing a library of about eighty volumes in shorthand, ranging from the Bible to "Rasselas."—Independent, New York.

A POINT PLEASANT boy got himself disliked the other day quite innocently. A school ma'am asked him to name the Presidents of the United States in their order. He said he could n't do it. "Why," said she, "when I was your age I knew them all by heart." "Yes'm," he responded, "but there wasn't so many of 'em then." And to this hour he does n't know why she looked at him so sourly.—Register.

FROM CRIPPLE CREEK.

After the big fire at Cripple Creek I took a very severe cold and tried many remedies without help, the cold only becoming more settled. After using three small bottles of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, the cold and cough left me, and in this high altitude it takes a meritorious remedy to do any good.—G. B. HENDERSON, editor of Daily Advertiser. For sale by druggists.

Now is the time to subscribe!!

THE WEEKLY LETTER.

The State of Washington has produced lately one of the largest trees in the world. The measurements and calculations as reported in the daily papers will be of interest to the reader. The tree is a fir. The height of the tree was 465 feet; to the first limb, 220 feet; circumference at base, 33 feet 11 inches. The tree was perfectly sound. Estimates of its age have placed it at 484 years. If sawed into lumber it would make 96,345 feet of boards. This lumber would serve to construct eight two-story cottages. It is to be hoped for the honor of the newspaper men who will fasten upon this article that the story is true, but an eleven-foot base seems too small for a tree of that tremendous height.

One of my earliest recollections is a tale of the big trees of the Pacific slope, which I fully believed. It was of a man cutting at the base of one of the big trees for three weeks to hollow out a house for himself, when one day having grown tired of his work he took a walk around the tree and on the other side discovered a stranger who had been working for over a month to make himself a home!

There is a big tree going to waste on Williams River I have heard. It is the poplar which was felled to make the piece of sawed timber six feet square exhibited at the World's Fair. The butt cuts of this tree lie in the bed of the river, and no flood can ever float them out. A man on horseback can just see over the top of one of the cuts, and for months there was a standing offer of $10 to the active woodsman who could climb up the side of the log.

⁂

Speaking of trees brings to mind the profligate waste of so much [illegible] days past. Probably the most wholesale destruction of valuable lumber was when the site of the town of Marlinton was cleared. The ground was covered with the most magnificent black walnut trees, and the first name by which this point was designated to hunters was the Walnut Bottom. As late as the Civil War there were a number of fine walnuts near this place, but the soldiers encamped here cut them down and used them for their camp-fires. One fine tree below the bridge and a magnificent hickory near it, were saved only by earnest begging on the part of those who as children had known how valuable they were as nut-bearers—besides being beautiful specimens of their kind. Forty years ago, a man needing a walnut tree had only to ask for it to have the pick of the best in the neighborhood. There are plenty of walnut rails in some of the old fences. Along in the seventies walnut timber was first bought in this county. The highest price paid for it was three dollars per thousand, and the buyer took the choicest trees. On several farms where this was done, ten years later, what the first lumbermen refused the second bought at sixteen dollars per thousand.

⁂

It was in the seventies that some daring projector conceived the idea of rafting on the Greenbrier. The river is large and comparatively smooth, but the fall is tremendous. The first raft, I have heard, was constructed at the mouth of Clover Creek, and the plan they adopted was to build four or five cribs or small rafts and then couple them together with hickory withes. This made a long limber train which was unweildy and soon became unmanageable. They suffered shipwreck in a few miles, and the poorly constructed raft was torn to pieces and the planks floated away one by one.

Afterwards raftsmen from the North came and constructed rafts of thirty or forty thousand feet of lumber by weaving the planks into a substantial raft. The first raftsmen went "happy-hazy," as one old county gentleman expressed it, and never knew whether they were running into rocks, tow-heads, or shallows, or not. Later pilots, who receive the enormous sum of $10 per trip, learned to take a raft straight thro to Ronceverte without a mishap. They learned that a slight adjustment of the rear oar a mile or so up the river would save a quarter of an hour's back-breaking work for the whole crew when the rocks came in sight.

⁂

One of the most difficult feats of rafting in the days when so many rafts were run was often necessary to be done in that part of the river exactly opposite the town of Marlinton. Rafts are seldom run at night, and when a raft was built above the shallow Marlin Ford on falling water it was deemed desirable to drop down the river and tie up in the Price Eddy below the bridge, for fear the raft would "stick" on the ford. If that landing could not be made, the raft would have to proceed two miles to the Kee Eddy, and all hands walk back and perhaps wade Knapp's Creek to reach a place to spend the night. Just above the upper eddy at the ford where the Levels road crossed the River, is the Riding Rock. While this rock was in sight the river could be ridden, and the river has a sufficient tide for rafting when this rock is just hid. The rock is exactly on the edge of the channel at low water, but in a rafting-tide it stands out in the river thirty yards or so from the bank, and cannot be seen at any considerable distance by the pilot. To land in the Price Eddy the raft must be dropped close to this rock, or the men at the oars will find it impossible to get into the eddy-water. Most of the pilots failed to make as often as they made the landing, but one of the most successful pilots was never known to miss "snubbing" at this eddy. The secret of his success was keeping two trees in line at a standing in the middle of the raft at the hind end. Thus he would not be endangered by the Riding Rock. He could see the water breaking over the rounded surface a few feet to his right hand, and by a few strokes of the steering-oar could throw the raft close in to the bank and land in safety.

THE game warden law passed by the recent legislature, is to this effect: A game and fish warden is appointed by the Governor for 4 years at a salary, from fines accruring from prosecutions made by him, to the amount of $1200 per annum and three cents per mile, mileage. His duties, briefly, are to prosecute and detect any violation of the game law, which is printed in this issue. He has power to make arrests and serve processes. He examines cars to see if there is any violation of the laws in regard to shipping game.

ONE of the most novel ideas for a new sensation will be given all those who desire it at the Paris Exposition in 1900. It will be to take a man up one thousand feet to the top of a tower and allow him to drop into a tank of water. A solid steel shell will contain the party of fifteen people, and they will be in a padded cell built on springs. There is a belief with some that when a man falls any great distance he is dead before he reaches the ground. This will not wholly prove that, for the inmates of the car will not feel any atmospheric disturbance. The time occupied in the descent will be eight seconds.

The Wealth of the Sea.—There is no mine—diamond, gold, or silver—on earth that contains half the riches of the ocean. Professor Liversidge, the Professor of Chemistry in Sydney University, in a very remarkable and exhaustive series of experiments, found evidence of gold being present in sea water off the New South Wales coast, in the proportion of one-half to one grain per ton, or in round numbers from 130 to 260 tons of gold per cubic mile. This, of course, means an enormous amount for the whole of the ocean, the cubic contents of which are put down approximately at 400,000,000 cubic miles; and if the gold be uniformly present, at the rate of one grain per ton, the total amount would be over 100,000,000,000 tons of gold! All the mines of earth do not equal it.—Exchange.

HOUSE BILL NO. FIFTY-TWO.

A BILL to amend and re-enact sections one, four, six, eleven, and sixteen of chapter sixty-two of the Code, entitled "For the preservation of certain useful animals and birds."

Be it enacted by the Legislature of West Virginia:

That the sections aforesaid be amended and re-enacted so as to read as follows:

SECTION 1. No person shall hunt chase, kill, or wound any deer from the passage of this act until the fifteenth day of October, one thousand nine hundred and one, and thereafter only from the first day of December to the fifteenth day of October, following, except a tame deer owned by the person killing the same. No person shall hunt or chase any deer with dogs within this State at any time.

No person shall at any time kill any fawn when in its spotted coat, or have the fresh skin of any such fawn in his possession.

And no person, company, firm, or corporation shall at any time kill or expose for sale or have in possession, except while alive, any deer, wild turkey, quail, pheasant, or ruffed grouse, or any part of the same, with the intention of sending or transporting or having the same sent or transported beyond the limits of this State.

Any one violating this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and for every conviction thereof shall be fined not less than twenty nor more than fifty dollars, or may at the discretion of the court or justice trying the case, be confined in jail not more than sixty days.

Any justice of the peace for the county wherein the offense was committed, shall have concurrent jurisdiction of such offense with the circuit court of the county.

Any person found with any recently killed venison or fresh deer-skins, wild turkey, quail, pheasant, or ruffed grouse in his possession, during the time when the killing of deer, wild turkey, quail, pheasant, or ruffed grouse is prohibited [illegible] That this section shall not apply to deer killed by the owners of any enclosed premises specially set apart for the protection and propagation of game within the boundaries thereof. And the reception by any person within this State of any deer, wild turkey, etc., for shipment to a point without the State, shall be prima facie evidence that said deer, wild turkey, etc., were killed within the State for the purpose of carrying the same beyond its limits.

SECTION 4. It shall not be lawful for any person to catch or destroy any of the fish in the creeks or rivers of this State by means of a drag or other nets, fish-pots, weirs, traps, by sledging, shooting, or other devices, (except by hook and line, gig and spear), nor shall it be lawful to place in the rivers, creeks, or streams of this State at any time any fish-pots, weirs, or traps, nor shall it be lawful to catch or destroy any fish in the rivers of this State by means of drag or other nets, sledging, shooting, seines, or other devices, (except by hook and line, gig and spear), from the first day of March to the fifteenth day of November of each year.

Nor shall it be lawful for any person to catch and have in his possession, or to buy, sell, or offer for sale, any jack salmon, commonly called jack fish, or white salmon of less than seven inches in length; or any pike of less than eight inches in length; or any black bass less than six inches in length; or any speckled trout or California mountain trout of less than four inches in length; or any fish caught out of season or in any manner prohibited by law.

And the measurement of fish shall be from end of nose to center fork of tail.

It shall not be lawful to catch or destroy any jack salmon (commonly called jack fish, or white salmon,) in any manner between the fifteenth day of April and the fifteenth day of June of each year; nor to catch or destroy any brook-trout or land-locked salmon in any manner, between the first day of September and the first day of January of each year.

It shall not be lawful for any person to catch any black bass, green bass, willow bass, rock bass, pike or pickerel, or walleyed pike (commonly known as salmon) between the fifteenth day of April and the 15th day of June of each year; nor shall catch or kill any of said species of fish at any other time during the year, save only with rod, hook, and line.

It shall be lawful to catch fish of the sucker variety known as suckers, carp, mullet and red horse, by gig, spear and looping at any time except that in Tygarts Valley river south of the Taylor county line, it shall be unlawful to catch catfish on trot lines, or kill carp and bass by spear or gig between the first day of April and the first day of November following in each year.

It shall not be lawful for any person engaged at any time in catching fish to trespass upon or go into any enclosure or field adjoining or near to the stream in which said person is fishing nor to pass thro any enclosed field for the purpose of fishing without permission of the owner or occupier of such field; nor shall it be lawful for any person at any season to destroy or catch fish in any dam or pond the property of any person, except with the consent of the owner of such dam or pond, unless such dam or pond be in some of the rivers of this state. But nothing in this act shall be construed as to prevent the catching of minnows or other small fish, except salmon, bass, shad and trout, by means of hand or cast nets, to be used for angling or scientific purposes; nor to prevent the fish commissioners, or the warden of this State, if there be such, or any person with their or his consent from catching any fish at any time with nets or seines, for the purpose of propagation or stocking other waters nor to prevent any person from taking in any way fish from his private dam, pond or spring, at any time.

Any person who shall buy or receive any brook trout, land-locked salmon, California salmon, or any other fish caught or taken contrary to the provisions of this act, knowing the same to be caught or taken, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall be punished thereof, as hereinafter provided.

Any person who shall wrongfully and willfully let the water out of any pond mentioned herein, with inten to take or injure fish therein, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and shall be punished on conviction by imprisonment in the county jail not exceeding six months or by a fine not exceeding two hundred dollars, or by both fine and imprisonment.

The owners, or those in control [illegible] ted in this act shall have erected and maintained in a conspicuous place along each pond, when they are unenclosed, a sign at least one foot square and which shall have thereon the name of party in control, and the words, "TRESPASSERS ARE WARNED OFF UNDER PENALTIES OF THE LAW.

Any person who shall willfully and wrongfully tear down, deface or injure the boards provided for in this section, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and liable to a penalty as hereinafter provided.

SECTION 6. It shall be lawful for any person at any time to remove and destroy any nets, traps or other devices placed on any runs or creeks within this State, and the person or persons claiming ownership or possession of such traps, nets or other devices, shall have no recourse at law against the party destroying the same; (and in regard to rivers, it shall be lawful for any person to do the same thing at any time between the first day of March and the fifteenth day of November in any year).

No nets, seines, traps, or other devices, placed on any river of this State between the fifteenth day of November and the first day of March, shall obstruct the free passage of fish up and down the same, so as to extend a further distance from the channel bank on said river than one third of the whole breadth of the main channel of the same.

It shall be unlawful for any person or persons to be found upon the creeks or small streams of this State where are taken, with seines (except minnow seines) in their possession; and if so found, such possession shall be prima facie evidence that the same was used unlawfully. In all prosecutions under this section it shall be prima facie evidence sufficient on the part of the State to show that the defendant was found upon the creeks or small streams where fish are taken, with a seine in his possession.

Meshes of seines or nets (except minnow nets), within this State, shall not be less than three inches in extension, or one and one-half inches from knot to knot. No net or seine of any kind shall be used in the rivers of this State, the meshes of which are less than is provided in this section.

And if any person has good reason to believe that seining is carried on unlawfully, he may have leave to sue out a search warrant against the person or persons suspected of keeping said seine or net in their possession, or under their control. Such seine when found in their possession shall be prima facie evidence that the same was used unlawfully, unless the owner or possessor of such seine can produce evidence to satisfy the justice or court that such seine had not been used unlawfully.

Any person violating the provisions of this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and on conviction thereof shall forfeit such net or seine, if found in violation of law (which net shall be destroyed by order of the justice or court), and pay a fine of not less than ten dollars nor more than twenty-five dollars or be confined in jail not exceeding ten days.

And no person shall kill any fish by the use of dynamite or any other explosive mixture, or by the use of any poisonous drug, bait or food; and any person violating this provision shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and on conviction shall, for each and every offense, be fined not more than two hundred dollars, nor less than fifty dollars, and shall be imprisoned for a period not exceeding six months.

SECTION 11. It shall be unlawful for any person in any place to catch, kill or injure, or pursue with intent, any quail or Virginia partridge, for the period of two years from this date, or any ruffed grouse, pheasant, pinnated grouse, or prairie chicken, between the fifteenth day of December and the tenth day of November following; or any wild turkey, between the first day of January and the fifteenth day of September; or any blue winged teal, mallard, or wood duck, or any other wild duck, wild goose, or brant, at any time between the first day of April and the first day of October; or any snipe, except, between the first day of March and the first day of July; or any wood cock, except between the fifteenth day of July and the first day of November, inclusively.

And it shall be unlawful for any person at any time to catch by net, seine or trap any quail or Virginia partridge.

And it shall be unlawful for any person by the use of any swivel or pivot gun, or any other than the common shoulder gun or by the aid of any push boat, or sneak boat used to carry such gun, to catch, kill, wound or destroy, or pursue with such intent, upon any of the fowls resort within this State, any wild goose, wild duck or brant.

And it is made the duty of the clerk or market master of any city, town or village within this State to diligently watch and arrest all persons violating the provisions of this act by having any game or fish mentioned herein, unlawfully in their possession or vending the same, during any of the periods prohibited in this act.

And it is made the duty of all prosecuting attorneys in this State to see that the provisions of this act are enforced in their respective counties; and they shall present all offenders upon receiving information of the violation of any of the provisions of this act.

And it shall be the duty of the sheriff and his deputies in each county of the State, the chief of police and his deputies in each city or town within the State, and constables of the county, to inform against and prosecute all persons who there is a probable cause to believe are guilty of violating any of the provisions of this act.

And if any of the aforesaid officers who shall have been reliably informed that any part of this act has been violated fail to prosecute the offenders, they shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and in a sum not exceeding twenty-five dollars.

SECTION 16. All prosecutions under this chapter shall be in the name of the State of West Virginia before any court, justice of the peace, mayor or other officer having jurisdiction.

All fines imposed and collected shall be divided, one half going to the informer and the other half to the officer or person making the arrest.

And every person called as a witness to any violation of any of the provisions of this act, shall be compelled to testify fully, but his testimony shall not be given in evidence against him in any prosecution for such offense, and no person against whom such witness shall so testify shall be competent as a witness for the State in the prosecution against such witness for the same offence or matter as to which such witness so testified, or any like offence committed by such witness before the commencement of the prosecution in which he is examined as such witness.

In delivering his charge to the grand jury it shall be the duty of the judge to call its attention to this act, and direct it to inquire into any violation thereof.

CHICAGO has a stenographer who can write 204 words a minute. With a little more practice this gentleman might be able to keep up with Hon. John McCook's opinion of the McKinley Administration.—New York Journal.

The Pocahontas Times.

Andrew & Norman Price, Owners. "Montani Semper Liberi!" Andrew Price, Editor
VOL. 14, NO. 37 MARLINTON, WEST VIRGINIA, APRIL 9, 1897. $1.00 PER YEAR

No. 8. Solid Oak Extension Table, polished like a piano—has six massive legs. The four outside legs are connected, braced and finely ornamented. It measures 42x42 inches when closed and 6 feet long when spread. Special Price,

$3.95

(Orders promptly filled.)

The above is but one of over 1000 bargains to be found in our new catalogue. It contains all kinds of Furniture, Carpets, Baby Carriages, Refrigerators, Stoves, Fancy Lamps, Bedding, Springs, Iron Beds, etc. You are paying local dealers double our prices. Drop a postal for our great money-saving catalogue which we mail free of all charges. Deal with the manufacturers and you will make the big profits you are now paying your local dealers.

Julius Hines & Son,
BALTIMORE, MD.

County Directory

Judge .... J. M. McWhorter
Pros. Attorney ... L. M. McClintic
Sheriff .... R. W. Hill
Clerk County Court .. S. L. Brown
Clerk Circuit Court, J. H. Patterson
Assessor .... J. H. Buzzard
Com'rs. Co. Ct. { Amos Barlow / C. E. Beard / J R Warwick
Surveyor .... George Baxter
Coroner .... George P. Moore

BOARD OF HEALTH—Dr J. W. Price, L. M. McClintic, M. J. McNeel, R. W. Hill.

JUSTICES—Uriah Bird, Marlinton; A. C. L. Gatewood, Linwood; P. D. Arbogast, Green Bank; W. H. Grose, Huntersville; G R. Curry, Academy; T. A. Bruffey, Lobelia.

LAW CARDS.

N. C. McNEIL,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

Will practice in the Courts of Pocahontas and adjoining counties and in the Court of Appeals of the State of West Virginia.

L. M. McCLINTIC,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

Will practice in the Courts of Pocahontas and adjoining counties and in the Supreme Court of Appeals.

H. S. RUCKER,
ATTY. AT LAW & NOTARY PUBLIC
HUNTERSVILLE, W. VA.

Will practice in the courts of Pocahontas county and in the Supreme Court of Appeals

J. W. ARBUCKLE,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
LEWISBURG, W. VA.

Will practice in the courts of Greenbrier and Pocahontas counties. Prompt attention given to claims for collection in Pocahontas county.

W. A. BRATTON,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

Prompt and careful attention given to all legal business.

ANDREW PRICE,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

Will be found at Times Office.

SAM. B. SCOTT, JR.
LAWYER,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

All legal business will receive prompt attention.

H. M. LOCKRIDGE,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
HUNTERSVILLE, W. VA.

Prompt and careful attention given all legal work.

PHYSICIANS' CARDS.

DR. O. J. CAMPBELL,
DENTIST,
MONTEREY, VA.

Will visit Pocahontas County at least twice a year. The exact date of his visit will appear in this paper.

DR. J. H. WEYMOUTH,
RESIDENT DENTIST,
ELKINS, W. VA.

Will visit Pocahontas County every spring and fall. The exact date of each visit will appear in The Times.

J. M. CUNNINGHAM, M. D.,
PHYSICIAN & SURGEON,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

Office next door to C. A. Yeager's Hotel. Residence opposite Hotel. All calls promptly answered.

BIOGRAPHIC NOTES.

This paper is devoted to the memory of two persons whose numerous descendants have formed an influential element of our citizenship for the past 75 years.

Felix Grimes, the pioneer, and his wife, Catherine, were natives of Ireland. The ship on which they sailed came near being lost during a storm in mid-ocean. At one time the masts were touching the waves and the water pouring in over the ship's side. The passengers and some of the sailors were in frantic terror,—some were praying, some cursing and swearing, and some wildly screaming with fright. The captain and some of the crew were self-possessed enough to urge the passengers to the opposite side of the vessel, and it righted at once, and the voyage was made in safety thereafter. It took about three months to make the crossing. The landing was at New Castle, most probably, and some time was spent in Pennsylvania. Following the tide of emigration, these persons finally located a home on the uplands overlooking the valley of Knapp's Creek from the west, nine or ten miles from Huntersville. It is believed they settled here about 1770.

The original name was Graham, but it came to be abreviated to Grimes, and has been so written and pronounced all along.

Felix Grimes settled in the unbroken forest on lands now occupied by Morgan Grimes, the heirs of the late Davis Grimes, and others in their vicinity. The original site is now (1897) in the possession of Margaret Grimes, near Mt. Zion church. Traces of the pioneer home are yet discernable near her residence. It is probable the Grimes relationship will have a reunion before long at the place, and will mark the spot with a memorial stone. It was here these worthy persons reared their family consisting of five sons and four daughters: Margaret, Mary, Sally, and Nancy; Arthur, John, Charles, Henry, and James.

Margaret Grimes married William Montgomery, and settled in Licking County, Ohio.

Nancy Grimes was married to Rev Samuel C. Montgomery, a Methodist minister in the same county.

Mary Grimes was married to Henry Montgomery, of Ohio; and Sally married a son of Alexander Waddell, the Marvin pioneer, and moved to Gallipolis, Ohio.

Arthur Grimes, eldest son of Felix, married Miss Mary Sharp, a sister of the late William Sharp, near Verdant Valley. Their children were Rachel, who married Solomon Buzzard; Henry, who married Hester Buzzard, daughter of Reuben Buzzard, of Pendleton County. Henry's sons were Peter and Franklin, now in Iowa; Zane and Hugh, near Frost; David, in Harrison County. Hugh and David were Union soldiers, and Zane also.

Jane married Leonidas Bowyers. She died in Highland County. Her sons, Cicero and James Leonard Bowyers, went to Parkersburg, West Virginia.

John, son of Arthur Grimes, died in Buckhannon during the late war between the States.

David G., of Arthur, married Mary Grimes, daughter of James Grimes, of Felix, the pioneer. Their son, Hanson, married Mary Nottingham, daughter of Mr and Mrs Harvey Nottingham, near Glade Hill. Hanson's only child, Minnie Grimes, is now Mrs Earl Arbogast, of Green Bank.

Margaret, a daughter of David G., first married W. H. Sims. After his decease she married Erasmus Williams, now living near the Hot Springs, Virginia, and is the mother of fourteen children.

Amanda, another daughter of David Grimes, married Charles O. W. Sharp, near Frost. She is the mother of eight children. Her son Hanson is in Central America, and Frank is in Louisiana.

Leah, another daughter of David G. of Arthur of Felix, the settler, married Rev George P. Hannah, now in Upshur County. She is the mother of seven children,—four living and three dead. Mr Hannah is an esteemed and useful minister of the M. E. Church.

Rebecca, daughter of Arthur of Felix the elder, married Thomas Drinnan, settled in Buckhannon, thence to Parkersburg, thence to Chilicothe, Ohio. She was the mother of four children. One son, Franklin; and three daughters, names not remembered.

Arthur Grimes, Jr., son of Arthur of Felix, the settler, married Rebecca Cumpston, and lived awhile on the old homestead, then moved to Upshur County. His son Newton died young. Lavinia married Silas Helmick. Rebecca Jane is married and lives in Upshur. Angeline is the youngest.

Hon John Grimes, son of Felix, the pioneer, married Elizabeth Burner, of Travelers Repose, and lived near Hillsboro on the farm now owned by Pocahontas County for an infirmary. There were six children. Henry died in youth. Abraham married Miss Callison, and finally moved to Galla County, O., so did Wesley and Fletcher. Nancy married a Mr Morrison and settled in Upshur County, West Virginia. Elizabeth married William McCoy and went to Ohio. Late in life Mr Grimes went to Ohio to be with his sons.

Hon John Grimes was a person of fine appearance, and possessed natural endowments of a high order, and made the most of his limited opportunities for mental improvement. He represented Pocahontas as a Democrat in the House of Delegates, 1841-42. Upon his motion charters were granted for three academies—Hillsboro, Huntersville, and Green Bank. He was also a very prominent member of his church—the Methodist Episcopal.

Charles Grimes, the third son of Felix the emigrant, married Martha Buzzard, daughter of Reuben Buzzard, Sr., of Glade Hill. His family consisted of ten children. John Wesley died young. Morgan married Jane, daughter of Major Daniel McLaughlin, near Green Bank. Morgan's children are John Wesley, at home. Cora is the wife of the Rev Jasper N. Sharp, a member of the West Virginia M. E. Conference, and is now in Preston County. Mantie is Mrs Geo. Bambrick, near Dilley's Mill, and Onie Jane is at home with her parents. Morgan Grimes, Esq., was a Union soldier during the late war between the States, and so was his relative W. C. Grimes.

William Davis E. F. Grimes, another son of Charles of Felix, married Margaret Paugh, and settled on a section of the old homestead. He recently died, and is survived by his widow and two children,—Ida Missouri, who married Clay Drepperd, and Elmer E. Grimes, for two years past a student at the Hillsboro high school.

Susan L., a daughter of Charles Grimes of Felix, married Samuel Auldridge. She was the mother of five children. Tillotson Morgan lives at Buckeye, Charles died in Greenbrier, Luther lives near Mill Point, Kenney near Hillsboro, Elizabeth married William Clendennin and resides near Hillsboro.

Margaret Montgomery Grimes, daughter of Charles Grimes of Felix married Hugh Mc. Carpenter and settled near Dunmore, on Thomas Creek. She was the mother of five children. Charles went to Texas, Hanson and Fletcher live near Dunmore; Rachel married Craighin Grimes, a prominent teacher of public schools, who lives near Mill Point.

Elizabeth Catherine, another daughter of Charles Grimes, died during the war,—a young woman of much amiability of character.

Another daughter of this Charles Grimes, Mary Cullum, was married to Rev George Poage Wanless, a widely known and much esteemed Methodist minister of the M. E. Church. Towards the close of his long and useful ministerial service he was Presiding Elder of the Roanoke District. At his death he was a citizen of Montgomery County, Virginia. Her children were Josie Loretta, wife of Bently Olinger, of Price's Fork, Va., who was killed while at work on New River Bridge. Della Wanless married Willliam Snedegar, on Droop Mountain, who is now a merchant at Lafayette, Montgomery County, Virginia. Samuel Wanless is a young Methodist minister recently licensed. Virgie Wanless is the wife of U. S. A. Hevener, a Methodist minister now in Tennessee. Fannie Wanless died young.

Another daughter of Charles Grimes of Felix the emigrant was named Loretta Jane. She is the wife of William Jefferson Moore, who lives on a part [illegible] Moore homestead. [illegible] mother of nine children. [illegible] E. Moore, a well kn[illegible] public schools and [illegible] vocal music; Charles [illegible] Ira Hays Moore, Martha E., Carrie F., Fannie M., who is the wife of Christopher McLaughlin, near Dunmore; Myrtle, and Hattie M.

Rachel A. Grimes, another daughter of Charles Grimes, was married to A. Jackson Moore, Esq., on Back Alleghany. She has seven children. Forest, Thomas, Virgie, now Mrs John Silva, near Mill Point; Samuel, Elmer, Lillie, and Lanty.

Martha S. Grimes, of Charles, of Felix, became the wife of Peter H. Grimes, and settled at Ola, in Iowa. The names of her six children are Thelia, Saba, Mary, Ezra, Brumbery, and Henry.

Henry Grimes, son of Felix, died in youth.

James Grimes, the last of the sons of Felix, the pioneer, married Mary Burner of the Upper Tract, a sister of the late George Burner, Esq. James settled on that section of the Felix Grimes lands now held by Mrs Mary [illegible]. There were nine children; viz: Abraham, who married Margaret Brady, daughter of Samuel Brady, and settled in Webster County, West Virginia, and reared a large family. Rev Addison Grimes, book agent, one of Abraham's sons. Abraham died a year [illegible] since aged seventy years.

Another son of James of Felix, Allen Grimes, married Francis Weiford, and after her death, married Fannie Silva and lived on Stamping Creek. His children are Craigin B. Grimes, Elizabeth, who is the wife of Thomas Rigsby, in Webster County; Georgiana, the wife of Harvey Boblitt, on Stamping Creek; J. Barnett Grimes, of Hill's Creek, a prominent teacher; James Grimes on Stamping Creek; Mary, the wife of Willard Overholt; and Lucy, the wife of Emmet Nottingham, on Stamping Creek.

George Grimes, of James, married Nancy Friel, daughter of the late Josiah Friel, and settled above Mill Point.

George C. Grimes of James married Eleanor Weiford, and moved to Iowa, and reared seven children. Rettie, Scott, Granville, William, Esta, and Ziona are the names now remembered by their friends.

Harvey Grimes, of James, of Felix, married Henrietta Thurman, in Upshur County, where he lived and died.

Bryson, of James, died in youth, just before the War.

Catherine, of James, married Leonard Bowyer as his second wife.

Mary, of James, married David Grimes.

Elizabeth, of James, married James Weiford, of Hillsboro.

These two, Brown and Nixon Weiford, are her sons; also the Rev Grattan S. Weiford, of Dilly's Mill.

This brings the chronicles of the Grimes relationship within the memory and observation of their living friends, and a basis is furnished for the use of some future compiler. The writer gratefully appreciates the patient and efficient assistance rendered him by Morgan Grimes and Mrs Mantie Bambrick.

Jacob Warwick and Felix Grimes seem to have been on very friendly terms. He once asked James Grimes what he would charge for managing his affairs. While James was trying to estimate what he would be willing to do it for, Mr Warwick remarked that all he realized for what he did was what he could eat and wear.

Arthur Grimes and Levi Moore, son of Levi the pioneer, and afterwards a member of the Legislature, went on a scout to Clover Lick to see if Indians were around. Seeing no sign, they went to the house, placed their guns just outside the door, and finding a bed within laid down and fell asleep. Arthur dreamed of being bitten by a rattlesnake, sprang out of bed, and awakened Moore. The dog was growling at Indians stealing towards the house. The men seized their guns and escaped, leaving the dog shut up in the house. The dog soon came to them, however. The Indians fired the building [illegible] amused themselves by stripping the feathers from two live roosters to see their antics.

When they reported to Jacob Warwick about the affair, he told them that whenever he dreamed of wild turkeys he was sure of having trouble with the Indians very soon.

W. T. P.

PROCRASTINATION.

Few minor bad habits are worse and few more common than the habit of putting off. Delaying till to-morrow (cras) or later than the morrow what should be done immediately or in to-day. Thoughtlessly indolently, or intentionally putting off one's work or duty or little kindness is an every-day fault; certainly it is not so bad as lying or stealing, swearing or liquor drinking,—but procrastination is an evil thing and often followed by deplorable consequences.

When the French Empress Eugenie (once Empress) was called to mourn the death of her only child, once the Prince Imperial, who had gone with the British troops to the South of Africa, her great desire was to stand, herself, on the very spot of ground where her young son fell, pierced by the cruel assegai of a Zula warrior. Eugenie went there, and like any other stricken mother,—(did we not see our friend, Mrs S. B. H., traveling in her illhealth over a good portion of Pocahontas County to talk with her son's physician, and gather every little word and item concerning her boy M——, dying at the timber-camp)—Eugenie must hear any word that dropped from the Prince's lips ere he fell under by the savage Zulu's spear.

"Madame, we were reconnoitering, there was danger of ambushed Zulus, and we warned the Prince to return to camp. 'Yes,' he replied pleasantly, 'en dix minutes.'" Alas! before ten minutes had passed the fatal assegai laid him low.

"How like my son," said Eugenie. From a child, he would ever defer things, and his frequent saying was 'en dix minutes.'" (In ten minutes.) And by this habit he probably lost his life.

Worse than that, we doubt not, many souls are lost by the deplorable act of putting off the search for the search for the Lord Jesus Christ who has said to-day is the accepted time. Remember NOW thy Creator.

A. L. P.

Essay on Journalism.

A bright little boy who attends one of the city public schools was told by his teacher to write an essay on 'Journalism,' and the next day he handed in the following:

"Journalism is the science of all sorts of journals is good things 'cept when they is hot journals and then they is just awful. My ma, she takes a fashion journal what is always full of the pictures of horrid old maids with the ugliest dresse on I ever saw. The fashion journal is a heap gooder than the hot journal, 'cause the hot journal stops the train and the fashion starts it. The fashion journal do n't stop nuthin' but a broken window light and pa's bank account.

"There is sheap journals and hog journals and brass journals, too, and pa has got a journal down at the store, and writes things in it about folks he don't want to forgit. Then we had a woman 'at cooked for us named Sally Journal. She was the funniest journal I ever saw. She was a bald-headed journal.

They ain't no more journals that I know of.

"P. S.—I forgot to say that a man what puts grease on the car wheels is called a journalist."—Press and Printer.

THE WEEKLY LETTER.

At this season of the year the anxious housekeeper casts about for something new to have for dinner. There is so little variety. Eggs have lost their charm. Bacon is an old song. Potatoes have ceased to please. Those who have a taste that way flee to ramps while the rest wait for something to grow in the gardens.

The quandary of the cook, tho, is not so bad as that of the writer who has to set a new dish before the people [illegible] in my earlier [illegible] of composition I was not handicapped by any such thoughts. For instance, the teacher said write a composition on "trees," and the result was about as follows for the opening lines:

"There are manny kinds of trees, such as the oak, ash, sicermore, pine, hickery, pear, peach, apple, walnut, cherry, and chestnut. Some trees grows wild and some is planted. When a lot of apple-trees is planted in a field it is called a orchard. Trees is sometimes cut down and sawed up in lumber. The man takes the lumber and builds a house and lives in it. Sometimes lightning strikes trees and tears them all down. They say that lightning don't never strike twice in the same place. My pa says it is because it don't have to. Trees has many different uses. The cows gets under the shade to be shaded, and the birds roost in the limbs. Some trees bears fruit and some don't have nothing on them but leaves. Some trees stays green all winter," etc., etc.

All this valuable information I would read before a more or less informed audience, and every word of it was true. Then the next would be "Flowers," and the composition would start off in this unique fashion: "There are many different kinds of flowers," etc.

Somebody suggested that when I was casting about for some new thing to thrust upon an unwilling public, to write about our Greenbrier river. It may be that I have mentioned this noble stream in these columns before, but perhaps the stream has never been immortalized in "The Weekly Letter," so O river, of thee I sing; and, as a member of the legislature of Rome said, flumen orationis aureum (a golden tide of words) is now in order.

The apostrophe to our beautiful river must be written by another hand than mine. All I know to say in praise of our beautiful river is that I verily believe it is the finest stream in the world, with clearest, purest, coldest water, flowing thro the most magnificent mountain scenery.

There be some that say the river drains the county, taking out always and bringing nothing in, but we can hardly imagine our county without the Greenbrier. People of little counties may marvel when we claim over seventy miles of river frontage in one stream, and that not counting the winding or meandering of the same.

We have all seen it when its tide was so low with drouth that the wayfaring man could pass over dryshod; and again at another season when the horseback rider could hardly choose a day for weeks at a time when he could ford this silent and swift-flowing stream.

To the river the county owes its lumbering operations, which have been carried on so extensively in the past fifteen or twenty years, and which has led a good many men to become pilots on the river. These men undertake the dangerous work of rafting on a swift and rocky river; and from one of the most successful river-men I learned, the other day, the names of the vorious points on the river by which they can locate any occurrence of a trip to the C. & O. railway. Those, as remembered, given below show a considerable wealth of language, and many of the names have, probably, never been recorded before. These points starting at the head of navigation, about forty miles above Marlinton, to Ronceverte are about as follows:

Starting at Peter's Landing, on Back Alleghany, we come to the Cunningham Rapids, the Whirlpool, Hevener's Landing, Cassell Island, Lakin Island—this took its name from one of the very few mishaps of that old rvier man, Captain Lakin, who was quartered on it a day and a night after a wreck. Then to Leatherbark, Al. Galford's Ford, Deer Creek Islands Ray's Eddy, Stony Bottom, MacCalpin's Islands, Beaver Pond, Clover Creek, Malcomb Eddy, Johnson Eddy, Bridger Place, Hooper Eddy, Friel's Crossing, Thorny Creek, Crooked Bend Mill, [illegible] ing, Marlin Ford, Josh Kee Towhead, Duncan Rocks, Buckley Ford, Beaver Creek Islands, Cathole (a famous swirl), Smith's Dam, Stamping Creek Towhead, Sister Rocks, Denning Landing, Break-neck, Side-Suck Bend, Copperhead Rock, Perkin's Towhead, Spice Run Bend, Davy Run Rapids, Glen Rocks, Black Pond Island, McClure Rocks, Pine Island, Bird's Dam, Gamer's Fields, Falling Spring Bridge Jimisons, Bush Islands, Horseshoe Bend, Miller's Eddy, Tumbling Rocks, Three Island Ford, Free Bridge, Callison Islands, Slippery Ford, Dry Prong, Keisler's Landing, Blankenship's, Huff Dam, Side-Suck-on-the-Right, Sliding Bend, Bore's Landing, Suck Lick Islands, Hickory Top, Chestnut Island, Caldwell Pond, Stone-house Islands, Cat Rocks, (end of drive), Caldwell Bridge, Splash Dam, Iron Bridge, Head of Piers, Ronceverte.

Having duly recorded the names of points of interest on the river, a review of the fishing will be in order, for there is grand fishing in the Greenbrier. The fish have wholly changed from old times to this. Forty years ago the river swarmed with catfish, trout, and suckers; but these receded before the inroads and encroachments of the black bass, until thousands are caught every year. The protection of the bass up until June 15 of each year will not only allow them time to spawn, but will prevent them being butchered by pot fishers. During the spawning season they can be caught by the clumsiest bungler. If a bass be lingering in shallow water near the spawuing place, the fisherman has only to approach boldly and drop some sort of bait near it, and the fish is destroyed without a struggle.

In regard to sport, Greenbrier river has furnished the deer-hunter the most magnificent stream imaginable for the chase. Those who took advantage of the method before it became unlawful, know that on a number of mountain-streams the roar of the water prevents the stander from hearing the hounds or the noise which a deer makes bounding thro the woods; or what is worse, the rushing of the waters conjure up any sound, from the baying of a deer-hound to hearing of innumerable voices, or the reverberations of a 44-56 on the next stand. But the Greenbrier is not so. It slips along as silent as the woods themselves, and the deer is heard while yet a long way off. Again when he gets fairly in the bed of the stream to hide the scent, the river is so broad that the most unskillful marksman can have a dozen or so shots before the same can regain the cover of the woods.

There have been other times on besides this. In the spring a large number of ducks and other waterfowl appear and rest temporarily on the waters of this stream. A number of wild-geese have been killed at this point, one a few weeks ago, and one black swan.

The formation of the county is such that the river has few bottoms. The bottoms of Marlinton are, in fact, the only bottoms of any considerable importance in its whole course. Therefore, with the exception of an overflow at that point, the river can do what it pleases and still not hurt the people generally, and Marlinton itself is vastly in more danger from Knapp's Creek.

Greatly begin! tho thou have time
But for a line, be that sublime,—
Not failure but low aim is crime.

LOWELL.

The Pocahontas Times.

ANDREW PRICE, EDITOR

Marlinton, Friday, April 9. 1897.

Subscription ONE DOLLAR in advance. If not paid within the year $1.50 will be charged.

Entered at the post office at Marlinton, W. Va., as second class matter.

THE COURTS.

CIRCUIT COURT convenes on the first Tuesday in April, third Tuesday in June, and third Tuesday in October.

COUNTY COURT convenes on the first Tuesday in January, March October, and second Tuesday in July,—July is levy term.

MARCH 31 the Dingley Bill went thro the House at 4:25, 205 to 121: not voting 21. Five Democrats voted for the bill—three from Louisiana and two from Texas.

FROM Madrid the news comes that Cuban reforms will be introduced during the month of April The Baltimore Sun is not sanguine about the prospects of success for the insurgents.

IT appears the blockade of Crete is not enforced as rigidly as it would be in time of actual war, and that small craft are landing supplies constantly, and while this fighting without war goes on troops and supplies will get into Crete and keep the Cretans encouraged to hold out.

PRINCE CONSTANTIN of Greece started for the front, a few days since. In spite of all efforts to keep the matter somewhat private, it was found out and very thrilling scenes were witnessed by the people overwhelmed with enthusiasm for war, demonstrating their wishes for the success of their leader. He gave them to understand that if matters did not turn out as they wished it would not be his fault.

IT looks as if the people of South Africa may have serious trouble before the year closes. President Kruger, a Cromwellion old Dutchman, does not talk to please his English neighbors by any means. He smiles on one side of his mouth and squints the opposite eye towards Germany, and tells his neighbors if they will let him alone he will let them alone, but he is not going to put up with any more foolishness like the Jameson visit. The neighbors it would seem do not think such visits foolishness, but just the proper thing to do when things get ready. It is reported that 60,000 red-coats and white-breeches are under instructions to be ready to move on short notice somewhere.

MAJOR McELDOWNY of the Wetzel Democrat is a man that touches a tender spot in our sympathies when he gets after the New York pulpiteers and reviews what they have done and are doing by their fiery eloquence and hyper-critical strictures. Last summer and autumn they emptied the vials of their righteous wrath on William J. Bryan, and described him as a greater than Sampson feeling for the pillars supporting the Temple of Liberty. Voters enough responded and led the giant away to the fabled obscurity of Salt River, where he could do no present harm officially. With Bryan out of the way, now they are for putting Jonah, Job, and even Mr and Mrs Adam out of sight, too, as entirely too much for ethical and esthetical sensibilities acute and refined as theirs are, and thus the illustrious Ingersoll is about to lose the job he has worked at solitary and alone for so many years.

MATTERS appear to be growing more and more serious in the affairs of Crete and Greece. The Turks seem to think they have the sympathy and approval of the leading powers, and show no reassuring signs of treating Christians with due leniency. It is appalling to think what dire vengeance must await the appeal that rises to the heavens from the blood of one hundred thousand victims, whose main offense was preference for the cross of Jesus over that of the new moon of the false Prophet. In a recent skirmish between the Turks and Greeks it was found that a German officer was in command of the Turks. If this German officer was there by the consent of his government, reports about the insanity of the German Emperor may be regarded as too true entirely. How sad the peace of the world and the lives of thousands should ever be in such hands.

EASTER BELLS.

Such is the title of a charming collection of poems from the facile pen of Mrs M. E. Sangster, just issued by Harper & Brothers—one of the most celebrated publishing firms in the civilized world.

But few if any of the living writers of verse are more extensively read or more affectionately esteemed by their readers than Mrs Sangster, for she is such a skillful interpreter of the emotions that so many experience in their personal history. As nothing is newer than a new spring-time, so these verses have all the charm of something new and fitly expresses the impressions of every one who has an eye to what is passing around us.

AWAKENING.

"Never yet was a spring-time,
Late tho lingered the snow,
That the sap stirred not at the whisper
Of the South wind, sweet and low;
Never yet was a spring-time
When the buds forgot to blow.

"Ever the wings of summer
Are folded under the mould;
Life that has known no dying
Is love's to have and to hold,
Till sudden the bourgeoning Easter
The song, the green, and the gold."

There are about seventy-five of these "Easter Bells" chiming in this 16 mo. volume of 150 pages, cloth ornamental. These poems originally appeared in the several publications of Messrs Harper & Bros., or in The Cosmopolitan, The Youth's Companion, The Congregationalist, The Christian Intelligencer, and The Sunday-School Times.

A year or two since Mrs Sangster spent some weeks in our county, and in so far as she was able to become acquainted with our people, she was most pleasantly impressed, and often refers to the pleasure it affords her to remember the Pocahontas acquaintances made during her visit.

The book is adorned with four exquisite illustrations, executed in the highest style of artistic beauty. "Never yet was a spring-time when the buds forgot to blow," "Maiden Bertha," "The dear old gardens where mother used to potter about," and "In the fields are silence and perfume" are the subjects of these illustrations.

Many of our readers the past few years have been called upon to follow their dear mothers to the grave, and all such will read these verses and feel as if they had been written specially for their comfort and consolation.

FOLDED HANDS.

"Pale, withered hands, that more than four score years
Had wrought for others—soothed the hurt of tears,
Rocked children's cradles, eased the fever's smart,
Dropped tenderest balm in many an aching heart—
Now stirless folded, like wan rose-leaves pressed
Above the snow and silence of her breast.
In mute appeal they tell of labors done
And well earned rest that came with set of sun;
From the worn brow the lines of care are swept
As if an angel's kiss the while she slept
Had smoothed the cobweb wrinkles quite away
And given back the peace of childhood's day."

THE following lines from an old English poem is peculiarly suited to the condition of the office-seeker of to-day. The name of the author is unknown to the editor:

"So pitiful a thing is suiter's state!
Most miserable man, whom wicked fate
Hath brought to court to sue; for Had I wist,
That few have found and many missed!
Full little knowest thou, thou hast not tried,
What hell it is, in suing long to bide:
To lose good days that might be better spent;
To waste long nights in pensive discontent,
To speed to day, to be put back tomorrow;
To feed on hope, to pine with fear and sorrow;
To have thy Prince's grace, yet want her Peer's;
To have thy asking, yet wait many years;
To fret the soul with crosses and with cares—
To eat thy heart through comfortless despairs.
To fawn, to crouch, to wait, to ride, to run,
To spend, to give, to want, to be undone."

MRS A. INVEEN, residing at 702 Henry St., Alton, Ill., suffered with sciatic rheumatism for over eight months. She doctored for it nearly the whole of this time, using various remedies recommended by friends, and was treated by the physicians, but received no relief She then used one and a half bottles of Chamberlain's Pain Balm which effected a complete cure. This is published at her request, as she wants others similarly afflicted to know what cured her. The 25 and 50 cent sizes for sale by druggists.

Mrs Margaret J. Preston.

One of the most impressive events of the passing days was the decease of Mrs Margaret J. Preston, in Baltimore, Sunday, March 28, aged about eighty years.

She was the eldest daughter of Rev Dr George Junkin, some years President of Washington College, Lexington, Va., and in 1858 she became the happy wife of Colonel J. T. L. Preston, one of the original professors of the Virginia Military Institute, and who suggested the movement that led to the establishment of that noted institution.

The Baltimore Sun publishes a long and beautiful tribute to her memory, and the Central Presbyterian performs the same duty in a manner not to be surpassed for truthfulness of statement and charm of expression. Reference is made to her home in Lexington in which there was a rare combination of piety, culture, and happiness, and where she was the centre and mistress, dispensing a charming hospitality, and repeating to the world her cheering and timely poetic words.

In her life's experience were blended elegant culture, extensive reading, and wide travel. What is of peculiar interest in the biography of this lady was that her education was mainly acquired at home, under her father's personal attention, and affords a much needed and impressive illustration of what pleasing results may be hoped for from home instruction, when faithfully performed.

As the world becomes older and wiser her mission as a poetess and didactic writer will be still better understood and appreciated more and more. Her aim was to reach the intellect of her reader through the affections, and thus by a skillful blending of the romantic and the intellectual improve both the hearts and the minds of those who read and appreciated her literary work. To make such an aim the work of her life, avoiding what may have been glaring and sensational for mere present effect, convinces beyond all question that Mrs Preston was a poet of genuine inspiration. We feel that when our readers have carefully perused the following selection from her poems they will have a knowledge of what manner of spirit this greatly esteemed lady was:

"I would be ready, Lord,
My house in order set,
None of the work Thou gavest me
To do unfinished yet.

"I would be watching, Lord,
With lamp well trimmed and clear
Quick to throw open wide the door
What time Thou draweth near.

"I would be waiting, Lord,
Because I cannot know
If in the night or morning watch
I may be called to go.

"I would be working, Lord,
Each day, each hour for Thee;
Assured that thus I wait Thee well,
Whene'er thy coming be.

"I would be living, Lord,
As ever in Thine eye;
For whoso lives the holiest life
Is fittest far to die."

GREAT deal of nonsense has been written—and believed, about blood purifiers. What purifies the blood? .. .. ..

THE KIDNEYS PURIFY THE BLOOD

AND THEY ALONE.

If diseased, however, they cannot, and the blood continually becomes more impure. Every drop of blood in the body goes through the kidneys, the sewers of the system, every three minutes, night and day, while life endures.

Warner's Safe Cure

puts the kidneys in perfect health, and nature does the rest.

The heavy, dragged out feeling, the billious attacks, headaches, nervous unrest, fickle appetite, all caused by poisoned blood, will disappear when the kidneys properly perform their functions.

There is no doubt about this. Thousands have so testified. The theory is right, the cure is right and health follows as a natural sequence.

Be self-convinced through personal proof.

Two years ago R. J. Warren, a druggist at Pleasant Brook, N. Y., bought a small supply of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. He sums up the result as follows: "At that time the goods were unknown in this section; to-day Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is a house-hold word." It is the same in hundreds of communities, where ever the good qualities of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy become known the people will have nothing else. For sale at the Marlinton Drug Store.

Tutt's Pills Cure All Liver Ills.

Prevention better than cure. Tutt's Liver Pills will not only cure, but if taken in time will prevent Sick Headache, dyspepsia, biliousness, malaria, constipation, jaundice, torpid liver and kindred diseases.

TUTT'S Liver PILLS ABSOLUTELY CURE.

M. E. Conference.

The recent sessions of the Baltimore Conference, M. E. Church, South, as reported in Baltimore Sun and Staunton Spectator and Vindicator, were of marked interest. The place of meeting was Staunton, Va. This city is suggestive of historic memories that were duly noticed by Rev. James E. Armstrong, Conference Historian. It was at Staunton, March 13, 1861, that this Conference severed its connexion with the M. E. Church.

The general M. E. Conference, many years before, adopted a rule making non-slave-holding a condition of membership in the church. This led to a division in the church. Baltimore Conference adhered to the old church, but a large element of the membership was dissatisfied with the rule. In 1861 an independent relation was assumed and maintained through the war between the States, and in 1866 the Conference united with the M. E. Church South.

Methodism was planted in Maryland by Rev Robert Strawbridge One of his earliest converts was the first minister to carry the gospel to Greenbrier territory and to rear the first log church reared there, with the possible exception of one by the Baptists.

LEWISBURG DISTRICT.

Presiding Elder, J. D. Martin.
Lewisburg—T. W. Brown.
Frankford—R. H. Wilson, Henry Lawson.
Blue Sulphur—H. M. Roane.
Green Sulphur—G. H. Echols.
Hinton—H. A. Brown.
Talcot—G. R. Mays.
Alderson—J. M. Hawley.
Greenville and Peterstown—A. C. McNeer, G. W. Richardson.
Union—O. F. Burgess.
Ronceverte and White Sulphur—L. R. Markwood, H. M. Canter.
Alvon—A. C. Hamill.
Alleghany and Missions—L. B. Atkins, C. L. Lynch.
Covington—C. H. Buchannon.
Clifton Forge—J. R. VanHorne.
Millboro—H. D. Bishop.
Levelton—J. H. Dills.
Huntersville—B. L. Parrott.
Green Band—J. M. Eavery and and one to be supplied.
Gilletts—M. P. Weikle.
Hot Springs—W. W. Newberry.

Rev J. C. Thrasher goes to Stephens City; Rev W. H. Ballengee to Capon Springs; Rev C. M. Sarver, Petersburg, W. Va.; Rev C. Sydenstricker, Romney, W. Va.; Rev J. W. McNeel, Craibottom; Rev J. W. Maxwell superannuated.

Obituary.

On Wednesday evening, March 31, 1897, the spirit of Mrs Carter, widow of Dr Carter, left the body in the home of her son, Lee Carter, one mile from Edray, and winged its flight to worlds on high.

She was not only loved by her family but by all who knew her. We may truly say of her: "too pure for earth, she has gone to heaven." In the shadows of evening, we doubt not that she found a time of light in which to leave a world of care and ascend to the angel-land above to sing with the loved ones gone before, and to wait the coming of others on the way. Seventy-two years were given her in which to work for the Master, and when the summons came she was ready, and we doubt not has heard the welcome "Well done," and has entered into the City of God.

A light has been extinguished in the home circle, but it is a beautiful star all radiant in glory—to guide son and daughter up to the land where ties are never broken.

We would say to her loved ones "weep not," for while you mourn your loss she sings in exultant strains the songs of the sainted in the far away home of the soul.

She was one who, while in health, enjoyed life; but when affliction came she was submissive and she fell asleep to wait the waking to a day that knows no decline. "She is not dead, but sleeping."

A. V. S.

AMERICANS are the most inventive people on earth. To them have been issued nearly 600,000 patents, or more than one third of all the patents issued in the world. No discovery of modern years has been of greater benefit to mankind than Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera, and Diarrhoea Remedy, or has done more to relieve pain and suffering J. W. Vaughn, of Oakton, Ky. says "I have used Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy in my family for several years, and I find it to be the best medicine I ever used used for cramps in the stomach and bowels. For sale by druggists.

Reward! Reward! Reward!

You are REWARDED by trading with us. Where we saved you a dollar in previous years, we can save you two this year. We don't beg for trade—we get it through our low prices.

NEW CUSTOMERS flock to us as soon as they hear of our bargains. If it pays others so well to buy from us, why shouldn't it pay you?

We make our money not by BEING CLOSE, but by SELLING CLOSE. Whatever you buy from us you will find our prices right.

We Don't Want the Earth!

Only just enough Profit to live on.

How MUCH? WILL YOU SAVE IN A YEAR BY BUYING FROM 15 TO 35 PER CENT CHEAPER than ELSEWHERE?

WE have our Store Chock full of Bargains. Come one and all, and we will do the best we can to please you.

Yours for Business,
L. D. SHARP
Linwood W Va

ORDER OF PUBLICATION

STATE OF WEST VIRGINIA, }
POCAHONTAS COUNTY, } ss.

At rules held in the Clerk's office of the Circuit Court for said county on Monday, March 29th, 1897.

Thomas L. Coulehan, . . . Plaintiff,
vs.
Daniel O'Connell, N. S. Alderman Alcinda J. Alderman, Henry W. Holt, trustee; R. S. Turk, William L. McNeel, and Jasper Auldridge, ... Defendants.

The object of this suit is to subject to the payment of the liens thereon a four-sixths interest in a tract of land lying on Douthard's Creek, in said county, containing 220 acres belonging to the said defendant, Daniel O'Connell.

And it appearing by affidavit filed that the defendants, Henry W. Holt, trustee; and R. S. Turk, are non-residents of the State of West Virginia, it is ordered that they do appear here within one month after the first publication of this order and do what is necessary to protect their interests in said suit.

Witness, J. H. Patterson, Clerk of said Court, this 29th day of March, 1897.

J. H. PATTERSON, Clerk.
W. A. Bratton,
Attorney for Plaintiff.

Old Dominion Building & Loan Association.
—OF—
Richmond, - - Virginia.

J. TAYLOR ELLYSON, President.
E. A. BARBER, Treasurer.

DIRECTORS.

J. Taylor Ellyson, Normon V. Randolph, John B. Purcell, John S. Ellet, Frank T, Sutton.

Authorized Capital.....	$20,000,000.
Subscribed Capital.........	5,000,000.
Paid Up Cash Capital......	1,500,000.
Assets......................	2,000,000.

Depository—State Bank of Virginia. Investment stocks cost $1.00 per share membership fee, and 60 cents per month afterwards—withdrawable after twelve monthly payments, and sooner in event of the death of the stockholder.

H. A. YEAGER, Agent.
MARLINTON, W. VA:

Harvesting Machines.

I will furnish the JOHNSTON HARVESTING MACHINERY & MOWERS this year from $40.00 to $45.00, according to the length of cut.

Yours respectfully,
C. J. HILL,
Agent.
LOBELIA, W. VA. [12 6m

HOW TO FIND OUT.

Fill a bottle or common glass with your water and let it stand twenty four hours: a sediment or settling indicates an unhealthy condition of the kidneys; if it stains your linen it is evidence of kidney trouble; too frequent desire to pass it or pain in the back is also convincing proof that the kidneys and bladder are out of order.

What to Do.

There is comfort in the knowledge so often expressed, that Dr. Kilmer's Swamp Root, the great kidney remedy fulfills every wish in relieving pain in the back, kidneys, liver bladder and every part of the urinary passages. It corrects inability to hold urin and scalding pain in passing it, or bad effects following the use liquor, beer, or wine, and over comes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to get up many times during the night to urinate. The mild and extraordinary effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases. If you need a medicine you should have the best. Sold by druggists, price fifty cents and one dollar. You may have a sample bottle and pamphlet both sent free by mail. Mention The Pocahontas Times and send your address to Dr Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. The proprietors guarantee the genuineness of this offer.

The Greatest Medicinal Whiskey the World has Ever Known.

BRADDOCK PURE RYE
AND BARLEY MALT.

SMOOTH, SOFT, RICH, RIPE, MELLOOW AND CHEMICALLY PURE, A RECOMMENDATION IN ITSELF.

THE JAMES CLARK DISTILLING CO.
BRADDOCK DISTILLERY REGISTERED No. 20 DISTRICT OF MARYLAND.
BRADDOCK PURE RYE.

TRY A GALLON AT $2.00

Mail Orders solicited either great or small and receive our personal and prompt attention. Drop us a postal for price list. Don't use inferior goods but mail us your orders; we can save you money and perhaps your health.

JAS CLARK DISTILLING CO., JNO. McQUAIDE Mngr.

Distillers of Braddock Pure Rye, Wholesale and Retail Liquor Dealers.

20 and 22 South New St., Staunton, Va.

Duke! Duke!

HIGH GRADE BICYCLES!

1896 Model.

Frame long head and wheel base. Made from best cold drawn steel tubing, narrow tread, 28inch wheels, Wood Rims, Nickeled Spokes, M and W. Quick-Repair Tire. All connexions drop forged steel. Ball bearing to every part; bearings made from the best steel, tempered and ground, dust proof, 6 inch cranks, Rat trap or Rubber Peddles, one-fourth inch Humber Chain with hardened rivets and centers. Drop-forged steel sprockets, T pattern saddle post, Garford Sadddle, 68 inch gear, weight 24 lbs.

Price, $50.00.

1895 Model Duke, 27lbs., Price, $40.00

A full and complete stock of Bicycle Sundries and Repairs, cyclometers, Lamps, Bells, &c. Repairing of all kinds a specialty Send us your broken bicycles and we can make them good as new

RESPECTFULLY,

RONCEVERTE, W VA Eagle AND Ott.

We have a plan by which Farmers can get TOOL CHESTS FREE

Containing of first-class quality (guaranteed) every tool—Axes, Saws and Planes included—necessary to repair vehicles, machines or build a house. Three two-cent stamps and the name of this paper required for particulars. Powell Fertilizer & Chemical Co., Baltimore, Md.

FURNITURE FACTORY

AND

Furniture Store.

Fine Furniture Made to Order.

STOCK ALWAYS ON HAND.

I am occupying the Temporary Court-house and am prepared to make to order all kinds of Furniture at lower prices than can be obtained elsewhere. Don't be cheated in Furniture but buy from a reliable cabinet maker who works up the native woods.

I can order you furniture from the city at better terms than you can to save your life. Whenever you need anything in my line you will save money by giving me a call.

W. J. Killingsworth.

Lockridge

The Pocahontas Times.

Andrew & Norman Price, Owners. "Montani Semper Liberi!" Andrew Price, Editor

VOL. 14, NO. 38 MARLINTON, WEST VIRGINIA, APRIL 16, 1897. $1.00 PER YEAR

No. 8, Solid Oak Extension Table, polished like a piano—has six massive legs. The four outside legs are connected, braced and finely ornamented. It measures 42x42 inches when closed and 6 feet long when spread. Special Price,

$3.95

(Orders promptly filled.)

The above is but one of over 1000 bargains to be found in our new catalogue. It contains all kinds of Furniture, Carpets, Baby Carriages, Refrigerators, Stoves, Fancy Lamps, Bedding, Springs, Iron Beds, etc. You are paying local dealers double our prices. Drop a postal for our great money-saving catalogue which we mail free of all charges. Deal with the manufacturers and you will make the big profits you are now paying your local dealers.

Julius Hines & Son,
BALTIMORE, MD.

County Directory

Judge	J. M. McWhorter
Pros. Attorney	L. M. McClintic
Sheriff	R. W. Hill
Clerk County Court	S. L. Brown
Clerk Circuit Court	J. H. Patterson
Assessor	J. H. Buzzard
Com'rs. Co. Ct.	Amos Barlow C. E. Beard J R Warwick
Surveyor	George Baxter
Coroner	George P. Moore

BOARD OF HEALTH—Dr J. W. Price, L. M. McClintic, M. J. McNeel, R. W. Hill.

JUSTICES—Uriah Bird, Marlinton; A. C. L. Gatewood, Linwood; P. D. Arbogast, Green Bank; W. H. Grose, Huntersville; G R. Curry, Academy; T. A. Bruffey, Lobelia.

LAW CARDS.

N. C. McNEIL,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

Will practice in the Courts of Pocahontas and adjoining counties and in the Court of Appeals of the State of West Virginia.

L. M. McCLINTIC,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

Will practice in the Courts of Pocahontas and adjoining counties and in the Supreme Court of Appeals.

H. S. RUCKER,
ATTY. AT LAW & NOTARY PUBLIC
HUNTERSVILLE, W. VA.

Will practice in the courts of Pocahontas county and in the Supreme Court of Appeals.

J. W. ARBUCKLE,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
LEWISBURG, W. VA.

Will practice in the courts of Greenbrier and Pocahontas counties. Prompt attention given to claims for collection in Pocahontas county.

W. A. BRATTON,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

Prompt and careful attention given to all legal business.

ANDREW PRICE,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

Will be found at Times Office.

SAM. B. SCOTT, JR.
LAWYER,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

All legal business will receive prompt attention.

H. M. LOCKRIDGE,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
HUNTERSVILLE, W. VA.

Prompt and careful attention given all legal work.

PHYSICIANS' CARDS.

DR. O. J. CAMPBELL,
DENTIST,
MONTEREY, VA.

Will visit Pocahontas County at least twice a year. The exact date of his visit will appear in this paper.

DR. J. H. WEYMOUTH,
RESIDENT DENTIST,
ELKINS, W. VA.

Will visit Pocahontas County every spring and fall. The exact date of each visit will appear in The Times.

U. M. CUNNINGHAM, M. D.,
PHYSICIAN & SURGEON,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

Office next door to C. A. Yeager's Hotel. Residence opposite Hotel. All calls promptly answered.

BIOGRAPHIC NOTES.

One of the most widely known of Pocahontas families in former years was that of the ancestor of the Lockridge relationship, at Driscol, four miles east of Huntersville. It was a place of resort for judges of the courts and visiting lawyers to and from Huntersville on public occasions. Pleasant mention is made of the kind treatment received and of the nice and bountiful table comforts enjoyed in the memoir of the late Howe Peyton, Esq., and in some published reminiscences of George Mayse, Esq., of the Warm Springs.

Lancelot (Lanty) Lockridge, the progenitor of the name in our county, came from the Lower Bull Pasture, in Highland County, Virginia, about four miles up the river from Williamsville, Bath County. Mrs Lockridge was Elizabeth Benson, of the same vicinity. Some of her near relatives migrated to Ohio, from whom Joseph Benson Foraker traces his name and ancestry, and who is now in the Senate of the United States, colleague of M. A. Hanna, Esq., Senator from Ohio.

Mr and Mrs Lockridge were of pure Scotch-Irish ancestry. Early in the century they settled on Knapp's Creek and built up a prosperous home and reared a large family, four sons and five daughters. Andrew, Matthias, Lancelot (Lanty), James T., Elizabeth, Nelly, Harriet, Rebecca, and Martha.

Andrew Lockridge married Elizabeth Gillilan, daughter of John Gillilan, Esq., near Mill Point, and moved to Missouri.

Matthias Lockridge went to Missouri in early manhood, married Miss Crow, a Missouri lady, and settled there.

Lanty Lockridge married Miss Caroline Cleek, daughter of Mr and Mrs John Cleek, and first settled on the "Gay Place," near Sunset, then on the "Harper Place," near Sunset, finally moved to Ord, Nebraska, where his sons Lee and Augustus now reside.

Colonel James T. Lockridge married Miss Lillie Moser, of South Carolina, and occupied the homestead which was his home during life. He was a citizen of marked prominence,—Colonel 127 Virginia Militia, magistrate, merchant, sheriff, and member of the Virginia House of Delegates.

Their children—two sons and two daughters—are Horace M. Lockridge, Esq., of Huntersville; Mrs Florence Milligan, Buena Vista, Virginia; Dr J. B. Lockridge and Mrs Laura Herold, at Driscol. She is the wife of L. W. Herold, Esq., a popular teacher of the public schools and instructor in instrumental music.

Elizabeth, eldest daughter of Lanty Lockridge, Senior, became the wife of the late Henry Herold, who moved to Nicholas County, where most of her family settled. The late Washington Herold, near Frost, was one of her sons.

Nelly Lockridge, the second daughter, was married to the late Jacob Slaven, of Travelers Repose. Their children were four sons and eight daughters: Lanty, Randolph, Warwick, Winfield, Harriet, Elizabeth became Mrs Judge William T. Gammon, late of Odessa, Missouri; Ellen first married George W. Arbogast, second marriage to William L. Brown, Esq., now near Green Bank. Martha Slaven married Josiah T. Hoggett. Mildred Slaven was first married to the late Peter Slaven, of Travelers Repose, and afterwards became Mrs Arista Hartman, now of Kansas. Alice died in early womanhood at Meadow Dale, Highland, where the family were refugeeing during the war. Margaret Slaven married J. H. Patterson, who is now Clerk of the Circuit Court of Pocahontas County. Mary (Polly) Slaven married Jesse Slaven, of Highland County.

Harriet Lockridge, third daughter, was married to the late John McNeel, near Mill Point. The tradition is that Nelly and Harriet were married the same day—a double wedding. Their family numbered two sons and three daughters: Isaac, Matthew John; Eveline, who was married to the late Andrew D. Amiss, of Buckeye. Mr Amiss was clerk in one of the government departments at Washington and attended to considerable public business in Pocahontas during his life. Rachel McNeel was married to Dr Matt. Wallace of Mill Point. Elizabeth McNeel married Jacob Crouch, of Randolph County, West Virginia.

Rebecca Lockridge, the fourth daughter, was married to the late Joseph Seybert, and lived first on the Waddell place, near Mill Point then on the place occupied by Henry Sharp on Douthard's creek, and lastly on the farm now held by William L. Harper, near Sunset. Their sons were Lanty and Jacob. Lanty died a prisoner of war at Elmira, New York. Jacob married Miss Mary Jones, of Greenbrier County, and lived a prosperous citizen of Rockbridge County.

Mr and Mrs Seybert had two daughters, Maria and Elizabeth.

Maria Seybert was married to Andrew Herold, Esq., and now lives near Frost. Her sons and daughters are mentioned in the sketch of the Herold family.

Elizabeth Seybert was married to the late William D. Gibson, of Monterey, Highland County.

Joseph, William, and Kemper Gibson are her sons. Eva Rebecca Gibson married David Kyle, of Rockbridge, Virginia. Clara Maria Gibson is a teacher in the public schools of Highland. Elizabeth Gibson married Hon J. M. Colaw, of Monterey, Va. Catherine Gibson is a popular teacher in the Rockbridge public schools.

Martha Lockridge, the fifth daughter, was married to Roger Hickman, Esq., of Bath County, as his first wife. Her children were Lanty Hickman, now of Tucker County, West Virginia, and Elizabeth, who is Mrs Stuart Rider, of Bath County.

The compiler of this sketch is mainly indebted to Mr and Mrs Andrew Herold and their son, L. W. Herold, for the materials used in its preparation. It has been a pleasure to him to write it, for many of the persons mentioned therein were among the cherished friends of his youth.

As to the personal appearance of this venerable man, it was a common remark of those who had seen Henry Clay that there was a striking resemblance in the form and features of the two men, and that those who had portraits of Henry Clay had nothing to do but scratch out the name and write Lanty Lockridge in place of it, and they would have his picture and one that everybody would recognize. The writer never saw Henry Clay, but he has been often impressed with the portrait he has seen, and is always reminded of our venerable friend by the striking resemblance so apparent to those who were acquainted with him.

W. T. P.

MANSFIELD'S OPINION.—Hon W. L. Mansfield, editor of the Wayne County News, and one of the Democratic members of the Constitutional Commission, states the following, as, in his opinion, the most important changes needed in our organic law:

1. To provide for a thorough and efficient registration of voters, and stop so much corruption in the elections.

2. Re-district the State for Circuit Judges that the inefficent and expensive criminal courts may be abolished.

3. Pay all officers, both State and county, fixed salaries and provide that all fees be covered into the State and county treasuries.

4. Pay members of the Legislature a fixed salary and limit the session of the Legislature only to not less than sixty days.

5. Increase the salary of the Judges of the supreme Court of Appeals, in order to secure the best material for the court of last resort.

6. Abolish the irreducible school fund and provide that the present fund be distributed to the counties per capita in stated amount each year, just as the distributable fund is distributed, until the same is exhausted, and to be used in no other way and for no purpose except to pay teachers and relieve the people to that extent of the burden of district levies.

PROPHETIC THOUGHTS.

Among the most interesting things now read about in the papers, to Bible-reading people, is the state of things in Crete, an island about six miles from Greece. Such readers believe that they can see the truths of the Bible illustrated and confirmed by what they read in the news of the day. They also read Daniel and Revelation for light to be thrown upon the Eastern question, in whose solution the whole world, sooner or later, is to be involved. It is not strange they should do so when it is remembered by our intelligent readers that Constantinople is the chief city of the Turks, whose faith is Islam.

Now Islam is a religious system made up of politics and religious fanaticism or hysterical zeal. The Turks who hold this faith have been the most hostile and dangerous of all enemies to Christ and his true followers. The Turk has been "the Jailer of Palestine" and the down-treader of Bible-lands.

Revelation speaks of a persecuting power arising and continuing 42 months, and as long ago as the Crusades this was understood to be Islam. It is now a settled opinion among our chief authorities on the interpretation of prophecy that 42 months, 1260 days, symbolizes 1260 years of historic time.

The systematic oppression of Eastern Christians began in 637, when Omar proclaimed his infamous Edict. Now 1260 years added to 637 would bring us to 1897. Now it does seem reasonable that some decisive event may be looked for during 1897 that may lead to the end of Turkey's persecuting Islam.

Then, too, in connexion with this it is interesting to notice what our Lord says in Luke xxi. 24: "Jerusalem shall be trodden down of the gentiles until the times of the gentiles be fulfilled." Now when our Lord said this Jerusalem had already been trodden down by three of the four world-powers, represented by Nebuchadnezzars dream, described in Daniel second chapter, namely: Babylon, Persia, and Greece; and was in our Lord's time being trodden down by the fourth power, the Roman.

The Roman empire lost its power over Palestine and Jerusalem through the conquests of Omar, in A. D. 636–7. Now should we measure from the time when the Jews first became tributary to Babylon, B. C. 625, up to A. D. 636 we find that 1260 years, or three and a-half times, was the duration of the ascendancy of Daniel's four world-powers in Palestine or Holy Land.

The Turks succeeded them, and in this year 1897 the dominion of Islam will have coutinued 1260 years more, or three and a-half times more. In Leviticus, 26th, seven times were specified as the term of gentile treading down, 7 times meaning 2520 years, so allowing three and a-half times to the four world-powers and three and a-half to Islam, the 7 times close out in 1896.

Whoever lives ten or fifteen years longer should be prepared not to be surprised at what may occur in human affairs. Every believer in the Bible should be profoundly interested in the current events of the times, at home and in foreign lands, and especially the Holy Land.

S. C. R.

SWEET Canton! Loveliest village of the plain,
Where Hanna hauled the herds by special train,
Where workingmen on club-bought tickets went,
As on an errand by employers sent.
Where smiling statesmen springtime visits paid,
With many votes and delegates to trade,
Where parting summer brought the thousands on
To hunt for relics and to tramp the lawn;
How many here have blessed the happy day
When toil-remitting lent its turn to play,
When all the village folk their labor missed
To batten on the soft excursionist!

—T. S. Varnum, in The Journal, Chicago.

"The First Battle."

From all sources we learn that Bryan's book, "The First Battle," is meeting with great success. The publishers report they have been unable to fill orders as fast as they have come in. Mr Bryans royalty the first month was $16,000. He donated half of this to a bimettalic society for the circulation of bimettalic literature. A large share of what he gets from his lectures and articles for the newspapers, takes a similar direction. Wherever he speaks large audiences greet him and pay well for the privilege. He is expected to address the students of the Virginia University in June. His theme, as announced, will be "Jefferson still lives." It is anticipated that it will be one of the finest efforts of his oratorical career.

"The First Battle" embodies a careful presentation of the rise and development of the silver movement, a history of the campaign of 1896, a review of the political situation, an analysis of the election returns, an account of Mr Bryan's famous tour, his biography by Mrs Bryan, his most important speeches, and the addresses of other eminent political leaders.

One of the interesting features of the book is his biography by Mrs Bryan. Referring to Mr Bryan's well known fondness for quoting scripture, she says:

"The time came when it seemed proper to have a little conversation with my father, and this was something of an ordeal, as my father is rather a reserved man. In his dilemma, William sought refuge in the Scriptures, and began: Mr. Baird, I have been reading Proverbs a good deal lately, and find that Solomon says: 'Whoso finds a wife finds a good thing, and obtaineth favor of the Lord.' Father, being somewhat of a Bible scholar himself, replied: 'Yes, I believe that Solomon did say that, but Paul suggests that, 'While he that marrieth doeth well, he that marrieth not doeth better.' This was disheartening, but the young man saw his way thro. 'Solomon would be the best authority on this point,' he rejoined, 'because Paul was never married, while Solomon had a number of wives. After this friendly tilt the matter was satisfactorily arranged."

Civil Service.

From every indication, it is more than probable the policy of Civil Service will be a very live question in politics, stirred up by the 'outs' in opposition to the 'ins'. When it comes down to actual facts, this has been about the main issue for twenty years in political agitation. In his book, Bryan put himself on record in the following terms:

"Without entering into details, I suggest that it is possible to place the civil service upon a substantial foundation by providing a fixed term of appointments—with the possibility of one reappointment in case of special merit—the appointments to be divided among all political parties in proportion to their political strength, and among the States in proportion to their population. In this way a person entering the service would know that by efficiency he could secure a second term, and, knowing that his service would close at the end of the second term, could make preparations for the future. At present, a clerk when discharged without warning, is often left in a position of financial embarrassment. Then, too, when each party has its proportionate representation in civil service, there will be no disposition to violate the spirit of the law, as both parties have done under the present system. Until each party is given its share of offices, the successful party will be tempted to secure places for as many of its members as possible. Then, too, appointments for a fixed term place the appointee in a position of political independence where he is not required to surrender his convictions in order to retain his position. I need hardly add that the examination should be such as to test the fitness of the candidate for the work to be done, and not to determine his knowledge upon other subjects. Appointments for a fixed term, made after suitable examination and proportion to the voting strength of the respective parties, would, in my judgment, give an efficient administration of the public service, provide against the dangers which flow from life tenure, remove the question from the domain of partisan politics, and guarantee political independence to subordinate officals."

LATEST advices seem to indicate that Greece will melt.—Mail and Empire, Toronto.

Compulsory Education.

HERE is the amendment to the School Law, enacted at the recent session of the Legislature, providing for the compulsory attendance of pupils at the public schools of the State:

Be it enacted by the Legislature of West Virginia: That chapter forty-five of the Code be amended by the insertion of the following, to be known as section ten (a):

SECTION 10 A. Every person having under his control a child or children between the ages of eight and fourteen years shall cause such child or children to attend some public school in the city, independent district or district in which he resides, and such attendance shall continue for at least sixteen weeks, and for every neglect of such duty, the person offending shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall, upon conviction thereof, before any justice, be fined two dollars for the first offense, and five dollars for each subsequent offense. An offense, as understood in this act, shall consist in failure to send to school any child or children for five consecutive days, except in case of sickness of such child or children or other reasonable excuse. And it shall be the duty of every trustee and the teacher to inform against any one so offending; and upon failure to do so, they shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and be fined not exceeding five dollars: Provided, That if such child or children have attended, for a like period of time, a private day school or if such child or children have been otherwise instructed for a like period of time in the branches of learning required by law to be taught in the public schools or has already acquired such branches, or if his physical or mental condition is such as to render such attendance inexpedient or impracticable, such fines shall not be incurred: Provided, further, That in case there is no public school in session within two miles of the nearest traveled road of any person in the district, he shall not be liable to the provisions of this act.

Any fines so collected shall be placed to the credit of the building fund of the district.

If sixty per cent. of the legal voters of any city, independent district or sub-district shall petition the Board of Education against the enforcement of this act, the said act, so far as the sub-district is concerned, shall be null and void until the beginning of the next school year.

Justices of the Peace shall have jurisdiction in all violations of this act in their respective counties.

C. & O.'s Big Coal Trade.

Mr M. E. Ingalls, of Cincinnatti, President of the C. & O. and the Big Four Railroads, sailed on the Teutonic for Liverpool. On the same vessel went J. Pierpont Morgan, whose interests in what are kown as the Vanderbilt systems of railroads are very much greater than that of the Vanderbilt's themselves. Mr Morgan has recently added his signature to contracts for enormous quantities of coal that must be shipped over the C. & O. into New York. This coal will come out of West Virginia chiefly. Two of the contracts were for five years each, one being for 800,000 tons annually. To move this immense quantity of black diamonds the C. & O. railroad will be compelled to more than double its hauling capacity. It is understood that Mr Morgan's mission abroad is to lay his plans before his foreign friends and enlist their support financially. It will take a vast deal of wealth to accomplish what is intended Among other things there will be built much more powerful engines than those now in use on the road and a new forty-ton car is to be introduced. Mr Ingall's familiarity with the workings of the C. & O., it is said, is what brought him abroad with Mr Morgan.

DEAFNESS CANNOT BE CURED by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube gets inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed deafness is the result, and unless the inflamation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

F. J. CHENEY & Co., Toledo, O.
Sold by Druggists, 75c.
Hall's Family Pill are the best.

SAMPLE copies of this paper sent free on request.

The Pleasan World of Books.

There are who find their happiness in strolling near and far,
As if perchance their birth had been beneath some errant star,
The trackless desert beckons them, they scale the mountain peak,
And ever just beyond them see, some gladness coy to seek:
For me, I sit beside my fire, and with benignant looks
From dear familiar shelves they smile, my pleasant friends, the books.

A world of sweet company, these well-beloved ones wait
For any mood, for any hour; they keep a courteous state,
Serene and unperturbed amid the raffles of my day,
They are the bread my spirit craves, they bless my toiling way.

A pleasant world is theirs, wherein, though battles wax and wane,
There rolls the sound of triumph, and thence wells surcease of pain,
On pages sparkling as the dawn forever breathes and glows
Through ages red with patriot's blood, white freedom's stainless rose.

In this fair world of calmest skies, I meet the martyr's palm,
There float to it dear melodies from coasts of heavenly balm;
All comfort here, all strength, all faith all bloom of wisdom lives,
And be the day's need what it may, some boon this wide world gives.

The freedom of the city where one walks in crowds alone,
The silence of the upland, where one climbs anear the throne,
The blitheness of the morning, and the solemn hush of night,
Are in this pleasant world of books, for one who reads aright,

Here, pure and sharp the pictured spire its cleaving point uplifts,
There, swept by stormy winds of fate, time's sands are tossed in drifts,
And I who sit beside the fire am heir of time and sense,
My book to me, the angel of God's sleepless providence.

Who will, may choose to wander far over sea and land,
For me the table and the lamp extend a friendlier hand,
And I am blessed beyond compare while with benignant looks
From home's familiar shelves they smile, my pleasant world of books.

MARGARET E. SANGSTER, in Youth's Companion.

Paths.

The path that leads to a Loaf of Bread
Winds thro the Swamps of Toil,
And the path that leads to a Suit of Clothes
Goes thro the flowerless soil.
And the path that leads to a Loaf of Bread
And a Suit of Clothes is hard to tread.

The path that leads to a House of Your Own
Climbs over bowldered hills;
The paths that lead to Bank Account
Are swept by the blast that kills.
But the man who starts on the paths to-day
In the Lazy Hills may go astray.
In the Lazy Hills are trees of shade
By the dreamy Brooks of Sleep,
Add the rollicking River of Pleasure laughs
And gambols down the steep.
But when the blasts of winter come,
The Brook and the River are frozen dumb.

Then woe to those in the Lazy Hills
When the blasts of winter moan,
Who strayed from the path of a Bank Account
And the path to a house of their own!
These paths are hard in the summer heat,
But in winter they lead to a snug retreat.

—[S. W. Foss, in Silver Cross.

EFFECTS OF VEILS ON THE EYESIGHT.—Dr Casey A. Wood states in the Boston Medical Surgical Journal, as paraphrased by Modern Medicine, "that every ophthalmologist has noticed that the wearing of veils is productive of weak eyesiget, headaches, and sometimes vertigo and nausea. This is due to the straim which is necessarily exerted by one or both eyss in order to see thro the obstruction, the irregular figuring of the veil is also a source of annoyance. The weakest eyes suffer most; but where the vision is normal, they are able to bear the extra strain, and thus asthenopic symtoms traceable directly to the use of the vail usually escape notice. Dr Wood states that after a series of experiments, he finds that every kind of veil affects the ability to see, more or less, the most objectionable kind being the dotted veil. The least objectionable one is the one without dots, with large, regular meshes made with single compact threads. In conclusion, the writer states that one of the worst possible habits is the common custom of reading in public conveyances, churches, theaters, etc., thro this unnatural screen."

A NEW JERSEY man found a diamond in his coal-hod, and now every body is wondering how that gem escaped the watchful eye of the coal trust.—The Herald, New York.

Two years ago R. J. warren, a druggist at Pleasant Brook, N. Y., bought a small supply of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. He sums up the result as follows: "At that time the goods were unknown in this section; to-day Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is a house-hold word." It is the same in hundreds of communities, where ever the good qualities of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy become known the people will have nothing else. For sale at the Marlinton Drug Store.

The Pocahontas Times.

APRIL 23, 1897.

Local Events.

Hear, Land o' Cakes and brither Scots,
Frae Maidenkirk to Johnny Groats,
If there's a hole in a' your coats,
I rede ye tent it;
A chiel's amang you takin' notes,
An' faith he ll prent it. – BURNS.

WHEAT never looked better in this county than this spring.

The easter storm came as usual as a kind of judgment on the pride evinced in the buying of easter hats and other fixings by the ladies of the land.

REV D. S. SYDENSTRICKER, assisted by Rev J. H. Dills, of the Southern Methodist Church, held a communion service last Saturday and Sunday, at Academy.

DURING the first week of May Paul Golden will give 5 per cent. of his cash sales (with the exception of staple groceries) to the committee building the new Methodist church at Marlinton.

THE Manley Man'f Co. vs. Broadus & Parks, from Page Circuit Court, was decided by the Supreme Court of Virginia in which the decision of the Circuit Court was reversed.

PULLINS has a fine stock of new goods and is doing a rushing business. They say he is giving high prices his Fitzsimmons under cut, and that no body can stand up before him for ten minutes.

MRS SALLY SHARP, wife of John Sharp, near Green Hill, was stricken with paralysis on April 10 and lies in a precarious and helpless condition at present. Grave fears are entertained by her friends that she may not recover.

JAMES WHITE, of Dunmore, fell sick of the measles last week, having contracted the disease from a customer of his store. Before he knew that he was liable to take the measles the sickness first came on, and it is quite likely that the disease is pretty well spread in that neighborhood.

OBJECTION has been made that the publishers of this paper failed to print all the names of those indicted last term of court. In explanation they wish to say that during the five years they have had the paper, they have made it a rule not to publish the shame anyone who requested them not to do so.

JAMES MCCOLLAM, Esq., an aged and much respected citizen, has about recovered from the illness that afflicted him some months since, and is quietly and industriously spending his old age in his pleasant home on Buck's Mountain, a few miles west of Marlinton. About 1866, he settled here, cleared land and reared a comfortable residence in a sheltered cove facing the south, planted fruit trees and small fruits.

THE McCormick Harvesting Machine company will ship to the farmers of this county three car loads of machinery this season, already sold, aggregating in value about $4,250. This company is represented by T. A. Sydenstricker and J. W. Beard, in the Levels and Edray districts, and D. B. McElwee, of Dunmore, in the upper portion of of the county. The above machinery includes eight binders.

CONGRESSMAN DORR has decided on whom he will recommend to a number of post offices in this district. Those open yet, the four Presidential offices, are Lewisburg, Charleston, Bramwell and Montgomery. Those in this section will be as follows: Marlinton, W. W. Tyree; Academy, Will Burns; Addison, A. M. Payne; Frankford, C. H. Hanna; Falling Spring, W. P. McKeever; Hinton, D. P. Wickline; Ronceverte, R. S. Lovelace. It is understood that in most of the offices the present incumbent will serve out the term of four years.

THE sale of the personal property of James H. Renick, deceased, took place April 13, at Falling Springs. The fifty head of four-year old cattle brought $4.35 per hundred pounds bid in by the administrator, and a lot of yearlings brought $22.40 each from Al Bassell, of Upshur. The sheep, in 3 lots, brought respectively $5.00, 4.90, and 4.85 each. The young horses brought from thirty to fifty dollars each. John G. Beard bought the Kentuckey bull at $40. S. B. Mason, of Lewisburg bought a Kentuckey cow at $36. In addition to the live stock, the machinery of the farm was sold.

A QUIET and pleasant wedding was celebrated in Huntersville last Saturday noon, at the residence of J. J. Beard, Esq., when Mr Joseph Guth and Miss Birdie Brown Campbell were married by the Rev William T. Price. Miss Birdie is a daughter of the late William Campbell, of Huntersville. Much of the time since the decease of her parents she has lived with Mr and Mrs Beard, by whom she is highly esteemed. Mr Guth is a native of Pennsylvania, but has been in this county for thirteen years, regularly occupied in the lumber industry. A nice dinner was served, and all passed off beautifully, and everyone wishes these young people the best that life may afford. Miss Mary Barlow presided at the piano, and performed quite nicely.

Wife Beater!

He Cuts his 15 yr. old Wife with a Knife

And beats her Head into Jelly with the Butt of his Pistol.

The Strange Case of George W. Roberts and Wife.

The people of this town were never more excited than over the strange and unaccountable behavior of George W. Roberts and his wife, who came to this neighborhood, last Saturday morning, and we will begin at the beginning and tell what gave rise to conjecture and suspicion among our people.

George W. Roberts kept books in Peter's camp last winter, and is a native of Pennsylvania. Last summer he married Rosa Lindsay, of this county, aged 15 years. Her extreme youth caused those who looked over the registry of marriages in the County Clerk's office to notice the event particularly. Last Saturday the couple arrived at Uriah Bird's hotel. The wife was sick and kept her room, requesting everyone who knocked at the door not to enter. Sounds of a struggle were heard by those in the hotel, but no inquiries were made. Sunday morning, when Roberts went to the livery stable to arrange for a conveyance to Addison, Mrs Roberts came down carrying a small grip, and seemed to be making an effort to run away from him. After she had gone, the room which they had occupied was examined, and the walls, floor, and furniture were found splattered with blood, and a slop-bucket was half full of blood and water.

The woman was next heard of at Edgar Sharp's, about ten miles from Marlinton, whither she had walked Sunday morning. She asked Mr Sharp to put her over Greenbrier River, and told him she was in trouble. She cried bitterly and the blood was dripping from her han d and her arm was bound up. While she was resting there her husband came up and claimed that she was his sister who had run away from her husband. She retired to a distant corner of the yard and talked with him; while Edgar Sharp, noting the suspicious actions of the parties, looked in her valise and saw there a shirt-waist which had been saturated with blood, showing that the entire sleeve of the waist had been split with a knife. Mrs Sharp helped the woman to dress her wounds and saw that she had received a terrible cut in the arm from a knife. The woman went with Roberts to the house of Caroline Smith, a distance of seven miles, where they had supper. Here Roberts said that it was his neice whom he had with him. Thence they went to the house of Dave Sharp, about four miles farther, where they made arrangements to spend the night. The woman was in very delicate health, was under treatment of a physician, and had walked on Sunday—over these mountain roads—twenty-one miles, with a fresh and bleeding wound. Where she lay in bed was marked with blood.

At her request Mrs Sharp allowed her to share the bed of her daughter. Roberts sat up until about one o'clock, and upon his intrusion into the room when he wished to go to bed, Dave Sharp took him by the coat collar and thrust him out into the night. At Roberts' commands, his wife arose about two o'clock and dressed herself and went with her husband. Sharp offered her protection from her husband, which she refused.

After leaving the house a pistol shot was fired, and nothing more was seen or heard of them until the next morning, when Roberts appeared from the shelter of a laurel thicket to William B. Johnson, where he was at work near his house. Johnson is Sharp's nearest neighbor. Roberts' clothes were covered with blood. He asked who could convey him to Addison. Roberts had no blood on his clothes when he left Dave Sharp's and it was then thought that the worst might have happened. Some parties went to where the shot had been fired, and found a pool of blood and a woman's handkerchief covered with blood.

A warrant was issued when the above facts had been reported to the justice, and a posse composed of W. W. Tyree, J. W. Yeager, Will McLaughlin, John Yeagar, and W. B. King arrested Roberts at Wesley Barlow's, on Williams River Mountain. His wife was with him, and the appearance of her face would have appealed to any man who had the least trace of humanity in his nature. It had the appearance of having been beaten unmercifully and was so swollen and bruised that the people at Bird's Hotel could hardly recognize her as the same woman. The explanation she gave of her condition was that on Sunday a wagon had upset with her and had caused the hurt,—though when she left Sharp's Monday at 2 a. m. she was not beaten about the face. She was, apparently, highly incensed at the arrest of Roberts.

This was the enigmatical condition of the case when the justice proceeded with the examination Tuesday. The man's motives in so acting was past comprehending. Was he drunk, crazy, or possessed of a devil; and was the woman clinging to him as women often do to the man who most illuses them or was she intimidated?

The writing of this report will be finished when the trial is over. The above are the circumstances that have roused the people of this section in behalf of the woman, tho she does not seem to feel or know of any injury to herself except that of the arrest of her husband.

The mysterious silence of the woman ceased when she found herself surrounded and encouraged by sympathizing members of her sex at Marlinton, and she tells a fearful story. Briefly related, her statement is that Saturday her husband, in an insane fit of jealousy, made a murderous attack on her at Bird's Hotel withe a knife. After leaving Dave Sharp's that night he pressed the muzzle of the pistol to her head and told her that she was about to be killed. At that moment she evidently suffered all the terror of those who come wittingly to violent deaths. He discharged the pistol while it rested against her head, and turning it in her hand beat her face into a pulp. The shot was that heard by Sharp.

The woman is threatened with blood poisoning. Her wounds are terrible. The principal cut extends the whole length of her arm. It gapes an inch or more and is to the bone. There are other cuts—one in the breast and the other across the wrist—which are serious. She was beaten about the head with the pistol, the hammer of which made some some bad wounds in the back of the head. Her face is almost in a pulp. Owing to their lack of surgical attention they could not be sewed up at the time when a doctor attended her. Her nose was broken also. There is something supremely touching in her effort to hide and shield her husband when these wounds were first made.

The prisoner waived examination and was placed in jail. His bail has not yet been fixed. He begged to be taken to jail, saying he feared son e violence might be done him by indignant citizens,—and public sentiment is very intense. The wife is a nice-looking girl of slight form. Roberts is rather intelligent-looking and of seemingly nervous disposition. When taken to jail he was trembling so that he could hardly stand. He presented the appearance of a man about to have delirium tremens and he had been drinking heavily.

William Irvine, of this place, knew Roberts in Pennsylvania, and says that he came from Lockport, Indiana County.

Webster County.

To the Editor of The Times:

I write from our camp in the woods of Webster.

Peter Dow is one of the most prominent contractors in this county.

James Roche is the finest cook that ever entered the woods.

Al Dow has just arrived from Canada to assist his brother.

J. B. McNeill, the book keeper, is at home on a visit.

J. J. Dugan is the black-smith.

A. S. McNeill is going to move to his new camp shortly.

Frank Thomson is in Pocahontas county on business this week.

The West Virginia Hardwood Mills are under full blast.

The Gauley Company's mills are losing no time.

The Webster lumber company is preparing to start its mills.

John Silva will be here in a few days to commence his job of skidding for Peter Dow.

There is one case of the measles in this vicinity.

Business is increasing.

Men can get employment here at good wages without any trouble.

G. S. GLADWELL,
Jack, Webster County, W. Va.

Consumption

Out-door life and Scott's Emulsion of Cod-liver Oil with Hypophosphites have cured thousands of cases of consumption in the early stages. They cure old, advanced cases too; but not so many, nor so promptly. When a case is so far advanced that a cure cannot be made, even then SCOTT'S EMULSION checks the rapidity of the disease, relieves the pains in the chest, reduces the night sweats, and makes the cough easier. In these cases it comforts and prolongs life. Don't experiment with cures that destroy the digestion. Pin your faith to the one remedy which has been THE STANDARD FOR OVER 20 YEARS.

Book about it free for the asking.

For sale by all druggists at 50c. and $1.00.

SCOTT & BOWNE, New York.

LIGHTNING HOT DROPS

CURES
Colic,
Cramps,
Diarrhoea,
Flux,
Cholera
Morbus,
Nausea,
Changes of Water, etc.

HEALS
Cuts,
Burns,
Bruises,
Scratches,
Bites of Animals and Bugs, etc.

Tastes Good.
Smells Good.

BREAKS UP A COLD.

SOLD EVERYWHERE—25C AND 50C PER BOTTLE. NO RELIEF, NO PAY.

HERB MEDICINE CO. [Formerly of Weston, W. Va.] SPRINGFIELD, O.

Terrible Accident in Renick's Valley.

James Brown, a son of Allan Brown, of Spring Creek, was instantly killed while firing an engine in Renick's Vally, in the upper end of Greenbrier County, Friday, April 16. His death was due to the breaking of the main belt of the saw mill. He was standing immediately behind the engine and had been replenishing the fire. He had used iron poker and had placed to his right hand. At that instant the band parted and in jerking back, caught the poker in its folds and struck him in the forehead, crushing the skull and causing instant death.

The victim war a man of about thirty years and unmarried. He was an expert engineer and had been in the sawmill business for a long time. In person he was of very striking appearance, being a large, well made man, weighing about 250 pounds.

The mill he was on working belonged to Shirkey & Wright and located at the foot of Spring Creek Mountain, on Charles Bright's land and sawing Abraham Beard's timber.

This accident calls to mind a similar occurrence in the same mill about two weeks ago. At that time the same belt broke and caught a double-bitted axe in the hands of a mill hand named Copenhaver and whirling it in the same manner cut the skin of Copenhaver's throat, while the handle of the axe broke his fore finger.

An Old Gun.

To the Editor of THE TIMES:

G. W. Ginger, Esq., of Huntersville, has in his possession a shotgun that was brought from Germany by his great-grandfather. At his death it became the property of George's grandfather, who lived in Rockbridge County, Va, and, doubtless, this same gun helped to rid that county of the numerous bears and wolves of those days. Then it descended to George's father, who was killed during the war. When George was a small boy he had a great anxiety to go hunting, so his mother gave him the old shotgun, and he started out for a hunt. He had not gone far when he spied a squirrel on a tree, and taking aim, fired, and down fell the squirrel. He pick it up and ran home to his grandmother, showing his game, and had forgotten his old shotgun in the woods.

The gun is still in good shooting order. H. M

A Recommend.

In an old "deed poll" made in 1795 for a tract of land now embraced in Pocahontas County the parties contract by what they call a "recommend," which seems to have been the report of the prospector, agent, and surveyor. The parties seem to have both lived in Pennsylvania, and this prospector, "one Daniel McCan," had penetrated to this county and reported in his "recommendation" as follows on this tract. The county was then a part of Harrison County.

"This or parcel of Land Leys Situate in the County of Harrison on the Weaters of William's River, Containing one thousand acers and is Land of ye first rait and qualitey and is Well Watered and Well Timbered. The right of said land is good it being Warranted in year eighty-two by Benjamin Copeland. Is verrey clear of Stone and as for timber consists of Walnut and Buckey and the underfoot Brush is chiefley Spicewood and this is the true character of said land as witness my hand this 8th day of October, 1795.

No. 5th. DANIEL MCCAN."

The ink on this old scrap of paper is as clear and readable as when it was first written.

Any information concerning the said Daniel McCan will be of interest to the history department of this paper.

MRS FRANCIS MCCOY, who is at the Marlinton Infirmary, undergoing a critical surgical operation, is doing very well, indeed. There is much reason for hoping that her convalescence will be rapid and satisfactory. This will afford her numerous friends throughout the county much pleasure to hear. Mrs McCoy is held in highest esteem by her friends and acquaintances, as a very worthy person, and wide spread interest is felt in her recovery.

LITTLE LEVELS.

Our vicinity was visited by some cattle buyers last week and we understand S. H. Clark and L. M. Beard sold at rather good prices. We hope to hear of all of our cattle men making good sales.

Our people were well represented at James Renick's sale Tuesday and some good stock came this way.

Mr Alvin Clark made a business trip to Frankford last week.

John Pickering, of Falling Spring, spent a few days in our midst last week.

Charles Gilliam and son were the guests of W. W. Beard for several days last week.

G. R. Curry was down to Lewisburg last week attending to his buiness.

Andrew Price and wife spent Sunday in the Levels.

Miss Lillie Curry was visiting relatives here last week.

Miss Susie Simmons has located at Hillsboro.

J. H. Maxen, traveling agent for the McCormick H. M. Co., passed thro the Levels on his way to Lewisburg, Saturday. He reports 50 sales so far in Pocahontas County.

Mrs R. W Hill and and her two sons, Anthony and David left Friday to visit friends and relatives in Greenbrier County.

Some of our people want to know why Willis Baxter goes to Huntersville so often. We suppose it is to meet the "Lodge."

Ed Jackson was in our town last Sunday and Monday.

BUMBLEBEE.

YELK.

Easter is over and quite a number of eggs have been broken.

Very few farmers are done sowing oats owing to the wet weather.

Miss Ettie Moore, who has been staying with her sister, Mrs John Gibson, has gone home.

Constable A. P. Gay was in this part Saturday.

Walter Mann has brought his cattle to William Gibson's to be grazed this summer.

Will Varner has completed a very nice dairy at the cold spring near his home.

John Hull has been in this part for some time and has done several small jobs of work.

Jim Gibson had a big log rolling, but the most enjoyable part was two fine turkeys prepared for the occasion with a great many other good things. Several ladies assisted Mrs Gibson, but they all kissed the almanac that they would not tell who made the kettle of dumplings.

Floyd Ware has moved to Jake Gibson's farm for one year. Jake says one year is long enough to rent a time, for a body don't know when some girl might say 'Y-E-S!'

There has been more clearing done on Elk this winter than has been done in several years.

Amos Doyle says he is not discouraged.

Charley McCoy has returned from somewhere. GUESS.

Big Bargains at Pullin's.

Calicoes, 4 1-2c.
Ginghams 7c.
Outing, 6 1-2c.
India Linen, 8c.
Linen, 9c.
Cheese Cloth, 4c.
Pants Goods, 18c.
Linen Table Covers 35c.
Men's Suits, from $2.80 up.
Boys' Suits, from $1.09 up.
Mens Pants, 48c.
Boys Pants, 34c.
A good Moleskin Pants, worth $1.25, for 39c.
Overshirts, 19c.
Mens Dress Shirts, 37c.
Drawers, 24c.
Mens socks, 6 pair for 25c.
Ladies Vests, 8c or 15c a pair.
Mens Dust Brooms, 5c.
Good Straw Matting, 12 1-2c.
Cuticle Soap, 10 c.—a good toilet Soap.
A Boys Collar, ten cents.
Oil Carpets, 34c per yard.
Ingrain Carpets, 49c.
Stair Carpets, 25c.
Two Papers of Pins, 5c.

Big bargains in Tin and Glass Ware. We have other bargains that will interest you. Our goods are new and fresh. Call and be convinced. All mail orders receive our prompt attention.

Lightning Hot Drops—
What a Funny Name!
Very True, but it Kills All Pain.
Sold Everywhere, Every Day—
Without Relief, There is No Pay!

PLEASE NOTICE.

I have bought out Joe Loury's entire stock of goods, and will do business at the same place.

I will replenish my stock with new goods from time to time, and will give you the Best Bargains you ever got. Call and see me before you buy. I will take all kinds of Country Produce that I can sell—Butter, Grain, Eggs, Wool, etc., at best prices. To give you an idea of my prices—Prints, 3c, and all other goods in proportion.

Call and see me. I will treat you right and show you my goods with pleasure—whether you buy or not.

S. J. BOGGS,
Huntersville, W. Va.

I respectfully solicit the trade to examine my new goods for the following 17 Reasons:

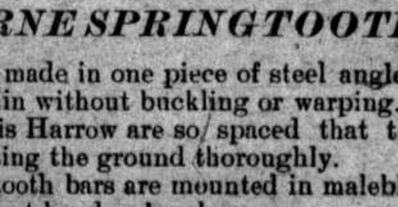
1 The stock is up to date
2 It is new throughout
3 It is thoroughly reliable
4 It is right priced
5 My profit is small
6 Nobody is urged to buy
7 Stock is cheerfully shown
8 Visitors always welcome
9 Cash power in buying quantity
10 Everything bought at lowest price
11 No misrepresentation
12 Full values always given
13 Never any occasion for dissatisfaction
14 Thorough knowledge how to buy
15 Judgment in choosing styles
16 Ability to satisfy customers
17 Never lose a good customer

Paul Golden.

Attention

1200 BUSHELS OF CORN, 1000 BUSHELS OF GOOD SEED OATS, AND 700 BUSHELS OF RYE FOR SALE CHEAP AT

Sol. Davis'



THE OSBORNE SPRING TOOTH HARROW

The frames are made in one piece of steel angle bar, and formed to withstand all strain without buckling or warping.

The teeth in this Harrow are so spaced that they will not trail each other, Pulverizing the ground thoroughly.

The steel pipe tooth bars are mounted in maleble boxes secured to the frame, and will not bend or break.

The peculiar shape of the teeth curling two-thirds about the bar gives the greatest amount of spring possible without straining the bolts, and because of their shape and fastening they are stronger than used on any other harrow.

By the levers, the depth of the work can be regulated while the Harrow is in motion.

The draft is steady and direct, as the Harrow has no side motion

ALL THESE FEATURES COMBINED HAVE MADE THE OSBORNE CELEBRATED.

It has no EQUAL,—it never will have a SUPERIOR.

Call and examine the Osborne line consisting of—

BINDERS, MOWERS, RAKES, TEDDERS, HARROWS AND, CULTIVATORS.

The most complete line of Farming Implements to be found the State.

For sale by

EAGLE & OTT,

RONCEVERTE, W. VA.

HOME NEWS

JANUARY, 1 1897.

Miss Alice Pullins is visiting in Marlinton.

BIG oyster supper at Huntersville Thursday night. A large number of invitation have been issued.

Do not allow your system to get weak and debilitated. It is easy to keep well and strong by taking Hood's Sarsaparilla.

MRS SUSAN CARTER has, opened a wayside inn at her residence, one mile west of Huntersville, and is prepared to entertain travelers in a good substantial style.

CHRISTMAS night the young people of the Levels met ot the home of Mr Ellis McCarty and had a delightful social. Misses Mattie Curry and Grace McCarty did the honors of the evening.

He—Woman is a delusion and a snare.

She—Is that why men are always hugging a delusion and being caught by a snare.—Washington Times.

MILL POINT and Marlinton played a game of foot ball last Saturday at Mill Point, score 1 to 0 in favor of Marlinton. Marlinton played 9 men against 12 of Mill Point.

Seventy-five thousand is the number of public places said to have been covered by civil service rules under President Cleavland's administration. We are unable to vouch for the accuracy of the figures, but certainly the number is very large. Republicans who aspire to public positions will see how much their chance is diminished. Many a deserving and capable man will have to get along without the thing he would like to have.

LOGGING operations are not much retarded by Christmas festivities, in the different camps. Owing to the long slides to be made, it looks as if the drive may be deferred to March or April, unless there be unusual sliding weather. Capt. Boggs has returned to Anthony's Creek. Capt. Irvine is in charge of the Cummings Creek camp. There is a jam a mile from White's towards the top of the mountain the result of temporary boom put in by the order of Smith and Whiting.

CHRISTMAS Eve was passed in a most enjoyable manner by the West Marlinton school, Miss Allie Baxter, teacher. A large and beautiful Christmas Tree, bending beneath its burden of gifts, was the admiration of all present. The room was profusely decorated with boughs and festoons of evergreen and appropriate mottoes skillfully arranged. After dialogs were spoken, poems and speeches recited, the gifts were distributed and a better satisfied and happier group of children and young people would be hard to find. Each pupil received a souvenir, presented by the teacher. It was booklet having the names of teacher, trustees and pupils printed in bronze, and is very nicely gotten up indeed.

MASON GREEN was arrested by R. K. Burns, deputy-sheriff, last week, and placed in jail at this point to be handed over to the Virginia authorities upon requisition being made for him. He is indicted in the Bath County Court for stealing a mule from a negro, and is known as a lawless man and a thorough degenerate. He has been in Pocahontas some months, and has been accused of selling as much as $13 worth of poultry at once, and at a time too when citizens of the upper end of the county have lost corresponding numbers of turkeys and chickens. Some six or seven years ago he figured in the criminal courts of this county. First he was tried for stealing a Bible from a church and had confessed to the theft. It was shown, however, that inducements had been held out to him by a special constable who had arrested him, and evidence concerning it was ruled out, and he was cleared on lack of evidence. In 1890 he was indicted for stealing a lot of bacon by breaking and entering an outhouse of the late Andrew Dilley, He was convicted and sentenced to five years in the penitentiary. He is a tough citizen. During that trial he conducted himself with such a show of insolence and bravado that he did not have a friend in court. When asked by the judge whether he had anything to say why sentence should not be passed upon him, he gave some flippant answer. The judge then said that in offenses of this sort he had been in the habit extending the mercy of the court, and making the sentence two years but in this case he would simply add three years for his demeanor in the court during the trial, and succeeded in impressing him with the dignity of the court.

MRS JOHN WAUGH, of the Mt. Pleasant neighborhood, has a turkey hen that seems to have a fin de siecle move on her. This enterprising bird has reared one brood and is now incubating a second with flattering prospects of success. Unless Clover Creek or Split Rock report something better, this is the champion motherbird of Pocahontas.

ON the night of the 19th of Dec. the Three Friends, a fillabustering steamer, attempted to land troops and munitions of war in Cuba. It was pursued and attacked by two gunboats, and fired upon. It was not injured and upon returning the fire, the Spanish boats withdrew hastily and disappeared, and a safe landing was effected. This counts as the first naval victory of the Cuban war.

A BOARD of arbitration sat in the borough of Academy last Saturday night, with disastrous results. It seems that last fall J. W. Walton of Walter Clark borrowed one overcoat, and did not return it. Mr Clark complained of the said Mr Walton that he had worn the coat badly, and that further he had lent it to a negro man, who was more particularly described as not being fit to be followed by a white man in the use of clothes. The board awarded the plaintiff six dollars, and that 's how it all began. Walton followed Clark, and public sentiment blames him with all he got. Clark spoiled his face and dislocated his shoulder, and did otherwise wound, beat, and illtreat him, the said Joseph Walton, much against the peace and dignity of the State. Clark is a powerful man and was thoroughly enraged, and it took all that four men could do to keep him from further injuring his adversary. Walton had to have medical attention and was badly used up for several days. The affair happened within the corporate limits of the town.

Personal Mention.

Captain W. L. McNeel, of Academy, is very unwell.

It is reported Wm. Burgess has an attack of fever.

Miss Eva Moore, of Academy, is at home from the Staunton Wesleyan Institute, for the holidays.

Summers and Winters McNeel are spending Christmas in Charlottsville. The University gave no holidays.

Paul Dever has returned to Pocahontas for a short while

D. S. Hankla, a law student at Washington and Lee, is visiting friends in the Levels.

Miss Polly Sydenstricker is making her home with T. A. Sydenstricker.

Miss Anette Ligon and Yancey Ligon spent several days with friends in the Levels.

Paul Guin, of Highland, was at Academy, last week.

Lee Military Academy.

Spring term of 18 weeks begins February 1st. Pupils can enter any time.

A first-class school for boys. Prepares for college or business. Thorough academic, preparatory and business courses.

Located in a fine grove. Best Christian influences, no saloons, no distractions.

Tuition, $50 and $35. Board from $10 to $15 per month.

JAMES M. LEE, Principal.
Lewisburg, W. Va.

Notice.

All persons running accounts with me will please come forward and settle before January, 15, 1897.

Very Respectfully,
W. W. TYREE.

See that it is there!

This is the trade-mark which is on the wrapper (salmon-colored) of every bottle of the genuine SCOTT'S EMULSION. Be sure this is on the package, and that nothing else is palmed off on you when you ask for it.

Nothing has been made that equals it to give strength and solid flesh to those who are run down or emaciated.

Your doctor will tell you that it is the one food for all those whose weight is below the standard of health.

Put up in 50 cts. and $1.00 sizes, and sold by all druggists.

SCOTT & BOWNE, New York.

DIED.

MRS ELLA J. DYSARD.

Mrs Ella Dysard, wife of L J. R. Dysard, near Traveler's Repose, died very suddenly of neuralgia of the heart, Sunday night, December 20th, aged 30 years. She was a daughter of the late David MacLaughlin, near Driftwood, and was a very estimable lady. Her death is lamented very sincerely by a large circle of attached friends. Though her decease was so unexpected yet all who know her feel that it was safe. In early youth she professed piety, and her outward life adorned her profession.

MRS J. L. MCNEEL.

Mrs J. Luther McNeel, of Laurel Run, died December 18th, aged about twenty five years. She was a step daughter of Mr. George White, a well known citizen of that neighborhood. Mrs McNeel was a kind neighbor and an industrious house-keeper, and these young people had good prospects before them. Her sickness was lingering and she gradually passed away, leaving mother, husband and little children to mourn her long absence.

MISS QUAIDE BEARD.

Died, Monday, December, 21st near Green Bank, of diabetic troubles, Miss Quaide Beard, daughter of Mr and Mrs Josiah Beard, aged about twenty one years. She was a very interesting person. Miss Quaide and her twin sister Bertie were teachers in our schools, she was fond of her work and there was every promise of marked usefulness in this very responsible service. The young people mourn in her death an esteemed friend, her family is bereaved of loved sister and daughter and the county is deprived of the services of a faithful teacher.

MRS REBECCA KINNISON.

This estimable lady died at her home near Hillsboro, Saturday evening at nine o'clock. She had been a great sufferer for several months from a cancer. She had known herself to be a victim of this dread disease for a long time, but bore the knowledge silently in order that her friends might be spared the pain of knowing it, and it was not until this fall that the disease developed to such an extent that it could not be longer concealed. She is the relict of David Kinnison. Three children survive her, one son and two daughters. She belonged to the Lewis family. She was buried last Monday at the McNeel cemetery. The services were conducted by Rev J. H. Dills, pastor of the M. E. Church, South, to which faith she belonged. Her age was 57. She was much esteemed, and will always be remembered as a kind neighbor and sincere friend.

A Reunion.

Messrs Oscar and Guy Slavin, sons of the late Randolph Slavin, Esq., of Huntersville, are now living in Kansas. These gentlemen, with their families, are visiting their Pocahontas friends and relatives at the present time.

On Christmas day a very pleasant reception was tendered them by their mother, Mrs M. P. Slavin, and Mr and Mrs L. M. McClintic, with whom she makes her home. Mr and Mrs S. L. Brown and Mrs J. H. Patterson were also present. For the first time in several years Mrs Slavin and her four surviving children thus enjoyed a delightful reunion, as rarely occurs in the history of families, or could be more enjoyable, when all the circumstances come to be considered.

Mrs Slavin is not only endeared to her sons and daughters as one of the most devoted and self-sacrificing of mothers, but she is moreover held in highest esteem by numerous relatives and acquaintances for all the qualities of mind and heart that constitute a model lady. Her life's history has been one of changes, blended with pleasant scenes and sorrowful vicissitudes; yet in reference to it all her testimony is that goodness and mercy have followed her all the days of her life. The memories of the recent reunion will be fondly cherished by her as an emblem of a final reunion that makes the future very pleasant and hopeful.

Farmers' Home Fire Insurance Co., of West Virginia.

J. M. SYDENSTRICKER - - - President.
R. P. RITTENHOUSE - Sec'y & Treas.

INCORPORATED.

By the People and for the People.

For Isolated Property only. No Salaried Officers to Support. No capitalists to Enrich. No Loss, no Expense. Fair and Honorable Adjustment of all Losses. Cost less than one-fifth of what is paid stock companies, and is five times as secure. In most successful operation in all of the adjoining States. Thousands saved to farmers.

Who Stole the Steer?

H. Nathan, a Jew, who lives on Williams River, was arrested last Tuesday upon complaint of Col. Levi Gay, charging him with having stolen a red and white spotted, two-year old steer, of the value of twenty-one dollars, making it thus a felony charge. He was brought before a magistrate at Marlinton, and on his motion the hearing was continued and set for next Saturday at ten o'clock, W. A. Bratton is his counsel. The prisoner was recognized in the sum of $1000 to appear at that time. His sureties were W. A. Shearer, W. H. Shearer, Miss G. M. Shearer, Miss Rose Shearer, and Mrs H. B. Nathan, his wife. The State recognized the following witnesses in the sum of $100 each to appear: S. J. Gay, J. B. Waugh, W. E. Sharp, and J. C. Boerer.

The tale that hangs to this somewhat sensational arrest is about as follows: In October, Col. Gay, who holds the position of Sheriff, missed one of his carefully treasured steers from his herd on Williams River, and has kept his eye skinned ever since for some trace of the animal. There was no way of telling what had become of it as its body had not been found. Last week, "Devil" Sam Gay went to the Levels to move some effects from H. Nathan's former home, in Academy, to Williams River. In the barn he saw that a green hide had at some time been packed in a coffee sack, and it seems that he suspected that this was the hide of the the lost steer.

He examined it and found it in a disgusting condition from the maggots with which it was infested, but he clearly recognized it from the spots on it to be all that was left of the unfortunate steer.

Word having reached Col. Gay, he sued out a search-warrant and caused the premises to be searched, and he also recognized the hide as being that of the lost steer, and further found his brand on it. He brands with a circle brand about about an inch and a half in diameter on the left hip. The hide had been skinned down the jaws, but the ears had been cut off, showing that there was something sinister in the skinning. Other evidence, we understand, will be introduced by the State.

Nathan claims that the hide was placed in his barn by other parties to throw suspicion on him, and is preposed to show that he has had no beef of that description this fall, and is prepared to prove by members of his household that the hide could not have been in the barn any length of time. We will give a full account of the evidence next week.

Dilley's Mill.

We have been having winter weather.

The Christmas tree fell through at Frost. Some of the young people attended the Christmas tree at Dunmore and report a fine tree. There was quite a lot of whiskey and a few rackets.

James Hively was at home for Christmas, and then went to Pendleton on business.

F, L. Fertig came home to spend the holidays.

Harman Sharp is visiting friends in these parts.

Miss Lena Kinnison was called home to see her mother, who died on Saturday. Consequently there is no school.

G. E. Moore and Brael Sharp went to Hillsboro on Sunday.

There was an interesting sing at Frost on Sunday.

Some of the boys took their girls to the entertainment at Marlinton.

A L. Dilley went to the Xmas tree at Edray.

John Shrader, who went to Millboro for the Frost merchants, had the misfortune to loose his pocket book, but he found it in the ford of Knapp's Creek, after a hunt of a day and a half.

John Andrew Moore dehorned cattle for Messrs Dilley, Grimes and Fertig.

Executor Sale

of Valuable Personal Property.

As executor of Jacob Sharp, dec'd., I will on Tuesday,

January, 12th 1897,

at the Home Place near Edray in Pocahontas county, proceed to sell by way of public auction to the highest bidder the following personal property of the estate of the said Jacob Sharp, to-wit:

13 Head of two year old steers.
4 yearling cattle.
4 Cows.
2 Horses.
20 Hogs.
About one half of the hay on the place.
50 bushels of oats and a lot of corn.
Farming Utensils.
Terms made known on day of sale.

A. N. BARLOW, Exor.

MINGO 2, MARLINTON 2.

The Mingo Football Game an Experience Not Soon to be Forgotton.—Declared a Draw.

Tuesday morning, December 22, a strong team of football players started from Marlinton, with every prospect for fine weather, to play the return game of the series with Mingo. About noon, however, it came on to snow, and some of the more faint-hearted were for turning back forthwith; but the majority declared that having put the hand to the plow, and advanced so far on their journey, they would see the thing thro.

Arrived at Mingo, the team was housed at the hospitable home of Mr Arthur Lawson, who spared no pains to entertain his guests.

The next day the weather showed no abatement, but it was decided that the game should go on. It was thought questionable whether the spectators would be sufficiently numerous to supply the usual quota of officials, referee, linesmen, etc., but the natives showed their mettle by turning out to the number of fifty at least. One lady watched the game from start to finish.

Marlinton won the toss, and and elected to defend the west goal. The wind was blowing almost directly across the field. The ball was quickly carried into Mingo territory, and kept there some time. It looked as tho Marlinton would have little difficulty in scoring. Marlinton sent in a ball, which was stopped by Lawson, but he was charged and fell with the ball in his hands, the visitors claiming a goal. However, nearly all the players of both teams rushed in and engaged in a regular Rugby "scrimmage" over Lawson, who on his hands and knees was rapidly crawling with the ball toward the centre of the field. Play went on without any penalty being allowed for violation of rule by the goal-keeper, nor was the goal allowed. The ball was passed in and Price had a lucky try for goal. Then the play sought the other end, and Miles equalized with a goal for Mingo. Wilson was fouled at a time when a goal for Marlinton seemed a foregone conclusion, but no notice whatever was taken of it by the referee. A kick-out by Mingo was blocked by Price, the ball bounding thro the goal, and half-time was called with the score standing 2-1 in the visitor's favor. In the second half the play was all over the field. E. Hebden scored the neatest goal of the game by a low, swift shot, tieing the score.

The game was marred by an unfortunate dispute or two, caused by the bad state of the ground and the consequent looseness of the play.

Marlinton.—P. Yeager (goal), W. Yeager, J. Yeager (back), Bird Slavin, McLaughlin (h. b.), J. H. G. Wilson, L. Yeager, Anderson, Simmons, Price (forwards.)

Mingo.—Lawson (goal), Lindsay, J. Hebden (back), R. Tuke, Dakers, M. Gatewood (h. b.), E. Hebden, Miles, Earnshaw, Grews, Ramsey (forwards.)

Jack Forster, referee; linesmen, Edwin Hall and Guy Marshall.

Lindsay played a fine game at back, and Lawson guarded Mingo's goal with great coolness. L. A. Yeager, back at his old place in the forward line, after a brilliant season at the University, made many a good run-up. Slavin, at half, earned much praise for his sure kicking.

Going down Elk the Marlinton crowd was greeted with derision, the school-children enroute cheering Mingo to the echo. The "Ironclads" were engaging in a little practice game on Hugh Sharp's land. Their yells could be heard long before they were seen, while their forms, dimly discerned thro the thickly-falling snow, looked like those of giants, indeed.

The expedition returned to Marlinton on Thursday, there being many points of resemblance to the return of an Arctic exploring party. Each member was restored safe and sound to the bosom of his anxious family. It is reported that one or two have "swore off" playing football.

The progressive ladies of Westfield, Ind., issued a "Womans Edition" of the Westfield News, bearing date of April 3, 1896. The paper is filled with matter of interest to women, and we notice the folowing from a correspondent, which the editors printed, realizing that it treats upon a matter of vital importance to their sex: "The best remedy for croup, colds and bronchitis that I have been able to find is Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. For family use it has no equal. I gladly recommed it." 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale by druggists.

A machine makes 8,000 pins hourly.

FLORENCE, Ala., has prohibited Sunday shaves.

The Entertainment.

For some time past Marlinton has been flooded with 'green goods' men, dealers in spruce pine and other decorative herbs; and in response to a persuasive circular sent out thro The Times, there was a wonderful list of "comeon's" assembled at a given time, and what appeared to one who was a bit late, a taken place, on Tuesday evening.

By seven o'clock the old courthouse was packed with people from everywhere,—a great many people I never saw before. Then the curtain parted in twain, greatly to the astonishment of one lady who was expecting to see it roll up evidently; and another of those amusing entertainment games was "worked off" on a guileless audience. Gay jokes and funny sayings were thrown off the stage and exploded all around us for fully four hours, and we had nothing to do but smile and look glad. One joke, in Mark Twain Interviewed, whizzed over the heads of the people and fell with a dull thud near me. I picked it up and took it home to examine at my leisure. But I understood pretty near else that was said immediately.

Everybody was entertained, and there was no police interference. The entertainment was evidently arranged from the 'Jumble Book.' Pistols and bottles and coffee-pots, blended harmoniously with pretty girls and roses, and a bewildering array of beautiful costumes.

It would not be very easy to distinguish a best one among the many pieces. Those most admired from where I was were the Chinese Dance. The Brigand's Death was especially good. Marguerite, the Gypsy Fortune Teller. These were the tragical favorites. Those in lighter vein, which caused loud smiles, were "His Exact Age," "The New Squire" marrying his first pair of lovers, and another piece I don't know the name of. It must be heard to be appreciated. For those who like such things, and to whom the tragedy and anguish of drunkenness is amusing, there was a rare piece provided.

The young gentlemen and ladies deserve much praise for their tireless and unselfish efforts in giving their friends a good evening. I venture to say this entertainment will be remembered by both actors and audience when the slim, wasp-like figures of happy youth have changed to the stout, bumble-bee size of contented, prosperous middle age, for it is something to be remembered!

S. A. P.

Persons who are troubled with indigestion will be interested in the experience of Wm. H. Penn, chief clerk in the railway mail service at Des Moines, Iowa, who writes: "It gives me pleasure to testify to the merits of Chamberlain's Cholera, Colic and Diarrhoea remedy. For two years I have suffered from indigestion, and am subject to violent attacks of pain in the stomach and bowels. One or two doses of this remedy never fails to give perfect relief. Price 25 and 50 cents; sold by all druggists.

MONEY MAKES MONEY!

So do we but we make it for you. How? By saving you the middle man's profit. We practically charge you a small commission for attending to your purchases, and as we have advantages for buying that an ordinary purchaser does not enjoy, we can save money for you.

Cash must always accompany the order, and any excess will be promptly remitted.

Quotations furnished and correspondence solicited. Groceries in original pakages a specialty.

Charleston Purchasing Agency.

Bradford Noyes, Manager,
Charleston, W. Va.

SPECIAL POTATO FERTILIZER

and High Grade General Phosphates made from

VEGETABLE and ANIMAL MATTER.

Every farmer should write for prices, terms, and circulars.

AMERICAN REDUCTION CO.,
Pittsburg, Pa.

D. L. MOODY, the evangelist is to begin a series of revival meeting in Boston on January 1.

The Pocahontas Times.

Andrew & Norman Price, Owners. "Montani Semper Liberi!" Andrew Price, Editor

VOL. 14, NO. 40 MARLINTON, WEST VIRGINIA, APRIL 30, 1897. $1.00 PER YEAR

No. 117. White Enameled Steel Bed, solid brass trimmings. We have them 54 in. wide, 48 in. wide, 42 in. wide and 36 in. wide. All sizes are 78 in. long. Special Price (any size)

$2.75

(orders promptly filled.)

Everywhere local dealers are saying unkind things about us. Their customers are tired of paying them double prices; our immense (free) money-saving catalogue is enlightening the masses. Drop a postal now for complete catalogue of Furniture, Mattings, Carpets, Oil Cloths, Baby Carriages, Refrigerators, Stoves, Fancy Lamps, Bedding, Springs, etc. The catalogue costs you nothing and we pay all postage. Get double value for your dollar by dealing with the manufacturers.

JULIUS HINES & SON,
BALTIMORE, MD.

THE COURTS.

Circuit Court convenes on the first Tuesday in April, third Tuesday in June, and third Tuesday in October.

County Court convenes on the first Tuesday in January, March, October, and second Tuesday in July,—July is levy term.

LAW CARDS.

N. C. McNEIL,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

Will practice in the Courts of Pocahontas and adjoining counties and in the Court of Appeals of the State of West Virginia.

L. M. McCLINTIC,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

Will practice in the Courts of Pocahontas and adjoining counties and in the Supreme Court of Appeals.

H. S. RUCKER,
ATTY. AT LAW & NOTARY PUBLIC
HUNTERSVILLE, W. VA.

Will practice in the courts of Pocahontas county and in the Supreme Court of Appeals

J. W. ARBUCKLE,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
LEWISBURG, W. VA.

Will practice in the courts of Greenbrier and Pocahontas counties. Prompt attention given to claims for collection in Pocahontas county.

W. A. BRATTON,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

Prompt and careful attention given to all legal business.

ANDREW PRICE,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

Will be found at Times Office.

SAM. B. SCOTT, JR.
LAWYER,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

All legal business will receive prompt attention.

H. M. LOCKRIDGE,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
HUNTERSVILLE, W. VA.

Prompt and careful attention given all legal work.

FRED WALLACE,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
LEWISBURG, W. VA.

Will practice in the courts of Pocahontas County.

PHYSICIANS' CARDS.

DR. O. J. CAMPBELL,
DENTIST,
MONTEREY, VA.

Will visit Pocahontas County at least twice a year. The exact date of his visit will appear in this paper.

DR. J. H. WEYMOUTH,
RESIDENT DENTIST,
ELKINS, W. VA.

Will visit Pocahontas County every spring and fall. The exact date of each visit will appear in The Times.

J. M. CUNNINGHAM, M. D.,
PHYSICIAN & SURGEON,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

Office next door to C. A. Yeager's Hotel. Residence opposite Hotel. All calls promptly answered.

25 CTS PISO'S CURE FOR CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS. Best Cough Syrup. Tastes Good. Use in time. Sold by druggists. CONSUMPTION 25 CTS

BIOGRAPHIC NOTES.

AMONG the persons whose industry, economical habits, and wise management of diversified useful industries did much for the development of our county, the name of Henry Harper, Senior, is richly deserving of respectful notice. He was a native of Pendleton County, West Virginia, a son of Nicholas Harper, a native of Germany, who lived on the South Branch. Henry Harper's wife was Elizabeth Lightner, daughter of William Lightner, Sr., on Back Creek, now Highland County, Virginia. For a few years after his marraige he lived on the Branch. About 1812, Nicholas Harper bought two hundred acres from Robert Duffield and Colonel John Baxter, on Knapp's Creek, and on this purchase Henry settled.

The young settlers from Pendleton only found a few acres of cleared land, The thickets of thorn and crab-apple and wild-plums were almost impenetrable. The sheep, pigs, and calves had to be penned by the house to protect them from wolves and bears. By patient and persistent effort land was cleared and a home reared.

At his suggestion, William Civey, of Anthony's Creek, sunk a tan-yard. Then Mr Harper established a blacksmith-shop and built the first tilt-hammer in this region. This shop was carried on under his own personal supervision. Ralph Wanless, George Hevener, of Pendleton County; the late Anthony Lightner, of Swago, and others, learned the trade with him, and were all good blacksmiths. Mr Harper also reared a flouring mill which was operated by himself and son Samuel, chiefly. Father and son were smiths and millers and alternated in their work. The late William Gibson, of Huntersville, and Henry Harper, were the contractors that built the Warm Springs and Huntersville turnpike sixty years ago. Captain William Cochrun, late of Stony Creek, was their principal foreman and manager in construction. In the meanwhile the farm was duly attended to and much land cleared for grain and hay. Additional lands bought and a splendid estate became his.

He had a passion for hunting, which he indulged in merely for recreation.

He died in 1859, aged 70 years. Mrs Harper followed her husband in 1876, aged 86 years.

In personal appearance Mr Harper was of medium stature, somewhat stooped in the shoulders. His voice was soft and flute-like in tone, very quiet and retiring in his manners, and leisurely in his movements, and yet his establishment was a hive of busy industry and all moved on like clock-work.

His family consisted of five sons and four daughters,—Elizabeth, Anna, Sally, and Susan. The sons were Jacob, Nicholas died at fourteen, William, Samuel, and Henry.

Jacob Harper married Lydia Civey, daughter of George Civey, of Anthonys Creek, and settled on Meadow Creek, Greenbrier County, and finally moved to Monroe County, where his family yet reside.

William Harper married Elizabeth Civey, sister of Jacob's wife, and settled on the farm now held by William L. Harper, near Sunset. His last years were passed on Greenbrier River at the Friel place where his son William now resides.

Samuel Harper married Malinda, daughter of the late Isaac Moore, near Frost, and lived on the old homestead and where he yet resides in the 85th year of his life. Their daughter Elizabeth Luena is the widowed wife of the Rev James E. Moore. Sarah Ann married Washington Herold, near Frost. Matilda married Frances Dever, Esq. Their son, Preston Harper, married Lucretia Gum, daughter of Henry Gum, late of Frost. Frank Wilson Harper married Anna Gum, sister of Mrs Preston Harper. William Lightner Harper married Emma Hamilton, daughter of George Hamilton, near Sunset.

Samuel Harper's second wife was Margaret Jane, daughter of John Gum, of Highland County. Her daughter, America, married R. D. Rimel, and Virginia died of diphtheria at the age of five years.

Henry Harper Junior, married Phebe Sharp, daughter of Joseph Sharp, near Frost, and lived on the place now owned by Reddy Goelet at Sunset. Their children were Peter and Rachel Ann. Peter died in early manhood. Rachel Ann married William Herold, of Muddlety, Nicholas County, where she now lives. Henry Harper, Junior, died of an accidental wound, while repairing a gate.

Elizabeth, eldest daughter of Henry Harper, Senior, married the late James R. Poage, and lived first in the Little Levels on land now held by Preston Clark, and then near Edray, where they both recently died. She was an invalid for seventeen years from rheumatic affection—most of the time too weak to help herself. Her husband for years spent most of the days and all of the nights a patient and helpful watcher at her bedside

Her sons were J. R. Poage, who married Mary Gibson, now residing at Edray; the late Henry Poage, who lived on another section of the homestead; and William Poage, who also settled on part of the homestead. Henry married Martha Baxter, daughter of William Baxter, Esq. William married Hester Kee, sister of Aaron Kee, near Marlinton.

Their daughters were Elizabeth Poage, the first wife of Rev George P. Moore; Mary Poage, the wife of Amos Barlow, Esq., Huntersville, W. Va.; Sarah Ann Poage, first wife of George Baxter, near Edray; and Amanda Poage, first wife of Levi Waugh, on the old homestead.

Anna Harper, daughter of Henry Harper, Senior, was the first wife of A. Washington Moore, near Frost. Her daughter Sally married Zacheriah Gum, son of the late Henry Gum. Her husband was killed by a falling limb, and she was left a widow with three small children.

Mary Moore married John Varner, at the Big Spring of Elk. Ella Moore married Benjamin Varner, and now lives in Iowa. Anna Moore is at home with her father, the venerable Washington Moore, near Frost. Newton Moore lives on Knapp's Creek, and Zane Moore, another son, also resides on Knapp's Creek.

Sally Harper, third daughter of Henry Harper, Senior, married James Malcomb and located in Nicholas County. where her family now reside, so far as known.

Susan Harper, the fourth daughter, married the late John D. McCarty near, Hillsboro. Their children are Ellis McCarty and Mrs G. H. Curry, and Della McCarty who died a few years since.

Thus close for the present the notes of the Harper family.

Something as to the improvements made under Henry Harper's supervision may be interesting. The tannery shop was built by William Civey, son of George. George Civey built the grist mill. Robert Irvine and John Irvine built the saw-mill and the same parties put up the tilt-hammer and shop. The residence near the road was built by John Irvine, and Chesley K. Moore erected the dwelling beyond the creek.

The mill-stones first used in the Harper Mill were made by Adam Sharatt, near Friel's, on Greenbrier River. This person lived at the Sharatt place, three or four miles up the Greenbrier from Marlinton, where he had a mill. The first burrs were bought at John Bradshaw's sale, near Huntersville. These having been used for years, Mr Harper replaced them by burrs brought from Rockingham County, Virginia. The Bradshaw burrs are now in Highland County,—taken there years ago by Mr Shultz. The Harper Mill succeeded the Poage Mill, owned by Peter Lightner. The rocks used by that mill are now on Cumming's Creek, near Huntersville, taken there by the late Price McComb, and therefore must be among the oldest in the county—of their dimensions.

W. T. P.

THE PENDING CRISIS.

Our reflecting readers should give close attention to the existing state of things bearing upon the social and political conditions of themselves and their fellow citizens. We are confronted by a social problem that is one of the most important that can claim human attention. Its elements must be clearly understood before sensible and proper attempts can be made to work it out on correct principles. There is a difference between a question and its proper answer. We must first understand the question and then look around for an answer to meet what the question requires.

In discussing the problem of the times, much is said for and against socialism. Now what is most needed by voters and their leaders is to get rid of what is a very superficial idea, that the social problem, with whose solution comes the most serious crisis that has ever confronted American citizens, that the social problem should be so mixed up with socialism that they are one and the same thing. The social question is a problem, socialism is its solution as is recommended by means of some form of co-opperative effort. Now to those looking for the reality of things it appears very strange that the problem and the proposed method of solving it should be regarded as one and the same thing. Socialism as now discussed may be a part of the social problem, but it is not the problem. The labor question may be an element of the the social problem, but it is not the social problem.

Besides socialism and the labor question, the social problem involves the interests of education, ethics, and even of religion. Hence it is truly social, because it involves all the work[illegible] all the concerns of [illegible] ing the all-important [illegible] sorbing question of society must be, and is, the social problem of the age.

A careful examination of the social problem reveals the working of certain elemental forces of human nature. Human beings in virtue of their nature strive to preserve their existence and attain well-being. This is simply an effort to survive, and that too under the best possible conditions. Were we to rest in the opinion that the grievous discontent and unrest of the times have been caused by agitators and partisan publications and regard them as artificial, foreign to human nature, external and superficial, and destined to calm down and vanish when the people come to their senses. this will merely show that we have not understood the question under consideration and are blind to the meaning of the most portentous, astonishing uprising of our day and generation. Along with the unrest, the discontent, class antagonism, and revolutionary tendencies, it is too true that one may find much unreason, great prejudice, violent passion, and even something that looks as if tainted with a demoniac spirit such as no right minded person can disguise or defend. These are the destructive forces which appear in all serious crises.

Properly understood in its truest and deepest sense the social movement that has raised the social problem is an effort of human nature to realize itself, to fulfil the prophecy concealed in humanity, to give expression and exercise to the innate powers, and to make the inborn possibility an actuality. The divine spark must be quenched—human nature must be changed—before the struggle to rise into better condition can be checked. All that is needed is for people to come to themselves to make such a struggle as natural as it is for the sun to arise. Education awakens people, gives them ideals of what they ought to be and enjoy, and it impels them to transform the reality so as to correspond with the ideal. Any further enlightenment increases and intensifies such aspirations. Hence it is that by some the shrewd, and by many regarded a wise, proposal has been made to deprive the working people of the advantages of education in order to keep them in their place. More education means greater demands and more determined efforts to realize them. The social problem, rightly looked at, is the most pronounced mark of progress in human concerns. People are outgrowing their past like boys outgrow their clothes, and must have new and better. The present age insists on an environment worthy of a higher and broader manhood and womanhood.

Foreign writers express the opinion that before the social problem is fully understood and solved that American agitations and troubles may be even worse than what they will have in Europe. They regard the character of our government, the army and police arrangements, as specially favorable for revolutionary changes.

However this may be, one thing is certain, the problem itself is growing, the interest in it is rapidly developing among all conditions of people, and so serious are the apprehensions it creates that all thoughtful, conscientious, patriotic citizens should do their best to understand what it all means, and work for its just, peaceable, and satisfactory solution.

S. C. R.

THE reports from the flooded districts continue to be of a very distressing character. The planters have no present hope of realizing a crop from the submerged lands and this may mean an aditional loss of a million or more to those millions already swept away. As a usual thing the Mississippi does not reach the flood tide until the middle of June, and this gives rise to much apprehension that the worst has not yet been realized in the more southern districts. Truly there is enough going on throughout the world to cause the [illegible]

SENATOR EDWARD O. WOLCOTT, of Colorado; Hon Charles Paine, of Boston; and ex-Vice President Stevenson have been appointed commissioners to an international monetary conference. This appointment is under authority of the act approved in March for the promotion of an international agreement for bimettalism. The committee will soon organize and will go abroad soon after the first of May, and have business matured by the time winter comes. And the next winter will be a winter of very dangerous discontent if something satisfactory be not placed in reach or sight of the millions so hungry for money and what money brings.

"Do you think Skinner can make a living out there?"

"Make a living! Why, he 'd make a living on a rock in the middle of the ocean—if there was another man on the rock."—Tit-Bits.

"And how did he die?" asked the lady who had come west to inquire after the husband she had lost.

"Er—by request, ma'am," said the gentle cowboy, as mildly and regretfully as possible.—Indianapolis Journal.

MRS SPAT.—Your husband is an inventor, I believe?

Mrs Spotter—.Yes. Some of his excuses for coming home late at night are in use all over the country. —Philadelphia North American.

MRS YEAST—I wish I could think of some thing to keep my husband at home at nights.

Mrs Puncheon—Get him a bicycle.

Mrs Yeast—That would take him out more than ever.

Mrs Puncheon—Oh, no, it would not; my husband got one the day before yesterday and the doctor says he won't be out for a month. —Household Words.

"Treddle is jealous of his prerogtatives, is n't he?"

"What makes you say so?"

"He got angry the other night and told me not to be a fool."—New York Sun.

"Oi did not mind the threats av 'im," Mr Hogan explained, "as much as th' insultin' sthyle av his remarks."

"And fwhut did he say?" asked Mr Grogan.

"He says to me, 'Hogan,' says he ''tis a great notion I have to jump on you and knock your face into shape.' "—Indianapolis Journal.

A SOLDIER'S LETTER.

Some weeks since a fallen soldier's letter was published in this paper. It is our pleasure now to lay before the reader a war-letter written nearly thirty-four years ago, whose author still lives. He is now Adjutant Pocahontas Camp of Confederate Veterans.

CAMP NEAR MADISON C. H.,
July 30th, 1863.

Dear Sister Nancy Jane,—I take the present opportunity this morning to drop you a few lines to let you know that I am well at present, hoping that these few lines may reach you in good health when they come to hand. I have not much to write at this time. I am in camp to day near Madison Court House. We just came here last night. but we don't know how long we will stay here. I have had a hard time of marching ever since I left home. I have had but a few days rest. I was guarding a mill over in the Valley and have been in two battles,—the battle of Winchester, Va., and the battle of Gettysburg, Pa., and have come out safe. I did not get hurt. The tin-cup that was in my haversack was hit by a musket-ball. There were three wounded in my company. Two of my mess were wounded—James Akers and Wiliam—and were left in the hands of the enemy. I had the hardest time when we had to fall back from Pennsylvania that I have had since the war.

I was in twenty miles of Harrisburg, the capitol of the State It is a very fine country over there, and I have never seen such country for wheat as that is. We could get plenty to eat when I was over there. They were very clever people in Maryland and a good many secessionists there. We had to wade the Potomac River, and it was up to our arms, and the army had to cross it in the night. I crossed about daylight in the morning. We had traveled all the night before, and had been on skirmish forty-eight hours before, and that was why we had no rest. The 25th Regiment is skirmisher for the Brigade. We have to lead the charge. I was in front in the battle of Gettysburg. I shot forty-eight rounds. We started into the fight about sun-down and fought until about 10 o'clock that night, and then we were out of ammunition. It was a very hard place to fight the Yankees, they were strong and fortified on the mountain. Gen. Johnson, that was on the Alleghany, was with us in the charge and he got his horse shot and killed under him. But we got safe back to Virginia and I was glad of that. We have come across the Blue Ridge again. Imboden's Brigade is still in the Valley. I heard from Musto Corbett yesterday and he was well. His company was in a fight over in Maryland and his Captain and thirty of his men were taken prisoners and Brison Moore that was from Pocahontas was killed. He was a good soldier and I hated to hear of his death.

We had some killed and wounded out of the 25th Regiment, the 31st Regiment lost but few men. I wish I could get back to Imboden again. We have very hard times in this big army for something to eat. We do n't get more than half enough, and we all are out of money and means to buy any with. We have no tents, we have to take the weather as it comes. The army is in a bad condition, heap of them are barefooted. I am just about that, and have but one pair of socks and they are full of holes, so you can send me a pair if you have any. Tell Bob to write to me. I would write to him now but I have a bad place to write and I am tired and broken down marching. I would like to be out there now to get some good apples to eat and get some berry pies. I got a letter from home, and it said that E. M. Ware was dead. I was sorry to hear of his death, I did n't think he would get over it when I was there. This letter is as much to mother as it is to you. You must read it to her. But if you have time answer it as soon as it comes to hand and let me hear from you all at home. I have gotten a letter from Pocahontas, and you can never write to me. Direct Co. I, 25 Va. Regiment, Jones' Brigade, Johnson's Division, Ewell's Corps, and it will come to me, so there is nothing more at present.

H. P. McGLAUGHLIN.

"DOCTORS say a man is weakest when he gets out of bed in the morning."

"That 's not so. If he was n't as strong as a lion he would n't be able to crawl out."—Kansas City World.

"A MAN never makes any mistake by being born in Ohio."

"How do you know?"

"I 've tried it."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

NEWS NOTES.

BUFFALO gnats have been killing horses and mules in Kentuckey.

THE entire Democratic ticket was elected in the city election of Newburg, Preston County.

PRESTON COUNTY is to have a new Republican newspaper located at Kingwood or Rowlesburg.

MAJOR GREEN PEYTON, proctor of the University of Virginia, died at his home April 18, aged sixty-eight years.

A NATIONAL Fish Congress will meet at Tampa Florida, January 19, 1898, in the interest of the fishing industry.

A WOMAN has qualified as county clerk of a county in Missouri, the Supreme court having decided that she was eligible.

THE work of construction of the Little Kanawha Valley railroad will begin inside of sixty days and at least forty miles will be completed this season.

THE work of displacing fourth-class postmasters has begun. The first batch of West Virginia included nine post offices in different parts of the State.

THE Berkeley County Fruit Growers Association have declared war on the San Jose Scale. This scale is one of the worst fruit tree pests known.

THE convicts of Indiana have been divided according to age; those under thirty having been placed in the State Prison at Jeffersonville.

A BODY, found floating in the Kanawha river near Handly, was identified as that of John Cochran, of Montgomery, who has been missing since last February.

NATHAN KING, a Jew of Louisville was "churched" for not paying his dues and he sued the congregation of B'nai Jacob for $1000 for damages done his feelingses.

RICHMOND has never given Virginia a Governor, but the chances seem to favor Hon Taylor Ellyson, of Richmond, as the next Democratic nominee.

JERRY BROWN, who feloniously assaulted [illegible] Rudford, at Deepwater, Fayette County, confessed and was sentenced to b ehung on June 25th next.

HENRY BALLARD, a wealthy lumberman of Logan County. committed suicide by jumping head first into a well. Recent losses are ascribed as the cause.

IN Portsmouth, Va., only those Democrats are allowed to vote in the primary for Governor who supported Wm. J. Bryan last year. We think this is a very righteous distinction to be made between the two parties.

THE air ship comes nearer. Seven reliable citizens of Parkersburg declare that the mysterious air ship which has been seen in so many different parts of the country passed over that city about ten o'clock one night recently.

A NEGRO named Charles Harrison died from the effects of a drinking contest with two others of his color, at Hagerstown, Md. He drank a quart and a gill and the others about the same quantity. Harrison sank down in a fit of apoplexy and never recovered consciousness.

ETTA ROBINS is on trial for her life, at Huntington, indicted for the murder of A. J. Call and his daughter, Nettie. These two persons were found murdered with an axe on a house boat on the Ohio River. The woman confessed to the murder of Call in self defense, but claims to be totally ignorant how the daughter came to her death.

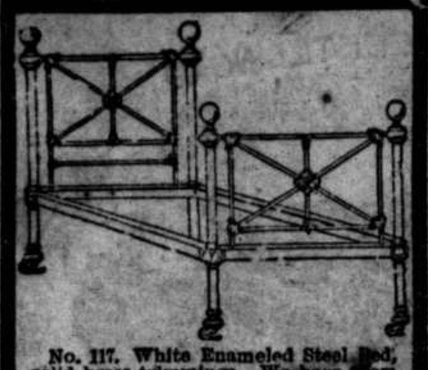
THE fact that importers have been stirred to such immense exertions to import goods before the Dingley law be passed, indcates conclusively that the tariff has a real and very decided effect upon the sales of goods in America. In anticipation of the new law, all the available sugar in the world has been bought by our sugar importers. The payments on withdrawals in the New York custom house amounted one day to half a million dollars.

THE case from Webster County of Taylor vs. Dorr was decided recently in the Supreme Court, in which the judgement of the Circuit Court was confirmed. This was a suit brought by Taylor against Hon C. P. Dorr for settlement of partnership affairs. Taylor had been a partner of Dorr for one year. The Circuit Court found a balance of $91.40 in favor of Dorr and the plaintiff appealed. Messrs. Mollahon and McClintic, of Charleston, represented the defendant. In their brief they quoted the words of the Circuit Judge who said that "It was to the interest of the Republic that such litigation should cease."

Abram Duffield

The Pocahontas Times.

Andrew & Norman Price, Owners. "Montani Semper Liberi!" Andrew Price, Editor
VOL. 14, NO. 42 MARLINTON, WEST VIRGINIA, MAY 14, 1897. $1.00 PER YEAR



No. 117. White Enameled Steel Bed, solid brass trimmings. We have them 54 in. wide, 48 in. wide, 45 in. wide and 36 in. wide. All sizes are 78 in. long. Special Price (any size)

$2.75

(orders promptly filled.)

Everywhere local dealers are saying unkind things about us. Their customers are tired of paying them double prices; our immense (free) money-saving catalogue is enlightening the masses. Drop a postal now for complete catalogue of Furniture, Mattings, Carpets, Oil Cloths, Baby Carriages, Refrigerators, Stoves, Fancy Lamps, Bedding, Springs, etc. The catalogue costs you nothing and we pay all postage. Get double value for your dollar by dealing with the manufacturers.

JULIUS HINES & SON,
BALTIMORE, MD.

THE COURTS.

CIRCUIT COURT convenes on the first Tuesday in April, third Tuesday in June, and third Tuesday in October.

COUNTY COURT convenes on the first Tuesday in January, March, October, and second Tuesday in July,—July is levy term.

LAW CARDS.

N. C. McNEIL,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

Will practice in the Courts of Pocahontas and adjoining counties and in the Court of Appeals of the State of West Virginia.

L. M. McCLINTIC,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

Will practice in the Courts of Pocahontas and adjoining counties and in the Supreme Court of Appeals.

H. S. RUCKER,
ATTY. AT LAW & NOTARY PUBLIC
HUNTERSVILLE, W. VA.

Will practice in the courts of Pocahontas county and in the Supreme Court of Appeals.

J. W. ARBUCKLE,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
LEWISBURG, W. VA.

Will practice in the courts of Greenbrier and Pocahontas counties. Prompt attention given to claims for collection in Pocahontas county.

W. A. BRATTON,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

Prompt and careful attention given to all legal business.

ANDREW PRICE,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

Will be found at Times Office.

SAM. B. SCOTT, JR.
LAWYER,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

All legal business will receive prompt attention.

H. M. LOCKRIDGE,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
HUNTERSVILLE, W. VA.

Prompt and careful attention given all legal work.

FRED WALLACE,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
LEWISBURG, W. VA.

Will practice in the courts of Pocahontas County.

PHYSICIANS' CARDS.

DR. O. J. CAMPBELL,
DENTIST,
MONTEREY, VA.

Will visit Pocahontas County at least twice a year. The exact date of his visit will appear in this paper.

DR. J. H. WEYMOUTH,
RESIDENT DENTIST,
ELKINS, W. VA.

Will visit Pocahontas County every spring and fall. The exact date of each visit will appear in The Times.

J. M. CUNNINGHAM, M. D.,
PHYSICIAN & SURGEON,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

Office next door to C. A. Yeager's Hotel. Residence opposite Hotel. All calls promptly answered.

[illegible]

BIOGRAPHIC NOTES.

Abram

THE first cottage prayer-meeting the writer remembers was at the home of Robert Duffield, near Edray, West Virginia. Early one Sabbath in May, the writer's parents with their four children came to the Duffield home to attend the meeting that had been announced. No one had yet arrived when we reached the place. Upon entering the porch, voices were heard within as if parties were engaged in reading or prayer. Standing by the door and listening we found that it was the venerable Robert Duffield reading to his invalid wife the account given by Mathew of our Redeemer's temptation in the wilderness. He was reading at the moment where it is written, "He shall give His angels charge concerning thee and in their hands they shall bear thee up, lest at any time thou dash thy foot against a stone." Then she remarked: "Oh, that is so good, how encouraging it is for poor me." Finally the venerable resumed, and then prayed, after reading: "Then the Devil leaveth him, and behold angels came and ministered unto him." Then again the same one observed, "Oh, how good to hear that our Jesus gained the victory. How safe it makes one feel to have him for our Savior who is so loved by the angels." There seemed to be mutual rejoicing over the Redeemer's victory, and if all the benefits of this victory had been for these two old people, and nobody else, their satisfaction could not have been, seemingly, more real. When silence intervened, we knocked at the door and were told to come in. There were the two old people, and no one else in the room. It was not long, however, before quite a number assembled, and the cottage prayer-meeting was a spirited one.

Robert Duffield is believed to have come from the lower Valley, during the Revolution or soon after, and at the time referred to was living on the farm now occupied by Newton Duffield. The venerable Mrs Duffield was Hannah Moore, daughter of Moses Moore, the well-known pioneer, and ancestor of so many of our worthy citizens of the Moore relationship.

From Mrs Catherine Kellison, on the Dry Branch of Swago, we gathered the following particulars:

Andrew Duffield was the eldest son of Robert Duffield's family. He married Jane Moore, daughter of Robert Moore, Senior, late of Edray. In reference to Andrew Duffield's family we learn that Robert M. Duffield lives in Jackson County, West Virginia. William Duffield, a Union soldier, died during the war at the home of Jacob Waugh, in Barbour County. Andrew Duffield, Junior, died of fever at the age of sixteen years. Rebecca Jane Duffield is now deceased. Eliza Duffield became the wife of Captain Walton Allen, of Clover Creek, who was a well known Union scout in the late war between the States. Catherine Duffield was married to Clark Kellison, near Buckeye, a Union soldier under Sheridan. He was also on detached service on the western plains after the war in the U. S. Cavalry. He received his discharge just in time to escape the Custer massacre.

John Duffield, son of Robert Duffield, the pioneer, married Rebecca Sharp, daughter of John Sharp, Senior, whose residence was where I. Wesley Irvine now lives. Mr Irvine is a grandson of John Sharp. Mr Duffield settled on the Mill property now in possession of S. D. Waugh, but in his last years lived on the farm where his father, Robert, had lived and died. John Duffield's sons were Hamilton, Wesley, Newton, who lives on the old homestead; Emory and McKendree in the West.

Andrew, a bright and beautiful little boy, the pet and pride of the household, was at play on the porch. His mother was busily sewing just inside the door, not six feet away. Wondering what was keeping Andrew so quiet she turned to the door and found him dead,—strangled by the crupper of her saddle. The shock was such that she never fully recovered from the effects, tho she lived for more than fifty years afterwards.

Sarah Jane Duffield became the wife of Joseph Moore, son of the late Addison Moore, near Edray.

Nancy Ellen Duffield was married to the late Marcellus Ratliff, and now lives on a portiyn of the old homestead near [illegible] school-house.

William Duffield, son of Robert and Hannah Duffield, married Margaret Brock, daughter of Thomas Brock. He settled near the Sulphur Spring, now known as the Warwick Spring. The property is at present occupied by William Gay, whose wife, Mrs Martha Gay, is a daughter of William Duffield. Mr Gay was a Union soldier, and had remarkable adventures while escaping from the army below Richmond and making his way with five or six others thro East Virginia, the Valley, the mountains of Bath and Pocahontas back to Stony Creek.

Caroline Duffield, a daughter of William Duffield, was married to George Auldridge, son of the late John Auldridge, head of Laurel Run. They are living in Iowa,—having the comforts of a prosperous home.

Hannah Duffield was married to David Cochran, and lives at the end of Drooping Mountain. She has two daughters living on Cummings Creek near Huntersville. Agnes, who is Mrs Willis McComb; and Ida, who is Mrs Henry McComb.

One of William Duffield's daughters died in early youth of what was called the "cold plague," but judging from reported symtoms it would be called now "congestive chills."

This hard-working man, William Duffield, finally met his death by a tree falling upon him, which he was chopping for browse. The snow was quite deep, and when the family became uneasy that he did not come to dinner, Rebecca, the eldest of the family, just about grown, went to see what was the reason. She found him dead under the tree, buried in the snow. She told what had happened, and other members of the family hastened to the neighboring homes for assistance. Rebecca went back and chopped the large tree in two, had the log rolled away before any one had time to get there, and was holding her poor dead father's head in her arms. Rebecca now resides in Kansas, and is reported to be living in very comfortable circumstances.

Mary Duffield became the wife of Alexander Moore, and went to the West.

The writer cherishes very tender recollections of John Duffield, the honest and faithful miller, whom he met so frequently at mill when a mere youth. A few months before the venerable man's death, we met after a separation of more than thirty years. It was at a sacramental service, and during the recess we met and conversed for some time. He feelingly expressed the pleasure it gave him to meet once more in this life, and that he had gotton some new and encouraging ideas that day which he would not have missed for anything in his old age. They were suggested by the text: "What shall I render unto the Lord for all his benefits toward me? I will take the cup of salvation and call upon the name of the Lord." Briefly expressed, the ideas he referred to were these: From God's gifts to form a plea, and ask Him still for more, and the best way to please him is to value and rightly appreciate his benefits and desire them more and more in humble, grateful prayer. As nothing pleases a father more than to see that his children are truly grateful for what he has to give them, so it is with God—the best of all the fathers. "William, I would not have missed these ideas for anything."

From what I can learn, this was about the last time my venerable friend, over eighty years of age, ever put to his lips the visible cup of salvation. I cherish with peculiar feelings his last words to me "William, I would not have missed these ideas for anything."

W. T. P.

Blennerhesset P. S. A.

From The Cumberland (Eng.) Times.

There was a very crowded company on Sunday, the attendance reaching high water mark. Mr Arthur Lawson gave the address. He was pleased, he said, to be with [illegible] altho when [illegible] to give the address there was some [illegible] of making him a parson; and he thought that would hardly do. But he thought these P. S. A. meetings were good institutions, and he was pleased to do what he could to further their interest. He wished to speak to them on the subject of travel. He thought there were few things more instructive, or that contributed more to one's pleasure, than travel. He remembered that when at school he got more than one rap over the knuckles because he could not tell the exact whereabouts of some place of outlandish nomenclature; and he resolved, if he might be so privileged, to travel and see both where and what these places were. But if we were

TO MAKE THE MOST OF TRAVEL

there were certain things it were well for us to note. One was to be observant. It was a great grift when a man had a seeing eye. It was very astonishing how much some travelers saw; and it was still more astonishing how little was seen by others. It were well to cultivate the faculty of seeing; and next to that, and this was another thing to note, the faculty of discrimination. Abroad, as at home, things were not always what they seem; and to be able to discriminate, and then store into the memory what was worthy only of real notice, was a great gift, and a gift should be cultivated. It had been his privilage, some time ago now, to travel on the continent of Europe and in the East. But he thought they might be most interested in what he might tell them about the Holy Land and Egypt. Mr Lawson dwelt at some length on these two countries, giving discriptions of the different places visited, and of the life and manners of the people. He next of Constantinople, and considered that were innately cruel: when they would stand gloating and grinning over the death pangs of a dog in the street, as he had seen them, it was not to be wondered at that they were so callous of human life. He also spoke of the Crimea, and he could not but remember as he stood on the spot of the charge of the Light Brigade that when, after the disaster, the general was sorrowfully explaining to the men the blunder that had been made, then replyed "My lord, we are ready to go again if need be." That showed of what stuff the men of Britain were made—ready to dare any thing in obedience to the call of duty. They visited Moscow at the time of a great religious festival, when nearly every other man one met was a priest. He should say that the Russian peasantry were a very religious class of people; but under which they suffered cried aloud for reform. He should like to tell them something of America, where he had spent the last few years, but his time was gone. This much only he would say—that the men were marvellously go-ahead people, and that the American ladies were exceedingly fine. But after all there was no place like home, and no place like canny Cumberland. The people of these realms had reason to be proud of their country, and it should be for every one of us to do our best to make and keep our country both prosperous and great.—The address was listened to with much interest.—Miss Thomson, Aspatria, accompanied by Miss Graves, sang with much skill and pathos the two solos, "Daddy," and "He wipes the tears from every eye." Miss F. Husbands presided at the piano, and the Rev J. Potts conducted the meeting.

THE TURKS

GRIEVOUS BURDENS

[NOTE: P. S. A. means Pleasant Sunday Afternoon.—Ed.]

THE Westfield (Ind.) News prints the following in regard to an old resident of that place: "Frank Mc Avoy, for many years in the employ of the L., N. A. & C. Ry. here, says: 'I have used Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy for ten years and longer—am never without it in my family. I consider it the best remedy of its kind manufactured. I take pleasure in recommending it.'" It is a specific for all bowel disorders. For sale by druggists.

FOREWARNED, FOREARMED.

Those interested will hereby take notice not to plant any corn, vegetables, or any plant whatsoever that may be injured by the frost and snow that will come on night of the 31st of May this year. Our attention has been called to the fact that the sign is in the neck on the 31st of May, and when this is the case, snow, sleet, and frost is the result.

The conjunction of the planets on this date, according to Pythagoras, Hippocrates, Diocles, and Avicenna, is conducive of great dangers and inconveniences to agriculture, and whenever it so happens it takes care to blight the meadows and pastures, chill and destroy the newly sheared sheep, give the fattening cattle a backset, cause the fruit to drop from the trees, blight the garden, and frost the corn and encourage the depredations of the copperas worm, blast the wheat, and work wreck and ruin generally.

Do not let your skepticism make you one of those unhappy persons whose faith is too weak to be warned by the significance of the signs vouchsafed to the astrologer, whose eyes are able to penetrate the starry spheres and discern therein the decrees of heaven at a distance. Such have their hearts barred against conviction by prejudice and misprision.

"O, agriculture, see! trust thine own eyes.
A fearful sign stands in the almanac,
An enemy; a fiend lurks close behind
The radiance of thy planet—O, be warned,
The sign is in the neck, and that is where You 'll get it."

—Schiller.

THE TWO DISASTERS.

One of the most moving accidents of the times happed in Paris the other day when the charity bazaar burned and about two hundred of the highest of the land of Franee perished in the flames. The bazarr has been an annual event and has netted charities about 1,000,000 francs each year. It was patronized by the nobility and the leaders of society. The dead are mostly women, among whom were many titled personages. The papers went wild over the horrible accident, in strange contrast to the attention they paid the disaster of the week before when a Southern city was swept away and an equal number of lives lost. The difference was that those who died in the city belonged to those Up Above and worthy of more consideration from the New York papers. That pesky New York Journal, for fear that its readers might not appreciate the disaster, draws a parallel case in which it supposes that two hundred of the New York's four hundred were burned while holding a charity bazaar in that city.

In spite of artificialness and distinctions that exist among people while they live, nature tears away the veil at times, and in the supreme moment of life and death the wretched Countess, roughly buffetted about by the panicstricken heard, was as much dependent on herself and received as much consideration, and only as much, as the most insignificant victim overwhelmed the week before by the rushing waters of that Southern river. In the present newspaper age it is hard to say how many common people would have had to perish ere the heart of the newspaper men would have been stirred to the extent it was when this awful reminder of mortality came to the noblesse of Paris.

ONE of the loveliest society events in the history of Fiji was the recent wedding of Hokopolambo Tutifruti, Governor of Rewa Tui Sawa, to Miss Adi Viukaba, grandaughter of the late King Thakombau. The bride was wrapped in an exquisitly woven mat, and she wore in addition a pink silk pianfore, the gift of the groom who was dressed in the conventional native costume with an agate nose ring of great value. After the ceremony the guests sat down to a sumptuous wedding feast of 600 cooked pigs, 300 turtles, and bananas and yams until they couldn't rest. After the wedding clam shells announce that the happy pair will be at home just as soon as the palm leaves can be cut to make a thatch.—Exchange.

"I don't believe there ever was so good a pill made as Ayer's Cathartic Pills. They will do all you recommend them for and even more. When I have a cold and ache from head to heels, a dose or two of these pills is all the medicine needed to set me right again. For headache, * Pill Clothes.

The good pill has a good coat. The pill coat serves two purposes; it protects the pill, and disguises it to the sensitive palate. Some coats are too heavy; they won't dissolve, and the pills they cover pass through the system, harmless as a bread pellet. Other coats are too light, and permit the speedy deterioration of the pill. After 30 years exposure, Ayer's Sugar Coated Pills have been found as effective as if just fresh from the laboratory. It's a good pill, with a good coat. Ask your druggist for

Ayer's Cathartic Pills.

* This testimonial will be found in full in Ayer's "Curebook," with a hundred others. Free. Address: J. C. Ayer Co., Lowell, Mass.

NEW YORK LETTER.

A European steamship, the Lahn sails from this port with $1,500,000 gold coin for Paris. Paris is buying here because this is the cheapest market.

⁂

The Turks are having the best of their fight with Greece to date. The Greeks are in a terrible rage, which is chiefly directed against the royal family. Prince Constantine is hated, and has been branded a coward. Wounded men were left upon the station at Lar'ssa, while the Royal members used the cars for their luggage, etc. All hope of success has vanished, but the patriots ask for one more battle to achieve honor.

⁂

Cuba and Spain are still at it. Spain can never vanquish these brave Cubans. It is high time that the United States stepped in and put a stop to the slaghter of these brave men. When one patriot is killed, ten will spring up and take his place. These Cubans are fighting for their homes—for honor—and will win.

⁂

What a shame such a state of affairs exists in this supposed-to-be Christian world. With modern death-dealing guns a war is to be looked upon with horror.

⁂

On April 27 last in this city Grant-day was celebrated. Many thousands of visitors took in this great city. It was estimated that a half-million of strangers paid honor to General Grant's memory. A military parade of great magnitude, and a naval parade were the features of the day. The General has a beautiful monument at Riverside Park overlooking the most beautiful river in the world—the Hudson. The General's widow and family and grandchildren were on hand to witness the dedication of his monument. President McKinley addressed the vast assemblage. The day was a cold, cheerless one, and those occupying seats on the open air stands had to stamp their feet to keep up the circulation.

⁂

The sport of baseball is now on. All the crack clubs of the League play ball in both this city and Brooklyn. The several clubs have been greatly strengthened, and the lovers of this delightful game expect to see wonderful work done by the League clubs.

⁂

Running races are starting in, and have an average attendance daily. The talent (those who know it all) have been quite sncccessful.

⁂

Money is still tight in this locality. The predicted business boom has not put in an appearance as yet. Everyone whom you meet says that there will be a great business revival. But when? I suppose when the tariff question is settled business will come up. Thousands of unemployed are walking the streets looking in vain for a chance to turn an honest penny. Cases of families being dispossessed occur daily. This city being a seaport town emigrants flock to it, and, instead of going West and locating in some new territory and lay the foundation of a home, they stay here, spend their last cent looking for work, and eventnally are left high and dry upon our shore.

GEORGE M. SANGSTER.

May 4, 1897.

NEWS NOTES.

THOS. D. NEAL, of Richmond, dealer in tobacco, made an assignment; liabilities about $198,000.

THERE are over 800 applicants for the 26 places to be supplied from the Republican party in the penitentiary.

A NEW species of rabbit has been found in Mexico, at an altitude of 9,000 feet, on Popocatapetl. It is very small, has short ears and no tail.

JAS. H. FEHR, former business manager of the West Virginian, has left Charleston under a cloud, having given a number checks which were worthless.

THE Seventh West Virginia Regiment will erect a monument to the dead of that Regiment at Gettysburg. There are about 400 survivors of that regiment now living.

TWO women were tarred by a mob of about twenty at Weston. The tar was heated and applied with white-wash brushes. It was almost impossible to remove it and the women may die.

BY applying the principle of the turbine wheel to the propellers of a steam boat a speed of 37 1-2 miles an hour has been attained by the boat Turbinia on her trial trip. This rate of speed would cross the Ocean in about three days.

IT is said that the Queen will make Mr Gladstone a Knight of the Garter on her approaching jubilee. The Marquis of Salisbury will receive the title of duke. No commoner since the days of Sir Robert Walpole has been made a Knight of the Garter.

THE earth quake which visited this section on Monday, May 3rd, was noticed at this place by some who heard the sound and felt a jar but they took it for a clap of thunder and thought the jar which followed was incident to the concussion. Mr W. G. Gray, of Monroe County, was in Marlinton and says that in his county it rocked houses and in his own the agitation was so great that it disturbed articles placed on the mantel piece. There were three distinct shocks felt at Wytheville, lasting about one minute each. The shock seemed most strongly felt about the Blue Ridge.

VIRGINIA has a State farm near Richmond on which are employed about two hundred convicts. A bold attempt at mutiny and escape was made on May 4 by the convicts. Twenty-four men were at work under three guards at a plant bed. A large negro named Christmas approached one of the guards, ostensibly to ask a favor, but when near he spat a large quantity of tobacco juice in his eyes and seized his rifle. Another guard promptly shot him twice with a Winchester rifle. The rest of the convicts started to run, but turned back on hearing the shots, with exception of James Mallory, from Alleghany County, who made his escape.

AN interesting controversy is reported by the Baltimore Sun as being in the Supreme Court of Appeals concerning the reading of the Bible in the public schools. A mandate from the circuit court seems to have been secured against the school-board of a certain district in Marion County, which was disregarded. The Junior Order of United American Mechanics lay this principle down as one of their strongest claims to the consideration of patriotic people, and they have taken up the fight. It is feared, says the article, that this case if carried to the Supreme Court will establish a precedent to bar the Bible from the public schools of the State. There certainly must be some mistake, or next we will all adopt the argument of Alfred Henry Lewis, in the New York Journal, that ours is not a Christian nation.

MARRIED—In Mingo County, W. Va., Aaron Hatfield, Nephew of 'Cap' Hatfield, to Mary McCoy, Daughter of Rudolph McCoy.

A simple enough wedding notice that, but behind it and in it as a romantic a tale of love and courtship as ever penned—a tale of a mountain maid's wooing; she a McCoy, her lover one of the famous Hatfields, and the two familes, for years avowed enemies, sworn to kill at sight, to hunt each other like wild animals; defying the law and the law's officers, and for forty years waging the bloodiest feud in the history of the South.

For forty years the Hatfield-McCoy vendetta has waged, and in those forty years forty coffins, marked by head stones in the neighboring graveyards, tell of forty lives snuffed out by bullet and knife. Its origin was trivial. 'Way back in 56 when West Virginia was a new country, many parts of it unexplored and unsettled, two razor-back hogs strayed from the farm of Anse Hatfield. Where they went was the bone of the contention. Hatfield claimed that they had wandered to the premises of Rudolpd McCoy and weie being kept there. This McCoy denied, and the matter finally came up in the shape of a suit for the recovery in the justice court. The case was decided for Hatfield.

During the trial hot words were passed and open hostilities were narrowly averted on several occasions. The relatives and friend of the two litigants crowded the rude court room, all armed and ready to to take an active part if the impending battle broke out. But it was avoided, and nothing more than threats from the leaders of the McCoy faction occurred to give alarm. Thus the feud started, and for forty years it kept the country side in a state of excitement.

The McCoys made good their threats. One morning the body of Bill Stayton, a grand son of the plaintiff in the hog case, was found lying dead with a bullet hole in his head. Two of the numerous McCoy boys were arrested for the murder, but were acquited at the trial. At this juncture the outbreaking of the civil war played a part. Tho deadly enemies now and sworn to kill members of the opposing faction at sight, they united in their country's defense, and for four years the war lasted a truce was declared.

With the surrender of the Confederate forces came the renewal of of the feudal hostilities. Old "Cap" Hatfield, the patriarch of the family, assumed the leadership Jonce Hatfield soon after abducted Rosana McCoy, and refused to right by marrage the wrong he had done her. For this he was arrested, but a daring rescue by the Hatfields prevented his trial for the charge. From this on to 1882 matters went along rather smoothly. Whenever members of the factions would meet there was sure to be an exchange of shots, but, strange to say, no one was killed outright, tho two of the McCoys died afterwards from wounds received in one of their battles.

But on election day of 1882 marked the beginning of a series of fights, each of which claimed one or more victims. A relative of both of the families was running for office, and the members of the two factions agreed to suspend their differences and work for their kinsman's election. But before the day was over Talbot McCoy and Elias Hatfield became involved in a fight. At first it was merely fisticuffs, Mc Coy threw his opponent, and was pummelling him severely when Deacon Ellison Hatfield and his brother appeared on the scene, and several of the McCoy gang had gathered around their representative, ready to take a hand in the fight when the time came. Talbot McCoy and the deacon advanced on each other with open knives, and when in reach the slashing began. Hatfield's knife closed on his hands, and throwing it way, he used his fists, while McCoy wielded his weapon with telling effect. The fight became general, and when it was over, though no one was killed several of the participants were carried away with injuries that afterward proved fatal. Ellison Hatfield died the following Wednesday. He dad been cut twenty seven times besides being shot. Three of the McCoys were arrested—Talbot, Randolph and Farmer.

The night of the fight the Hatfield clan gathered to gether seventy members, and, waylaying the deputy sheriff, who was taking the prisoners to the Pike county jail, captured the three McCoys. They were taken across the river to the West Virginia side, and there held to await the outcome of Deacon Ellison's injuries. When news came of death, the imprisoned McCoys were notified that they were to die. The following morning they were taken back to the Kentucky side and, after being bound, were forced to a kneeling position on the river's brink.

At the word of command a dozen rifle shots barked in the crisp air, and Talbot and Farmer McCoy fell over dead. The thirteen year old boy, Randolph McCoy, had been a witness to the killing, and it was decided to kill him also. One of the party was sent back to do the work and two barrels from his shot gun riddled the boy's body.

The next move of the Hatfields was to try and kill Randalph MacCoy, the head of the family. Two desperadoes of the clan waited in ambush one night near a road over which he would have travel. Fortunately the intend victim, a brother, Calvin McCoy, passed the concealed assassins before the man they had marked. In the darkness they mistook their man and fired at Calvin. He was not killed outright but was maimed for life. Soon after this a Hatfield raid was betrayed to the McCoys, and they escaped. The wife and mother-in-law of Bill Daniels, one of the Hatfield faction, were suspected of betraying the secret. For revenge "Cap" Hatfield and Tom Wallace went to Daniel's house one night, and, covering him with a shot gun, gave both of the women a fearful beating. The wife died from her injuries, and her mother had several rib bones broken by the force of the blows.

Jeff McCoy was the next to go. He was a brother of Daniel's wife and was looking for Tom Wallace. "Bad Anse" Hatfield agreed to assist him in his search, but instead enticed him into an ambush, where he was killed.

In 1885 the Governor of Kentucky put a price on the head of Anse Hatfield and his brother, "Cap," and called upon the Governor of West Virginia for their requisition. This was at first denied, but in 1887 the officials of both States united in an effort to suppress this bloody feud. The McCoys had suffered so much that their spirit for revenge rarely showed,, but they eagerly grasped at the proposition that they join the officers in search of the Hatfield leaders. Three of gang were captured, and subsequently sent to the State prison.

The zeal of the McCoys in joining the officers aroused the ire of their enemies, and a raid was planned for New Year's night of 1888.

Nine of the Hatfields, led by Uncle Jim Vance, attacked the house of old Randolph McCoy. Two girls were in one end of the house, and one, Allaphare McCoy opened the door when the gang demanded admission. She was immediately shot and killed by Ellison Mounts, at the command of Vance. Mrs McCoy started from the door to go to her dead daughter, when Jim qance broke two of her ribs with the butt of his gun, and stunned her with a blow from his pistol. Calvin McCoy was killed in the exchange of shots, and the old man was wounded.

Strange as it may seem, the Hatfields repudiated the killing of the McCoy girl. With their characteristic brutality toward women, it is hard to say what prompted it, but they delivered Ellison Mounts who fired the shot, into the officers' hands, and on their testimony he was convicted and hanged.

From that time the feud, while it has been kept up, has not been as exciting as in former days. Now and then a Hatfield and McCoy exchange shots, but the last man killed met his fate two years ago. The persistent pursuit of the Hatfields by the deputies drove them into the mountain fastnesses, and made the warfare before used impossible.

And now comes the reconciliation—the end of it all. Aaron Hatfield, a nephew of old "Cap" Hatfield, met and loved pretty Mary McCoy, daughter of the head of the family, Rudolph McCoy. Primitive in their habits, these mountain lovers knew nothing of what the social world terms conventionality in courtship. There was no one to say that they should do this or do that. They only knew that they loved each other, that it was the lasting, enduring love of years, and they were happy. The rugged barren hillsides were their trysting places; there they met alone, and their secret was shared with none save one. And he was the trusted friend, who saw to it that neither family knew that of what was transpiring until the time for the announcement was deemed ripe.

For there was danger should the secret be known prematurely. The fires of the feud, tho smouldering, were by no means out. One day Aaron told Mary that his brother would go to see her father the following day. The lovers met at the house of the friend. All day they waited to hear what the result had been. Mary at the window saw the stalwart form of her lover's brother approach the house. "It's all right," he said. And then came the joyful news that the wedding would end forever the forty-year feud.—New York Journal.

Listen.—We want every man, woman, or boy that owes us a dollar, dime, or cent to come in and settle. We cannot carry your accounts over to 1897. Settlement must be made in December, 1896. We will look for and expect you. Thanking you for past favors, we are, respectfully, 4w E. H. Moore & Co.

Warner's Safe Cure

Has for a Fifth of a Century Cured all forms of . . .

KIDNEY and LIVER DISEASES.

THE DREAD BRIGHT'S DISEASE is but advanced Kidney Disease. Either is Dangerous. Both can be Cured if treated in time with Warner's Safe Cure.

Large bottle or new style smaller one at your druggist's. Ask for either and accept no substitute.

MARLINTON HOUSE.

Located East End of Bridge.

Terms.

per day . 1.00 & 1.50

per meal - - - 25

Good accommodations for horses at 25 cents per feed.

Special rates made by the week or month.

C. A. YEAGER, Proprietor.

C. B. SWECKER,

General Auctioneer and Real Estate Agent.

I sell Coal, Mineral and Timber Lands. Farms and Town Lots a specialty. 21 years in the business. Correspondence solicited. Reference furnished.

Postoffice—Dunmore, W. Va., or Alexander, W. Va.

Old Dominion Building & Loan Association.

—OF—

Richmond, - - Virginia.

J. TAYLOR ELLYSON, President.
E. A. BARBER, Treasurer.

DIRECTORS.

J. Taylor Ellyson, Normon V. Ranpolph, John B. Purcell, John S. Ellet, Frank T, Sutton.

Authorized Capital	$20,000,000.
Subscribed Capital	5,000,000.
Paid Up Cash Capital	1,500,000.
Assets	2,000,000.

Depository—State Bank of Virginia. Investment stocks cost $1.00 per share membership fee, and 60 cents per month afterwards—withdrawable after twelve monthly payments, and sooner in event of the death of the stockholder.

H. A. YEAGER, Agent.

MARLINTON, W. VA.

ONE DOLLAR A YEAR

FOR THE WHEELING

Weekly Intelligencer,

West Virgicia's Leading Newspaper.

The coming year promises to be one of great moment to every American citizen. An important change is at hand in the administration of public affairs. There will probably be a special session of Congress immediately following the inauguration of the new President. The tariff, especially in the matter of wool and coal, will be at once under discussion, and legislation looking to the restotation of the national finances to a sound basis will be introduced. There will also be a new administration in West Virginia, and there is every indication that enterprises of great importance to the public wellfare will be set on foot in the state. The proposed river improvements will be begun. New railroads will be built, and new material resources of every kind developed. The year 1897 promises to be one of the golden years of the State and Natton. Business will everywhere revive, and the columns of the INTELLIGENCER will teem with the evidence of great opportunities for business.

Every family should have a live newspaper of this character in its midst, so that the old and youhg of the household may know all of the particulars of the great awakening that is at hand.

TERMS AND PREMIUMS.

The WEEKLY INTELLIGENCER, one year in advance	$1 00
The WEEKLY INTELLIGENCER, six months in advance	60
6 copies one year and extra copy to person getting up club	5 00
12 copies one year and three extra copies to person gettsng up club	10 00
20 copies one year and a copy of the DAILY INTELLIGENCER to person getting up club	20 00

The premium copies will be sent to any address desired. It is equivolent to a cash commission, as the can readily be sold and the money retained by the getter up of the club. It is not necessary for all the names in the club to come from one office, nor is it necessary to send all the subscriptions at one time. Subscriptions may be sent as fast as received, one or more at a time, and a record of them will be kept at this office. The premium copies will be sent at the request of the agent as soon as he has sent sufficient subscribers to entitle him to them.

Specimen copies of either edition of the Intelligences sent free to any address. Send in your subscriptions at once.

We want an Agent at every postoffice in west Virginia, Eastern Ohio, and western Pennsylvania.

INTELLIGENCER PUBLISHING CO.,
WHEELING, W. VA.

It must be so, If everybody says so.

Sunlight Soap

Whitens linens easily;
Washes laces perfectly;
Doesn't shrink flannels;
Doesn't hurt the hands;
Saves all drudgery;
Saves hard work.

Brightens Homes Everywhere.

Lever Bros., Ltd.,
Hudson & Harrison Sts., N. Y.

Notice to Contractors.

NOTICE is hereby given that sealed bids will be received by the undersigned until 12 o'clock noon, Tuesday, January 5, 1897, for the letting to the lowest bidder of the 24 miles of the Marlins Bottom and Huttonsville Turnpike, commencing at the west end of the Greenbrier Bridge at Marlinton, and extending to the Randolph County line. Said road to be kept in order for five years, under the following specifications:

"The hill side road to be 14 feet wide except a short distance on Stony Creek Hill, which is to be 12 feet wide, with sufficient ditches on the upper side not less than 15 inches lower than center of road. In bottom, or comparatively level land said road to be twenty feet wide thrown up 18 inches higher in the center than at the outer edges, and rounded so as to carry the water to the side ditches; no timber to be used in the building of embankments; and substantial culverts to be put in at all water crossing. Road to be under the supervision of a Commissioner to be appointed by this Court: said road to be kept in a tollable condition. Road-bed to be measured for width from inside of ditches. Foot-logs to be maintained at all creeks. The person contracting is to collect and account for all tolls paid and collected at gates to be established on said road.

Bond with approved security in the sum of $500 required. The Court reserves the right to reject any or all bids

S. L. BROWN, Clerk County Court,
Marlinton, W. Va.

Notice to Contractors:

NOTICE is hereby given that sealed bids will be received by the undersigned, until 12 o'clock noon, Tuesday, January 5, 1897, for the letting, to the lowest bidder, the 13-miles of the Marlin's Bottom and Lewisburg Turnpike, commencing at the mile-post near Claiborne McNeil's residence, and extending to the county line between this county and Greenbrier county, for a period of five years, commencing on the 10th day of January, 1897.

The said Turnpike road is to be put and kept in repair according to the same specifications under which J. L. Cleek and K. O. Wade, former contractors, were awarded the contract for keeping in repair said road, and to be under the supervision of commissioners to be appointed by this Court.

Bond in the penalty of $500 with approved security will be required. The Court reserves the right to reject any and all bids.

S. L. BROWN,
Clerk County Court.
Marlinton, W. Va.

Trustee's Notice of Sale.

Pursuant to a deed of trust made by John S. Moore and M. E. Moore, his wife, dated on the 19th day of June, 1890, and recorded in the Clerk's office of the County Court of Pocahontas County, West Virginia, in Deed Book No. 21 at page 82, to the undersigned Trustee, to secure the payment of two certain debts due Henry Barlow, one of $462.89, with interest from October 31, 1889; and the other of $785.51 with interest from November 15, 1889; and default having been made in the payment of said debts, and having been duly notified by the beneficiary, Henry Barlow, the undersigned Trustee will on the 9TH DAY OF JANUARY, 1897,

At the front of the Court house of Pocahontas County, proceed to sell by way of public auction to the highest bidder, the land mentioned and conveyed in said deed of trust, consisting of 131½ acres of land, situated near Mill Point, in said County, it being the land upon which the said John S. Moore now resides. Said land comprises a good farm with comfortable dwellings house and other buildings, being the same land conveyed to said John S. Moore by S. H. Clark and wife by deed recorded in the County Clerk's office in Deed Book No. 17, page 101, less 38½ acres conveyed to W. W. Rider, and 80 acres conveyed to E. H, Moore.

TERMS OF SALE: One third of the purchase money cash in hand; one-third with interest in one year from day of sale; and the residue thereof with interest in two years from day of sale, the purchases executing his notes with good security, the legal title to be retained as ultimate security.

S. B. MOORE, Trustee.
Andrew Price, Attorney.
December 11, 1896.

What is

CASTORIA

Castoria is Dr. Samuel Pitcher's prescription for Infants and Children. It contains neither Opium, Morphine nor other Narcotic substance. It is a harmless substitute for Paregoric, Drops, Soothing Syrups, and Castor Oil. It is Pleasant. Its guarantee is thirty years' use by Millions of Mothers. Castoria destroys Worms and allays feverishness. Castoria prevents vomiting Sour Curd, cures Diarrhœa and Wind Colic. Castoria relieves teething troubles, cures constipation and flatulency. Castoria assimilates the food, regulates the stomach and bowels, giving healthy and natural sleep. Castoria is the Children's Panacea—the Mother's Friend.

Castoria.

"Castoria is an excellent medicine for children. Mothers have repeatedly told me of its good effect upon their children."

Dr. G. C. Osgood,
Lowell, Mass.

"Castoria is the best remedy for children of which I am acquainted. I hope the day is not far distant when mothers will consider the real interest of their children, and use Castoria instead of the various quack nostrums which are destroying their loved ones, by forcing opium, morphine, soothing syrup and other hurtful agents down their throats, thereby sending them to premature graves."

Dr. J. F. Kincheloe,
Conway, Ark.

Castoria.

"Castoria is so well adapted to children that I recommend it as superior to any prescription known to me."

H. A. Archer, M. D.,
111 So. Oxford St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

"Our physicians in the children's department have spoken highly of their experience in their outside practice with Castoria, and although we only have among our medical supplies what is known as regular products, yet we are free to confess that the merits of Castoria has won us to look with favor upon it."

United Hospital and Dispensary,
Boston, Mass.

Allen C. Smith, Pres.,

The Contaur Company, 77 Murray Street, New York City.

X-mas Whiskey. Send in Orders in Time.

The festive season of the year is approaching and every good liver asks himself where he can get something to celebrate upon.

M. O'FERRELL has established a well deserved reputation for fairness and honesty as a dealer in liquors and your attention is invited to the stock on hand at the present time. Kentucky BOURBON Whiskey 3 yrs old; L. D. MYERLY Whiskey 4 yrs old; APPLE BRANDY, 2 yrs old. WINES and GIN. Any one buying in considerable quantities will be allowed a liberal discount.

SIMMS & CO.,

RONCEVERTE, W. VA.

Silver Steel Plow, Syracuse Chilled Plows, Imperial Chilled Plows.

PLOW REPARS OF ALL K NDS AT LOWEST PRICES EVER OFFERED HERC

RED WARRIOR POLL AXES			65C
GREENBRIER	"	"	60c
CHAMPION	"	"	50c

4 No. 2 Horse-shoes for	15c	4 No. 3 Horse-shoes	18c
4 No. 4 " "	23c	4 No. 5 "	16c

COOK-STOVES OF ALL KINDS

1 doz. 8x10 Window Glass	35c	Berea Grindstone 1	1-4c lb

Paints, Oils, Varnishes, etc.

Our goods are all first class, no shoddy or job-lots, or damaged goods. Strike us for prices before you buy.

Simms & Co.,

Opposite Passenger Depot. Ronceverte, W. Va.

A $5.00 LOOK MOTHERS A RARE TREAT FOR YOU ALL. Boys Sampson Suit, with Extra Pair of Pants, for $2.76 AND WE PAY EXPRESS CHARGES TO YOUR DOOR.

REMEMBER, you buy direct from one of the largest Wholesale Clothing Manufacturers in America. and by so doing you save three Profits.

In Jet Black Dark Blue Oxford Grey & Olive Brown
OUR SAMPSON SUITS
with Extra Pants
Ages 10 to 15
STRONGEST IN THE WORLD
2.76

The above mentioned $2.76 Boys Sampson Suit with Extra Pants is guaranteed to be made from an imported Wool Cheviot, in Jet Black, Dark Blue, Oxford Grey and Olive Brown, in sizes from 3 to 9 years of age. They are made up as per cut below in double breasted with Sailor Collar, braided with wide surtasch Braid, lined with a fast Black Albert Twill Sateen Lining, Trimming and Workmanship throughout the best money can procure. Coat has 2 Side Pockets, a Top and Cash Pocket. Patent Waist Bands used on all Pants, also Pistol Pockets on all Pants.

In Sizes from 10 to 15 years of age made up as per opposite cut, Double Breasted with extra Pants at same Price, $2.76.

Expressage paid to your door.

In remitting send either Post Office or Express Money Order or Registered Letter and for measure send age of Boy at last Birthday and if large or small for his age.

OUR FACTORIES.

FREE TO EVERYBODY our Illustrated Priced Catalogue in which you will find Boys Suits from 98c. up. Youths Long Pants Suits from $2.00 up and Mens Suits from $2.50 up.

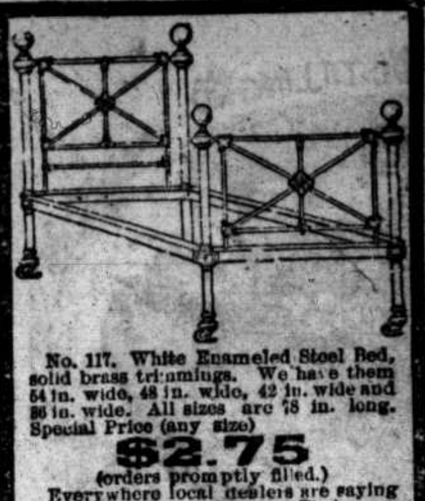
This Style with Extra Pants
Ages from 3 to 9 years
In Jet Black Dark Blue Oxford Grey and Olive Brown
Our Price $2.76 Retail Price $5

E. ROSENBURGER & CO., 204 E. 102d St., New York

The Pocahontas Times.

Andrew & Norman Price, Owners. "Montani Semper Liberi!" Andrew Price, Editor

VOL. 14, NO. 43 MARLINTON, WEST VIRGINIA, MAY 21, 1897. $1.00 PER YEAR



No. 117. White Enameled Steel Bed, solid brass trimmings. We have them 54 in. wide, 48 in. wide, 42 in. wide and 36 in. wide. All sizes are 78 in. long. Special Price (any size)

$2.75

(orders promptly filled.)

Everywhere local dealers are saying unkind things about us. Their customers are tired of paying them double prices; our immense (free) money-saving catalogue is enlightening the masses. Drop a postal now for complete catalogue of Furniture, Mattings, Carpets, Oil Cloths, Baby Carriages, Refrigerators, Stoves, Fancy Lamps, Bedding, Springs, etc. The catalogue costs you nothing and we pay all postage. Get double value for your dollar by dealing with the manufacturers.

JULIUS HINES & SON,
BALTIMORE, MD.

THE COURTS.

CIRCUIT COURT convenes on the first Tuesday in April, third Tuesday in June, and third Tuesday in October.

COUNTY COURT convenes on the first Tuesday in January, March, October, and second Tuesday in July,—July is levy term.

LAW CARDS.

N. C. McNEIL,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

Will practice in the Courts of Pocahontas and adjoining counties and in the Court of Appeals of the State of West Virginia.

L. M. McCLINTIC,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

Will practice in the Courts of Pocahontas and adjoining counties and in the Supreme Court of Appeals.

H. S. RUCKER,
ATTY. AT LAW & NOTARY PUBLIC
HUNTERSVILLE, W. VA.

Will practice in the courts of Pocahontas county and in the Supreme Court of Appeals.

J. W. ARBUCKLE,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
LEWISBURG, W. VA.

Will practice in the courts of Greenbrier and Pocahontas counties. Prompt attention given to claims for collection in Pocahontas county.

W. A. BRATTON,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

Prompt and careful attention given to all legal business.

ANDREW PRICE,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

Will be found at Times Office.

SAM. B. SCOTT, JR.
LAWYER,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

All legal business will receive prompt attention.

H. M. LOCKRIDGE,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
HUNTERSVILLE, W. VA.

Prompt and careful attention given all legal work.

FRED WALLACE,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
LEWISBURG, W. VA.

Will practice in the courts of Pocahontas County.

PHYSICIANS' CARDS.

DR. O. J. CAMPBELL,
DENTIST,
MONTEREY, VA.

Will visit Pocahontas County at least twice a year. The exact date of his visit will appear in this paper.

DR. J. H. WEYMOUTH,
RESIDENT DENTIST,
ELKINS, W. VA.

Will visit Pocahontas County every spring and fall. The exact date of each visit will appear in The Times.

J. M. CUNNINGHAM, M. D.,
PHYSICIAN & SURGEON,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

Office next door to C. A. Yeager's Hotel. Residence opposite Hotel. All calls promptly answered.

PISO'S CURE FOR
CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS.
Best Cough Syrup. Tastes Good. Use in time. Sold by druggists.
CONSUMPTION

HIGH WATER INFORMATION.

Last Thursday morning found the town of Marlinton humid, and the inhabitants in a state bordering on excitement, for the rain had fallen in the last thirty hours to the amount of 2.54 inches, and the town stands low on a narrow neck of land. It is quite true that the water never interferes with it, but there is always a might-be that leads people to believe there will come an old '77 flood, when we will be covered with water and the people will have to fit. This is what, probably, gives some of our much talked-about citizens a deep-rooted and abiding aversion to water in any other form than that of a "chaser." But everybody most did congregate on the abutments of the bridge and talked about high water and pitied those unfortunate people who would have to move when the water got high enough to force them from their homes. The men talked of flooded gardens and cellars full of water, and the calamity one man reported that the water had made a pond where the old black hen had her nest, and chilled all the eggs that would have been chichens in a few days, and how he was to break the news to the old brood-hen so that she would understand and not go setting until the bleak November gales had slaked her enthusiasm.

No casualties of greater importance arising from the heavy rainfall were reported. Sometime while the group were watching the surging waters, an old resident could be heard explaining how the Greenbrier had a way of never having an overflow but that it was followed by another flood of lesser magnitude, and this was the tear which should wind up the season's flood. The greater flood was that of February 22 last.

The oldest man present remembered when about sixty years ago he came down from his home on the upland—from the same place where he now resides—to watch the river rise, and while standing near where the bridge now is the spectators were electrified to see a man's hat floating down the river. Next day he heard that the man to whom it belonged had been drowned while crossing Thorny Creek. His name was Twyman, a young school teacher. He and two companions had been to court at Huntersville, and coming to this stream endeavored to cross it. One, John Friel, had crossed; the second, James Sharp, was washed ashore on the side which he entered and saved himself. Twyman was swept away, and his long overcoat washing around the trunk of a small tree held his body until found, later on.

A man was sent down the west bank of the river to see if any traces of his body could be found, or if, possibly, he had been washed down into the river and had swam ashore. In the meantime an 18-inch snow had fallen, and on his way down he saw the track of a panther. Dogs were put on the trail, and the narrator said that he was in three feet of the brute when it was first raised by the dogs. It ran off but was driven back shortly by the dogs pressing it, and sprang right amongst the pursuing party. Arriving near the oldest man of the party it jumped upon the side of a tree and was shot by him squarely in the eye.

The talk drifted on, and the show that the Greenbrier was putting up was contrasted unfavorably with previous exertions on its part, until it was seen that the river positively refused for the hundredth time to rise up in its might and sweep out the flourishing county-seat of Pocahontas. and its further proceedings interested us not.

THE TWO WARS.

The papers are much exercised over the strange contrast presented in the two wars of our time in regard to the result of the same. Turkey put an army into Greece the size of the Spanish army investing Cuba, and subjugated the Greeks in two weeks. The Spanish army has been warring with a revolutionary force of about one-fifth the size of the Grecian army for twenty-seven months, and apparently the insurgents are as far as ever from being conquered.

The Turks invaded Greece from the north and were obliged to take passes from the Greeks where a handful of men should have held their postion against a legion. They marched into a country where everp fort was in the hands of the Greeks. On the other hand, Spain fought in a country where she was in possession of every fort and seaport. The revolutionary army was ill-provided with arms, lacked clothes and food, had no navy, and they fought in a country of swamps and jungles, which was an advantage in some respects but a great drawback in others. Spain was able to build two lines of forts, called trochas, hemming in and dividing the insurgent armies. She was also allowed to insult the American flag, which did much to prevent sympathizing Americans from aiding the Cubans. In spite of all this the ill-success of the Spaniards have made them the laughing stock of the whole world.

The reason probably lies in the manner in which the armies are commanded. The Turkish generals were brave competent, and honest. Greece had cowards and traitors for her leaders. Spain had her Weyler, whose name is emblematic of all that is cruel and pig-headed; while Cuba was served by patriots who fought without pay and lived upon almost nothing. But be the circumstances what they may, the fact that "the race is not always to the swift or the battle to the strong" has been once more illustrated.

AN UP-TO-DATE SUICIDE.

The body of a well-dressed girl was found in the Central Park reservoir, in New York City, on May 10. There litttle clue to the identity of the unfortunate. She had evidently been handsome. She had taken the greatest pains to cause a sensation after she was gone. Tragic notes were found addressed to the Coroner,—one a request that her body be cremated with no services except the "playing of Mendelsohn's Wedding March from Midsummer's Night's Dream." Other scraps of paper were on the body with quotations from philosophers and poets. The following was there, accredited to Plato:

"If the soul should have departed from the body, polluted and im pure in consequence of its subservience and attachment to this, and begets desires and pleasures so far as to imagine there is nothing real except what is corporeal, which one may touch and see, eat and drink, and make use of for sensual purposes, think you that a soul which is so disposed would be likely to depart independent and uncommiserated?"

There was a quantity of other stuff, which seemed to indicate that the woman had died because of unrequited love, but it strikes us that she was too theatrical to have been perfectly miserable. If she had died a la new journalism pursuant to the directions of the managing editor, she could not have made a more complete and satisfactory job of it. These lines from Shelley were on one scrap of paper:

"How wonderful is death,
The wakener of the soul;
His eyes are full of sleep,
His heart is full of love,
His touch is full of peace;
Gentle the languid motion
Of every pulse subsides,
Gliding out from the bodies we have worn
Without a jar to break
The mystic strain of harmony that winds
With sense - dissolving music through the soul,
We are at liberty."

The next day the police established that suicide was Mrs E. M. Reis, who had been the common law wife of Horace Arnold, a well-known writer. It was an end to the life of an erring women. She would have come nearer the mark had she quoted a single line from a higher authority: "The wages of sin is death."

NEW YORK AND ELSEWHERE.

The body of a woman was found in Central Park Reservoir last Monday morning. The body had been in the water for a couple of days.

⁂

A young couple, having just been married, decided to spend their honeymoon on their bicycles. The husband wanted a tandem but the wife insisted from the start to be independent and ride her own wheel. They intend to take a wedding tour of two months' duration. These young people have sense.

⁂

Theodore A. Havemeyer, the sugar king who died recently, left no will. As he was enjoying such good health he put the matter off from time to time. He has left an immense estate.

⁂

Here 's a great how-de-do. A woman in New York got into a discussion with a man about politics. The woman is a "black Republican," as she calls herself; the man a Popocrat. Well, they had a lively discussion, and the outcome of the matter was that the gentler sex produced a horsewhip and gave Mr Man a sound thrashing. The case was tried before a jury and the man won. The extreme penalty is a fine of $500 and a year's imprisonment. Women these day are very progressive.

⁂

General Gomez of the Cuban army is in West Cuba. He will make an effort to force Weyler from the Moran Trocha. What with the Cuban rebellion and the Greeks and Turks pegging away at one another, these are anything but peaceful days. The sooner arbitration has its say in the grievances of nations the better.

⁂

New York city is now the second city in the world. London leads. Brooklyn, Long Island City, Staten Island, etc., is now one. and we are known as Greater New York.

⁂

The U. S. Cruiser Brooklyn will take part in the ceremonies of the Queen's Jubilee. A beautiful silver service will be presented to the cruiser on behalf of the citizens of Brooklyn. It is reported that the service will be the finest one afloat.

⁂

Considerable rain has fallen in this city and vicinity since May set in. In consequence the farmers are happy. Everything is growing—the grass never looked greener. If a cold snap does not appear everything will be lovely.

⁂

The Leona, of the Mallory line, got on fire off the Jersey coast Sunday morning last, and ten passengers and three of the crew were burned to an unrecognizable mass. After the fire was subdued the ship came back to this city under her own steam. The officers and crew behaved bravely, otherwise the loss of life would have been greater. The funerals of these poor unfortunate steerage passengers were held to-day. The cause of the fire is being investigated.

⁂

Bicycling is the thing now-a-days. In every well conducted home a wheel is to be seen. Yesterday I was surprised to see so many elderly ladies mounted on their wheels, and the flush in their in their cheeks and bright eyes attested to the fact that wheeling in moderation is a healthful and enjoyable sport. The wheel is a fixture.

⁂

The only business that is booming these days is the bicycle and sundries business. Every express wagon seen has one or more on board on its way to be shipped to a new rider.

⁂

And it is well that the bicycle is a thing to stay. Why? Because just think of what army of people have employment through the sale of wheels. The mechanic, the drummer, salesman, etc., etc.

⁂

When the blankety-blank Tariff gets settled business will revive. Things are very dull.

GEORGE M. SANGSTER.

Dorr Tells a Story.

Congressman Dorr, of West Virginia, has been heard from as a story teller. He was asked by Gov. Sayers, of Texas, a few days ago, what condition the Republican party of West Virginia was in, and here is what he said:

"Down near the little town of Owingsville, Bath county, Kentucky, where I visited occasionally some years ago, there lived a man named Sam Hatton. Hatton and his family existed on a scrub ten acre farm, near Owingsville, which produced very fine dog fennel and elderberries, but nothing better. At least Hatton never got anything better out of it. As a consequence it was frequently the charity of a kindly disposed neighbors that kept him and his family from absolute want. Among the contributions they received at intervals was hog jowls, which Preacher Matt McDaniel, a neighbor, sent over at hog killing time.

"Hatton had been a Union soldier, and for years had on file at the pension office an application for a pension. One day there was a commotion in the Hatton family. It was caused by the arrival from Washington of a bulky envelope, which contained a communication from the commissioner of pensions notifying Hatton that he had been granted a pension, beck pay for the present and a monthly stipend of $8 per month for the future. When he came out his trance, Hatton went to Owingsville and proceeded to stock his larder in shape. A few days after he had received his pension money he met Preacher McDaniel.

"'Mr Hatton,' said McDaniel, 'we have just finished hog killing over at my place, and in my smoke house are several fine hog jowls, which I hope you and your family will enjoy.'

"'Thankee,, Mr McDaniel,' said Hatton, chuckling, 'thankee pow'rful, sir. Time wus when the Hatton's sot considibul store by sich trimmin's, but they're a-eatin' further back on the hog than the jowl, now.'

"And that," said Dorr, "is the way with the Republican party in West Virginia. It is done with the jowl end of the political hog."

Economy is Necessary.

Tho we hear much in Washington from statesmen urging the imposition of further burdens upon the people on the specious pretense that the government of the Republic needs more revenue, we hear no demands for rational economy.

The United States is the most extravagantly expensive government on the face of the earth. No despotism exacts more tribute from its people than the republic. True it is free from the expense of a great standing army, but its expenditures on account of military and naval affairs, together with its enormous pension disbursements, are greater than the expenditure for military affairs in the German Empire, the greatest military power in Europe.

The mere expense of conducting the government printing establishment, in which the expenditure is lavish and useless to the last degree, would go far toward supporting many of the smaller European governments. Our statesment at Washington have surrounded themselves with extraordinary luxury. At the cost of the people of the whole country they have made Washington the most delighful capital in the world. Aside from salaries larger than are paid to and legislator in the round world, they have voted themselves secretaries, stationary allowances, hot houses, and a congressional libray (in which none of them is ever seen) larger and more exquisitely beautiful than any on earth.

Citizens of the republic are suffering as they never suffered before. They are struggling for existence. They are sending men to Washington in the expectation that they will consult their interests, and, as far as lies within the proper functions of government, give them relief. It can be had only by an enlargement of the currency and a reduction of taxation. But when the men sent as legislators to Washington reach there they think not of relieving the burdens upon the people, but of adding to them upon the plea that more money is needed to meet the expenses of the government.

We want at Washington earnest and honest men who will labor seriously to reduce the expenditures of the government, not endeavor to find new ways of extorting tribute. Taxed thro the custom houses, the people have not been presented directly with tax bills and they have not seen clearly wherein they have suffered. If direct taxation had been leveied to support the general governmentrduring the past few years of hardship and suffering there would have been a revolution.—Charleston Gazette.

The Blue and the Gray.

Both men and women are apt to feel a little blue, when the gray hairs begin to show. It's a very natural feeling. In the normal condition of things gray hairs belong to advanced age. They have no business whitening the head of man or woman, who has not begun to go down the slope of life. As a matter of fact, the hair turns gray regardless of age, or of life's seasons; sometimes it is whitened by sickness, but more often from lack of care. When the hair fades or turns gray there's no need to resort to hair dyes. The normal color of the hair is restored and retained by the use of

Ayer's Hair Vigor.

Ayer's Curebook, "a story of cures told by the cured." 100 pages, free. J. C. Ayer Co., Lowell, Mass.

Regularity.

The periodicity, the unerring regularity of nature's operations must impress even the most casual observer. System and order characterize all that she does. Even her ebbs and floods, her storms and smiles occur, with few exceptions, at stated intervals. The man who is wise will take a leaf from her book, and make regularity the law of his life. Men of regular habits are healthier, happier, live longer, and do more than those who obey caprice and impulse. History exhibits a long roll of glorious names whose careers were cut short because their owners failed to regulate their lives.

The adoption of hygienic habits saves the nervous system an enormous amount of friction and waste. It conserves vitality. By their aid a man of impoverished natural forces can excel in usefulness men of greater parts. Regularity economizes not only physical stamina but time as well. Where there is a place for everything, and everything is kept in its place, the various subjects which must engage our attention tread not on each others' heels, but come each in its proper routine.

It is in the physical sphere, however that this subject chiefly interests the physician. He can not hope to know, in his personal experience, the blessings which arise from a well-ordered life, but he sees on every hand the evils which follow one governed by impulse. The man who knows no system in the details of his life, who exhausts nature at the instance of a passing whim, who spends in riotous living the physical substance mortgaged to posterity, who flings to the winds the talents bequethed to him by ancestral prudence and diligence, he and the weakly fruit of his loins are frequent petitioners at the altar of medical knowledge.

How to teach men the folly of self - indulgence! To show them that power over self is a great responsibility, which, if not properly administered, will cut like a two-edged sword! Regularity, the inculcation of good habits should be the first, most important lesson of life. Human nature consists of certain powerful basic qualities. The whole object of experience is to teach us to curb and adapt them to the necessities of civilized existence.

Regularity does not preclude the enjoyment of variety. There is an "order in disorder." A certain amount of variety prevents man from becoming a mere machine, but it should never be allowed to interfere with those habits of life which we have come to regard as imperative to the maintenance of health.—The Medical Brief.

The Intelligent Maids of De Motte.

Fully a score of marriageable girls of De Motte, Jasper county, Indiana, have declared war against the young men of that town, and have formed a league to promote refinement among the men, which the ladies say is sadly lacking there. They have just met in a body and passed the following resolution:

"Be it resolved that the ladies of Demotte, Ind., will not hereafter marry a man who is not a subscriber of his home newspaper, for it is strong evidence of want of intelligence, and that he will prove too stingy to provide for his family, educate his children, and encourage institutions of learning in the community."—Indianapolis Journal.

Barely Missed It.

"After all said the man," at the end of the discussion, "no man really knows what his neighbors think of him."

"I came mighty nigh knowing once," said the citizen with a reminiscent look, "but the jury disagreed."—Indianapolis Journal.

NEWS NOTES.

ONE 64-year-old resident of Petitis, Mo., says that he has never worn a pair of overshoes, a watch, or a paper collar.

TWELVE thousand feet of lumber was unloaded from a railroad car and pilled up in twenty minutes at Gardiner, Maine, the other day.

To gain her liberty a negress managed to squeeze herself between between bars only six inches apart at the Paris, Tenn., jail, it is said.

IT has been estimated that 10,000 dead fishes were cast upon the shore of the lake at Loring Park, Minneapolis, when the ice melted this year, the unusual thickness of the ice during the winter having caused the fishes to perish of suffocation.

ACCORDING to Maine law the bounty for bears is paid on the exhibition of bruin's nose, while under the New Hampshire law payment is made when the ears are brought in, and hunters, living near the common boundary of the States, it is said, collect twice for each bear they bring down.

A SQUIRREL which had left his wintor home, under some stones, and gone up a neighboring apple tree, near Bath, Maine, was seen by a dog. The dog took his stand at the foot of the tree and lay in wait. The squirrel lingered awhile but the dog showed no signs of moving. Finally the squirril dropped a withered near the dog. The apple rolled away down an incline, and the dog ran after it to find out what it was. While the dog was gone the squirrel escaped to its quarters.

IN a lawsuit in Penobscot county, Maine, to recover for damages resulting from the presence of a hog in the highway, an opinion written in 1865 was cited, which the learned judge began in this way: "It appers that * * *, the plaintiff's daughter, with a suitable horse and vehicle, and in the exercise of ordinary care, was in and along a public highway when an animal, called by various names, such as hog, sow, swine, and by the classical council for the plaintiff, 'monstrum horrendum,' aged, of large size, filthy, unclean by the Levitical and prohibited by the statute law," &c.

Two convicts, James C. Stewart and C. L. Banks, have been taken from the State penitentiary at Leavenworth, Kansas, by Deputy United States Marshall William Neeley and lodged in the county jail Topeka, on a charge of counterfiting while they were in the penitentiary. Stewart, being a photographer by pursuit, was made penitentiary photographer when he was sentenced to that institution. In this office, with Bank's help, he photographs of bank notes and filled them in with water colors and India ink.

Told by a Congressman.

"We had a bashful pupil," said he, "who was terribly afflicted with stage fright. One Friday afternoon he stepped up on the platform, and began:

"At midnight in his guarded tent,
The Turk lay dreaming of the hour
When Greece her knee—

"At this point the boy halted and hesitated and choked. He began all over again:

"At midnight in his guarded tent,
The Turk lay dreaming of the hour
When Greece her knee—

"Once more he came to a dead stop and looked around him in absolute dismay. 'Well, John,' said our professor, 'I think you have greased her knee enough, and she ought to slide along all right. The laughter of the school disconcerted the boy more than ever, and the recitation was never finished."—Washington Post.

The Pocahontas Times.

MAY 21, 1897.

Local Events.

Hear, Land o' Cakes and brither Scots,
Frae Maidenkirk to Johnny Groats,
If there's a hole in a' your coats,
I rede ye tent it;
A chiel's amang you takin' notes,
An' faith he'll prent it.—BURNS.

WE learn from the Bath News that cards are out announcing the marriage of Mr James C. Lightner, of the Warm Springs, and Miss Dora Guinn, daughter of George Guinn, of McClung, Virginia.

THE recent rains have made cornplanting very late with some of the farmers. The corn planted early did not seem to sprout, owing to the cold late season. This spring is in strange contrast to last, vegetation being several weeks later.

A YOUNG man named Ezra Leslie, of Roanoke, Va., was awaked from sleep one night last week with a terrible pain in his ankle. He stood it until morning without examining it, when he found that he had been shot and his ankle was very much swollen and inflamed.

THE St. Lawrence lumber mill at Ronceverte started May 10, after a shut down of about six months. It is working a greatly reduced force. Owing to the slow sale the Company will make another small cutting this year, expecting to put in about 11.000.000 feet, of which Smith & Whiting will cut the greater part.

AMONG the curiosities for which Rader's Valley is noted is a venerable Dame Partlet, aged 19 years, whose record for laying eggs and raising broods of early chickens surpasses all others, perhaps, in West Virginia. Her useful life has been, for the most part, spent in immediate vicinity of the Brushy Ridge camp meeting grounds. She is well preserved, looks much younger than what she is and has in her care a large and thrifty brood at the present time.

THE high waters last week drove another nail in the coffin of the waggoning to Bath County from this section. Let the county build two inexpensive bridges over Back Creek and Jacksons River, and retain Mr Talley as agent at Millboro, and never a wagon would pass Greenbrier River on its way to Ronceverte. This would mean a very material increase in the toll accumulated by the opulent toll gatherers of Bath, and would enable Marlinton and the points beyond to reach the railroad by an easier route and father east. But the bridges will not be built and we will continue to patronize Ronceverte, which has always treated the people of this county well, and which furnishes us the greater portion of our supplies.

WM. L. ARMENTROUT a prosperous citizen of Richlands Valley, is entitled to the distinction of being the first person who ever wore the artic overshoe in Greenbrier county. Nearly forty years ago he was in Baltimore and met a person who was wearing a pair, and was so impressed by their utility and comfort, that he decided to have a pair of his own at once. This pair had been obtained in Pittsburg. He was informed that he could possibly find the shoe in some "Jew store." Upon finding these stores closed (a religious festival being observed) he inquired of a policeman if he knew of an open "Jew store." After a walk of some distance, he was shown one, and upon inquiring found what he was looking for and there was but one pair of the whole stock that fitted. He paid $2.75 for them, wore them home, showed them to the Lewisburg merchants, and by the next fall they were sold in Lewisburg by several merchants.

IN Rader's Valley, seven miles west of Lewisburg, is the home of two brothers, Messrs J. W. and John Johnson, sons of the late Andrew Johnson, Esq., who resided near Hillsboro in our county many years ago. Fifty years since the writer and these gentlemen were fellow pupils at the Hillsboro Academy, taught by Rev Mr Dunlap, and one of the pleasant episodes of a recent tour in west Greenbrier was the renewal of a friendship and acquaintance formed so long since. It was as John remarked truthfully, "something that happens very seldom that three old schoolmates, like we are, should ever meet at once; and the like may never be again, for the old scholars are getting to be very scarce." Captain J. W. Johnson is a widely-known citizen of Greenbrier County, having held the office of Sheriff as long as eligible, and other positions of responsibility. As captain of Company B. 60th Virginia Infantry, he made a good record for fidelity to duty. He was made prisoner of war at Early's repulse at Winchester, wounded in the battle at New Hope, in Augusta County; captured by Custer's command at Waynsboro, but effected his escape near Winchester from the guards that had him in charge for a second term at Fort Delaware. In a charming home in this rich and beautiful valley of the Richlands, favored with robust health and in easy circumstances, these two interesting brothers are serenely and usefully closing their appointed time as Providence may direct.

Personal Mention.

W. W. Tyree has moved into his new home on the west side of the bridge.

E. Cologne, of Marshall, Virginia, is visiting his sister, Mrs W. A. Bratton.

Miss Mollie Smith is getting up a class to receive instruction in embroidery from a teacher who is to come here from Ronceverte.

Miss Rella F. Clark has closed her school near Travelers Repose, and is spending a short time with friends near Sunset.

Mrs Mary A. McClintic has returned from Lewisburg where she has been spending the winter at the home of her kinsman, Jas. Withrow, Esq. She spent Sunday in Marlinton.

HON Wm T. Beard of Mill Point has in his herd Prince Bismark a fine young short horn bull brought from Kentucky. He weighs about 1800 and is in fine condition having kept fat on a hay diet all winter and spring. In the same herd is "Susy", a short horn cow. For the past ten or eleven days, after letting the calf have all milk it wanted, a three gallon pail has been filled three times a day, such is the flow of milk.

MRS Nancy Callison, of Locust Creek, relict of the late Josiah Callison Esq. now nearing 80 years of age, retains her health and mental vigor to a remarkable extent. She makes her home at the old homestead with her son Richard. Two other sons, Thomas and William live near. It is extemely interesting to hear her accurate reminescences of the old families that made up the Levels more than fifty years ago. In due time our readers may share the pleasure with us.

WE will present, absolutely free, a new 1897 bicycle (either ladies' or gents' wheel) in exchange for a favor we wish attended to in Marlinton, also another for attending to same in adjoining townships. No agency or selling business. We prefer those acquainted with many young people now studying music. For full particulars write, The Columbia Musical Ass'n., 216-328 South Third Street, Philadelphia, Pa.

The Bell Buzzard.

What the air-ship is to modern days, the "belled buzzard" has been to the newspaper fraternity for a number of years. Like the air ship the belled buzzard has been seen at widely divided parts of the country at about the same time. "O. S." writes from Renick's Valley:

A "belled buzzard' was seen in Renick's Valley, West Virginia, on the 28th of April, by Mr and Mrs Ben Clark, and was still in the neighborhood the 29th, being seen by other parties. It is supposed to be the same buzzard that was caught two years ago in Higbee, Missouri, while making her nest, and a bell put on her. She was not heard of again until a few months ago an item appeared in the Toledo Blade to the effect that a buzzard with a bell had been seen at different places in Texas. As it was seen at French, Tennessee, March 3d, it was supposed to be going to the Inauguration.

NOTICE.—All persons are hereby notified to present to me at my office in the town of Marlinton on or before the 25th day of May, 1897, any and all school drafts drawn on either the teachers fund or building fund by any of the school boards of this county payable out of the levies prior to the levy of 1896, and required to be reported to the next Term of the Circuit Court by decree in the case of B. M. Yeager vs Buzzard and others advertised in another column of this paper.

W. A. BRATTON, COMMR.

THE Hot Springs affords a very good market for horses this time a year and every spring a certain number of hores bought there, the stables being mostly recruited from this county. Will McLaughlin took three horses from this county and made very good sales of them. The horses were: A gray mare, 'Babe,' belonging to W. A. Bratton, $105; sorrel mare, 'Sparkle,' J. H. G. Wilson, $105; a bay horse of the seller, $90. The horses from this county take on account of their blood, breeding and stylish carriage. $100 horses are like $1 wheat, they are at living prices and pay the breeder to raise them.

MESSRS Brinkley and Levisay two young farmers near Frankford finished corn planting a few days ago, and they concluded that the proper thing to do in celebrating the event would be to take a day on Laurel Run and bag material for a squirrel stew, of which the woods seem to be phenominally full this season. While near an immense tree they were startled by the appearance of a large bear coming down the tree. Being loaded for squirrels, they were not prepared and the bear escaped. Upon second thoughts after their return home it seemed probable that there might be cubs in the tree. A hunting party was organized to test the matter last Saturday, but with what results we have not yet been informed.

Buckeye.

Mrs Mary McClintic has returned from Lewisburg, where she spent the winter.

A. S. Overholt and family started for Missouri, last week, where they will make their future home.

H. H. McClintic went to Lewisburg last week on business.

Clabe Morrison started for camp this week.

Marvin Overholt made a flying trip to Ronceverte last week.

Miss Omie Kinnison is on the sicklist at this writing.

Rev Perry will preach at Bethel next Sunday at ten a. m.

H. S. Galford had a knock down a few days ago, but is ready for business again.

Messrs Sam and Henry McNeel, of Academy, were in this part on business last week.

Poe Weiford, of Academy, has been this part on business.

Ben Doyle preached to the people of this vicinity on Sunday.

FARAWAY MOSES.

Dunmore.

Rain, high water, muddy roads, water gaps gone, some corn fields ruined, a very little corn planting has been done, no sheep have been clipped yet and wool has reached the high price of 16 cents cash.

R. L. Nottingham started his wagons to Staunton for goods, on Monday.

Ed Taylor is laid up by a bad cut in his hand.

D. R. Taylor attended the reunion at McDowell and he reports aborts about 2000 people present.

Charles Cleek of Bath, Miss Siple, Highland, and Miss Carrie Lightner, Greenbrier, are visiting Lieutenant Siple and others.

Jacob, Jr., has returned from the State of Webster to stay.

Henry Sheets and a crew of men have gone to Webster to engage in lumber business.

Rev. R. M Caldwell preached an able sermon on Sunday evening.

The measles seem to have been done away with.

The dogs have been playing the devil with the sheep and lambs.

John Wes and Ellott Carpenter attended a foot ball game at Back Creek, near Green Hill, last Saturday. The next match game will be played between the Back Creek and Jackson River teams at or near Doublin, in Highland County.

There will be a good many people attend the Singing Convention from this place.

The new sign at Hotel Rocke adds very much to the appearance of the hotel.

Mrs John Wanless was in town Friday.

We understand that Jame Benson, of Highland, got the contract for the new piece of road, known as the Phillip's Hill road. Mr Benson is a first class road builder and has a road Machine. With his road machine, four horses and two or three men he do as much work in a day as 40 or 50 men with mattocks and shovels. Our County Court should buy a road machine for the road between Huntersville and Travelers Repose.

B. F. McElwee is buiding quite a handsome wood house.

We understand that Martin Sutton will move to Green Bank and take charge of the post office there.

JOHN SLICK HAMMER.

Go where you please, pay what you please,—I can match the best clothing that 's made in quality. I may fall a little short in price, but I 'm sure you won't complain. I have just received a new line of the famous buckskin trousers—every pair with a warranty in pocket—so if they are defective you get another pair. I still have some moleskin pants left at fifty cents per pair. THE GOLDEN STORE.

Notice to Tax-Payers.

Owing to a recent act of the Legislature requiring Sheriffs to settle within sixty days, all persons owing taxes are hereby requested to settle the same at once as longer indulgence cannot be given. All persons owning land in this county and not assessed with personal property sufficient to satisfy all taxes due thereon must pay or such land will be placed on the delinquent list, June 1st, 1897.

LEVI GAY, Ex-Sheriff of Pocahontas County.

ONE of the most interesting scenes ever witnessed by the writer on the Greenbrier border was that of fifteen hands, ages ranging from ten to thirty, male and female, and three shovel plows rushing things in a seven acre corn field, last Monday afternoon.

MR BOLIVER WILLIAMS is remembered by his friends as being very happy in making passing remarks. On returning from his last business trip north with cattle, he and his party stopped over at Washington, and called at the White House. Upon being graciously received by President Cleveland, he said to him: "We have just come to look at you, Mr President, to see if you will do for a third term."

WOMEN are more cunning than men in concealing gray hair and baldness, and are wiser in selecting antidotes. Hall's Hair Renewer is a favorite with them.

Slaty Fork Items.

Frost here Sunday. Corn planting is a thing of the past—until next year.

Mr John Vandervoort is moving things in a hurry at this writing. John Slanker is working for him. He is a mover also.

L. D. Sharp had a log-rolling which was largely attended.

Grant Higgins is foreman for L. D. Sharp's farm. Mr Sharp bought a 30-pound knot-maul of Sam Gibson, and is row looking for a man to use it.

The Sabbath school here is progressina exceedingly well.

It is reported that Tolbert Sharp goes fishing down Elk.

George Sharp was in this place on business the 4th.

George Hoover has been prospecting for minerals, but does not divulge his finds.

Sam Gibson and H. Lindesy were working for Silas Sharp last week.

Dr Griffin had blacksmith Curtis shape the irons for his mill.—which he says will be in running order soon.

William Morgan contemplates a fishing excursion on the 4 of July.

H. B. Sharp and C. L. Curtis will go bear-hunting and prospecting for coal in a few days on Gauley.

Joe Buzzard, Assessor, was in this neighborhood last week. Mr Buzzard is the right man and in the right place.

Hugh C. Sharp was out looking for his best girl on the 9th, and he says: "By Juberters, I look up on my way, and behold there is a bee-tree!"

Rev Wilfong preached an interesting sermon at Slaty Fork school house the 9th inst.

SLOCUM.

A Grand Bargain in Land.

The undersigned offers for sale in whole or in part a tract of land on very reasonable terms. It is situated about 2½ miles of Falling Spring, Greenbrier County, West Virginia, and 3½ miles from the west bank of Greenbrier River and lies on both sides of Spring Creek, being well watered by numerous rivulets and springs tributary to that stream. This land joins the lands held by Messrs Robinson, Robertson, Dancy, Knight, Egglestou, and Boggs. The tract consists of 700 acres,—about one hundred acres cleared and ready for cultivation. The rest is well timbered with white-oak, black-oak, red-oak, chestnut-oak, chestnut, and locust. The quality and quantity of the locust challenges admiration, while much of the other timber is above the average in quality. With judicious management, the timber will more than pay the price for which the land can be had. When cleared the land spontaneously and heavily sods with the Greenbrier bluegrass. A better place for sheep-husbandry is not in the market.

For full particulars, all letters will receive prompt attention addressed, George W. Levisay,
P. O. Box 20, Frankford, W. Va.

Commissioners's Sale of School Lands.

Pursuant to a decree of the Circuit Court of Pocahontas County, West Virginia, in the chancery cause of the State of West Virginia against twenty-two tracts of waste and unappropriated lands or lands forfeited for the non payment of taxes, styled State of West Virginia vs. George L. Clark, et als., the undersigned School Commissioner of Pocahontas County, West Virginia, will on at the front door of the court-house of said county proceed to sell at public auction ta the highest bidder the following described tracts or parcels of land respectively.

Tuesday, June 15, 1897,

1st—A tract of 11 acres situated on Elk in this county, forfeited in the name of Peter Herold's estate, and adjoining the lands of Susan McGlaughlin and others.

2d—A tract of 277 acres situated on Thorny Creek, in said county, a part of the David Grimes estate, forfeited for the nonpayment of taxes thereon for 1892, and purchased for the State of West Virginia.

3d—A tract of 100 acres situated on Thorny Creek in said County, a part of the David Grimes estate, and forfeited for the non payment of taxes for the year 1892, and purchased for the State of West Virginia.

4th—A tract of 7½ acres of waste and unappropriated land on Elk in said county, adjoining the lands of Jacob S. Moore.

5th—A tract of 6½ acres of land on Elk in said county, adjoining the lands of Susan E. McGlaughlin and William M. McAllister, of waste and unappropriate land.

6th—Two tracts of 116 poles and 90 poles situated on Elk in said county, adjoining the lands of William O. Jack, and others.

Terms of Sale: Cash.

B. M. YEAGER,
School Commissioner for Pocahontas County, West Virginia.

FIFTY DOLLARS A WEEK EASILY MADE. Agents wanted in every locality for Hon. W. J. Bryan's great and only book, "The First Battle." The best seller ever produced. Agents are taking as many as 200 orders per week. Beware of fraudulent imitations. Send for outfit and begin work at once. W. B. CONKEY COMPANY, Publishers, 341 Dearborn Street, Chicago.

NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS.

Pursuant to an order of the county court of Pocahontas made at the March Term, 1897, directing me to expend one hundred dollars on the Stony Creek road between the turnpike and Waughs Mill, I will receive bids until 2 o'clock p. m., Saturday, the 22d day of May, 1897, for the contract to build the greatest number of rods of road for the sum of $100.00, to be expended on the following specifications and terms, to-wit:

To be made 8 feet wide, raised 10 inches at the lower side, with the bank and breast-work sloped thirty degrees or more, except in case of solid rock; no timber to be used in the breast work To be completed by the 1st of August, 1877, and to settle twenty days before it is examined and measured and taken off of the contractor's hands.

The contractor will be required to give bond with good security in the penal sum of $200.00 conditioned for the proper completion of said contract.

The right is reserved to reject any and all bids.

GEO. BAXTER,
May 11, 1897. Commissioner.

COMMISSIONER'S SALE.

Pursuant to a decree of the Circuit Court of Pocahontas County, made on the day of April Term, 1897, in the chancery cause therein pending of John R. Moore vs. James E. Johnson, the undersigned special commissioner will on Tuesday, June 15, 1897,

the first day of the Circuit Court of said county, at the front door of the court-house of said county, proceed to rent at public auction to the highest bidder a tract of 374 ACRES.

as the property of the defendant, James E. Johnson, for the term of five years. Said land comprises the farm upon which the said James E. Johnson resides,—is partially improved, and comprises valuable farming and timber lands.

TERMS OF RENTAL: So much cash in hand as will pay costs of suit and expenses of rental and as for the residue the purchaser executing bonds with good personal security due in six and twelve months from day of sale with the legal title to be retained as ultimate security.

OR

In case said lands above described, after having been offered in the manner aforesaid shall fail to rent for a sum sufficient to pay off and discharge all liens against it decreed to be paid in this suit, the costs of this suit and expenses of sale, then, at the same time and place and in the manner aforesaid, the undersigned special commissioner will offer for sale said tract 374 acres, or so much as shall be necessary to satisfy said decree.

TERMS OF SALE: So much cash in hand as will pay the costs of suit and expenses of sale, and as for the residue the purchaser will be required to execute two bonds due in six and twelve months from day of sale, with good personal security, the legal title to be retained as ultimate security.

ANDREW PRICE,
Special Commissioner.

I, J. H. Patterson, Clerk of the Circuit Court of said county, do certify that the above special commissioner has given bond as required in said decree.

J. H. PATTERSON, Clerk.

Commissioner's Notice.

Commissioner's Office,
Marlinton, W. Va.
April 14, 1897

Caroline E. Warwick's Executors against Caroline E. Warwick's heirs.

All persons interested will take notice that pursuant to a decree of the Circuit Court of Pocahontas County, rendered in the above styled cause at the April Term, 1897, in the foregoing cause I will proceed at my office in the town of Marlinton, West Virginia, on the 4th day of June, 1897, to take, state, and report to the next term of the Circuit Court of said county the following matters of account, to-wit:

1.—A settlement of the accounts of John C. Warwick and Emma N. Warwick, Executors of the last will and testament of the decedent Caroline E. Warwick.

2.—Whether or not the personal property of the decedent is sufficient to pay all of the debts of the decedent.

3.—An account of all the liens on the real estate of the decedent and their respective priorities.

4.—An account of all other unpaid debts of the decedent.

5.—An account of the real estate owned by the decedent at the time of her death, subject to the payment of her debts, together with the approximate value of each of said tracts, and whether or not there are any specific liens thereon.

6.—What would be a reasonable fee to the plaintiff's attorney in this case.

7.—Any other matter required by any party in interest, etc.

W. A. BRATTON,
[4 w] Commissioner.

NOTICE TO CREDITORS.

To the creditors of Caroline E. Warwick, deceased:

In pursuance of a decree of the Circuit Court of the County of Pocahontas made in a cause therein pending, to subject the real estate of the said Caroline E. Warwick to the payment of her debts, you are required to present your claims against the estate of the said Caroline E. Warwick for adjudication to W. A. Bratton, Commissioner, at his office in Marlinton, in the said county, on or before the 4th day of June, 1897.

Witness, J. H. Patterson, Clerk of said Court, this 14th day of April, 1897.

J. H. PATTERSON, Clerk.
[6 weeks.]

IT TICKLES YOU
THE INSTANT RELIEF YOU GET FROM LIGHTNING
HOT DROPS.

CURES Colic, Cramps, Diarrhœa, Flux, Cholera Morbus, Nausea, Changes of Water, etc.
HEALS Cuts, Burns, Bruises, Scratches, Bites of Animals, Serpents, Bugs, etc.
BREAKS UP Bad Colds, La Grippe, Influenza, Croup, Sore Throat, etc.
SMELLS GOOD, TASTES GOOD.
SOLD EVERYWHERE AT 25C AND 50C PER BOTTLE. NO RELIEF, NO PAY.
HERB MEDICINE CO. [Formerly of Weston, W. Va.] SPRINGFIELD, O.

Things You Can't do

There are some things you can't do—for they are against nature. You can't make water run up hill. You can't cheat others and not cheat yourself. You can't make poor economy pay by purchasing poor quality clothing and badly made.

Mothers

if you expect the boys to keep neat and tidy you must buy them clothes that will stand the strain.

You Wouldn't

go to a doctor for legal advice, and you cannot expect to find a good suit in a half-kept store. I am just receiving a new line of clothing right from the tailor-shop, and it was bought extremely low, as the maker was hard pressed for money. I solicit your inspection.

The Golden Store
Specialist in Clothing.

50 Reasons
WHY
You should trade with Sol Davis, Green Bank

1 Low Prices
2 Best of Goods
3 Quality unsurpassed
4 Great Variety
5 Polite Attention
6 Every Deal a Bargain
7 Guaranteed as Represented
8 Glad to Please You
9 Full Value for your Money
10 Latest Styles
11 An Easy Selection
12 You get Satisfaction
13 You are Protected
14 No Advantage Taken
15 A Fair and Square Deal
16 You Save Money
17 The Goods are Reliable
18 A Complete Stock
18 Great Inducements
20 All kinds of Produce Taken
21 Highest Market Prices Paid
22 Fancy Prices unknown
23 Meritorious Stock
24 Prices that Please
25 Customers Leave Smiling
26 No Disappointment
27 You Find What You Want
28 What you Buy is Choice
29 A Guarantee of Goodness
30 Your Patronage Appreciated
31 Store Freshly Stocked
32 Popular Goods
33 Popular Prices
34 Headquarters for Bargains
35 We Under buy
36 We Undersell
37 Leaders of Trade
38 Always a Rare Choice
39 You Get Honest Goods
40 Golden Opportunity
41 Profit Sharing
42 Cream of the Market
43 Best Place to Buy
44 Promises Kept
45 Statements Verified
46 Your Welcome Assured
47 Inspection Solicited
48 Not Urged to Buy
49 Stock Carefully Bought
50 You get the Best & Cheapest

Head to foot Outfitter for Men, Women, and Children. Yours for Business, Green Bank, W. Va. SOL. DAVIS.

MAY HAS COME,
The leaves are turning out, and why not turn over a New Leaf and buy your goods of me? saving from 15 to 25 per cent.
By so doing you will never get in trouble and be dunned for money.
SAVE YOUR WOOL, BUTTER, EGGS, GRAIN, &C., &C.
Pay for goods at the time you get them, and you will not be in trouble all the time. This is how I can sell cheaper than anyone else. * * * *
I want your money and country produce. My stock of goods will be constantly added to, and you will be treated right. I want your Wool. Call and see me before you dispose of it else where. Remember I take all kinds of produce at best market prices.
S. J. BOGGS
HUNTERSVILLE, W. VA.

The Pocahontas Times.

Andrew & Norman Price, Owners. "Montani Semper Liberi!" Andrew Price, Edito

VOL. 14, NO. 44 MARLINTON, WEST VIRGINIA, MAY 28, 1897. $1.00 PER YEA

No. 117. White Enameled Steel Bed, solid brass trimmings. We have them 54 in. wide, 48 in. wide, 42 in. wide and 36 in. wide. All sizes are 78 in. long. Special Price (any size)

$2.75

(orders promptly filled.)

Everywhere local dealers are saying unkind things about us. Their customers are tired of paying them double prices; our immense (free) money-saving catalogue is enlightening the masses. Drop a postal now for complete catalogue of Furniture, Mattings, Carpets, Oil Cloths, Baby Carriages, Refrigerators, Stoves, Fancy Lamps, Bedding, Springs, etc. The catalogue costs you nothing and we pay all postage. Get double value for your dollar by dealing with the manufacturers.

JULIUS HINES & SON,
BALTIMORE, MD.

THE COURTS.

CIRCUIT COURT convenes on the first Tuesday in April, third Tuesday in June, and third Tuesday in October.

COUNTY COURT convenes on the first Tuesday in January, March, October, and second Tuesday in July,—July is levy term.

LAW CARDS.

N. C. McNEIL,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

Will practice in the Courts of Pocahontas and adjoining counties and in the Court of Appeals of the State of West Virginia.

L. M. McCLINTIC,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

Will practice in the Courts of Pocahontas and adjoining counties and in the Supreme Court of Appeals.

H. S. RUCKER,
ATTY. AT LAW & NOTARY PUBLIC
HUNTERSVILLE, W. VA.

Will practice in the courts of Pocahontas county and in the Supreme Court of Appeals.

J. W. ARBUCKLE,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
LEWISBURG, W. VA.

Will practice in the courts of Greenbrier and Pocahontas counties. Prompt attention given to claims for collection in Pocahontas county.

W. A. BRATTON,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

Prompt and careful attention given to all legal business.

ANDREW PRICE,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

Will be found at Times Office.

SAM. B. SCOTT, JR.
LAWYER,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

All legal business will receive prompt attention.

H. M. LOCKRIDGE,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
HUNTERSVILLE, W. VA.

Prompt and careful attention given all legal work.

FRED WALLACE,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
LEWISBURG, W. VA.

Will practice in the courts of Pocahontas County.

PHYSICIANS' CARDS.

DR. O. J. CAMPBELL,
DENTIST,
MONTEREY, VA.

Will visit Pocahontas County at least twice a year. The exact date of his visit will appear in this paper.

DR. J. H. WEYMOUTH,
RESIDENT DENTIST,
ELKINS, W. VA.

Will visit Pocahontas County every spring and fall. The exact date of each visit will appear in The Times.

J. M. CUNNINGHAM, M. D.,
PHYSICIAN & SURGEON,
MARLINTON, W. VA.

Office next door to C. A. Yeager's Hotel. Residence opposite Hotel. All calls promptly answered.

PISO'S CURE FOR
CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS.
Best Cough Syrup. Tastes Good. Use in time. Sold by druggists.
CONSUMPTION

BIOGRAPHIC NOTES.

During the current century but few names have been more familiarly known in our county, before and since the organization, than the Cackleys. The ancestors of this relationship were Valentine Cackley, Senior, and his wife, Mary Frye, from the lower Valley not far from Winchester at Capon Springs. These persons located at Mill Point about 1778. These worthy people were of German descent. The original name was Keekly, and came to be spelled Cackley by the way it was pronounced. Their sons were Levi, William, Joseph, Valentine, Jr.; Benjamin, and Jacob; and their daughters were Alice, Mary (Polly), Anne, and Rebecca,—six sons and four daughters.

Alice, the eldest daughter, became the wife of the late Samuel M. Gay, who resided on the farm now held by the heirs of the late George Gibson, on the Greenbrier above Marlinton two miles. Mr Gibson was her gradnson. But two of her children survive: Joseph C. Gay, Esq., and Mrs William Gibson, on Elk. The older children of the late Jacob Waugh, of Stony Creek, and the children of Robert Gay, late of Beaver Creek, are her grand-children. Mrs Gay was a very estimable person, and the story of her life would make thrilling reading.

Mary (Polly) Cackley was married to Willette Perkins, and went West.

Anne Cackley became the wife of the late Thomas Hill, Esq., near Hillsboro. Richard Hill of Hillsboro, and George Hill, of Falling Spring, Greenbrier County, are her sons. Mrs Josiah Callison, near Locust, is her daughter.

Rebecca Cackley was married to John Ewing. Her family went to Ohio. She was the mother of eleven sons. The youngest was named Eleven Ewing. It is believed the famous Tom Ewing, statesman and orator, and as such was the pride of Ohio in his time, was of this family.

Levi Cackley married Nancy Bradshaw, daughter of John Bradshaw, the founder of Huntersville, and settled on Stamping Creek, where some of his worthy descendants yet reside. Jacob, Levi, and William were the names of his sons. The Rev A. M. Cackley, D. D., of the Baltimore Conference, is a grandson of Levi Cackley, Sr.

Hon William Cackley, son of Joseph the pioneer, married Jennie Gay, daughter of Robert Gay, Esq., near Marlinton, and first settled on the property now owned by Colonel J. W. Ruckman, at Marvin, and also operated a store at Mill Point. Having sold his farm to the late D. L. Ruckman, Mr Cackley moved his family to a farm on Cumming's Creek, near Huntersville, where he resided for many years, farming and merchandising and in public office. A singular occurrence was connected with this removal to Huntersville. Mrs Cackley had become tired of her flock of pigeons, and tried to leave them back, but to her surprise the pigeons were on the oak-tree near the dwelling at daylight the next morning. Mr and Mrs William Cackley were the parents of five sons and four daughters. The sons were Robert, Claiborne, Frye, Davis, and John. The daughters were Mary, Leah, Hannah Ann, and Sarah Jane. Mary became the wife of J. J. Clark merchant from Staunton, Virginia. Leah became Mrs John Hogsett, and lived on Elk, West Virginia, Hannah was married to William Floyd, and lived at Sutton, Braxton County, West Virginia. Frye Cackley married Miss Loury.

William Cackley, Esq., was a Captain in the war of 1812. His kindness to his company endeared himself to the soldiers and their friends and gave him great popularity. He was a Jacksonian Democrat, went several terms to the Legisture, was sheriff of the county. Late in life Captain Cackley moved to Illinois, where most of his surviving posterity now reside.

Valentine Cackley, Junior, another son of the pioneer, was married to Miss Mary Moore, from Eastern Virginia. Their daughter Caroline was the first wife of Harper McLaughlin, recently of Marlinton; and their son, William H. Cackley, once a prominent citizen of Pocahontas, now a merchant in Ronceverte, Greenbrier County. Valentine Cackley took the census for Pocahontas County in 1840. He had the lower mill erected at Mill Point. Joseph Cackley, Jr., owned the upper mill, and after selling out to the late Sampson Mathews, Esq., he migrated to Ohio, married and settled there.

Benjamin Cackley staid awhile on his share of the homestead, now known as the Lee Place, and sold out to his brother Joseph and went to Jackson County, Ohio.

The youngest son of Valentine, pioneer of Mill Point, was named Jacob. He seemed to have been excessively fond of athletic sports,—running, wrestling, and pitching quoits. One of the most popular diversions of that time seems a singular one to us. It was to see who could throw a pumpkin the highest and catch it while falling. Another diversion was skipping flat stones over the water. One day while thus amusing himself, with several others, on the mill-race, Jacob suddenly collapsed and was carried into the house. He had overexerted himself by an underhanded throw, and received internal injuries, and died from the effects a most excruciating death. As a final resort quick-silver was given him, the effects of which were agonizing in the extreme. Dr. Althair was the attending physician.

Valentine Cackley, the pioneer, accumulated an immense landed estate. His home was about the location occupied by Isaac McNeel's elegant residence. It seems at one time to have been within the limits of the fort. The fort was about where the garden is. Persons yet living have seen relics picked up by parties working in the garden. He encouraged and promoted useful industries. A first-class mill, for the time, was built, a tannery projected, a tilt-hammer started, and a store carried on. While the venerable pioneer could overlook a wide prospect from his home, and while he was not quite the "Lord of all his eye could survey," yet he could lay claim to a goodly portion of what was in sight east, north, and west of Mill Point. The name of such a person is worthy of remembrance, for he left a very important and influential part of our county much better off than it was when he settled therein.

Whatever pleasure our readers may have derived from this sketch their thanks are mainly due Mrs Mary McClintic and Capt. James McNeil for their personal reminiscences so kindly communicated in response to the compiler's inquiries.

W. T. P.

POPULAR FALLACIES.

The American humorist has educated the people generally into the belief that certain indispensable members of society are possessed of qualities which detract from their use and beauty. Take, for instance, the time-honored joke about the mule. We are brought to regard that valuable animal with suspicion, and after a long and intimate business connexion with these intelligent and docile animals we cannot be rid of our fears, for some unqualified slanderer will tell you that the mule will treat you well for twenty years waiting an opportunity to strike you a fell blow. The negroe's love for watermelons has been magnified and improved upon until any humorist who can ring further changes is applauded to the echo.

The mother-in-law, without whom the world could not go round, is villified, and most unjustly. Think of the fate of the high-spirited, sensitive woman, totally unable to avoid the state of being a mother-in-law, because of the hasty action of her daughter. The Irish mug, we see depicted, has broken its way to the highest pinnacles in the land; and the "hayseed," or farmer, represents the bone and sinew of the nation.

The same power has made us believe that the Pullman porter was the best paid man in America, but this impression is dispelled by the recent request of that body of men to their patron saint, George Pullman, for a raise in wages. While they are surrounded by elegance more regal than that kings ever dreamed of before the opening of this century, they manfully request that they be paid enough to dress in suitable uniforms and to support their families. It seems strange that the inmate of a gorgeous Pullman-car should be looking forward to leaving it for some mean apartment where live his wife and children in strict economy. Whether Mr Pullman will respond it is impossible to say, for the request, tho unanimous, is uttered gently, for the autocrat of the sleepers does not want to lose his job. Their poverty is no doubt real, tho many wealthy people never saw such evidences of wealth as they have daily for their surroundings.

THE NEW NEGRO.

THE color line is not obliterated in the North. While we hear of negro men received in Northern homes of unquestioned respectability, it is still the exception that proves the rule. The whites and blacks have nowhere reached a state of social equality, except in those cases where whites have so far descended from and relinquished the caste which is their heritage. In New York they have a statute by which the negro has every right, in a business way, that a white man has. It is known as the Equal Rights Law. But all the king's horses and all the king's men cannot and would not give them that social prestige which every man, bond or free, has to carve for himself. A black skin is an almost insurmountable handicap, and none of them, high or low, ever reach a position that it is not a drawback to him socially.

A short paragraph in a New York paper shows how the colored gent is received in New York generally. Three young bucks in fine raiment went for an evening walk and decided to patronize a restaurant frequented by white people, and not to supply themselves a place where their color harmonized. They were not approached by waiters and they made complaint at a police station. There they were told they only had a remedy against the restaurant keeper in a civil action. Determining to make a complete case against him, they returned and after waiting sometime to be approached by someone who would take their order, the freshest one stood up in his place and ordered sandwiches and milk in a loud and peremtory tone of voice. He was served immediately, and they paid their bill and went away without any evidence against the restaurant-keeper. They were served in such a way that their legal rights were accorded them, but not in a manner to lead them to break the barrier between the races again.

The negro does not need to commune with us. He finds friends and shelter among his own people. In a business way, and as master and servant the relationship is almost perfect. If there ever arises in a marked degree a 'New Negro,' why then he may find that in reaching after forbidden fruit he may suffer.

The Remedy for Rheumatism.

From the Fairhaven (N. Y.) Register.

Mr James Rowland, of this village, states that for twenty-five years his wife has been a sufferer from rheumatism. A few nights ago she was in such pain that she was nearly crazy. She sent Mr. Rowland for the doctor, but he had read of Chamberlain's Pain Balm and instead of going for the physician he went to the store and secured a bottle of it. His wife did not approve of Mr Rowland's purchase at first, but nevertheless applied the Balm thoroughly and in an hour's time was able to go to sleep. She now applies its whenever she feels an ache or pain and finds that it always gives relief. He says that no medicine which she had used ever did her as much good. The 25 and fifty cent sizes for sale by druggists.

RAFTING ON THE GREENBRIER

MR ANDREW PRICE,—Dear Sir: In you issue of March 25th last you publish an article under the head of "The Weekly Letter," presumably written by yourself, in which you make a great mistake as to who first conceived the idea of rafting on the Greenbrier River.

You say it was some time in the seventies that some daring projector conceived the idea of rafting on the Greenbrier. I want to tell you and your readers that the man who first conceived the idea and carried it to success, so far as rafting is concerned, was your grandfather, James A. Price. In 1849, he undertook to drift logs down river, which, I take it, is about the same as driving now. But having no boom to catch the logs, and depending on one log canoe and two men with spike poles (or spuds as they then called them) to catch them, the larger part escaped them and went past—some of them to feed the mills in Ohio.

Abandoning the idea of drifting, your grandfather turned his attention to the idea of rafting, in which he was more successful,—thanks to the hardy pioneers who lived up Greenbrier River,—and I myself can testify to seeing large rafts which were landed at the mouth of Stony Creek, in 1850 and 1851, for your grandfather's mill. I was cut of the county for some years, but returned in the spring of 1859, and that fall I sent word up the river that I would take all logs delivered to me at the mouth of Stamping Creek (below Mill Point.) Some time in the winter I received enough logs to keep my mill running all the year.

But now I am coming to a matter of record and not dependent on memory. I find from my account-book for 1861 that Montgomery Friel, Steven Barnet, John Friel, and Ewing Johnson delivered to me a raft of logs containing 124 logs. How much better can your raftsmen do now? These logs did not belong to them all in common, but each one had so many logs belonging to them, and the partnership ceased as soon as the logs reached the wharf, which was the end of the eddy at the mouth of Stamping Creek. Do n't understand me to say there was a wharf there, but the mouth of Stamping Creek constituted my wharf as far as I was concerned, and if any logs went past I was not sesponsible for them. And I think if you could have seen those Friels and Barnetts steering a raft of 124 logs into the narrow limits allowed them with the precision of a ferry boat in New York you would not think rafting was new to them. No, they had learned their trade under the teaching of your grand-father, (grand in more senses than one), and he was the man who first conceived the idea of rafting on the Greenbrier River and first carried it to success.

I find in overlooking the above I have omitted the name of James Barnett, who had 21 logs in the raft of 1861. I also want to give honorable mention to Milton Hughes, who I think was with the great raft; if not, he was one of the earlier rafters of Pocahontas County. The later rafters and drivers may have taken out much more lumber, but it is impossible that they could show more intrepid skill and heroic endurance than did the pioneers in the first rafting on the Greenbrier River.

It has come to my memory that John H. Ruckman also had logs rafted to the same mill at the mouth of Stamping Creek when he owned it in 1855 and 1856, if not other years. So that from 1850 until the war put an end to the lumber business for the time, there were few if any years in which there was not one or more rafts brought down the river to Marlinton and the mouth of Stamping Creek, from the neigborhood of Deer Creek and all from obove the mouth of Clover Lick, making a distance of over thirty miles to the lower landing.

The system of rafting was the same as followed now with long oars at front and rear, while others assisted with long poles to keep the raft off the banks.

There was one log that I got in the large raft of February 13, 1861, from which I sawed 3,000 feet of weather-boarding, and there was not a knot in the whole lot. I presume such timber is getting scarce in Pocahontas County now. I see the price I paid for those logs ranged from 60 to 90 cents each. This seems low for such lumber, but I believe sawed lumber only brought about 75 cents per hundred feet then.

Very truly yours,
JAMES E. A. GIBBS.

Raphine, Va., May 17, 1897.

"Your pills are the best in the world. I used to be annoyed with constipation until I began using them. Now I have no trouble of that kind any more and I attribute my recovery to the use of your valuable medicine. In the springtime of the year I always take your *

Pistols and Pestles.

The duelling pistol now occupies its proper place, in the museum of the collector of relics of barbarism. The pistol ought to have beside it the pestle that turned out pills like bullets, to be shot like bullets at the target of the liver. But the pestle is still in evidence, and will be, probably, until everybody has tested the virtue of Ayer's Cathartic Pills.

* This testimonial will be found in full in Ayer's "Curebook" with a hundred others. Free. Address J. C. Ayer Co., Lowell, Mass.

BETTER PAID TEACHERS.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE TIMES:

As another school year will soon close, we would like to say a few words thro the colums of your paper in behalf of the teachers of Pocahontas County If we expect to make the public schools of Pocahontas County a success, the teacher's salary most be increased. We would like for our worthy Board of Education to give this matter serions thought. Can the teachers of our county—those who have prepared themselves for this responsible work—teach for $25 a month? will they do it? We answer no. The teacher has a laborious work and for which he should be paid. One of our popular teachers said: "We used to get $120 for teaching seven branches four months, now we get $125 for teaching twelve branches five months. I think if we can not do better elsewhere, we had better quit," and we think so too. Is there any encouragement for the young teachers to prepare themselves for first class work? In the leading district of Randolph the salary for the first grade is $35, second grade $30, third grade $25. The third grade teacher gets the same that the first grade gets does. All the districts in Randolph pay better than Pocahontas. It is time that this matter be given serious consideration, or the time is not far distant when we will not have a first class teacher in our county. Already some of our best teachers are trying to get positions elsewhere; the very teachers that we can not afford to lose.

X. Y. Z.

IT is understood that Governor Atkinson will call an extra session of the legislature to pass upon the proposed amendment to the Constitntion. Those that are ratified will be submitted to the people for ratification or rejection at the next general election, when they will be voted upon one by one. The last time we voted upon amendments to the Constitution was in 1888 when the prohibition clause was the most important. This amendment set the pace and all were voted down. The prohibition amendment was defeated by something like 35,000 majority.

BIG stories are being told of the vitality of the Turks. One man, shot thro the stomach, in a recent battle, stayed in the ranks till the fighting was over and then marched ten miles before reporting to the doctors. Another with a wound in each leg and one in the shoulder kept on duty for twenty-four hours, when an officer noticed him and sent him to the hospital. The doctors attribute the quick recovery of the Turkish wounded to their abstemious habits.—Ex.

A BEAUTIFUL, soft, and thick head of long hair of a natural hue will be produced by using Hall's Hair Renewer, the ladies' favorite and beautifier.

NEW YORK AND VICINITY.

Sunday, while two Brooklyn Bridge policemen were looking out of a window of the terminal on the New York side, they suddenly were horrified to see the legs of a man hanging over a roof of a house near by. They immediately notified a New York City policeman, who in turn called two brother "cops" and they hurried to the house indicated by the policemen on the Bridge. These brave men climbed the fire-escape in great haste, in fear that the man would roll off and be dashed to pieces. What was their great surprise upon reaching the roof to find the supposed legs to be only an old pair of trousers, left to dry by some faithful wife. It is needless to say that these guardians of the city said some blankety-blank swear words.

⁂

A man, after breaking his wife's neck, the other day in New York City, by throwing her against the stove, shot himself thro the head, killing himself instantly, thereby saving the city the expense of a trial on the the charge of wife murder.

⁂

The body of a man was found floating in Newark (N. J.) Bay beside his boat, Sunday a. m. He was held fast by the anchor rope around his ankle. It is to be supposed that in casting his anchor the rope got around is unkle, thereby pulling him over and drowning him. This is a case seldom heard of. What a terrible way to die. Full of pleasure—probably looking forward to this outing only to meet his death. MORAL: Do n't fish on Sunday.

⁂

Philadelphia had great goings on last week in honor of General George Washington—the father of our country. What a pity these United States could not scare up more Washingtons.

⁂

New York has a real Irish fair. The receipts are very flattering. The other day a goat, fresh from Ireland, sent over as a mascot, succeeded in eating up "all the grass in one county of Ireland," after which he took as desert three yards of green bunting from the Donegal booth. The mayor of the city will deliver a speech this evening, after which Jim Corbett will spar with an Irishman on real Irish sod.

⁂

Baseball and cycling is all the rage these days, Running races claim the attention of the lovers of the noble animal. But it is safe to say that nine out of every ten who attend the races are trying to beat the book makers.

⁂

It is reported that Cuba has come off victorious in two battles with the spanish. It is also thought that President McKinley will soon send a message to Congress on the Cuban question. High time this war was stopped. Spain can never win. Spain s resources are used up. Spain should be made to step out for now and ever.

⁂

Turkey has the best of the fight with Greece, as you all know. The powers want to put a stop to this killing. Turkey wants $50,000,000 before she quits.

⁂

Business is as flat as a pie plate around these diggings.

—GEO. M. SANGSTER.

May 17—'97

The Pocahontas Times.

MAY 28, 1897.

Local Events.

Hear, Land o' Cakes and brither Scots
Frae Maidenkirk to Johnny Groats,
If there's a hole in a' your coats,
I rede ye tent it;
A chiel's amang you takin' notes,
An' faith he'll prent it.—BURNS.

GEORGE C. COOPER, of Green Bank is preparing to move to Addison.

H. M. LOCKRIDGE has purchased the property formerly held by J. J. Beard and has moved into it, and is busily engaged in fitting it up for a very comfortable home.

SQUIRE WM. H. GROSE is having his residence very nicely painted. The Fisher brothers are doing the work in a style that reflects much credit upon their skill in the decorative art.

COL. John T. McGraw has fitted up the Holley River mill in Webster County and leazed it to Crosby & Beckwith, who have bought 5,000,000 feet of lumber from Mr. McGraw.

MAJOR E. H. McDONALD, of Charleston, has sold 43 lambs which averaged $4.20. He has sold from a flock of 77 ewes lambs and wool to the amourt of $250, and has still on hand 56 lambs.

"The County Court should meet and appropriate some money and get a man to expend it on the road by Major J. C. Arbogast's. It is the roughest piece of road in the United States."

FROM the Webster Echo we learn that during the month of April 179 carloads of lumber were shipped from Camden-on-Gauley, and 125 carloads from Sutton. This indicates that the lumber business is improving.

JOHN A. McLAUGHLIN, Esq., on Brown's Creek, had the mishap to slip and fall from a hay mow and dislocate his right shoulder, a few days since. It was readily reduced and he is rapidly improving.

RIMEL and Crummett, road contractors, have their camp at the Lockridge Fording. They are putting the road on the old grading from this fording to Huntersville: thus illustrating an instance where some times 'the old is better.'

MESSRS Doyle and Steinmeyer have establised a sewing machine depot at Huntersville and our readers will be duly informed as to where they can be suited with first class machines, upon terms more satisfactory than has ever yet been in their reach.

THE recent rains came in season to prevent serious consequences from forest fires all along Knapp's Creek, from Driscol to Frost. There is reason for suspecting that haystacks and fences were fired on purpose, out of mere spite, and much apprehension prevails that the worst is not over yet.

THE Virginia Military Institute fought a game of baseball with the Blacksburg College. In the 8th inning the fray became serious and the game was not finished. They had emptied the fair. One student received a base hit from his opponent and the spectators made all the runs. Alltogether it was a considerable battle. College students can sometimes make transcendent idots of themselves.

THE County Court was called to meet last Saturday to appoint eight men to constitute a school-book board under an act passed by the recent legislature. The notice did not reach Mr Beard who was on his Williams River piace, and Mr. Warwick did not attend. The president of the court, Mr Barlow, was present, but no business was attended to for want of a quorum. The meeting for this purpose will be held June 4th.

DURING the past winter, while some hands were removing a large stump, near Mill Point, they unearthed a groundhog in a state of torpidity. It was rolled up into a a ball, and when killed showed nothing in the way of animation but a scarcely perceptible tremor. When skinned and opened not a trace of blood was apparent. This circumstance is highly suggestive and opens up a fresh field of inquiry to those devoted to the investigation of the laws of existence during suspended animation.

THE skull of a groundhog was left at our office last week, which had been killed near here by Hunt Kee, the teeth of which were greatly elongated, being about an inch and a half long and of no further use as teeth. The groundhog is a rodent, and with rodents the front teeth are always growing, and in case the tooth opposite is broken the other continue to grow, causing the death of the animal in a short time. In this instance, however, there were no teeth missing and the animal was fat. It seems that the teeth were turned aside and had not ground upon each other; owing, probably, to some deformity. The writer remembers killing a ground-hog which had a broken tooth, some years ago while mowing. In this case the teeth had grown very long and had turned and were entering the skull. The animal appeared poor and miserable and made no effort to escape.

Personal Mention.

Miss Emma Warwick is visiting at Dr Lockridge's.

Mrs Andrew Herold, who has been seriously ill with heart trouble, is reported somewhat better.

Mrs Mary Waugh, of Hillsboro, was visiting her friends on Browns creek a few days since.

Sherman Curry and James Smith are doing some nice farming and show themselves to be the right kind of advance agents of prosperity.

Mrs Lizzie Gibson, from Vanderpool, Highland, has been on an extended visit at Frost, attending her sister, Mrs Herold, in her illness.

Mrs Agnes Loury and her son, Joseph, were at Marlinton, Saturday afternoon. Mrs Loury's improved health is very gratifying to her numerous friends.

J. Kenney Campbell, of the Covington bar, still remains in a precarious condition from his recent attack of paralysis. Much sympathy is felt for this worthy man in his affliction.

J. E. Campbell, editor of the Sentinel, came over from Covington last Friday for his wife and little daughter, who have been at Mr Sharp's, on Douthard's Creek, for several weeks. Mrs Campbell was much benefitted by her stay at the old home.

Misses Anna and Emma King are visiting their relatives at Savannah Mills—Mrs and Mrs F. P. Vandervoort. Miss Nellie Vandervoort, their cousin, has been much afflicted for several months, which she endures with patient submission. Her friends are cheered by encouraging indications of convalescence and join her parents in fervent wishes for the daughter's speedy retoration to health and usefulness.

Beverly Court - House Burned.

The court-house at Beverly, the county seat of Randolph County, was burned to the ground last Thursday afternoon. The building was about the size and very similar to our own court-house, being finished in 1894. It was a much more expensive building, however, as it cost the county about $40,000. With the furniture, the loss is about $50,000.

The sheriff's papers were in his office at the time of the fire, and as he was out of town, none of them were saved. Among the papers destroyed for him were $40,000 in vouchers, $18,000 in school orders, ann $10,000 in road orders.

The cause of the fire will be readily understood by anyone who has examined the sanitary system of our own court-house. It was put in by Bennett & Peck, of Cincinnatti, who furnished our building. The plan is to have the refuse and garbage of the water-closets burned up by the action of fire in a furnace put in for the purpose. This arrangement is in the basement. At Beverly the May term of the Circuit Court adjourned on the day before the fire, and the janitor proceeded to cleanse the building. He poured three or four gallons of coaloil on the garbage, set it on fire, and left it. W. H. Wilson, the Circuit Clerk, discovered the blaze from his office in the first floor and gave the alarm. The building burned very rapidly, and as the town has no system of waterworks absolutely nothing could be done toward extinguishing the flames. There was no insurance whatever on the building or contents.

The building of the court-house in 1893–94 distressed the county of Randolph even more than the building of the court-house in this county, and they have a much heavier job before them now.

The example of Randolph's loss perfectly justifies the action of the County Court of this county carrying a $20,000 insurance policy, which it has done from a time before the building was taken off the contractor's hands. It might also suggest the removal of the Bennett & Peck sanitary system in the basement,—which has been very offensive during courts held in warm weather. While with ordinary care there is not the slightest danger of fire from the system; still it is, at times, the most filthy arrangement imaginable.

The reports received say that the records of the county extending over a hundred years were destroyed by the fire, tho the authentic newspaper accounts leave it in doubt as the accounts were written before the ruins had cooled sufficiently to admit of examination. Whether they were destroyed or not will be a question of great interest with us for our vaults are similar. The records of the largest and one of the oldest counties of the State are very important and their loss would entail a vast amount of work and trouble to restore.

Just before going to press we received a letter from J. A. McLaughlin, who with his sister Miss Fannie were in Beverly to take the train, saying that all the records of the county were saved except the land-books for 1894, 1895, and 1896. The people of Beverly fear that an effort will be made to move the county-seat to Elkins. The building was one hour in burning.

Houdyschell in a Cell.

Ervine Houdyschell, of Frost, is in jail at Marlinton, the confessed burglar who entered Samuel Curry's shoe shop at Frost, last week, and took three pairs of new shoes, against the peace and dignity of the State. There has been a lot of petty thieving in the neighborhood of Frost, and suspicion has attached to the Houdyschells and others. Holmes Sharp and another watched the house and presently saw Ervine come out and go to a tree-top near the house and take some shoes from a bag which had been concealed there. They rushed to the house but admittance was refused them. In a few minutes the smell of burning leather could be perceived in the whole neighborhood.

When they were at length allowed to enter, one of the searchers attempted to open the stove-door to see what was burning in the stove, when Susan Houdyschell, step-mother of the prisoner, told him that she would break his head with an ax-handle if he opened the door. She then took a seat upon an ashbox in which the remnants of the shoes were hid. In attempting to burn them the shoes had been cut to pieces and parts of them thrown in the ashbox. In searching it was thought that the pieces of shoes were probably in this box, but Mrs Houdyschell refused to move off, and evidently the searching party would have as lief touched a wildcat as to have touched her. Finally a man was sent to Huntersville, about twelve miles, for a search-warrant and a warrant for young Houdyschell. By the time he had returned the Houdyschell woman had remained seated on the box, in one position, for more than six mortal hours.

Houdyschell confessed to having entered the shoe shop Thursday night. He could not give bail and is likely to remain in jail until his indictment and trial. A warrant was issued for the arrest of Susan Houdyschell, who used very vile language and explained how the shoes came to be in her possession in a way that cannot be repeated here. She is charged as being an accessory.

The Rain-Crow.

During the writer's recent visit to west Greenbrier it was his pleasure to fall in with Engineer Anschutz, of Staunton, Virginia, who has been on duty on New River for some time past. As much of the West Virginia land seems to stand on edge, so he pronounces the New River a stream that flows on its edge likewise, seeming deeper than it is wide at places.

He is of the opinion that the rain-crow, or cow-bird, depends on other birds to rear its young. This artful bird will remove and devour the eggs of the sparrow and replace them with its own. One or two rain-crows requiring more attention than a half-dozen sparrows in the matter of feeding. Having an egg-feast and relieved of the care of its young, the rain-crow has a soft snap of it in the way of maternal duties, and so has leisure for atmospheric observations and can forecast rain.

At the time we speak of Mr Anschutz was on his way to some stream in west Greenbrier for a "trouting outing" all to himself, two not being company in the proper enjoyable sense. A year or two since, while on one of his excursions, he called at a store about the time a mountaineer brought in some feathered game for barter. Along with pheasants and partridges, were a half-dozen of the large woodpeckers that are so commonly called woodcocks. This woodpecker is no more like the woodcock of the price-current circular than a crow is like a spring chicken, but being misled by the name the merchant and his customer had a surprise awaiting them when the returns would come in from the commission house.

It would be well to call this bird "log-cock," and thus insure his safety, for our forests have no better protector; and, besides, it is one of the most interesting of all the woodpeckers, to scientists, as it seems to be the primitive bird of its kind and from which all other woodpeckers are evoluted.

Young people deprive themselves of untold pleasures who neglect to study plants, birds, stones, relics, and observe the changes of the seasons and the motions of the stars.

Notice to Tax-Payers.

Owing to a recent act of the Legislature requiring Sheriffs to settle within sixty days, all persons owing taxes are hereby requested to settle the same at once as longer indulgence cannot be given. All persons owning land in this county and not assessed with personal property sufficient to satisfy all taxes due thereon must pay or such land will be placed on the delinquent list, June 1st, 1897.

LEVI GAY, Ex-Sheriff of Pocahontas County.

THE Lexington Presbytery was held last week at Mt. Carmel Church, Augusta County. This is the largest presbytery in the Southern Presbyterian Church. There are thirty-eight pastorates. During the past year they have contributed to foreign missions $5-453; home missions $3,705; pastors' salaries $26,682. Hon. Wm. M. McAllister is one of the delegates to the General Assembly.

Mingo News.

The people are busy planting their corn.

Not much sickness in our neighborhood, and the doctors have plenty of time to put in their crops.

Our burg is on a boom. It has new hotel and school house.

A posse composed of the following gentlemen: Piatt and Ligon Marshall, W. R. Leary, Clark and John Sharp and Lee Reglemen, with a dozen hounds started last Saturday morning to kill the bear that has been killing some sheep on Elk River, but, after tramping all day, they returned without finding him. People, who have seen him, say that he is as large as a large yearling steer.

Captain Marshall and his son, Ligon, attended court in Beverly.

Watson Sharp starts for Conference soon. We hear that he is going to be a preacher.

L. J. Marshall started for the oil fields in Ritchie county on last Wednesday, where he expects to remain until October, and then he will return to school.

We noticed Dave Barnes, of Pocahontas, in our town with a race horse, on Tuesday.

Piatt Marshall and Buke Moore are the boss sheep buyers; they buy any thing from one month old up to twenty years.

K. D. Marshall is raising hounds for a business.

Mr Dakers is our champion farmer.

Our boys took in the Barlow show at Valley Head and pronounced it a grand thing for the money.

MT. DEW.

It takes more than hard times to check the growth of our sales. We want your trade, but we ask it only on condition that we can benefit you. We are undersold by none; we have no particular leaders—every article is a leader. Outings @ 4c, Black Satteen @ 9c, Dress Ginghams 5½c up, Best Hickory Shirting 8c ℔ yard, Suspenders from 8c to 15c per pair, Arbuckle Coffee 12½ cents per lb. We will pay a fair price for wool.

Yours respectfully,
L. D. SHARP.

Two Days in the Capitol City.

Excursion leaves Millboro for Washington at 4.23 A. M. Monday, May 30. Returning leaves Washington 11:39 P. M Wednesday. Round trip $2.50. Go and see Decoration day.

S. L. TOLLEY, Agent.

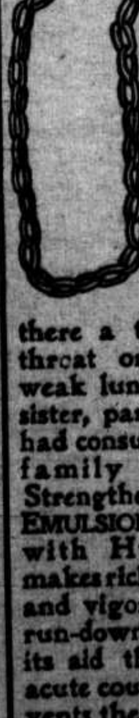
"It is the Best on Earth."

THAT is what Edwards & Parker, merchants of Plains, Ga., say of Chamberlain's Pain Balm, for rheumatism, lame back, deep seated and muscular pains. For sale by druggists.

Lightning Hot Drops—
What a Funny Name!
Very True, but it Kills All Pain.
Sold Everywhere, Every Day—
Without Relief, There is No Pay!

FIFTY DOLLARS A WEEK EASILY MADE. Agents wanted in every locality for Hon. W. J. Bryan's great and only book, "The First Battle." The best seller ever produced. Agents are taking as many as 200 orders per week. Beware of fraudulent imitations. Send for outfit and begin work at once. W. B. CONKEY COMPANY, Publishers, 341 Dearborn Street, Chicago.

THE trespass law was materially amended by the legislature last winter. Hereafter persons wishing to hunt or fish on the lands of another will be cautious and secure permission of the owners before they go upon the premises for that purpose. The trespassers will think so, especially if he has no money to pay his fine. The new law prevents persons from shooting, hunting or fishing on any enclosed premises without the owner's consent. If he disobeys he forfeits $3 to the owner and my be put under $100 bonds for his good behavior one year. Failing to get secuirety, the offender must go to jail for a month. The county court may make this law applicable to all lands or to those whose owners so desire.—Monroe Watchman.



Broken Chain

The family circle is never so happy after the chain is broken and a link taken. Some family chains are strong, others weak. Have you a good family history? Or is there a tendency to coughs, throat or bronchial troubles, weak lungs? Has a brother, sister, parent or near relative had consumption? Then your family chain is weak. Strengthen it. Take SCOTT'S EMULSION of Cod-liver Oil with Hypophosphites. It makes rich blood, gives strength and vigor to weak lungs and run-down constitutions. With its aid the system throws off acute coughs and colds. It prevents the chain from breaking.

Shall we send you a book about this, free?

For sale by all druggists at 50c. and $1.00
SCOTT & BOWNE, New York.

A Grand Bargain in Land.

The undersigned offers for sale in whole or in part a tract of land on very reasonable terms. It is situated about 2½ miles of Falling Spring, Greenbrier County, West Virginia, and 3½ miles from the west bank of Greenbrier River and lies on both sides of Spring Creek, being well watered by numerous rivulets and springs tributary to that stream. This land joins the lands held by Messrs Robinson, Robertson, Dancy, Knight, Eggleston, and Boggs. The tract consists of 700 acres,—about one hundred acres cleared and ready for cultivation. The rest is well timbered with white-oak, black-oak, red-oak, chestnut-oak, chestnut, and locust. The quality and quantity of the locust challenges admiration, while much of the other timber is above the average in quality. With judicious management, the timber will more than pay the price for which the land can be had. When cleared the land spontaneously and heavily sods with the Greenbrier bluegrass. A better place for sheep-husbandry is not in the market.

For full particulars, all letters will receive prompt attention addressed, George W. Levisay,
P. O. Box 20, Frankford, W. Va.

PARTIES in Grant and Tucker counties have sold a tract of 35,000 acres in the Honey Creek coal fields. The coal lands begin at Davis and extend 25 miles due east. One of the stipulations is the building of a railroad to the seaboard. This would take us in, very likely.

THE C. & O. R. R. Company has purchased Elliott's Knob, the highest point in Augusta county, and will erect on it a spacious hotel. There is about fifteen acres of level land on its top and a bold free stone spring. It has been a great resort for summer excursions.

IF the Anderson type-writer proves to be all that its inventor claims for it, the stenographer will speedily lose his job. With this typewriter, just patented, a word of sixteen letters or less can be struck at one blow. A speed of one hundred words per minute can be attained in six weeks' practice.

THE Socratic School was founded by Socrates, who was esteemed the wisest and most virtuous of the Greeks and the father of moral philosophy. The school of low prices was founded here at the Golden Store, where there are Standard wire nails $3.75 per keg, and special prices on large quantities.

THE Pocahontas Marble Company was chartered last week. Capital $500,000, subscribed $5,100. paid in $150. Hon J. T. McGraw, E. I. Holt, William L. McMeel, and six others, are mentioned as incorporators. The company is authorized to own, operate, lease, and sell marble in the quarry and do a general manufacturing business in marble, with principal place of business at Academy, Pocahontas County.

IT is reported that some good sales of live stock have been made in Highland. Several lots have been sold at four and a quarter cents for September and October deliveries. This silvery lining to the overhanging cloud should be regarded as a hopeful omen. Nevertheless we find that many persons express themselves unable to see how permanent improvement can be possible under existing conditions. The people generally are suffering from distressing prostration in business affairs. A change, so to speak, has been made in the doctors, but the question is raised what good can the change do when the new doctor is giving the same medicine as the old one, only in larger doses and for higher fees. It may be good for the doctors, but the patient suffers all the same, until the treatment is changed.

DR. MYERS, of the Experimental Station at Morgantown, W. Va., is anxious to place a valuable work on poultry in the hands of every one who wishes it. It will be sent post free to every applicant. No one should neglect this opportunity to infrom himself as to the chicken industry, which has been too much neglected in this State. For instance, much trouble would have been saved, a week ago, and a mashed thumb, nails and expletives if the following suggestion as to a hen coop had come our way: "The form of coop that we have found best for our brood hens is a flour barrel laid down on its side and so staked that it can not roll back and forth. The hen and her brood are put in it at night and a loose cover put in the front, to keep the chickens shut in in the morning, and keep vermin out. They have the run of the yard in the day time. This is proving a most excellent means of protecting the hens from rainy weather and chilling blasts. This is much better than the ordinary coops, recommended for hens with their broods as the hen is thoroughly protected from storms and outside danger. It is well to spray the barrel either with petroleum emulsion or with crude petroleum in order to kill the lice, and also to white wash the barrel inside before putting the hen and her brood in it. The barrel should be cleaned once or twice a week and dusted with air slaked lime."

IT TICKLES YOU
THE INSTANT RELIEF YOU GET FROM
LIGHTNING HOT DROPS.

CURES Colic, Cramps, Diarrhea, Flux, Cholera Morbus, Nausea, Changes of Water, etc.
HEALS Cuts, Burns, Bruises, Scratches, Bites of Animals, Serpents, Bugs, etc.
BREAKS UP Bad Colds, La Grippe, Influenza, Croup, Sore Throat, etc.
SMELLS GOOD, TASTES GOOD.
SOLD EVERYWHERE AT 25c AND 50c PER BOTTLE. NO RELIEF, NO PAY.
HERB MEDICINE CO. [Formerly of Weston, W. Va.] SPRINGFIELD, O.

Things ycu Can't do

There are some things you can't do—for they are against nature. You can't make water run up hill. You can't cheat others and not cheat yourself. You can't make poor economy pay by purchasing poor quality clothing and badly made.

Mothers

if you expect the boys to keep neat and tidy you must buy them clothes that will stand the strain.

You Wouldn't

go to a doctor for legal advice, and you cannot expect to find a good suit in a half-kept store. I am just receiving a new line of clothing right from the tailor-shop, and it was bought extremely low, as the maker was hard pressed for money. I solicit your inspection.

The Golden Store
Specialist in Clothing.

50 Reasons
—WHY—
You should trade with Sol Davis, Green Bank

1 Low Prices
2 Best of Goods
3 Quality unsurpassed
4 Great Variety
5 Polite Attention
6 Every Deal a Bargain
7 Guaranteed as Represented
8 Glad to Please You
9 Full Value for your Money
10. Latest Styles
11 An Easy Selection
12 You get Satisfaction
13 You are Protected
14 No Advantage Taken
15 A Fair and Square Deal
16 You Save Money
17 The Goods are Reliable
18 A Complete Stock
18 Great Inducements
20 All kinds of Produce Taken
21 Highest Market Prices Paid
22 Fancy Prices unknown
23 Meritorious Stock
24 Prices that Please
25 Customers Leave Smiling
26 No Disappointment
27 You Find What You Want
28 What you Buy is Choice
29 A Guarantee of Goodness
30 Your Patronage Appreciated
31 Store Freshly Stocked
32 Popular Goods
33 Popular Prices
34 Headquarters for Bargains
35 We Under buy
36 We Undersell
37 Leaders of Trade
38 Always a Rare Choice
39 You Get Honest Goods
40 Golden Opportunity
41 Profit Sharing
42 Cream of the Market
43 Best Place to Buy
44 Promises Kept
45 Statements Verified
46 Your Welcome Assured
47 Inspection Solicited
48 Not Urged to Buy
49 Stock Carefully Bought
50 You get the Best & Cheapest

Head to foot Outfitter for Men, Women, and Children.
Green Bank, W. Va.
Yours for Business,
SOL. DAVIS.

MAY HAS COME,

The leaves are turning out, and why not turn over a New Leaf and buy your goods of me? saving from 15 to 25 per cent.

By so doing you will never get in trouble and be dunned for money.

SAVE YOUR WOOL, BUTTER, EGGS, GRAIN, &C., &C.

Pay for goods at the time you get them, and you will not be in trouble all the time. This is how I can sell cheaper than anyone else.

I want your money and country produce. My stock of goods will be constantly added to, and you will be treated right. I want your Wool. Call and see me before you dispose of it elsewhere. Remember I take all kinds of produce at best market prices.

S. J. BOGGS
HUNTERSVILLE, W. VA.